Politics are warming up a bit. No less than a dozen prospective office holders in this county have announced as candidates, and several others are on the fence waiting for some one to push them into the political arena. Times are pretty hard, and we wouldn't mind having one of these nice, juicy offices ourselves. You will not be able to make a fortune, but they do pay enough to enable one to stay on speaking terms with his grocer and the income tax department.

If a fellow has all he can eat, and is not deviled with these gumshoe artists, known as "internal revenue collectors", he should be happy.

The way to tell you are getting old, is when the grand kids are more important to you than your own children. By using yourself as a pattern most of the children have failed by the time they begin raising a family of their own. For a long time we pictured both our sons as being presidential timber. So far neither of them have as much as tried for congress or even J.P. They sure have tumbled below our expectations, and right now we are wondering about their sons.

Using ourselves as the starting seed, and realizing how ignominiously we have failed, we shall not criticize the children or their children. But with no more to start with than they had, it wouldn't surprise us much if they reverted back to the monkey stage within a few more generations. But the consoling fact is this: they sure will have plenty company. We are not an evolutionist, but to save us we can't see much difference between men and monkeys. One big monkey traded his tail for a conscience, and since that time he has been called MAN. If he ever drowns out his conscience, he'll be on thin ice and no more anything may happen. So the best thing for us to do is cultivate and use this conscience, and by so doing get back a little closer to original man who was created in the image of God.

Senator Tom Connally has been rather active during the past few weeks. He is doing this for the benefit of Texas voters, who will likely "fire" him in July when they cast their votes. Tom was at one time a useful man, and we have supported him more than once. Now, however, we feel that he has passed his day of usefulness. In the first place he is too old, and regardless of what he may tell voters he will never be any younger. In the second place Tom has been leaving the party who elected him, and joining up with "Fair and New Dealers," who are no more Democrats than they are Whigs or Tories. Tom entered the Senate as a Jeffersonian Democrat. Today he is (if his record is to be considered) everything but a Jeffersonian Democrat.

During recent years he has been acting idly by while the Federal Government snatched up our natural resources — our God-given birthright. Our government is "A government of the people, for the people, and by the people." Washington is not the Government at all, it is merely a small portion of land donated by certain states, where we send our public servants to work for us. When they fall down on the job, and begin "flirting" with the idea that they (the servants) are the government, and begin tell us (the employers) what to do, it is time to clean house, Washington itself wouldn't be any more important than a hamburger stand at the county fair, were it not for the states. So the only thing for us to do is clean out Washington, hire a new crew, and tell them "for sure" who is the real boss.

May be painful, but very necessary.

Dogs Distract Driver, Cause Bus Collision

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 19 (UP)—Bus driver Harry R. Smith said all he did was to glance idly at some dogs playing on a parking strip. The next thing he knew his bus rammed into another city bus, and seven passengers were slightly injured yesterday.

HOSPITAL AS IT APPEARS TODAY

Finishing Work Begins On New Hospital; Free Labor Pouring In From All Sections Of City

Workers were more plentiful at the Hospital Monday night than usual, and a considerable amount of work was completed. Right now most of the work is being done by experts or "Finishers," though there is still plenty of work for the common laborer.

The building is taking on the looks of a hospital, though there is plenty finishing work to be done, especially on the interior.

Windows have been completed and washed, and the outside walls have been given one coat of paint. Above you will find a picture of the plant, that in a way, gives an idea of what has been done. After the driveways, walks and other outside work is completed another picture will be made. Only for the tireless efforts of the people of this city this could not have been possible. "Free labor" has been the key to success.

Those working last night include: Bill White, Wayne Caton, Bill Wright, L. D. Harris, Hank Sims, Rev. Otto Marshall, Jimmie Hart, Dr. James C. Whittington, Joe Muirhead, Bill Jessop, D'usard Turner, Earl Conner (Topper), Paul Gattis, Gene Bowles, Pat Linkenhoger, Gilbert McDonald, Wayne Jackson, Robert Vaughan, Joe Tow, E. C. Watson, Gordon Taylor, F. M. Spurlin, J. Y. Jordan, J. A. Copelen, John Goode, Hubert Jones, D. Samuels, Chlie Johnson and Foy Truc.

Hostesses: Mmes. Richard Jones, Jim Garner, W. G. Frantz, A. H. Brown and J. A. Lusk, Jr.

C. Freyschlag Accepts Post With His 'Dad'

Charles Freyschlag has accepted a position with his father, E. E. Freyschlag, who conducts one of Eastland's leading insurance agencies. Charles is not new to the people of this city, for he was born here, as was his wife, the former Miss Marjorie Harper, and their two children, Anne and Jeanne.

Charles is a graduate of Eastland High School. He attended TCU in Fort Worth, though is a graduate of Hardin-Simmons University of Abilene. He obtained his law degree from the New Mexico State Law school in Albuquerque, N. M.

He was formerly employed as an Insurance Adjustor, so the insurance business is not new to him. This experience, together with his law training will make him a valuable asset to most any legal or professional concern.

Congressman Burleson Supports Farmers Protesting Peanut Plan

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The stand taken by Mr. Burleson coincides with the ones outlined by the farmers of this area against the proposed 1952 peanut program. The farmers have held and are planning more meetings to deal with this program.)

"The peanut farmer in Texas is not getting fair treatment if the program now proposed by the Production and Marketing Administration is put into effect."

This was included in a statement made by Congressman Omar Burleson in his speech to several hundred representatives of various segments of the peanut industry recently meeting in Washington.

Informed sources believe that the Department of Agriculture will announce its 1952 peanut program in the near future, and Congressman Omar Burleson of the 17th Congressional District of Texas has expressed his deep concern over the ideas which he says will not favor the farmer and which will place him in a straitjacket and destroy his independence. "The government tells the farmer how much he can plant, where he must sell, how much he can be paid, what he must pay to sell his produce. After that, another part of the government tells him how much he can keep, for he must pay a few high taxes also," Burleson said to the group meeting in Washington. "I do not think the farmer in my area is going to be very happy under these conditions if they are imposed upon him, as now suggested by the PMA."

"If the farmer is required to place all his peanuts in the loan program and be docked 20 dollars or more per ton as a service charge, he is not receiving 90 percent of parity, which the law provides and which he has been promised," said Congressman Burleson.

In his speech and in a follow-up letter of Feb. 9th to Mr. George Prichard, head of the Fats and Oils Division of the Production and Marketing Administration, of the Department of Agriculture, (Continued On Page 5)

Local Poultry Growers Will Visit Kaufman

The following bulletin has been issued by J. M. Cooper, county agricultural agent, and mailed to quite a number of poultry growers in the county. For the information of others we reproduce the bulletin.

"Monday, March 3, has been named as the date for our trip to Kaufman County to see some of their broiler plants and to learn more of the broiler business. "Terrell is on Highway 80 about 30 miles east of Dallas. Reagan Brown, County Agent there is cooperating in helping us work out the details of the trip.

"Due to the uncertainty as to the number who could go we now plan to go in private cars instead of on the bus as was originally planned.

"We will meet at the City Hall here in Eastland that morning at 7:00 o'clock sharp and take what cars are necessary. A number have promised to take cars.

"We will assemble at Chris's Cafe in Terrell at 12 o'clock. Please let us all eat together. Some of the business leaders there will discuss financing of broiler houses and equipment either just before or right after this meal.

"After lunch we will go to the Poultry-Campground Community nearby to inspect some of their broiler plants. We have been informed that due to the fear of disease we may not be able to go into the houses. We can however look through the windows. We will be able to see the inside of an empty house also.

"We also plan to go through the broiler processing plant in Terrell.

"We will stop by Ratliff's feed store in Ranger for others to join us.

"Anyone in Eastland County interested in the broiler industry is invited to go on this tour so please help us to spread the word around."

UN Jets Down 3 MIG Fighters

8th ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Feb. 19 (UP)—Heavily outnumbered American Sabrejets shot down three Communist MIG-15 fighter planes today in battles ranging across "MIG Alley."

Two of the Russian-built jet fighters fell to earth in a snarling five-minute battle between 26 F-86 Sabrejets and 50 MIGs this afternoon. The other kill was made in a high-altitude clash between 27 Sabres and 100 MIGs in the morning.

Thirty-Three Seaman Still On Broken Ship

TWIN DISASTER DEATH TOLL HIGH AFTER SHIPS BATTERED

By David Pickman
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHATHAM, Mass., Feb. 19—Thirty-three seamen were found alive aboard the storm-shattered stern of the oil tanker Fort Mercer today, and the Coast Guard prepared to attempt to duplicate the rescue operation that saved 32 others from the broken stern of the tanker Pendleton last night.

The possible death toll in the twin disaster off Cape Cod rose to 15 when five, and possibly six, seamen jumped into the sea to their deaths from the bow of the Pendleton as the bow of the tanker broke in half yesterday in the midst of a violent northeast gale and snowstorm that took at least 30 lives ashore in New England. An estimated 43 men were aboard the Fort Mercer when the tanker broke in two. It was not known how many men remained aboard the drifting section, which bobbed like corks in the icy seas.

The Yakuat reported that it floated rafts downwind to the bow section of the Fort Mercer and that "five or six" men jumped overboard into the icy waters in an attempt to reach them. When the cutter pulled the rafts back, no one was aboard them.

The Yakuat immediately abandoned rescue operations until daylight when it was expected that a second cutter, the Eastwind, would be alongside to help. The Eastwind was 30 miles from the scene but was proceeding at only four to five knots because of the heavy seas.

The 32 men rescued were plucked off the icy stern section of the tanker Pendleton two miles off Chatham Bay.

They scrambled down ladders and leaped into the water when a Coast Guard motor lifeboat came alongside and were taken to the Chatham Coast Guard station. One man, identified only as George Myer, missed his footing and drowned during the rescue. Raymond Pendleton, crew member, was seen to leap from the bow of the stricken ship five miles away and disappeared in the churning water before the Coast Guard cutter McCulloch could pick him up.

The McCulloch said there was no other sign of life aboard the bow section, indicating that the captain and six others including three mates and a radio operator probably had perished. Raymond Pendleton of Norfolk, Va., the Pendleton's chief engineer, said all the deck officers were forward at the time that the tanker split without warning after hours of bucking the violent storm.

He said the Pendleton split without warning and he couldn't tell how the accident happened. Another crewman, J. E. Young (191 40th Street) Galveston, Tex., said he was just getting out of bed when he heard what sounded like a crash.

"It sounded to me like the Pendleton was hit by another boat," he said. "The chief told me to go on deck and see what had happened. I went up and saw the bow setting off away from the rest of the ship—about 1,000 yards."

The Fort Mercer was bound from New Orleans, La., to Portland, Me., and the Pendleton was enroute to Boston.

The agreement was drawn up after consultation with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's Military Committee. It will be presented to the full meeting of N.A.T.O. leaders which opens here tomorrow.

Subject to ratification by the signatory powers, it also sets out in detail the future over-all relationship between N.A.T.O. and the European Defense Community.

The agreement in the form of a protocol, provides that an attack on any one of the six European Army nations would be considered an attack on the North Atlantic Pact member states.

The North Atlantic Pact already obliges all other members to go to the defense of any member who is attacked. Since West Germany is the only projected member of the European Army not in the N.A.T.O., the new protocol would have the effect of extending the protection of the pact to the Bonn Government.

Splice, which paved the way for a new rescue operation by reporting that 33 storm-shattered seamen still lived aboard the Fort Mercer's stern.

"We have just contacted stern," the Short Splice radioed. "There are 33 survivors aboard stern. Seem to be okay. Stern riding good."

The radio message was the first word of the fate of those trapped aboard the shattered stern, bobbing in the seas some 25 miles off this Cape Cod fishing port.

COP-KILLER RECAPTURED—Robert Hugh Barber, who overpowered his guard at St. Joseph's Hospital in Ft. Worth, Texas where he was recovering from wounds suffered in a battle with police in which he killed a Ft. Worth detective, escaped from the hospital in a stolen automobile trading shots with two policemen as he fled. Weakness from his wounds apparently robbed him of the will to fight as he was surrounded by officers and recaptured 15 miles south-east of Ft. Worth. Here, he is returned to a police cell by detectives who captured the desperado. (NEA Telephoto).

Attorneys Plan Defense Young Husband Killer

EL PASO, Feb. 19 (UP)—A battery of attorneys for socialite bride Mary Jean Parsons today mapped their strategy on how to defend her against charges that she murdered her sleeping husband.

The blue-eyed, 21-year-old bride of six weeks confessed that she shot and killed her 24-year-old husband, Lt. Richard O. Parsons, early Saturday as he lay in bed.

Three letters, one written by Mrs. Parsons apparently after the shooting, another before her marriage to Parsons Jan. 2, and a third bearing the signature "Jan," figured heavily in the attorney's conferences.

All three hinted that Mrs. Parsons was emotionally upset.

Mrs. Parsons spent a quiet night in her cell at El Paso County Jail. A small Bible lay beside her bed. Yesterday, however, she seemed nervous and paced the floor.

She was visited through the day by members of her family, prominent in social circles at Tulsa, Okla.

Mrs. Parsons killed her husband with two shots from a revolver after an argument over the financial help she and her husband had received from the family.

The first note Mrs. Parsons wrote was found in a wastebasket in the couple's El Paso apartment where Parsons' body was discovered. The note had been torn into tiny pieces.

It said that Mrs. Parsons "had no grudge against my husband, for he was the most wonderful man in the world, but he, too, hated me."

New Cyclo-Matic Frigidaire Food Freezer Arrives

The 1952 Cyclo-matic Frigidaire food freezer and refrigerator combination features convenient "Roll-to-you" shelves on a new kind of cold called Levelcold, according to T. M. Fullen, of Fullen Motor Co., who returned recently from a Frigidaire sales meeting in Fort Worth.

Every shelf glides out full-length on nylon rollers, bringing more food within easy reach than any other refrigerator ever built, he declared. In addition, there are 3 shelves on the door for handy storage of small items.

Levelcold is a safer cold for preservation of all kinds of foods because temperatures within the refrigerators do not "see-saw" with weather changes, heavier usage, or during automatic defrosting. Through development of a revolutionary Cyclo-matic system, Frigidaire engineers have made possible constant, safe cold automatically under all conditions, whether on the coldest night of winter or the hottest summer afternoon. This is assured by thermostat inside and outside the refrigerator. There is also a built-in Food Safety Indicator.

Emphasizing the importance of constant, low temperatures in the middle of the safety zone, Mr. Fullen pointed out that tests have (Continued On Page 2)

K. P. Lodge Has Social Evening

Eastland's Knights of Pythias lodge was host Friday evening, to Supt. Hartzman and wife of the Weatherford Pythian Home. About 20 of the children from the home, accompanied them, and rendered several musical numbers which were enjoyed by a well packed house. The children ranged in age from about two years up to 19, and their songs were considered very good.

After the children's program, Supt. Hartzman put on his "picture show" which consisted of films made in and around the Weatherford Home. As the pictures were portrayed on the screen he gave a vivid description of the various scenes shown.

Following this program refreshments consisting of sandwiches and soft drinks were served to all present.

shown that in some foods there is 776 times more bacteria growth in four days at 50 degrees, the top of the safety zone, than there is at 40.

The Cyclo-matic system is found in the three Imperial models of the 1952 Frigidair refrigerator line. Each of these models has a separate food freezer completely insulated and sealed from the refrigerator portion of the cabinet. There is no defrosting heating device in the food freezer, and temperatures are maintained at a constant zero-zone safe level for preservation of frozen foods for months.

There is a handsome 10.8 cubic foot Imperial with two exterior doors, featuring a food freezer that will hold up to 73 pounds of frozen foods. The other two Imperials have single, full-length exterior doors. One has a total capacity of 10.6 cubic feet, including a food freezer holding 49 pounds of food.

Hunters Mail Record Number Quail Wings

AUSTIN—Texas hunters this year returned 11,405 quail wings to the Texas Game and Fish Commission for study by wildlife technicians as compared to 7,632 last season.

Sorting and counting of the wings was completed this week. Figures will be used to help establish data concerning hatching success, survival of young birds, the effect of seasonal weather on annual populations, and other factors of importance in the management, conservation, and restoration of quail.

Noting the increase of returns, the director of Wildlife Restoration said, "If the response to our requests for wings continues to grow, the hunters will play an ever-increasing role in helping us to learn new ways to provide them with the quality of hunting they wish."

The 1951-52 season was the second in which the state's hunters were asked to return wings of birds killed in the field.

Compilation of data for this year is just beginning, but the director noted that in general the figures reflect the severe drought of last summer's hatchling season, which dealt quail reproduction a severe blow in most parts of the state. This in turn led to relatively poor hunting success.

Late hatches were effected most, particularly in South Texas. In that area, just over 30 per cent of the young quail were hatched after Aug. 15 in 1950, while in 1951 the late hatch was only 1.2 per cent.

This year the best hunting was found in the lower plains of the Panhandle and in the Panhandle, where climatic conditions have been unusually beneficial during the quail hatching season for two consecutive years.

The poorest hunting was in South and Southwest Texas, although scattered spots in this area yielded good bags.

and the other is a nine cubic foot model with a food freezer for 43 pounds.

In addition to the Imperial Cyclo-matic Frigidaires, there are ten handsomely styled Deluxe, Master, Standard and Special refrigerators models from four to 17 cubic feet.

Other Frigidair products include a complete line of electric ranges in 40, 30 and 21 inch widths, some featuring the revolutionary "Wander Oven".

There also is a line of home laundry equipment, including an automatic electric clothes washer, dryer and ironer; a line of food freezers with capacities from 9 to 18 cubic feet, a complete line of electric, automatic water heaters, and an electric dehumidifier.

Train Delays Fire Engines; Warehouse Burns

HOUSTON, Feb. 19 (UP)—Firemen said a 10-minute wait at a train crossing kept 10 fire trucks from reaching a costly warehouse fire promptly here yesterday.

Two trucks passed before the train crossed, but 10 others had to wait until they could call a railroad yard dispatcher, who ordered the freight cars uncoupled, said the firemen.

The blaze destroyed a building and many lubricants and oils. One man was critically injured.

C. M. Clark, 32, was burned about the face and hands and Parkview Hospital attendants termed his condition critical.

The Cities Service Co. corrugated steel warehouse, 50 by 70 feet, was destroyed. Nearly 300 barrels of oil, 1,400 cases of lubricants and about 350 new tires were burned.

Twelve engine companies of firemen answered the alarm. They were aided by a Coast Guard Fire Unit and a fire boat from the Houston waterfront.

Flames shot 150 feet into the air and firemen battled the holocaust for an hour. They soaked gasoline tanks with water and sprayed foam on the warehouse.

Participation In High School Baseball Down

AUSTIN—A sharp decline in participation in Texas schoolboy baseball competition is indicated by tentative listings of district assignments released today by the University Interscholastic League. Dr. Rhea H. Williams, director of athletics for the League, stated when releasing the early figures on the coming season that the only apparent reason for the decline was the removing of league restrictions on spring training for football.

The tentative list carries but 664 schools, as compared with 723 on the same list for the 1951 baseball season. These tentative, or organizational working lists, are made up of teams which competed the year previously, plus new teams which have indicated intention to compete in the new season. Schools which have already advised the league office of a decision not to compete are not included in the tentative assignments.

The final competition figure is nearly always different from the tentative listing. Last year, for example, the actual number of schools competing in baseball was 629, as compared with the 723 on the early list.

At the present, 558 teams have already signed up for this year's competition, and schools have until March 1 to sign cards indicating acceptance of the baseball plan for the year. It is therefore possible, Dr. Williams explained, that participation will come close to last year's total, despite the decline indicated by the tentative list.

The tentative list breaks down into 87 AA teams, 148 A teams and 429 Conference B teams. Conference B will play to bi-district championships; Conference A to regional; and AA to state championship, to be determined at a state tournament in Austin June 2, 3 and 4.

Mayor Sponsors Opponent; Loses

BOYNE CITY, Mich., Feb. 19 (UP) — Harry Tompkins, who entered this city's mayoralty race unopposed and wound up losing to the man he sponsored to run against him, retired from politics today.

"I'm all through," he said. "Just call me ex-mayor."

Tompkins, unopposed in the last three elections, thought it would be politically healthier for the city if he had competition this time. So he circulated nominating petitions for a business rival, Sam Arbuckle. "Well, I'll be damned," was Tompkins' first verbal reaction when result of the balloting were announced last night. The vote was 384 for Arbuckle and 234 for Tompkins.

FBI's Most Wanted Man Is Captured

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (UP)—Captured bank robber Willie (the Actor) Sutton, No. 1 pinup boy on postoffice bulletin boards, faced questioning by FBI agents today about the $1,500,000 Brink's stickup at Boston in 1950.

Sutton's arrest yesterday on a Brooklyn street by two alert patrolmen ended one of the nation's biggest manhunts. He has been sought since he escaped a Philadelphia prison in 1947.

The slender, neatly dressed bandit was identified positively last night by officials of a Manhattan Bank branch on Long Island as a robber who took $64,000 on March 9, 1950.

But Sutton denied he was one of the men wearing Halloween masks and sailors' peajackets who staged the greatest cash holdup in the history of crime in 1950 in taking $1,500,000 from Brink's Armored Service guards.

He protested that he was always accused of masterminding bank robberies throughout the country, whereas he had been living quietly in Brooklyn three blocks from a police station the past two years.

Governor Allan Shivers and Secretary of State John Ben Shepperd discuss the 1952 Heart Fund campaigns now being conducted in many Texas counties. Governor Shivers is honorary campaign chairman and Mr. Shepperd is state co-chairman with Banker Ben H. Wooten of Dallas. Congressman—

Burleson said that, of course, theoretically the farmer could still sell his peanuts on the open competitive market, but anyone familiar with the operations in the Southwest will know that as a practical matter the farmer will have little choice to do anything except to place his peanuts in the loan program and pay approximately 20 dollars per ton for storage, etc.

"The buyers of peanuts in Texas, at least in my Congressional District, are engaged in big business. To operate, he must have financial backing, to expend a tremendous sum of money at the height of the season. He goes to the local bank for his funds. The loan is usually 90 percent of parity and to this extent is guaranteed by the government. "Under the loan program," Burleson stated, "as proposed by the Production and Marketing Administration this arrangement is ended. What can the buyer do? It takes a huge sum to buy peanuts to provide a steady operation. If he cannot do so, and few if any can, amounts and is not guaranteed a steady operation at a time when that is necessary."

According to Congressman Burleson, this leaves the farmer with no real choice. If forces him to do business only with the government. "It regimented the farmer further and further and destroys his freedom of action, and aside from the dollars-and-cents standpoint, I think this is exceedingly important and basically wrong," said Burleson.

Congressman Burleson reminded agricultural officials that the acreage in Texas is to be cut another 10 percent this year, and that excess acreage for oil is to be cancelled. "Under these conditions, plus a deduction in 1951, the peanut farmer in my area is going to be in serious circumstances, and I want to do everything I possibly can to help him. In addition, I do not want to see his independence destroyed, but I fear that is what the proposals now made by the Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration will do."

In his speech to the group meeting in Washington and restated in his written communication to the Department of Agriculture, Burleson said that he certainly would not support any kind of a program which was proving expensive to the taxpayers, but to place this sort of burden on the farmer was not the way to correct the program's weaknesses. "Certainly these expensive and money losing programs should be changed after they have proved themselves as failing. We in the Congress who have the interest of the farmers at heart will do him

Burleson said that experience should teach us something and it should have taught a better handling of his program, which should not now severely penalize the peanut farmer of Texas.

Guests in the home of Mrs. M. P. Herring, Mrs. Minnie Love and Virgil Love were their children, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Herring and Cynthia of Odessa over the weekend.

We Can Save 20,000 Lives A Year, So Why Don't We, Magazine Asks

At least 57 per cent of the men, women and children we are going to kill in traffic accidents during 1952 will be killed needlessly. Each of those 20,000 needless deaths could be prevented with the traffic safety tools we now have at hand, according to Murray Teigh Bloom in the March issue of Pageant Magazine.

What's holding us back? It's simply our resistance against giving up a small measure of our freedom behind the wheel. We're extremely jealous of our "right" to drive even though we've never properly learned how; to drive though we've clearly shown by repeated accidents that we're a menace on the road; to drive though drunk; to drive at any speed we think "prudent and safe."

Take the proven life-saver of compulsory inspection of motor vehicles. In the 12 states that have had periodic checkup laws since 1939, points out Pageant, deaths in auto accidents are 14.7 per cent below the national average. Which means—on a national scale—that about 3,000 lives could be saved annually if all states had mandatory car inspection. Why don't we have those 3,000 lives? Well, for one thing, it's a great nuisance. It makes busy people waste their time waiting to get their cars inspected. And it adds employees to the state's already swollen payroll.

In 1950 13,300 people were killed because of too much speed. But the tickets people try to fix most, says Pageant, are speeding tickets. Too many of us want strict law enforcement—for the other guy. Too many prominent local businessmen think it's their due to have some tickets overlooked. The trouble is that the fixing system costs lives.

Every year jaywalking accounts for around 4,000 lives. But most of the hundreds of cities that have attempted campaigns against jaywalking have abandoned them in the face of public outrage at being fined for crossing the street between intersections.

In order to save 20,000 lives a year, concludes Pageant, each of us will have to sacrifice a share of the liberty of being able to drive as we please, regardless of ability, degree of intoxication or the state of our car. It will be a hard fought battle and a mere 20,000 lives may not seem worth it—unless you or some member of your family is included in the fatality list.

Texas Poultry Raisers Win 1st And 3rd Places In Egg Contest

Clinton Harbers, left, Fayette county gets third-place trophy from his one-time vo-ag teacher, J. R. Jackson. Harbers' hens averaged 269.6 eggs.

Texas poultry raisers took both first and third places in a national flock laying contest in which 1189 farmers from 18 states competed. "It's a real honor for you and for our state. We're proud of you," said Texas commissioner of agriculture John C. White, in presenting the championship trophy to Mrs. E. F. Peterson. The ceremony honoring Mrs. Peterson and her brother, J. E. Bloom, who helped with the flock, was held on the Peterson rice farm between Crosby and Baytown.

Mrs. Peterson's flock of 200 Hy-Line hybrid layers averaged 277.7 eggs per hen housed to win the national Hy-Line egg laying contest.

Second place in the contest went to Mrs. Paul Kaestner, Van Horn, Iowa, whose Hy-Lines laid 270.7 eggs per hen.

In third place, close behind, was the flock of Hy-Lines belonging to cotton farmer Clinton Harbers, West Point, Texas. His flock averaged 269.6 eggs per hen housed at the start of their laying year.

"This was a test of poultry management," Commissioner White said. "All 1189 flocks in the contest were of the same stock. So it's fair to say your triumph was earned by superior poultry practices."

High production records by Hy-Line hybrids are nothing new in Texas.

This last year they were tested side-by-side against Leghorns by 25 Texas poultry raisers. The hybrids came out ahead on 22 of the farms, averaged more eggs and less laying house loss. Nationally, there were 260 of these "divided flock tests" of Hy-Lines against Leghorns. Hy-Lines won 248 of the tests, Leghorns only 12. Hy-Lines averaged 3800 more eggs per 100 hens.

At average egg prices for the year, that gives the Hy-Line raiser a profit advantage of about $138 per 100 hens over the Leghorn raiser.

Hy-Lines, introduced in 1942, were the first chickens on the market bred like hybrid corn. They were developed by geneticists of Hy-Line Poultry Farms of Iowa.

Today Hy-Lines are the most popular single strain of layers in the U. S., raised by over 50,000 farmers. Introduced in Texas four years ago, they've already been tried by 8,962 poultry raisers in the state.

Their popularity may be judged by the fact that Kazmeier-Sherrill Hatchery, Bryan, Texas, distributors of Hy-Lines in the Southwest, reports sales are 52 per cent of last year already.

U. S. Consulate In Chile Bombed

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 19 (UP)—Police said today fragments of two home-made bombs exploded in the U. S. Consulate here by an Estonian refugee who then jumped to his death from a window contained bits of scrap metal including bent teaspoons.

Richard Pallas, 43, had threatened Consul General Camden McInnis of Goodview, Va., for three hours in McInnis's office yesterday while demanding a visa authorizing a visit to the United States.

Pallas, one of a group of Estonian refugees who landed in Florida some years ago, had been deported by U. S. authorities 10 months ago. Chilean police were investigating how he arrived in their country.

A consulate employe finally managed to call police. Pallas tossed the bombs when police arrived and then jumped from a seventh floor window to his death.

The bombs shattered light fixtures, ruined the rug and blew holes in the walls. No one was injured by the blasts.
