Concerning a Battle of the Strong on a Field of Glory and Shame.

By VINGIE E. HOE. He was an odd little scrap of humanity. In his hazy childhood, somewhere on a farm, he had been an enigma to those who knew him.

He was slight and small, and had a shock of soft, light hair that curled. It was that hair that gave him such an air of innocence-that and a pair of eyes whose expression was one of wistful wonder.

Then, too, he had a sensitive, whimsical mouth, and with this combination his pledge to the government. he was destined to mislead certain of those who were over-trustful. While he was a little shaver he had sloughed the environment of the farm and taken up his abode in the great city. It was born in him, and those who had raised him from the precarious start of an Billy's eyes had won their love, let

He never went back, and he never when he was twenty, and the papers advertised for him, with the information that the old man's will had left him $500. Billy had read that, and his baby-soft eyes had filled with impulsive tears. He wished for a moment that he had stayed with them-they who had not forgotten him in all these

The impulse was only momentary, but somehow he had never wanted to touch that money. It was something outside of his life-clean, standing for something that he remembered, a long way off. It was placed on interest in the bank of the little village, so the. papers said, awaiting the sometime coming of the owner. So he went about his life.

He knew many tricks that were worth money to a certain type; his education had come to him through many and varied channels, and the ways of the world were good to him. He left Chicago and went West. He had heard of the wonderful opportunities of the frontier, and he decided that there was the place for the display of his talents, varied and sehe lacked neither defensive ability nor peradoes closed in.

Inside of a month Billy was a fullfledged stage-driver from Gulch City, up among the mountains, to Dead Horse, down the plains, duly bonded to the government, and carrying gold enough each trip to tempt a saint.

About the middle of the second month came the day when his dreams were to end-and begin-in earnest.

There was a good beginning, for in the first place there were no passengers on the down trip. Billy thanked fate for that. At the "Dixie," last Friday night, was shown some excellent pictures which had been made along the route of the Puget Sound-to-The-Gulf Highway. Beginning with a scene of the start in front of the old Alamo at San Antonio, a scenic pan-ASSUED EVERY FRIDAY AT STERLING aroma to Amarillo was thrown upon the screen -all of which was true and life-like, and proved to be f great interest to everyone pres-

The one regretable thing about the show, and which made many of us people here feel humiliated, was when the scenes around the public square of Sterling was thrown upon the screen. Every court house yard between San Antonio and Amarillo was more or less ornamented with trees and shrubs. San Angelo's court house was almost hidden by the trees-a scene which no artist's brush could improve. Then came the ridiculous contrast when Sterling's court house was shown. There, on a beautiful plat of ground, our goodly court house, whose architectural lines were not excelled in any of the buildings shown, stood in the middle of a patch of rank broomweeds with every mark of neglect and prideless parsimony.

If that audience could have had its will, this picture would have been eliminated from the film, for it is advertising Sterling county as the most prideless and stingy county in West Texas. It is telling the world There is not a single civil or crim- of our poor judgment and lack of

Sick Women Attention

Is it possible there is a woman in this country who continues to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vege table Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, which proves beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other one medicine in the world?

We have published in the newspapers of the United States more genuine testimonial letters than have ever been published in the interest of any other medicine for womenand every year we publish many new testimonials, all genuine and true. Here are three never before published:

From Mrs. S. T. Richmond, Providence, R. I.

Providence, R. I.—" For the benefit of women who suffer as I have done I wish to state what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I did some heavy lifting and the doctor said it caused a displacement. I have always been weak and I overworked after my baby was born and inflammation set in, then nervous prostration, from which I did not recover until I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The Compound is my best friend and when I hear of a woman with troubles like mine I try to induce her to take your medicine."—Mrs. S. T. RICHMOND, 199 Waldo Street, Refuse in Shop of Sign Painter Is Always Gathered Up and Value Distributed Among Men.

"On the matter of domestic economy in the American household, which, it is asserted, the housewives and the boys and girls of the family no longer practice, it is interesting to know that if economy be a lost art at home, it is pursued with a great deal of care in many lines of business," remarked Henry A. Shields of New York at the Raleigh. "I was impressed a few months ago by the observation of a sign painter, who informed me that he could not deliver a sign I had ordered on a certain day because in the intervening time he would have the quarterly 'clean-up day.' I was curious to know what

'clean-up day' meant and he told me. "It appears that in the making of signs a great deal of gold leaf is used, and necessarily some of it is wasted, just as it is when gold letters are placed on show windows. I had never noticed that when the painter is at work putting the leaf on he is careful to conserve all the leavings. Just so in the shops; all refuse there is carefully brushed into a pile and kept. In three months' time there will be a great deal of what appears to be rubbish around a sign painter's shop, but the painter knows its value. This rubbish is cleaned up, stowed in bags, and sent to Philadelphia, where it is screened and the particles of gold leaf extracted. My friend informed me that it is not unusual to get as | man who may have been making and | good naturedly. high as $90 out of one shipment of rubbish, all of which goes to the workmen in the shop, and not to the own-

CANARY BIRD PRICES ARE UP

Feathered Songsters That Are So Much Prized Come From Germany, Not the Canary Islands.

Those who may have been under the impression that canary birds imported into this country come from the Canary islands will suffer a severe disillusionment at this time, especially if the family believes that a canary bird is needed, and someone proceeds to "buy" a canary. The fact is, that in times of peace canary birds come from the Hartz mountains in Germany where they are bred by the peasants in garrets and spare rooms of their cottages. One New York firm alone imports 100,000 canaries annually.

At present no canaries can be bought in the bird stores because of the blockade of German ports. Ordiisn't absolutely necessary in sowing Mother—Do you mean to tell me narily these birds sell for fifteen to that your husband is out half the thirty dollars a dozen. The individual bird is sold on his merits, as indicated by his looks and his voice. The female canary is a poor singer and sells for half the price of the male. The birds sing best between the ages of more negroes than white children in "You forget that my husband is a half-year and six years. Frequently they live to be twelve years old.

Action on State Laws.

In various suits during the past year the constitutionality of a number of state laws was challenged, laws of Georgia and Mississippi attempting to provide a form of enforcement of the For HEADACHES and GRIPP. It's contract of employment under certain conditions being declared void, as was a law of Illinois forbidding the use of emery wheels, etc., for polishing processes in basements, without reference to the actual conditions as to ventilation, and one of Louisiana limher seventy-sixth. Mrs. Sage is said iting the hours of labor of certain classes of stationary engineers. All these laws were held to attempt unjustifiable discriminations

The state of Mississippi still stands alone with a law regulating the hours of labor of factory workers without regard to sex. This law, which was last ear declared constitutional, was again upheld, as was the ten-hour law of Illinois for women, the city of Chicago being mulcted for its violation.

The privy council was called in to decide the question, and a compromise resulted. To the company was given the right of choosing their officers, to the corporation the choice of president, while to the crown was reserved the right of nominating the captain general.-London Chronicle.

Electrical Safety Rules.

The bureau of standards has been making a study of safety rules and practices in the construction, installaion and maintenance of electrical equipment, and has found that such companies as do have safety rules have based them on limited and inadequate experiences, while many companies have no rules because of the expense and difficulty of preparing hem and because they are not compelled to take precautionary measires by the state authorities. Accordngly the bureau has prepared a set of rules based on a thorough study, with the aid and advice of state commissions, companies employing electrical equipment and workmen. The rules are published in circular No. 49 .-Scientific American.
