COOL RAINS DRENCH COUNTY AREA

Graduate students will be in the majority when 190 Harsin-Simmons University students receive degrees in the summer commencement, at Abilene, on Aug. 24. Commencement will be on the H-SU campus at 8:00 p.m.

Eastland county people are going to be interested, for no less than 13 of these graduates give Eastland county as their home address. This group includes Mary Adams Claborn, Rising Star; J. Weldon Bailey, Rising Star; Miriam S. Bledsoe, Cisco; Dorothy N. Shook, Rising Star; Dora Fay Brewer, Carbon; Mrs. Bernice S. Carter, Cisco; Flora B. Singleton, Desdemona; Bryan L. Butler, Carbon; Donald Lewis Kinnaid, Eastland; Donald L. Norris, Ranger; Patricia Ann Grist, Cisco; Carlos R. Martinez, Ranger, and James Durwood Smith, Cisco.

This may not be a record of any kind, but it does show that Eastland county citizens are not neglecting higher education. This speaks well for the county as a whole and the graduates individually.

And while we are speaking on the subject of schools, let us hope that every eligible child in Texas will answer roll-call at one of our Texas public schools on the opening day. We have a compulsory education law, but we are not positive that it works in all the individual cases.

There are times when children are kept away from school on account of employment. Conditions are not the same in all cases, but no child should be deprived of an education. We have free schools and free books, and we should see to it that every child has an opportunity to attend.

Ten minutes ago we were interrupted by Kenneth E. Davis, regional director for the USO. It is his duty to further the interests of Community Chests, but he faded out after we told him that we did not have a community chest.

We explained that we had made an effort to, interest people of Eastland in such, but that to date nothing definite has been done. However, please remember this: Next year when you are asked to leave your work and walk streets for six or eight weeks on some fund soliciting committee or committees, just know you could have avoided the punishment had we organized a chest.

It's not too late even now, if people will get busy.

No one, not even Puerto Ricans, can say precisely what makes Puerto Rican rum a favorite throughout the world. However, the island's government proposes to find out. So far as we are concerned it is just another drink capable of producing drunkenness. We doubt if anyone really likes stuff, but many consume it because of its power to "make them what they ain't."

Now comes the report that our Arkansas friends are developing a new breed of chickens. The breed with short meaty legs, and a thick wide breast, reaches the three-pound weight quicker and with less feed, than other normal fowls.

The new chicken, a true breed that will reproduce itself, was developed from a cross of White Cornish, Red Cornish, New Hampshire and White Rocks. It is called the Arkansas White Cornish Cross. Arkansawyers admit the bird is a good one, however, they failed to tell us whether the hens lay eggs or not.

Morton Valley Revival Is To Begin Friday

Cooler Today—But Warmup Due Thursday

Mostly cloudy skies and scattered showers.

That was the U. S. Weather Bureau's forecast for the Eastland County vicinity for Wednesday and Thursday.

Fairly cool 90 or slightly under temperatures were predicted as the maximum level for this afternoon. Tonight's low is slated for near 75 degrees.

Thursday, however, it's due to warm up, and the day's maximum mercury reading will be between 95 and 100 degrees.

For North Central and West Texas: Considerable cloudiness with scattered showers and thundershowers Wednesday and Thursday. No important temperature changes.

624 Families Aided During Year—

Annual Reports Of ARC Workers Given

A review of the past year's operations of the Eastland County chapter of the American Red Cross was presented by committee chairmen during the annual meeting of the county ARC unit held in Eastland at the office of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, Aug. 12.

Mrs. E. E. Freyschlag, county chapter leader, presided. During the past 12 months, according to a report presented at the session, a total of 624 families were assisted by the American Red Cross under the direction of Rev. Otto Marshall, chairman of the home service committee. Of this number, there were 274 families requiring extensive case work. The total cost of this program amounted to $2,527.97.

Mrs. John Love, fund campaign chairman, reported that the quota for the past year was $7,194 and that to date a total of $6,770.91 has been raised.

Mrs. Charles Sandler, blood program chairman of Cisco, stated that the quota of 718 pints of blood had almost been reached. A total of 708 pints were donated by the people of Eastland County.

Mrs. Bill Tucker, home nursing chairman, reported that the chapter now has three trained home nursing instructors and that during the past year three classes have been completed in home care of the sick. The next class is now

New Seed Law Goes In Effect On September 1

A new seed testing law for Texas becomes effective on Sept. 1. John C. White, Commissioner of Agriculture, said that laboratories at Austin and Lubbock will test farm and vegetable seed for germination and purity.

The cost will be $2.50 for each test. Exceptions will be chaffy grasses, native grasses, mixtures and trashy seed, for which a $5 fee will be charged.

To finance the inspection, a charge of 2¢ per bag will be made on seed sold. The present rate is 1¢ per bag. Agriculture Department officials said the charge would not apply to garden-size packets of vegetable seed.

Last Rites For Miss Jackson Held Tuesday

Funeral services for Miss Nancy Ellen Jackson, 75-year-old Gorman resident, were held at the First Baptist Church in Gorman Tuesday afternoon.

A sister, Mrs. Mary L. Jay of Gorman, survives. Miss Jackson was an aunt of L. Jay, mayor of Gorman.

Browne Rites Thursday At Breckenridge

Funeral services for James M. Browne, 60-year-old Fort Worthian and former resident of Breckenridge, will be held at First Baptist church in Breckenridge Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mr. Browne died Tuesday in a Fort Worth hospital.

He was an employe of the River Oaks Machine Supply Co. in Fort Worth and formerly worked as a driller. Survivors are his wife; two sons, J. M. Browne, Jr., of Brownfield and W. K. Browne, of Ft. Worth; two daughters, Mrs. A. C. Forrest of Breckenridge and Mrs. L. H. McCause of West Plains, Mo.; two brothers, W. C. Browne of Edmond, Okla. and R. S. Browne of McCamey; five sisters, Mrs. A. B. Dilworth of Omaha, Neb., Mrs. J. B. Minter of Dalhart, Mrs. C. H. Long and Mrs. Rowe Wyatt of Chula Vista, Calif., and Mrs. Ell Wallace of Littlefield, and three grandchildren.

Senator Byrd Urges Limit of National Debt

Senator Byrd of Virginia said that hope for balancing the budget rests almost entirely on keeping the present $275,000,000,000 debt limit.

"If we can retain this present debt ceiling, there is some hope of balancing the budget," he said in a copyrighted interview with the magazine World Report. "But if we keep on borrowing the money, there's no hope at all."

Byrd successfully opposed the Eisenhower administration's effort to have Congress boost the limit from $275,000,000,000 to $290,000,000,000. He was one of the 11-4 majority of the Senate finance committee which blocked action on the proposed increase during the closing days of Congress. The debt now is about $272,500,000,000.

Byrd said he regards that controversy as "one of the milestones in the preservation of the solvency of our government." If the debt continues to rise, he said, it will go "over the precipice of financial disaster."

Some $600,000,000 of the public debt is not subject to the legal debt limit of $275,000,000,000.

New Moisture Saves Peanuts, Other Crops

Drought-breaking, crop-making rains ranging from one to four inches have soaked parched Eastland County and adjoining areas during the past 18 hours.

The rains were so general that no dry areas had been reported at noon today.

The first heat-breaking moisture drizzled earthward as a shower mid-afternoon Tuesday. This initial downpour was more or less general, but very light in some sections.

Shortly after midnight, however, heavily clouded skies again began to weep and in the pre-dawn hours the county received a real drenching.

According to a roundup of reports at noon today, Eastland's precipitation totaled 1.25. Ranger's moisture was gauged at 1.91. Rising Star reported 1.98, bringing the total for that area since Sunday afternoon to around 3 inches.

At Pioneer and Cross Plains, the rains were much heavier, with the total for the week ranging up to more than five inches. Olden's precipitation was 1.25. Carbon received more than one inch as did Gorman, where the best shower in several weeks has been gauged.

In the north portion of the county ranchers in various sections report up to three and four inches, and the best rains in many weeks. At least one large earthen dam, owned by Judge L. R. Pearson of Ranger, was washed away. "We are in good shape up here," stated John Nix, who lives 8 miles north of Eastland near the Stephens county line.

The No. 3 plant of the Lone Star Gas Company was reported flooded at 9 a.m. Earlier this morning, it was reported that about three-feet of water covered the Breckenridge Highway in some spots. By 9 a.m., however, it had subsided to two feet and was going down steadily.

Tanks and creeks are all full, and range conditions are better than at any time in many months. Growing crops, it now appears, will show good returns at harvest season even without additional rain.

Much water was impounded in both the Eastland and Ranger municipal lakes. The Eastland reservoir is reported at its highest mark in history. At Ranger City Manager Lester Crossley reported that the Ranger lake was filled to the brim assuring a plentiful supply of water until the new Eastland County Water Supply District dam and giant water supply is completed.

Both cities have water supplies to carry them safely for more than a year, it was reported at noon today.

Young Fathers Get Warning By Draft Head

Attention, draft-age papas and expectant fathers in the Eastland County vicinity:

You have but one week in which to report to the Eastland Selective Service Board about your children — or be liable for induction into the U. S. armed forces.

State Selective Service Director Paul L. Wakefield reminded such men of the Aug. 24 deadline today.

Draft-age men who become fathers or expectant fathers on or after Aug. 25 no longer will be eligible for deferment, because of dependency, under an executive order of President Eisenhower.

"Draft-age fathers and men expecting children had best act now, as notification later than midnight of Aug. 24 will not permit local boards to classify such men in 3-A for their dependents," said Wakefield.

Don't Forget Annual Meeting Comanche REA

Manager Parks of the Comanche County Electric Co-op says he would like to remind you again of the big Annual Meeting at Lake Eanes August 28. Record crowds have been turning out at other Co-ops this summer, and we'd like to set a "best attendance" record here.

Parks reports that the new District Meeting method of nominating Directors was very well liked. (Continued on Page Four)

Music Program At Lions Club

Attendance at the Lions Club meeting Tuesday, was considerably below par, and members of the attendance committee, have an idea that something must be done. A few members are out of the city and on vacations, while others merely failed to attend.

Charles Layton had the program, and admitted that he had planned to make a speech himself, but when he learned that two young musicians, Misses George Ann Bennett and Janis Little were available, he changed his mind, and brought the girls along for a musical program.

Two selections were rendered, and were enjoyed by the Lions, who insisted on more music.

'House of Wax' Opening Today In Eastland

Not since Warner Bros. introduced sound to the motion picture industry has there been such a stir of activity in the film capital. Today it's three-dimensional pictures, or 3-D, a new technical process which shows the images on the screen exactly as they are seen in real life — with depth, the elusive third dimension, as well as height and width.

With the showing of "House of Wax," due on today at the Majestic, the top studios of the major film city of the world enter the realm of three-dimensional pictures, a revelation to advance still further the possibilities of screen and theatre entertainment in answer to the threat of other media for leadership in the art and business of entertaining the people.

As the first major studio to produce a feature three-dimension film, Warner Bros. has taken a mystery thriller story and with Vincent Price, Frank Lovejoy and Phyllis Kirk in the leading roles, has filmed—in WarnerColor—a motion picture which the company hopes will rank in its history with the picture that ushered in sound some 20 years ago—"The Jazz Singer."

Combining the research and experimentation of the Natural Vision Corporation with the technical experience of the Warner Bros. production facilities, "House of Wax" will attempt to bring a reality to the screen never before achieved. Based on the principal of human eyesight, Natural Vision, wedded to the WarnerColor process, will duplicate more closely the visual processes of the human eye.

The principle is easily illustrated thus: Focus your eyes on a single object and notice its position in relation to another object. Now, close one eye and again check the position of the object. Finally, open the eye and at the same time close the other one. Notice that the object seems to have moved. It hasn't, but you have seen a new object from two slightly different views.

In Natural Vision 3-D, each camera is an eye focusing on one object at the same time but from slightly different angles. One camera looks at the object, the other looks around it. The polarized lens acts as the nerve center to convert the two images into a single impression. With the addition of a natural color system such as WarnerColor, the image is completed, giving the viewer depth, and color, as well as the usual dimensions.

J. E. TURNERS HAVE ENJOYABLE VACATION TRIP
Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Turner and daughter, Earline returned Sunday from a two weeks vacation trip to Bakersville, California.

DETE MORRISON'S life had been guided by cold-blooded logic. Betty was illiterate, hardly the wife for a man who had been a captain in the United States Army. And yet, when he looked at her, she moved him in a way that Cass had never been able to do. She was sweet and good, and by natural endowment just as intelligent as Cass. She was ambitious, and she would learn.

They ate the meal, the first real meal Pete and Walter had enjoyed for a long time. Only then did Betty notice the blood seeping through Peter's shirt, and instantly both girls were solicitous that he might be badly hurt. He told them it was nothing, but had to submit to having the stab wound dressed as well as their facilities would allow.

"We've got some horses tied back the trail," he told them. "I'll fetch them."
"I'll go with you," Cass said promptly.

He sensed that she wanted to talk to him. For an instant his gaze fell upon Betty, she was watching him closely.
As they walked along Cass asked, "What do you think of Betty?"
"She's pretty wonderful," Pete said.

"I agree. She had been a prisoner of those ruffians all those days, expecting to be sold to Toby, yet when they brought me in she did her best to console me and keep up my spirits. Not a word about her own plight."

It gave him the opportunity he had been waiting for. He asked, "How did you happen to be there?"
"You were the cause of that. If I hadn't gone to see you I could have handled Zad. He pretended not to know I'd been out, but I knew he did because he acted too suspiciously," she said.
"What I think happened was that he had the Indians track my horse and they found out I'd been where they visited with Mrs. Turner's brothers and their families. They returned by way of the coastal route and visited Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cheatham and family at Morenci, Ariz. One of the things the Cheathams planned for their guests was a fishing trip, up the to High Valley. He knew my only reason would have been to see you, and he knew I could only have been out in touch with you through the Williams. So he sent out for Williams, and Williams told him where your camp was.

"So that's what happened? And I blamed you for it, blurted."

"I thought you would thank me for what I had done for you, but you didn't. You told me that you had given Jess a choice between killing everything he knew and getting a nice clean death, as you called it, by shooting me in the back and the side."

"I don't know what you're talking about," Pete said. "I don't know what you're talking about," Pete said. "I don't know what you're talking about," Pete said.

"I don't know what you're talking about," Pete said. "I don't know what you're talking about," Pete said. "I don't know what you're talking about," Pete said.

use making a lot of talk about it. After things are cleared up you and I might make a quiet search for it. It would be a big heap if you are still in the mood to start a ranch there, like you told me you might."

"So it was the money she had been thinking about all the time. He said deliberately, "It seems to me, Cass, we're taking a lot of things for granted. In the first place we don't know for sure even that Zad is dead. We can't be sure that it was even Nate Wilkinson who attacked the rest of the outfit and we don't know that he won the fight. Juan Chee not manly and pulled out, but Toby may have rallied his Indians, and for all we know Nate, if it was Nate, may be fighting for his life right now."

"You know that the chances are good that Zad is dead and Captain Wilkinson is in control of Two Rivers," she said.

"I hope so, but we can't afford to just ride in there as if we owned the place. Toby is pretty wily. We might meet him on our way back. He might even try to overtake Juan Chee."

"CASS was silent for several minutes. Then she said, "Pete, if it should come to the worst, I want you to know one thing. You're the only man I ever cared for. And if you ever cared for me, I hope you put a bullet in my heart before you let me fall into the hands of those Indians."
Pete thought she was being a little too dramatic. He said, "It goes without saying that I'll see that neither you nor Betty are captured again, but I really think the danger is very small. By the way, what became of that deringer you carried?"
"I was foolish enough to let Zad know I had it. Narraguts grabbed me when I wasn't looking and took it."
"About Zad's money," he said. "I think it should be turned over to the governor of the territory so that as much as possible can be given back to the people who were robbed." When Pete looked at her again, her eyes were hard.

"So, I don't believe there is any (To Be Continued)

Home Demonstration Agent Hints On Fall and Winter Gardening

It is true that most spring gardens in the county were not very productive because of the drought and hot, dry winds, but there is still a chance for a fall garden.

Take a look around in your garden that you started last spring and see if there are any plants that have survived the hot summer weather. They may still produce this fall if you give them a little help.

Such plants as tomatoes, okra, peppers, pole butter beans and possibly black-eyed peas can be rejuvenated. Feed them fertilizer, working and watering into the soil around the plants. About a half cup full of 5-10-5 around each plant should be sufficient. Be sure to water thoroughly.

If the plants have not been previously mulched spread hay about three or four inches deep around the plant over an area of about three to four feet. Mulch keeps moisture in the soil longer, keeps the ground cool, and keeps down weeds and grass. In dry weather these old plants will need to be watered about every five to seven days.

Hamners Have Enjoyable Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hamner accompanied by Mr. Hamner's brother Frank, and Mrs. Hamner, and Jimmy Gillam of Belton and Perry Norman of Killeen, returned Sunday from a two weeks vacation trip which included visits in Santa Fe and Chama N. M. Chimney Rock Colorado.

The group enjoyed a fishing trip at Bar A. M. Ranch while there.

Jimmy Gillam is Mr. Hamner's nephew and Perry Norman is Mrs. Hamner's nephew. Both boys are 14 years of age, and added a lot of fun to the trip, which all of them enjoyed very much, Mrs. Hamner said.

There are other vegetables that you can plant now for vegetables in early fall and winter. Germination at this season of the year is usually poor. It is well to increase the rate of seeding about 25 per cent over that used in the spring garden in order to obtain a good stand. If you soak seeds overnight before planting be sure to irrigate the soil well before planting the seeds. The ground should be pressed down firmly around the seeds. Cover the row with a mulch of hay or similar material to a depth of about 2 inches until the plants begin to come up. Stir the soil frequently to conserve moisture and prevent soil packing. If gardens are irrigated it is a good idea to stir the soil just as soon as it is dry enough to pulverize.

Avoid deep cultivation. In irrigating it is better to make a shallow furrow between the rows where the water may run slowly and penetrate to the roots of the plants. This is considered better than rapid irrigation or sprinkling over the soil.

So that the vegetables will grow off fast and be flavorful, use commercial fertilizer. With irrigation use about three pounds of a complete fertilizer such as 5-10-5 to 1-foot row space. Keep a sharp lookout for insects and have a supply of insecticide on hand to take care of any pest outbreaks.

These vegetables may be planted now to mature before frost: Greenbeans (Tendergreen, Topcrop, Stringless Green Pod), mustard (Tendergreen, Florida Broadleaf), Irish Potatoes (Bliss Triumph), radishes (Scarlet Globe), Squash (Early Prolific Straight-neck). These will withstand light frost: English Peas (Laxton's Progress), Turnips (Purpletop, Shogoin), Lettuce (Great Lakes, Salad Bowl), Cabbage (Copenhagen, Charleston Wakefield), Beets (Detroit Dark Red), Swiss Chard (Lucullus).

Details and specific information on planting individual vegetables such as how deep to plant, how far apart to thin plants in the row, recommended varieties, etc., can be obtained from Extension Bulletin C-59 on "Fall and Winter Gardening" or B-70, "Gardening." These bulletins may be obtained at the County Home Demonstration Agent's office in the courthouse in Eastland.

First Baptist Church Sponsors Youth Retreat At Cisco Lake

Plans for a Youth Retreat were completed Monday evening when the committee appointed for the purpose met at the First Baptist Church.

Theme for the retreat, which is sponsored by the First Baptist Church in Eastland is "My Desire" to be like him. Time was set for September 1st and 2nd, and place named was the Presbyterian encampment at Cisco Lake.

The program will be centered around the topics, "Learning to be Like Jesus, in service, in vocation, in play, and in meditation," the committee members said.

The retreat is planned for the young people of Ranger, Olden, Morton Valley and MaMugum as well as Eastland.

Registration will begin at 5 p. m. Tuesday, Sept. 1st and will continue through 11 a. m. Wednesday. Recreation will be provided for those who wish to remain through out the day.

Outstanding speakers and leaders of this area have been chosen to lead the various services and activities. Complete details of the program will be released at a later date.

Members of the First Baptist Church have been invited to join the young people in the retreat for their Wednesday evening prayer service.
