WTCC OFFERS SUGGESTIONS FOR CHANGES IN INTERNAL REVENUE TAX PROCEDURE

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has offered to pass along to the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation the suggestions of business men, farmers and wage earners for changes in the Internal Revenue Code.

A WTCC bulletin just issued invites suggestions for changes in specific provisions of the laws applying to individual and corporate income taxes.

Examples of individual income tax problems anticipated in the bulletin by James F. Melton, WTCC taxation and legislation manager, include the following:

Difficulty with definition of dependent.
Whether the head-of-household provision solves the problem of single individuals with dependents.
Desirability of allowing for expense of child care and supervision in cases where the father and mother or widowed father or mother are working.

Tax treatment of board and lodging; whether the present application of the "convenience of the employer" rule furnishes an appropriate and workable test of taxability.

Whether it would be better with married people, to have a separate rate schedule instead of requiring them to split their incomes.

Experience with the present practice of permitting deductions by employees for work clothing and travel or entertainment expenses.

Difficulties with the present treatment of capital gains and losses.

Simplification of the present method of taxing estates and trusts.

Revision of the method of taxing partnerships and the reporting of partnership profits by individual partners.

Whether the present rule for treatment of pensions and annuities is operating fairly.

Any suggestions for providing individual incentive devices such as treatment of gain from sale of patents in hands of inventor, expenses incurred by a taxpayer for advanced study and training in his occupational field, profit-sharing plans, bonuses and overall rate limitation.

Corporate and other business tax problems the bulletin lists as likely to be confronting many taxpayers include these:

Section 192 surtax on improper accumulation of surplus; possible limitation upon the area of application of tax, burden of proof, treatment of dividends paid shortly after close of the taxable year.
Penalty and taxes imposed with respect to consolidated returns and intercorporate dividends; compulsory consolidation of returns for closely affiliated corporations; elective consolidation of returns for SINK SEQUEL—Lt. (JG) Carl B. Austin, who dropped everything, including a kitchen sink, on Pyongyang while on Korean duty, finds that grateful Stateside plumbers remembered his gesture. Alameda County plumbers and machinists presented him with a brand-new piece of plumbing upon his arrival in San Francisco aboard the carrier USS Princeton. Lieutenant Austin's wife, Peggy, and their daughter, Jacqueline, help him carry the trophy.

Prepare Home Against Cold Weather Due

The recent "cold-snaps" are the forerunners of more severe weather to come. It is just good management, says W. S. Allen, agricultural engineer for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, to do now the maintenance and repair jobs around the home and farmstead that will make for more comfort and safer living this winter.

Check the floor furnace burners, controls and plumbing before lighting it, says Allen, to make sure there is no escaping gas to cause an explosion. Do the same for gas heaters and vent them if possible. Vents will eliminate the problem of moisture condensing on the walls and furniture. Check the fireplace and chimney for loose mortar or cracks and if repairs are needed, make them before the first fire is started.

Insulation will make the house warmer this winter, cooler next summer and will cut the winter heating bill, says Allen.

The gutters and down spouts should be checked to make sure that leaves, trash and dirt are not blocking them. If they are clogged, damages can result from water spilling over or from seepage on both the inside and outside of the house. If the roof of the home or other farm buildings needs repairing, the job should be done now, Allen points out that nails in metal roofs will become loose in hot weather and may even come out and he suggests a careful check be made on this item. A coat of asphalt roofing cement will usually take care of the leaks in the roof that have resulted from cracks or small holes.

the state for many months, but the specialist says he is sure that water drains away from instead of under farm buildings. Freezing can cause the foundations to heave or crack and this means a big repair job later.

Plows and other implements that will not be used until spring should be given a good cleaning and a coat of rust preventative, says Allen. Machinery, if it must be let standing out during the winter, should be winterproofed. Tractors and other motors should be given special care. Drain the radiators, remove the batteries and place covers over exhaust pipes and other openings that can catch moisture.

Stock Show Parade Plans Being Mapped

Plans are being made for the all-Western parade which traditionally signals the opening of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show at Fort Worth, Ernest Allen, vice president of the show, announced today. Allen, for many years parade marshal, will again serve in that capacity. Route of the parade will be somewhat different due to the

Canine Parachuter To Leap No More

FORT BRAGG, N.C. — "Sgt. Bode," the parachuting cocker spaniel, has hit the silk for the last time.

The black-haired, five-year-old veteran of 16 jumps became a "straight-legger" (non-jumper) when his master, Sfc. Hubert Huth, left the 505th airborne infantry regiment for assignment in a land-locked transportation battalion of the 18th airborne corps. "Sgt. Bode" became a national celebrity in 1949 when he made his first jump after first undergoing extensive pre-jump training.

"I made sure he was ready," said Sgt. Huth. "I gave him wind sprints, taught him to leap from low heights at the command 'go!' and finally worked him up to the 54-foot jump tower. When we started he wouldn't budge off the barracks' steps but after six months he would have tackled the Empire State Building."

terrific toll of agricultural and livestock income. This was especially so during the past year. Eastland County agriculture waveringly weathered one of the most disastrous crop years in history, thus drastically affecting the general prosperity of the region as a whole.

Helping absorb the jarring shock of the drought and its battering blows to agricultural industry during the past year, however, were scores of sizeable industrial payrolls.
Thus, this stabilizing influence aided Eastland County in weathering the drought's 1952 financial storm.
Brightening the county's outlook for the year ahead, also, is the belief that a change in the national administration will be conducive to encouraging business and industrial activity in this area and over the nation.

According to Fred F. Florence, president of the Republic National Bank of Dallas and chairman of the Credit Policy Commission of the American Bankers Assn., "a feeling of optimism and confidence in the future prevails. Bankers anticipate constructive adjustments by the new administration in the interest of the economy. It is recognized that some industries, because of overexpansion, may be more affected by such adjustments than others."
Florence warned that "the first six months of 1953 should be marked by unusual alertness and caution on the part of businessmen in preparing for changes in governmental, foreign and domestic policies, and economic trends affecting their operations. Generally, however, a continuation of the present level of business activity, principally supported by defense spending, is expected."

The survey was made among banks representative of all sizes of communities and business environment to obtain the opinion of bankers as to the existing conditions and future trends affecting the extension of bank credit. The detailed information obtained from participating banks will be the basis for discussions at the National Credit Conference to be held under the auspices of the commission in Chicago, Jan. 26-28.

Nation's Bankers See Prosperous Months Ahead

During the first six months of 1953, bankers expect that competition will be tremendously increased. The possibility of the stretching out of defense orders will force some business classifications with enlarged productive capacity to seek new civilian markets for their products. However, bankers report that inventories of manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers generally are in balance at this time; and there are indications of understocking in some areas.

This is particularly true of steel stocks which were consumed during the work stoppage of the summer and which have not as yet been replaced.
Inventories in other lines held by wholesalers and retailers have been worked down due to the general belief that sufficient supplies are available.

It is the opinion of the majority of bankers responding to the survey that there will be some decrease in housing construction during the first six months of 1953; and in some areas a saturation point is being reached on residential housing.
The majority of those reporting forecast a decrease in construction other than housing. This is predicted on the belief that the defense production expansion program is nearing completion.

However, the over-all decline in construction will be offset in part in some cases by such developments as the steel mills and industrial plants building in the Philadelphia area and the atomic energy program in Southern Ohio.
A divided opinion among bankers exists as to what change, if any, will take place in the volume of bank loans during the first six months of 1953. Approximately 30 per cent of those reporting believe that there will be an increase in bank lending while the same percentage anticipates a decline. About 40 per cent see no appreciable change in volume.

Factors taken into consideration for an expected increase in bank loans were continuing expenditures already committed in the defense program, the accelerated increase in tax payments, a continuing increase in consumer credit outstanding, and unfavorable weather conditions in certain areas which will necessitate large credit requirements by farmers.

Bankers who anticipate a decline in credit outstandings report that recent borrowings have been seasonal and will be liquidated shortly after the first of the year. Much recent financing has been for the processing and movement of crops to market and the normal build up of inventories by stores for the Christmas season.

GOV. SHIVERS URGES DRIVERS TO EXERCISE COURTESY TO CURB AUTO ACCIDENT TOLL

Governor Allan Shivers has designated January as Hand Signal Month in Texas to forward his contention that "courtesy at the wheel is a potent weapon in the war against death and destruction on our streets and highways." In his official memorandum of designation, Governor Shivers urges drivers to cooperate in the campaign which has for its theme: "Right turn—hand up. Left turn—hand out. Slow or stop—hand down."

This is second consecutive January that Gov. Shivers has applied the hand signal project to his continuing state-wide program on traffic safety education. Sponsored by the Texas Safety Association, Inc., it is patterned after the hand signal campaign conducted jointly each year in Dallas by the Citizens Traffic Commission and the Dallas Civitan Club.

"Courtesy in an automobile," said Shivers, "is more important than in the drawing room. If all drivers were courteous while at the wheel, our traffic toll would be tremendously reduced. One of the most obvious and helpful displays of driving courtesy is the conscientious use of hand signals. Proper hand signals not only protect other drivers from one's own action, but the signaler himself from the mistakes of others."

"And it has been said, with justification, that the habitual use of hand signals almost automatically makes a driver courteous-conscious of other aspects of traffic safety. It adds up to another highly important weapon in the war against death and destruction on our streets and highways."

The Governor recognized the necessity and effectiveness of State and municipal laws and law enforcement agencies, education programs of various kinds and advanced highway engineering in

"our never-ending war against traffic accidents."
"But," he emphasized, "the finger always swings back to the individual driver. With certain limits, he is the master of his own fate—and that of others. He is a safe driver or a dangerous driver, depending upon his equipment, his skill, his carelessness or his courtesy. More courtesy in traffic makes for more safety in traffic."

The January hand signal project will be promoted through press, radio and television facilities throughout Texas. It is directed by J. O. Musick, General Manager of the Texas Safety Association, and Weldon Hart of Governor Shivers' executive staff, both of Austin, and Bruce Cunningham of Dallas, representing the Dallas Civitan Club and the Citizens Traffic Commission of Dallas.

Highlight of the anniversary year will be dedication of the company's $50,000,000 Engineering and Research Center in Dearborn, Mich. The ceremony is set for June 16, date of the company's incorporation in 1903. It will be followed by a state dinner to be attended by several hundred national figures.

On the same day, local company officials, Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealers and their wives will attend anniversary banquets in 33 United States cities in which Ford maintains plants, parts depots, and sales offices.

A pictorial book, "Ford at Fifty," will be published by Simon and Schuster in April. A portrait of an industrial enterprise taken in its 50th year, the book graphically depicts the American environment and the people who make possible the growth and success of such an institution.

Approximately 500,000 copies of the book will be produced. Each of Ford's 160,000 employees will receive one. The publication was edited by Joseph J. Thorndike, Jr., formerly managing editor of "Life," and was written by Joe McCarthy, former editor of "Cosmopolitan." Pictures for the book were taken by several noted photographers including Philippe Halzeman, "Life" cover photographer.

Theme of the anniversary, "Fifty Years Forward on the American Road," will be featured in a two-hour television show and an hour-long radio broadcast the evening of June 15.

The telecast will be carried on two major networks. The show will be produced by Leland Hayward, who presented such Broadway hits as "South Pacific" and "Mr. Roberts." The recorded radio program, to be aired on one major network, will be adapted from the television show.

The Ford Archives, largest institution of its type in industry, will be dedicated early in May. Some of the country's leading scholars, archivists, and historians are expected to attend the ceremony.

A motion picture, which centers around the anniversary theme, will be premiered in Dearborn during May. The first audience will be composed of top members of Ford's management and their wives.

The Rotunda, the world's largest privately-owned industrial display building, will be reopened as a public showplace around June 1. It was converted to an office building during World War II. Theme of its exhibit will be "Progressive Research and Engineering."

United States dealers will hold open-house programs for the public in June. Employees and their families will participate in "birthday party" events in the Detroit area and all branch locations in July and August.

In late 1953, the initial volume of an official Ford history will appear. Tentatively titled, "The Rise of Henry Ford," the publication will cover the period from 1866 to 1920. Author is Allan Nevins, twice a Pulitzer prize winner for biography. Mr. Nevins will write several more detailed volumes dealing with the life of Henry Ford and history of Ford Motor Company during the next three years.

The "Ford Times" and "Lincoln-Mercury Times," company magazines, will feature the anniversary in their June editions.

Approximately 2,000,000 anniversary calendars, featuring seven Norman Rockwell illustrations, were distributed in December. All Ford employees received copies. Ford's world-wide dealership organization distributed approximately 1,750,000 of the calendars, which were printed in seven languages.
