Crop Insurance Faces Important 1990 Role

"Multiple Peril crop insurance has an important role for 1990. Texas farmers and those who provide financial and insurance services to growers need to know about the role of crop insurance and farm programs in order to plan profitably for spring planting, especially if drought or other disaster occurs," according to Spencer Tanksley, County Extension Service (TAEX) in Bailey County. The program will include crop insurance basics, an update on changes, prospects for crop insurance in the 1990 Farm law and evaluations to include crop insurance analysis software.

The county extension agent says that a series of seminars are planned to update the agribusiness community on multiple peril crop insurance options for 1990. The nearest seminar for members of government agencies and of the agribusiness community who provide farm financing and crop insurance will take place in Lubbock on January 18 at the Lubbock Plaza Hotel at 9 a.m.

The target audience includes representatives of ASCS, FmHA, FCIC, the Farm Credit System, commercial lenders, Agricultural Extension Service, and crop insurers.

"The crop insurance workshop is part of a statewide targeting of the agribusiness community which will include workshops in San Angelo, College Station, Ft. Worth, Lubbock, Corpus Christi, and Amarillo. Speakers will include key public and private sector representatives selected from all over Texas," adds Tanksley.

A registration fee of $20 will cover workshop materials, noon meal, and refreshments. Make checks out to TAEX Acct. No. 20643 and mail to Dr. Ashley Lovell, Economist-Management, Rt. 2, Box 1, Stephenville, TX 76410. Those who preregister will receive a free copy of the "Crop Insure" computer program.

istration is required for each of the workshops, which will run from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. with registrant checkin starting at 8 a.m. For details on preregistration, contact your local County Agricultural Extension Agent, FCIC representative, or Lovell (817/968-4144).

Registration will continue 9 a.m.-4 p.m. through January 11 in the office of the assistant superintendent of instruction, Elizabeth Watson, in Muleshoe. Classes begin January 15.

Three Day Retreat Set Next Weekend

Just what is Strategic Planning, and how will it affect the four Muleshoe Schools?

This was a question in the mind of the members of the Muleshoe Independent School District Strategic Planning Committee, who will be meeting in a two and a half day retreat on January 18-20.

A preliminary training session was conducted last week, with sixteen people present to get a 'glimpse' of what will be happening with and to the committee as they make plans for 3-5 years down the road for the Muleshoe Schools.

Rita Gibbs, from the Texas Association of School Boards, Austin, was at the administration office to conduct the pre-session for those present.

She conducted a question and answer session, including a definition of a 'Strategic Planning Committee' and the part the members play in a school's future.

After the members of the Muleshoe Independent School District Board of Trustees unanimously agreed to support the process called Strategic Planning the next step was to name 25 school and community people to help select long range goals for the school district.

Limited to 25 participants, the committee will be composed of 16 school administrators and school personnel; two high school students; and seven community people.

Ms. Gibbs explained that the planning team's task was to identify critical issues in enrollment, funding, curriculum, and personnel.

The members of the committee will be working in subcommittees and the information collected will be distributed to all the members of the planning committee.

Strengths and weaknesses of the school system will be sought out and re-shaped, where possible, spelling out the school system's purpose and function.

Strategies will be discussed and developed for accomplishing the school system's mission.

The planning committee will examine the organization chart to determine how many staff members the school has and whether decisions are being forced up or down, how many people report to whom, whether more than one person is doing

Lady Mules

Fall To Tulia;

Mules Victorious

Tuesday night, the Lady Mules went down in defeat to the Lady Hornets from Tulia, 44-56, to open district basketball action.

Coach Bob Davis said this makes the season record for the Lady Mules 15-7 at this time.

The Lady Mules fell behind 2-14 in the first quarter, and had narrowed that gap to 20-23 by halftime.

They were still trailing 31-39 at the end of the third. Despite 13 points added in the fourth, the Lady Mules were unable to overcome the deficit.

Heather Hutton was leading scorer with 15 points; Wendy Green, nine; Monica Swint and Tory Matthews, each eight; and Brenna Matthews and Amy Harrison, each had two points.

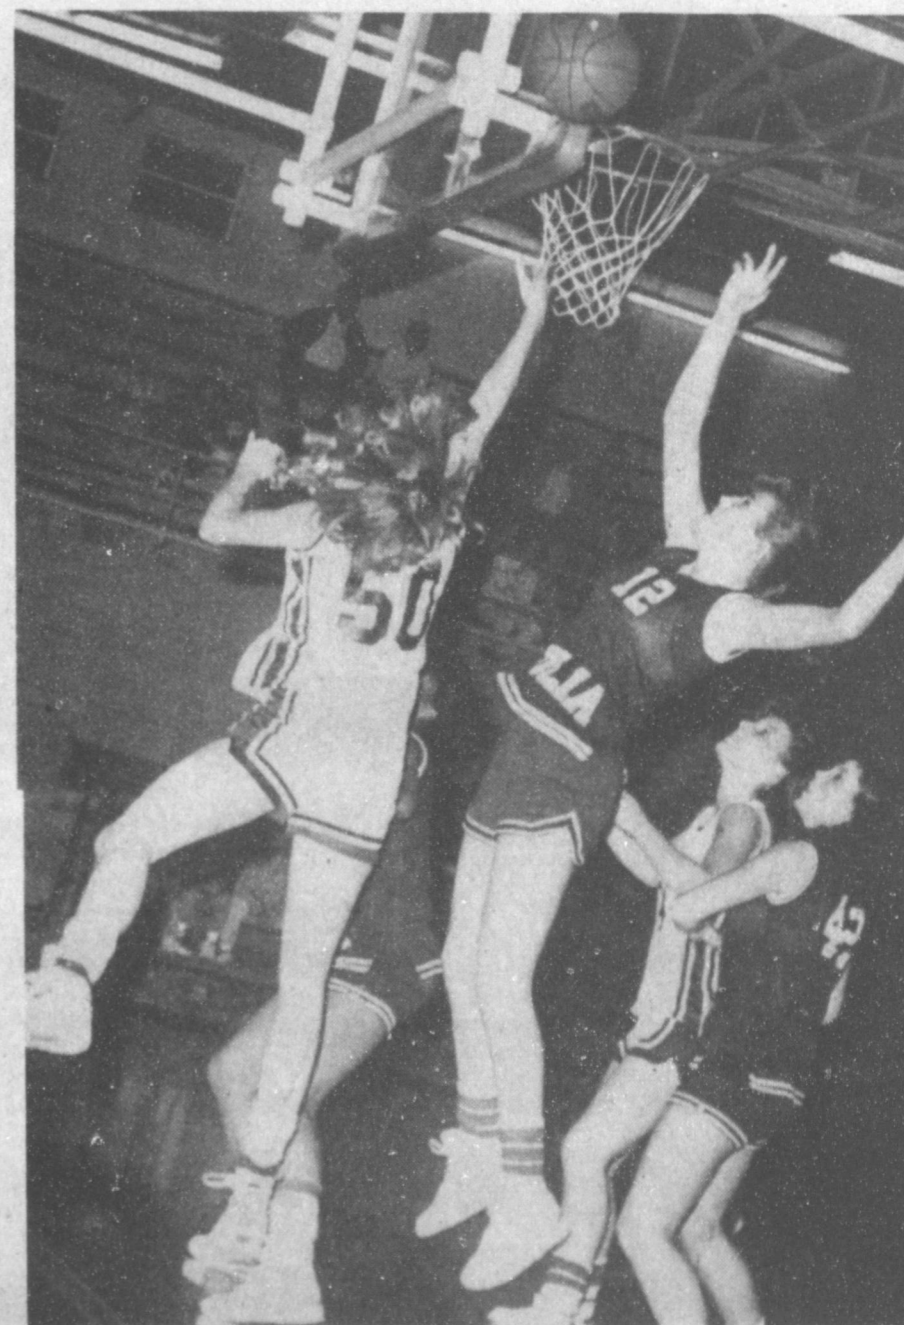

Wendy Green was leading rebounder, with 14.

Friday night, the Lady Mules were tackling Friona in Watson Junior High School gym.

Coach Bob Davis said the MHS Lady Mules had widened their season record to 15-6 following a 44-18 defeat of Olton last Friday night.

At the end of the first, it was 5-0 for the Lady Mules; and was 11-7 at halftime. In the third, the Lady Mules added an additional 12 points, holding Olton to six points for 23-13.

Wendy Green was high pointer with 18; Heather Hutton, nine; Brenna Matthews, eight; Heidi Bohler, six; Tory Matthews, two and Amber Green, one point.

Kiwanis News

By R.A. Bradley

Twelve hungry Kiwanians, three honorary Kiwanians, seven guests and sweetheart, Amy Montgomery met Friday morning at the Old Corral. Honorary members were Lacy Morris, Jon Keith Turner and Chad Johnson. Our guests were Frank Prowell, Bartley Dowell and Lt. Governor on Division 33, Bobby Owen. These three gentlemen were from Hereford. Our home town guests were David Lutz, son of Jim Lutz, Jack Rennels, Gil Robert Rennels and John Robin Watkins, and our wonderful sweetheart Amy Montgomery. Amy it is always a good feeling to have you present. You radiate youth, vitality and beauty. We love you very much.

All Kiwanians, guests and honorary members gave up breakfast, and gave the money they would spend for breakfast, to serve the youth. One honorary member had to have his biscuits and gravy. Jon Keith we don't

Student Council News

Muleshoe High School Student Council ended the year as busy as ever, starting with the decoration of the school Christmas tree. Then with the help of the Mighty M Band students, they collected canned foods to help the EMT's Canned Food Drive.

They then joined MADD in giving a new meaning to "Tie One On" by tying a red ribbon to each car on the High School campus to remind everyone to drive sober during the holidays.

On January 24, MHS Student Council along with WJHS Student Council will travel to Lubbock for their District Convention.

know about you!! The money collected Friday morning will go to Kiwanis for youth, one half will go to National, one third to Texas Oklahoma district and one third will go to local youth. All of this will go to Kiwanis in honor of a wonderful Kiwanian from Amarillo, Curtis Crofford. Curtis had served Kiwanis real well, we lost Curtis in early December 1989 but he will not be forgotten. He was a wonderful brother-in-law to this writer.

President Jim Lutz, called the meeting to order and asked the honorary members and our guest youth to lead us in the pledge to the flag. The invocation was given by R.A. Bradley. Sweetheart Amy had the friendship coin but wasn't able to bribe her father, since he held the car keys, gave the friendship coin to Merlyn Neel. So, Merlyn, you will have to be back next Friday and you can eat breakfast then and see if you can find a friend.

Jim Lutz introduced our program, Gil Robert Rennels, and John Robin Watkins who told us of some of their experience and fun they had at the National Boy Scout Jamboree for 1989. Gil Robert and John Robin were both patrol leaders for the George White District. They told of some of the things they saw and did on their two week Jamboree. They also showed a video of some of the activities that went on at the Jamboree. It sure looked like busy fun. Now we know why Gil Robert looks so good as all of the mud baths he might have taken. John Robin got sick for a few days but got better and had a wonderful time. John Robin showed his collection of badges and patches he traded for. John Robin has a most impressive collection. Both of the young men like just one (service project) to make Eagle Scouts. John Robin stated that he thanked Jim and Edwin Cox for letting him work at Fry and Cox to make it possible for him to go to the Jamboree. Gil Robert and John Robin we thank you for sharing some of your experiences and showing us this good program on this Hungry Friday for Youth. Looking forward to both of you becoming Eagle Scouts.

Governor Clements Names Census Group

Governor Bill Clements, in an effort to assure a complete count of all Texans in the 1990 census, has assembled a committee of state agency chiefs who will engender increased census awareness among state employees and agency clients.

A comprehensive census count is crucial to Texas in the 1990s, the governor said, in ensuring the state gets its allotted share of federal funds. Also at stake is proper representation in the U. S. House of Representatives.

An accurate census count in Texas could net the state and local governments as much as $900 million more in federal funds during the next 10 years, according to the Texas State Data Center.

In addition, Texas could gain as many as four new congressional seats if the 1990 count is accurate.

"Texas literally cannot afford to put forth anything less than an all-out effort to make sure all of our residents are counted by census-takers in 1990," the governor said. "This committee will make sure that key state agencies do everything possible to help Texas achieve that goal."

The governor's State Agency Census Planning Committee is part of a strategy designed to avoid a repeat of the 1980 undercount of Texas residents. Estimates are the 1980 census missed as many as 547,000 Texans, of which 396,000 were minorities.

In 1987 alone, Texans lost an estimated $21.3 million in Medicaid funds as a result of the undercount in the 1980 census.

The committee, using agency newsletters and paycheck inserts, will generate state employee awareness of the importance of the census.

The committee will focus special attention on agencies with a heavy public contact, including those dealing in social services whose federal funding is tied to the census.

Promotional posters and informational materials will be distributed to targeted state agencies, including local offices of the Department of Human Services and the Texas Employment Commission, health department clinics and Department of Public Safety driver's license stations.

The Health and Human Services Coordinating Council will take the lead in organizing the census effort, with technical assistance from the Department of Commerce.

Assigned to serve on the committee are the executive directors or representatives of the Texas Department of Commerce, the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, the Office of the State Comptroller of Public Accounts and the Secretary of State's office.

Also, the Texas Education Agency, the Texas Employment Commission, Texas Employees Retirement System, the Texas Health and Human Services Coordinating Council, the Texas Department of Health, the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board.

And, the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, the Texas Department of Human Services, the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, the Texas Department of Public Safety and the Texas Rehabilitation Commission.

JV Basketball News

By Coach Tom Duncan

By: Coach Tom Duncan

Last Tuesday evening, the battling JV Mules took on the Tulia JV Hornets in what proved to be a competitive game.

The Mules, led by forward Corley Hutton and inside men Johnny Noble and Jim Carpenter, supplied the fans plenty to cheer about.

Scoring was as follows: At the end of the first it was 6-7 for the Hornets; by halftime, the score was 16-22. Coming back in the third, the Mules outscored the Hornets 14-13, but still trailed 30-35. The final score was 36-47 for the Hornets.

With a six point game at half, the Mules and Hornets played physical, aggressive defense and offense on each other.

We had a lot of bright spots in the game and some guys came to the front to gain valuable experience. Brent Hernandez showed that he is a viable shot, canning 2-3 pointers in the second half.

Jim Carpenter came away with a basket full of rebounds and points.

On the other hand, John Noble did his share of point production and rebounding for the cause.

Corley Hutton continues to be the cornerstone of the offensive production and came away with rebounds you'd think impossible.

Through the night, both Andy Crawford and Cory Collins busted brick walls down to play intensive defense.

Finally, Chris Dominguez went out to gain some measure of stamina and poise in working our offense.

Despite this first setback NO BODY will play harder than the Mules. And, with the addition of a trio of players who have been out for grades and illness, we should have our cylinders revved up to full RPM's as we get into the meat of our schedule.

Next game will be Ftjona January 12 in Watson Junior High gym.

Come bring the family and support the black and white as they go forth and work towards successful team basketball.

Individual scoring included Johnny Noble and Corley Hutton, 10 points each; Jim Carpenter and Brent Hernandez, six points each; Chris Dominguez and Andy Crawford, two points each.

Education is an expensive process, but, in the end, it costs less than ignorance.

Thank You

Words cannot express our thanks to all that made my Retirement Reception such a wonderful day. A day I will treasure always.

For the hostesses, cards, gifts, the hugs and warm handshakes a special thanks.

Muleshoe is a great place to call home.

God Bless each of You

Screening For Down's New Syndrome Less Expensive

A less expensive, less invasive and more accurate Down's syndrome screening procedure for pregnant women has been developed by researchers at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

everyone is prohibitive." The new screening test at Baylor boosts the detection rate by more narrowly and accurately predicting which women should undergo amniocentesis, and it does so at one-tenth the cost of amniocentesis.

The new procedure, a simple blood test which can be used earlier in a pregnancy than previous methods, triples the detection rate of Down's syndrome, a cause of mental retardation that annually affects 3,500 newborns in the United States.

Alpert said, "We have narrowed to five or six percent the number of first-trimester pregnant women who might have had to undergo unnecessary amniocentesis. And, in doing so, we have raised the Down's syndrome detection rate to 60 to 80 percent of all cases."

Previous screening procedures uncovered about 20 percent of prospective Down's syndrome cases, according to Dr. Frank Greenberg, a Baylor associate professor of clinical molecular genetics and clinical director of the Baylor Maternal Serum Alpha-Fetoprotein Program (MSAFP).

The Baylor screening method takes into account a woman's age and level of alpha-fetoprotein, which has been used since 1985, but also measures levels of substances in the blood called human chorionic gonadotropin (HCG) and unconjugated estriol (UE3).

This was generally accomplished by performing amniocentesis on pregnant women older than 35.

Low levels of alpha-fetoprotein indicate the possibility of Down's syndrome but also may point to a pregnancy that is not as far along as originally thought.

Amniocentesis is a procedure in which a hollow needle is inserted through a pregnant woman's abdominal wall to obtain amniotic fluid. The fluid is used to detect fetal abnormalities and sex.

Formulas derived from the screening information--and based on samplings of the 15,000 Southwestern women tested annually at Baylor--formed the basis of the new screening procedure, Alpert said.

If every woman underwent amniocentesis, said Dr. Elliot Alpert, professor of medicine at Baylor and laboratory director of the screening program, "we could detect all the Down's syndrome cases; however, because of cost and a small risk to the mother and unborn child, performing amniocentesis on the same job, and whether any necessary administrative functions were going unassigned.

"As we screen more women and collect more data," Greenberg said, "We hope to be able to improve the rate of detection even more."

Alpert and Greenberg predict the new screening procedures will eventually become routine throughout the nation for pregnant women of all ages.

Also to be determined will be social, political, economic, demographic, legislative and technological trends and try to determine how current trends might affect the schools in the future.

A small number of objectives will be determined, then a list of strategies to attain these goals will be developed.

At the same time, the committee will have to determine what is practical and measurable (in terms of time, money, quality, or quantity) and which will be more beneficial to the school system as a whole.

Decisions will then be taken to the public through various media to obtain community reactions on the plans.

New committees, or subcommittees, will be named to determine the steps to carry out the strategies adopted and approved by public reaction.

The teams will meet with the original planning committee, to create a cumulative strategic management plan. At that time, some modification of plans may be made.

This will be followed by additional meetings of the Strategic Planning Committee to consider and incorporate the changes.

The approved plans will be submitted to the superintendent

Money Talk

By Charles B. Carson
Dow Theory Forecasts

With the breakdown of political barriers in Eastern Europe and the nearing of a new European common market in 1992, potential benefits from overseas investing continue to grow.

Nevertheless, there are some things U.S. investors should know. First, you become a slave to exchange rates when you invest in another country. Also, accounting differences for overseas companies make stock analyses tricky.

There are ways to play the overseas market without investing in foreign countries. One is to focus on U.S. firms that should capitalize on the opportunities that are developing.

Primary weight should be given to those companies that are marketing-driven and have established overseas channels already.

Another way to play developments is through companies with a time-tested idea in this country that can be applied rather easily overseas.

Dear Editor:

Now that much of the dust has settled from our busy holiday season, I wish to again say how much we have appreciated your help in publicizing our Boys Ranch Christmas Suit Fund this year. In addition, the Girlstown Coat and Shoe Fund, sponsored by the Lions International, succeeded with your help.

This year, 355 boys received new suits or clothing packages because of generous gifts from friends who shared whatever they could. The Lions of this area raised the funds needed to outfit 98 girls. I know that these goals could not have been met without the awareness provided by The Bailey County Journal.

We are grateful for your help at Christmas and throughout the year. We hope you may find the time to come for a visit and share a meal with our youths whenever possible. Thank you for caring.

Sincerely yours,
Carl McMillen

If you need a "lift" or a "ray" of sunshine in your day, pay a visit to the residents in the Health Care Center. Good folks live here. You won't find any finer. We would love for you to come visit or drop by on Thursday afternoons for a game of Skip-Bo or dominoes.

Friday afternoon Harold and Avis Carpenter of the Oklahoma Lane community came to play the piano and lead a Sing-a-Long and spend a little time reminiscing.

Saturday afternoon a great group of the residents gathered in the day room to participate in games of Bingo and Skip-Bo conducted by Laverne James, Ruth Clements and Marie Bradley. Fresh bananas were served, donated by our local super markets.

Every Saturday J.C. Shanks comes to give the men hair cuts and shaves.

Each Sunday morning the Muleshoe Church of Christ conducts a communion service.

Kathrine Sanders of the First Baptist Church has Bible study with the residents.

Each Wednesday Barbara Blackman runs the juice cart and visits and serves delicious juice to the residents. Each Wednesday morning Clifton Finley goes shopping for us.

Sunday afternoon The Calvary Baptist Church comes to play and sing gospel music to the residents.

Tuesday afternoon Olive Cox, Bonnie Green, Claudine Embry and Laverne James came to shampoo and set the ladies hair. Dustie gave the ladies (residents) manicures.

Shawna Delaney comes each afternoon after school to do volunteer work. We are always happy to see her come.

Holly Milsap visited her mom, Pearl Cox Tuesday. Irene Splawn visited Mamie Askew, Lois Baldwin her husband Floss Baldwin and Elsie Kendall her husband Guy Kendall. They all visited in the CareCenter's day room.

Eric Smith was visited by his daughter, Patricia Thatcher of Portales, N.M. and his wife, Lucy Faye, last weekend.

Julie Hawkins was visited by her daughter, Alma Crim, Tuesday.

Ella Faubus spent some time in the local hospital last weekend. We are thankful that she is able to be back with us. Her grandson visited her at supper time in the dining room Tuesday.

We wish to express our thanksgiving that Ona Coffey was able to return to us after being hospitalized for sometime.

Connor Burford received a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smallwood, Willie Burford and Ellen Weed last week.

Irvin Smith (our newest resident) celebrated his birthday Saturday. He received a visit from his sister, Fern Warren and brother-in-law James Warren.

Rhonda, from Honey Comb came to shampoo and set Cora Duncan's hair last week. Bernice (from her beauty shop) came to give Thelma Stearns a new perm.

Martha Smaltz was visited by her sister, Francis Bingsley, and sister-in-law, Gladys Hardage, Monday.

Pollution Problems Plague Growers; General Public

Whatever the reasons, it is an indisputable fact that environmental concerns are more pressing issues today than at any time in our history. And the concern runs much deeper than mere aesthetics. A prominent example of this concern is Time's magazine's voting of Mother Earth as the Person of the Year this past year. To summarize, it has become painfully evident that if the human race is to continue to grow and prosper, we must become more conscientious stewards of our earth. Not of just the air we breathe, the water we drink or plants we grow...but the very earth in which we grow those plants...the earth itself. For the relationship between the earth, the atmosphere and our waters is a symbiotic one; therefore, our conservation efforts must be aimed at maintaining that delicate balance.

While the problems of water, forest and air pollution have been at the forefront of environmental efforts since the mid-sixties and earlier, it has only been within the last decade that particular attention has been paid to the preservation and maintenance of the earth itself.

Another example of the attention that is beginning to be directed towards these issues in agriculture is the growing popularity of LISA or Low Input Sustainable Agriculture...similar to a cross between organic farming and conventional farming, leaning toward the use of green manure crops, the rotation of crops, integrated pest management, animal manures and other concepts and procedures that reduce the amount of "inputs." Because this reduction in "inputs" results in improved soil and lower production costs to the farmer, its popularity is gaining almost geometrically. However, it was not always this way.

One man who almost single handedly took on this problem years ago is Wade Dunivent. Through many years experience in the agricultural chemical/fertilizer and grain brokerage business, Wade became aware of the fact that farmland, over time, requires more and more fertilizer and/or chemical treatment to accomplish the particular job at hand, even taking into account the more concentrated and more effective chemicals and fertilizers on the market today. The fact remains unchanged.

Not unlike the professional athlete who, after taking steroid injection after steroid injection to improve his physical capabilities, soon realizes that the interim "quick fix" has resulted in a variety of debilitating and irreversible conditions. So it is with the precious farm land across these United States and the world. After years of continuous and in many cases unabated use of fertilizers, pesticides and herbicides, the very earth upon which these chemicals have been used has been rendered less able to sustain its own ecological balance. Consequently, soil is less capable of sustaining the healthy plant life necessary to the continued production of both food and non-food crops. Take fertilizers for example. But wait a minute, aren't fertilizers supposed to be good for the soil? Most traditional fertilizers contain salts and acids which cause crusting and hardpan in the soil. Furthermore, usage of chemicals causes many of the soils' bacteria to go into dormancy. The cumulative effect of these problems is an increasingly less productive soil and, subsequently, crops that are less resistant to all types of stress, whether it be insect, weather or disease-related. While Wade Dunivent may have been a pioneer in his quest for a product that would help combat the aforementioned problems, his ideas are now being shared by many researchers, scientists, environmentalists, farmers and people everywhere. Perhaps the best news though is that his quest was not in vain.

Realizing that a vital piece to the soil preservation jigsaw was the re-activation of the soils' bacteria, Wade Dunivent went about developing a product that would do just that. He also knew that any product that was going to be able to accomplish that task would also have the potential to reduce fungus, disease and insect problems due to the increased vitality in the soil. Furthermore, to fully satisfy Wade, it would have to be 100 percent environmentally safe. Realizing that the naturally occurring fermentation bioprocess is what normally provides soil bacteria with sustenance, Wade began his search there. A search for something that would enhance or in some way mimic the effects of the natural fermentation bioprocess. That was in 1969.

It was over the course of the next ten years that Wade, through research, patience, persistence, desire, dedication, and commitment, developed N-Fix. Truly a product whose time had come.

By combining ingredients from the natural fermentation bioprocess with technical grade N.P.K., and vitamins, N-Fix serves as a food and energy source for the bacteria in the soil.

However, the benefits go beyond that. N-Fix is 100 percent environmentally safe and has been proven effective for even house plants and lawns. Referred to as a "nutrient supplement," N-Fix facilitates a healthier soil which in turn facilitates a stronger, healthier plant and increased water retention.

What does all this mean? First and foremost, it means a substantial reduction in the amounts of chemicals needed to enhance productivity. The plants need fewer chemical applications because they are stronger and healthier to begin with and therefore are more resistant to disease, insect and environmental stress. One of the specific results is improved root structure which results in improved nutrient uptake from the soil to the plants from 25 to 82 percent. Tests prove that N-Fix also increases the nutritional and protein value plus increases TDN of grains and hay. Tests also prove that cows that are fed grains and hay grown on land where N-Fix was applied produce milk with higher nutritional value, require less mineral supplements. N-Fix even makes vegetables more tasty. Once again, with the improvements in the quality of the soil, it requires less chemicals to achieve the same result...whether that result is weed control, insect control or fertilization. The precise opposite of the problem(s) we see today.

Secondly, it means reduced irrigation and energy costs due to the soil's improved tillage and increased ability to retain moisture. This directly reduces production costs.

There are documented cases this year in West Texas where farmers budgeted production energy costs of $94 dollars per acre, based upon last year's costs. In locations where those same farmers used N-Fix and moisture blocks in the soil to test the moisture, they were able to reduce their production energy costs to $54.77 an acre.

Because such documented performance is the rule rather than the exception, it is no wonder that N-Fix's popularity is growing by leaps and bounds. But even stronger testimony to its popularity is the fact that in the ten years that N-Fix has been on the market, it has never had a complaint registered against it from any department of agriculture, from any customer or from any dealer. N-Fix may not be the only company who honestly make that claim; however, it must be one of only a handful that can. An outstanding credential in any event.

It is also appropriate to realize that N-Fix does not represent an "end" to the use of fertilizers, pesticides and herbicides. Rather the beginning of their more prudent and efficient use.

First registered in the state of Texas, N-Fix is now registered in 35 states and many foreign countries. With over 400 dealers in the United States alone, N-Fix is a public company with a very promising future. A little help for mother earth? So it would seem.

Friendship State Right, Say Visitors

While it isn't advertised on state license plates, Texas friendliness does not go unnoticed by visitors to the Lone Star State.

"The Friendship State" may not be so far off after all," said J. Don Clark, director of the highway department's Travel and Information Division, after seeing results of the division's 1989 Auto Visitor Survey.

When visitors to the department's 12 Travel Information Centers were asked what they enjoyed about Texas, "friendliness" was the number-one answer, Clark noted. Although Texans rejected a proposal last summer to promote their friendly attitude on license plates, "they apparently lived the slogan, impressing their guests with good humor and helpfulness," Clark added.

Scenery, good highways, and Texas food all ranked high, too, among the 3 1/2 million visitors to the Travel Information Centers.

People who come to Texas are staying longer than their counterparts last year, the survey shows, with average stays up six percent over 1988. "This shows that the state continues to provide additional recreational, historical, and entertainment facilities that extend the visitors' Texas experience," Clark said.

San Antonio is still the most-visited city by both short-term visitors and those who stay longer than 30 days. Short-term visitors identified Dallas and Houston as their next most popular destinations, while the long-term visitors listed the winter havens of Brownsville and Harlingen.

9-1-1 System Scheduled Across Entire State

Just three simple numbers -- 9-1-1. Simple to remember, and simple to use. But not so simple to implement.

Going to the phone and dialing 9-1-1 is easy enough. It saves lives, limbs and property. Currently, more than 50 Texas communities representing more than 50 percent of the state's total population provide residents with 9-1-1 emergency telephone number access. These communities range in size from a few thousand to more than two million.

But what about the smaller cities and the rural communities in Texas that still are unable to afford the hefty price tag of even basic 9-1-1 service? These situations were the basis for House Bill 911 in the 1987 legislative session, which allows for the planning, financing and implementing of Enhances 911 service in communities all across the state.

To finance the implementation of 9-1-1 service in rural areas, telephone customers in 113 Texas counties will see a new charge on their bills as of January 1, 1990. Customers will be assessed a 9-1-1 Equalization Surcharge amounting to two-tenths of one percent (0.20%) each month on all long distance services billed within Texas. The surcharge also applies to intrastate WATS, private line and optional calling plans. In addition, customers will see a small service fee that will provide for the implementation of 9-1-1 service in their local regions.

Some customers will begin paying these charges many months before they are able to use the 9-1-1 emergency number. Why? These funds must be collected during the implementation process to cover start-up costs. Although realization of the service may not occur for up to two years in some areas, the cost is minimal when compared with saving a human life or a home.

Customers should consider the advantages of a 9-1-1 emergency service for their communities: Easy to remember; Easy to dial; Faster access to emergency service; Better coordination of emergency agencies; Calls are answered by emergency communications.

Customers are cautioned, however, that not every community in every county has access to 9-1-1 at this time. If there is any doubt whether the service is available in your area, contact your local telephone company or emergency service providers.

For more information regarding the statewide 9-1-1 service, contact the Advisory Commission on State Emergency Communications at 512/327-1911.

Today American Youth Face Health Concerns

American adults today are a health-conscious generation, but a major concern for many health educators in the unhealthy state of the younger generation.

An American Health Foundation study more than 10 years ago indicated that as many as 40 percent of school children between 11 and 14 had one or more of the arteriosclerosis risk factors: overweight, elevated cholesterol, cigarette smoking, poor physical fitness, hypertension or diabetes.

Wenona Gibson
Funeral Services
Held Saturday
 Funeral services for Wenona Gibson, 78, were held at 2 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 13 in the First United Methodist Church with the Rev. David Hamblin, pastor of St. Paul's United Methodist Church at Abilene, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Richard Edwards.

Burial was in Enochs Cemetery under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home of Muleshoe. Mrs. Gibson died at 11:25 a.m. Thursday in Muleshoe Area Health Care Center.

Born May 26, 1911, in Erick, Okla., she had been a resident of Muleshoe since 1956, moving here from Enochs, where she had lived since 1934. She retired from Bailey County Electric in 1972, after 12 years of service. She was a member of the Muleshoe First United Methodist Church. Her husband Milborn "Gib" Gibson died in 1982.

Survivors include a son, Gail "Hoss" Gibson of Muleshoe; a daughter, Ann Clements of Muleshoe; a sister, Juandell Ligon of Littlefield; a brother, M.C. "Bud" Street, Jr. of Muleshoe; six grandchildren; and seven great grandchildren.

Clois Cowan
Former Muleshoe

Man Dies
 Funeral services for Clois Norman Cowan, 62, of Bowie were held recently at Burgess-Fry Funeral Home with Jamie Reed, Baptist lay minister, officiating.

Burial was in Tage Cemetery under the direction of Burgess-Fry Funeral Home. Cowan died at his home.

Born Jan. 22, 1927, in Electra, he was a former Muleshoe resident, growing up in this area. He had been a resident of Bowie 25 years and was a retired truck driver and a Methodist.

Survivors include his wife, Chesta; five daughters, Clara Trahern of Bowie, Jeri Page of Decatur, Deloris Horton of Nocona, Susan Jordan of Dallas and Myra Jones of Liverpool, N.Y.; and nine grandchildren.

"The situation has not improved since that study was completed. Children today are fatter than children in past decades," said Darra Bullard, a fitness specialist at Methodist Hospital's Centre for Cardiac Rehabilitation and Fitness. "Recent estimates indicate that 15 to 25 percent of American school children are obese."

In addition, obese children often become obese adults. If obesity remains untreated in childhood. Only one of 28 overweight children will maintain normal weight as adults, Bullard said.

The answer is a combination of a healthful diet and regular physical activity. "Establishing healthful behaviors with respect to nutrition and exercise should be a goal within the family unit. Pre-puberty and adolescence are the critical periods for developing these habits," Bullard said.

Here are some suggestions for inspiring youngsters to be active:

- Take family walks or cycling trips;
- Participate in organized sports or physical activities offered through community organizations;
- Encourage participation in physical games and creative play;

Encourage walking to and from school when possible; and

- Limit television viewing.

"Results reported in the National Children and Youth Fitness Study indicated that children who watch great amounts of television tend to be less active and are less likely to participate in physical activities. Other studies have found that children who watch a lot of television are fatter than those who watch less television," Bullard said.

BAROMETER for the FUTURE

Webster says that a barometer is an instrument measuring the weight or pressure of the atmosphere, foretelling and measuring changes of weather and altitude.

If God were to place a barometer on our lives, would we be cold, lukewarm, or on fire for the Lord. The past we can not change... the future is up to us.

"... what doth the Lord thy God require of thee, but to fear the Lord thy God, to walk in all His ways, and to love Him, and to serve the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul." ATTEND CHURCH REGULARLY

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

LOUISA'S LETTER
 Dear Louisa,
 Can people try too hard to gain the things they desire? I know a woman who would have been accepted by the nicest people in our town if she had not knocked herself out by trying to make a big impression on people she considered important. Now everyone considers her a social climber and says things about her behind her back.
 natural and not try and impress people with false ideas about themselves they would have more successful lives than they do.
 Be courteous, gentle and listen to others whether you think what they are saying is worth while or foolish. The person who tries to dominate people and conversations will not be the one to make friends and influence people.
