QUARREL ENDS WITH SHOOTING

R. E. Cole Held on $1,500 Bond Under Assault to Murder Charge Filed Here.

Formally charged with assault with intent to murder in Justice W. W. Wheeler's court here Monday morning, R. E. Cole, 24, waived preliminary trial and was returned to the county jail where he had been since Saturday, in lieu of $1,500 bond.

The defendant was charged in connection with the shooting Saturday afternoon of W. H. Garrison, age 30, at the home of his mother, Mrs. R. E. Cole, in the west part of town.

Garrison, who formerly lived at Jersey City, N. J., and who had been employed by Mrs. Cole at her dairy for about a year, was shot as he sat in his automobile. The two men had quarreled inside the house and Cole had ordered Garrison to leave, it was reported.

Immediately after the shooting, Cole walked uptown and surrendered to City Marshal Chester Huteson, who carried him to Abilene.

Muscles of Garrison's left arm were torn and his chin was grazed by a bullet from a single-barreled shot-gun, causing considerable loss of blood, but his recovery is expected. He remains at the home of Mrs. Cole where he had been staying.

Long Hunt Over a Half Dozen States is Ended as Group of Officers, Led by Texans, Ambush Pair.

Arcadia, La., May 24.—Clyde Barrow, notorious Texas outlaw and his gun man, Bonnie Parker, were ambushed and shot to death near here Wednesday in a sensational encounter with a posse led by an oldtime Texas ranger, Frank Hamer.

The law-mocking desperado whizzing along the "Big Road" highway at 85 miles an hour ran right into a trap set for him.

Before he or Bonnie Parker could get their guns into action, the officers riddled them with bullets.

The trail of the bandit pair was ended through the cunning of Hamer who with three Texans had trailed the notorious man and woman over a half dozen states for 15,000 miles. He was rewarded for his search through a ruse accomplished by the aid of a relative of an ex-convict on the promise that the convict, who had broken prison, would be given consideration by the law.

Barrow's car, running wild, careened from the road and smashed into an embankment. As the wheels spun, the posse continued to fire until the car was almost shot to pieces.

The body of the gunman, who four years ago was a minor hoodlum scarcely known outside of Dallas, was found slumped behind the steering wheel, a revolver in one hand.

Bonnie Parker died with her head between her knees. She still was clutching a machine gun.

In the wrecked car were three army rifles, two sawed-off shotguns, a dozen pistols and large quantities of ammunition, besides Bonnie Parker's machine gun. The bodies were left temporarily in the automobile awaiting the coroner's arrival.

Misses Thelma Mathews, Bessylea Russell and Dot Swafford and probably others will canvass the streets and stores all day Saturday to sell the buddy poppies and secure funds for the relief and welfare work of the V. F. W. among disabled and needy veterans.

The pilot and four passengers of an airplane crashed to their deaths late Sunday afternoon at the conclusion of ceremonies dedicating a new airport at Wink when the plane nose-dived 200 feet to the ground in view of 1,500 spectators.

Elmer L. Green, convicted of robbing a transcontinental bus near Weatherford the night of April 13, was given ten years in each of three cases, two of the sentences to run concurrent. His companion, identified as Cal Spencer, Oklahoma outlaw, was slain in Oklahoma City at the time Green was arrested.

When a Southwestern Greyhound bus crashed through the concrete guard rail of the highway overpass west of Cisco Saturday and plunged to earth 40 feet below, it took a total of four lives: Mrs. J. D. Hilton, 67, Abilene; her two-months-old baby girl; Mrs. Ethel Boney, 19, Ranger, and Ernest Golden, 27-year-old sailor, bound for his home in Mena, Ark.

Final Warning as to Stock Running Loose

A warning to owners of stock who let them run loose or tie them in violation of the city ordinance is sounded in the following statement from Mayor W. M. Elliott:

"The city of Merkel has an ordinance against letting stock run at large, also prohibiting tying them where they can get across streets and sidewalks. We called your attention to this about two weeks ago and we are giving you that have stock this second warning, also the final one, that hereafter stock that is found loose or tied where they can cross streets and sidewalks, or where they can damage any one else's property, will be placed in the city pound.

"We are asking you to co-operate with us in this, for it is not our desire to put up any one's stock; but there has been considerable complaint made to your officials about stock causing damage, and we feel sure you do not want your stock to damage any one. "Keep your stock up."

AN UNKNOWN AUTHOR.

When we say that Isaiah's own book ends with the magnificent poem, which concludes chapter 35, somebody raises an objection. "The book of Isaiah has sixty-six chapters," he says, "and how can it end at 35?" The answer is that beginning with chapter 40, this book has another author. We do not know his name, nor why he took such great pains to conceal it. Following the exile one hundred years or more after the work and writing of Isaiah himself, there were some useful but rather commonplace prophets, Haggai and Zechariah, whose messages helped on the work of rebuilding the temple, but who can not be called great men. But one truly great voice did speak out, the voice of this splendid Unknown, the author of the last chapters of the book which is all labeled with Isaiah's name.

He described himself as "the voice of a herald" crying, "Make straight in the desert a highway for our God." He called men to grade the roads, cutting down the hills and filling the valleys and preparing to go back to Zion. He does not name Isaiah nor refer to any king or event contemporary with him. On the contrary, these chapters were clearly written a hundred and fifty years later in the time of Cyrus.

Thus saith the Lord to his anointed, to Cyrus, whose right hand I have holden, to subdue nations before him; . . . I will go before thee, and make the crooked places straight: I will break in pieces the gates of brass, and cut in sunder the bars of iron:

And I will give thee the treasures of darkness, and hidden riches of secret places, that thou mayest know that I, the Lord, which call thee by thy name, am the God of Israel.

Even though Cyrus was a heathen, he was God's Messiah for that event. Talk if you like about being broad-minded! Then think of the prejudices that prophet had to overcome to make such a declaration. And think what came of it: a new nation, a new and purer worship, a new epoch in the spiritual history of mankind.

Here is his vision for the rebuilding of Jerusalem: Arise, shine; for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is arisen upon thee.

For, behold, the darkness shall cover the earth, and gross darkness the people; but the Lord arise upon thee, and his glory shall be seen upon thee.

And the Gentiles shall come to thy light, and kings to the brightness of thy rising.

And this is his dream of a regenerate society and a peaceful world; a new heaven and earth, that is, a new theology and a new political economy.

Look for Better Flavor With Electric Cooking You wouldn't believe that Electric Cooking could make so much difference in flavor! Meats and vegetables cook to melting tenderness in their own juices—with the addition of practically no water. And in the electric oven the heat rapidly sears, roasts, and prevents excessive shrinkage. Baked foods are deliciously and uniformly browned. Grilled steak has the flavor of charcoal broiling! Electric Cooking retains so much more of the nourishing elements of the food that you can actually buy less meat or vegetables and still have just as much to put upon the table! Electric ranges cook food with a speed and economy which compare favorably with any other kind of fuel! Let us demonstrate our new ranges. Of course, there is no obligation—and attractive terms can be arranged. This is the "Electrical Age." A Hotpoint range will be another step to your All-Electric Kitchen. West Texas Utilities Company

YOUR STOMACH It's time to do something when: You can't look a meal in the face; Eating always means stomach pain, distress; Gas, belching, bloating give you daily discomfort; You're nervous; you lose sleep; you're dragging around "half alive." If that describes you, then you already know baking soda and things like that don't do any lasting good. If you're going to get that stomach back on the job—to where you can eat what you like and enjoy it, sleep like a log, feel "like a million dollars"—isn't it common sense to get after the cause? Every day your body must purify itself of certain poisons and purities that otherwise result in sickness and pain. When it cannot do this vital work properly it must have help. Many already have found this help in Crazy Water Crystals. Thousands of them have written us: "I can eat what I like once more. I am sleeping soundly. I feel ten years younger." Crazy Water Crystals are taken from a great cleansing, purifying mineral water—they were prepared by old Mother Nature herself. They are not some human being's idea of how this cleansing ought to be done. Nothing is added to them. Anyone who tells you a different story does not tell the truth. This cleansing means a great deal more than just moving the bowels. This mineral water—made at home with Crazy Water Crystals—cleanses the system—not just the digestive tract. The part played by the kidneys in this purifying work is as great as, or greater than that of the bowels. And drinking this mineral water increases elimination through the kidneys as well as through the digestive tract. This explains why so many thousands of victims of other troubles besides stomach disorders—many of the aches in muscles and joints which they call "Rheumatism," "Arthritis," or "Neuritis;" terrible backaches; headaches; loss of size and extreme nervousness; and some things less serious, like ugly skin, foul breath, etc.—bless the very name "CRAZY." The way to up-root a trouble like this is to get right at its cause. We do not believe Crazy Water Crystals are magic. They are not a cure all. But if your life is being made miserable by one of these troubles give them a thorough, honest trial. Get a package to day. Stay with them a month at least. It will cost you only a few pennies a day, at the most. And then let your own common sense tell you how much better you feel. BUY THEM FROM Merkel Drug Co. THE BADGER WEEKLY

ANNUALS CAUSE MUCH EXCITEMENT AMONG STUDENTS

Friday was a big day for the Seniors. No, it wasn't because examinations started. It was because we got something which we had been watching and waiting for for weeks and weeks.

The Annuals were delivered to their owners Friday at noon. Most of the pupils seemed well pleased. Those who said they were disappointed, we noticed, hung on to their copies pretty tightly.

FAREWELL

As we come to the end of this year's work, we can look back over many happy and fruitful hours and, yet, over many errors and disappointments. We feel that this has been one of the best parts of our high school life, and we wish to thank every one who has helped us in this work during the year.

"If we have made mistakes, they have been of the head and not of the heart." That is the reason we feel a real pang of regret at the thought of saying farewell. Perhaps that is one of the reasons that we can so sincerely hope for you who remain a better "Badger Weekly" next year.

—The Staff.

CHAPEL

On Friday, May 18, the Noodle Choral club entertained the student body during the chapel hour with songs and readings. Among the songs were "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf," "Stormy Weather," "The Big Brown Bear," "Throw Another Log Long On the Fire," "The Old Spinning Wheel" and "Goofer."

The Badger Weekly

Published weekly by the students of Merkel High School and sponsored by the Senior Class of '34—Mrs. R. B. Irvin, Sponsor.

The Staff:

Editor-in-Chief—Walderrine Huskey. Assistant Editor—Helen Joyner. Society Editor—Billy Gardner. Sports Editor—Kennedy Whiteley. Joke Editor—Jack West.

Things to Remember Them By

Mr. Burgess—"If you're going to dance, you must help pay the fiddler."

The Badgers—"We're going to play ball till the whistle blows."

The Pen Squad—"Fight 'em—fight 'em—fight 'em, Badgers, fight!"

Coach Irvin—"Don't wait until your Senior year to come out."

The Dramatic club—"Friday night at 7:30 in Mrs. Haynes' studio."

Mrs. Irvin—"Always is a dangerous word."

Mrs. Haynes—"Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm."

The Choral and Glee clubs—"Paper Prayers," "Kentucky Babe" and "The Clock."

Miss Patterson—"Now, let's put everything we have into this."

Blue Badgerettes—"Blue checked dresses and laughing dispositions."

Miss Martin—"You do your part, instead of watching to see what the other fellow is doing."

Mr. Riddle—"Don't just work for a grade. Study to learn, and the grade will take care of itself."

M. H. S.—"Pep, pep, pep. Three cheers for our old High! Voices ring. Pep, pep, pep. Just see our colors fly. While we sing (we're full of pep in everything). So forward march. Let this our motto be—Victory!"

Through all kinds of weather We will jog along together. True and loyal we shall ever be!"

WHO WAS FOOLED? Mr. Burgess, while on a visit to Grammar school, was complaining to the teacher that the children were not observing. Stepping to the board, he said he would show what he meant.

Mr. Burgess: "Johnny, give me a number." Johnny: "58."

Mr. Burgess wrote 85 on the board without any comment from the pupils. "You see," he remarked to the teacher, "they don't observe."

Mr. Burgess: "James, you give a number." James: "57," and 75 appeared on the board.

Then, spying Tim O'Brien, who lisped, he said: "You give me a number." Tim: "Theventy-seven, and twit that around if you can."

DRAMATIC CLUB HAS FAREWELL MEETING FRIDAY

On Friday night, May 18, at eight o'clock, the Dramatic club held its last meeting of the year in Mrs. Haynes' studio. The program was started by each introducing the person to his right to the audience.

Pauline Lassater, Joe Earl Lassater and Horiette Rogers were called to act as chairmen for impromptu stunts—"The Magic Pill," and "A Negro Minstrel," "Freak of Nature."

Then Gertrude and Clovis Stanley gave us a couple of musical numbers, followed by a reading, "Kentucky Philosophy," by Bessie Lou Russell.

"The Valiant," a one-act play, was given by the boys of the Dramatic club. Jack Patterson, Kenneth Cribley, Vernon Davis, Clovis Stanley, Howard Carson and the girl of the play, Mary Helen Lancaster.

Refreshments were served then to the club members and to several visitors. In our last business meeting, Helen Joyner gave a summary of all the motifs and the hosts of club meetings.

Walderrine Huskey gave a summary of the play work done in the Dramatic club this year. Vivian Davis was elected president of the Dramatic club for next year.

Mrs. Haynes suggested that we consider our meeting closed after the audience stood and sang "Auld Lang Syne."

Schoolhouse Gossip

The Seniors have been handing out their cards in large numbers. The Juniors are going to decorate the church for the commencement exercises.

Merkel's going to have a new gym—auditorium, and some of the Seniors wish they were coming back next year.

The Spanish III class have been giving three short plays for under classes.

Ask Ruth Davis if she thinks she's smart.

Vivian Lassater is the biggest baby in the world.

Ask Sarah if she likes dinner parties.

Some of the trig students brushed some of the dust off their brains Monday, so we heard.

We wonder if Sis likes to walk on hot days like Monday while her car is gently moving along beside her.

Ask Clara Frances and Helen where they attained the art of putting a worm on the fishing hook.

Some of the Seniors have been looking as if they're been weeping—we wonder if it's because this is their last year in High school.

AT THE CROSSROADS.

—Richard Harvey.

You to the left and I to the right. For the ways of men must sever— And it will may be for a day and a night.

And it will may be forever. But whether we meet or whether we part

(For our ways are past our knowing). A pledge from the heart to its fellow heart

On the ways we all are going! Here's luck! For we know not where we are going.

Whether we win or whether we lose With the hands that life is dealing It is not we nor the way we choose

But the fall of the cards that's sealing. There's a fate in love and a fate in fight.

And the best of us all go under— And whether we're wrong or whether we're right.

We win, sometimes, to our wonder. Here's luck! That we may not yet go under!

You to the left and I to the right. For the ways of men must sever— And it will may be for a day or a night

And it will may be forever! But whether we live or whether we die

(For the end is past our knowing). Here's two frank hearts and the open sky.

Be a fair or an ill wind blowing! Here's luck! In the teeth of all winds blowing.

ASK: Mildred W. and Mary Helen M. why they cut up so much Sunday afternoon.

Bessie if he isn't a bit hasty in his love affairs.

Kennedy what qualifications his wife is going to have.

Joe if he isn't too "infant-like" to play golf.

Sarah S. if she is really a man-hater or would just like to be.

Sis Gamble if she really went with Murray Toombs Sunday night.

Faye why she doesn't like bananas.

Why Doctors Favor a Liquid Laxative

A doctor will tell you that the careful use of strong laxatives may do more harm than good.

Harsh laxatives often drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and even affect the liver and kidneys.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be regulated to suit individual need. It forms no habit; you needn't take a "double dose" a day or two later.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin gently helps the average person's bowels back to regularity. Why not try it! Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is little "convenience" in any cathartic which is taken so frequently, you must carry it with you, wherever you go!

Its very taste tells you Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is wholesome. A delightful taste, and delightful action. Safe for expectant mothers, and children. All druggists, ready for use, in big bottles. Member N. R. A

OBITUARY

MRS. DOVIE SMITH HOWARD.

Mrs. Dovie Smith Howard, "Aunt Dovey" as she was known by her many friends, passed away Sunday, May 20, at 9 a. m., after an illness of nine months with tumor. She was born July 20, 1871, and hence was 62 years and 10 months old. She was converted at the age of 18 years, united with the Missionary Baptist church and has been faithful to the cause, having her membership at the time of her death at Amity.

Funeral services were held at 11 o'clock Monday morning from the Noodle Baptist church, with Rev. Bill Murdock, officiating. Interment was in Rose Hill cemetery.

Pall bearers were: A. M. Daniels, John Carr, Will Welty, George Cooper, Robert Shanks and Grady Bishop.

She was married to Felix Howard on March 20, 1908, and to this union were born two children, Fate Aubrey and Louvenia, who are now 24 and 21 years old, respectively. She also leaves a mother, Mrs. A. T. Smith, age 81 years; two brothers, W. H. and C. C. Smith, all of Merkel; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Gay, Maryneal, Mrs. Annie Inman, Fort Worth, and Mrs. Essie Lazenby, Big Spring, all of whom were present during the last days of her illness. Her father preceded her in death in 1924 and also a brother, Jeff Smith, in 1931. Her husband passed away in 1926.

She was a loving wife and mother and had lots of friends, for "to know her was to love her." We shall miss her, we know, yet we would not call her back here to suffer so. The Golden Gates were open wide, a gentle voice said "come," and angels from the other side welcomed our loved one home. There she sleeps in peaceful slumber. The voice we loved is still. Oh, we miss her, yes we miss her, but must bow to His will, knowing
We can live to meet her
If we're faithful, pure and true,
And be gathered home to glory
In the land beyond the blue.

—A Loving Sister,

Mrs. Annie Inman,

 So many other things claimed our attention that the program, "Desserts for All Occasions," was postponed indefinitely.
 The quilt, which was made by our club, was given away at the regular community singing on Friday evening, L. T. Goode winning the award. Adequate funds were raised from the quilt to defray expenses of two delegates to the annual Short Course at College Station in July.

Telegram Advises of Death of Son-in-Law

Ernest Tarpley received a telegram Sunday from his daughter, Mrs. G. G. Ingram, of East End, Sask., Canada, informing him of her husband's death. Mr. Ingram died at 8 o'clock Saturday evening of apoplexy. His wife alone survives him, as there are no children.
 He and his wife homesteaded in Canada in 1914, just a short while after they were married. They have made two trips to the states to see Mrs. Ingram's father since that time, once in 1924 and again in 1929.
 Mr. Ingram's death came as a shock to his father-in-law, as on Wednesday of last week he had received a letter from his daughter stating they were both well and Mr. Ingram was busy seeding his grain.

The Dollar Bride

Mary Inlay Taylor

SEVENTEENTH INSTALLMENT.

THE STORY SO FAR

Nancy Gordon trades herself in marriage with Dr. Richard Morgan for fifteen thousand dollars—to save her family from the disgrace of her brother Roddy's theft of that amount for a woman. Nancy loves penniless young Page Roemer, and Richard is loved by Helena Haddon, a sophisticated young married woman. Kingdon Haddon, Helena's husband, sees the elopers, but holds his counsel. After the ceremony, Nancy returns to her parents' home, and continues to see Page, who urges her to divorce her husband. Mr. Gordon, to release his daughter from what he considers her shameful marriage, sells his house to his friend Major Lomax, who rents it to the original owner. Helena is jealous of Richard's interest in Nancy, although she knows nothing of the marriage, and tries to make trouble. Once Page comes to Nancy's home and makes love to her, Nancy is frantic—she ~~hates~~ ~~Page~~ ~~but~~ refuses to go back on her bargain with Richard by divorcing him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"Don't touch me, Helena," Richard said, not ungently, looking down at her kindly. "It's diphtheria."

"I don't care!" she cried. "you're worn out—where's the nurse? Who's that? Why—Nancy Gordon!"

Nancy, facing them sullenly, felt that she looked a fright.

"I came in because of the storm," she said sharply. "I'm going now!"

"My car's up the road, Page, help Nancy over the hill; she's exhausted, too," said Helena sweetly, "been sick nursing all night, I suppose?"

"No, she hasn't; she can't stay, and you can't either, Helena," said Richard sharply. "Roemer, can you take a message for me? Send my man down here?"

"Of course. I'll phone—I reckon some wires are up. Mrs. Haddon, you're coming with Nancy and me?"

Nancy, at the door, looked back full in their faces. She was outlined against the sunshine, small and slight and mightily defiant.

"I'm not going in the car, I'm going on foot," she said flatly. "Richard, I'll send the nurse, if she can leave her case."

"Nancy—" Richard took a step forward, but she never turned her head. They could see her walking straight and steadily across the wet path to the road.

Page uttered an exclamation and ran after her. Nancy was at the top of the hill when he overtook her.

Unconsciously, the other two stood at the door and watched. They saw Page reach her and Nancy turned, said something, and walked on. But the young man, nothing daunted, pressed close behind her.

Helena, watching and listening keenly, heard the fierce catch in Richard's breath. Then she looked up at him and stood still, her heart beating heavily against her breast. All the life and the light had run out of his look. "A lover's quarrel," she said lightly, "they were together yesterday at the inn. It was a quarrel that made her run out—he's been mad looking for her."

Richard stood rigid. Helena's hand tightened on his arm. She dared it all in one toss of the dice!

"Page is a good fellow," she said dreamily, "and—it's a pity—I don't think she's worth it, is she?"

He turned and looked straight into her face. "I love her!" he said with magnificent simplicity. Then he shook her hand off. "You'd better go home at once, Helena. You'll get diphtheria here!"

She broke down wildly, clenching her hands against her breast, her long eyes blazing the anger at him.

"I wish I could," she panted. "I wish I could."

But even her fury did not move him now; he sent her home.

Helena was late coming home that day. Haddon had returned from the bank, and was sitting in his study when he heard his wife enter the house.

"How's Polestar?" she asked lazily. Haddon stopped smoking for a moment. "He's going to get over it. I sent for Arlou—first rate man, you know. That confounded boy!"

Helena laughed hysterically. "It wasn't the boy's fault," she said. "I've been out with Page Roemer searching for that girl—you know she ran out of the inn in the rain? Page is in love with her, and I had to help him find her. Where do you suppose she was?"

Haddon shrugged. "How the devil do I know? With Morgan I suppose."

His wife started. A new and rending suspicion laid hold of her.

"You look fagged out. Better get Johnson to make you a stiff cup of coffee," he advised coolly. "You look all in."

"She was with Morgan. She'd gone into that wretched Kinney woman's shack. The child's down with diphtheria. She and Morgan were there all night, if you please, taking care of that child!"

Haddon threw his head back and laughed heartily.

"Mighty convenient to have diphtheria sometimes, isn't it?"

His cool enjoyment of a thing that was biting into her very soul infuriated Helena.

"You met Nancy Gordon in Washington—I mean, you saw her there once, King," she said slowly, with studied coolness. "I remember your saying something—what was she doing there anyway?"

He laughed shortly, a malicious light showing in the back of his eyes.

"She was with Dick Morgan, that's all," he answered her dryly. "They left there together—the day I went to the golf tournament. Afterwards, I went to register at the hotel. I've never said a word about it—and, look here, Helena, you can't either. Mind that, I won't be party to a scandal!"

"Why?" she asked in a smothered voice.

"They'd registered as man and wife—that's all!"

Helena drew a long breath. Before his eyes she grew as white as a dying woman. He half rose from his chair with an inarticulate exclamation, but she rallied, straightened herself and stood erect. He sank back in his chair with a foolish laugh, like a man in sudden relief from pain.

His wife was summoning all her strength to walk slowly to the door. She must be alone! Something in the suppressed fury of her look warned him; he knew he had been rash.

"Helena!" he said sharply.

"What is it?"

He leaned forward earnestly, cautioning her with a raised hand of warning.

"Mind not a word of this!" he said sharply. "no scandal involving me—even in hearsay."

She looked over her shoulder at him with an odd twisted smile.

"Do you really think I care—one way or the other—about that girl?" she asked scornfully.

"No," he said dryly. "but I'm pretty damned sure now—that you do—for the man."

She had her hand on the door and she met his eyes with fire in her look, and hatred. But she said nothing.

Up in her own room, Helena was sitting on the edge of her bed, white teeth set hard. She was going over and over those crazy moments when she had made a fool of herself, and lately—yes, lately she had been no better than a mendicant begging the alms of love!

And all the while it was Nancy Gordon! He loved the girl! Yet the tide of her hatred was turning—not on him—but on Nancy. Nancy was a woman, and Helena knew where to strike a woman. Fury rose in her like a tide.

She was ripe for any madness.

Before she knew it, before she had time to think of the incredible wickedness of what she did, she went to the telephone—

Old Major Lomax, just recovered from his prolonged attack of gout, got to his desk and began to figure on William Gordon's indebtedness to him. Not even the house had quite wiped out Gordon's initial plunge. It wasn't like Gordon. Of course there was a reason.

Lomax had his own suspicions, fed up by letters from his cousin in the trust company. Old man Beaver had conceived a chronic distrust for young Gordon. "Going on another bat, I think," he wrote Lomax, "something eating the boy—women or wine or something, can't make it out. Don't lend the old man too much."

Major Lomax rubbed the end of his nose with his pen. He was thinking of Nancy when he heard the front door shut violently and the rush of feet in the hall. Angie came in, dropped into a chair by his desk and began to cry. The major eyed her for a moment, then laid down his pen.

"What's the matter? Shut off the water-works! What's wrong now, child? Who's hurt your feelings?"

Angie dashed away her tears, choking and gasping.

"I'm not hurt, I'm mad!" she said fiercely. "Uncle Robert, they're saying things—perfectly awful things about Nancy Virginia."

The old man picked up his pen mechanically and added up two sets of figures. His niece strangled another sob.

"It's about Richard Morgan—it's—it's perfectly awful, Uncle Robert."

One thousand, nine hundred and ninety-nine plus—The major suspended his pen.

"Tell me the whole business, Angie."

The girl's eyes fell before his.

"It's a horrid thing, uncle!"

"Humph! Where did you get it?" Angie told him. The woman had a good name, not much of a gossip either, she had it on good authority. "Everybody knows!" Angie sobbed.

"I—I'd like to kill Dr. Morgan!"

"You haven't told me what it is yet," said her uncle dryly.

"I hate to soil my mouth with such talk!" his niece cried, her face aflame.

Little by little the old man drew the story out of her. It had grown since Helena started it, and it was very reasonable.

The major drummed on his desk with his fingers, his eyes fixed on the distant view from his window. He had known Richard from boyhood. Not a usual boy, a good deal of a man always, the major thought.

"It's a darned lie, Angie," he said finally.

"Of course it is!" she agreed, "and you've got to stop it, Uncle Robert."

The major patted her hand. "That's right! I like to hear you, but you can't stop women's tongues, child. You'd better get Nancy to come out with the truth. That's the way to meet it."

"As if she had anything to tell—she can't have!" Angie turned indignant eyes upon him.

He shook his head. "No! But there's something at the bottom of it; too much smoke, Angie."

It was ten days before Haddon heard the story, a gabled story, but he came home white with rage.

"By God, Helena, if I thought you'd started this!" he stormed fiercely, finding her alone in her room.

She looked him over from head to foot, beautiful and insolent.

"Do you imagine you were the only one to read that register?" she asked cuttingly.

He recoiled in spite of himself. Of course he had been a fool and flown off the handle about nothing.

"No," he answered coldly.

"Lord!" he said, "women are the devil!" and he heard his wife's laugh, as he shut the door.

At first, Nancy suspected nothing, but she felt a change, subtle, complete, chilling. The old friendly atmosphere seemed to recede and leave her marooned. She fancied that it had something to do with Polestar. Haddon had made a great deal of that incident, he had discharged Henry and told the whole story. Major Lomax overtook her one day on her way home.

"Going down to Warrenton tomorrow to spend the day with Angie and her cousin?" he asked pleasantly.

Nancy smiled. "Why, yes, Angie asked me—she says her cousin told her she might bring a friend. There's a cross country race, isn't there?"

The old man nodded. "Angie won't ride, I've forbidden her. She can't keep her seat on one of Jack Fuller's horses. I believe you're a reckless young devil, Nancy. I suppose you'll go it strong?"

The girl's face brightened perceptibly. "I love to ride, major, and—I love horses."

"Hum, didn't think about sparing race horses though?" he observed dryly.

Nancy's cheeks blazed red. "Major, they've made such a fuss about that—I can see it, the very way people stare at me!"

The old man stopped short, leaning on his cane, and peered at her.

"That isn't the reason people stare at you, my child," he said gravely.

Nancy lifted startled eyes to his face; what she saw there frightened her.

The major drew a pattern on the ground with his cane.

CHEVROLET OVERHEAD VALVE SIX

is the most economical car in the world

Engineering facts prove it. Experience in building nearly ten million cars confirms it. And the record of over 3,000,000 Chevrolet Six owners removes any shadow of doubt about it: The only way to get real economy in a low-priced car is to insist on SIX cylinders and OVERHEAD valves.

SIX cylinders—no more!—because extra cylinders mean extra cost for gas, oil, upkeep and parts. OVERHEAD valves—nothing else!—for the same good reason that airplanes use them. And speedboats. And racing cars. They get the MOST power out of the LEAST gas. That's why overhead valves are the choice of leaders—and champions. CHEVROLET MOTOR CO., DETROIT, MICH. BRIDGE GAMES.

Mesdames L. C. Zehpfennig and George West, Jr., were hostesses to contract devotees Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Zehpfennig at a party of charming appointments. The apartment was delightfully decorated with sweet peas, mock orange blossoms and red carnations, forming a pretty setting for the game hour. Dainty candies were served during the games and at the refreshment hour a refreshing limo-fizz with ice box cookies was served at tables which stressed the pink and green color scheme, centered with sweet peas. Guests of Mrs. West and Mrs. Zehpfennig were Mesdames Sidney Foy, F. C. McFarland, Lige Gamble, Jack Anderson, J. E. Boaz, Jr., George White, R. O. Pearson, Bob Mayfield, H. L. Duffer, Charles Largent, W. T. Sadler, Milton Case, Misses Cecilia Zehpfennig, Mary Elizabeth Grimes, Christine Collins and Nell Durham.

They were presented by Mrs. Garner. Mrs. Mary Vanlandingham was not present to receive her pin. Applications of Mrs. Nellie Matthews and Lillian Matthews were passed on.

The charter was draped at a previous meeting in memory of Mrs. Mary E. LaRocca, our national president. Mrs. LaRocca was a woman of high ideals and to know her was to love her.

A short program was rendered by members, including greetings by Mrs. Elizabeth Allday, piano selections by Mrs. Pearl Hollingsworth and a poem, "Smiles," read by Mrs. Nancy Polley.

Everyone brought cakes, which were judged by Mesdames Richards, Sublett and Renfro. Mrs. F. A. Polley's white layer cake was declared the best. Mrs. C. P. Church demonstrated angel food cake. Recipes were exchanged and Mrs. Jack Anderson gave an interesting lecture on the care of the skin and hair.

Punch and cake plate was served to the following members: Mesdames C. P. Church, W. A. McCandless, L. J. Renfro, W. L. Blair, R. J. Mathews, Sr., R. J. Mathews, Jr., F. A. Polley, J. B. Campbell, C. H. Jones, B. T. Sublett, Mack Buzbee, and Misses Mary Keny, Maurine White and Nola Provine, and one visitor, Mrs. Richards.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

We had a good crowd out Sunday morning to hear our pastor preach from the first ten verses of the first chapter of Colossians. He had just returned from the convention at Fort Worth and was quite enthusiastic about the year's work.

Monday afternoon the W. M. U. had an instructive Bible study conducted by Brother Jovner. We have been studying the book of Revelations for several months.

Wednesday evening all who went to the convention gave reports at prayer meeting, which were greatly enjoyed by all who heard them.

NAZARENE CHURCH.

The Apostle Paul in addressing Timothy penned the following words: "Preach the word; be instant in season, out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort with all long-suffering and doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers having itching ears; and they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables." There are more people in the world today that would enjoy "pulpit fables" than there are that would be pleased with "thus sayeth the Lord." There is a great demand for teachers that will justify the people in their lust, but the man that will preach the word in all its purity is looked upon as a model-T and is rather out of date. But

NORTHSIDE MISSIONARY BAPTIST CHURCH.

"The Devil dressed in the garb of Christianity," or "Wolves in Sheep Clothing," will be the subject for next Saturday night. We shall turn on the light of the word of God and expose the rotten, undermining schemes of the powers of darkness that are parading in the name of Christianity.

"Spiritual wickedness" in "high places" is one power the Bible admonishes us to wrestle against. I hate the devil and shall do my best to make him mad.

Bill Dowell will preach Sunday morning and Sunday night. If you want to hear a real sermon on "hell, hell fire and damnation," extreme misery and eternal punishment, then hear Bill Sunday night.

We hope that every member of our Bible School will be present with a new member Sunday morning. We welcome you to our services.

Ernest C. Dowell, Pastor.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Three-eighths of an inch rainfall Thursday morning, added to the early Tuesday morning visitation, brought this week's rainfall to five-eighths of an inch. Total for the year so far is 6 and 7-8 inches.

Shannon's swimming pool, opened for the season two weeks ago, has proved a most popular resort during the recent hot days. As an innovation this year, John Shannon is using the reserve pool to catch up enough water so that when the big pool is drained it can be re-filled without the loss of any time to patrons.

Among the earliest to start combining this year, J. T. Warren harvested about 1,500 bushels of oats last Saturday on his 23 acre farm on Mulberry creek.
