MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION EXPOSURE OF LEADERS

MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION
SAID TO HAVE INFLUENCED CONGRESS.

MEMBERS MENTIONED

Walter Mulhall, Reported to Have Long Been Field Agent and Lobbyist, is to Appear.

Washington.—Political Washington is shaken by an amazing exposure in the New York World of the bold lobby which the National Association of Manufacturers has maintained in this country for the past ten years. While this particular lobby was probably not in the mind of President Wilson when he made his attack on the tariff lobby, the exposure apparently was timely by the president's warning to the country against insidious and powerful lobbying in the national capital.

According to current gossip in newspaper circles, the New York paper paid $10,000 for the Mulhall exposure, together with the telegrams and letters he was able to deliver, and the statement is made that the paper will publish sensation daily installments of that correspondence. There are said to be 20,000 messages of all kinds, and they involve nearly all of the old type Republican leaders who show power in the days of Cannonism.

In fact, the exposure strikes at the very heart of the repudiated Cannon regime, embracing the late Vice President Sherman, ex-Representative Jas. G. Watson of Indiana, Messrs. Daboll of Pennsylvania, Littlefield of Maine and nearly every high and mighty of the Cannon machine. A few Democrats are mentioned in connection with the activities of the manufacturers' lobby, but in the main the exposure furnishes the specifications of the Democratic and progressive Republican accusations against Cannonism and lends a belated significance to the personnel and the actions of the Republican National machine that deposed Roosevelt at Chicago and drove the progressive element out of the party into a new organization under the banner of Roosevelt. The exposure lends a peculiar emphasis to the recent declarations by Roosevelt, Murchick and other Progressive party leaders against amalgamation with what is left of a proud party under the leadership of such men as are involved in this latest lobby exposure.

Those who are mentioned in the Mulhall correspondence are explaining published letters, denying charges or pointing out inaccuracies in the matter of names and dates in the exposure. But it is already apparent that the matter will not be permitted to remain one solely of newspaper enterprise and newspaper warfare, but will be made the subject of government investigation. In fact, Senator Overman, chairman of the senate lobby investigating committee, said that Mulhall already had been summoned to appear before the senate lobby committee. If this is done, the work of the lobby committee will probably extend into the very end of the session of congress.

Twelve Alleged Assassins Hanged.

Constantinople.—Twelve of the men, condemned for the assassination of Mahmud Scheffek Pasha, late Grand Vizier, were executed in Bayazide Square. The condemned men walked to the scaffold with firm steps.

Ten More Chicago Deaths.

Chicago, Ill.—The fifth day of severe heat brought the death roll of this hot spell to above forty. Three deaths Saturday were reported by the police, and there were hundreds of prostrations, taxing the capacity of public and private hospitals. The maximum temperature was 90. For more than 100 hours the thermometers have registered around that figure, and neither night nor day there has been more than a suspicion of lake breezes to temper the suffering.

Aviator Killed by Fall.

London.—An aviator named Wight was killed by a fall near Brighton Sunday. His machine suddenly burst into flames and dropped to the ground. Wight was pinned beneath it.

Bulgaria Under Ban.

Vienna.—The Roumanian government has prohibited all exports to Bulgaria and has commandeered all the rolling stock of the railroads for the service of the Roumanian army, according to reports.

Mount Vesuvius in Eruption.

Rome.—Great alarm prevails in Naples owing to the eruption of Mount Vesuvius, the start of which coincided with the earthquake shocks in Southern Italy Saturday.

Mason County Votes Dry.

Mason, Texas.—Complete returns from the prohibition election held Saturday in Mason county give for prohibition 329 votes, gain 398; majority for prohibition 31. The county has remained for the last five years.

Bliss Given Full Power.

Washington.—War department officials say that Brig. Gen. Bliss, commanding in Texas, is clothed with authority to move troops on the border in response to demands and requires no orders from Washington.

TEXAS BREVITIES

Clifton has recently voted $25,000 in school bonds.

Weatherford will vote July 8 on a bond issue for sewer extensions.

The Ennis sewer company is making considerable extensions of its system.

There were 4,256 births and 2,362 deaths officially reported in Texas for May.

Strawn has voted $16,500 in bonds for the erection of a new school building.

The Santa Fe railroad has let a contract for the erection of a planing mill at Cleburne to cost $60,000.

The city council at Pilot Point is planning to soon let the contract for the paving of the public square.

Extensive preparations are under way at Quanah for the fair to be held there July 22, 23, 24 and 25.

The $210,000 Johnson county court house at Cleburne is nearing completion.

The Methodist congregation at Mexia has awarded a contract for a new church building to cost about $25,000.

The vital statistics report for Waco for May shows 31 births and 39 deaths during the month.

A shipment of three 250-ton silos has been received by farmers near Dalhart.

Work is under way at Memphis on the cotton compress that will cost $35,000 and have a daily capacity of 1500 bales.

Waco is to have a new fireproof Hippodrome theater that will cost $70,000. Dallas parties are heading the move.

Statistics show that there is a train every minute of the day entering Fort Worth. During the month of May there were 36,779 trains checked through the interlocking plant.

The citizens of Mineral Wells are looking forward to the coming meeting of the State Commercial Secretaries which will convene July 15.

Wichita Falls has purchased additional fire apparatus equipment, including another auto fire engine, which will be delivered next year.

Ore City school district has voted a maintenance tax of 25c and bonds to the amount of $8,000 for a modern two-story brick school building.

The city council at Wichita Falls has ordered the pavement of Tenth street for a distance of two miles with asphalt or wooden blocks.

Quanah has ordered an election on July 28 to vote on $20,000 additional waterworks bonds and $16,000 sewerage bonds.

Citizens of Waco are discussing the proposition of a bond issue for $300,000 for the purpose of the city constructing a pipe line from that city to Mexia, 41 miles, for natural gas, in case the line is not built by the stock company already figuring on the matter.

A pet snake caused the whole police force of Waco to become demoralized recently by its tactics. The reptile was the pet of a local woman and had wandered from the house. The long search made by the guardians of the law failed to find the wanderer.

That the good roads fever has penetrated to every section of Texas is being demonstrated daily. The latest addition to the progress column is Webb county, who has recently voted bonds in the sum of $25,000 for the purpose.

That the goddess of love is blind is proved by the statement of J. H. Kelley of Fort Worth, who was arrested foundly hugging and kissing a big brown mule. When arranged at the police station Kelley said he thought the mule was a lady friend of his.

Texas frogs are in great demand in New York and the citizens of San Saba are profiting as a result. The frogs from this section of the state are large and possesses a delicious flavor which accounts for their popularity in the East.

The First Baptist church at Cleburne has recently installed an electric sign bearing the name of the church on the building which is 21 feet long, six feet high and contains 130 lights. It can be read for over 2000 feet.

The fire insurance rate at Denison has been cut from 42c to 36c. The reduction is due to the purchase of a automobile fire engine, appointment of a fire marshal and the increased number of steamer plugs in the business section.

Explosion of an ammunition calson during the Battle of Gettysburg, by which a number of soldiers of the Twenty-eighth Infantry were killed.

HIGH TIDE OF WAR

BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG WAS TURNING POINT OF GREAT CIVIL CONFLICT.

BOTH SIDES FOUGHT BRAVELY

Three Days of Fighting That Resulted in Total Losses of Over 50,000 and Put Confederate Forces on the Defensive.

Bravely fought by two great armies of Americans, bravely won by the Federals and bravely lost by the Confederates, the battle of Gettysburg proved to be the turning point of the Civil war. Before that the victories of the south were frequent and its armies were aggressive. After the bloody battle of July 1, 2 and 3, 1863, the forces of the Confederacy were generally on the defensive. Lee's invasion of the north, undertaken in the hope that it would bring foreign aid to the southern cause, was brought to a sudden and disastrous end.

General Lee's army at Gettysburg numbered approximately 64,000, while the Federal forces, under command of Gen. George G. Meade, aggregated about 80,000 officers and men. Lee's corps commanders were Generals Longstreet, Ewell and A. P. Hill. Commanders of the Union corps were Generals John F. Reynolds, W. S. Hancock, D. E. Sickles, Sykes, Sedgwick, O. O. Howard and Slocum.

Reynolds, sent ahead to feel out the enemy, arrived at Gettysburg the evening of June 31, and in the fighting which began early the next day, was killed. Gen. Abner Doubleday, who succeeded him, was forced back to Seminary Ridge, after hard fighting, and then had to abandon that position, so that the first day of the battle was in reality a Confederate victory. That night Meade ordered the entire Union army to Gettysburg, and by next morning the two armies were confronting each other along a ten-mile line of battle.

Lee ordered Longstreet to turn the left flank of the Federal army by taking Little Round Top, but Sickles defied that position so stubbornly that Longstreet's movement was checked. Peach Orchard, Cemetery Hill, Culp's Hill and The Devil's Den were the scenes of desperate fighting, and Little Round Top was saved to the Federals by the arrival of a brigade under General Weed. His men dragged the guns of a battery to the summit by hand.

The third day opened with a wonderful artillery duel, the greatest of the entire war, and then came Pickett's charge, which has gone into history as one of the most heroic assaults of all time. The men of Pickett's division formed in brigade columns, move steadily across open fields which were swept by such a storm of shrapnel and rifle fire as had never before been seen, and though they fell like grain before the reapers, some of them reaching the Union lines, only to be speedily overcome.

That ended the mighty battle, and there was nothing left for Lee to do but get back into Virginia.

Gettysburg cost the Union army the lives of a number of generals, and the lives of nearly 24,000 men. On the Confederate side five generals were killed and nearly 30,000 men killed or wounded.

Gov. Dunne of Illinois has signed the woman's suffrage bill, which provides that Illinois women of legal age may vote for all statutory offices. Opponents of the measure declare it will be tested in the courts.

James Cassina, of New York, a 14-year-old boy, is probably the youngest victim in the long list of fatal aviation accidents. He was carried to death while flying a kite. He was on the roof of a six-story tenement building in the East Side when a gale from the East river caught his kite and pulled him to the edge of the roof. He did not think of letting go of his kite string until too late to save himself and fell six stories to the ground and was instantly killed.

With the filing of an application for a permit to construct a $500 cottage in San Francisco, building applications since the fire and earthquake of 1906 reached a total of approximately 440,000. This is in rough figures the amount of the city's loss of property in that disaster. This application is numbered 50,000, the series dating from the first one issued after fire destroyed a large part of the city.

Commencing July 1 Sisseton will have the nearest approach to a municipal saloon of any town in South Dakota. The licenses for two saloons, to which the town is entitled, were granted by popular vote. The owner will work on a salary of $1,800 a year and the profits of the business will be divided as follows: Fifty per cent to the county good roads fund and the remaining 50 per cent to the city treasury.

Resignations of collectors of customs, whose offices will be abolished by the customs reorganization on July 1, poured into the White House and treasury. One hundred and thirteen collectors will lose their jobs by the reduction of the number of customs districts from 162 to 49. All the resignations were formally requested by Secretary McAdoo. Three collectors declined to resign on the theory that they had been appointed for four years.

The special arbitration treaty between the United States and Mexico expired Thursday and no immediate steps will be taken toward renewing it. It had been Secretary Bryan's intention to propose renewals of all the twenty-odd such conventions as they expired, but this could not be done in the case of Mexico without involving recognition of the Huerta government. This, it was announced, the administration is not ready to grant.

Twenty-two per cent of Kansas wheat is a failure, according to the June report of Secretary F. D. Coburn of the state board of agriculture. The condition of the balance, a little less than 6,000,000 acres, is given at 62 per cent, a decline of 26 per cent since the April report of the department was issued and 14 per cent less than the same time last year. The decline is due to drought in western parts of the state and chinch bugs in the eastern portion.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the water carnival to be held at Hereford July 14 to 19.

Two hundred tons of fuel oil on board the steel tank steamer Mohawk, owned by the Standard Oil Company, exploded with a terrific roar and a burst of flames Friday while the vessel was at anchor off Thompsonville, Staten Island, in New York bay, killing five people and injuring five others. A dozen more are unaccounted for, but are believed to have been rescued.

Anti-Japanese sentiment at Hemet, Cal., was manifested when a party of citizens met an apocryphal crew of Japanese and told them to leave immediately. The baggage of the Japanese was thrown aboard the train after them. There is not a Japanese in Hemet. The Asiatics were engaged by ranchers near Hemet. After they had been driven out, the employing ranchers told the Hemet men that the Asiatics were Koreans. The exclusionists replied that Hemet want neither race within its borders.

Through a decision of the United States Court of Claims the railroads are entitled to from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 in back pay for the transporting of mail matter since June, 1907. Frank H. Hitchcock, while postmaster general, prescribed a new rule for computing the average weights of mails carried by the roads. The protest made by the carriers has been successful. The ruling will increase the mail-carrying costs to the government one seventh.

A bonus of $15,000 was raised at Glen Rose last week in less than 60 minutes for the railroad from Glen Rose to Walnut Springs. Work is to begin at once.

The treasury department has asked for bids for the erection of the new federal building at Chickasha, Okla., for which an appropriation of $1,500,000 has been made.

Mrs. Edward M. Dunne, wife of the governor of Illinois, who signed the bill which enfranchises 1,600,000 women, rejoices in common with the women of the state at his action.

The northernmost post of civilization and the farthest north piece of land on the continent of North America has gone Democratic for the first time in many years. Woodrow Wilson has been elected president of the school republic. The new executive is an Eskimo boy named Wilson. He "borrowed" the "Woodrow" and was elected by a Democratic landslide. He received 31 votes out of a possible 37.

The whole of the J. P. Morgan estate has a value of about $100,000,000, according to an unofficial estimate credited to Thomas E. Rush, counsel, to State Controller Sohmer, who has been in Europe the past month examining the books of the Morgan houses in London and Paris to determine the value of the late financier's holdings. The European assets he found to approximate $15,000,000. If the $100,000,000 estimate for the whole estate is correct, it is said this will be the biggest estate to pay an inheritance tax in America. New York state will be enriched nearly $4,000,000, by a tax of 4 per cent on a greater part of the estate.

The state of Tennessee has succeeded in raising money to meet bonds of $9,000,000 maturing July 1. New York bankers, it was announced, have purchased the state's one year 5 per cent notes, issued to discharge the indebtedness. The purchase price was not made known, but in view of the money stringency, it is understood that the notes were marketed on a basis which will yield more than 6 per cent to holders.

John Goglik, of New Haven, Conn., aged 16 years, started death in the face for four hours in an unusual battle with the swift incoming tide in West river. While swimming, his leg was caught in one of the great tide gates that prevents the water from overflowing the meadows. The fire and police departments were called out and a large crowd gathered. A rubber tube was inserted in the boy's mouth so that he might breathe under water. A trolley wrecker succeeded in smashing one of the tide gates, allowing the water to rush over the meadow so that the boy's head was again out of the water. Then the gate was forced enough to release the leg. Goglik collapsed after being rescued. Despite the great pressure on his leg, it was not broken.

Two small boys, aged 9 and 10 years, were drowned in Niagara Falls Sunday. They were playing in a flat bottom boat that was tied to a post about one half mile above the falls, when suddenly the rope broke and the boat was allowed to drift into the swift current and over the falls without any possible means of rescue by the excited hundreds on shore. As the boat neared the falls the lads were seen to shake hands and sat down in the boat to await their fate. In an instant a big wave upset the boat and neither it or its occupants were seen again, except for a brief moment when one of the boys had appeared above the water. It took only 12 minutes for the boat to reach the falls after it had broken loose. The boys were from two very prominent families in Buffalo and were chums.

Nearly 800 degrees were conferred at Yale University last week. The graduates included 375 bachelors of arts, 279 bachelors of philosophy and about 125 recipients of higher degrees.

A negro who was fishing in the Brazos river near Richmond, Texas had the uncanny experience of hooking the dead body of a small colored boy who was drowned a few days before. The man thought he had caught a large cat fish and was badly frightened when he discovered the error.

Frank Blake of Cairo, Ill., won a bet of $25 by eating 61 eggs. The world's record is supposed to have been 60. The eggs were cooked as follows: Scrambled 15, soft boiled 16, hard boiled 15, fried 15.

Complete defeat of the Mexican federals under Gen. Ojeda with utter demoralization of the government forces, which are described as "flying in every direction" from Santa Rosa, about 125 miles south of Douglas, was the news contained in a message received from Gov. Pasquer of Sonora.

A 13 pound baby was born to Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Elkins of Gainsville on the 13th of June. The child is the 13th-born to the couple.

Cromatie Sutherland-Leveson-Gower, fourth Duke of Sutherland, died Thursday. The Duke of Sutherland, who was born July 20, 181, was, with the exception of the Czar of Russia, the largest land owner in Europe. His Scottish estates embraced nearly 1,500,000 acres. He owned much property in other countries.

The Mexican rebels and federals have planned to pull off a big fight at Juarez today. We hope they won't hurt anybody, but themselves.

It is high time the gin here was put in condition to gin the big cotton crop that is almost in sight. With a few more showers during the season, there will be more than a thousand bales to gin here this fall.

Work on the Big Springs road has now actually begun. A crew was started out last Monday to begin the work of taking out the grubs. A carload of steel bridge spans and culverts are at the depot, and will be put in place soon. Our Commissioners Court is making good the promise to improve this part of the Colorado-to-the-Gulf highway.

How We Shall Vote

This editor shall vote for the amendment of Sections 49 and 52, Article 3, of the State Constitution, on July 19, for the following reasons:

1. The amendment will mean the enlargement of the State University. It will enable the University to become the rival of any institution of its kind in the world, instead of coming to a standstill, as it will do unless we get money from some source to improve it. This includes the State Normal schools and like institutions. It will also include the Agricultural & Mechanical college.

2. This amendment, if carried will allow the people of any political division of the state to decide for themselves whether or not they will build warehouses to enable them to store their products in order to properly market them. This proposition is democratic and we are a Democrat.

3. In the matter of good roads, one-third of the voters of Sterling county rules and controls the situation, and the result is, we are hampered and "sewed up" along this line. This is not democratic. A Democrat believes in letting the majority rule, and we are a Democrat.

In making up our mind on this question, we have considered both sides of the case, and we are of the opinion the preponderance of evidence is with the affirmative, and we shall vote accordingly.

Delegates to Farmers' Congress

Mr. Nance, of Texas Department of Agriculture, made a most interesting and instructive talk to our citizens last Wednesday.

After the lecture, the following delegates were elected to represent Sterling county at the Farmers' Congress, to be held at College Station, July 28th: T. A. M. Lofton, W. L. Foster, Alvin Sparkman, Jerry Brown, D. L. Slaton and Roy Pearce.

These delegates will be furnished free passes by the railroad companies, and Mr. Nance thought that free lodging would be furnished by the college authorities. We hope that each of these delegates will make it a point to attend, for there is much to be learned at one of these great meetings.

RAIN

Last Sunday was a real, old-fashioned rainy day. "All day the low hanging clouds dropped their fullness down" upon the dusty earth and made God's creatures glad.

While crops and range were holding up bravely, yet the farmers and ranchman were wearing anxious looks and casting longing eyes toward the clouds which hung darkly on the horizon for fear they would "pass by on the other side," but they were not deceived, for the rain came and everything is well. A bountiful feed crop is now a certainty, and with a few more showers, one of the biggest cotton crops ever raised here will be harvested this fall.

So far as we can learn, the rain was general over West Texas.

A Young Inventor

When a boy takes it into his head that he wants a thing, he usually finds a way to get it—especially if he has genius.

Holly Glass, like other boys, owns and rides a bicycle. On this wheel he runs errands for the family. In carrying packages from the stores and other places, he felt the sore need of a bundle carrier attached to his wheel. He perused the various catalogues of these things, but the plans and prices did not suit Holly.

Boy like, it never once occurred to young Glass that he could do without a bundle carrier, so he scratched his head and began to plan how he could make one. Some nice bits of galvanized strap iron in a junk heap caught his eye, and he gathered them, and then invested in some small bolts and nuts. Then, with hammer, drill and file, he went to work to put his ideas into execution, and soon he had made and attached to his wheel one of the best bundle carriers we have ever seen. The thing, although light, will easily carry the weight of a man. It is handsomely built, and shows the marks of workmanship as well as inventive genius.

The youngster does not seem to realize that he has done anything out of the ordinary, but rides about with the air of a boy who is independent enough to make things to suit his fancy.

DATES OF PROTRACTED MEETINGS IN THIS COUNTY.

I have planned to hold meetings in my work, this summer, beginning as follows: Sterling City: July 13—2nd Sunday.

Divide: August 3rd—1st Sunday. China Valley: August 10th—2nd Sunday.

Rev. Wallace Crutchfield will be with me at Sterling City, Sham M. Hull at Divide and C. W. Hardon at China Valley.

Will you join in prayers and plans for these meetings? J. T. Redmon, Pastor

An Ordinance

An ordinance passed by the City and County Health Board of Sterling City, Texas, and approved by the Commissioners Court of said county, to regulate the sanitary conditions of Sterling City as follows:

(1) Be it enacted, under penalty, that all closets shall be kept clean, using lime as an antiseptic, and all deposited matter shall be burnt twice a month with kerosene oil and trash to the extent that said matter is thoroughly destroyed.

(2) That no matter shall be thrown in the alleys that would be of a germ producing nature, and therefore be deleterious to the health of the city.

Any person who shall violate any of the rules or regulations of this supplement shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not less than ten nor more than fifty dollars.

JULY THE FOURTH

July the Fourth—that's today. Today a million people will lay aside their work and celebrate the day on which American liberty was proclaimed "throughout the land and to all the inhabitants thereof." It is the 137th anniversary of the time when old Ben Franklin, as he wrote his name to the Declaration of Independence, said: "We must all hang together, or we shall hang separately." It was the day on which Patrick Henry spoke the words of fire that consumed all doubt in the mind of every man who hesitated to strike a blow for his liberty and native land. Those words not only thrilled and gave courage to those stout old hearts, but they caused England's throne to tremble as if a volcano had burst beneath it. Those magic words uttered that day in a burst of passion will be on the tongues of men as long as the love of home and liberty shall endure. If the time should ever come when Americans are so lost to patriotism as to bend the knee to the tyrant, those magic words, "give me liberty or give me death," will revive the memories and traditions of their fathers and conjure back the courage and manhood that has gone from them through slothfulness and opulence.

July the Fourth! It's a great day. Next to the Christian Sabbath, may it ever be remembered and held sacred. May its reverence serve to keep alive the sentiments and traditions that have made us the greatest people of which human chronicles bear testimony. May our people never forget the heroic deeds and unselfish sacrifices which our forefathers wrought for the generations of today.

July the 4th! Fling the furls of Old Glory to the breeze, and let the cannons make the hills echo to the skies that Liberty and Independence still live! Let the orator thrill the people with the tales of the heroic achievements of our fathers that brought forth the blessings which we now enjoy. Let the trumpets peal forth their glad announcements. Let the children sing, "My Country 'Tis of Thee I Sing."

FOUND PELLEGRA REMEDY

Texan Cured Himself With Remedy of His Own Devising

Fort Worth, Tex., June 24—While he is not a scientist, P. H. Stephens of the Masonic home has the spirit of the scientist. Mr. Stephens declares that he has found a remedy for pellegra and willingly gives it to the world. He says he seeks no remuneration and expects none. That he has been a victim of pellegra and has mastered the disease is the belief of Mr. Stephens. At any rate, he hasn't pellegra now, and physicians had told him that he did have it. Naturally, Mr. Stephens believes that his cure was effected by the treatment he gave himself.

Asked how he effected a cure, Mr. Stephens says he used sassafras oil and coal oil. He declared that one part sassafras oil mixed with three parts of Corsicana coal oil, used internally and externally, would cure any case of pellegra.

Mr. Stephens, who says he is an uncle of Lieutenant Governor Mayes, declares that he became afflicted with pellegra several years ago. He says he got the disease from sprouting corn. He handled the corn daily while feeding it to chickens. The disease, he declared, got a hold on him and rendered his constitution very weak. Physicians were unable to make any headway against the disease.

It was at this time that Mr. Stephens decided to become his own physician. He says he learned during the civil war—he is a Confederate veteran—that sassafras oil would kill any kind of insects. He says he had seen soldiers during the war treated for itch with sassafras oil. He decided that a combination of the two oils would be beneficial.

With the combination of oils, Mr. Stephens became his own physician. He says he rubbed the oils on the afflicted flesh and took three teaspoons of the combination daily. The disease, according to his version, rapidly disappeared. He had discovered that he had pellegra in 1884. At that time he was teaching at Avalon, in Ellis county.—El Paso Times.

OBITUARY

The following obituary, by Rev. A. L. Cline, is taken from The Springdale (Ark.) News:

Dr. Murphy Bowden was born September 21, 1845. He was married in the state of Alabama when but a young man, and became the father of four children, two boys and two girls, all of whom he raised and educated. He, himself, being engaged in the practice of medicine. Death claimed his companion, and one of his daughters, and his own health being very poor, he divided his living among his three remaining children and moved alone to western Texas to rest and recuperate his health.

As his health began to improve it became known that he was a competent physician and he was again pressed into service. It was here that he married Miss Mary Davis, on the 18th of July, 1900. They continued to make their home in the country that had proved so beneficial to his health, until he saw that the strain of an increasing practice was again telling upon his health, when with his wife, and little son, Noble, who had been born to them, he moved to Springdale, Arkansas, April 3, 1905, settling on a farm where he spent the remainder of his days.

"Among those who know him he needs no words of eulogy. He has been a Christian, and a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, from early life. He was always a lover of music, and at the age of 16 was director of a choir in his home church. He was bandmaster for a number of years.

"Since coming to Springdale he has been recognized as a competent physician, but he has done very little practice, preferring to give his time to the farm and to book-keeping, in which he was very proficient.

"When he came here he immediately united with the Church, not only by putting his name into it, but by putting his life into it. He was one of the few men compelled here of his views of a noble life here, and a glorious life hereafter. I think I would be safe in saying, while he made friends of, and associated with all classes of men, there not a man in Springdale who would have sworn an oath in his presence.

"His virtues might be briefly summed up in the following words: As a business man he was conscientious and honest, as a husband and father he was kind and affectionate. As a Christian and churchman he was consecrated, earnest and faithful. I don't remember to have ever asked Dr. Bowden to do anything for the cause of Christ, that he did not do, and do gladly.

"On last Friday morning about six o'clock, having been ill but a couple of hours, he passed into the world beyond, leaving in our midst, his companion, Mrs. Bowden and little son, Noble, only eight years old, both of whom we all know and love.

"Truly one of our greatest men has fallen; there was no question as to his relation with God here, there is no question as to his relation with God over yonder. While he has gone to claim the reward on the other side he has left to his widow and little son a name that is better than rubies and diamonds.

Charitable.
Upton Sinclair said the other day in New York:

"Everybody is jumping up and saying that poverty, bitter and grinding poverty, has nothing to do with making girls go wrong. Well, for my part, I think that such assertions are too charitable toward modern employers."

"Such charity reminds me of the young lady who was asked:

"Did pretty Tottie Postlites marry the septuagenarian Gobsa Golde for love or money?"

"For both," the young lady answered charitably, and she added, "Tottie loves money, you know."

Wouldn't Take Chances.
A Chicago lawyer found a new sort of therapeutic treatment. His instructor told him that if he retired into the silence, breathed rhythmically, and said certain words he would be able to cast off all his bodily ailments. He tried it and it worked. Then his three-year-old child got measles and he worked it on him. He was all puffed up. Later his prize setter contracted the manna. He summoned a veterinarian. Then a friend expostulated. "Your system worked with yourself and it worked with your child," he said; "why don't you try it on the dog?" "That dog cost me $100 when he was a mere pup," was the answer, "and I can't afford to take any chances."

Mystery of Sleep.
Sleep, in which we spend about a third of our lives, continues to be one of the mysteries of biology, despite the attempts of scientists to find a solution. Dr. Raphael Dubois of Mar-seilles, after a prolonged series of experiments on hibernating animals, has come to the conclusion that sleep is due to antitoxin or poisoning by certain waste products, which accumulate in the brain, and are only got rid of by sleep. Dr. Claparede of Geneva thinks that sleep is an instinct devised for the protection of the organism. It was Dr. Ramon y Cajal who formulated the neurotic theory, according to which the neurones or pyramidal cells in the gray matter of the brain sink down and cease to excite each other during sleep.

But there are objections to these theories, and all others that have been advanced. It is a matter of absolute knowledge that in sleep there is a certain absence of blood in the brain. Anything that lessens the supply of blood to the brain is likely to induce sleep. For this reason, keeping the head cool and the feet warm is recommended as one of the best means of overcoming sleeplessness. Absence of light, noise and strong odors help to produce the loss of consciousness, which is the chief characteristic of true sleep.

BANISHED
Coffee Finally Had to Go.

The way some persons cling to coffee, even after they know it is doing them harm, is a puzzle. But it is an easy matter to give it up for good, when Postum is properly made and used instead. A girl writes:

"Mother had been suffering with nervous headache for seven weary years, but kept on drinking coffee."

"One day I asked her why she did not give up coffee, as a cousin of mine had done who had taken to Postum. But Mother was such a slave to coffee she thought it would be terrible to give it up."

"Finally, one day, she made the change to Postum, and quickly her headaches disappeared. One morning while she was drinking Postum so freely and with such relish, I asked for a taste."

"That started me on Postum and I now drink it more freely than I did coffee, which never comes into our house now."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Write for booklet, "The Road to Wellville."

Postum comes in two forms. Regular Postum (must be boiled). Instant Postum doesn't require boiling, but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in an ordinary cup of hot water, which makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

The Kitchen Cabinet

HERE'S never a rose in all the world. But makes the one you spray sweeter. There's never a wind in all the sky. But makes some bird wing flutter. There's never a star but brings to heaven Some silver radiance tender.

And never a ray cloud but helps To crown the sunset's splendor. No robin but may thrill some heart. No dawn-light gladness voicing. God gives us all some small sweet way To set the world rejoicing.

THE DINNER TABLE.
"Order is heaven's first law." There is a science in the laying of a dinner table and military precision is the rule followed by the best hostesses. The hit and more often miss methods of arranging the silver in curves and groups is neither comfortable nor convenient. To begin at the beginning, the table should be covered with a silence cloth.

Next, the table cloth and napkins should be as fine as one can afford, and laundered with the utmost care. A cloth should be laid so that the center fold runs lengthwise of the table. If a round table is used, or in fact either.

The plate, as well as the silver, is placed one-half inch from the edge of the table. The knife is placed next the dinner plate, cutting edge toward the plate; the soup spoon beyond and perfectly parallel, and if an oyster fork is used, that is placed still beyond that.

The forks are placed at the left of the plate, times up, the first to be used farthest from the plate. Forks as well as spoons for additional courses are placed as needed, to avoid display as well as the use of room needed for other service.

At the left of the fork, the same distance from the table's edge, lay the napkin with the edge toward the plate, so that with one lift of the hand the linen may be unfolded. A piece of dinner bread or a roll may lay in the fold of the napkin.

Butter is never served at a formal dinner.

At the point of each knife is the water glass.

A small center piece with bon dishes, candies and dishes of salted nuts are arranged in convenient places.

The olives or radishes are best served in a bed of crushed ice.

Water glasses should be filled two-thirds full, and when refilling draw the glass to the edge of the table, always keeping the hand near the bottom of the glass.

All food to be taken by those at the table should be passed to the left, all portions for individual service should be set down at the right.

CHICKEN DAINTIES.
There is no cold meat which is so easily served in a variety of ways when reheated or served as a left-over, as chicken.

Canterbury Chicken.—Cook three and a half tablespoons of butter with one tablespoonful of finely chopped onion until yellow, stirring almost constantly to prevent burning. Add one tablespoonful of cornstarch, and pour on, stirring all the time, a cup and a half of chicken stock (the liquor in which a chicken has been cooked). Bring to the boiling point, and add one-half tablespoonful of lemon juice, three-fourths of a teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of paprika, half a cup of celery cut in small pieces and one and one-half cups of chopped chicken. Serve very hot, and garnish with toast points and parsley.

Chicken Victoria.—Cream two tablespoons of butter, and add the yolks of three hard cooked eggs rubbed to a paste. Soak a fourth of a cup of cracker crumbs in a fourth of a cup of cold milk fifteen minutes, then add the egg mixture. Pour on gradually one cup of hot chicken stock, and when boiling add a cup of cooked chicken cut in small pieces.

Chicken in Croquette.—Remove the crust from a five-cent loaf of bread, cut out the center, to leave a box-shaped case, brush with butter and toast in the oven until brown, and serve filled with the following mixture: Melt four tablespoons of butter, add four tablespoons of flour and stir until well blended, then pour on one and three-fourths cups of milk, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point and add one-half teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper, two cups of cut of fowl and the same amount of fresh mushrooms which have been cooked five minutes in a little salted water. Cook until all are well heated, and pour into the croquette.

FISH, FLESH, FOWL.
A most appetizing way of serving creamed fish is to carefully remove all bones and skin, keeping the meat as unbroken as possible, and arrange the fish in a buttered baking dish. Cover with a slight sprinkling of bread crumbs, and if the fish is not rich, a few bits of butter. Pour over this sufficient cream to moisten well, set in the oven and bake until the buttered crumbs on top are well browned. Serve from the baking dish.

French Baked Fish.—Stuff the fish with plain bread dressing, with salt and pepper for seasoning. If there is any of the stuffing left, it is to be arranged around the fish in small cakes. Pour over the fish a can of tomatoes and sprinkle the top with a head of garlic finely minced, season with salt, pepper and butter, with a dash of cayenne. Bake as usual.

Moided Ham.—Take a large cupful of prepared ham, add the yolk of one egg and a teaspoonful of marjoram, mix well and press into a bowl, then turn into a baking pan. Sift over fine crumbs, put a piece of butter on top and bake until brown. Serve on a hot platter with tomato sauce.

Kentucky Fried Chicken.—Cut the end wash and dry well, rub with salt, flour, sage, pepper and a dash of cayenne. Put into a frying pan with enough lard in the bottom to just cover it; lay in the chicken and put into the oven, bake until brown. The baking in the oven saves watching and it is more evenly cooked.

CHANGED MIND ABOUT MULE

Lieutenant's Ideas as to Kindness and Firmness Vanished Soon After the Animal Got Busy.

There is a lieutenant in an Ohio regiment who believed that mules were much maligned, and that if well treated a mule would behave accordingly. In his own company was a mule with a bad reputation, and the lieutenant undertook to tame him.

"I will show you how this mule should be treated," said the officer.

So he had the mule brought in front of his tent, saddled him without resistance or protest, and patted him kindly on the neck.

"He needs kind but firm treatment," said the lieutenant.

Then he mounted the mule, which walked six steps, danced three steps, executed an original hop, step and jump with each leg, and then projected the lieutenant into the air and into a thorny bush.

"Catch the brute and kill him!" roared the lieutenant, as the hospital corps assisted him to his tent. The men caught the mule, but did not kill him. He was just as good as any other mule.

Katherine's Point of View.
Little Katherine is a believer in the outdoor life, and she does not confine her fresh-air activities to her own backyard. Her mother recently had a load of sand placed in the rear of the yard, thinking Katherine would devote her time to playing in the sand. She did play there part of the time, and part of the time she was out of the yard.

"Katherine," said her mother, exasperated because her daughter was not staying in the yard, "don't you know I had that man bring this sand here to keep you in the yard?"

"Mamma," replied Katherine, "tell him to come and take it away."

How Herman Quit.
The painful duty was thrust upon me recently to select an office boy. The line was well formed, and upon looking them over a young voice piped up: "Don't forget me, mister!"

A little later this lad was before me and I said to him:

"What is your name?" He replied, "Herman Malowitz."

I then asked him where he worked last, and after he told me I said:

"Herman, were you fired?"

He hesitated a moment and then spoke up:

"Well, I didn't exactly get fired. I just told 'em to go to h—!"—Exchange.

Safe.
Little Mary was on the veranda in the morning sunshine when she saw a friend of the family approaching, and without waiting to be addressed she called: "Hello, Mr. Mason, I've had a birthday."

"Why, Mary, is that so? How old are you?"

"Four years old," she told him.

"I wonder, now, what I'd better do to you?" Mr. Mason pondered, and was amused at the reply that came very positively.

"You can't. I'm sitting on it."—Woman's Home Companion.

FRANZ JOSEF'S KIND HEART

Little Incident That May Explain Why Ruler of Austria is Loved by His Subjects.

Sense of humor is another strong trait of Emperor Franz Josef. One day, unannounced, Franz Josef visited the military academy at Wiener-Neustadt, entered a classroom and, saying to the officer hearing a recitation: "Don't let me disturb you," took a seat. On the bench behind him he put his general's hat, crowned with his bush of long straight feathers. A boy eyed the green plumes, then slyly stretched his hand out and plucked one. Emboldened by success, he took four and would have taken the rest had he not touched his emperor's arm in the process.

"What are you doing that for?" asked Franz Josef, viewing the depleted bunch.

"For a souvenir," the boy stammered.

"But why so many?"

"My comrades would each want one, too," was the frank response.

"Well, I suppose there is no way out of it but to give you the whole lot," said the emperor, by this time laughing heartily as he tore loose the bush. Turning to the teacher, whose front of horror had been lost on the small boy, his majesty remarked, "But, captain, you must kindly lend me your cap to go home in."—Pictorial Review.

FACE DISFIGURED WITH SKIN TROUBLE

3107 Foster Ave., Baltimore, Md.—"About five months ago little blisters appeared on my face. They looked like blisters from fire burns. They itched and burned something terrible, which caused me to rub them and they burst, then sores appeared which disfigured my face. My face was all full of sores. The disease spread from my face to my neck and back. When anything touched them they would burn and stick to my clothes, which kept me from sleeping and made me suffer terribly.

"I used home remedies and I used a salve but it did no good. I suffered about three months then I saw the Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised and I thought I would send and get a sample and try them. I used the sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me a great deal, so I bought some and used them about two months and they completely cured me." (Signed) Edward V. Thomas, Mar. 26, 1912.

Great Defense.
The great defense—let us call him Mr. McSweeney—was defending a man in a murder case. The case looked hopeless, and McSweeney submitted no evidence for the defense. So the public prosecutor, believing that conviction was assured, ended with just a few perfunctory remarks.

Then, in a quiet, conversational tone, the famous McSweeney began to talk to the jury. He made no mention of the murder. He just described in vivid colors a pretty country cottage rung with honeysuckle, a young wife preparing supper, and the rosy youngsters waiting at the gate to greet their father on his return home for the evening meal. Suddenly McSweeney stopped. He drew himself up to his full height. Then, striking the table with his fist, he cried in a voice that thrilled every bosom:

"Gentlemen, you must send him back home to them!"

A red-faced juror choked and blurted out: "By George, sir, we'll do it!"—London Opinion.

Had Not Disobeyed.
Robbie is a Washington boy, and many degrees removed from an angel. Not long ago his father bought him a bicycle, on a solemn promise that he would be good for at least a year.

One week later he was detected in some particularly flagrant act, and his father, to punish him, forbade him to ride his bicycle for a whole week.

Robbie complied, but as his father neared home next day he saw his son whirling along on his wheel.

"Robbie," said he, more in sorrow than in anger, "didn't I tell you not to ride your bicycle for a week?"

"Yes, sir," said Robbie, cheerfully, "and I'm not going to disobey you. This isn't my wheel. It's one I borrowed."

"Dour" Scotsmen.
Counsel, in the course of further observations, referred to the "dour" Scotsmen concerned in the election.

His Lordship—What is the meaning of "dour"?

Mr. Duke—It means "dark." A secondary meaning is "stubborn."

His Lordship—I wanted to know, because I am a Scotsman myself. (Laughter.)—London Telegraph.
