

County Gives Eisenhower 1,020 Vote Majority

25 Of County's 26 Voting Boxes Are Complete

Tabulation of a total of 354 absentee ballots cast in Eastland County for the 1952 general election showed a lion's share—258—were marked for Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower. Unsuccessful presidential aspirant Adlai Stevenson polled a lesser 96, returns showed.

Newspaper tabulations at noon Thursday—with 25 of Eastland County's 26 precincts reported complete at Eastland—show that the Republican candidate holds a 1,020-vote lead over the defeated Democrat.

Gorman's precinct 13 returns gave Eisenhower a total of 397 to Stevenson's lesser 245, a net Romney (precinct 20) gave Ike a 5-vote margin—22 to 17.

Early this morning no report had yet been received from precinct 17—Nimrod. Returns from that box, however, will make little change in the county totals.

Eastland Countians voted Republican for the first time in history during Tuesday's general election. The state, however, also went to the GOP presidential candidate to aid in Ike's landslide victory.

Around The Square

Quite naturally we are happy today. The election of yesterday has given us new hope, and we are assured that America is awake, and that Americans know what to do when "something has to be done."

Yes, the Eisenhower "landslide" is the one thing we have really been praying for, and while victory has brought us great joy, we shall continue to pray that the new president, or should we say the President-elect, will live and enjoy good health which will make it possible to fulfill his campaign promises.

We believe in Ike Eisenhower, and feel confident that his promises were not made on the spur of the moment—that he is a good and honorable man, a man of his word, and that he will endeavor at all times to do just those things that are right.

This campaign has been hotly contested, at times reaching the point of bitterness. But for the most part this is not to be charged to either of the candidates, but to that little man from Missouri, who fought so desperately to continue in the capacity of "ruler." And while he may not know it, and if he did, would not admit it, many of the votes in the great Eisenhower landslide, were not necessarily voted "for" Eisenhower, but rather were votes "against" Harry Truman.

He is the man who admitted that he was "running the show"—most likely into the ground.

But with all his shortcomings we shall try to forget him, as well as many of his sordid official acts. We now have a cure for the wounds he has inflicted, though the scars will remain forever.

While we feel that Eisenhower is the ideal man for the job at this time, we must in all fairness, state that some sorrow penetrated our heart when we heard Mr. Stevenson concede the election to his opponent. This was done when his eyes were filled with tears—tears of disappointment and regret. We have opposed his candidacy, but respect him as a man.

When Ike came forward to offer thanks to his friends and supporters, he came as a man of meekness. He assured all America that he was ready to serve this nation. He was not boastful, nor did he gloat over victory, but rather very calmly stated facts, with the result that no boisterous demonstration followed. It was an unusually quiet hour, though America was celebrating one of the greatest victories in her history. Thousands joined in and sang "God Bless America" and kindred anthems. Then all was quiet. America was thankful, for a great leader had been chosen. And those of us who have aided in such selections for almost half a century, bowed our heads in humble submission, while all the tears and scars of a thousand years passed through our souls.

We have seen the good and the bad, the wise and the unwise, but when we lifted our eyes again and beheld our new leader, we realized that God still lives and all is well.

Yes, we will have our troubles and our dark days. We will have our recessions and depressions, but so long as our leaders invoke the power of Deity, we may expect aid from on high.

EHSers Prep For 7A Home Contest Friday

Coach Ed Hooker's Eastland High Mavericks are slightly favorites in their District 7A clash with Wylie High at Maverick Stadium in Eastland tonight.

Opening kickoff for the conference encounter is 7:30 p.m., and a good crowd is anticipated to fill the stadium.

Following their stunning 33-0 humbling by the DeLeon Bears here last week, the spirit of Coach Hooker's Red & Black charges was at a fairly low ebb the first of the week, but the pitch of fervor heightened considerably as daily drill sessions prepped the EHS squad for their eighth contest of the year against the Wylie machine.

The Eastland squad, badly battered after the DeLeon tilt, appeared to be mending fast.

This afternoon out at the Maverick Stadium the Red & Black Mavericks will be smoothed through a light drill preparatory to their rugged chores of 24 hours hence.

Wylie has a farm from impressive record and spots authorities, including Fred Sner of the Abilene Reporter-News, rate the Eastland's favorites in tomorrow night's tussle by a one-touchdown margin.

The Mavericks have a won three lost four record thus far. They've dropped duels to Cisco, Coleman, Ranger and DeLeon. And they hold victories over Rising Star, Cross Plains and Santa Anna—all District 7A opponents.

Next week the Red & Black will make its final home appearance of the 1952 grid season against Bangs.

A week later comes the windup game of the fall campaign—a District 7A clash with Dublin at Dublin.

New Corporation To Be Opened In County Soon

Ambitious plans for what may develop into a multi-million dollar industry for Eastland County—a new manufacturing enterprise which will engage in production of a revolutionary mechanical device—were disclosed at noon today by Joe Lawrence, retired oil man of Olden.

Mr. Lawrence is expected to head the new corporation, which is expected to be formally organized and chartered shortly.

Formation of the new industrial enterprise which may gradually grow to employ as many as 500 workers within the next few years is the result of a unique invention of Mr. Lawrence—a new type mechanical overdrive which is expected to take the county by storm.

Associated with Lawrence in the new corporation will be Sam M. Sharp and R. U. Wise, New York capitalists, who have been disclosed as financiers of the project.

Sharp and Wise were in Olden this morning looking over proposed sites for the plant.

Although initial activity of the corporation will be confined to Eastland County and a close surrounding area, founders of the enterprise assert that future developments may make it necessary for vast expansion to meet a South-west-wide demand.

Announcement of the new Olden plant, Mr. Lawrence told reporters today, hinged on the outcome of Tuesday's important general election.

The pioneer oil man revealed that he had been engaged in secret experimentation and research for some time on the sensational new mechanical device to be manufactured in the new factory—an overdrive for jackrabbits

Studebaker's 100 Year History One Of Distinction

The spirit of pride in good work, of turning out a fine product, a heritage of the craftsmen and artisans of earlier years, still lives in these days of mass production, according to Mr. Warren who cites as his own company, The Studebaker Corporation, as an example.

"It lives in our company," he said, "because of a practice that goes back over one hundred years to the five founding Studebaker brothers themselves. In the beginning, the brothers encouraged fathers to bring their sons into the company, which, before the automobile, was making wagons, carriages, buggies and other horse drawn vehicles.

"These fathers and sons developed a pride in being a part of Studebaker, and the company was equally proud of them. Generation handed to generation the spirit and special talents of craftsmanship.

manhood. How well this practice has been followed is demonstrated by a census taken this year—our hundredth year—of the employees of South Bend, Ind., where Studebakers are made.

"The census shows that about one out of every three of the nearly 20,000 employees who build our motor car are members of 'father-son teams'. In addition the census showed more than a thousand teams of brothers, ranging from teams of two brothers up to one team of eight. Families with six or more members working at Studebaker are numerous. There are grandfather-son-and-grandson teams, as well as sister teams, father-daughter teams and mother-daughter teams."

Mr. Warren pointed out that family teams have always been an important part of the Studebaker story and have contributed much toward the company's fine name for craftsmanship. "As long as a half century ago," he said, "Studebaker advertisements contained such statements as 'father and son, through generations of workmen, have striven to shape perfect wood and steel into vehicles, combining elegance of design with durability.'"

STILL IN GOOD SHAPE
HAMMOND, N. Y. (UP) — Norris and Fred Soier took their 1905 Franklin automobile for a spin through town and reported: "Leather upholstery and original floor mats in good condition; tools which came with car still intact in running board tool box; plenty of head room; still a pleasure to drive."
FIRE CHIEF ONLY 23
NORTHFIELD, Mass. (UP) — Northfield's new fire chief is one of the nation's youngest. Dwight Stearns, 23, was appointed chief by the selectmen after serving four years in the department.

OBESITY INCREASING NATIONAL PROBLEM, EXPERTS DECLARE

Overweight not only shortens life but it may also handicap the individual socially, economically and psychologically, according to statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. The adverse effects of overweight on health begin to be evident in the earlier years of life, but they show up more and more as the individual moves along in life.
The fat girl is often the wall-flower and is usually less popular as a "date." As she gets older her chances for marriage are less than for her thinner rivals.
Fat persons of both sexes are handicapped in finding jobs, either through self-consciousness or because employers prefer applicants of normal weight.
Even the overweight adult may not be the jolly individual he is usually pictured. His weight is sometimes a reflection of his feeling of inadequacy and an inclination to obtain pleasure from eating rather than normal social intercourse.
Severe as the personality handicaps may be, the major penalty of overweight is its effect on health. The list of diseases brought on or made worse by overweight is a long one.
Overweights suffer more frequently and earlier from the major chronic conditions than do persons of normal weight. An example is hypertension, or high blood pressure. A study of Metropolitan home office employees showed that at ages 35 to 44, the percentage with high blood pressure was 26 for persons of heavy build, 15 for the medium and 9 for the light build. At ages 45 to 54 the percentages were 45, 31, and 20.
Diabetes is the most striking penalty of overweight. A study of thousands of diabetic patients at the George F. Baker Clinic showed that among those whose disease began at ages past 40, 85 percent previously had been overweight in some degree, and 60 percent had been markedly overweight.
The common adage about gallstones — "Fair, Fat and Forty" — holds true, the statisticians pointed out, except that a dark complexion is no protection. Records of the Metropolitan show that more than half the women and about two fifths of the men accepted for insurance with a history of gallstones are considerably overweight.
Hernia is still another hazard. Among industrial workers it is about twice as common among overweights than in underweights. Fat women have more complications in pregnancy, and overweight persons are poorer surgical risks than normal persons.

On Halloween in 1517, Martin Luther nailed his famous protest to the door of the castle church in Wittenburg, Germany, and opened the Protestant Reformation.

Rheumatic diseases, asthma and bronchitis are made worse by overweight.

"The solution of the problem of overweight, which is now so important in the national health picture, is not easy," the statisticians added, "although the principle involved is simple—namely, cutting down the amount of food consumed by fat people. The major difficulty lies in the fundamental psychological factors behind overeating. Fortunately, increased attention is being given by physicians and health educators to this aspect of the problem, and new methods, such as group therapy, are being developed and tested which aim at helping overweights obtain insight into the underlying cause of their condition. Once this is accomplished, the chances are better for obtaining the patient's cooperation in sustained efforts to bring and keep his weight down."

Yes, we are happy today, for we can now see a United America—the America with 160 million souls, and guided by that Father which is in Heaven, we feel that we shall conquer through Him who loved us, Communism, Socialism and other isms notwithstanding. GREAT NEWS! NEW SYRUP BIG HIT!

New BRER RABBIT reminds "Old-Timers" of Real Ribbon Cane Flavor!

FORT WORTH... Is there an "old-timer" in your family who is always harking back to the wonderful syrup folks enjoyed in the "good old days"? The kind made from Ribbon Cane—with a flavor that was simply glorious? Today that marvelous "old-time" flavor is here again!

Cane grower enthusiastic!

MR. VICTOR WINTZ, Annandale Plantation, White Castle, La., shown with Mrs. Wintz and their three attractive little daughters. The Wintz family has lived in the South for many years. They know sugar cane! They know syrup! They think the new Brer Rabbit Syrup is the best yet!

IN STORE TESTS... folks who tasted, praised its flavor

DALLAS: "Taste this new syrup, ma'am—and say how you like it!"
"Mild and not too strong." "Best flavor!" "Tastes just right." "M-m-m, say, I like this Brer Rabbit."
"This tastes like real old-time syrup."
"Tastes like country syrup."
So said folks who tried the new Brer Rabbit. And your family will say the same! This new, lighter, milder flavor, sweet but not too sweet—can bring new pleasure to your table, three times a day. Try Brer Rabbit, why don't you—first time you're in the store?

Did they like the new Brer Rabbit "better than the syrup they were now using?"
Again the chorus was a resounding "Yes!" Almost 7 times as many said "Yes" as said "No!" Even people who have used Brer Rabbit Syrup for years liked this new Brer Rabbit even better!

People said things like this in Houston:
"Sweet enough but not too sweet—has a new taste."
"Would be fine on waffles."

In syrup it's the Flavor that counts

"Everybody in this sugar cane country knows it takes the right sugar cane to get that old-time ribbon cane flavor," says Mr. S. K. Hays of Edom, Texas. "The new Brer Rabbit Syrup reminds me of the sugar mill days when I was a boy. And in syrup, it's the flavor that counts!"
There are many syrups on the market but there's only one way to judge them—and that's on flavor. You'll find some have a strong taste, others an over-sweet taste. But Brer Rabbit—well, there's a syrup that tastes just right. And Brer Rabbit makes pancakes, waffles, hot biscuits and corn bread better than ever before.

Local stores now stocking new flavor
Your grocer now has the new improved, lighter Brer Rabbit Syrup packed under the old familiar Brer Rabbit label.
DEALERS: To meet the demand for this new syrup, write Penick & Ford Ltd., Inc., New Orleans 7, La.

Makes Corn Bread a New Treat!
Your fine corn bread will win new praise, once folks taste it with new Brer Rabbit Syrup. It's sweet, but not too sweet. A light, mild syrup that makes hot breads, pancakes and waffles taste just perfect!

GOOD HEALTH

Answer to Question No. 1
Almost all women must work during pregnancy — either at every-day household chores or in business. Work during pregnancy is advisable, if not too strenuous, since it helps keep the mother's mind occupied. Her physician will advise her on the kind and extent of work she can perform with safety.

Answer to Question No. 2:
Scarlet fever was once the cause of thousands of childhood deaths in the United States, but has been brought under control to the extent that today the disease is responsible for fewer than 70 deaths annually. In fact, the number of deaths from scarlet fever has been reduced more sharply than those from any of the other principal communicable diseases of childhood. The development and widespread use of modern drugs have greatly reduced the death rate.

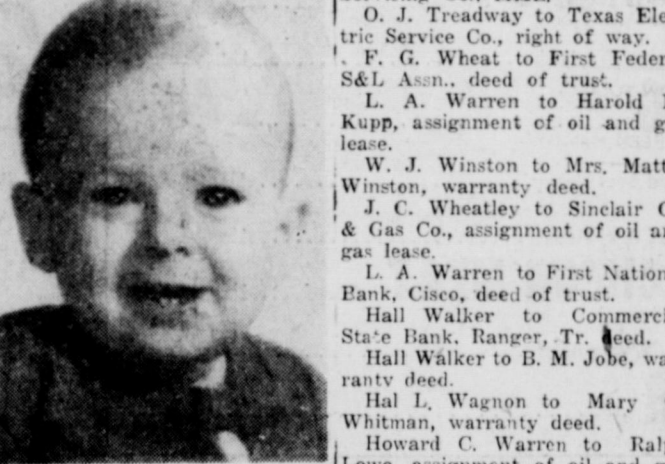

Answer to Question No. 3:
Everybody has a temperature. In humans, normal temperature is 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit. A person has fever when the temperature of his body goes above normal. Fevers are an indication that the body is working to combat some illness. High temperatures can be a sign of serious illness. Medical advice should always be prompt in such cases. according to the Director of Conservation Education and Department Publications for the Game and Fish Commission, is being expressed through the great number of requests for literature each month and the demand for consultants to interpret technical information to the classroom.

"Within another generation," he said, "at least a greater number of the persons sharing in the wildlife harvest will understand how wildlife populations are produced and maintained, and as a result will have a conservation attitude toward natural resources and practice desirable habits in relation to their use.

The director said the trend toward recognizing the importance of conserving natural resources has been marked by a tremendous response by school administrators and teachers in all areas of learning and in all stages of curriculum development.

"We are producing and distributing wildlife literature and providing consultant services in the technical field of conservation education," he said. It is a constantly changing picture since there is yet a wide variety of opinions as to best procedures for educating the young in this important subject.

"But it is a universal effort. Approaches to this vital subject are being developed in many languages. The zeal with which the challenge is being accepted is much the same in other states, in Europe, in Africa, South America and Asia as it is in Texas. The human race is fast becoming cognizant of the continuous depletion of natural resources generally; all are aware of the problem posed by the uptrend in population and the difficulty of harmonizing social progress with production from the land and the other natural resources.

An Intelligent Woman Can Be Beautiful, Too

A woman does not have to have beautiful features provided that she has an "inner glow," claims John Robert Powers, the man who made "Powers mode" synonymous with glamor. "Inner glow," says Powers in a recent interview, is the difference between a girl with beautiful features and a girl with beauty.

Asked who would notice the "inner glow" if the outer facade was unattractive, Powers replied, "But why should it be? If a woman has 'inner glow' she is intelligent. If she is intelligent, she will not have the slightest difficulty in acquiring outer beauty."

First, stop treating your body as if you thought it unattractive. Take your head out of your shoulders, your shoulders out of your waist, your waist out of your hips; stand tall. Back up to a wall in sight of a full-length mirror. When you've attained the proper posture you'll find that your hand will just barely fit between the small of your back and the wall—your hips are tucked under, your head is straight and high, and you look all of one piece.

Next, try the model's stance, that "twist" that puts curve and perspective to work in showing the body to its best advantage. Drop your weight onto the ball of your right foot, pointing that foot slightly to the right side; relax your left knee and tuck your left heel into the instep of your right foot, at about a 45-degree angle so the forward (left) foot points straight ahead. Now—turn your hips to the right until they present their slimmest angle. Turn your shoulders toward the front, not full but enough to play up the curve of the breast. Tilt the top of your head back just a little so that your neck is not accor-dion-pleated.

Whenever possible, says John Robert Powers, a woman should arrange herself in curves rather than in angles. If fashion models seem to ignore that rule, don't forget that they are selling clothes where the average woman is selling herself. Models take un-gainly poses to call attention to the merchandise they display.

There is one item of beauty paraphernalia that most women overlook, concludes Powers, and that's a rear view mirror. A lot of women put up a good front, forgetting that because of the "ladies first" rule, men see a good deal of the feminine back. A good long look at your back before you go forward is a beauty "must."

Special track-laying trains with powerful machinery are employed on British railways to repair damage quickly or replace broken parts with 60-foot lengths, already assembled.

Larry Parks Making Good After Admitting He Was A Communist

HOLLYWOOD — Larry Parks, who courted theatrical ruin by admitting he once was a Communist, is working hard to rebuild his career, and he thinks his troubles may turn out to be a valuable experience.

The soft-spoken actor was one of the top young stars in Hollywood when he walked into a congressional hearing last year and confessed that he belonged to the Communist party from 1941 to 1945.

When he walked out, he didn't even have a job. A lot of people in filmland expected him and his actress-wife Betty Garrett to drop out of sight after the roof caved in on them, but Parks, who re-created the life of the late Al Jolson on the screen, never lost faith that audiences would forgive his mistake.

Went On Summer Tour And now he's convinced that he was right.

He jacked up his courage and went out to face the public in vaudeville and summer stock with his wife. Their act was a hit, and recently they played at a swank hotel-casino in Las Vegas. "I was scared to death, but it was wonderful," Parks said. "The place was sold out every night, which always makes an actor very happy."

Next on the Parks' agenda is a play "Anonymous Lover," in which they will co-star. They're putting up their own money to produce the show, which will open in Rochester, N.Y., next month.

Broadened His Scope Parks said that being dropped by his studio and forced to turn to the stage has broadened his scope as a performer.

"I'm so pleased that I've been forced to do things I never would have done if I'd stayed in pictures. From a professional standpoint, I feel that I've made a lot of progress. I'm doing the kind of things I always wanted to do but otherwise never would have done."

No audience has tried to throw Parks' past back in his face, which makes his future look much brighter than it did a year ago. But he's keeping his fingers crossed. "Who knows what the future holds," he said.
