drinks, drawings and fun for the kids on the downtown square. Merchants along State Highway 205 are asked to join the "Open for Business" sale that day. The state project extends from Sids Road north to just north of the downtown square.

Heath addresses Fulton School concerns over new water tower

By Kathy Williams
Exclusive for the Rockwall County News

Heath city council voted at its Dec. 1, 2009 meeting to proceed with the construction of a 1.5-million gallon water storage tower on a one-acre tract of land it owns near the intersection of FM 740 and FM 1140.

More than three months after that vote, some Heath residents and families as well as administrators at The Fulton School, whose grounds surround the city's designated site, continue to question whether there is a better location for the tower and express concern about the city's ability to ensure the safety of students and staff during such a major construction project.

The former RCH Water Supply Corporation had been located on the one-acre site since 1961, with a ground storage water facility located there. The City of Heath purchased a portion of RCH assets, including the RCH site with its ground storage facility and buildings, at the intersection of FM 740 & FM 1140, in 2000 after several years of negotiations.

The Fulton School purchased its first 9.44 acres adjacent to the RCH site in 1997 as the site of its new campus. The school purchased additional acreage for a total of about 14 acres in subsequent years to surround the RCH site on all sides.

Matthew Burgy, Head of School for The Fulton School, said not only is the safety of his students and staff a concern, but the day-to-day business of the school will be impacted by having the tower built less than 300 feet from the school.

"More often than not, we have kids walking from the Falcon's Nest to this side of campus for computer or library or art or some other activity. The little kids are so involved in our school, it's a major disruption to just our day-to-day operations."

The Fulton School's campus includes The Falcon's Nest, a conversion house on the west side of campus with Pre-K and classes for 4- and 5-year olds; a lower school up to 4th grade; an administrative building; middle and upper school to grade 12, and portables in the back for a library, storage and music classes.

The chief concern is the construction and how it will cause such a great disruption to our day. The worst case scenario is if somebody comes on campus and does something they shouldn't; if they are a child predator or a sexual deviate or something of that nature. Or if they are a thief. By coming in and out of campus, they're going to know our schedule, when we're here and when we're not. And if you know when we're here and when we're not, your security becomes in danger."

"We have about 150 lives from ages 3 to 18, not to mention my faculty and staff that we're responsible for and if they come on this campus and do something wrong, it hangs us out there for a large liability, as well as the city and the contractor."

The safety of the school's students, faculty and property are also a major concern for the city of Heath. Kim Dobbs, Heath Assistant City Manager, said "I'm sure the engineers have talked about that (safety) because they aren't going to undertake any kind of construction project that willfully puts anybody at risk. There's risk any time you build anything, any time the school does any addition to their buildings, which they've done several times over the years."

"I think the mayor made it very plain to the families and the school administrators that the city takes safety very seriously and would work with the school to develop a plan for safe construction, to preserve zones and put up barriers and have safety procedures," she said.

Heath City Manager Ed Thatcher said the city has hired an engineering firm to begin plans for the water tower, but the project is in a "holding pattern" while the city hears all concerns from citizens and any last-minute suggestions for alternate sites.

Thatcher said the city of Heath currently has approximately 7,500 residents. Build-out for the city is expected to be between 18,000 and 25,000.

Mariah Bay Leasing files for reorganization

The Harbor development, Mariah Bay Leasing Corporation, has filed for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy code, according to a news release issued this week by the City of Rockwall.

This property is located in the Harbor Tax Increment Financing (TIF) District created by the city to fund the public improvements the city constructed at the Harbor, including roads, utilities, spray fountains, walkways and other public enhancements located along the lake edge.

The City issued debt to pay for the public improvements. That debt is paid for through the property and sales taxes that are collected within the TIF.

This property owner is one of 38 property owners who pay property taxes into the TIF, which incorporates a total of 113 acres. The total property taxes owed to the city under the TIF is $ 529,419, according to the news release. This number includes taxes collected by the county and pledged to the city for the TIF. The total collected in the TIF to date equals $300,050. The Harbor development, which includes this property owner as well as several others, has paid a total of $256,061. They still owe $223,063, only a portion of which is owed by this particular company.

Property taxes still are owed and payable, even in the event of a bankruptcy, according to the news release.

"These dollars will be collected by the city," the release reads. "Sales taxes continue to be paid by the tenants and the businesses will continue to operate."

The developer has indicated it has every intention of addressing the financing issues, according to the release.

"The city has every confidence that the long term prospects for the Harbor as a successful business development in the City of Rockwall are strong and this area will continue to be an asset to the community," the release states.

Rockwall's Hometown Hero: Glenn Detgen

George Russell
 News Anchor Clarice Tinsely (Dallas) recently named Glenn a local Rockwall resident, as a Hometown Hero for his untiring service to our community. Glenn is a Duncanville High School instructor who helps build homes for Rockwall Area Habitat for Humanity (RAHFH) in a most special way. Here's his story.
 Glenn teaches Computer Aided Drafting II and has engaged his students to use their classroom skills to study the floor plans of each home to create drawings which then go to the jobsite. The drawings clearly depict precisely where all the exterior and wall studs go and make the blueprint much easier to read. As Glenn says, "this project allows students to see the relevance of their lessons, directly involves them with 'real world' issues."
 Construction Director Greg Caffarel, who oversees the construction of each home has been particularly appreciative since the Habitat volunteers are not professionals and mistakes are easy to make for the untrained eye. Greg recently stated that Glenn and his students provide have virtually eliminated mistakes that are otherwise easy to make. Thankfully, we no longer have ourselves having to tear down and redo the many mistakes we incur and we've reduced the time required for the framing by 50%. Words alone cannot convey our true appreciation for much these drawings have helped us."
 Glenn's efforts don't stop there. For the past five years Glenn has been working with RAHFH as a lead volunteer helping to build houses, organizing volunteers and getting his hands dirty in real work. Among the volunteer force he routinely recruits are some of his students who make the drive from Duncanville to Rockwall to participate in the work, enabling them to apply their lessons in the class room to the real world.

 And why else does he do this? As Glenn so well recently shared, "I want to show students that volunteering has true value in the real world. When I bring in pictures students are excited to see their designs come to fruition and how they are helping to make a real difference in our community." RAHFH Volunteer Coordination Mike Humphrey adds another wonderful perspective to Glenn's personal student recruiting effort: "hopefully the experience Glenn's students have inspired a 'volunteer spirit' in each of them to pass on to future generations someday."
 One particular Duncanville High student, Gilbert Alpero, who one day hopes to become a Civil Engineer, recently shared his perspective after volunteering with several homes. "It's a great feeling knowing I have a talent that can help someone else out. It's a win-win situation because I'm helping someone out and I'm also getting valuable experience I will be able to use in my future career."
 For all of these wonderful contributions Glenn was recently honored with the President's Volunteer Service Award presented by the President's Council on Service and Civic Participation. This council was established in 2003 to formally recognize the valuable contributions volunteers are making in their communities, to thank them for their service and, by their example, inspire others to engage in volunteer service.
 Glenn's award was presented by the organization's Board of Directors and U.S. Congressman Ralph Hall (R-TX, 4th District). Glenn received the Bronze Award for 100+ hours of service over the course of one year and was presented with a Certificate of Achievement and a flag that was flown over the U.S. Capitol. For Glenn the award was a pleasant surprise: "We don't do this for the recognition. The pleasure you receive from helping others stays with you much longer."

 Glenn Detgen is indeed one very special person in our Rockwall community who is truly making a difference in so many meaningful ways. If Glenn's story inspires you to consider volunteering with Rockwall Area Habitat For Humanity, complete information can be found on their website: rockwallhabitat.org. A home in Royce City is currently in the final phases of construction with plans to start another new home in the vicinity of the main Rockwall Post Office shortly thereafter. Volunteers are needed each Saturday to sustain this much needed and personally inspiring local ministry that our greater Rockwall community has historically so well embraced as a wonderful way to help others in time of need.

Need help finding stolen saddles

Please help us by keeping an eye out for someone trying to sell our saddles.

We rode our horses Sunday, Feb. 28, on our lease pasture in Royse City on Hwy. 276/Rochelle Road. The saddles were locked up in our farm at the barn at the pasture.

Here's a list of the types and saddle makers. One is especially sentimental to me, (as) it was my son's trophy saddle:

- 1) Master saddlery roping saddle, fully tooled with rawhide/ silver leather on cantle. Fenders are stamped "2007 Bareback Champion" w/ NTHS logo. Dark oil w/ black leather seat;
- 2) Vintage Circle Y pleasure show saddle. Fully tooled w/ steel cantle and rawhide horn. 14-15 inch black leather seat. It has long leather strings on conchos;
- 3) Haverty Reiner made in Krum, Texas. Heavy, full tooled w/ oak pattern, sterling silver conchos, rawhide braided horn;
- 4) Big Horn barrel saddle w/ oak leaf tooling, round skirt, dark oil;
- 5) Buffalo barrel saddle, basket weave stamping, square seat, blue seat, light oil, rawhide steel laced cantle and rawhide horn;
- 6) Plain old rough out saddle w/ big floral stamping on fender conchos and swells.

All our bridles and miscellaneous tack were stolen as well Rockwall lice is handling (the) investigation. Thank you.

Ren Straughan
Saturday, March 13th, Eloise's Closet will be open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. All our spring clothing and accessories are Free to Women who need proper attire for a job interview or to wear to their job. Eloise's Closet is a unique boutique that was born out of a need that Soiree of Rockwall saw in our community. Women were returning to the workforce after years of being a stay at home mom or women were seeking employment who may have never worked. These women were facing challenges and fears that they never thought that they would have to face. The challenges was having the right attire to interview for the job. We don't make a good first impression on the interview, then you won't get the job. Our mission statement is To Provide Women in Need with the appropriate business attire and accessories that will enable them to enter the workforce. Our mission was to promote the confidence and a positive self image that these women need to achieve their personal job goals to their fullest potential. Eloise's Closet operates totally on donations from women in the community who are retired or have no need to use their business attire. We have received donations that we receive are absolutely beautiful. We have received dresses, blouses, skirts, slacks, blazers and handbags and jewelry. We don't want to be the "Best Kept Secret" in Rockwall! Our greatest goal is to get the word out to the women in this community that there is an Eloise's Closet. Visit us this Saturday and the second Saturday monthly. Eloise's Closet is located at the Soroptimist House at 1350 Washington St. Located at the back of the house behind the Green Door.

The Fulton School ...

He said daily water use in the winter months is approximately 1.5 million gallons per day and increases in the summer to 2-million gallons per day. Currently, the city shares a 3-million gallon ground storage tank with the city of Heath. Heath pays Rockwall for the use of 1-million gallons from that tank. Thatcher said Heath is using its million gallons during winter months, but in the summer, water use in Heath has been climbing and taking water from Rockwall. "In the winter, it goes to two million, and over two a lot of times, so we're pumping more than we should. Then they are pumping their 2-million gallons out, which means we're actually draining some of their water. They have water towers and we're actually pulling out of their system during the days in the summer and that's why they said, 'you guys have to have something.'" In July 2007, the city of Rockwall reviewed water demand projections and determined the current shared underground storage tank would not meet the water requirements for Heath until 2008. It was suggested that Heath would need to provide its own water storage facility to meet its growing water needs. In a letter from Rockwall City Manager Julie Dobbs, it was stated that in 2008, the city of Rockwall updated the water account for a slowed growth rate in Heath during 2008 and determined that Heath would need their additional water storage by 2009. Thatcher's letter said the two cities discussed the water storage issue and that at that time it would begin the process of constructing additional storage with a completion date of 2010. To date, that facility has not been started.

Dobbs said the city has discussed building the water tower on other sites near the intersection, but the discussions never went beyond exploratory talks. Fulton had suggested moving the tower to another location on its property under a formal land trade offer or sale has not been brought to the city. In 1998, Freeman-Millican Engineering presented a study which stated that the site is best suited for an elevated storage facility. "The study says the water tower should be in that area because that's where the population is at its highest point in the city along the ridgeline that runs on the Fulton property. Since the late 1990s engineers have said it should go there. So it means you can't move it over by Baylor Hospital or behind a school. The reason you put it with people is because that's where you have to serve. As you grow, you put another one in other places." Thatcher said. The city of Heath has plans for another water tower in the south side of the city as the population grows in that direction in coming years. The Heath city council put the item on its March 2 agenda to once again hear comments from concerned residents and Fulton families. No action was taken but Thatcher said the city will consider all possibilities brought forward. "The council is going to make an attempt and listen to everyone. They are going to consider all possibilities of land trades or purchase." At the March 2 meeting, Heath Mayor John Ratcliffe told the city council that assembled residents that whatever options come forward must be considered and timely. The city must move forward on construction soon and the city must use public funds appropriately in its site selection. "I'm very optimistic we will get a resolution soon," Dobbs said. (See Page 6 for Additional Timeline)

On God's Word

by Timothy W. Burnett

Peter explains what they saw and heard...Acts 2:1-4

Acts 2:1-4 records the first time people were filled with the spirit of God and began to speak with tongues as the spirit gave the words. Verses 5-13 about the miracle of how others in the temple heard them speak in their languages the wonderful works of God. Some of the others were amazed and mocked the disciples by accusing them of being drunk. They asked what it meant. According to verses 14-21 Peter stood up and explained to everyone in the temple the meaning of what they saw and heard. He spoke for God, quoting from Joel 2:28-31. Verses 17-20 spoke of people being filled with the spirit of God and of future celestial and natural events that would occur before the "great and notable day of the Lord." Then, according to verse 21, Peter said, "And it shall come to pass that whoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved."

After his explanation, Peter breaks to the subject of Jesus Christ who was raised by God from the dead. He reminded them that God showed His approval of Jesus Christ through the signs, wonders and miracles God did through Jesus. Peter then boldly declared that they seized onto Jesus Christ and with wicked hands crucified and killed him. He continued, "God has raised up, having loosed the pains of death." Wow! Peter was boldly speaking the truth face to face toward the same people who put Jesus Christ to death. This was the same Peter who only a few days before hid in a room out of fear of the Jewish leaders.

According to Acts 2:25-32 Peter speaks more about the resurrection of Jesus Christ, that his soul was not left in hell, neither his flesh did see corruption. He continued, "This same Jesus has God raised up, whereof we all are witnesses." How were they all witnesses? What did they see that bore witness to the resurrection of Jesus Christ? By saying "we all," he was either talking about everyone in the room, or about the circle of people with him. If everybody in the room saw Jesus' resurrected body. If he was talking about everyone in the room, then one possible reason is that they heard them speak in their own languages the wonderful works of God. By speaking in tongues they were bearing witness to the resurrection of Jesus. Since the others heard them miraculously speaking in their own languages the wonderful works of God, it stands to reason they might have heard them speaking about the resurrection of Jesus.

Please understand that this event was a special miracle designed to get the ministry started. When people start speaking in tongues, God does not guarantee that others will understand. In fact according to 1 Corinthians chapter 14, speaking in tongues is not designed for the edification of the assembly of believers, but for the individual who is speaking. More specifically is for the edification of the spirit that is in the person who is speaking. Any believer goes around speaking in tongues in the general public or during church time, he will sound like a stranger or barbarian. That's basically what it says in 1 Corinthians 14:11. There is more to share about speaking in tongues, but for now keep in mind that the event of Acts chapter 2 was unique in that others understood them.

Peter said, "This same Jesus, God has raised up, whereof we are all witnesses. Therefore being at the right hand of God exalted, and having received of the Father the promise of the Holy Ghost, he has shed forth this which you now see and hear" (Acts 2:32-33). The words "having received" translated from lambano related to speaking in tongues. When Jesus rose on God's right hand of all authority, he laid hold of the promise of his Father which they all saw and heard on the day of Pentecost.

City of Heath water tower history

(Editor's Note: The following information was provided by the City of Heath.)

Ensuring the comfort and safety of its citizens by providing a high quality water delivery system is an important service provided by the City of Heath. Maintaining an adequate supply not only allows the City to meet routine household needs, but facilitates the operation of sewage systems and is critical when DPS officers are fighting fires to save lives and properties.

In the past 12 months alone, the Heath City council has discussed the public health and safety issues that require the construction of an elevated water storage facility on city-owned property at no less than seven meetings. This elevated water storage facility is necessary to meet the demand made upon the water supply by a growing population. The site selected for the new water storage facility has been a site for water storage since 1987 and was designated as best suited for the City's planned elevated storage tank in 1998 by Freeman-Millican Engineering.

Background:
1961 - Rockwall Chisholm Heath Water Supply Corporation (RCH) acquired Tract 111-3 (RCH site).

1987 - RCH constructed a ground storage tank and office on the site.
Aug. 1997 - The Fulton School purchased 9.44 acres, adjacent to the RCH site on three sides, including the RCH access easement.

Late 1997 - The City actively renewed efforts to purchase a portion of RCH.

1998 - Freeman-Millican Engineering presented a study finding that the site of the RCH ground storage tank (RCH site) to be best suited for the City's planned elevated storage tank.

May 1999 - Freeman-Millican Engineering made a presentation to the City Council identifying two locations for future elevated storage tanks: RCH site and 2) near City Hall and Amy Parks-Heath Elementary school (note: The Fulton School had an item on the same agenda and was present at the Council meeting).

Sept. 1999 - The Fulton School purchased additional land west of and adjacent to the 9.44 acre tract, completing ownership of land that completely encircled the RCH site and access easement.

Jan. 2000 - The City purchased Tract 34-9, ultimately used for Towne Center Park and the elevated water tank behind Amy Parks-Heath Elementary school (APHE site).

Sept. 2000 - The City finalized purchase of a portion of RCH assets, including the RCH site, ground storage facility and buildings and access easement.

Feb. 2001 - In open meeting, the City Council designated the City site (formerly RCH site) for the elevated water tower and the APHE site as the secondary site. (note: The Fulton School had an item on the same agenda and was present at the Council meeting).

June 2002 - The City constructed a Public Works building on the City site.

Aug. 2004 - The elevated tank was constructed on the APHE site adjacent to the Towne Center Park.

April 2005 - The Fulton School presented a plat for approval and was reminded that the water tower would be constructed on the City site. (note: 2005 plat was not filed)

Dec. 2005 - The Fulton School purchased Lots 19 and 20, Hill View Estates.

Late 2006 - The ground storage tank on the City site was dismantled.
Sept. 2006 - The Fulton School submits a proposal for relocation of the planned elevated water tower. The proposal was not accepted.

Feb. 2007 - Public Works operations were moved from the City site.

July 2008 - The City of Heath and Fulton School entered into a short-term lease to allow Fulton use of the City site. The lease charged is $1 annually.

Dec. 2008 - The Fulton School presented an updated plat for approval and was reminded that the water tower would be constructed on the City site.

March 2009 - The Fulton School purchased Lot 13, Hill View Estates.

June 2009 - The Fulton School purchased Lot 16, Hill View Estates.
Aug. 2009 - The Fulton School submitted a proposal to the City of Heath for relocation of the elevated tower to another site located within the Fulton property. The proposal was rejected by the City and Fulton was informed of the rejection.

Oct. 2009 - The Fulton School sold Lot 16, Hill View Estates

Oct. 2009 - Between April and October 2009, the City discussed in several closed sessions options relating to real property and the location of the elevated storage tank.

Dec. 2009 - The City of Rockwall formalized in writing their directive that the City of Heath build additional water storage. The City of Heath currently "borrowing" space in the City of Rockwall water storage facility and is exceeding its allotted amount of water to meet demands.

Dec. 2009 - In open meeting, the City Council directed staff to proceed with plans for construction of the elevated water tower on the City site.

Living Legends

B O'Reilly
I'm not going to believe this column. This month an event will honor three men as "living legends." The men are Louis Farrakhan, head of the Nation of Islam, the Rev. Jeremiah the former pastor of Barack Obama's church, and Father Michael radical-left Catholic priest. The men will stand together, and though spectators will pay to see them.

Now! Peter Wright, who put Jesus in the release announcing the program says, "Because of their legacy of they are being honored as Living Legends for their unflinching work."

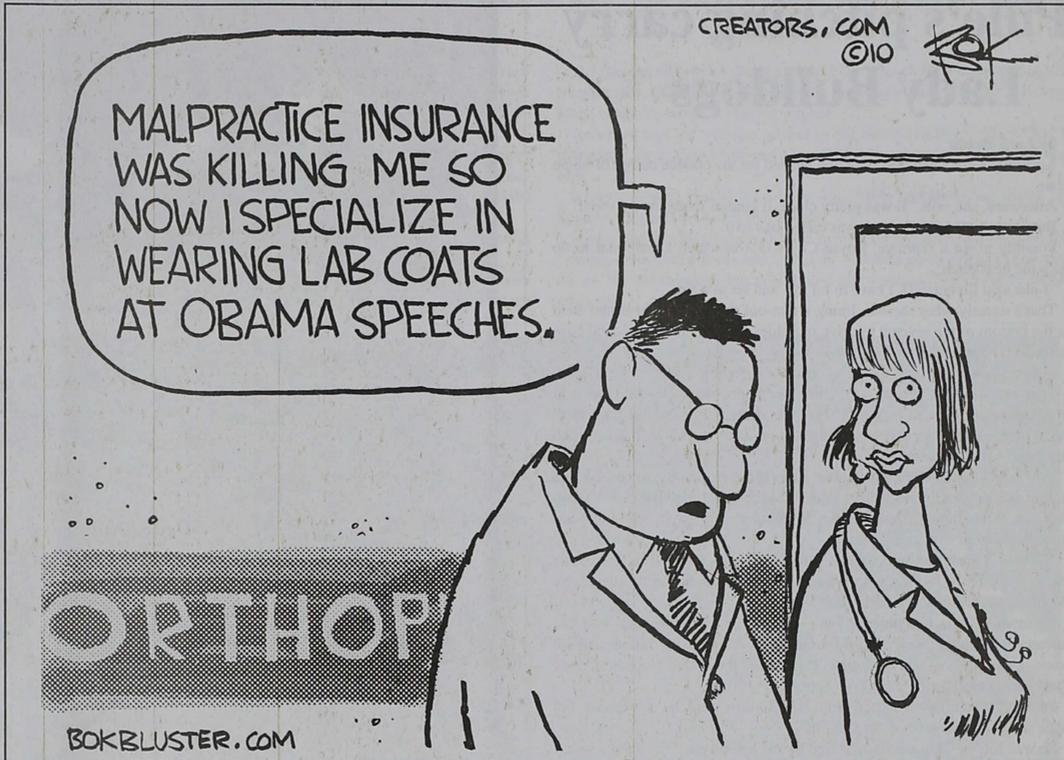

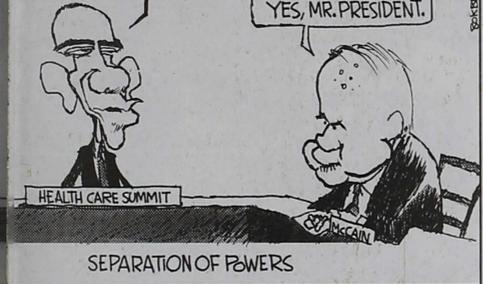

Exactly, selected the three men as honorees? Um, well, that would be v. Jeremiah Wright!
Right, the good reverend is honoring himself and his bomb-throwing and charging up to $100 for a ticket. Who gets the proceeds? Again, it'd be Wright. His school and day-care center will divvy up most of it. Pfleger's parish and Wyclef Jean's Yele Haiti charity will also get some, according to the release.

There are many interesting things about this exposition. First, it has received most no media coverage, even though Farrakhan, speaking before a 20,000 a few days ago, accused the "white right" of planning the assassination of President Obama. The minister, wearing a Muammar Gaddafi went on to say that the "Zionists" were derailing the president's and white Christians were praying for Obama's death. Sounds like the living legends, doesn't it?
What is a Catholic priest doing standing with Farrakhan and Wright? Follow Jesus, a man who preached peace and love for all people. Called the Archbishop of Chicago, Francis Cardinal George, for comment he doesn't have a comment. Are you kidding me? I'm a Catholic — I know what's going on!

Decide to attend the "Living Legends" event, you will hear some from the "Soulful Sounds" and will be able to purchase Wright's new CD, "Sankofa Moment." I don't exactly know what that is, but it sounds killer. By the way, there is no truth to the rumor that Farrakhan's new CD is entitled "Marley, Me, and the Zionists."

The whole deal is pretty amusing, and even if you don't like him, you have Wright some credit. The retired minister now inhabits a million-dollar largely white, gated community and, apparently, has some time on his hands. So, he came up with an award ceremony that promotes his inter-having receive, as I'm betting the Chicago theater will sell out.
As much as I'd like to, I will not be going. Somehow I don't think old Jerry and Mike would appreciate me sitting there as the "Living Legends" program unfolds. Just a hunch.

Who poses the greater threat?

by Walter E. Williams
Bill Gates is the world's richest person, but what kind of power does he have over you? Can he force your kid to go to a school you do not want him to attend? Can he deny you the right to braid hair in your home for a living? It turns out that a local politician, who might deny us the right to earn a living and dictates which school our kid attends, has far greater power over our lives than any rich person. Rich people can gain power over us, but to do so, they must get permission from our elected representatives at the federal, state or local levels. For example, I might wish to purchase sugar from a Caribbean producer, but America's sugar lobby pays congressmen hundreds of thousands of dollars in campaign contributions to impose sugar import tariffs and quotas, forcing me and every other American to purchase their more expensive sugar.

Politicians love pitting us against the rich. All by themselves, the rich have absolutely no power over us. To rip us off, they need the might of Congress to rig the economic game. It's a slick political sleight-of-hand where politicians and their allies amongst the intellectuals, talking heads and the news media get us caught up in the politics of envy as part of their agenda for greater control over our lives.

The sugar lobby is just one example among thousands. Just ask yourself: Who were the major recipients of the billions of taxpayer bailout dollars, the so-called Troubled Asset Relief Program (TARP)? The top recipients of TARP handouts included companies such as Citibank, AIG, Goldman Sachs and General Motors. Their top management are paid tens of millions dollars to run companies that were on the verge of bankruptcy, were it not for billions of dollars in taxpayer money. Politicians preach the politics of envy whilst reaching into the ordinary man's pockets, through the IRS, and handing it over to their favorite rich people and others who make large contributions to their election efforts.

The bottom line is that it is politicians first and their supporters amongst intellectuals who pose the greatest threat to liberty. Dr. Thomas Sowell amply demonstrates this in his brand-new book, "Intellectuals and Society," in which he points out that: "Scarcely a mass-murdering dictator of the twentieth century was without his intellectual supporters, not simply in his own country, but also in foreign democracies ... Lenin, Stalin, Mao and Hitler all had their admirers, defenders and apologists among the intelligentsia in Western democratic nations, despite the fact that these dictators each ended up killing people of their own country on a scale unprecedented even by despotic regimes that preceded them."

While American politicians and intellectuals have not reached the depths of tyrants such as Lenin, Stalin, Mao and Hitler, they share a common vision. Tyrants denounce free markets and voluntary exchange. They are the chief supporters of reduced private property rights, reduced rights to profits, and they are anti-competition and pro-monopoly. They are pro-control and coercion, by the state. These Americans who run Washington and their intellectual supporters, believe they have superior wisdom and greater intelligence than the masses.

They believe they have been ordained to forcibly impose that wisdom on the rest of us. Like any other tyrant, they have what they consider good reasons for restricting the freedom of others. A tyrant's primary agenda calls for the elimination or attenuation of the market. Why? Markets imply voluntary exchange and tyrants do not trust that people behaving voluntarily will do what the tyrant thinks they should do. Therefore, they seek to replace the market with economic planning and regulation, which is little more than the forcible superseding of other people's plans by the powerful elite.

We Americans have forgotten founder Thomas Paine's warning that "Government, even in its best state, is but a necessary evil; in its worst state, an intolerable one."

The Christian Case for Rejecting Taxation

Lesley W. Burnett
Christian friends quiz me about my moral stand against taxation, frequently insist that taxes are okay, "after all, Jesus condoned it when he gave the fish to the Roman tax collector."
I cite the story about Jesus and the coin, "pay unto Caesar that which is Caesar's." Sometimes Christians turn to Paul's letter to the Christians in Rome: "Obey your leaders."
Supporters of taxation shrug their shoulders and cite the age-old saying, "taxation is a necessary evil."
All these defenses of taxation are of course, totally invalid when exposed for fallacy by God's commandments.
The question I ask these Christian believers in taxation: Do you believe that Jesus is incapable of being in conflict with his Father's commandments?
Of course, "is the usual reply.

"Do you believe that the Ninth Commandment is still valid today (Thou Shalt Not Steal)?" I continue.
"Sure," the good Christians answer.
I then ask, "Do you accept the common English definition of theft: the taking of property without permission of the owner?"
"Yes," the literate Christian replies.
Then the clincher question ... "Do you agree that taxation is the taking of property from people without their permission?"
... silence always follows that question.
Some nod their heads, some look at the ceiling or the floor, some just turn and walk away ... others look like they've been hit with a stun gun, unable to speak. When they do recover from the shock, they inevitably blurt out, "well, you may be right, but how else can we fund government?"
"That is irrelevant," I reply. "If you know you are violating God's Commandments, and you continue to do so because you don't know what else to do, you are still dishonoring and in disobedience to God. It is not our duty to figure out how to fund government, that's the duty of our elected officials. It is, however, our duty to ensure that we obey God's Commandments."

Is the Ninth Commandment less important than any of the other 10? Would we so casually disobey and ignore the commandment "Thou Shalt Not Murder?"
Either we are going to honor God or we are not... there is no in-between, and anything less is not acceptable.
Know this, Jesus did not condone taxation, he simply realized that it was better to pay up than to have Peter imprisoned. Jesus could not condone taxation, for it was and is impossible for him to condone the violation of his Father's Commandments.
We live in a culture which condones theft by majority vote, excused as "a necessary evil." Christians must reject this immoral concept, just as Christians in the mid-19th century demanded the abolition of human slavery.
The only difference between then and now is the degree of enslavement... slavery took the physical body of people; taxation takes the physical property of the people.
Both are in violation of God's Commandments.
We pray our Christian friends will turn away from the "necessary evil" and reject taxation for the evil that it is.
Considering that the majority of our elected officials are Christians, it is obvious that we have the power to stop disobeying God's Commandments. All it takes is for Christians to demand obedience to God, including those deciding how to fund the functions of government. God does not recognize nor condone "necessary evils."

Kelley's double, Pille's pitching carry Lady Bulldogs

by Lary Bump

Kourtney Kelley watched the pitch headed for the outside corner of home plate. Afterward, she said, "It was pretty close. It kind of made me nervous." But instead of strike three, it was called ball two. Possibly given a reprieve, Roysie City's first baseman knew what to do with the next pitch. "I just said [to herself], I have to hit this and hit in a run." That's exactly what she did, lining a two-out double to right-center field in the bottom of the seventh to drive in Ashley Heineman from second base with the winning run in a 5-4 softball victory over Rockwall. "I saw a hole there and said, 'I've just got to drive it there.'" That ended a nearly three-hour game, with spectators spending much of that time on the edge of their seat. That was through 3-0 and 4-2 leads built up by RHS, and four nerve-wracking innings after the Lady Bulldogs tied the game 4-4 after three. Two errors helped the Lady Jackets score three runs in the top of the first inning, but Roysie City came back with two in the bottom of the inning. With two out, Pille singled, Desi Arredondo doubled and Kayla Simmons sent them both home with a double. A two-out error by Rockwall led to a second-inning run to counteract the one the Lady Jackets scored during their at-bat. In the fourth, Haley Williams singled to score Simmons. Meanwhile, Pille was pitching into – and out of – trouble. Rockwall had runners at third base in the third inning, at second the next inning and the bases loaded in the sixth. Each time, Pille ended the inning by striking out a Lady Jacket to keep the team from scoring. Said RC head coach Michelle Booker, "She struggled the first inning, but once she got in the groove she was OK." So was Kelley. The coach said, "She's done a good job. We've been working with her. We were happy to have her up there. We were right where we needed to be and wanted to be in the lineup." Being ahead of defending district champion Rockwall is where the Lady Bulldogs have tried to be for the last two seasons. "We've had kind of a mindblock when it comes to Rockwall. I told the team we've got the big one out of the way, now we can't let somebody else sneak up on us." RC had had some difficulty scoring during last weekend's Wylie Tournament. The Lady Bulldogs managed just four hits in a 2-1 loss to Bishop Lynch Thursday, March 4. Kelly's double was their only hit in a 1-0 loss to Lovejoy, despite Pille's two-hit pitching later that day. On Saturday, Roysie City made the most of two hits in a 2-1 victory over Wylie. Pille's pitching in that game, Booker said, was "lights out."

Royse City rally falls short against Rockwall

by Lary Bump

From the beginning of Roysie City's District 10-4A baseball opening game, it appeared to be a lost cause.

Rockwall's first two batters in the game scored. The Yellowjackets added another run in the second inning, putting RC in a 3-0 hole. The Bulldogs were having trouble hitting RHS' Wesley Cox.

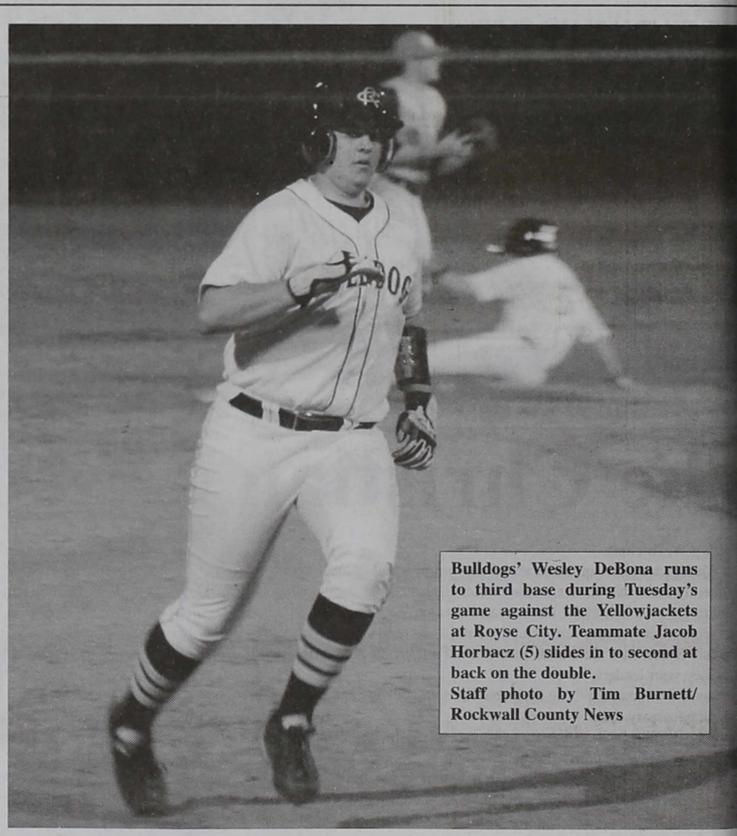

But from that point, Bulldogs right-hander Scot Lane took control. He also doubled and scored Roysie City's first run, in the fourth inning.

It was 5-1 entering the bottom of the seventh inning, but it didn't end until RC threw a scare into Rockwall before losing 5-2.

Jacob Horbacz, whose single had driven in Lane three innings earlier, led off the seventh with a triple to right field. Mitchell Vanhous reached base and sent Horbacz home with the Bulldogs' second run. With two out, Dylan Funderburk kept the game alive with a single.

That brought Jared Jordan to home plate as the potential winning run. He hit a ground ball to the right of first baseman Tucker Fielder and ran down the baseline, barely losing a footrace to Cox, who took a throw for the game's final out.

Over the weekend, Roysie City had lost to Midlothian 15-2 and North Mesquite 5-4, and defeated Dallas Skyline 7-1. Midlothian outhit the Bulldogs 15-5. Lane's double was RC's only extra-base hit. Against North Mesquite, Funderburk hit a home run, Horbacz had a triple and Jordan doubled.

Wesley Cox pitches Rockwall Jackets past Bulldogs

By Lary Bump
 Wesley Cox put down a seventh-inning threat for a complete-game 5-2 victory for Rockwall's baseball team at Royse City in Tuesday night's 10-4A opener. Cox followed the Bulldogs seven hits, but ended the game by hustling to take a throw from first baseman Tucker Fielder to retire RC's Jared Jordan, representing the tying run. "Wesley Cox was great," said RHS head coach Jeff Payne. He was in complete command. He made very few mistakes over the course of the game. "The guys are very confident with him out there." The game was ongoing.

Cox was sharp in beating Jesuit, and has been on fire at the plate," Payne said. Rockwall defeated Dallas Jesuit 7-2 Thursday, March 4, in the Jesuit district. Cox also had two hits in that game. The Yellowjackets (8-2-1) won three of five games there over the weekend. Against Royse City, Cox didn't have any hits, but he did send home a run in the seventh inning with a ground ball that resulted in a throwing error. The Jackets' two fifth-inning runs proved important when RC rallied to run in the seventh and had two runners on base when Jordan ground out. Rockwall's first two batters in the game scored. Will Steward reached base on an error, then J.D. Deloach doubled to send him home. Fielder's single scored Deloach. Steve Bean's second-inning single drove in Deloach to make the score 3-0. In the sixth, the Jackets did little with RC right-hander Scot Lane except in the fifth inning, when Blake Turner reached second base with a hustle on a ground ball up the middle, and scored on Deloach's second out of the game. "It was a solid start to district play for us. We did a good job of being aggressive at the plate and hit a very good pitcher hard. He was tough much on. We played great and beat a team that can beat anybody in the district. Scot Lane is the best arm we've seen to date."

The Jackets have faced good competition in tournaments at Waco and on March 4 was a good day for Rockwall. Before beating Jesuit, the Jackets defeated defending state 4A champion Texarkana Texas 7-4 behind winning pitcher Thomas Anderson. RHS had 10 hits against the Tigers, including three by J.D. Deloach and Josh Deloach. In the Thursday win over Jesuit, the Jackets' 11 hits included a triple by Fielder. "Thomas Anderson beat a very good Texas High lineup. The defense, with the exception of the Lakeview game, was exceptional at times."

RHS had followed up the two first-day wins by losing to Garland Lakeview Centennial 11-6, with the Jackets committing three errors, and Bishop Lynch 7-3. The Jackets bounced back with a 9-6 victory over the host team Saturday.

Cox and Mills each hit a double against Lakeview. Against Lynch, Fielder hit a triple and Cox had another double. Jesuit out-hit Rockwall 9-8 Saturday night, when Josh Deloach's triple was the Jackets' only extra-base hit. Gabe Gonzales was the winning pitcher.

At Waco, RHS had defeated Lorena 11-1, Stephenville 15-0, Killeen 7-1 and Red Oak 6-0 before tying Arlington Bowie 9-9.

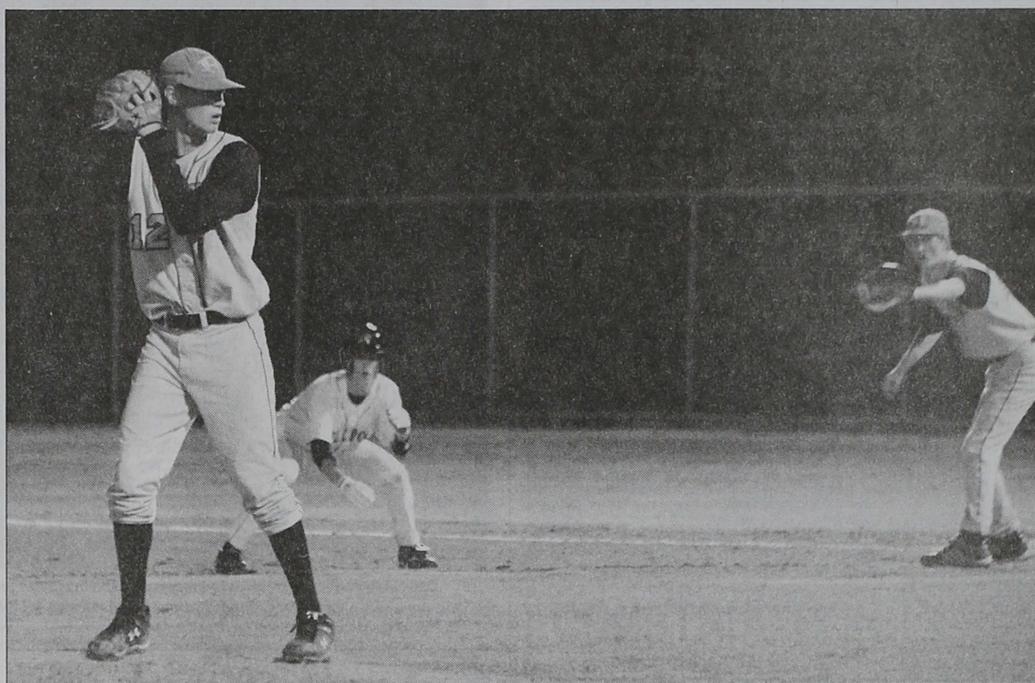

In the Jackets' season-opening game Thursday, Feb. 25, Cox was the winning pitcher against Lorena. Rockwall made the most of just five hits each in the Stephenville and Killeen games. J.D. Deloach hit a home run against Stephenville. Edwards' double was the only extra-base hit against Killeen, when Gonzales was the winning pitcher.

Anderson was the winning pitcher in the two-hit shutout of Red Oak. In that game, Bean hit a triple and Cox, Edwards and Josh Deloach had doubles.

Against Bowie, Fielder hit a home run, Mills and Bean had triples and Spencer Edwards provided two doubles.

Payne said Rockwall doesn't have many problem areas to work on, but "simply maintaining focus and letting the bad stuff go so it doesn't snowball on us. We are talented, but young, and are working hard to better handle adversity."

RHS girls in playoffs, clinging to third place

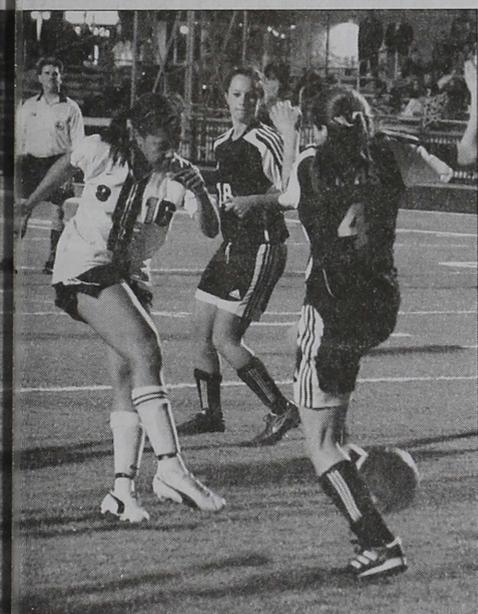

Rockwall clinched a girls' soccer playoff berth by shutting out Lovejoy 3-0 on March 5, and The Colony 2-0 Tuesday.

With only one District 21-4A game remaining, Friday night at home against Richardson Pearce, the Lady Jackets (8-6-4 overall, 4-3-2 in the district) are in third place. They can't move up to second, but could fall into fourth place behind The Colony if the Cougars win and Rockwall loses to the Mustangs.

Against Lovejoy, Bethany Schomin scored two goals and Jessie Givens scored one.

Rene Soldat and Allie Wentzel scored for Rockwall in the win over The Colony.

The playoffs will begin after next week's spring break.

Lady Jackets start fast, but lose at Royse City

by Lary Bump

Rockwall took leads of 3-0 and 4-2 in the first two innings of Tuesday night's softball game at Royse City. After that, the Lady Jackets managed just three hits and no runs against pitcher Alicia Pille.

"We started off well, but you've got to give credit to their pitcher. She adapted to us, but we didn't adjust," RHS head coach Shadie Acosta said after a 5-4 loss.

The Lady Bulldogs finished well, and that made the biggest difference in the District 10-4A opener for both teams.

They tied the game with single runs in the second and third innings against Rockwall right-hander Laycee Holcomb.

Pille escaped a two-out jam in the sixth. After walking the bases loaded, she struck out first baseman Ashton Atwell to end the inning.

In the bottom of the seventh, Holcomb also appeared to be pitching out of trouble with two out and two runners on base. Her one-ball, two-strike pitch to Royse City's Kourtney Kelley was on the outside corner. Or was it? Not so, said the home plate umpire, calling a ball outside.

Kelley then lined the next pitch into right-center field for a game-ending double.

Acosta said, "It's been tough. We've had a slow start with injuries and kids not being healthy. Laycee has only thrown for two full weeks because her leg was in a boot before that."

Holcomb helped herself at the plate, driving in a run in each of the first two innings with a single and a squeeze bunt. She went 2-for-2 with a walk.

Taylor Lemons and Jamie Bain also singled to drive in first-inning runs for Rockwall.

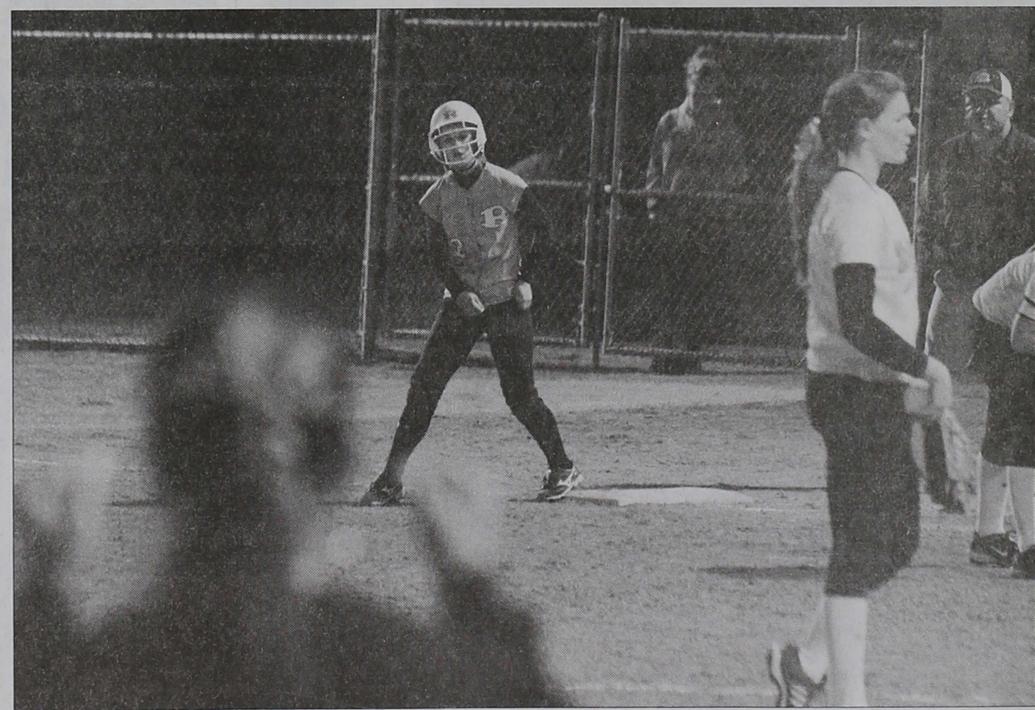

The Lady Jackets were coming off a busy week, which included a 4-1 loss at Plano Wednesday, March 3, and the Wylie Tournament over the weekend.

Against Plano, Rockwall managed just three hits. One was a triple by Cyndi Bertrand.

At Wylie, the home team ripped RHS 10-4 with a 12-hit attack. Mesquite Horn then defeated the Lady Jackets 5-3, and Mansfield Legacy took an 8-1 decision.

Rockwall came back with two victories Saturday - over North Mesquite 7-3 and Rowlett 4-2. RHS backed Holcomb's pitching against North Mesquite with a 10-hit attack that included Shelby Wood's double.

The Lady Jackets have a chance to even their district record Friday at 7 p.m. when they're scheduled to host Rockwall-Heath.

Hawks 11-0 after another tourney win, shutout of Greenville

It can't get any better for Rockwall-Heath's baseball team. The Hawks swept five games for the second weekend in a row for its second tournament title, then shut out Greenville in their District 10-4A opening game at home Tuesday night.

Along the way, Jake Thompson pitched a no-hitter as RHHS defeated Joshua 12-2 en route to winning the Burleson Tournament. The Hawks' final win there was 5-3 over host Burleson.

James Baune was the winning pitcher in two five-hit shutouts, 7-0 over Wichita Falls Rider at Burleson and 10-0 over Greenville.

The Hawks made the most of seven hits to win the district opener over Greenville. Three of those hits were for extra bases – John Branum's home run, Trevor Holland's triple and a double by Drew Benefield.

Contributions from many players have been a major theme already this season.

At Burleson, Rockwall-Heath opened with an 8-1 victory over Mansfield Summit. Benefield was the winning pitcher. Armando Villa's double was the only one of the Hawks' 10 hits that went for extra bases.

RHHS again had 10 hits against Rider. Holland belted a double and a triple, and Benefield and Drew Baxter each had a double.

Twelve more hits led to a 13-3 romp over Red Oak, the Hawks' second win over the Hawks this season. Thompson led the way with a home run and a double. Baxter, Benefield, Jacob Houpt and Branum each had a double. Support winning pitcher Patrick Gonzales.

Rockwall-Heath didn't really need 12 runs and 11 hits to defeat Joshua, but that's what the Hawks had. Thompson hit another home run, Baxter also went deep. Holland, Benefield and Branum all doubled.

Burleson outhit RHHS 9-6, but four errors helped send the home team to its first loss this season. The Hawks, who played good defense throughout the tournament, had no errors against Burleson. Caleb Copley was the winning pitcher. Gonzales hit a double, and Jovan Hernandez had a home run

RHHS Lady Hawks blank Greenville in district opener

Rockwall-Heath scored an easy 10-0 home victory over Greenville Tuesday night in the opening District 10-4A softball game for both teams.

Over the weekend, the Lady Hawks lost 7-4 to Bishop Lynch and 11-0 to North Mesquite in the Wylie Tournament.

Lynch outhit RHHS 13-8, with Madie Rice hitting a double for Rockwall-Heath. Dakota Whittern's double was one of three hits for the Lady Hawks against North Mesquite's Melanie Ortega. Her teammates supported her with 13 hits, seven for extra bases.

Lu's goals put Hawks in position to finish second

A victory over Highland Park and a tie against Division 21-4A leader Richardson Pearce have given the Rockwall-Heath boys' soccer team a possibility of finishing the district season in second place.

The Hawks (5-3-1 in the district) would have to win Friday's 7:15 p.m. home game, their final regular-season contest, to move past the Leopards (4-1-4) into second place. Lovejoy would keep RHHS in third place with a win or a tie.

Rockwall-Heath (14-5-1) overall won 3-0 Friday, March 5, at fourth-place Highland Park. Brandon Lu, Issaac Esquivel and Guillermo Medina scored against the Scots.

Lu teamed up with Chase Minter to provide the Hawks' offense in Tuesday's 2-2 tie at home against Pearce (12-5-5, 6-0-3).

After spring break, Rockwall-Heath will have a Bi-District playoff match – either as the second- or third-place team from 21-4A.

City, school district elections short of contested races

Filing for positions on the May 8 municipal and school district election ballots have ended, and only a handful of contested races have evolved.

Voters in the City of Rockwall will see two contested races on their ballots for city council, while those casting ballots in the City of Fate will decide a contested race for the mayoral office.

The Rockwall County News contacted each of the governing entities serving Rockwall County residents, and the information listed below was provided in response.

Deadline for filing a write-in candidate declaration is 5 p.m. Monday. Early voting will run April 26 through May 4.

City of Rockwall

Two of the three positions open on the Rockwall City Council will see contested races, according to reports from city officials.

For the Place 2 seat, incumbent Mark Russo will be challenged by Bill Bricker and Teddy Nugen. Incumbent Margo Nielsen will be challenged for the Place 6 position by David White.

Cliff Sevier, the incumbent, will see no challenger in his bid for reelection to the Place 4 office.

City of Heath

The incumbents for the three open positions – mayor and council members in Places 3 and 5 – were the only ones to file as candidates, according to a report from city officials. John Ratcliffe will seek re-election to the mayoral office, while Julianna (Julie) Zurek and Lorne Liechty hope to return to their council seats, Places 3 and 5, respectively.

City of Fate

Voters in the City of Fate will be asked to decide between the incumbent Bill Broderick, and a challenger, Richard Johns, according to reports.

The incumbents for Places 2, 4 and 6 – Steve Skipworth, Sheri L. Galt and Tammy Ryan, respectively – will run unopposed.

City of McLendon-Chisholm

Gary Moody filed as the sole candidate for mayor, while incumbents Ja Pullen and Steve Hatfield will seek to return to their respective seats, Places 2 and 4.

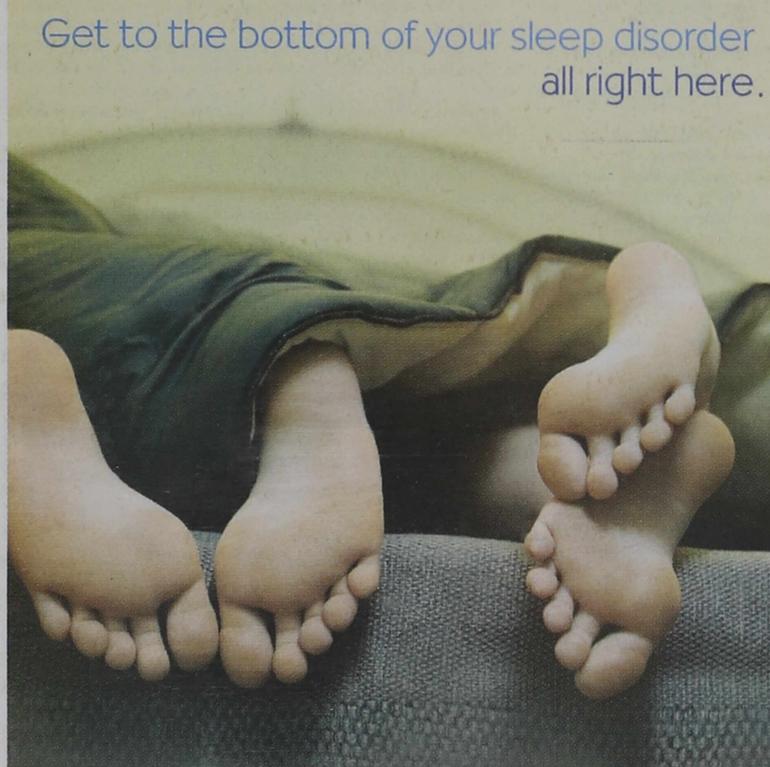

Incumbent Jess Lovell was the lone candidate in the special election for Place 1; however, the city had the authority to cancel the special election since Lovell was unopposed and no one filed as a write-in candidate, according to city officials.

Rockwall ISD

At the close of the filing period, two candidates – incumbent Don Hamilton, Place 4, and incumbent David Loftis, Place 5 – had filed for two open school board seats, according to a district report.

Royse City ISD

As of mid-day Monday, only the incumbents – Mike Stone, Place 6, and Julie Stutts, Place 7 – had filed candidate applications, according to a report from the school district.

The Rockwall Independent School District is receiving sealed proposals for the categories listed above. Proposal packages may be requested by email to jharris@rockwallisd.org or dmacdonald@rockwallisd.org or downloaded at the Districts web site www.rockwallisd.com/Departments/Finance/Purchasing. The District anticipates award at the June 21, 2010 board meeting. Proposal forms should be in a sealed envelope to the attention of the Director of Purchasing and marked with the proposal number and name. Proposals will be received until 2:00 PM on May 13, 2010 at the Administration Center located at 1050 Williams Street, Rockwall TX 75087.

Proposals will be opened as received beginning April 12, 2010. Prices will not be read, nor disclosed in any other manner until award is made. These are as-needed type contracts for all RISD campuses and departments. The contract period will be effective from July 1, 2010 or date of award (whichever is later) through June 30, 2011 (with the option of two [2] one-year extensions).

Multiple awards are anticipated. The district seeks to accept all responsible vendors on an unequal basis, thus allowing RISD's campuses/activities/departments to choose the vendor that best meets their needs based on factors including, but not limited to, price, availability, and delivery. Vendors awarded contracts under this RFP will be identified as "approved vendors" with Rockwall I S D.

The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids/proposals and to waive any irregularities, technicalities or informalities in any bids or the bid process.

There's nothing quite like celebrating one's birthday, and Lucile Tate's celebration last Saturday at Summer Ridge Assisted Living and Retirement Center was certainly one of those days as she was honored on her 100th. She was honored by family and friends, Summer Ridge staff, Congressman Ralph Hall and Rockwall Mayor Bill Cecil.
