Post ISD reviews options on Justiceburg property

by Sheri Lewis

The historic Justiceburg school site will be deeded back to that area's community center, but Post Independent School District officials have yet to determine what to do with the related 264 acres of property obtained when the two school districts consolidated in the 1970s.

At their Nov. 11 meeting, Post ISD trustees opted to turn over the school site to the Justiceburg Community Center through use of a special warranty deed allowed by law, Superintendent Marlin Marcum said. However, no decision was made on the possible disposition of the remaining Justiceburg-area acreage. The discussion as to what to do with the remaining property is ongoing.

At the time of the consolidation and turnover of the property to the Post ISD, a five-year, $1-per-year lease agreement was put into place to allow the Justiceburg Community Center to use the land, Marcum said. In recent years, however, Post ISD trustees have not renewed the lease, but the community center group has continued to pay its $1 per year lease.

School district officials are looking at several possibilities for disposition of the property, including re-establishment of the lease and the sale of the property in a public sale.

Marcum said trustees are eyeing the possible disposition of the property because ownership of the property is not in the "best interests of the majority" of those served by the Post ISD. It is not unusual for school districts to hold property, but maintaining the Justiceburg property is not producing any revenues for the school district.

- The issue is expected to be on the board's agenda next month. In other business, trustees:
- Named Marcum to serve on a committee overseeing the sale of jointly owned property.
 - Added five substitute teachers to the Post ISD sub list.
 - Voted to continue participation in the South Plains Association of Governments. Marcum said a representative of the organization will be on hand at next month's meeting to explain what benefits

- the Post ISD realizes from its SPAG membership.
- Created a board subcommittee to review the possible pursuit of an airport hangar for added school district storage.
 - Approved the textbook committee.
 - Reviewed the local policy dealing with teacher leave. No content changes were made to the policy, but the board determined the language of the document needed to be clarified.
 - Set a Wednesday workshop to work on the superintendent's appraisal document.
 - Reviewed the campus improvement plans for each of the four Post ISD campuses. Progress is being made on each of the goals established at the beginning of the planning cycle in March, Marcum said.

The board's next meeting, which will include a State of the School report, is set for Dec. 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the Post ISD Administration building.

Highway fines offset local property taxes

Editor's Note: As pointed out in recent Garza County Commissioners' Court meetings, traffic fines collected by county and state code enforcers has important impact on county property taxes.

Garza County and the State of Texas traffic code enforcers collected $47,216.58 during the months of September and October, for highway travel fines issued here, according to reports of the two Justices of the Peace courts. The fund raising program, operated by county and state agents, takes advantage of travelers who violate State Transportation Codes.

JP Court 1 reported $26,062.50, which included 130 traffic misdemeanor cases. JP Court 2 reported $21,154.08, which included 146 traffic misdemeanor cases.

State and county code enforcement officers are "just doing their jobs" by enforcing the traffic code, but what was sold to the public in the 1920s for "safe" roads, is now a huge money-making machine for corporate governments.

People can learn the exact jurisdictional limits (scope) of the Texas

Transportation Code by allowing it to interpret itself according to its strict construction. Entities, which fall within the scope of the Code are mandated by law, to obey the same Code. The scope of the Transportation Code is "Transportation."

Since "Transportation" is not defined in the Code, then it must be defined according to the United States Transportation Code and Black's Law Dictionary. These sources reveal that the term "Transportation" means transportation by a carrier for hire.

Use of the roads and highways for purposes of "transportation for hire by carriers" is what falls under the scope of the Code. The Code protects the traveling public by regulating the vehicles using the roads for the purpose of "Transportation."

So why do we see State and County Officers enforcing the Code upon the traveling public? The answer rests upon the registration of vehicles with the State of Texas.

All motor vehicles using the roads for purposes of "transportation," are required to be registered with the State. But guess what? Any automobile that is registered with the State falls within the scope of the Code. The registration sticker and the license plate are the identifiers by which the Officers can determine whether or not a vehicle falls within their jurisdictional limits.

Question for thought: Does the State and County have the lawful authority to enforce the Transportation Code upon travelers who are not involved with "transportation"? And who voluntarily choose not to register their automobiles with the State.

The simple question concerns authority to enforce the Transportation Code upon those who do not fall within the scope of the code?

Voters approve new LAH water district

The creation of the Lake Alan Henry Water District earned a majority confirmation in an election conducted recently, according to minutes from the organization's Nov. 11 meeting.

In canvassing the confirmation election results, it was noted that the Garza County vote was 29 in favor of establishing the water district, with five votes in opposition. The vote in Kent County was 13 in favor and no votes in opposition.

In addition to handling election-related duties, district directors paid bills and approved the hiring of Les Acker to handle legal services for the organization.

Present for the session were Odie Hood, chairman; Jody Ashley, vice-chairman; Jim White, secretary; and directors Mark Kirkpatrick and Wayne Edwards.

The next LAHWD board meeting was set for Nov. 18 at 5 p.m. at 215 E. 10th St. in Post.

Heavy traffic through Post gets a bit clogged on Fridays and Sundays as north-south travelers slow down for the four-way traffic stop at Main and U.S. Hwy 84. On holiday and Tech home football weekends, southbound traffic has backed up as far as the rodeo grounds. (Photo by Tim Burnett)

Judy's Jabberin'

by Judy (Ballentine) Bush

Hey everyone, I know there are a bunch of sad boys at PHS this morning, but I want to say to them what a fine job they did this season. You have nothing to hang your heads about and should be very proud of yourselves. Coaches too! So congratulations on a great season.

HAPPY 90TH
Last Saturday Ruby Carpenter was honored with a 90th birthday by her family. She called to report to me what a wonderful time she had visiting with everyone. Ruby thought that about 100 people attended with out of town folks from New Mexico, Houston, Plano and Canyon. She got to see some long time friends that she had not seen in a very long time and I know that she will have some wonderful memories from that day.

SPEAKING OF
With celebrations on mind, I also want to congratulate Robert and Patsy Craig on their 50th wedding anniversary. They celebrated with a party this week end and I know they had a great time.

SNOW ROUTE PARKING

One winter morning while listening to the radio, Norman and his wife hear the announcer say, "We are going to have 4-6 inches of snow today. You must park your car on the even numbered side of the street, so the snow plough can get through." Norman's wife goes out and moves the car.

A week later while they are eating breakfast, the radio announcer says, "We are expecting 6-8 inches of snow today. You must park your car on the odd numbered side of the street, so the snow plough can get through."

Norman's wife goes out and moves her car again.

The next week they are having breakfast again, when the radio announcer says "We are expecting 8-10 inches of snow today. You must park...." then the electric power goes out. Norman's wife is very upset, and with a worried look on her face she says, "Honey, I don't know what to do. Which side of the street do I need to park on so the plough can get through?"

With the love and understanding in his voice like all men who are married to blondes exhibit, Norman says, "Why don't you just leave it in the garage this time?"

TO MY BROTHER
My brother Jack and wife June of Rotan, will celebrate their 48th anniversary Wednesday the 19th. They have just recently moved to Rotan in their home they spent 9 years renovating. It was worth the time they spent, it is a lovely home. Anyway, congrats to them.

GET WELL
I want to send a special get well message to W.O. Fluit who is in ICU at Covenant. W.O. had knee replacement surgery last week and has had some complications set in. So if everyone would please keep him in your prayers the family would be grateful. Love ya W.O.

LUCKY TO BE ALIVE (FROM BARBARA GOSSETT)

According to today's regulators and bureaucrats, those of us who were kids in the 40's, 50's and 60's probably shouldn't have survived.

Our baby cribs were covered with bright colored lead-based paint. We had no childproof lids, doors or cabinets and when we rode our bikes, no helmets.

As children, we would ride in cars with no seat belts or air bags and riding in the back of a pickup was a special treat.

We drank water from a garden hose not a bottle and we ate cupcakes, bread and butter and drank soda pop with sugar in it but were not overweight because we were always outside playing.

We had friends! We went outside and found them. We played dodge ball, we fell out of trees, got cut, broke bones and teeth and there were no lawsuits. They were accidents. There was no one to blame but us. Remember accidents?

Tests were not adjusted for any reason. Our actions were our own. Consequences were expected. The idea of a parent bailing us out if we broke the law was unheard of. They actually sided with the law. Imagine that.

Finally, We had freedom, failure, success and responsibility, and we learned to deal with it all.

TILL NEXT WEEK
Hope all of you have a great week end. May God bless each of you. See you next week. Judy

Eraser game

In 1983 the Cotton Mill closed. The loss of jobs, personal income, business would have been devastating except the community pulled together and began developing, upgrading, preserving buildings and using what was available, mainly lots of people's time, talent and resources. Thousands of folks come to Post every year for the activities; many have come and stay and live. The result has been business opportunities, jobs and a busy, productive community.

Well, I hope that the citizens have lots of erasers. The developments since 1983 will be erased if the tax recall election is successful.

This is a list of some of the things that you will erase: Garza County Historical Museum, the library, MAD DADS, city park funding, the community center, Caprock Cultural Association, capital outlays of county government, Women's Protective Services, Meals on Wheels, senior citizen funding, water district, Summer Rec, county jobs and (the) county employees' retirement plan. Many of these (receive) joint funding (from) the city and county. Is the city going to pick up the slack?

How many jobs is that? Would it compare with the 1983 closing of the mill? You betcha! How would that affect businesses? What about all of the people that have worked so hard for these developments? What does that do to morale? What does it do to future possibilities?

While you are about it, you might as well erase Post off the map. JoAnn Mock, Executive Director, Caprock Cultural Association

Unahppy with petition signers

Shame on all of you who signed that ridiculous petition to "lower your county taxes." If this action passes, I suppose your pockets will be lined with gold. My pocket will have about $18 in it and no job to go to every day.

Sadly, if the Garza County Historical Museum does not receive funds from Garza County, our doors will be closed. I'm not going to address all of the other very important entities that will be affected, but I can tell you that Garza County not only pays my salary, but all the utilities, building insurance, grounds and exterior maintenance of the museum.

I obtained a copy of this petition and in reading the names, I was amazed to find that many of my friends, some members of my board of directors and merchants up and down Main Street and Trade Days have signed it. Good Lord, people, you have been deceived! Do you not realize that tourism is a major part of our economy? Do you not think those tourists who visit our town stop to eat, buy fuel and shop? You don't seem to mind going to Lubbock and paying additional sales tax to compensate their taxes.

I am mad as h..... Don't be sucked in by radical groups. Who will gain the most with a tax rollback?

Remember Madeline Albright and how she, even after being chopped up in little pieces, is still dictating our lives? Remember the Ten Commandments?

We the people elected the men on the Commissioners Court to their positions, men who know the needs of this county and the city of Post. They know first-hand how much income was cut by the State of Texas. Let them do their job! With just a little help from everybody, we can overcome these shortfalls and not lose needed programs, services, benefits and job that took us years to put in place.

I don't regret spending the last 20 years of my life, working alongside other who wished to improve the quality of life in our community. Thanks to you, the 390 or so people who signed this petition, you are costing the county approximately $20,000 for this election, whether it passes or fails. On God's Word

by Timothy W. Burnett

The Love of God...

Let's shine more light on the subject of God's perfect love. It is written, "Hereby perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren" (1John 3:16). Jesus demonstrated God's love by laying down his life for us. Because of this, we are able to know God's love by laying down our lives for the brethren. Jesus Christ's crucifixion and death helps to better understand God's love. Luke 23:26-43 records a number of ways Jesus demonstrated God's love. Jesus Christ faced two illegal trials. He was beaten, spit on and falsely accused by his own people. He was beaten and whipped by Roman soldiers. By the time he began his walk to his crucifixion, nobody could recognize him. His physical strength was so drained, the soldiers had to seize another man named Simon to carry the heavy beam. During this walk he still had a sound mind to prophesy of the Daughters of Jerusalem.

Jesus was one of three malefactors led in together. He was placed between the others. Next he prayed for his Father to forgive the soldiers who were nailing him, because they did not know spiritually what they were doing. The soldiers then parted his garment. Nearly everybody mocked him. His accusation was nailed above him.

While hanging on the tree, one of the malefactors continued to rail on him saying, "if thou be the Christ, save thyself and us. But the other answering rebuked him, saying, 'Dost not thou fear God, seeing thou art in the same condemnation? And we indeed justly; but this man hath done nothing amiss.'" Then he said to Jesus, "Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom." And Jesus said unto him, "Verily I say unto thee today, shalt thou be with me in paradise."

The malefactor knew Jesus Christ's kingdom would come in the future. Jesus also knew that his everlasting kingdom was yet to come. Still, after all he suffered and endured, he was able to show God's love and forgiveness toward the malefactor. When all is fulfilled, and the "new Jerusalem" is established according to Revelation 21:1-2, the other malefactor will be in paradise with Jesus. So, how do God's children during this Age of Grace show His love? "My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth. (1John 3:17)" Because of what Jesus Christ did, God's children now have the authority to show God's perfect love with truly good deeds, even as Jesus Christ did.

NEWS ITEM: LIBERALS IN THE EAST TRY, YET AGAIN, TO SOLVE WESTERN PROBLEMS!

A politician's public service

by Walter E. Williams

Presidential aspirant Rep. Dick Gephardt, D-Mo., unwittingly performed a public service in his address to the Teamsters Local 238 in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, last month. He revealed the true agenda behind so much of the support for minimum wages. He pledged that if he became president he'd press the World Trade Organization to establish an international minimum wage — one that he says is high enough so that American workers are not competing with slave, sweat-shop and child labor around the world.

History has seen many calls for minimum wages for the same reason — to eliminate competition with workers who'd work for less. During South Africa's apartheid era, white unionists argued "in absence of statutory minimum wages, employers found it profitable to supplant highly trained (and usually highly paid) Europeans by less efficient but cheaper non-whites."

One South African union leader said, "There is no job reservation left in the building industry, and in the circumstances I support the rate for the job (minimum wages) as the second best way of protecting our white artisans."

The South African Nursing Association condemned low wages received by black nurses as unfair. Some nurses said they wouldn't accept wage increases until the wages of black nurses were raised. These are but several of numerous examples of calls for minimum wages cited in my 1989 book, "South Africa's War Against Capitalism." You can bet the farm that these calls for minimum wages for blacks didn't represent white compassion for the welfare of blacks. Minimum wages are simply one of the most effective tools in the arsenals of racists everywhere.

I'm not charging Gephardt with racism. He claims he just wants to end policies that have left millions of Americans suffering economically and workers overseas denied opportunity for a better standard of living. That's his stated intention, but when we analyze the effects of policy, we can almost always ignore policy intentions.

One effect of minimum wages is that of discrimination against the employment of less-preferred workers. A worker might be less-preferred in the eyes of a particular employer in a number of ways. He might be low-skilled, less intelligent, or a different nationality or race. Put yourself in the place of an employer, and ask: If the law requires me to pay, say, $9 an hour, no matter whom I hire, does it pay me to hire someone who has skills enabling him to produce only $5 worth of value per hour? Most people would view hiring such a worker as a losing economic proposition.

Are low-skilled workers made better or worse off as a result of the $9 minimum wage? It's almost a no-brainer to conclude that being hired at $5 an hour puts more food on the table than not being hired at $9. What's more, minimum wages reduce training opportunities. Most of us gain skills through on-the-job-training. Minimum wage laws deny that opportunity.

A more insidious effect of minimum wages, as racists everywhere know, is that it lowers discrimination costs. Say a white and a black were equally productive and an employer prefers white workers to black workers. Since he has to pay $9 an hour no matter whom he hires, the cost of discriminating against the black worker is zero. But if it were legal for the black worker to offer a lower price, there'd be a cost to discrimination. That's precisely why South African whites demanded that blacks be paid the minimum wages — they wanted to cheapen discrimination costs.

Gephardt's speech is to be commended for its public service, namely that of revealing the underlying motive for minimum wages: making sure that one class of workers doesn't have to compete with another.

Iraq: Democratic or Free?

by Sheldon Richman

The White House website has this to say about Iraq: "Under the leadership of the Coalition Provisional Authority (CPA) and the new Iraqi Governing Council, major strides are being planned and made in three key areas: security, economic stability and growth, and democracy." Let's focus on that last item.

Leaving aside the Bush administration's flawed case for invading Iraq, should Americans want to see democracy established there? It's a peculiar goal for America, considering that the country's Founders were anti-democratic.

What? The Founders were anti-democratic? Political language is so imprecise (that is, dishonest) these days that I'm sure this statement will shock some readers. So let's say it. The United States didn't begin as a democracy. It was never intended to be a democracy.

James Madison, the acknowledged author of the Constitution, rejected democracy in The Federalist Papers, which were newspaper columns promoting ratification of the document. In Federalist No. 10 Madison asked how private rights can be secured against a tyrannical majority? He replied, "The majority ... must be rendered, by their number and local situation, unable to concert and carry into effect schemes of oppression." That rules out democracy. As Madison wrote, "From this view of the subject, it may be concluded, that a pure Democracy, by which I mean a Society consisting of a small number of citizens, who assemble and administer the Government in person, can admit of no cure for the mischiefs of faction.... Hence it is, that such Democracies have ever been spectacles of turbulence and contention; have ever been found incompatible with personal security, or the rights of property."

Thus his constitution was full of limits on majority rule: each state, no matter the size, gets two senators (originally elected by the state legislatures); presidents can veto Congress's bills, and a supermajority is required to override; the people do not directly elect the president.

What's more, the first thing the first Congress did was amend the Constitution. The First Amendment begins with the words "Congress [that is, the people's representatives] shall make no law ..." Take that, democrats!

Madison got it only partly right. Direct democracy is not freedom in action; it's an assault on freedom. It permits majorities to subjugate the smallest minority of all - the individual, the only entity to which the idea of freedom applies. The alleged freedom of "the people" is merely a cover for subordinating individual persons to some gang's edicts.

But Madison was mistaken in thinking that a large republic would sufficiently safeguard our liberties. By the 1830s Alexis de Tocqueville could see what Madison could not see in 1787: the potential for democratic despotism. Paper constitutions notwithstanding, when enough people fail to appreciate the danger of unlimited power, they will demand that elected officials provide them things they cannot obtain through peaceful, voluntary exchange. Vote-hungry politicians will then pander to the electorate, making ever-more-elaborate promises. Since government produces nothing, it can fulfill those promises only by dispensing wealth first taken from others.

That's what the democratic mentality has brought America to. Politics is a mammoth bazaar in which politicians bid for votes from interest groups. Or, as H. L. Mencken said, every election is an advance auction on stolen property.

That is apparently what's in store for Iraq. Too much attention goes to how political offices are filled, and too little to what officeholders can do once in power. Elections are preferable to violence and heredity succession, but who rules is less important than which rules.

Considering that President Bush has made the welfare state his own by promising all kinds of tax-funded booty for Americans, I shudder to think what Iraq will look like in a year or two. It may resemble America, but that won't mean it's free.

Government which sustains itself on theft is not worth supporting.

Thought for the Week

"War is never a handy remedy, which can be taken up and applied by routine rule. No war which can be avoided is just to the people who have to carry it on, to say nothing of the enemy. In the forum of reason and deliberation war never can be anything but a makeshift, to be regretted; it is the task of the statesman to find rational means to the same end." — William Graham Sumner

The Great Divide

by Bill O'Reilly

Anger can be a terrific motivating force, and we are seeing that in the run-up to next year's presidential campaign. The far left literally hates President Bush and is putting its money where its loathing is. I believe Howard Dean is the most shocked man in America. He's leading the Democratic pack despite being a guy who supports gun ownership. The simple fact that he is vehemently against the Iraq war has caused the Bush haters to pour millions of dollars into his campaign. Do they know the NRA loves this guy?

They might, but they don't care. So intense is the displeasure with anything Bush that some committed liberals will support the person who attacks the president the hardest, which Dean has done.

But anger is a funny thing. Used sparingly, it can lead to positive change. But used constantly, it is destructive, and the far left's anger may, indeed, destroy the Democratic party's chances of capturing the White House next year.

Even The New York Times, generally friendly to the left, realizes this, and in the last few weeks, a few of its columnists have hinted that liberal angst should be tamped down. Americans are getting annoyed with defamation and over-the-top accusations. Even when there is some validity to charges, such as the Schwarzenegger-women exposition, Americans do not want a witch hunt or smear campaign. The California recall vote proves that.

President Bush also realizes that the more the bomb-throwers bellow, the easier it will be for him to stake out "the voice of reason" territory. Thus, Mr. Bush is adopting the Muhammed Ali technique of rope-a-dope. He is laying back, letting the frenzied opposition flail away, knowing it will eventually exhaust itself and collapse in a heap. Most Americans are not ideologues and will soon find the fanatics tiresome.

The far left is also allowing the Bush administration to dismiss legitimate criticism over the tottering Iraq situation. By accusing Mr. Bush of intentionally lying about WMDs and Vice President Cheney of promoting war to help his business buddies, the accusers marginalize themselves. Unless there is direct proof of intentional deceit and wrongdoing, the charges become vicious propaganda, and many Americans tune out.

There are certainly legitimate questions about how the Bush administration could apparently be so wrong about WMDs and the violent aftermath of the formal war. But the president can avoid addressing those questions if they are lost among irrational harangues by his opponents, many of whom are still seething over the last election.

The far left also has another enormous problem. Even though it is driving the Democratic agenda now, its positions on a number of social issues are extremely offensive to much of the country. All the polls say the vast majority of Americans oppose partial-birth abortion and want parent notification when their daughters become pregnant. Americans overwhelming want the Pledge of Allegiance to contain the words "under God." They do not want higher taxes for anybody or legalized narcotics.

The far left is on the wrong side of all of those issues, and therefore anyone associated with them has no chance to win the presidency. If Dean is nominated, he will lose even if Iraq falls apart. If Hillary Clinton or Al Gore jump in, they have no chance if they partner up with the ACLU.

So here's a tip for all you "progressives" out there. The country may not like what is happening in Iraq, the groping of women or a huge federal deficit. But what Americans like even less are fanatics who scorn America's traditions and mock any sense of fair play. And if you left-wingers are angry now, wait until you see what happens if you don't cool off. Four more years.

The Pride of Post High School Band just finished an incredible season of U.I.L. competition. The 48 member band earned a Division I rating at Regional competition last Tuesday in Lubbock. This top placing sent them on to Odessa for area competition this past weekend where they finished eighth overall and third in district. The band is under the direction of Aaron Rathbun.

It's been five months since 76 year old Edna Blodgett of Post was last seen. Her disappearance sparked an extensive ground and air search of Garza County and the surrounding area. The search proved fruitless as it failed to turn up any clues to the whereabouts of the missing woman.

'Lopes end season with 52-20 loss in Bi-District

by Wes Burnett

A winning season and a play-off spot for the Post Antelopes ended last Friday night as the Coahoma Bulldogs ran away with a 52-20 Bi-District Championship at Sweetwater's Mustang Bowl.

The Bulldogs scored on eight of their 11 possessions, taking advantage of five Antelope turnovers.

The 'Lopes came out slugging, playing their brand of hard-nosed, grind it out offense, scoring on a 12 play 53 yard drive that ate up five minutes of the first quarter clock. The featured four first downs on three, third down conversions. Mitchell Mills, Jett Lott and Wilson Cash ran behind an impressive offensive line. It was a precision clinic. Lott crashed into the end zone from the one yard line for the touchdown and Mills took the snap for the two-point conversion, throwing a pass to Mark Norman in the end zone.

A lot of celebrating was taking place as the 'Lopes led the Bulldogs 8-0 with 6:15 left in the first quarter.

It was a bit too early to celebrate, as fans, players and coaches soon discovered.

The Bulldogs, operating a "no-huddle" shotgun offense, ripped off five plays in response to the 'Lopes, but failed to convert the two-pointer. The clock showed 3:54 in the first quarter as the 'Lopes held onto a slim 8-6 lead.

Five plays later, the Bulldog defense held the 'Lopes, forcing a punt. Norman's punt was picture perfect, rolling out of bounds at the Coahoma 12 yard line. That didn't make much difference, as quarterback Sam Tindol simply alternated between running and passing, hitting Kelby Kemper and Lance Roberts for big gainers. The seven play touchdown drive was capped off by Clay Grant slamming into the end zone from the two yard line. Randon Blacklock knocked down the two-point conversion pass attempt, putting the Bulldogs out front 12-8 early in the second quarter.

The Antelopes fought with tenacity, but couldn't sustain a drive ... and once again punted on fourth down. One of the bright spots of the evening popped up when Russell Merritt intercepted a Tindol pass, staving off a Bulldog touchdown at the Post 24 yard line. The 'Lopes took the opportunity, driving to their own 48 yard line before losing the football on a fumble.

Coahoma jumped on the turnover, scoring three plays later with Roberts catching a pass and breaking away from 'Lope defenders to the end zone. The extra point kick hit the goal post and bounced back into play ... Mills picked it up, and not hearing a whistle blow, raced the distance for what a lot of fans thought was a two-point score. However, officials correctly ruled that the ball was dead after hitting the goal post. The Bulldogs extended their lead to 18-8 with 3:44 left in the first half.

The 'Lopes had another sustained drive snuffed out as a halfback pass was intercepted by Coahoma and returned to the Post 38 yard line. It took the Bulldogs 11 plays to score, converting a fourth down at the Post 26 then mixing up passing and running. With six seconds on the first half clock, the Bulldogs added another seven points ... the teams went to the locker room with a 25-8 score.

Second Half Action

Post fans hoping for a turnaround were disappointed as the Bulldogs came out roaring in the third quarter. The six play touchdown drive was sparked by a pass from Tindol to Adrian Abrego, setting up a first down at the Post 16 yard line. Four plays later Kemper caught a pass for the final two yards, the extra point put the Bulldogs out front 32-8.

Another fumble cost the 'Lopes any chance of recovery, and a one-play drive by the Bulldogs put the game out of reach at 38-8 with 8:04 left in the third quarter. Mills intercepted the would-be pass in the end zone, denying the two-point conversion.

The 'Lope offense was forced once again to punt on fourth down ... Norman's punt sailed into the end zone. This time the 'Lope defense held the Bulldogs from scoring. The six play drive was highlighted by 'Lope defenders Will Todd, Blake Nichols, Jace Pollard, Mark McCallister and Chris Hernandez, all hounding Tindol as he scrambled from the shotgun formation. Lott returned the punt to the Coahoma 36 yard line. But the four play scoring attempt was snuffed out with a pass interception at the Bulldog five yard line.

Again the 'Lope defense stood the test ... forcing a field goal attempt on fourth down from the Post 24 yard line. Big defensive plays came from Kyle Gunn and Norman. The 'Lope offense then found new life early in the fourth quarter, mounting a successful 10 play scoring effort. Cash, Mills and Lott shared running chores, with Mills going the final four yards. With 8:45 left in the game, the 'Lopes cut the lead to 38-14. The two-point conversion run failed.

Coahoma's offense took up where it had left off earlier, scoring again with a three play drive ... Tindol tossed a 35 yard pass to Roberts, who ran into the end zone from the 10 yard line. The extra point kick put the Bulldogs ahead 45-14.

Then disaster struck the 'Lopes one more time. On their next possession, the ball was stripped out of the hands of an Antelope running back, setting up the Bulldogs at the Post 24 yard line. Taking the ball with 6:50 on the clock, the Bulldogs scored in three plays, using pass and run, with Roberts getting the touchdown pass from Tindol for the final 20 yards. The extra point sealed scoring for Coahoma, who led 52-14 with 5:12 left in the game.

Not showing any signs of giving up, the Antelopes fought with determination ... scoring on a nine play drive. Cash, Hernandez and Mills ran with the ball and Cash connected with Jonathan McGregor for the touchdown. The two-point conversion failed.

A surprise on-side kickoff gave the 'Lopes the ball one more time with 1:55 remaining. The six play drive ended at the six yard line as time ran out.
