IT HAS BEEN HOT. This is one statement I have made in this space which should not be open to debate. But, as you know from watching the temperature reports from other parts of our state and region, it has not been quite as hot here in Parmer County as it has in other places.

And, according to a story reported by the wire services this past week, we're not even close to a record, bad as the current heat wave has been, with its death toll and other related calamities.

For example, it was reported that in 1934, the temperature reached or topped the 100-degree mark for 54 consecutive days in Ozark, Arkansas.

And if that doesn't impress you, maybe the record posted at Conway, Arkansas, will. The mercury reached or exceeded the 100-degree mark on 71 days between June and late September in 1954.

Those are a couple of records we'd just as soon let the Arkansawyers keep.

AS THE HEAT WAVE continues, we need to continue to be careful not to over-expose ourselves to the heat, so as to guard against a heat stroke.

Also, as the news media has suggested, if you have elderly neighbors, it would be a good idea to keep an eye out for them, to be sure they are doing okay. This is especially true if they have air conditioning which is "suspect."

THE WATER CRISIS which has affected the residents of Friona should make us all conscious about saving not only as much water as possible, but also conserving wherever possible on our natural resources.

An article in the past weekend's paper called America "A nation of wasters." I'm afraid this pretty well describes most of us.

Changing our wasteful ways, the article says, may be the fashionable thing to do, but it is not easy. It's hard to change habits which we have acquired over a lifetime.

Americans represent only six per cent of the world's population, but they use approximately 30 per cent of the world's annual output of resources. This gives you an idea about how fast we are using our natural resources.

The article points out that the richer a society is, the more wasteful it seems to be. "An American is someone who drives a large automobile (probably with the air conditioner going full-blast), to deliver a bag of aluminum cans to a recycling center," the writer states.

We all should realize, without having it pointed out, that during the last 20 or 30 years, we have been using water as though the well would never run dry; we have developed an appetite, and a habit for using gasoline and oil products as though there were a never-ending supply at minimal cost.

One of the culprits in using our products is the packaging industry. Half of the nation's paper, three-fourths of its glass, a third of its plastic, 40 per cent of its aluminum and eight per cent of its steel are used to wrap and decorate consumer products.

Packaging accounts for a fifth of the weight and a tenth of the price of groceries. (We would have guessed higher in both categories).

We can't afford to completely do away with packaging, but maybe the industry could launch a campaign to cut down somewhat.

That's what we're all needing to do in a number of areas during the last two decades of this century, or the outlook for the 21st century may be a little bleak.

There are men who are happy without knowing it.

Residents Are Urged To Write County History

Response is still needed from Parmer County and ex-county families in writing their family history to be published in the Parmer County History Book.

There is no fee charged to have the history published in the book if it does not exceed 500 words. More space will be provided, if needed, at ten cents a word ($10.00 per hundred words).

Please submit your story preferably typed, double-spaced on 8 1/2 x 11 typing paper with the title of your story at the top and the author's name at the conclusion of the story. And please indicate the number of words in the story in pencil after the author's name.

If no typewriter is available, submit your handwritten copy and the Historical Commission will type it for you. "We want to impress upon everyone who has ever lived in Parmer County that their story is needed, to make this book the complete history of the county that it should be," says Otho Whitefield.

Field representatives are busy making contacts with county residents encouraging them to write their family history. Anyone who has not been contacted and has questions about how to write their story should contact a field representative in their community or call Otho Whitefield, Friona, phone 265-3542 or write Parmer County Historical Commission, Box 577, Friona, Texas, 79035.

"Remember our deadline is July 20, so start these histories and be a part of this history book," Whitefield says.

He gave these tips in preparing the family histories:

First look up photos of your family and life. Second begin to think about your life and your family and then begin to form a story in your mind. Use the following items to help you:

1. When and why your family came to the county.

3. Any story that does not embarrass or hurt someone is acceptable.

4. If your story is not included, the history of the county will not be complete.

Workers Are Needed By Census Bureau

Census takers are urgently needed in this county to assist in completing follow-up operations for the 1980 Census.

Bill Soule, district office manager for the Census Bureau in this area, says that work is available immediately for all interested persons who qualify for the positions. Pay for the census takers averages $4.00 per hour and reimbursement for use of a personal car on the job. Census takers work a 40-hour week, including some evenings and Saturdays.

With school out, Soule says he is hoping school teachers, high school graduates and college students, along with others interested in temporary work, will begin to apply for these essential positions. Anyone over the age of 18 is eligible to be a census taker. Applicants must pass a written test on such basic skills as ability to follow printed instructions, do simple arithmetic and read maps.

To obtain more information and to arrange to take the qualifying test for a census job, interested applicants should call the District Census Office for this area as soon as possible. Calls may be made collect to (806) 335-1656 between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on weekdays.

Memorial Is Named For Frank Rierson

Officials at Clovis High Plains Hospital today announced that the hemodialysis unit at the hospital has been named as a memorial for the late Frank Rierson.

"Frank Rierson was the motivating force behind establishing a hemodialysis unit in Clovis," according to Bob Brooks, Associate Administrator at Clovis High Plains Hospital. "We felt it would be a fitting tribute to designate the unit as the Frank Rierson Hemodialysis Unit in his memory."

Rierson, a long-time Clovis resident and auto dealer, was diagnosed as having end-stage renal disease in 1971. He initially underwent dialysis treatments in Albuquerque but subsequently worked with his Albuquerque nephrologist and officials of Memorial Hospital to make the dialysis treatments available in Clovis.

Together with the other auto dealers in Clovis, Rierson raised funds to send nursing personnel from Memorial to Albuquerque for the special training required and for purchase of the first dialysis equipment.

From that initial machine, the unit grew to a six-station facility that has provided life-saving treatments for as many as 15 patients. Currently, 12 patients are scheduled for treatments three days each week. Albuquerque nephrologists provide the specialized consulting needed by local physicians.

"Frank Rierson's enthusiasm for the Clovis dialysis unit was shared by everyone associated with the project," Brooks said. "Having the treatment available locally drastically reduces the disruption to the patient's lifestyle by eliminating long trips to distant dialysis facilities. This is especially important when you remember how frequently patients must undergo dialysis treatments."

Frank Rierson died in a Lubbock medical facility on June 14 of an illness unrelated to his kidney disease. The Clovis High Plains Hospital will place a memorial plaque with the hemodialysis unit's new designation in the near future.

Marketing of cattle on feed amounted to 4.4 million head. The largest number of cattle on feed were marketed in January, 1979, with the selling of 470,000 head.

In 1979 there were 157,000 cattle

The ten leading counties in the number of cattle and calves are located in the High Plains area.

CRAIG SKAGGS C. Skaggs Is Member Of Cast

Early surveys at the fifteenth season of the musical drama, "TEXAS," indicate that as many people are coming from over 500 miles or from out-of-state as in previous years. Buses and planes and cars are bringing people as usual, and the 1980 version of the show has two new numbers and a few changes which make it more exciting than ever. The story of the Panhandle told against the backdrop of the great cliff will play through August 23, Mondays through Saturdays.

For tickets and information write "TEXAS," Box 268, Canyon, Texas, 79015, or call 806-655-2181.

Many area communities have residents with contacts and connections with cast members and one of the members is Craig Skaggs. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hromas who farmed here from 1910. His aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hromas, still live here.

It is wise to make reservations in advance.

Two Bovina Students On Honor Roll

CAPITOL UPDATE

U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

At a time when our economy is suffering from a shortage of saved money for homeowners and businesses to borrow, it is completely absurd to take an action guaranteed to make the problem even worse. Yet that is what the Administration proposes to do — by requiring that 15 percent of interest or dividend income be withheld for income taxes before the recipient gets the money.

The people of Texas are unhappy about the proposal and I don't blame them. In fact, in the last week of May alone, I received 1,047 letters on the subject — each one individually composed by a concerned citizen. I don't remember any other single issue drawing that kind of response. I couldn't be more pleased that you see the proposal for what it is.

The rate of savings in this country has dropped to the lowest level ever. That has added to inflation in two ways. First, interest rates went up because investors had to compete more for fewer dollars available from the pool of saved money. Second, money that isn't saved or invested is spent, causing more dollars to be in circulation and driving up prices. One of the best ways to fight inflation is to encourage people to save more, not less. That's what we in Congress were trying to do when we passed a tax exemption for the small saver and investor. The Administration's proposal to withhold taxes from that income is directly contradictory to that legislation. I am at a loss to understand this apparent confusion of purpose.

Furthermore, the withholding requirement is tantamount to forcing retired citizens or others whose income comes from invested money to make interest-free loans to the government out of their savings accounts. Although the Administration insists that it will develop an exemption plan for people who aren't liable for income taxes, the individual would have the burden of having to file forms with every source of interest or dividends and of keeping detailed records.

Finally, the record-keeping requirements of financial institutions and corporations would be increased greatly by the new requirement. Naturally, these increased costs would be passed along, in whole or in part, to the consumer.

What is the purpose of a plan with such obvious bad effects? The stated goal is to catch tax evaders, but quite likely it won't do that. It would, however, be the functional equivalent of a tax increase, falling primarily on the middle class and our senior citizens.

None of us condones evading our fair share of taxes. However, most people do pay the taxes due on the interest they earn annually. Already the IRS can check to see if interest and dividend income is being declared, since it receives a copy of the "information return" sent by each institution that pays interest and dividends. Withholding an arbitrary 15 percent — which may not begin to approximate the actual percentage due from an individual taxpayer — simply raises revenue for the government. Its only use would be to help "balance" the budget without reducing excessive government spending.

The tax-writing committees of both the House and Senate have expressed their strongest disapproval of the President's withholding proposal. I am cosponsor of a Senate resolution condemning the proposal as the potentially disastrous disincentive to savings that it is. In the unlikely event that the proposal actually reaches the full Senate, I certainly will make the strongest effort to give it a swift burial.

Bovina Group Attends Conference In Dallas

By PRESTON NIX
Youth Pastor

On Thursday, June 26, forty-three young people and adult sponsors from First Baptist Church, Bovina, loaded for Dallas to go to Six Flags and attend God's Family Reunion. The temperature in Dallas was 113 degrees, the highest ever recorded in that city. But in spite of the heat the group from First Baptist had a wonderful and memorable time.

God's Family Reunion, for many called Youth Evangelism Conference, is a two-day conference for junior high and high school students sponsored by the Evangelism Division of Baptist General Convention of Texas. The conference features famous Christian artists and speakers which appeal to all ages but especially the teenage Christian. Over 18,000 young people from across the state attended the meetings held in the reunion area in downtown Dallas.

Gil Stricklin, Super Summer 1980 Director and Associate, with the Evangelism Division, was emcee

Friday evening. The music was conducted by Roy Hildebrand, a television director, from Kansas City, Missouri. Special music was provided by "Gabriel," "Eternity" and Nancy Honeytree. Paula Box, a ventriloquist from Dallas, along with Lester a wooden dummy, did an interpretation of the conference theme, "Tell The Truth" taken from John 14:6 in the Bible.

The featured speakers for the evening were Mike Warnke, a Christian humorist and high priest in the Satanist Church; and Jay Strack, a youth evangelist from Ft. Worth.

Warnke, author of the book, "Satan Seller," showed how he went from pimp, drug pusher and Satanist priest, to a born-again Christian. He joined the Navy to get away from Christians, because he was scared of death of them, he said. Although he worshipped Satan, he knew they had power far greater than his. He was assigned to room with the only two Christians out of a platoon of 85 men. He said they did more than talk about God--they lived what they talked.

After one roommate tried to witness to him, Warnke broke his nose and blood spattered everywhere. He then told his roommate if he ever shared Jesus Christ with him again he would slit his throat. The roommate said, "Mike, I've got to tell you about Jesus because He shed His blood for you." That night Mike Warnke asked Jesus to come into his heart and life. He said, "I've come to realize that God doesn't make freaks out of people but he makes people out of freaks."

Jay Strack, a Youth Evangelist from Ft. Worth, called on teenagers to be dedicated to the truth and preached that Jesus was the only way to God. During the invitation hundreds of young people responded, receiving Christ for the first time or renewing their commitment to Him.

Saturday morning the special music was provided by the Dietz Brothers,

Kay Chaffin and T. Bob Davis, pianists, from Dallas, Nancy Honeytree, and "Eternity." The speakers for the morning were Daveson McAllister, a high school assembly speaker, youth communicator and author, from Englewood, Colorado; Peter Jenkins, photo artist, and author of "Walk Across America"; and Joni Erickson, a quadriplegic, star of the new movie "Joni," artist, and author of "Joni" and "A Step Further."

Dawson McAllister gave great insight into the last few hours of Jesus' life on the cross and the meaning it has for us today. He said most people just want "Fire Insurance," a ticket out of Hell. They don't really want Jesus as Lord of their life. But he said a Jesus who would suffer and die for you like he did is a Jesus you can trust with every detail of your life. He asked the youth, "Is He No. 1 in your life or just an addition to your bag of tricks?"

How The Church Manifests Its Faith

Read Luke 4:16-22

"The spirit of the Lord...has sent me to announce good news to the poor...to proclaim the year of the Lord's favour."
--Luke 4:18-19 (NEB)

CHURCHES in India are faced with a problem of communicating the gospel to the masses. There is an undercurrent of fear among some leaders that they should not openly preach Christ.

The church is a human community for expressing God's redeeming love without any barrier of caste, creed, or color. Christ calls persons in its fellowship to serve and witness in humility to all those who are in need by gathering them into the redemptive fellowship of the church.

Christ, the head of the church, means for it to be a witnessing community, characterized by outgoing love and compassion, forgiving and forgetting the deeds of the ungodly. The church manifests its faith by affirming life in the face of death through love and concern for others.

PRAYER: Eternal God, in whom we trust, guide us to proclaim our faith to others through love. Make Thy message of forgiveness clear so that mankind throughout the world may follow Thy path to serve one another through word and by deed. In Jesus' name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Faith must demonstrate the message of the church to be relevant.

Around The House

Mobile homes increase in popularity as costs of conventional housing continue their upward spiral.

While difference in initial cost tends to be the big attraction, other cost-related factors are ever-present on the minds of those looking for affordable housing.

Prices
 Percentage-wise, mobile home prices are rising more rapidly than conventional housing, but in actual dollars, the gap has grown wider.

Between 1974 and 1978, the average price of a new house increased 71 per cent--from $9,300 to $15,900.

Site Ownership
 The move to the owned site is a trend gathering momentum among mobile home owners.

Approximately 60 per cent of the new mobile home owners are permanently erecting them on owned tracts of land, either in residential subdivisions or on individual sites.

Owners often find they can own their own site for less than the cost of rental space in a park.

Liberal Financing
 Liberalization of mobile-home financing has spurred additional interest by making it possible to finance the mobile home and the land at a lower interest rate with a single mortgage.

Lower down payments and longer-term mortgages also add to the attractiveness of the mobile home-on-site package.

Appreciation
 The age-old question of whether a mobile home will appreciate in value is still being kicked around.

Increasingly, mobile home buyers are becoming aware that locating the unit on an owned site balances gain or loss in the unit's value against appreciation in value of the land.

But, several recent studies indicate that indeed, mobile homes can and are appreciating in value in certain areas.

Loans
 The way lenders view the mobile home has tremendous influence on assessed value and other lending practices.

The majority of lenders continue to make use of the book-value approach in determining the amount of the loan advanced on used mobile homes.

This approach is often inappropriate in assessing the value of permanent housing. In contrast, an increasing number of lenders now look upon the mobile home as a permanent and essential element of the total housing supply and assess value accordingly.

Where on-site appraisals similar to those used in determining value of a conventional house are used, the neighborhood where the mobile home is located, the home's style and amenities, and the care and improvements contributed to the mobile home are all weighed in determining value.

On-site appraisals of mobile homes do not assure higher values but they do consider essentially the same factors used in assessing value of conventional housing.

How To Take A Soil Sample....Step By Step

Taking a soil sample is not a difficult or complicated job if a few basic "do's and don'ts" are followed. Soil tests can be only as accurate as the samples on which they were made. Proper collection of soil samples is extremely important. Chemical tests of poorly taken samples may be actually misleading.

Here are three basic steps in the selection of site and actually taking the sample:

1. Take one soil sample from the lawn and one from the garden.

2. The sample should be taken from over all the area. This can be done by taking a small amount of soil from 5 to 10 different places. Place these in a clean container (plastic bucket, paper sack, etc.). Mix thoroughly and take approximately one pint for the composite sample.

3. When taking the small samples, use a spade, soil auger or soil sampling tube. Scrape the litter from the surface. To use an auger or tube, make the boring six inches deep in the soil. To use a spade, dig a V-shaped hole and take a one-half inch slice of soil from the smooth side of the hole. Repeat in 5 to 10 different places.

When the sample has been placed in the sample box, the box should be numbered to correspond with the number on the soil sampling sheet. Be sure to keep a record of sample numbers and where they were taken.

The sample, along with the information sheet should be mailed to the Soil Testing Lab, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Route 3, Box 213AA, Lubbock, Texas 79401.

A few precautions are important in taking the sample:

1. Avoid sampling spots such as small gullies, slight field depressions, and unusual spots.

2. Do not use old vegetable cans, match boxes, etc. to submit samples.

3. Do not use heat to dry samples.

4. Be sure to keep a record for yourself as to the area represented by each sample.

5. Be sure sample numbers on the boxes correspond with sample numbers on the information sheet.

Ben Green Named Manager Of SWPS Tolk Station

Ben Green is the plant manager at Southwestern Public Service Company's Tolk Station now under construction near Muleshoe, but right now he doesn't have a plant to manage.

For the time being, Ben works in Amarillo and goes to Tolk Station about once a week to keep abreast of construction progress. Although not a construction or design engineer, Ben said he was "vitaly interested in the design and construction of the plant as that would affect the maintenance and operation of the plant when completed." He is involved in "the plant layout, design and equipment selection."

Ben feels a proprietary interest in the construction of the plant and has a unique opportunity since he was named manager of Tolk Station before construction was started.

He is familiar with the area around Tolk as he started with the electric company in March 1968 as plant manager at Plant X which can be seen from the Tolk Station site.

Tolk Unit 1, although still approximately 22 months from completion, is beginning to take the shape of an electric generating station.

Through April of this year, 28,197 cubic yards of concrete have been poured and 3,765 tons of steel have been erected. The top of the boiler structural steel, which reaches 242 feet in the air, is now in place. The steam drum was raised into place on March 31. Approximately nine hours were taken to complete this major milestone in plant construction.

Boilermaker crews from Missouri Valley Inc. are now on the job, building the boiler--from the top down.

One of the coal pulverizers has arrived at the plant with the other five enroute from Combustion Engineering Company in East Chicago. Due to the tremendous weight of these pieces of equipment, only one pulverizer can be shipped per rail car.

The steel for the coal transfer tower, the point where SPS picks up the coal from the coal handling company, will be received at the plant site sometime toward the end of the

The turbine foundation, which is the largest equipment foundation at the plant and contains 2775 cubic yards of concrete, has now been poured.

The turbine generator for Tolk Station Unit 1 is the longest turbine generator ever bought by Southwestern Public Service Company and our first to have two low pressure turbines. The two condensers into which the turbines will exhaust are now being assembled and will have stainless steel tube sheets (also a first for SPS) as well as stainless steel tubes.

Something else new for SPS at Tolk is a building separate from the plant for the office and control room. The structural steel has now been erected for this two story building which will have the office on the first floor and the control room on the second floor. The office-control room building will be connected to the plant by an enclosed walk-way.

In July, when the siding starts going up on the boiler structure, the turbine generator building and the office-control room building, Tolk Station will really begin to look like an electric generating station.

Try leaving on a flight of fancy.

It's one thing to sit around and dream of faraway places. But when you decide to go, you've got to come up with a ticket. Wishing won't make it so. Saving will get you there.

One of the easiest, safest ways to save is to buy U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. A little is taken out of each paycheck automatically. And the Bonds will eventually grow into a first-class ticket to anywhere.

Nothing is too far. Tahiti, London, Paris, Rome. Even a trip around the world. Or just a long vacation on a Caribbean island. Anywhere.

So go ahead, take a flight of fancy. Then start buying Bonds so you can take a fancy flight.

When you put part of your savings into U.S. Savings Bonds you're helping to build a brighter future for your country and for yourself.
