That ebony hued evangelist, who, after taking one good, long, wistful look at Halley's comet, tall and all, dreamed a dream about making the Lone Star State a veritable heaven for all African descent, ought to get a good look at Sterling City—just as a good, wholesome sample of what this glorious State of Texas is like in that regard, and the negro evangelist would back up some. Texas is no haven of rest or paradise of joy for Africans.—San Angelo Standard.

Teach your child self-restraint. Teach him when he once becomes master of himself, he is master of the whole situation. Try as you may, you can never hope to remove all the obstructions from his pathway. Instead of trying to fill up the creek, teach him to swim. Instead of trying to run all the horses and cattle out of the country to keep him from stealing them, teach him to be honest. Teach him to be sober and temperate at all times and at all places, and that booze-fighting is a combat in which booze will always get the best of it. Teach him that the man who sells booze is as much of a gentleman as the man who buys it.

TERRIFIC HAIL

Crops and all Other Vegetation Badly Damaged By Hail Last Tuesday Evening

Last Tuesday evening a hard rain and hail storm struck this town. Much damage was done to fruit and gardens, more than half the fruit being knocked off and in some instances the leaves were entirely stripped from the trees.

About 7 o'clock, a small, green bowl-shaped cloud formed to the northwest, and putting on a splendid electrical display, it formed itself into a large, black ball and came toward town. Those who had been watching it went to storm cave and other places when they saw it coming, for they felt sure a cyclone was upon them; but it proved to be only a terrific hail and rain storm. Soon the streets were flooded with water. Hailstones lay about in heaps, but we rejoiced to know that what seemed a deadly cyclone did not swoop down upon us.

The storm did the most damage in that section of country lying to the north of town. Near Iolanthe the crops were beaten into the ground, windows demolished and the timber stripped of its foliage.

Railroad Notes

But little tracklaying has been done this week, only about two miles having been laid this week. Steel will be laid up to Cox hollow next week, where it will probably be delayed for a day or two.

The bridge work is progressing nicely. The bridge across China draw will be finished tomorrow morning, and the pile driver moved up to Cox Hollow. One of the pile drivers is about four miles below town.

The surfacing force is out this side of Carlsbad with their work, having put the track in shape for trains up that far.

HURT BY A HAILSTONE

During the hailstorm Tuesday evening some parties seeking shelter drove up to T. G. Brennand's house, eight miles north of here, and while assisting in attending to the teams a large hailstone struck Mr. Brennand on the head and laid the scalp open almost to the skull. He received several bruises about the body.

One of the teams ran away and was not recovered until after the storm.

The roof of Mr. Brennand's house was badly damaged. One large hail stone tore its way thru the roof like a cannon shot. Screens over the doors and windows were torn away, the door panels splintered and a number of window panes knocked out.

Some Fine Wool

W. L. Foster exhibited some of the finest samples of wool; taken from some yearling sheep of the Foster & Barton flock, that we have ever seen. The fiber is almost as fine as silk, and fully three inches long.

Sterling is not only the home of the sheep, but we doubt if there is a place in the world where a better quality of wool can be produced.

NOTICE OF MEETING OF DEMOCRATIC EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

A meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of Sterling county is hereby call for Monday, June 20th, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, at the office of the Chairman, for the purpose of transacting business of importance, as required by Section 111 of the Terrell Election Law. All members of the Committee are urged to be present.

Chairman

BUILDING NOTES

N. A. Austin has just finished putting in a nice cement sidewalk in front of his store building.

Geo. Oonger has awarded the contract for a commodious residence to Evans & Slaton. It is said this will be one of the best houses in town.

We learn that work on the $12,000 stone passenger depot is to begin at an early date.

W. L. Foster is having the lumber of the Ferguson wagon yard moved out on his ranch for the purpose of building stock sheds.

We learn that parties from Oklahoma will be here soon to begin the erection of a large stone building, facing the public square.

Jack Cole's new residence is rapidly nearing completion.

The old shop, once occupied by B. Z. Cooper, which has been standing behind B. F. Roberts' store, is being torn down and moved away to make room for a new building.

Dirt was broken yesterday for the Lowe & Darham 50x90 stone building. Contractor Henry is rushing the work as fast as men and money can do it, in order to be ready for occupancy at the earliest moment.

Henshaw & Dalton were awarded the contract for building the two-story 60x95 structure for the First State Bank. Work in the quarries has already begun, and dirt for the foundation will be broken next Monday.

Thos. Brennan and son, T. G. Brennan will begin next Monday removing the little wooden building now occupied by the City Market, on the North Side, to make room for a 25x60 stone business house.

W. A. Griffin has been awarded the contract for erecting the 25x95 two-story building for the First National Bank. We learn that work will begin next week.

The West Texas Lumber Co. is erecting a lot of big sheds extending all around its property.

The contract for several thousand feet of cement sidewalk has been let by the Sterling View people.

About Irrigation in Concholand

Perhaps California is the greatest agricultural region on the globe; yet, if the people of that state depended on the rains as they do in the Eastern states, California would rate very low as an agricultural region, for in most parts of that state the rainfall is meagre. But in an early day the settlers, through necessity, were forced to irrigation in order to gain a subsistence. So surprising were the results of the half-hearted efforts of these pioneers, that soon the people began to make a study of the problems of irrigation, with the result that today a stream of water, whether surface or underground, is regarded as a veritable treasure. No where in the world is mother earth giving up more wealth to the efforts and ingenuity of man than in California!

A few years ago, the government sent an irrigation expert to investigate to resources of the Concho from an irrigation standpoint. After looking over the ground and gathering data as to the water supply of the Concho basin, he reported that it was as good a proposition as California. He said there were but few places in the Concho valley where water could not be had at a reasonable depth, and expressed great surprise at the people not taking advantage of it.

Later on, small pumping plants have been installed, and they have proven themselves a success from the first stroke of the engine. But now comes the knocker, who knows as much about such things as a cow does theology; and tells the timid investor that there is not water enough to do any good.

But the day is here when men are beginning to remember that this water runs day and night, that concrete dams can be built cheaply and the water stored; and when this is done and the Conchos are made to hold a bank full supply of the life giving fluid, this valley will rival the boasted California in producing that which man must have.

Increasing Production.

The increase in agricultural production has both an individual and community interest. The farmer is vitally interested in increasing the yield, as it costs no more to cultivate an acre of land that produces two bales of cotton than it does an acre of land that produces one bale of cotton, and the second bale is clear profit to the farmer. The farmers who have followed the advice of our agricultural departments in selecting seed, methods of culture, character of crops, combating pests, etc., have been able to double production. The farms of Texas are yielding an average of $1,540,000 per day, and by doubling production in that portion of the land now under cultivation we can produce $1,122,678,000 instead of $561,339,000 per annum as shown in the figure below.

A concrete example would perhaps be more satisfactory than an imaginary standard, says the Texas Commercial Secretaries' Association, and we will, therefore, compare Texas with Illinois. Our lands are more fertile, our seasons more reliable and our climatic conditions more favorable to farming than in Illinois. In Illinois the average farm contains 124 acres and yields $1,509 per farm. In Texas the average farm contains 357 acres and yields $681 per farm.

The cut shown below illustrates the growth the Texas farmer must make to reach the Illinois standard.

The Farmer Must Grow.

To build up the Texas farmer we must improve our public highways, build railroads, build factories, open mines, build cities, and otherwise increase our markets and facilities for reaching the market. We must look to our Agricultural Department, A. & M. Colleges, Experimental Stations and agricultural agents to build up the farm, and instruct the farmer. These institutions ought to be liberally supported by appropriations and co-operation in their work.

TAKING THOUGHT FOR OTHERS

Consideration That Might Do Much Toward Lessening Friction of Workaday World.

"How interesting life would be if we could appreciate more sympathetically the work others do for us in the making and marketing of the articles of common use," said A. L. Flanders in the Republican house.
"It appears to me that the general public is not sympathetic enough in regard to the work that others do for us in an indirect way. There are many illustrations that can be used to show this.
"Take sugar, for instance. When we stir the sugar in our coffee it might be pleasant occasionally to reflect that this is the end for which hundreds of people work.
"With a proper imagination, we might see them cutting the cane, hauling it away on sledges, filling great cars with it, putting it through the various processes in the mills, piling up in bags and barrels and package crates ready to ship to warehouses from which our grocer gets his supply.
"Such thoughts now and then would do much to lessen the friction of the workaday world. If we thought of the baker who makes it possible for us to get bakery products, maybe the conditions in some bake shops could be improved through public sentiment."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

WOMEN WORKERS IN ITALY.
A recent inquiry in Italy in regard to women workers shows that out of 224,717 registered laborers, over 45,000 were women, while out of a total of 35,829 employers 1,182 were women. There are more women employed in Lombardy than any other district. The Italian woman has no right to her property after marriage and no control of her dowry. She cannot sign or draw a check on her own money, and her evidence is not accepted in a law court against her husband. Italian women are hoping to change all this and get the right of franchise besides, and Queen Margherita is said to be in sympathy with the movement to obtain it, and have better laws made for women.

Idle Lands.

The prosperity of a community depends upon the activity of its property and the people. Improved public highways afford facilities for marketing production, stimulate commercial activity and otherwise encourages agricultural development. To increase agricultural production we must bring under cultivation idle land and increase the yield per acre.

We have in Texas 167,865,000 acres of land. Of this area there are 2,118,000 acres of water surface. All our land is susceptible to a high degree of cultivation except the city area and a small portion of our land which is mountainous. We now have less than 30,000,000 acres of land under cultivation, leaving 137,865,000 acres of land that has never been plowed. Idle land is of course no value to a community, and to increase our prosperity we must put activity into our vacant lands. The following cut illustrates the relative proportions of our cultivated and uncultivated areas:

Texas Land Comparison.
There are 109 counties that have less than 10 per cent of their land under cultivation. There are 45 counties that have a larger uncultivated area than the total area of the State of Rhode Island. The uncultivated area of Texas, says the Commercial Secretaries' Association, exceeds the total area of the thirteen original colonies, excluding Georgia and North Carolina. We need 3,000,000 farmers to develop our agricultural resources, and no country on the globe affords the opportunities to the homeseeker that Texas now offers. The land agent is an important factor in the development of agriculture. There are 199 people moving to Texas daily, and remain here permanently and of this number probably half of them go on the farm.

TEXAS

People Coming to Texas.

At the present rate of agricultural immigration it will take 400 years to secure a sufficient number of farmers to bring under cultivation our idle lands. We must get farmers from other States and countries more rapidly, and the improvement of our public highways will influence the homeseeker by making farm life attractive.
