Dedication, discipline, education and a chance to give something to the community, two Garza County 4-H members echo each other in describing why they participate in the youth program. They both have different stories, but the end goal is similar for Labeth Jones and Ryan Wufjen as they prepared for the annual Garza County Junior Livestock Show that kicked off Tuesday, January 19. Both are looking to gain from the experience.

Jones, a junior at Post High School, is starting her ninth year in 4-H. She will be showing two lambs at this year's Garza County Livestock Show.

The outgoing teenager laughs when she remembers how she got started in the lamb business.

"I inherited them I guess," said Jones. "I saw how much fun my sister had showing lambs and I got as attached to her lambs as she did."

This attachment led to a funny incident at the Garza County Livestock Show sale when Jones was four years old. Not realizing that her sister could keep her show lamb after the sale, Jones said that when "Freckles" was in the sale ring, she called out "don't sell her".

Jones said she still gets attached to her lambs, "but I don't cry anymore" when they are sold.

Her show lambs for the 1993 Garza County Junior Livestock Association Show have kept Jones pretty busy. She works with them about seven to eight hours a week, depending on the weather. The approach of the stock show though has altered Jones' schedule. Instead of spending about 30 minutes a day working with the lambs, she spends two to three times this amount washing and clipping them in preparation

For exercise Jones turns the lambs out in a big lot and chases them. Other days, she turns them out in a pasture and chases them from horseback. Jones sees 4-Has a great way to build character.

"You get to meet so many new people and have so many opportunities," said Jones. "The leadership opportunities are outstanding and of course, you get to have fun."

'The Odd Couple' worth watching

Garza Theatre's production of the Neil Simon comedy, "The Odd Couple." is a definite keeper. From the opening poker scene to the finale, this side-splitting comedy puts the Garza Theatre well on its way to a successful 1993 season.

Under the guidance of Garza Theatre managing director Jane Prince-Jones. "The Odd Couple" stars Jon Steele as the finicky Felix Unger and David Weaver Jr. as the ultimate slob, Oscar Madison.

With freshly pressed attire, perfect hair and annoying habits, Steele is more than convincing as Felix. Watching his non-stop fussing over the apartment, rigid adherence to schedules and other habits, it is easy to understand why his wife has kicked him out. Steele conveys Unger's emotional torment at his separation well, especially when the two bachelors are "entertaining" a couple of lady friends. Weaver seems custom made to play Madison, complete with scraggly beard, unkempt hair and boisterous attitude. He seems quite happy with his bachelorhood and the freedoms he enjoys. That is, until he offers to put up Felix after his wife has kicked him out. After a few weeks of Felix's eccentricities. Oscar is ready for his roomy to leave. The scene where Oscar confronts Felix and orders him out after the date fiasco is more than worth the price of admission Poker buddies Murray, (Mike Toombs); Roy, (Randall Laurence); Vinnie, (Sammy Basquez) and Speed, (Michael Stearns) create a certain and successful chemistry while on stage. The dialog is almost non-stop as the four friends of the "Odd Couple" do their best to help the mismatched pair. Murray, the man is headed for a nervous breakdown. Roy, he just wants to play poker. Vinnie is preparing for his vacation in Florida (in July) and Speed, he is the consummate grouch. Gwendolyn, (Alison Hoefler) and Cecily, (Cassie Coker) are the Pigeon sisters. They provide the romantic opportunity for Oscar and Felix. With their Cockney accents and flamboyant clothes, the two make quite an impression on Oscar who is hungry for some female companionship. Felix is a less than enthusiastic partner for Oscar's double date. The result is disastrous, for Oscar. The play will be performed two more weekends in January (21-24 and 28-31).

Jones has made the most of her 4-H opportunity. She is the president of the 4-H County Council, a district delegate council member and the first vicepresident of her county club, Lucky Clover 4-H.

Wufjen, 10, is just beginning his 4-H career. He is in his second year of 4-H. The Post Elementary fourth grader has taken on swine has his primary 4-H project. He went with them because "lambs were too much trouble," with the shearing and washing.

Wufjen heads into the Garza County Stock Show with six hogs. From these he has chosen three to show.

He got them ready for the show by walking them at the Garza County Showbarn, this is also where he keeps them. That he can get the hogs back in their pen after their exercise is mpressive, considering a pigs contrary nature.

Show time is one of Wufjen's avorites. He likes getting his hogs in show condition.

"My favorite thing is getting them nice and trim," said Wufjen. "You also get a lot of money for them at the sale." He's worked with his project hogs ust about every day since he got them back in September. The cold weather has hampered him a bit of late.

"It's been getting cold when I come outhere," he says with a grin.

Wufjen has aspirations of becoming a county agent. He sees 4-H as a good experience and providing an opportunity for college scholarships. A little bit nearer in the future, Wufjen says he has his sights set on being president of his county 4-H club.

Recycling is a good idea, but the ewards are more social than economic, this according to Celeste Hoehne, a director with the Keep Texas Beautiful campaign.

The OS Ranch Museum will present a retrospective view of the South Pacific during World War II through the lens of Post Dispatch founder Eddie Warren.

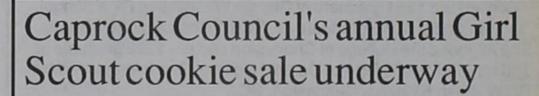

The museum will mount the show of Warren's pictures along with modern photos taken by Giles McCrary beginning Sunday, January 31 with a special viewing from 1-4 p.m.

During World War II, Warren was designated as an official Naval photographer. He was given the task of Photographing the people and conditions of the South Pacific Islands.

The show will provide an interesting contrast as McCrary toured the same area in 1990, taking photos from 50 years later.

According to museum director Marie Neff, there is little difference in the way the islands look, even though they were taken almost a half a century apart.

Following the special showing, the exhibit will be on display during the museum's regular viewing hours of Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

He said on the other hand, if the school system missed kids in kindergarten, the chances of them failing later on in school were greater.

Nation's cotton stocks show increase

Although U.S. cotton stocks will be increasing by 600,000 bales and world stocks at adequate levels, a leader of the cotton industry told participants at the Beltwide Cotton Conferences in New Orleans recently that he sees the beginning of a trend change in cotton prices.

Current supply and demand factors should bring cotton futures "back in the traditional range between 60 and 80 cents," said Thomas W. Smith, president of Calcot, Ltd., of Bakersfield, Calif. He predicted that a 65 cent futures price "will be traded by this time next year."

Lange said. "That means everyone who depends on agriculture for a living needs a voice in what those government programs will be. Insofar as cotton is concerned, the most influential voice in cotton policy is the National Cotton Council."

Jerry Calvani, cotton farmer from Carlsbad, NM, who is president of the National Cotton Council, also stressed the role government plays in the industry's future. "There are more than 120 new members of Congress who need to know of the importance of cotton to our nation's economy," he said.

This week will be a very busy one for the Garza County Extension Office with the county Junior Livestock show and the County Fair planned for Thursday through Saturday. Both of these activities take lots of preparation and lots of behind the scenes work by many people to make them a success. Thanks to all who are helping.

It is our hope that all of you who can, will make it a priority to come out and enjoy the livestock show and the fair with use. Every young person and every adult who participates in both of these events will appreciate your caring enough to come out and see what they have been doing in preparation of their projects.

The kids and their parents have spent lots of time selecting, caring for and training their animals for the show. They have all learned good things from their projects. Probably the best thing to come out of the livestock projects is the time kids and parents have spent together working with the animals. Recent studies tell us that the average parent spends about 15 minutes per day in meaningful conversation with their child. Most conversation between parents and children consists of instruction giving or other forms of "parent to

HIV is tenth leading cause of death in Texas

For the second year in a row, infection by the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) which causes AIDS was the tenth leading cause of death in the state during 1991. According to the Texas Department of Health's (TDH) Bureau of Vital Statistics, 2,065 persons, or about 12 per 100,000 population died from HIV infection or its complications. National estimates indicate that HIV jumped from eleventh place in the nation's leading causes of death in 1990 to ninth place in 1991. Tom Pollard, director of the bureau's Statistical Services Division, said that although the proportion of deaths attributed to HIV show steady growth, four other causes of death still comprise more that 60 percent of all deaths, both in Texas and in the nation. "Heart disease has for years led_ the list, claiming 39,215 in Texas last year," Pollard said. He explained, "That was a slight reduction from 39,443 heart fatalities in 1990. Deaths from cancer, ranking second most numerous, increased from 28,483 in 1990 to 28,960 in Similarly, third-ranked 1991. cerebrovascular disease claimed 8,399 lives in 1991, compared to 8.388 in 1990.

child" talking. Studies tell us that parents of kids with livestock and other 4-H projects spend an average of 60 minutes a day with their children in discussions that are not just the parent giving instructions to the child. This kind of parent-child relationship is what our kids need and what most of them are getting from the projects they are about to show. We congratulate Livestock Show participants and their parents on a job well done.

Adults and youth are eligible to enter various items in the County Fair. Fair books have been placed various places around town. I hope you will look one over and find a category you want to enter. Come by the Extension Office if you want to pick up a book.

Youth entries will be received at the Show Barn from 4:00 to 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday. Adult and youth entries will be accepted from 7:30 a.m. to 12:30 noon on Thursday. Fair doors will be closed for judging at 1:00 p.m. Doors will be opened when judging and ribbon placement is complete. I hope exhibitors will abide by these rules. It will make the fair better and will allow the volunteers to do their jobs efficiently and pleasantly.

Hope to see you at the Livestock Show and Fair!

Ft Worth stock show plans top notch entertainment

Fort Worth Stock Show Rodeo champ; Joe Beaver of Huntsville, fans will be delighted with the fantastic array of special entertainment planned for the 28 performances of the World's Original Indoor Rodeo in Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum January 22 through February 7.

The excitement will begin with cowboys and challengers as they concentrate their best efforts against what has been described as the toughest rodeo stock available in the sport.

Neal Gay of Mesquite, Texas, again will serve as rodeo production manager. He has selected a team of stock providers who rank among the best in the nation to assure that cowboys will only be out on the top bucking, roping and dogging stock.

The rodeo production team includes stock from nine companies, bringing a high percentage of the National Finals Rodeo bucking stock here.

An outstanding team of rodeo bull fighting clowns are also scheduled to participate. They are Tommy Hare of Moore Haven, Florida; Rob Smets of Oakland, Oregon; and Dale J. Woodard of French Camp, California. Bob Tallman of Baker, Oregon, will serve as official announcer.

All the reigning world champion cowboys have signed to participate in the rodeo events. Ty Murray of Stephenville, Texas, is world allaround champion, holding his fourth straight title. He competes in bareback and saddle bronc and bull riding. Billy Etbauer of Ree Heights, S.D. is the saddle bronc champ; Wayne Herman of Dickinson, N.D., holds the bareback bronc title; Cody Custer

Texas, top calf roper; and Mark Roy of Dalemead, Alberta, Canada, best steer wrestler.

Spaced within the action events will be the return of the Canadian chuck wagon races. This WBAP Radio-sponsored event features four miniature chuck wagon racing the colorful presentation of the grand entry, followed by rapid-fire action of over 700 champion with the coliseum area. Individual wagons are sponsored by Winn-Dixie Texas, Coors, Justin Winn-Dixie Texas, Coors, Justin Boots and the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

> Another returning favorite on the Fort Worth Rodeo scene will be Whiplash, the cowboy monkey, in the saddle aboard his fast-moving, highly trained mount, a Scottish Sheep Dog. Together with some instruction from renowned animal trainer and showman Tommy Lucia of Weatherford, Texas, Whiplash and his mount demonstrate the art of maneuvering and working sheep.

Making a debut appearance to a Fort Worth crowd will be Vicki Adams and her beautiful grey American Quarter Horse named "Silverado." Miss Adams, of mixed Indian and Spanish descent, was born and raised on the Yakima Indian Reservation in Washington State. Miss Adams, a highly qualified horse trainer, trick rider
