WINTER ON THE NILE

Wonders of Egypt Offer Refreshment for the Mind.

Weather Mild and Deliciously Pleasant—Narcissus and Violet in Full Bloom at Christmas Time—Has All Aspects of Summer.

London—Without doubt the pleasantest place in which to spend a non-winter winter is on the banks of the Nile. In Cairo, perhaps, it is not quite correct to describe the winter as non-wintery, for the early morning and evening cold is sufficient to make it self very sensibly felt; but in Assuan and Luxor the winter is no winter in the European sense of the word.

By Christmas the narcissus and the violets, immense beds of which grow in the gardens, are already in bloom; while by March, our early spring, the orange blossom and the scarlet hibiscus are fully out, the pink and white oleanders and petunias are flowering with a profusion utterly unknown in European gardens, and the long, lofty wall of the winter palace gardens in Luxor is hung with, as it were, a tapestry of deep yellow Marechal Niel roses and deep purple bougainvilleas—wonderful color study of tints, both rich and rare. Winter on the Nile, indeed, is more like an ideal summer, with warm days, which are yet not exhausting, and with cold evenings and early mornings, which possess some marvelous quality of freshness and invigorating power of which evenings and early mornings elsewhere seem bereft.

For complete rest and refreshment of mind and body, I think after considerable experience of travel, that I should send anyone to Egypt in preference to any other part of the world. I should not recommend much time being spent in Cairo, as interesting city though it is in the older and native parts, it is not characteristically Egyptian, and does not, unless perchance for the incorrigible town lover, possess anything so fascinating as the nameless charm of the Nile and upper Egypt.

Throughout the entire journey, lasting about a fortnight, from Cairo to Assuan, this abundant life of the Nile is ceaselessly in evidence. In summer, the dead season, it might be less ap-

Changes in the Underwood bill by the senate finance subcommittee, transferring proposed dutiable articles to the free list will aggregate an estimated annual loss in revenue to the government of nearly a million and a half dollars a year. This curtailment of the total estimated revenue under the house bill, based only on articles known to have been transferred to the free list thus far upon subcommittee recommendations and does not take into account decreases in duties which will be proposed on many articles, which, added to the $25,000,000 estimated loss in revenue under the house bill free list, would aggregate $26,500,000.

RIVER RHINE AND ROMANCE

Castled Crag and Rich Cathedral Reward the Traveler Who Takes the Water Route.

Berlin—History and nature collaborated to make the Rhine from Mayence to Cologne a river of remarkable beauty. Nature has been permitted to sustain its own reputation, and history resides with romance in crumbling ruins that overspread the crests of craggy heights below which the modern river steamers pass.

From its source in the white-crowned Alps the Rhine runs down to the North sea. One takes steamer at Mayence or at Cologne and journeys from thence to the other. Castles and cathedrals, the legends and the history that hang their glamour about moated walls and rose-windows, the story of the Lorelei and the sight of the rock that sustains the legend—all enrich the traveler's experience. The Seven mountains offer the best scenery of the Rhine country. There are numerous excursions to be made in the neighborhood, most of them on foot, if carriages are found—so sometimes happens—to be too expensive. Only the Brechenfels and the Petersberg can be ascended by rail.

Not far above Konigswinter, the steamer reaches Andernach, an old Roman colony. There is a cathedral of beauty and a view worth a weary journey to obtain. Coblenz is situated just half the distance between Cologne and Mayence at the confluence of the Rhine and the Moselle, and from it forms is but half an hour by rail. Coblenz has many remarkable sights, especially the magnificent monument to the emperor William I. and the Castle of Stoltenfels. Aernberg, a monastery, on the other side of the Rhine, is to be reached by an electric railway from Ehrenbreitstein, opposite Coblenz.

FISHES HIT THE LIQUOR LAW

Mackerel Sold in Delaware Carry Botles Inside of Them for Thirsty Ones.

Wilmington, Del.—A new industry to overcome local option conditions in lower Delaware has developed at Lewes, and at the Delaware breaker Mackerel fishermen from New England ports are supplying the "dry" section with liquor by selling pints and half-pints concealed in mackerel.

"Buy a fish and get a big drink," is the slogan of the fishermen, and it is netting them considerable money.

When Governor Miller recently approved an act prohibiting the shipment of liquor into Kent and Sussex counties, "dry" sections, the bibulous residents of Lewes and vicinity became alarmed. The Webb bill had previously stopped interstate shipments.

Ingenious Yankees on a mackerel boat from New England laid in a large supply of liquor before reaching Delaware and opened a large number of fish and placed bottles of liquor inside. The fish "sand contents" were offered for sale.

There was soon a big demand for the fish, and other mackerel fishermen learned of the plan and emulated it.

Sound Magnifying Trumpet which Will Tell You When It is Time to Talk.

There is a sound magnifying trumpet of flat shape, behind which is a small attachment intended to support the telephone receiver. When it becomes necessary to hold the line, when calling up or replying, instead of the person standing with the receiver glued to his ear he places the receiver upon the time saver, bringing the ear-piece into position with the sound magnifier. He is then at liberty to resume his duties until such time as the person required at the opposite end attends his instrument.

This is notified by the speech transmitter being magnified by the time saving device so as to be perfectly audible at a distance. The receiver may then either be withdrawn and held to the ear in the usual way, or left in connection with the magnifier, hearing being quite as simple and easy as under normal conditions. Another advantage of the invention is that the user's two hands are left free to carry out any other requisite task, such as the turning up of documents, making references, writing down messages or instructions from dictation, and so on.

BEGAN YOUNG

Had "Coffee Nerve" From Youth.

"When very young I began using coffee and continued up to the last six months," writes a Texas girl.

"I had been exceedingly nervous, thin and very pale. After quitting coffee and drinking Postum about a month my nervousness disappeared and has never returned. This is the more remarkable as I am a primary teacher and have kept right on with my work."

"My complexion now is clear and rosy, my skin soft and smooth. As a good complexion was something I had greatly desired, I feel myself repaid even though this were the only benefit derived from drinking Postum."

"Before beginning its use I had suffered greatly from indigestion and headache; these troubles are now unknown."

"I changed from coffee to Postum without the slightest inconvenience, did not even have a headache. Have known coffee drinkers, who were visiting me, to use Postum a week without being aware that they were not drinking coffee."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Write for booklet, "The Road to Wellville."

Postum comes in two forms. Regular (must be boiled).

Instant Postum doesn't require boiling but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in an ordinary cup of hot water, which makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future.

So long as the Mexicans keep on their side of the creek and let our folks alone, it is good policy to let them fight it out; but if they do but harm a single hair on the head of a citizen of the United States, it is our patriotic duty to beat the tar out of them for it. If nothing will satisfy those people but to kill each other off, it would be well if our people would furnish them the means with which to do it, for the quicker they get through with the business, the better it will be for everybody.

NOW AND THEN

It is curious how people change in their sentiments toward new inventions. Ten years ago, an automobile was a rare sight on our streets and attracted as much attention as a circus parade. The first man in Sterling to purchase one of these machines was regarded as an "undesirable citizen"—especially when he ran his "red devil" up the road and scared old "Kate" and "Beck" into a string of fits. Men lay for this man with his contraption, with their shotguns, and would have peppered him if their horses had been still long enough for them to take aim. Later on, other "benzine wagons" ventured on the road, to the extreme disgust of the farmer and ranchman.

One day a ranchman held up an automobile, carrying passengers, with a sixshooter for fear the thing would scare his yearlings. Although the man was "pinched" and had to pay a fine for it, yet there were men, who have since become owners of automobiles, who were in sympathy with the offender and said that his conduct was right and just, and that a man with a "stink wagon" ought not to be allowed on the road to scare people's stock—in fact, a man who ventured on the road with a car took chances of being handled roughly.

But like all new things, people began to get accustomed to the new and swift way of traveling, and it was not long before an automobile could pass a team without being held up. As time went by, people realized that the automobile had come to stay and adopted their sentiments to the new order of things, until now most every well-to-do man owns an automobile, and a man thinks no more of meeting one than he does a mule team.

According to Uncle Sam, who is now acting as gate keeper on our immigration, the Irish are coming to Texas at the rate of five per day, and Pat is well pleased with our opportunities. There are no snakes in Texas, and the earth is covered with a carpet of green the whole year round and we all celebrate Saint Patrick's Day.

In Sterling County there are six persons in Ireland and later moved to Texas, and four have parents that were both born in Ireland. The Federal Census Reports, which have just been issued, show that in 1910 there were 5,355 persons living in Texas that were born in Ireland and 7,752 residents of this State are of Irish parentage.

Married

At Ballinger, on June 17th, Mr. B. C. Mann was married to Miss Foy Walker.

Bartlett Mann was born and reared in Sterling. We have known him all his life, and during that time, Bartlett never did an act that grieved us or made us ashamed; but, on the contrary, his manly bearing, honest conduct, sober and industrious habits have found a lodgement in our heart that makes the boy very dear to us.

We do not know the bride, who is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walker, of Ballinger, nor have we heard what she wore at her wedding, but it is a cinch that she is a very dear girl and will be a jewel for Sterling when she reigns queen in the Mann home.

We join every old timer, both old and young, in Sterling in wishing Bartlett Mann and his bride a full measure of wedded bliss.

HAVE YOU GOT A GOOD SPILLWAY?

A dam built without a spillway means a backing up of impounded water until the pressure becomes irresistible and the dam is swept away with destruction below.

In a way man is like a stream of water. He has about so much energy which must somehow find vent. If he dams up the natural flow of his animal spirits without a spillway he takes the risk of inviting a ruinous flood.

You have often seen how a chap who has won renown for having no outlets in sport or play, who figures as the community's shining example of near-perfection in habits and conduct, who is so irreproachable as to seem almost inhuman, suddenly go all to pieces—yielding in a rush to appetite, passion or greed.

One of these instances came into view in a western city recently. He was a high official in a bank, the superintendent of a Sunday school, a leader in good works and a man of whom it was said that he had no bad habits, never took a vacation and was always dependable. One day he disappeared. And with him went the savings of many of his friends, and by his flight two homes were wrecked.

He had builded his structure of character without a spillway. An unusual flood of temptation came and the dam gave way, leaving ruin in its wake.

Get a spillway. This DOESN'T mean that you have to be vicious or extravagant or sinfully self-indulgent. It means simply that you need a fad, a hobby, a side interest, something to which you can turn when you wish to relax the tension of your ordinary work.

An automobile, if you are well-to-do enough to afford one; a garden; a ball and bat—anything which supplies a wholesome channel for the overflow of surplus energy or serves as a safety valve, will do.

But get something of this kind and throw your leisure into it. The old Adam in you can be drained off harmlessly; but the dam without a spillway is dangerous.—Dallas Dispatch.

Sterling's First Colonel

The following is taken from The Dallas News, of June 15th:

"The annual promotion list for the corps of cadets at the Agricultural and Mechanical College has been announced by Lieut. Levi G. Brown, commandant, as follows: 'Colonel—V. V. Parr

'Lieutenant Colonel—W. N. Reed. Then follows a long list of appointments and among them appears the name of F. A. Sparkman in the roll of First Lieutenants.

It appears that young Reed stands only second in the list. Just think of it! In a body of over a thousand young men, one of our boys is chosen second in command and the other stands as the most important officer in his company. But we knew these boys would make good—in fact, we predicted it when they entered college. If Neal and Lillian Reed and Frank and Mrs. Sparkman feel any more pride than we do in the promotion of their sons to places of honor and trust, they must be beside themselves with joy.

Colonel Reed was born and reared here. He comes martial stock. His grandfather, Capt. W. N. Reed, for whom our young colonel was named, was a gallant officer in the army of the Confederacy, and well does the writer remember when Capt. Reed taught him, along with other youngsters, the manual of arms while a member of the Bold Springs Guards. That little band of soldiers has long since disbanded, and its gallant captain has answered Eternity's Reveille; but it is good to know that his grandson, who bears his name, is making a mark in the world that would warm the old man's heart were he living.

Aside from their usefulness in the walks of civil life, should our country ever be in need of trained soldiers, Sterling will furnish two men who will rank high in this calling and make good their every pretension.

TOO SENSITIVE.

"There is absolutely no use to talk to me about woman suffrage." "Really, old man, I cannot understand why you oppose it so strongly."

"Well, I'll tell you. I was in a clothing store last week looking at some neckties when a woman came in and told one of the clerks she wanted to buy a collar for her dog."

MIGHT DO WORSE.

"You are always giving advice," said the impatient person. "Well," replied the sentient friend, "you ought to be thankful that I give you the results of my experience instead of asking you to listen to the entire hard luck story."—Washington Star.

Married

On June 17, at 1 o'clock, p. m., at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. Samuel McElroy Ray, Jr., was married to Miss May Glass, Rev. E. L. Springer officiating. After the ceremony the couple left for Big Springs where they took the train for Denver, Colo., where they will visit before returning to their home at Belton.

The wedding was a plain, substantial affair that is so popular among the people of this country, and which bring many pleasant memories to us all. A substantial dinner was served at the Glass home, at which quite a gathering of friends and relatives of the bride and groom were present and partook.

The groom was accompanied by Messrs. A. and Frank Ray and Earl Donald, all of Belton, who returned to their homes Wednesday.

Mr. Ray is of one of the oldest and most prominent families of Bell County. He is a prosperous merchant and business man of Belton, and bears the reputation of a good and true man. He will, no doubt, fill the expectations of the bride, her friends and relatives to the fullest measure.

The bride is the elder daughter of J. L. Glass. She was born and reared here. She was a student at Baylor Female College for five years—being a post graduate from that institution. It was in her senior year that she met Mr. Ray, and an attachment was formed which resulted as herein stated. She is an accomplished lady in a high sense of that term. May has all the people here her friends, and we join them in wishing her and her chosen life-mate all the good that comes to wedded lovers.

This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, harmful injections, medical treatment or prescriptions. Mr. Seely has documents from the United States Government, Washington, D. C., for inspection. All charity cases without charge, or if any call he will be glad to show the truss without charge or fit them if desired. Moon Blindness.

A naval correspondent of the London Standard has written from Port of Spain, Trinidad, stating that in his travels he had come across many cases of moon blindness, caused by men sleeping with the moon shining upon them, such cases occurring principally in the tropics and the Mediterranean.

Strange to say, adds the Trinidad correspondent, men so affected can see in daylight, but cannot do so when dusk sets in. Mr. Elgie further quotes from a communication made by a New Zealand correspondent to a weekly scientific journal. This correspondent was, many years ago, an apprentice on the Liverpool ship Langdale, an East India trader.

LONG AND USEFUL LIFE.

Prof. Goldwin Smith, now in his eighty-sixth year, is still a frequent contributor to the newspapers and magazines. He was eminent as a scholar and a writer when he first went to Canada, 40 years ago. At the age of 34 he was regius professor of modern history at Oxford university.

Vindicate the Divining Rod. Official experiments made in German South Africa with the divining rod as a means of detecting hidden water seem to vindicate the efficiency of the witch hazel stick. About 500 trials were made and the rod was successful in 80 per cent. of them. It has also been made use of in Hungary with some success in the location of veins of the salts of potash. These results have attracted so much attention that the French minister of agriculture has appointed a committee to make similar investigations.

UNCOOKED FOOD LATEST FAD Advocates of Idea Say Nature Should Be Allowed to Do What Cooking is Necessary.

Going back to first principles, the latest food fad is uncooked or uncooked food. The advocates of this idea say that "before the use of fire primitive man took his sustenance as birds and wild animals still do, and there is evidence that he had better teeth, a harder body and was exempt from many of the ailments from which people suffer today. Therefore they urge that man should be allowed to do what nature cooking is necessary.

"In all nature," say these people "every animal but man finds food ready prepared. Then why should human beings boil and roast and fry and in the end be worse off than those that eat raw food? In fact we have eaten some kinds of uncooked food for years, and so the step to a complete diet is not great. "Lettuce, tomatoes, celery and fresh fruits are all uncooked. They are not predigested so that the stomach is not deprived of its rightful tasks. The real fact is that uncooked food calls for strong organs and while it calls for strong organs it produces them. No lion or tiger or cow has cooked food; no fish requires it; no bird or flower gets a boiled dinner. Why should we?"

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and The News-Record together for one year for $1.00—206 papers! The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.25.

MORTALITY IN WAR. War, called by the great Erasmus, "the malady of princes," has had so many victims we will never be able to reckon them up. However, it is computed that up to the middle of the nineteenth century no less than 6,800,000,000 men perished on the field of battle. In all probability the estimate is under, rather than over, the mark. You may be correct in thinking that "wars are practically over" among civilized people, but from the present-day armaments of the so-called civilized peoples it would look as though those in authority had not yet gotten over the fear of the old terror.

THE REAL TEST. "A man cannot always tell who are his real friends." "Yes, he can. They're the ones who lend him money."

REAL PHILOSOPHER. Howell—It costs a good deal more to live than it used to. Powell—Well, it's worth the difference.—New York Press.

SPOILING THE POINT. "Jack says my eyes would inspire a man to dare and do anything." "Did he? But, you know, this is the silly season."

A CALL DOWN The Tenant—Say, last night the rain came through the roof and gave me a regular shower bath. You ought to do something. The Landlord—What do you expect me to do? Give you soap and towels?

Small for Its Size. An admiring constituent gave Congressman Legare of South Carolina one of those vest pocket edition Lippittan Mexican dogs to take home to the children. Legare pronounced Legree, by the way—was leading the dog along by a cotton string, when a South Carolina mountaineer stopped him. "Are it a reg'lar dog?" the man asked. "Yes, it's a Ch—. Well, I can't pronounce the name of it," said Legare, "but it's some kind of a Mexican dog."

CLEVER IDEA OF "THE DUKE"

Many There Are Who Would Be Pleased to Attend Such a "Duck" Dinner.

Felix Hoendorf, known to half a million Californians as "the duke," was at his club very late one Sunday evening. If anyone does not know "the duke," he is very easy to identify wherever he is in evidence. The duke suggested that Jimmy Scanlon, a well-known citizen of San Francisco, give a duck dinner.

"But the ducks are out of season," Jimmy protested. "Well," said the duke, in accents Teutonic, "you invite that beautiful girl I see you with and also invite me. When you have paid the check, duck."

"That's the duke. For further purposes of identification it might be added it was he who, being brought a platter of chicken friessene, and discovering that it was composed entirely of the wings of the bird, said: 'Take that back to Mr. Paulhan; I don't like that aviation meat.'"—Los Angeles Times.

THE LANCE.

The lance has been ridiculed by many military experts, on the ground that it is out of date and cumbersome, but the weapon still has its advocates who point out its value in shock tactics and in cavalry charges. In Germany, for instance, the lance in the hands of the Prussian Uhlan remains a formidable weapon.

Recently attention has been called to the fact that the lance point often makes too deep a wound for the shaft to be withdrawn quickly, and that therefore the lancer runs the risk of having it wrenched from his grasp in the charge. In view of this the cavalry in Germany have been experimenting with a new kind of lance carrying a ball below the base of the lance head. It is said that the new arm is just as effective in disabling an enemy and is free from many disadvantages.—Harper's Weekly.

JAP ARTIST HIS OWN MODEL

One of the most marvelous workmen in the world is Hananuma Masakichi of Tokio, Japan, who has carved a figure in wood, so like himself, that when the two are placed together, side by side, it is said to be also impossible to tell which lives and which does not.

By several connoisseurs in art this wooden figure is pronounced the most perfect and human image of man ever made. Masakichi has faithfully reproduced every scar, vein and wrinkle to be seen on his own body. The figure is composed of two thousand pieces of wood, dovetailed and jointed with such wonderful skill, that no seams can be detected.

The Japanese artist posed between two mirrors while modeling this figure, and for some time after its completion, he posed frequently beside it, to the confusion of spectators, who were often entirely at a loss as to which was the artist. The figure stands with a little mask in one hand, and an instrument for carving in the other; the life-like eyes are apparently gazing at the mask, and the face wears a look of intense absorption.

FIRST AERIAL COACH.

The first aerial coach has been tried and found successful in Etampes, France. It is an ordinary aeroplane, to which a limousine body, capable of holding four passengers comfortably, has been fitted. The aerial coach made a flight of about an hour across country, but it carried no passengers. The place of passengers was taken by four bags of sand, weighing in all about forty stones, supposed to be the average weight of four tourists. The aerial coach leaves nothing to be desired as to the comfort of future travelers, who will have a vast view of the country over which they travel, and will scarcely feel the motion; but the only drawback as yet is the safety of the machine. Until some improved safety device has been found tourists will prefer a motor car or a railway carriage.—Washington Gazette.

Chinese Women Want Ballot. Miss Margaret Chung, a young Chinese woman, is at the head of the movement which proposes to form an organization of American women for the purpose of assisting and encouraging the women of China in making the best use of their newly acquired right to the ballot. She is the secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Chinese American League of Justice at Los Angeles, Cal., and a member of the Chinese Protective association and of the Chinese Women's Reform club.

"Without the assistance of their Caucasian sisters the Chinese women may never reap the full benefit of the franchise," Miss Chung declared when talking about the proposed organization. "When the new republic of China granted the franchise to women it was the most significant step that could have been taken in the interest of progress. Only a Chinese woman can fully understand what is meant by giving Chinese girls an equal chance with the boys. It heralds the dawn of a golden epoch, more than even the men of China realize. More and better missionary work can be done for China by instructing and encouraging the women in the use of the ballot than in any other way."

CITY'S MEAGER MILK SUPPLY

Spanish Capital No Place for One in Any Way Fond of the Lactical Fluid.

There are no large dairying concerns in Madrid. Part of the milk supply comes from goats and a few cows pastured near the city and kept in lecherias in the city, where they are milked; some is brought in from nearby farms, usually about six gallons in tin cans in straw baskets slung across a horse upon which the rider mounts; some from neighboring villages by train or wagon, all in tin cans; and a small amount from northern Spain by train—a twenty-four-hour trip. Deliveries to regular patrons are made by moses carrying a frame from which are suspended about eighteen small pails or bottles, each holding about a quart, but it is probable that most of the families in Madrid do not receive regular supplies, such as is needed being brought in by some member of the family, or a servant, who carries any convenient vessel or pail from the house. This milk is secured from small milk shops, called lecherias, of which there are about 550 shown in the city directory. The milk is always boiled as soon as it is brought into the house. It is almost impossible to secure cream and it is almost invariably sour when obtained.

SUN AS THE LAMPLIGHTER

Novel System of Illumination That is to Be Employed on the Panama Canal.

The Panama canal, which is now nearing completion, is to have a novel system of illumination for its lighthouses. The gas used for the flame is acetylene, but the sun is to be the lamplighter! These lamps will be lit by a lamplighter nearly a hundred million miles away! The lamps will be fitted with copper cylinders exposed to the air. When the sun rises in the morning its rays will cause the cylinders to expand, and so close valves which admit gas to the burners. As the sun goes down and the air cools the copper cylinders will contract, so opening the valves and admitting gas to the burners, where it will be lighted by small pilot-jets resembling the ordinary by-pass.

How to Slide Down a Rope.

Sliding down a rope is not so simple as it seems. Few boys know how to do it properly. If you try to descend by letting the rope slide through your hands the friction will burn the palms so that you will have to let after a few feet. If you try to lower your weight from one handhold to another you are sure to become tired and will be forced to drop. You cannot slide with the rope between your knees, for the swaying of your body will jerk the rope out of the clutch of your knees and then you are likely to fall.

The easiest and safest method you can employ is that used by firemen and sailors. Standing upright, throw out your right leg and give it a turn round the rope. Next put the rope in the crook of your right elbow and clasp it tightly, not in your hand, but in your arm.

In that way you can slide to safety without the slightest trouble. The rope does not touch any part of the body that is not protected by clothing and your speed can be regulated by either straightening or crumpling your leg. Once learned, this method of sliding down a rope may prove in an emergency the means of saving your life or the lives of other persons.—Youth's Companion.

Six-Mile Depth.

A surveying ship of the German navy has recently discovered the deepest known spot in the ocean. It is near the Philippines, about 40 miles off the north coast of Mindanao. Great depths were found to be numerous in this region, but the record sounding showed the amazing result of 9,780 meters, or 496 feet more than six miles.

The greatest ocean depth hitherto known was found by the United States cable steamer Nero in 1901. This spot was to the south of the island of Guam, and the deep sea land indicated 9,535 meters—just a little less than six miles.

Where Women Run Cars.

The suggestion that women may be employed as street car conductors in Philadelphia has brought out the fact that the women of Latin America, usually thought of as sheltered, retiring and unprogressive, have been doing this kind of work for years. During the war between Chile and Peru, when all the men of Chile were needed at the front, women took their places on the street cars, and San Diego, Valparaiso and several other cities have had women conductors ever since.

Square Foot and Foot Square.

There is no difference at all between one square foot and one foot square, though there may be a difference in the shape and dimensions of the surfaces. For instance, one square foot may be enclosed by a circular line, a hexagon, a triangle or a rectangle. One foot square is an area of fixed form, the four sides being equal and the four angles all right angles.

The Reward of Honesty.

"Sir," said the office boy to his employer, "as you know very well that my family is in perfect health, I ask you to let me off this afternoon to go to the ball game."

"Young man," replied the boss, "you are entirely too honest. I have my suspicions of you. You are fired."

Well, so you are worth millions.

"Yes, struck it rich."

"Torn yourself away from all the old habits of life, I suppose?"

"No, I cling to a few. I still empty the drip pan of the refrigerator every night."

Linguist.

"I am returning to you because I can't understand a word he says."

"That doesn't concern me. Madam buys a parrot from Java, all madam has to do is to learn Javanese."

Point of View.

"They used to call him a bonehead."

"That was before he succeeded."

"Yes. Now they express it differently. They call him a man of hard solid sense."

At the Dance.

"My friend is a bit sensitive because he is wall-eyed."

"Then steer him straight to the wallflowers."

The Reason.

"That boat embraces many points in its story."

"That's why, then, it is always hugging the shore."

BOYS' HANDICRAFT

By A. NEELY HALL

Author of "Handicraft for Handy Boys" and "The Boy Craftsman"

A SIGNAL TELEGRAPH.

Here is a simple piece of apparatus with which you boys can communicate with one another after dark, from your bedroom window to the boy who lives across the street, or from your tree club house to a boy upon the ground, or if you go camping in the woods you and your companions can flash messages from one place to another.

Get a box about 12 inches long, 8 inches wide, and 8 inches deep, for your signal box. This will be the most convenient size. Fig. 1 shows the completed piece of apparatus with the key that controls the lengths of the signal flashes (A) in operation, while Fig. 2, a cross section, and Fig. 3, a view of the inside of the box, explain how the flashes are made. You will see by these illustrations that when the key lever A is pushed down it pulls up, by means of a cord (B), a shutter (C), until the hole bored through its center (D) coincides with a hole in the front of the box (E). Make the shutter block about 4 by 5 inches in size, and bore the hole through it and through the box front about 1 1/2 inches in diameter (Fig. 4). Screw a screw-eye into the center of two opposite edges of the shutter block (F), another screw-eye to the inside of the box 3 inches above hole E (G), and another into the bottom of the box under hole E (H, Fig. 3).

Cut the key lever stick A enough longer than the inside depth of the box so its key end will stick about 1 1/2 inches outside of the box (Fig. 2). Prepare the key end as shown in Fig. 5. screw a screw-eye into the stick at I, and hinge to the inside of the front of the box 3/4 inch above the bottom (Figs. 2 and 3). Tie a piece of stout cord to the upper screw-eye F, slip it through screw-eye G and tie to screw-eye I (Fig. 3), allowing just enough length so when the key stick is perfectly horizontal the two holes D and E will come opposite one another. Connect the lower screw-eye F and screw-eye H with a heavy rubber band (J). This will spring the shutter back to the position shown in Fig. 3.

NEW YORK GODDESS IS HAPPY

Wardrobe of Miss Liberty Costs the Government $20,000, but It Was Worth It.

The happiest "woman" in all New York today is standing out in the middle of the river, with one arm raised over her millions of fretful sisters to show that a goddess still can be a goddess even if she does have to wear made over clothes winter and summer. The New York Herald remarks, Miss Liberty has just had $20,000 spent on her wardrobe, and although it was only a patching up of the clothes which Mr. Bartholdi gave to her when he left her here in 1886 she is contented.

For five years she has been complaining, groaning occasionally and feeling creepy in her joints after the stiff winds had driven the rain through little weak spots in her copper clothing. Her clothes were sadly in need of repair, but Uncle Sam did not give heed to the needs of his daughter, until one day her arm began to weaken and it was found that she could no longer hold up twelve persons in her right hand. Then the ladder up the inside of her forty-five foot arm was closed to the public because the brass arm wobbled, and it was deemed best not to tax it too much. Small holes appeared here and there in the copper sheath skirt and some of the braces on the steel frame work came loose. Uncle Sam found that he must send for the dressmaker.

The copper envelope which forms the goddess's gown was repaired piece by piece, all the steel work was painted, all the missing rivets were replaced, all places where the copper was so badly damaged by corrosion that the light could be seen shining through the shell were patched properly with soft copper. Great care was taken that none of the small holes intended to drain the pockets formed by the drapery were closed by mistake.

The stone work around the goddess feet has been repaired and two turnstiles placed in the stairways leading to and from the head of the statue. This was found necessary because so many persons did not read the directing signs and went up the wrong way, with the result that there was a great deal unnecessary confusion and some anxiety on the part of persons meeting on the narrow spiral.

The repair work is now complete and the goddess is in as fine and sturdy condition as when she was first erected.

Hypnotism.

Hypnotism is from the Greek hypno—"sleep." Like pretty nearly everything else in this world, hypnotism has its good and bad sides. There is no doubt about its being useful at times; not is there any doubt, either, that at other times it has been used for evil purposes. All depends upon the character—moral character—of the practitioner. In the hands of a good man the patient is, of course, safe, but in the hands of an unprincipled person hypnotism is a most dangerous power, as has been proven more than once in the past 40 years.

Demand Greater Than Supply.

Copulato nuts (little coconuts) are found in abundance in Mexico, but the entire amount gathered is taken by the local soap factories, the managers of which are constantly complaining that they cannot procure sufficient raw material from this neighborhood for their needs. This condition is due to the lack of interest on the part of the natives and to some extent, no doubt, to the difficulty experienced in extracting the meat.

Woman Bishop.

The first woman bishop ever elected is, it is said, Bishop Margaret La Grange, of the New Thought church, in Michigan. According to current reports, her church is filled with young and old, busy people and idlers, attracted by the combination of common sense and imaginative sympathy that marks this woman bishop.

Increased Cost of Living Serious.

Since 1900 the price of bread has risen 11 per cent. in Germany, the price of beef 13 per cent, and pork 33 per cent. In Essen, by the figures of the Krupp Co-operative society, since 1905 the price of black bread has risen 39 per cent.; potatoes, 30 per cent.; veal, 24 per cent., and bacon, 39 per cent.

To make a paste that will clean wall paper, mix a quart of flour with five cents' worth of ammonia and enough water to make a stiff dough, and knead until smooth. HIS QUICK WIT SAVED HIM

Poacher Caught in Act by Owner of Manor Gives Good Reason for Being Out Early.

One morning Bill the Poacher was engaged in his early morning labors when suddenly he came face to face with the owner of the manor, who naturally he thought still lay abed.

Gone was the brightness of the morning as the redoubtable squire eyed the uninvited guest, who stammered out a nervous greeting, "Good morning, sir! What—what brings you out so early?"

"Oh," replied the lord of the land, with haughty stare and an unconscious testing of the light switch he carried in his hand, "I came out to gain an appetite for breakfast. But why, may I ask, are you out so early?"

Living close to nature makes for quickness and there was scarcely a pause of half a second before Bill replied: "Well, now, squire, that's curious. Here you come out early to get an appetite for breakfast and I come out to get a breakfast for my appetite."

HEAD A MASS OF PIMPLES

Hyattsville, Md.—"My little boy was taken with an itching on the scalp. There was an ashy place on his head about the size of a ten-cent piece, and the hair was falling from this place by the roots. In about ten days all over his head were these ashy spots which looked like ringworm, but were porous-like. The itching and burning made him scratch a great deal. His head had gotten so that it was just a mass of matter little pimples all heaped on each other, and when I took off his night-cap, the hair and flesh came off at the same time. I really thought he would lose his whole scalp. He couldn't sleep for five weeks, it would itch and burn until I thought he would go into convulsions.

"I used different soaps and salves to no satisfaction. Then I decided to use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Finally I noticed he began to sleep all night. I used one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and he was entirely cured. He has a better growth of hair now than he had at first." (Signed) Mrs. Ida S. Johnston, Mar. 25, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."

Affection Causes Dog's Death.

Natural affection on the part of a dog was instanced in a remarkable manner at Beaumont, in the province of Saona-et-Loire, France, a few days ago. One of the inhabitants drove out of the town into the forest to gather firewood, taking with him the dog, which he left to guard his coat and basket of food while he wandered about gathering wood. In his absence the dog gave birth to three puppies, and the wood gatherer, when he started home, forgot to place the puppies in the cart with their mother. A crowd of night birds jumped over a fence and ran the whole distance, some ten miles, to the spot where the puppies had been left, and brought one back in her mouth. Then she made two more journeys in order to bring back the other two. Altogether she covered a distance of about sixty miles in the night. The next morning her master found her dead in the yard by the side of her puppies, which were alive and well.

Risks Life for Cat.

To save a cat which, in a fight, had climbed to the top of a 100-foot ladder, a foreman painter named Robinson risked his life the other day, in Oxford street, London. The cat clung to the topmost rung of the ladder from seven o'clock in the morning till nearly midnight. A crowd endeavored in vain to coax it to make the descent. Then Robinson climbed the ladder. It overtopped the building against which it was standing by 30 feet, and when Robinson reached this point the ladder swayed ominously. He was able to clutch the animal and bring it safely down, amid the applause of the onlookers.

"Pleased to Meet You."

The Americans have a polite habit, on being presented to a new acquaintance, of uttering the words, "Pleased to meet you," although upon what the pleasure can rest, or how they know that it is a pleasure, or why an ordinary incident which is not the fulfillment of any anticipation, and which may turn out to be very disagreeable, should be pronounced at sight to be pleasant, have never been able to understand.—Saturday Review.

MUST HAVE KNOWN JOHNSONS

Raymond Hitchcock, the Actor, Tells of a Conversation He Heard on a Train in the West.

Speaking of hospitality a few nights ago, Raymond Hitchcock, the actor, told of a conversation he once heard on a local train in the west.

Just before the train reached a certain small town, Mr. Hitchcock declared, a nice-looking young man with several grips, several cases and several umbrellas called to the conductor: "Mr. Conductor," said he, producing his transportation, "will this ticket allow me to stop over in the next town?"

"It altogether depends," replied the conductor, examining the ticket. "What do you want to stop for?"

"I want to visit some rather distant relatives of mine," answered the young man. "Their name is Johnson."

"I see," returned the conductor, handing back the transportation. "You will have plenty of time. The ticket is good for the next train."

"The next train?" exclaimed the young man, with a jolted expression. "Do you know how long I intend to stay?"

"No," was the prompt response of the conductor, "I don't know how long you intend to stay, but I know the Johnsons."

Factories That Float

Floating factories have become an important part of the development of the forest resources of India. In certain parts of the country forests are only accessible through the water courses, and the great expense of erecting land plants for the utilization of the lumber resources makes such a course impracticable. Therefore sawmills and other manufacturing establishments are built on floating platforms and moved up the streams as they are needed.

After the lumber is prepared in a way that makes transportation much more economical than any system of logging. Plants for the preparation of tannin extracts have also been established in this manner. The plants are built on flat boats, 200 feet long by 27 feet wide, capable of carrying a load of 470 tons.

Substitute for Grass.

An interesting experiment in horticulture was made some time back at the garden laid out at the site of the King Edward VII. memorial statue in Delhi, India. In order to ensure a green surface at the time of the stonelaying ceremony, "meth" (trigonella) seed was sown when the grass was planted. The "meth" sprang up about a month and maintained a green surface throughout the cold weather, which could be smoothly mown and did not interfere with the growth of the grass. The ground was allowed to get dry at the beginning of the hot weather, and within a week the "meth" had died out, leaving good lawn in its place. The "meth," belonging to the order of "Leguminosae," acts as a manure and leaves the soil richer in available nitrogenous matter.

AN OPIUM BONFIRE IN CHINA

Paraphernalia Confiscated From Smokers by Authorities is Burned Once Every Month.

A quantity of opium pipes, lamps, and paraphernalia for the preparing of the drug, to the total value of more than 10,000 taels, was publicly burned in the presence of Chinese officials and a squad of soldiers on the empty space of ground behind the British concession in Hakow.

The goods represented the results of a month's raiding in and about the city. The opium, which was the native product, and the other articles were piled in a heap opposite the Ningpo club and packed round about with firewood.

This was set fire to, kerosene being poured on the bonfire when the flames showed signs of dying down. Not a carry vial was left. The burning is carried out once a month, this being selected for each fire. The opium and utensils were wholly confiscated from smokers. The smokers were fined or imprisoned.
