Commissioner's Court seeks volunteers for water board

by John Cordson

Like the U.S. Marines, the Garza County Commissioners are looking for a few good men or women to serve their county. More specifically, the Commissioner's Court is looking for six individuals to serve on the Garza County Water District Board of Directors.

According to County Judge Giles Dalby, the creation of the board is the next step in establishing a water district for Garza County. The board would only be a temporary one until county residents vote on a referendum

"Everything is subject to the referendum."

Judge Dalby

they can, possibly at the meeting itself. Along with the creation of the board, Judge Dalby said work was being done on the legislative front by Rep. David Counts from Knox City. Counts is sponsoring enabling legislation for the creation of the board.

Even with the appointment of a board and Rep. Counts help, the ultimate fate of the water district rests in the hands of Garza County voters.

"Everything is subject to the referendum. The district would be dormant until the election," said Judge Dalby. "After that, they can consider items."

Judge Dalby said sometime in August. The first step of the process is already complete, the signing. If the referendum passes (seats on the board would also be decided during this election), the water district would be official.

What Judge Dalby is asking is that all interested residents of the county (city residents are ineligible for the board because Post is covered by the White River Water District) either contact him or a member of the Commissioner's Court before the court's April 12 meeting. Judge Dalby also said interested persons are welcome to attend the meeting scheduled for next Monday.

"They can show up at the Commissioner's Court on April 12 and let the commissioners know they are interested or they can call my office or contact one of the other commissioners," said Dalby. He added that the commissioners want to make a decision on the board as quickly as foremost on the board's mind would be work towards the completion of the proposed Lake Post east of town.

"The lake is foremost," said Judge Dalby. "Once it gets organized, its up to the water board to decide what it wants to pursue. Once the water district is created, the Commissioner's Court is out of it (the decision making process) but at least we gave it a vehicle."

Lake Post is not the only reason Judge Dalby gave for the creation of the water district. As environmental issues are tackled at the state and national level, Dalby says the district would serve as a buffer between environmental extremists who do not understand West Texas and its water needs.

"This would provide a safeguard for future water legislation that might come down, giving us a certain amount of insulation to protect water users in the county."

Injured youth flown to Lubbock

A FIVE year old Post boy is loaded onto an Aero Care helicopter at the Garza Memorial Hospital for a flight to Lubbock. The youth, suffering from a head injury, required the emergency flight to Methodist Hospital in Lubbock.

Nona Lusk graduates from Family Community Leadership program

Nona Lusk was the lone Garza County representative to graduate from the Family Community Leadership program sponsored jointly by the Texas Extension Homemakers Association and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Lusk joined 46 other graduates of the program at the annual District 2 Texas Extension Homemakers meeting which was held April 1 in Plainview. The Family Community Leadership (FLC) program is an educational program designed to increase the leadership capabilities and involvement of women (and others) in the public policy decision-making process. It is based on teaching materials and leadership development concepts developed through a grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation by six western state Cooperative Extension Services and Extension Homemakers Associations.

Lusk was joined at the District 2 annual meeting by Oneita Gunn, Ida Jones and Inez Ritchie. Gunn and Jones were voting delegates to the meeting.

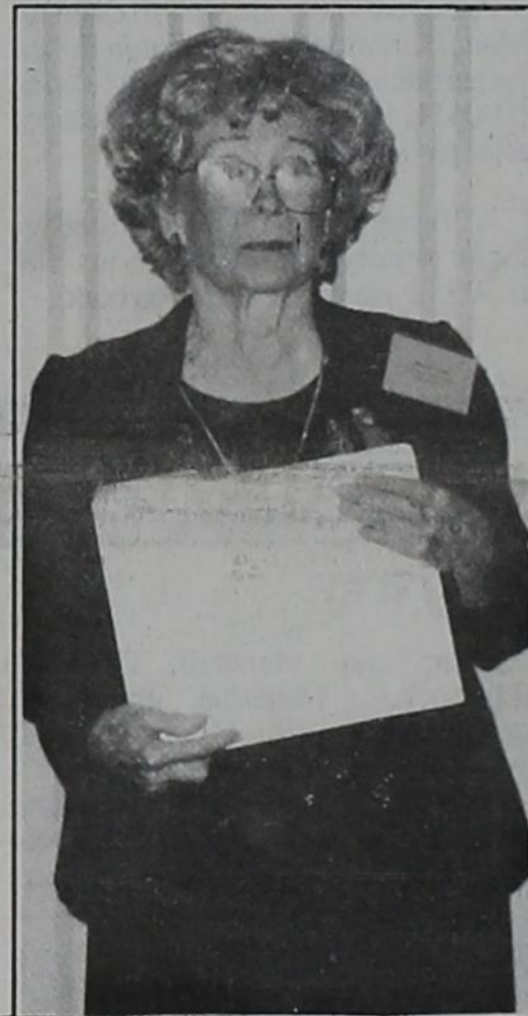

Educational programs included a brief announcement of the new toll-free number, 1-800-886-4351, sponsored by Contact, Lubbock, Inc.

This hotline is a helpline to troubled teens and adults and is available 24 hours a day.

A teamwork program was presented by Swisher County homemakers and Extension Agent, Linda Fogerson. Juanita Pool and Vivian Curtis of Floyd County demonstrated the fine art of making Panarama Easter Eggs.

Other highlights of the meeting included greetings from Hale County and were given by Judge Bill Hollars. Entertainment was provided by Briscoe County Judge Jimmy Burson and Pam Landis of Swisher County.

State board members Joan Frost, State Treasurer and Amy Adrian, Young Family Issues Committee Chairman, shared information from the state level.

Nona Lusk

Ritchie was recognized and presented a certificate for being a 50 year member of Extension Homemakers.

Items during the business session included the endorsement of Joan Frost as the district candidate for the state office of second vice-president and planning for the 1994 State Conference in Lubbock.

MEMBERS of the Urban Management Assistants of West Texas (UMAWT) out of Lubbock were in Post last Friday to view first hand, the success of the Main Street Project. UMAWT is an organization composed of entry level and mid-management professionals representing local governments within West Texas and Panhandle regions of the state. It was formed in 1985 to address the professional needs of urban management assistants.

POST FHA members (l-r) Labeth Jones, Anissa Tomlinson, Amanda Alaniz and Stephanie Palmer (sitting) were among the delegates to attend the FHA conference.

FHA members win honors at Region Conf.

A quartet of the Post High School FHA (Future Homemakers of America) chapter were recognized at the Region I Conference held March 12-13 in Odessa. They were among 900 delegates attending the two day conference.

Stephanie Palmer, Amanda Alaniz and Anissa Tomlinson won first place in the STAR event competition. Students Taking Action for Recognition (STAR) events gives students opportunities to showcase the life skills they have learned through competition.

Labeth Jones served as Region I vice president of Recreation at the meeting.

Tax 'n Facts

by Terri S. Cash, CPA

How to Get Income From A No-Income Stock

Let's say you're reviewing your investment portfolio prior to retirement on the assumption that you'll have different needs then. Maybe you've got a large holding in a stock that doesn't produce much income but has appreciated considerably since you bought it. Should you sell the stock, pay the capital gains tax and reinvest the remaining money in a dividend payer? Not necessarily.

One option is the charitable remainder trust, set up by you or by your favorite charity. You transfer the stock to the trust, which sells it and reinvests the money to generate income. The income is paid to you, as specified in your agreement with the trust. At your death, the remainder goes to charity.

The tax advantages are that you pay no capital gains on the security you give the trust, and you get a charitable contribution deduction at the time of the gift, the amount determined by your life expectancy and the amount of income you will get.

Looking for tax advantages? You'll find them with the finance pros at Mason, Warner & Co., P.C.

Beltone expands line of hearing aids that help control background noise.

Now virtually everyone who experiences difficulty hearing clearly in noisy places can be helped with a Beltone ClearVoice hearing instrument. ClearVoice advanced noise-control micro-circuitry reduces unwanted background sounds to help you hear more clearly in noisy places.

Background noise is the number one complaint of people with hearing loss today. In response Beltone has expanded the ClearVoice line to include two in-the-ear hearing aids so tiny, they're virtually hidden when worn. We've also added two in-the-ear hearing aids. These highly advanced hearing instruments can be completely customized for the hearing needs and preferences of the individual.

If you have difficulty hearing and understanding conversation in noisy places like restaurants, business meetings and sporting events, you may be a candidate for the Beltone ClearVoice.

Bass fishing good at Buffalo Springs

Buffalo Springs striped bass are doing very well according to the spring gill net sample collected by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. Striped bass were collected at a rate of 9.6 fish per net, which is almost three times the rate collected last year.

The increase in catch rate indicates that fish stocked the past two years have survived very well. All of the fish collected were in good shape and many were over legal size. Over 37% of the fish two years old and older are over 20 inches long. The largest striper collected was 35 inches long and weighed over 24 pounds.

Striper bass have been stocked in Buffalo Springs the last two years at five times the standard rate. The high stocking rate in an experimental attempt to control an overabundant population of gizzard shad which is expected to help all game species. If gizzard shad are heavily preyed upon, the size structure of the population will shift from many large individuals to smaller fish. The restructured population will then have fish small enough to be eaten by largemouth bass, white crappie, catfish, and small stripers.

The increase in available forage should help all anglers as all game species will have more food and should therefore grow faster.

Harvest regulations for striped bass at Buffalo Springs include a five fish daily bag limit and a minimum length limit of 18 inches. Most of the legal size fish collected this year were in the now wake upper end of the lake though there may be some in deep water near the dam.

Nurses meeting April 12

Licensed Vocational Nurses Association of Texas Lubbock Division 18 will meet Monday April 12, 1993 in the Arnett Room of St. Mary's Hospital from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. The Arnett Room is located on the 6th floor and is accessible by the Emergency Room Elevators.

Featured speaker for April will be Roy Hollis, R.N. He will speak on "Crisis Intervention Techniques". One continuing education hour will be given to those attending the meeting. A $3.00 charge will be made to those who are non-members. No charge will be made to members. All nurses are urged to start earning their continuing education hours by attending meetings and workshops.

In May, Division 18 will sponsor a workshop on "The Burn Patient". Cynthia Hester will speak on "Stabilization and transfer of the Burn Patient" and Theresa Sauter, P.T. will speak on "Proper Positioning and Movement of the Burn Patient".

This workshop will take place from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m., May 10, 1993. Further information will be given at the April meeting and at a later date.

Three continuing classroom hours will be given to those attending the workshop.

For more information, call W. Melvena Coverdell, President, 828-4565.

Important Sprayer Calibration and Cotton Prod. Workshop April 13

Producers will have a unique opportunity to participate in an area wide workshop to assist with weed control and cotton production. The workshop to assist with weed control and cotton production. The workshop is conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and supported by county offices in Borden, Dawson, Garza and Scurry counties.

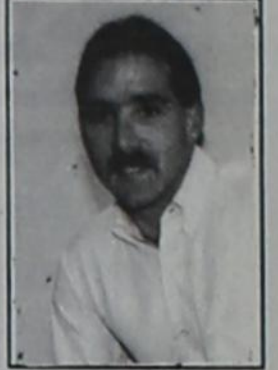

The workshop will be held on Tuesday, April 13 at the Fluvanna Community Center in Fluvanna. Participants with a private applicator license will receive 2 continuing education units toward certification. The program will begin at 9 a.m. with Seedling Disease, Seedling Vigor and Variety Selection by Dr. Kater Hake, Extension Agronomist - Cotton. Following Kater will be Dr. Wayne Keeling, Extension Agronomist in Weeds and Herbicide, addressing Weed Control via post and pre-emerge methods. The third and final presenter on the program will be Dr. James Lesser, Extension Entomologist. His presentation will cover Boll Weevil Outlook, Early Season Pest Management and Spray Calibration and Spray Tables.

As we head into cotton season on the heels of Chief Runkles' favorable forecast, it would be beneficial to producers to have an early outlook and be ready for the season. This workshop should be valuable to cotton producers to allow you some early season thought and insight. It is important to note, if you attend, you must have your private applicator license number and your social security number with you in order to receive the CEU's offered.

If you plan to attend the training, or

Easter

Early on the first day of the week, while it was still dark, Mary Magdalene went to the tomb and saw that the stone had been removed from the entrance. So she came running to Simon Peter and the other disciple, the one Jesus loved, and said, "They have taken the Lord out of the tomb, and we don't know where they have put him!"

So Peter and the other disciple started for the tomb. Both were running, but the other disciple outran Peter and reached the tomb first. He bent over and looked in at the strips of linen lying there but did not go in. Then Simon Peter, who was behind him, arrived and went into the tomb. He saw the strips of linen lying there, as well as the burial cloth that had been around Jesus' head. The cloth was folded up by itself, separate from the linen. Finally the other disciple, who had reached the tomb first, also went inside. He saw and believed. (They still did not understand from Scripture that Jesus had to rise from the dead.)

All things new

Dr. James E. Bell
First United Methodist Church
served in Maliwadi in 1981
"Behold, I make all things new.....
Revelations 21:5

It was springtime in Maliwadi, a small dusty village near Arangabad Maharashtra State, India. Everything was about the same as they had been from ancient times. The small village was actually two villages.

One for the clean and one for the unclean, one for the Bramin class and one for the Harajins, the untouchables. It had always been that way. Between the two sides there lay this stinking cesspool of waste, garbage, and foul water. A formidable barrier to hold in place ancient prejudices, and age old traditions. It was unthinkable for this village to come together, it never had, and everyone believed it never would.

It was springtime and there was a whiff of something new in the air. The village council had discussed the unsightly and smelly barrier many times, and now they were discussing it again, but what to do? Who knew how to get rid of it? It had always been there, too big and too bad to battle, but the village council was discussing it again.

One old elder listened quietly as he had listened before—many times and Baba Bembrow was getting tired of all this talk. He rose and left the meeting and few noticed him leaving, nor cared for Baba Bembrow was only a goat herder who lived on the edge of the village. Early the next morning, the village became aware that something new was happening. Baba Bembrow was not herding his goats, he was hauling dirt. Yes, he was filling a basket with dirt from the hillside and carrying it on his shoulders and dumping it in the stinking cesspool. More and more people came out to watch, and many stopped their morning chores and stood in amazement and watched. Soon someone got their basket and joined him, and then another, and another, and soon from both sides of the village, everyone came with hoes, shovels, and baskets. Men, women, children, Bramin, Harajins, clean, unclean.....everyone worked through the day. They began to sing, the work went swifter. Towards evening they could see the end was near and pushed on harder to finish the task, filling in the old sewer, making a clean bridge to connect, and to make one their ancient village.

Some women stopped early and began to cook a large feast. Baba Bembrow donated his best goat to be barbecued.

As darkness fell, lanterns lit the village square, dancers danced, and singers sang, and food was shared by all, clean and unclean, Haragin, and Bramin—side by side sharing one meal as one village. Celebrating a miracle—behold, all things were new—and Baba Bembrow licked his fingers and smiled. Spring has come and they would never be the same.

Applications being accepted for Texan Camp

Applications are now being accepted for Texan Basketball Camp, with two one-week sessions to be held at South Plains College in June and July.

The camp, under the direction of South Plains College men's basketball coach Ron Mayberry, will be held June 13-17 and July 25-29.

"I think our camp has grown and grown," Mayberry said. "But at the same time, it has stayed consistent in that we're the least expensive and we're people oriented."

The purpose of the camp is to provide an opportunity for boys and young men to improve their basketball skills in a fun environment. The fundamentals of basketball are stressed, with sportsmanship, team play and self-confidence emphasized as well.

"We stress fundamentals, team basketball and individual attention," Mayberry said. "The kids have a good time."

"It's a learning camp. They can learn something about basketball, and they can also have fun. That's the key."

The camp, open to boys in third grade through high school, will be held in Texan Dome on SPC campus. Other facilities for use by the campers are an indoor swimming pool, indoor racquetball courts and tennis courts. In addition, campers also may spend time at the SPC Student Center, which features a video arcade, pool and ping pong tables and a giant-screen television.

Camp participants may commute daily from their homes or spend the week on campus in a college residence hall.

Computer program helps homeowners

Homeowners can learn how to make their homes more energy-efficient with the help of a new computer program designed by the Texas Energy Extension Service.

"The Energy Efficient Home" program offers a self-guided "tour" through an energy-efficient home. Users can stop at any point in the program to learn more about specific energy-efficient features in and around the home.

Some stops along the tour include energy-saving tips for kitchen appliances, hints on how to conserve water and tips for lowering water heating costs. "This type of computer-aided instruction offers a level of interaction that appeals to people of all ages," said Kathleen Casey, a training specialist with the Texas Energy Extension Service who designed the program.

Casey said the program can be used not only by the average homeowner but also in schools, public libraries and lobbies of public utility offices as a service to customers.

The program runs on Macintosh computers with at least on megabyte of RAM and System 6.0.5 or later. The program also requires Hypercard 2.0 or later to run.

However, if you do not have Hypercard, "The Energy Efficient Home" can be purchased with a "Hypercard Player," which allows you to run the program. The program alone costs $1. The cost of the program with the Hypercard Player is $2. For ordering information, call the Energy Hotline at 1-800-643-SAVE.

Plains Cotton distribution

Plains Cotton Cooperative Association (PCCA) has announced a cash distribution to members totaling almost $12 million for retirement of 1987 per-unit capital retains and a progress payment on the 1992 West Texas/Oklahoma marketing pool.

"The retirement of capital retains totaling $4.2 million is an important milestone for PCCA," says PCCA

President Van May. "When we initiated this program in conjunction with our purchase of the denim mill at Littlefield in 1987, there were some skeptics and critics," May adds. "This payment is on schedule and in line with the projections we made back in 1987, and it reinforces the decisions made by our board of directors and members at that time."

He is risen!

On the first day of the week, very early in the morning, the women took the spices they had prepared and went to the tomb. They found the stone rolled away from the tomb, but when they entered, they did not find the body of the Lord Jesus. While they were wondering about this, suddenly two men in clothes that gleamed like lightning stood beside them. In their fright the women bowed down with their faces to the ground, but the men said to them, "Why do you look for the living among the dead? He is not here; he has risen! Remember how he told you, while he was still with you in Galilee: 'The Son of Man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, be crucified and on the third day be raised again.'" Then they remembered his words.

IN MEMORY OF JIMMY CARPENTER

The chapel was full and there were no dry eyes
The hurt and the pain of saying the goodbyes.
A brother, a son, a father and a friend,
Many broken hearts, so difficult to mend.
He touched our lives and they'll never be the same
The way he died was a tragic crying shame.
Keep in mind friends, he's not suffering anymore,
He took his own life on November four.
He didn't want to hurt us, just relieve his own pain,
He knew his choices and didn't die in vain.
We know he's in heaven right where he belongs,
Willie Nelson's "Remember Me" was his favorite song
Remember his good and his crooked little smile,
I love you brother, your sister, Marla Kyle

TASB works for Prop. 2

In keeping with Governor Richards' campaign slogan, "If you won't fill the till, don't pass the bill," the Texas Association of School Board (TASB) announced March 30 its intention to work for passage of Proposition 2: Funding Future State Mandates to ease the long-standing tax burden on local property taxpayers.

TASB President Charles Lowry of Mount Vernon ISD said the Association supports all three school funding propositions on the May 1 ballot but is especially concerned about passage of Proposition 2. Proposition 2 prohibits the Legislature from requiring school districts to comply with a new state mandate unless lawmakers help fund it.

"For years, school boards across Texas have been forced to increase local property taxes in a scramble to find money to pay for new and continuing state-mandated programs," Lowry said. "Proposition 2 will help ensure that the Legislature stops passing the buck to local property taxpayers and starts passing the bucks along with programs they require. If the mandate is worth doing, it's worth paying for," Lowry said.

Proposition 2 affects only future state mandates, those enacted by the Legislature after December 31, 1993. Current state requirements, such as the 22:1 class size limit in early elementary grades and the teacher salary schedule, aren't affected by the amendment. Constitutional and federal requirements, such as those concerning special education and environmental hazards like asbestos, also aren't affected by this proposal.

"TASB supports positive education reforms that improve our public schools and benefit our school children, but the state must take the lead in helping to pay for the programs it requires," Lowry said.

According to the Association, passage of Proposition 2 will require the state to help pay its fair share of funding for Texas public schools, moving the state a step closer to adequately funding the state's public education system and encouraging lawmakers to link policy and funding decisions.

"The underfunding of state educational mandates has contributed to the school finance equity crisis we currently face since property poor schools have had less of an ability to comply with state mandates than property wealthy school," Lowry said.

"By helping to pay for the programs it mandates through an equalized school funding program, the state will not only improve the adequacy of funding for our public schools, it'll improve the equity of the school finance system as well."

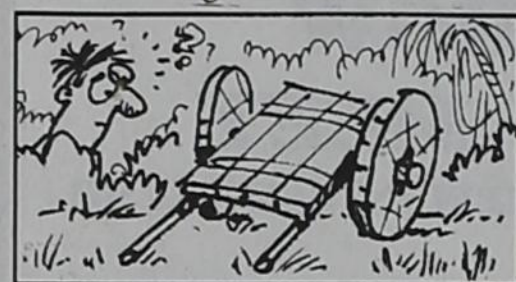

In a recent cost analysis performed at the request of Governor Richards, TASB learned that Texas school districts spent a minimum of $1.5 billion in 1991-92 to comply with only eight of the hundreds of state requirements imposed on them. Such as the 22:1 class size limit and the teacher career ladder.

In its latest report on state mandates title, Legislative and Regulatory Mandates Imposed on Texas Public School Districts, the Association recorded 210 areas in which state or federal laws create specific requirements for local school districts.

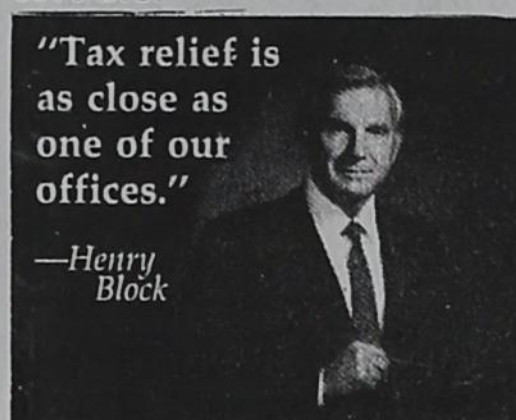

"Many of these requirements are totally unrelated to curriculum, classroom instruction, or basic health and safety requirements, and most are left underfunded," Lowry said. "TASB believes the Texas Legislature has a constitutional obligation to adequately fund our public schools."

While campaigning for governor in 1989-90, Richards told Texas educators in response to a TASB questionnaire that, "My position as governor will be, 'If you won't fill the till, don't pass the bill.' We will not continue to impose mandates at the state level and expect local taxpayers to pay for carrying out mandates...I will support legislation requiring the state to fund mandated programs."

The governor is heading the "Save Our Schools" campaign, which supports passage of all three proposed school funding amendments.

KIDS 'N' ART

"FIRST AMERICANS-1" APRIL 24TH

On Saturday, April 24th, members of the Kids 'N' Art program will take a giant step back in time...and will awaken in a circle of tipis, ready for a fun day as "First Americans". We will begin with a nature hike, followed by demonstrations, and the art of making our own moccasins, story telling by Chief Runkles and a grand finale of Indian Dancers in full costume, around the camp fire.

If you would like to participate in this rare opportunity, contact Linda Puckett, KNA Director, 495-4148 or 495-3623 after 6:00 pm. "Kids" must respond early in order to have accurate sizes of moccasins and other supplies. There will be a $10.00 workshop fee per student.

This project is made possible by a matching grant from the Texas Commission on Arts.

Allergy season here

People who suffer from seasonal allergies do not need to be told when the allergy season starts. Their sneezing, itching and congestion tell them.

"Some people suffer almost year round from such allergies because they live in temperate climates where the pollen count remains high most for the time," said Dr. David P. Huston of Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

In temperate areas, tree pollens usually are heavy in March, succeeded in the coming months by other pollens. January and February are relatively irritant-free for many areas.

"Air pollution compounds the problem," Huston said. "Chemicals and smoke can definitely aggravate allergy symptoms."

Some people are afflicted with perennial allergies in addition to seasonal allergies.

These are the people allergic to things which, unlike a specific pollen, are present in their environments year-round, Huston said.

Many people are allergic to the dander of animals they keep in their homes.

Others have what is commonly called a dust allergy but is actually reaction to contaminants found in dust. Roaches and mites contribute heavily to this.

Molds are also common causes of allergic reactions. Air conditioning systems and air ducts frequently harbor these allergy villains.

"Avoidance is clearly the best of all alternatives," Huston said, "but we have to be realistic. Avoidance is not always possible."

Over-the-counter relief is available for allergies that cause runny noses, itchy eyes and congestion. Those most commonly used are antihistamines, but they can cause drowsiness.

Prescription drugs, including antihistamines that do not cause drowsiness, are available through physicians.

"Allergy shots are not necessarily the first line of therapy," Huston said. "The shots do help some people, but they should be reserved for patients whose allergy symptoms cannot be adequately controlled in other ways."

Careful screening by allergists can help people pinpoint the causes of their suffering, Huston said.

AARP joins campaign

The American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) announced recently that it will join with the American Cancer Society in a statewide campaign to raise community awareness of the importance of mammography screening for women over 50.

AARP Health Advocacy Services volunteers from throughout Texas recently completed a workshop on community education and building community coalitions to help increase the use of mammography screening programs by older women. In communities without trained AARP volunteers, local American Cancer Society chapters will be working on community education and outreach.

"One in every ten women in the United States will develop breast cancer, and the majority of those affected will be older women," according to Doris Black, Texas AARP Associate State Coordinator for Health Advocacy Services. "However, when found in early stages, 90 percent of breast cancers can be treated successfully. Deaths from breast cancer could be reduced by up to one-third if women over 50 would have mammograms each year—along with an annual clinical breast exam by a health professional and monthly breast self-examination."

For further information about mammography screening programs, contact Ms. Black at (214) 641-8779, or Jeanice James of the American Cancer Society at (214) 345-2600.
