NEW AERO WILLYS SEDAN INTRODUCED BY DEALERS; HAS 90 FEATURES, GOES UP TO 35 MILES PER GALLON

TOLEDO, O. (Special)—One of the few entirely new automobiles to be introduced by an American manufacturer in over two decades, the new Aero Willys sedan is now on public display in showrooms of Willys-Overland dealers.

It is named the Aero Willys because of being "more fully engineered than any previous auto to combine principles of aeronautical design with advanced automotive engineering," according to Ward M. Canaday, company president.

Long rumored as the car which may prove to be the automotive industry's most outstanding design innovation of 1952, the Aero Willys is powered, Canaday said, with "one of the world's most efficient engines and has 90 features that add up to an entirely new concept of motoring convenience, comfort and economy."

Answer to Rising Costs The car is designed to meet the challenges of rising motoring costs and increasing traffic density.

"Gasoline economy is unsurpassed," according to Willys engineers, who cite tests of various models "from which, with overdrive at 30 miles an hour, up to 35 miles per gallon has been obtained."

The company's mileage tests, which show proportionate fuel economy at higher speeds, have been made with regular gasoline, despite the high 7.6 to 1 compression ratio of the car's newly developed six-cylinder F-head engine, it was stated.

High operating efficiency on regular gas is a timely feature, the engineers pointed out, in view of threatened shortages of lead for high octane fuel.

The traffic problem is attacked by "revolutionary design to obtain a compact 9-foot wheelbase automobile which at the same time contains big interior space for passengers and riding qualities heretofore associated with expensive long wheelbase cars," they reported.

Roomy Comfort for Six Adults "The Aero Willys, for example, has room for six good sized adults. Sixty-one-inch seating width, both front and rear, is wider than most cars, while the exterior width of 72 inches is narrower than most cars, providing a full foot of clearance on either side in entering a standard 8-foot garage doorway."

"Aero-Frame" construction following principles closely similar to those used in airplane building, has been used to provide a stressed steel body having reinforcing steel members welded into one strong, solidly rigid unit that will stand up under years of use without body bolt squeaks or rattles. The unit is cushioned from road shocks, and road and power transmission noises by extensive use of rubber pillows.

"The proof of a car's quality is in the driving," the engineers pointed out. "The Aero Willys goes over even rough, multiple railroad crossings smoothly at better than average speeds. Low center of gravity, only 23 inches high, virtually eliminates sway on curves."

"Wind resistance is greatly minimized by a low, tapering hood with the leading edge shaped like the edge of an airplane wing and a low roof only 60 inches from the ground. Air turbulence behind is lessened by vertical fins on the rear fenders. The highly efficient engine enables the car to cruise at 75 miles an hour using only 65 per cent of its capacity, leaving plenty of power in reserve for hills."

Driver Sees All Fenders Other features claimed for the Aero Willys which contribute to convenience, comfort, easy driving and safety include airborne ride, with all six passengers "cradled" between the axles; panoramic visibility, enabling all four fenders to be seen from normal driving position and enabling driver to see road as close as 10 feet in front of the bumper; automatically stabilized and silenced ride; finger tip steering; oversize brakes; 19-foot turning radius; quick starting and warm-up; 24 cubic feet of luggage space; pull-out glove drawer.

The car even has a feature designed to make things easier at the gas station. The gas tank inlet is located at the rear, easy to reach from either side.

THE STORY: Alma Conroy, woman jewelry designer for the House of Trumbull, an exclusive establishment, almost believes her husband Tommy is a failure when he is turned down as "not the caliber" for a promotion in the firm.

Alma had grasped at some seemingly sturdy performance of Tommy's, only to find that it broke like a straw when she gave it weight. But it was good to have been happy if only for an hour.

Presently Tommy was lighting a cigarette looking at her. "This new job of mine will take me out of town once in a while," he was saying.

"Out of town? When will you be going, Tommy?" This was rather dismaying. "Tomorrow. I'll be gone overnight. Maybe two nights. It may happen pretty often. Listen, Alma, we've never been separated. I wonder if you'll—well, with your temperament . . . you see, I'm jealous as the dickens."

"I've been noticing the way he looks at you lately. I think he likes you pretty well. And that Better-Diamonds section job he has, is sort of glamorous—what with the formal clothes The House makes him wear. Regular Duke!"

I have been running around together for years. Joe is devoted to you!" "How do I know?" said Tommy, stamping out his cigarette viciously. "Maybe I don't know anything—except that right now I'm hungry. What happened to that dinner we were going to have?" Alma sprang up with her usual devoted obedience. "I'll try and rescue it!" she said.

THE next morning Tommy left early. Alma, still glowing from the happiness of the evening before, breakfasted and set the apartment to rights quickly and efficiently. Then she pulled a large hat that was beautiful but unfashionable down over her rough-cut copper-colored hair and stood for a long moment staring at the mirrored reflection of the full mouth and wide set gray eyes which dominated her face.

It was not, strictly speaking, a beautiful face, and Alma knew it. She was aware too that her body was just an average, gently rounded body looking neither older nor younger than her 26 years. As a rule Alma cared very little about her appearance excepting only that it be cleanly and devoid of the ridiculousness of too current fashion.

She picked up the lovely new fox stole and drew it around her tenderly, caressing it with her cheek. It was going to be a bit of triumph to be able to say Tommy had given it to her, and it was a chilling thought—ought she to mention that fact just yet?

Perhaps not. At least she had better not brag too generally until the store grapevine had established Tommy's new, secretly important position at the House. This impulse to be careful was not an altogether nappy one. And it seemed a little strange and lonely not to walk to work with Tommy as she usually did.

The new midtown building which Trumbull & Co. had recently erected stood gleaming in the midwinter sunshine, and Alma, on the opposite corner, paused for a moment to gaze at it with a sort of obeisance to The House as a symbol of integrity. This was a quality which had been bound up in the firm many years.

Old Victor Blanchard, her grandfather, had been at Trumbull's for 60 years. Her father, Jules Blanchard, had been a journeyman-jeweler at The House until his sudden death from pneumonia when Alma was only three years old. Then, six years ago Papa Victor had brought her to work and presented her to the president of Trumbull's in much the same manner with which a knight of King Arthur's Court might have presented a young aspirant of his own blood to the service of the Round Table.

MR. Muncie did not show how deeply he was touched by the little ceremony, for emotional display had no place in his conception of permissible behavior, and he had concealed his interest in the youngster.

"She is far too young to be any good!" Mr. Muncie had declared, "and we don't take any apprentices any more, Mr. Victor." "Ain't no sense in that," she is not an apprentice!" Old Victor's voice had been gentle but stubborn. "She is a workman of high skill. I have trained her myself. As for being too young, why! I was only 16 when my father first brought me to Mr. Trumbull at the old lower Broadway establishment, and I too, was already a skilled journeyman. Jules' my son, came to us at Union Square when he had just 19 years. I stake my reputation that you will not regret taking this young woman."

GOLDEN GLOVES TOURNAMENT FOR ABILENE SET FEB. 1-4

High school boxers, for the first time in history, will dominate—in numbers at least—the 15th annual Abilene Regional Golden Gloves tournament, officials have announced.

The tournament is scheduled at Rose Field House on the Hardin-Simmons campus Friday, Saturday 1, 2 and 4.

An increased interest in boxing as a part of high school athletic programs, as well as on the part of individual boys themselves, has resulted in a Golden Gloves entry list in which at least 50 per cent of the contestants are high school athletes. The other half is divided between the Novice and Open classes.

What could amount to a district or regional high school tournament, with eligibility confined to athletics coming under Texas Interscholastic League restrictions, is in prospect. Close supervision regarding conduct of bouts, awarding of prizes, and naming of individual and team champions will guarantee physical safety as well as protection of amateur and scholastic eligibility.

Only amateurs, including high school boys, are eligible to compete in any Golden Gloves tournament.

The novice class is for experienced boys, who are not attached to a high school team. The open class is for more experienced boxers who aspire to compete in the latter State tournament at Fort Worth. Championship awards will be made in eight weight divisions of each class. With runner-up awards, a total of 48 prizes, not including the high school team prize, will be distributed.

Teams and individuals from at least 17 cities over West Central Texas have been entered for the Regional tournament, suggesting a field of some 100 contestants. The entry list will remain open until 10 o'clock Friday morning, Feb. 1, at which time physical examinations and weighing ceremonies will begin at Rose Field House.

Requests by boxers and coaches for more detailed information should be addressed to: Golden Gloves Director, Reporter-News, Abilene, Texas.

Large Coffee Crop Due For Guatemala

Guatemala, which is the fourth largest coffee producing country in the Western hemisphere, expects its 1951-52 coffee crop to be the largest in the republic's history, according to estimates received by the National Coffee Association.

Excellent weather conditions in the low coastal areas, and the end of the rainy season at higher altitudes prompted growers to revised their crop estimates up to the 140,000,000 pounds mated for this season.

Food Facts

By MARIE KIEFER

Marie Kiefer

If the man of your house is kitchen-helpless, it's a good idea to correct this shortcoming pronto. The man who can sling a handy skillet is at no disadvantage when his wife makes a trip home to mother, or takes to her bed with an attack of migraine, or has a night out with her bridge club.

We shouldn't assume that the housewife can be in the kitchen for three sure meals a day, 52 weeks a year.

It's a farsighted woman who takes time to help her husband prepare for his role of emergency cook. Very likely he'll find it's as much fun to cook as it is practical. With his new-found confidence he'll probably want to show off his culinary achievements by whipping up a snack for the canasta set.

Among the things he should know are how to broil a chop, fix a juicy, well-browned hamburger or add a little flourish to canned stew.

"National Husband In The Kitchen Day" is the last Sunday in January. It's sponsored by the National Association of Retail Grocers. On this day, it is suggested that the husband take over the cooking duties. However, we can't be too emphatic about his staying out of the kitchen when his wife is in regular control of the situation. There isn't room for two cooks.

If you would like a free copy of the booklet "What Every Man Should Know About Cooking" write to me at National Association of Retail Grocers, 360 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago 1, Illinois.

Texas Supreme Court Feuding Over The Jeep

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (UP)—A spirited feud is in progress between the Supreme Court of Texas and the people who make the Jeep.

It began this way: A rural mail carrier in Texas who owned a Jeep took out an accident policy which would give him a $100 a month in case he was put to bed by an accident. If hurt in a private car, "exclusively of the pleasure car type" he could collect double.

Well, he got hurt in his jeep. He started collecting $100 a month. He sued to get double, contending he was riding in a pleasure car.

The Texas Supreme Court ruled in a five to four decision that he was not entitled to the extra C-note because "the jeep is a rugged, uncouth vehicle without beauty of line or body—with no suggestion of comfort and obviously intended for hard service rather than for pleasure."

Well, Ward M. Canaday, president of Willys, puffed his dander and begged to differ. He replied that the jeep is "not uncouth." Also that the war time jeep could do everything but climb a tree and that with springs attached it could ride along like a Rolls Royce, almost.

"Not only that," said Canaday, "the jeep is a work of art. No less an authority than New York City's Museum of Modern Arts says so, too. The jeep is the only

Buick's 1952 Roadmaster Riviera Coupe

New sweeppear moldings, new rear fender ornaments and a redesigned bumper-grille combination distinguish this two-door Buick Roadmaster Riviera for 1952. It features a new Airpower carburetor, higher compression and new manifold that boost the horsepower output of its Fireball-eight engine to 170 with improved economy and performance. A higher

American car now in production chosen by the museum for exhibition. For excellence as works of art. The museum called the Jeep: "One of the few genuine expressions of machine art and a wonderful tool for transportation."

Canaday isn't mad. He was invited the distinguished gentlemen of the Supreme Court of Texas to come along and look at the jeep's "big brother." A thing called the "Aero Willys," which is about to be shown to the public tomorrow. This one really is a passenger car. It will hold six fat people like me without discomfort, it says here, and the front seat measures 61 inches and so does the back.

The wheel base is 108 inches and the overall length is 180 7/8 inches. It's 72 inches wide and the trunk will take care of anything that can be crowded into 24 cubic feet.

The Willys people claim that you can get up to 35 miles to the gallon of common gas.

Salvation Army Says Righteous Living Is Best

The Salvation Army is launching a world-wide campaign in the year 1952, which will be called, "The Midnight Cry," based on the words of Matthew 25:6, "At midnight there was a cry made, 'Every Corp in the State of Texas will co-operate in this great Spiritual Crusade, Lt. Colonel John A. Morrison, the State Commander said. In commenting on the Crusade the Colonel continued:

"What time is it? If we could imagine a great clock whose hands recorded the passing of the hours of light and darkness in the moral and spiritual history of mankind, what would we read here? Are we living in days of righteousness, God-fearing, and the clear shining of faith? What think you, are the nations of the world standing in the brightness of His glory, whose reign is one of truth and peace? Would my contemporaries say that the state of the world is better now than it was, say fifty years ago? Or would they agree with me that aside from scientific developments and improvements—the world is uneasy, restless, frightened and troubled and, over wide areas, very dark."

The Army, will, the Colonel stated, make definite plans in every Salvation Army Corps to promote the campaign. People will be urged to read the Bible, especially the words of Jesus on these significant issues: To re-establish the family altar in the homes; to attend the church of their choice; to practice Christian virtues in their daily living; and to recognize the necessity for emphasis on the moral and spiritual standards of the Christian religion as the only sure way of the survival of this nation through these times of crisis.

James Garvis Hattox leaves today for training camp. Many families, friends and relatives gathered at his home Sunday night for a farewell get-together. Some came from Cheaney, some from Desdemona, after church service even the Alameda congregation, following Bible study went en masse for the reception there.

The local stringsters, Alton and Choc Underwood, Oliver Pilgrim and Gary Downard, furnished musical numbers on violin, guitars and horn. Gary, a former member of the Ranger school band is quite an artist with his horn. He blew bugle call, reveille, taps and other impromptu numbers for Garvis, much to the merriment of the more than one hundred whom came. The house fairly burst at the seams.

R. D. Hart was able to attend the party, but says he doesn't fancy his glances at himself in the mirror, just yet. He thinks maybe the car wreck did play havoc with his features.

NEWS FROM CHEANEY

Mrs. Bill Tucker

What is more beautiful than the sun coming up dazzling bright, the reflection of its light shining in each dewdrop, literally thousands of them hanging on tree limbs, the fences, on weeds and grasses, with the early morning dew. This morning (Tuesday) we arose earlier than usual and observed the thick fog, which had rolled in, watched it change and fade away as the sun rays came over the horizon—even the clarion call of the big white leghorn, made us think what an ecstatic world this could be—mind you we said could be—if the thoughts of war and turmoil were not uppermost in our minds and we could truly say "God is in His heaven, all's right with the world."

Melba Love was nursing a case of "flu" Sunday.

Mrs. Ira Wilson is home again after a stay for treatment of virus pneumonia in the Ranger hospital, she is reported to be out of danger.

I went to County Home Dem. Council last Wednesday in Eastland. There were 21 women representing 11 clubs present and brought reports. Clubs will continue to carry out programs as outlined in the year book as there is no prospect for an agent very soon.

Sunday diner guests in the John Tucker home were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Potet and his aunt Mrs. Virgie Lee who spent Saturday night with them. They also made a call in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Perrin, brother of Mrs. Lee. She has been in Oklahoma for the past six months.

Loretta Wallace and her two big dolls spent the week-end with her cousin Joy Love at Alameda.

Sam Yancey and Dee Rodgers made a West Texas visit last week. With prospective employment their objective.

M. and Mrs. Stewart and children were entertained with a farewell party in the Huber Hailey home near Staff, Tuesday night. They sold their farm, originally the Newt Crawley home, and will be moving soon.

M. and Mrs. Loy Williams and children were callers Saturday night in the Ann Love home.

M. and Mrs. Herman Nergor and Charles were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Case Sunday.

Choc Underwood and family moved last week to the J. L. Brown home, which was vacated some time ago by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brown. Living facilities were more convenient and no rent to pay made it more ideal. Choc is employed by the Texas Electric Company at Eastland.

In 1829 Prof. Joseph Henry, of the Albany Academy, Albany, N. Y., built the first electromagnetic motor, an oscillating machine with automatic pole changer.
