ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY AT STERLING CITY, TEXAS.

Subscribers failing to get their paper on time, will confer a favor by reporting same to us.

If we thought that the piano contest inaugurated by B. F. Roberts was in anywise tricky or unfair, not a line about it would be found in these columns. Knowing Mr. Roberts' honesty, we do not hesitate to say that he will give nothing but a square deal. No goods will be marked up to cover cost of enterprise; if any change at all goods will be marked down. If he does not happen to have in stock what you want, he will get it from his brother merchant for you at no extra cost, or if not found in Sterling, he will send away for what you want and you get your votes just the same.

TEXAS WINS.

Sterling Furnishes Winner.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 30.—Youths representing the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College Station carried off first honors in the students' stock judging contest, the results of which were announced today. This event was on yesterday's program at the International Live Stock exhibition, but the result was not announced until this afternoon.

The Texas boys scored a total of 3,654 points. Their nearest competitor was the Missouri aggregation with 3,495 points. Purdue University was third with 3,494 points.

In the awarding of individual honors the Texas students took both first and second places. W. N. Reed led the list with 819 points to his credit, and Fred Hoepfer was second with 758. E. Gibbons was eight on the list with 732 points.

In the picking out of the fine points of the sheep exhibited, the Texas boys were awarded first honors with 955 points. Their nearest competitor was Oklahoma with 790. The Ontario agriculturists, who were routed as the ranking experts on sheep, finished fifth with 750 points.

Young Reed is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Reed, the mascot of the News-Record and the pride of Sterling county.

As we predicted, when he entered A. & M. college, he rose rapidly in the estimation of the faculty and student body and is now a lieutenant colonel in the cadet corps. Through his splendid work he has never failed to bring back the honors which his college mates sent him after. At Dallas and Ft. Worth he carried off high honors, but at Chicago he covered himself with glory.

The only pang of regret about this happy event is, that Sterling is too poor to keep such a boy. Uncle Sam or some other big individual will take him from us to work for them. They always have their eyes peeled for winners.

Sterling City showed the genuine Concho Valley spirit with reference to the Santa Fe's Educational special visiting here Friday afternoon, giving an attendance of interested citizens.

Lecturers aboard the train expressed appreciation of attention and enthusiasm shown during the talks. The train showed among other demonstrational equipment silos and silage machinery, dairy cows and dairying equipment and machinery, poultry and poultry farm and house equipment and domestic science exhibit.

L. L. Johnson, introduced by J. D. Tinsley, talked about the value of poultry on the farm, stating that while the fancier has given richly to the farmer in the way of pure-bred stock, that the latter has and will continue to furnish the volume of the meat and eggs to the world. Mr. Johnson, asked about breeds, stated that these are more nearly a matter as to preference of the individuals interested, than any other deciding influence. He talked about housing, breeding, feeding and marketing.

H. M. Bainer in his address on better farming insisted that the custom of spreading over too much land, is one of the most hurtful influences in the entire farm regime today. In opposition to this custom, the speaker urged the adoption of intensive farming, stating that it will give much more satisfactory results in the form of a greater volume of better quality products. Intensification as an adjunct to diversification and rotation was advised and commended by this speaker. Seed selection coupled with suggestions about preparation of land, had a space in this talk.

J. D. Tinsley, talking on dairying and silos, urged the necessity of live stock on every farm, and incidentally endorsed the dual-purpose animal as opposed to the strict dairy of beef strain. Importation of pure blood bulls was set up as the one in which to grade the herd upward to a standard of efficiency and greater worth every way. Mr. Tinsley insists that the silo is the one foremost means through which to preserve summer feeds for winter conditions, now recognized as a real necessity for the production of milk and as a food for growing animals. He stated that ninety-five per cent of the fodder and grain crops is saved through introduction into the silo.

Miss Amanda Stoltzfus and Miss Frances Lawen had charge in the domestic science coach, giving lectures and demonstrations on the worth of systematic work in the home. Happier, better homes, and that too with a decreased expenditure of money, was and is the burden of the work in this car. The lecturers are experts, and during the stop in Sterling City demonstrated a few of the dainty dishes possible to make from the commonest food supplies on hand in every home.

Following are the persons constituting the party of the train at the Sterling City stop:

J. D. Tinsley, agricultural demonstrator for Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe, Brownwood, Texas.

H. M. Bainer, agricultural demonstrator for Santa Fe system, Amarillo, Texas.

L. L. Johnson, assistant agricultural demonstrator, Amarillo, Texas.

H. C. McCowan, assistant agricultural demonstrator, Amarillo, Texas.

Miss Frances Lowen and Miss Amanda Stoltzfus, representing the Department of Extension University, Austin, Texas.

C. H. McCoun, dairy expert, Fallsburg, Texas.

J. L. Pope, in charge of publicity, Amarillo, Texas.

From this point the train moved to Water Valley, Carlsbad and San Angelo.

FIRST AERIAL COACH.

The first aerial coach has been tried and found successful in Etampes, France. It is an ordinary aeroplane, to which a limousine body, capable of holding four passengers comfortably, has been fitted. The aerial coach made a flight of about an hour across country, but it carried no passengers. The place of passengers was taken by four bags of sand, weighing in all about forty stones, supposed to be the average weight of four tourists. The aerial coach leaves nothing to be desired as to the comfort of future travelers, who will have a vast view of the country over which they travel, and will scarcely feel the motion; but the only drawback as yet is the safety of the machine. Until some improved safety device has been found tourists will prefer a motor car or a railway carriage.—Washington Gazette.

How to Slide Down a Rope. Sliding down a rope is not so simple as it seems. Few boys know how to do it properly. If you try to descend by letting the rope slide through your hands the friction will burn the palms so that you will have to let go after a few feet. If you try to lower your weight from one handhold to another you are sure to become tired and will be forced to drop. You cannot slide with the rope between your knees, for the swaying of your body will jerk the rope out of the clutch of your knees and then you are likely to fall. The easiest and safest method you can employ is that used by firemen and sailors. Standing upright, throw out your right leg and give it a turn round the rope. Next put the rope in the crook of your right elbow and clamp it tightly, not in your hand, but in your arm.

In that way you can slide to safety without the slightest trouble. The rope does not touch any part of the body that is not protected by clothing and your speed can be regulated by either straightening or cramping your leg. Once learned, this method of sliding down a rope may prove in an emergency the means of saving your life or the lives of other persons.—Youth's Companion.

Everything New From Everywhere

The month of December is here which will start many gift buying. The spirit of Christmas is well in the air, so when you realize how very near the time for "Santa Claus" is upon us—when he will make his early morning trips down the chimneys of the homes of this country, you will certainly make a determination to begin and get through with your gift buying in short order. You will save yourself time and trouble by coming direct to "The Shopping Center of San Angelo" to make your selections for the different members of your family and the friends you are going to remember. We make this statement advisedly, knowing that HERE you will find a stock of Holiday Goods the like of which has never previously been shown in the entire Southwest.

We have announced to you from year to year through the columns of your paper, and we are glad to have the privilege of doing it again. It is with pleasure and a great deal of satisfaction to the management of this great establishment to once more herald to you the glad tidings of this great American holiday.

We are in a better position this year than we have ever been in our history to show you the greatest line of merchandise that it has ever been our pleasure to see and to select your wants from. We ask your presence in our store. Our floor space and display counter has been doubled to that of former years, so it will be a pleasure for men, women and children to select there presents for themselves and also their friends.

The tide of joy and good will from every quarter of the globe is expressed in the vast assortment of appropriate gift goods shown in our store. Usefulness combined with ornamentalness is the main feature in this line which we have given much study and have spared neither time nor money to make it complete in every detail.

The early shopper will reach the greatest benefits as the stock of all our different departments is at its height just now. Come without delay as now is the accepted time. We will be open at nights from Monday December 9, until the night of December 25, 12 o'clock.

Here we will enumerate some of our different departments, which will give the prospective buyer the enormous field of merchandise that you will have to select from. Dolls of all kinds, doll trimmings, Teddy bears, dogs, sheep, goats, horses of every description, locomotive trains on tracks, hook and ladder apparatus, autos, carts of every description, toy trunks, doll furniture, toy dishes, magic lanterns, steam engines, comb and brush sets, toilet articles of all kinds, box paper, the racks, hat pin receivers, hair boxes, burnt wood boxes, jewelry of every description, fancy glass ware, water sets, cut glass, jewel boxes, last but not least the greatest display of all kinds of fancy and hand painted china and dinner ware that it has ever been our pleasure to see.

A complete line of White Parisian Ivory, one of the new lines of merchandise out this season.

This is only a few items that we are quoting you to give you an idea of the enormous stock that we carry. To appreciate this display is to come in an inspect all the different lines that we have on exhibition. You will be well repaid with a visit to us and to do your Christmas shopping in this great establishment. We solicit your patronage and will appreciate any business that you will give us.

A word to the out of town buyer: Come early and avoid the great rush that always comes with Christmas shopping. If you are not coming send in your mail orders, but come where you can see everything.

Motors in Arabia.

Aden, Arabia, is five miles from Steamer Point, the shipping junction of that region. Heretofore, camel carts have conveyed merchandise for export and import. But camels are slow and the carts are unwieldy. The camels could, at their best, make only two round trips a day between the town and the wharf. The road is steep and full of gravel and flint. But this did not deter business men from employing automobiles as substitutes for camels, as an exchange. One skin exporter paid $4,000 for a three and one-half ton, twenty-two horse power French truck, which he used in lieu of the camel carts. It carries fifteen barrels of skins and makes six round trips daily. The Aden-Steamer Point automobile service will shortly test a steam car that has been rebuilt into a gasoline car. The intention is to revive the passenger service. It cost $1,300 to convert the car, which originally cost $2,316. A chauffeur has been obtained from England to make the tests. The owners declare that if the car is a success they will have five others placed in service.

Torpedoes Guided by Aircraft.

A patent has been issued to Bradley A. Fiske, United States navy, for a device that guides submarine torpedoes from an aircraft. The torpedo is the first transported through the air to a point of desired proximity to a target by means of an aircraft, after which the propelling mechanism of the torpedo is started and then the torpedo is released to fall by gravity to the water. In the apparatus, a strap is employed for retaining the torpedo below the aircraft and a manually controlled lever releases a latch for the strap the lever also actuating transmitting mechanism to operate the starting device for the propelling mechanism of the torpedo.

TALK AND TALKERS.

To talk entertainingly does not necessarily mean to talk a great deal or to monopolize the conversation. Some women talk nearly all the time and bore every one who listens to them with their inane chatter. No; the art of conversation is a sort of game of give and take. You make a remark about something which amuses or interests you, and this immediately suggests something else to those gathered round. But if one person insists in selfishly monopolizing the talk all spontaneity goes at once, and the listeners are fatigued and bored instead of being amused and interested.

INDIANS NOT "FADING OUT."

The notion that the Indian race is "fading out" is not supported by the facts. There are now, according to the last reports, 266,000 Indians in the country with 30,000 in special and reservation schools supported by the government at an annual cost of $4,000,000. Curiously enough, the Indians of the United States have shared disproportionately with the whites in the "unearned increment," being richer upon an average or per capita basis than the white race. This is due to the growth in value of reservation lands.

ARE THESE CIRCASSIAN? Two quaint daggers—the pair long in one sheath, and are worn along across the body from the right shoulder—are believed to be Circassian, and are owned by George W. Rhoades. The bone-handled weapons have keen blades, eight inches long. One handle is wrapped with brass wire, and the other with copper. Circassian, or Tcherkesses, is a general term applied to the northwestern group of peoples inhabiting the region of the Caucasus, now included in Prussian territory. There are many tribes and the blood is much mixed. They have few manufactures, but they have skill in making rugs, weapons and the like. Many of their women have decided beauty. Circassians are brave and hospitable, but vindictive. Their subjugation was completed in 1864, when many thousands of them emigrated to Turkey.

BABY SEA ELEPHANT. A baby sea elephant weighing 500 pounds and valued at $5,000 was seized by the customs officers at San Diego, Cal., a short time ago, when it was brought there on the schooner Santa Barbara from Guadalupe Island, off Lower California. The mammal is owned by John Ramsey of Los Angeles. Ramsey proposed payment of duty and had given orders to leave the sea elephant in charge of the government when a compromise was effected. The mammal was captured after a hard battle with its mother on the shores of Guadalupe.

George McEntire shipped 19 jack-rabbits to his friend Chief McGee at Dallas this week. George says the big fire chief's favorite game is jack-rabbit and later on he intended to ship him about 500 pounds of them.

Why don't someone buy and ship rabbits? There is a good market for them and the supply is unlimited. Business for somebody.

George McEntire and W. E. Wood were among the crowd of water-bound people here Wednesday night.

RAIN RAIN RAIN

The oldest inhabitant cannot recall so much rain as has fallen within the last eight weeks. The roads and streets have been so muddy that they were of difficult passage. The big lakes on the Divide are brim full and make one think of the seaside when the big waves lash the shore. Every crevice in the hillsides have become living springs, while every ravine is a brawling brook.

The ground in the valleys has become so soft that a horse can scarcely travel with the weight of his rider on his back.

The grass is as green as in mid-summer, while filaree and other forage weeds which are so valued by stockmen is larger than ever known here in December.

Turnips, lettuce and such things have sprung up on vacant lots and commons and are growing in riotous luxury everywhere.

School Notes.

The bad weather caused the absence of several scholars from school, but they are getting used to the dreary, rainy weather and come almost as regularly as if it were fair.

We did not have our exhibits Thanksgiving on account of the weather. However, there will be exhibits of our school work some time in the near future.

Last Friday the whole school took in the sights at the Santa Fe demonstration train. Some fine lectures were given, and everyone was helped by being present. As the crowd were leaving one of the lady lecturers asked some of the eleven grade girls if they were studying Caesar. They replied in the affirmative.

CONCHO ON A BIG TEAR

The highest water ever known here in December was when the North Concho spread out over its valleys last Tuesday. The heavy rains on the head of the river and Lacy creek fell Monday night and Tuesday morning. On Tuesday morning came the word, "Look out for high water." At noon the river began to overflow its banks and by 3 o'clock it had almost reached the high water mark of May 6, 1891. Warnings were telephoned to Water Valley, Carlsbad and San Angelo to look out for the flood which no doubt saved much property along the river. As we go to press the river is still high.

New pupils are entering school all the time.

The windmill is proving itself useful as well as ornamental.

Thanksgiving holiday was enjoyed to the fullest by the pupils and faculty as well. The eleventh grade was the guest of Prof. Roberts at dinner at the Central. We thank Mr. Roberts for the courtesy and the Thanksgiving of 1913 will ever be one of the red letter days in the memory of the Seniors of '13-14.

WOMEN KEPT IN SUBJECTION

Savages Refuse to Accord Wives Any Rights of Which They Can Be Deprived.

Some of the savages in South America exclude women folk from every sort of public amusement, such as dancing, feasting, celebrating and other outside carrying-on. At such time the women are kept busy serving the savages with roasted monkeys, stewed turtles and crude intoxicating drinks, which the women make by primitive processes of fermentation. If they can afford it, the savages have several wives each, some of the men carrying on the custom of stealing young girls from neighboring tribes. The savage explains his having several wives this way: "This one does only garden work, and does it so well I keep her at it." Of another, he will say that she is fine at making intoxicating beverages, and so on.—New York Press.

JAP ARTIST HIS OWN MODEL

Has Carved Figure of Himself in Wood Which Appears to Be Identical With Original.

One of the most marvelous workmen in the world is Hananuma Masakichi of Tokio, Japan, who has carved a figure in wood, so like himself, that when the two are placed together, side by side, it is said to be also impossible to tell which lives and which does not.

By several connoisseurs in art this wooden figure is pronounced the most perfect and human image of man ever made. Masakichi has faithfully reproduced every scar, vein and wrinkle to be seen on his own body. The figure is composed of two thousand pieces of wood, dovetailed and jointed with such wonderful skill, that no seams can be detected.
