Bull Town Days beards appear to be pretty scarce at this point. The celebration is just some six weeks away. Some of you light-bearded fellows best get started if you expect to make a showing in this year's beardgrowing contest.

We've noticed that Larry Scott has a full growth of whiskers under cultivation, J. D. Kirknatrick has a westernlooking set of sideburns growing. As far as we know, both of these are Bull Town Days projects. And there may be some others that we haven't yet noticed.

Most males have a desire to grow a batch of whiskers, Sometimes this desire is hidden and nobody save the individual involved knows about it. If this is the situation in your case, there's never a better time than Bull Town Days, and the weeks preceding, to take care of this urge and get it out of your system. There'll never be a better excuse, so you might as well get on with it.

Wives, we've heard, can be especially tolerant about beard growing for a community celebration.

Don't do like we do. Do like

Besides, growing of a beard can save the $2 cost of a shave permit.

There's a move a'foot, evidently from downstate, to have the Texas Water Plan voted down. This should come as no surprise to leaders of the plan who have probably been expecting opposition all along.

The plan, which Texans will vote on in a constitutional amendment election August 5, has as its objective to provide adequate water to maintain the growth and prosperity of Texas into the next century when it is estimated that the state will In Boving -have a population of 30.5 million people. The plan provides for the full development of water resources and the importation of surplus water from the lower Mississippi River for distribution to areas with decline water resources.

As badly as we hate to admit it, that business about "areas with declining water resources" fits us. The water situation is good now, but it won't always be that way as the underground water supply is depleted. Additional water from another source is mandatory if current production and progress is continued.

The information we saw knocking the idea was almost indirect in getting around to its objective of killing the plan by having the people of Texas vote it down. "It's just not quite as quickly as housing is availright," seemed to be the im- able. pression the information wanted to imply. "Let's wait," it suggested.

That's the professional method of killing an idea or a project. Just delay the action of the people who are pushing it and hope they'll forget about it.

This is the kind of opposition the plan will be faced with between now and the August 5 wlection. We need to guard against it and promote against it . . . for the good of our own area and the entire state.

The amount of money involved---$3.5 million in bonds to finance Texas' share of the cost----will scare some members of the tax-conscious voting public. But it shouldn't. The plan is so designed that users of the water will pay off the bonds. Taxes won't retire the

In reality, then, passage of the constitutional amendment will be a means of allowing Texans to help themselves. The plan needs our wholehearted, 100 per cent support.

Louis McDaniel of Southwestern Public Service Co. has provided this department with his company's latest annual report on cattle feeding and grain sorghum production in the area. The report, which uses figires as of March 31 of this year, shows that Parmer continues to be the leading county in grain sorghum production with 19,000,000-plus bushels.

In the "Number of Cattle Fed in '69" column Parmer is second only to Deaf Smith County. Parmer's total is 197,800 while our neighbor to the north has a whopping total of 250,500.

This county is also near, but not at, the top in the column which tells how many cattle could be fed from the grain sorghum which is being produced but not used locally. According to the SWPS info, Parmer could feed almost 200,000 more cattle each year. The time when this is done or exceeded may be fast approaching. With the fast development

Wilson, who presided at the meeting, said that while the association was in debt by "less than $5000," the overall financial picture for one year's operation was better than it was expected to be at this time a year ago.

Dr. Cornelius Blesius, who has practiced in the clinic for the past 12 months, indicated last month that he was interested in leaving and returning to school. Weekend Rain Measure 1.5"

Mid-summer rain brought smiles to the faces of area farmers during the weekend. Showers fell Saturday night and Sunday afternoon and night bringing in excess of two inches of moisture to areas south

In town, the two-day total was an inch and a half with the half falling Saturday night and an inch Sunday. Lesser amounts were recorded west and north of town.

There was some hall damage reported four or five miles south of town. The moisture advantage to farmers was considered greater than the hail damage, however.

The weekend rainfall total aided in making this what is considered a "wet" year.

On The Farm In Parmer County

By RONNY McNUTT County Agent

Texas A&M University researchers have found that an inexpensive by-product of the cottonseed oil refining process contails a factor which prevents common scours in calves.

The by-product is acidulated soapstock (acid oil), which is an excellent source of fat in milk replacer formulas for calves and has a unique anti-diarrheic quality.

Research dates back to 1956 when Dr. R. E. Leighton of the A&M Animal Science Department discovered an anti-scour substance in a methylated product made from cottonseed oil soapstock.

Leighton said excellent success has been reached in the past two years with dairy calves fed a milk-replacer formula containing 15 per cent acidulated soapstock.

The researcher noted that the cottonseed oil refining industry formerly regarded the product as of little value. Disposal was often a problem. Later, uses were found in the feed industry, but it is currently the least expensive fat ingredient in calf milk replacers.

Cost per pound is 5 cents or less in large quantities. "The ever-increasing use of milk replacer formulas in feeding both dairy and beef calves, plus the surprising reduction office.

in calf diarrhea which results when the acid oil is used in the diet, suggests that this finding will be of considerable importance to livestock feeders, feed manufacturers, veterinarians and the cottonseed oil industry.

FORAGE TESTING SERVICE The Texas A&M University Forage Testing Service has now been in operation for several years. Results of this service have been of great educational value, and producers report it to be of significant value as an aid in developing sound and economic feeding programs, and evaluating and improving forage production practices. The charge is $6 for each hav and pelleted or wafered forage sample and $7 for each silage sample for determination of crude fiber and calculation of digestible protein, total digestible nutrients and net energy. BEWARE OF BUGS

Modern sprays and repellents have cut down enormously on the harm caused by bees, wasps, ticks, chiggers and other such creatures that abound during the summer months. However, stinging monsters still take their toll with barefooted and barely clad children.

AND BEES

Use a good repellent, we have many in stock regularly. Apply prior to summer outing: to wash with soap and sponge with alcohol as soon as you come back. Quickly treat any sting with a soothing lotion or ointment. We stock them. If it is unusually severe and swelling, consult your physician.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service accounts.

Bovina Area Churches Welcome You

Chuckles by CARTWRIGHT Church

"What denomination are you?"

Ears to Hear He that hath ears to hear, let him hear. Mark 4:9

Hearing is a gift of God. So much of what we learn comes from what we hear.

There are many sounds and voices clamoring for our attention. What are we hearing? To what are we listening? What are we following?

Jesus wanted His followers to listen receptively and perceptively. So often Jesus taught His disciples in parables, short, simple stories from which important truths could be learned.

All of life is a learning process. We have to separate the good from the bad. We have to evaluate all that we hear and see. We should remember the lessons to be learned.

There is nothing more important to hear than God's Word. It is still true: "Blessed are they that hear the Word of God and keep it."

As we hear God's Word, God is at work. He convicts us of sin and leads us to knowledge of Jesus Christ and faith in Him as our Savior and Redeemer.

Let us thank God for the gift of hearing. Let us be faithful about hearing God's Word in home and in church so we may be faith-filled. Let us close our ears to hearing things which harm our faith and which do not help us to live our Christian life. Let us open our ears to hearing what is good and right for us as God's children.

Heavenly Father, grant Thy blessing on our hearing of Thy
