"Texas Brags" — and so do other states if they have anything to brag about. Texas bragging is more noticeable, because Texas is so big and has more to brag about. It's no sin anyway.

A few days ago we raised the ire of a group of states, simply because we allowed a little sand to get out of control, and it got over in somebody's watermelon patch. Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky and the southern portions of Indiana and Illinois bucked and snorted because of Texas sand. They got very little sand, as a matter of fact, but they will all have to admit that it would take a pretty big state to supply all of them in one day.

Some fellow or maybe madam, very likely a former "Tar Heel", has sent us a clipping exploiting the virtues of North Carolina. Now we have nothing against North Carolina other than it was this state that furnished us with boyhood "Bull Durham and Dukes Mixture" and made a cigarette smoker out of us, almost before we reached the age of accountability.

Let 'em blow, but also let it be remembered that Texas is just a about five times as large, in area, as North Carolina, but they do grow more people per acre up there than we do. They are so crowded they have to plant them two in a hill. But again Texas is large in area and in heart, and they are willing to divide their soil any time North Carolina sees fit to ask. There will be no charge as we will just blow the stuff over there, and we never have to do any digging to get the blower primed.

According to the Charlotte (N. C.) News, that state has the largest blue denim factory in the world, but it didn't say whether they made enough pants to supply the Texas trade. Also it leads in underwear, wool blankets, and tailor made cigarettes. Then too, North Carolina leads in the manufacture of wood furniture, mirrors, fly traps, and "illegal hooch". That all sounds good, but what North Carolina needs to know is this: All their factories would have to run over time to partially supply Texas with tailor made cigarettes, and we have drunkards in Texas capable of guzzling their entire output of "hooch" and then walking a chalk line. They will take it straight and some of our most severe drunkards use carbolic as a chaser so as to leave a kind of warm taste in their mouths.

The editor up there said "the hose on the shenely legs of Texas women probably came from North Carolina which produces 40 per cent of the nation's output." Maybe so, but most Texas women are sure their shapely legs look all right without added ornaments, hoisery or otherwise. Now this is not bragging, but a fact, and the women here are not to be blamed for it. They just can't help being good looking—they know this without the aid of North Carolina mirrors.

North Carolina is a good state—that is it was the last time we were there. They produce many items that are enjoyed all over the world. They formerly had good hooch, and still have good cigarettes. They do have many manufacturing plants. They grow beautiful flowers, and beautiful women. North Carolina has produced some great men and women. In that state people go in for culture, while Texans go in for cattle. A cattle baron or cowboy will be asked to "clav for dinner" while a plain cultured gentleman might not even be asked "in". Up there they take politics seriously—here we don't take them at all.

We heard they will support Ike for president, and if they do we are going to clean out one of our sarser counties and ask them to move their state to Texas. Plenty room for all.

LODGE TALKS TO IKE—Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, (R-Mass.), "Ike For President" campaign manager, is received by Gen. Eisenhower at his SHAPE Headquarters near Paris. Lodge refused to tell newsmen in advance just what he intended to discuss with the General, but it appeared certain they would talk about Ike's return to the United States and the timing of his resignation from the European Command. Drunk Says His Buddies Swiped Clothes, Money

A stranger approached the desk of Corporation Judge, I. C. Heck, of Eastland, early Tuesday morning, and without introduction or other formalities, stated to the judge, "I want you to catch them." "Catch who?" asked the judge. "Those fellows who dumped me off here in Eastland." After considerable questioning it developed the man had been picked up by a travel bureau car in Fort Worth, where he said the driver $6 to carry him to Oklahoma City. There were three men in the car, and according to the informant, a liquor was plentiful, and all were drinking. They stopped in Eastland for a few moments, but while in a cafe the others left him, and headed west. In the car was the informant's suitcase and money.

He had spent the night on Eastland streets sobering up, he said, and when the court room opened he was on hand to file his request, to "catch them." They are still at large and the ex-drunk hitched it back to Fort Worth.

WATER PRICES

(Editorial)

There are a few people who reside in the Eastland County Water Supply District who hold onto an idea that if bonds are voted and an adequate water supply is made possible, that cost will be so high people can't use all the water they need.

As a matter of fact the voting of bonds may, at a future date bring us much cheaper water, though no increase will be made now. The sale of water will be sufficient to retire the bonds, even under present sales conditions. But, in order to make the bonds saleable, it is necessary to guarantee them to the buyers by voting taxation powers to the Eastland County Water Supply District, and that power would only be used in the event of a critical emergency.

Very likely taxpayers will not have to be called upon to help pay out the bonds. Only in the event of water sales dropping from the three year average taken by an engineering firm, or in the event it would not rain for four or five years after the dam has been built, and the district had no water to sell, would they revert to taxation.

There is only a limited amount of water to be had, we pay a penalty for our want. Once this condition is corrected and we have an ample supply for all customers, you will have more water available for all uses, domestic and industrial.

We have everything to gain and nothing to lose by voting for the bonds. An adequate supply of industrial water will make it possible for Ranger and Eastland to bid for manufacturing plants. We have the cheap fuel, a good climate, and adequate labor and transportation facilities. All this is good, and industrialists are seeking locations. Once we can guarantee "plenty of water", our problem will have been solved.

VOTE FOR PROGRESS AND THE WATER BONDS.

Jim Horton Is Selling White Side Car Tires

Now you may purchase those white tires you have been wanting. They have been "out" for a considerable length of time, though Uncle Sam seems to be easing up a little.

On another page in this issue of the Telegram will be found an advertisement from the Jim Horton Tire Service, stating that they now have the tires in stock and are to get fifty each week until further notice.

Mr. Horton thinks somebody has been doing some fast work. White tires were released by the government just one week ago, and here they are in Texas already.

Buddy Helps Student To Take Life

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 5 (UP)—A college student told Phoenix police this morning that he drove a friend to a lonely spot, walked away for half an hour while the friend committed suicide with carbon monoxide fumes, then drove the body back to the college.

George Augspurger of Phoenix, a student of dramatics at Arizona State College, was held for investigation of homicide after he returned from the desert, with the body of 22-year-old Fred Wege. A sheriff's deputy said Augspurger said Wege had talked about suicide for months, as long as he had known him, and yesterday morning when he got up said "this is the day."

The two men went to Phoenix from nearby Tempe, where the college is located, rented a car for $50 and drove back to the school.

Early last night they drove to a lonely spot on the desert several miles north of Phoenix and parked.

Augspurger told the deputy he walked out across the desert then sat on a rock for a while, before returning to drive his friend's body back to Tempe.

This Made Fourth Crash In New York Area Since December

By United Press

A twin-engine transport plane has crashed into a heavily-populated section of New York City, and police say at least five persons were killed and 20 injured. The plane—identified as a non-scheduled airliner—plunged out of a rainy, heavily-overcast sky about 8:30 a.m. EST (7:50 a.m. CST) and crashed into a row of houses on 169th Street in the Jamaica section of Queens. Two houses were demolished and four others are in flames. Police fear the death toll will mount since the occupants of the houses apparently were trapped.

The falling plane, a C-46, crashed into a police car, killing a New York police inspector, and careened into the houses. The plane carried a crew of two.

The crash, the fourth in the New York metropolitan area since December, occurred two miles from Idlewild Airport and 10 miles from LaGuardia Field, the city's main air terminals. The C-46 was trying to reach Idlewild.

It was the first recent air disaster involving fields in New York City proper. But three passenger planes had crashed at Elizabeth, New Jersey, since December as they left or approached Newark Airport. The death toll in those crashes totaled 116.

Newark Airport subsequently was closed. And residents of Queens, the scene of today's crash, had been agitating for the removal of LaGuardia Field and increased safety measures at Idlewild because of the hazard of low-flying planes.

Another air accident had left 15 persons dead in Alabama. Fifteen persons were killed when two Air Force transports collided over Mobile, Ala., last night. The wreckage of one of the planes smashed into the railroad freight yards, touching off several explosions, and destroyed six refrigerator cars.

Gen. Van Fleet's Son Missing On Korean Mission

8th ARMY HDQ., Korea, Apr. 6 (UP)—The 26-year-old son of Eighth Army Commander General James Van Fleet is missing in action in Korea, following a night combat flight over North Korea yesterday. First-Lieutenant James Van Fleet, Jr., was aboard a B-26 light bomber.

He and his two crewmen were last heard from when they radioed they were heading for their base. Hundreds of Fifth Air Force planes were sent out to search for the plane of the famous General's son, but the search was called off today, reportedly at Van Fleet's own order. A Fifth Air Force spokesman says American planes "could not afford to carry on such an intensive search." A spokesman for Van Fleet himself says the Commander of Allied Forces in Korea has taken the news "very well."

WSB Chairman Meets With CIO And Steelmen

NEW YORK, Apr. 6 (UP)—Chairman Nathan Feinsinger of the Wage Stabilization Board has scheduled new talks for today with both sides in the steel dispute.

Feinsinger will meet separately in New York with the CIO Steelworkers Union and steel executives, in an attempt to head off a strike Tuesday midnight. Feinsinger has had no success so far and says he has no new proposals. But he says he intends to keep trying to get a settlement.

School Teacher Shortage Faces American Schools

By United Press

An educator warns that if the nation doesn't solve the shortage of teachers, it will suffer serious consequences.

Willard Givens, executive secretary of the National Education Association, says that something must be done about the growing shortage of grade school teachers, or else America will "pay the bill of lost world leadership in the future."

Givens says that steadily-increasing school enrollments, dwindling numbers of qualified teachers, and the public apathy about teacher training are forcing schools to put up with under-staffing and with poorly trained teachers.

The NEA official says it is at the primary level that the "best teachers are needed." Givens' statement coincides with the Association's fifth annual report on teacher supply and demand.

The report shows that colleges and universities will turn out a little over 32,000 elementary teachers in '52, about four per cent under last year. The need is estimated at 160,000, or five times as many.

N-E-A spokesmen agree that too low salaries are responsible for the current shortage. They say that 50 per cent of the nation's one-million teachers receive under 32-hundred dollars a year.

POTPOURRI AND WORSE

By Major Hoopie McCorkle
Telegram Philosopher

Do you suppose Harry is planning a one-man house cleaning in Washington? Will he "can" a bunch of those political grafters who have been posing as his friend? Those are questions you will hear on the streets today, for the crookedness now existing in our Capital City is throwing off some bad odors.

Maybe these odors are nauseous and loathsome to Harry as well as others. At any rate it appears that he is disgusted, maybe inclined to vomit, and he is likely to do something about it.

With all his snort coming, Harry is noted for some things. He is as hard headed as a Missouri mule, but once you get a handle on him and get him quiet long enough to sell him on an idea, he will likely prove a splendid delegate for the cause. Sometimes he will go off half-baked as he did in the cases of the U. S. Marines and music critics, but you will sure know he is in action for the time.

Now he has started something that has needed his attention for many months. He should defate a bunch of politicians, put the skids under others, and by the time he gets things in medium fair order, we might have a few well attended hangings.

Our High and Mighty Ex-Attorney General McGrath was the first "big shot" to feel the boot. He has been as arrogant as Truman has been hard headed. For a time it has appeared that McGrath was immune to punishment, but we just guessed wrong. When he got so bad the boys would divide the spoils in Harry's presence, they went too far. And when a public servant gets bigger than the government it's time to take the wind out of his sails. Harry did this for McGrath—just kicked him out on his ear, in a high, wide and handsome fashion.

McGrath has been operating on a plan that would leave him free to do just as he pleased, so long as he forced others to toe the line. Truman (bless his heart) didn't like the plan, and now "here ain't no more McGrath."

This can mean most anything several million dollars. At least but likely it means that Harry has seen what the balance of us have been seeing for years—that Washington is infested with vipers and that it will take a wholesale delousing to clean it up. Harry, according to custom, began with the "biggest shots" and will work down. Unless delayed by some order that will require him to visit a penal institution for a specified period, McGrath will likely hang out his "shingle" again. There may not be as much money in private practice as there is in holding public office, but it is much safer.

Now we are not trying to insinuate that McGrath has sticky fingers or that he is guilty of any crime, though the president "did fire" him.

There are other federal employees that will probably be reading the "Help Wanted" column before long. Now that Harry has started this clean-up, no telling where he will end up. Some how we feel sorry for the boys, though we know we should not. If they have betrayed the "boss" and in turn forced the boss to do things to the voters, they don't deserve sympathy.

Kefauver told us some time ago that there was something rotten in Denmark, and some how we feel he knew what he was talking about. We don't think Kefauver will ever be president, but it appears to us he would make a fine Attorney General. Someone should speak to Truman about this. We would do the job ourselves only for our modesty.

Federal District Judge James J. McGranery of Philadelphia, is to be our new Attorney General. McGrath has wired the judge that he had better bring a pair of abestos pants with him, indicating that the Attorney General's seat is a hot one.

Be this as it may. We are glad that we now have reasons to hope for a house cleaning, and that the proper man is conducting it. He is the man who gave most of the boys their appointments, and they have sold him down the river.

It just looked too easy. There was too much money changing hands, and it was so cheap people were not expected to miss just a few little old lousy million dollars. But people did miss it. Taxes to create this money kept getting higher and higher, until a fellow is lucky today if he can get the government to take his pay check as a down payment on his income taxes. The whole thing is repulsive. Millions of people in America are doing without: the necessities of life in order to contribute to the tax fund. It would be bad even if the money was spent in our defense efforts, but it is an abomination when these "big shots" spend it for everything else, including "graft."

Money set-aside for bullet and biscuits goes to create new, though useless, jobs. Our government could operate more successfully and more economically, if 70 per cent of government employees were eliminated. They are not needed, and honest employees will tell you so.

If Uncle Sam decided to give away a dozen cold storage eggs it would likely cost tax payers 16 commissions, 12 agencies and a few overlapping committees would have to be appointed. Several hundred stenographers would be used to get bulletins to go in to an already overloaded mails. All of these groups would check and double check each other, and by the time they got settled down to the point of choosing the widow to receive the eggs, they would be spoiled. It would then take an act of Congress to employ a couple of commissions and the National Guard to dispose of the rotten eggs. And before they could get proper egg loading machinery, there would be a couple of transportation strikes, and CIO Lewis would argue and growl because he wasn't asked to choose the eggs in the first place.

The Automobile Is Darling But Dangerous

.....says a news commentator and here's what he meant: The Automobile outpaced War as a mass killer in February of this year when its fatality toll exceeded for the first time in history the toll of the nation's military dead since 1775. That's the sorry angle but the other angle is darling. Americans can't get along without the automobile and we intend to keep it. But we must be more careful in its use and keep it insured—just in case!

This is a sample of government efficiency. There wouldn't be a paper shortage if the government would quit wasting mimeograph paper.

No wonder we have crooked politicians. No wonder we have high taxes. All most of us do is just sit around and gripe. No wonder we have a "chigger" commission employed to see if boiled red bugs couldn't be used for red barn paint. And they call this "defense" spending.

All we have to say is this "If there ain't no hell there should be."

Ranger Junior College Radio Broadcast Sat.

Dr. G. C. Boswel, president of Ranger Junior College, will appear with the Junior College Hour, this week. Beamed over three stations, KSTB, Breckenridge; KOKC, Mineral Wells; KSWA, Graham, the weekly broadcasts are being heard over a wide area, by a growing audience.

The program, this week, will include the opening scene from the Comic Opera "Patience," by Gilbert and Sullivan. The chorus of Dragoons and Maidens as they fail to understand each other about this thing called love, concludes, as usual, with the male on the defensive, expressing a derisive point of view. At the conclusion of the opera scene, Dr. Boswell will speak to the radio audience, with emphasis upon the remarks to graduating seniors of high schools in this area.

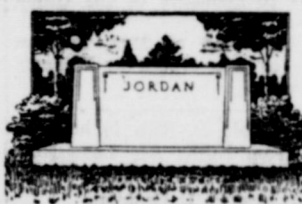

In the absence of Pat Taylor, Jack Hull (Mineral Wells) will

GOOD GRASS AND GOOD LIVESTOCK PAY OFF IN A BIG WAY

Not so many years ago the expression "gone to grass" meant poverty and laziness.

But progressive farmers and ranchers know that putting a portion of the land "back to grass" has paid off in a big way, and will continue to pay off.

A grassland program on many farms has put worn-out plowed land back in the money class. Land that loses under cropping a full plow-depth of topsoil in 30 to 40 years, will not erode that much in 8,000 years when in grass.

You can get a grass program from your County Agent or Soil Conservation Service Technician. Get a grass program started on some of your land.

Want a lot of mileage for your money?

WE'LL admit that the price tags of automobiles—all automobiles—are not what they used to be.

But it's just as true today as ever before that some price tags are lower than others, and some cars cost less to own than others.

So let's see how a Buick SPECIAL fits into the picture.

Take first cost. If you put the price tag of this Buick against price tags of cars that have always been tagged as belonging in "the low-priced field"—you'll find that, in actual dollars, a Buick's surprisingly close to these cars of lesser size and horsepower.

But that's just the beginning.

What you're getting here is Buick quality—this SPECIAL comes down the same assembly line as SUPERS and ROADMASTERS.

Its heft tells you it has extra sturdiness in frame and structure.

Its Fireball Engine delivers extra power. It is an eight, a valve-in-head, with high compression, and the miles you can get from a gallon of gas make it a thrifty performer.

You get Buick's Million Dollar Ride, which protects you—and the car—from jars and jolts.

Even the tires are bigger—which, any tire man will tell you, lengthens their wear.

And if you pay a bit extra for Dynaflo Drive you're easing the strain on the engine, the rear end, the tires—and eliminating clutch repair bills.

So when we talk about "mileage for your money" we're talking about the miles you'll get from your car—including the unused miles that are what you have to sell when you trade it in.

Maybe that's why Buick's doing so well in the present market. Why not come in and see what a great car this is for you?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. Wheel Covers standard on ROADMASTERS, optional at extra cost on other Series. White wheels optional at extra cost when available. *Standard on ROADMASTERS, optional at extra cost on other Series.

"Austrian Aid" New Project Of Texas Club Women, Emphasized

WOTHAM, April 4 (Spl)—Texas clubwomen have adopted Austria for the coming two years. So Mrs. Van Hook Stubbs of Wotham, president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, announced today. This new "Austrian Aid" project will receive major emphasis during the two years of her administration. Plans are for Texas' 1300 clubs to focus all their international relations work on this one country that is saying "No" to neighboring Russia.

"FLEET" STEED FOR ORPHAN—Lieut.-Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commanding general of the Eighth Army in Korea, puts aside stern duties for a moment as he plays "horse" for a Korean orphan. General Van Fleet and other UN officials visited the Columbian Children's Home in Seoul to present $11,000 worth of clothing to the orphanage. It was purchased by chaplains stationed in the Far East, with money donated by members of the Third Army.

and a needy crippled children's hospital in war-ravaged Austria.

Action adopting the Austrian Aid project was voted by the federation's executive committee of elective officers in a recent meeting in Austin. Their hope is that other federation departments—such as fine arts, education, welfare—will co-ordinate their work projects with this major international relations undertaking.

Clubs are urged to arrange an early fall study of Austria to lay a background of understanding for this big TFWC undertaking.

Mrs. Roy Rowntree of Houston is TFWC international relations head. Under her, the district chairmen leading their respective district projects are Mrs. Herman Dawson of Ft. Worth, Mrs. Ann G. Hunter of Dallas, Miss Ilene Westmoreland of Mexia, Mrs. Clay Elliott of New Gulf, Mrs. John D. Cochran of San Antonio, Mrs. James Bennett of San Angelo, Mrs. W. N. Stokes of Amarillo, and Mrs. J. T. "Despite being half occupied by Communists, Austria today is 95 per cent democratic in its learning," Mrs. Stubbs pointed out in stressing the value of help to this particular people at this time. The big Texas project seeks to further the announcement U. S. policy of restoring normal conditions in Austria as soon as possible.

Texas' plans to funnel a whole state's aid into one objective is something new in club work, and is being watched interest by the rest of the General Federation.

District conventions held over the state are endorsing the Austrian Aid project, and choosing which part of the over-all plan will be their own responsibility. Projects already taken on by districts range from aid to displaced persons camps, sending clothing for the needy, providing scholarships for exchange students, and aid to Austria's growing 4-H club movement. Each district will have a separate project.

Texas' junior clubs will all support a "Children's Friendship Fund" to help fifteen orphanages

First Player Signs With Pro Dallas Texans

By United Press
Bob Celeri, fifth ranking passer in the National Football League

last season when the club was the New York Yanks, today became the first Dallas Texan to sign a 1952 contract.

The former California quarterback agreed to terms with general manager and head coach Jimmy Phelan, but neither disclosed the figure involved.

Celeri, who couldn't make the grade with the San Francisco Forty-Niners in 1950 and who almost was turned loose by the Yanks last season, played defensive halfback for two games, then blossomed as an offensive star when he led the Yanks to three quick touchdowns against the Chicago Bears only to lose 24 to 21.

MORE PRECIOUS THAN RUBIES

By Nina Wilcox Putnam
Copyright 1951 by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Tommy Conroy, while on a spree, lost or spent $300 of some money entrusted to him by the jewel firm of Trumbull & Company, where he and his wife Alma are employed. To make up the loss, Alma takes some of her discarded jewelry to a gold-buying firm, but upon arrival she finds the proprietor murdered and lying on the floor is a fancy cut-link, one of a pair she had designed and given to Tommy.

XVII
ALTHOUGH Joe Denton loved her, Alma Conroy knew that he was also the one person who would help her husband Tommy for old time's sake, no matter what he had done. The warmth and strength of Joe's love drew Alma like a magnet. She would go to Joe. She had to.

Then a new terror seized her. Had Joe already left for Mexico? This was the day when he and Mrs. Denton were scheduled to leave. But at what hour? Joe hadn't said. Alma found a phone booth and called his number, impatiently arguing with the operator when told that there was no answer.

There was just a chance that Joe had gone out on some errand. Or that someone at his address would know what train he was taking and she might be able to catch him at the station. It was worth trying. She hailed a taxi and counted the minutes until it drew up in front of the old-fashioned apartment house where he lived.

A man was coming out of the street door just as she arrived and Alma did not have to ring the bell. She ran into the dim hallway and up the stairs, silently calling out Joe's name.

The Dentons had two small apartments across the hall from each other. Joe lived in one and Mrs. Denton directly opposite. This arrangement gave Joe a little privacy after the many hours when he picked up handkerchiefs, opened windows, closed windows, fetched and carried intermingled and devotedly for the old woman even wheeling her about in her chair, although at the shop she propelled it herself with her long, bony hands.

Joe's own apartment was as quiet as his step mother's was tumultuous, and Alma knew the place well, having often been there with Tommy. Now, when there was no answer to her ring, she tried the knob and the door swung open easily.

The living room was dim and seemed shut away from the world with shades drawn and a disused look about it. Two suitcases, locked and strapped stood waiting near the door. Thank goodness, she was in time!

"Joe!" she called softly. "Joe, where are you? It's me, Alma!"

THERE was no reply and after an instant's hesitation she crossed to the bedroom. Here too was the empty, orderly look of a dwelling-place put in shape to await the inhabitant's return. The bathroom door was open, the kitchenette empty. Joe was plainly not there. Perhaps, she thought, he's across the hall in the other apartment?

Always reluctant to encounter Mrs. Denton, Alma first made sure about this by looking in front of the mantelpiece clock where Joe always kept the key to the old lady's rooms. Mrs. Denton, being helpless, liked to keep her door locked all the time.

Joe's key was there, in its usual place, so it was apparent that he had just stepped out on some last-minute business and would probably be back almost immediately. Alma devoutly hoped that he would be alone. She settled down to wait, trying to calm her shattered nerves by reading. But after a scant effort she had thrown the magazine aside and was pacing the room with quick, painful steps, keeping time unconsciously to the ticking of the clock.

Five minutes dragged by. Then ten, twelve, fifteen! Would Joe never come back? What on earth could he be doing that took him so long? Finally, her patience at an end, her nerves tingling intolerably, she decided to go across the hall and ask Mrs. Denton if she knew where Joe was and when he would be likely to be back. Picking up the key from the mantelpiece she crossed the thickly carpeted public hallway to the opposite door.

WHY she did not knock or ring before using the key Alma never could remember afterwards. But she did neither. The key worked noiselessly and in another instant the door swung open and the words of greeting she had been about to utter froze on Alma's lips.

For across the shallow, dark little foyer she could see into the living room where Mrs. Denton, standing erect and unsupported, was busily packing a suitcase like any normal person. Then, hearing some faint sound Alma must have made, the woman took three or four quick steps back to her wheelchair and when she was seated in it, called out sharply.

"Who's that?"

Instead of answering Alma closed the door hastily and fled down the stairs in a panic. The dark, old-fashioned house had become stifling, filled with an undefinable menace which centered about the now more than ever sinister figure of Mrs. Denton. It was a relief to get out into the street and Alma did not slow her pace until she reached the corner.

For the moment the errand on which Alma had come was forgotten in the shock of what she had just seen.

So Mrs. Denton wasn't a cripple. She was as active as Alma herself! How long had she been cured, and why had she concealed the fact? Small, apparently disconnected incidents began to piece themselves together, forming a pattern in Alma's mind which grew momentarily more clear.

Senator Russell A Party Leader, Opinion Of Byrd

The withdrawal of the President enhances the opportunity for Senator Russell to obtain the Democratic nomination.

As of today he has more Convention strength than any other aspirant.

Senator Russell's ability and integrity, and his wide experience in governmental affairs put him in the forefront of those seeking the nomination.

But, the platform of the 1952 Convention is of paramount importance. If Dick Russell is nominated on a strong platform of traditional Democratic principles—including reaffirmation of States Rights (which were dealt a heavy blow in the National Democratic Convention of 1948); strict economy and efficiency; and opposition to centralization of power in the Federal Government and the current trend toward socialism—he would make a very appealing candidate to all sections of the country, and a great President.
