Many Things in Religion That Cannot Be Explained by Cold Intellect.

The prayer which Paul offered for his Ephesian friends seems to be a particularly daring one. A great deal of effort has been put forth to explain. the paradox in the crowning petition of that prayer. He asks that his friends may be enabled "to know the love of Christ which passeth knowledge." Is that not a strange thing to seek? Is this man merely playing with words? Is he indulging in meaningless hyperbole? Is there any real significance in this peculiarly phrased petition?

It is well to remind ourselves that The formal ceremonials, conducted this rare petition suggests a simple There are some things in religion which can be felt, but cannot be exly proclaimed the exposition's open- plained. "EXPEDIENT THAT I GO AWAY"

Henry Drummond's Beautiful Idea of the Thoughts of Jesus at the Grave of Lazarus.

One day when Jesus was in Perea. Mary, and Martha, and Lazarus their brother; but he was so situated at the time that he could not go. Perhaps he was too busy, perhaps he had other similar cases on hand; at all events, he could not go. When he went ultimately, it was too late. Hour after hour the sisters waited for him. They could not believe he would not themselves along by the dying man's couch, and he was dead and laid in the grave before Jesus arrived. You can imagine one of his thoughts, at least, as he stands and weeps by that grave with the inconsolable sisters-"It is expedient that I go away. I should have been present at his deathbed scene if I had not been away. 1 will depart and send the Comforter. which he will not be able to answer. He will abide with me forever. Everywhere he will come and go. He will be like the noiseless, invisible wing blowing all over the world where over be listeth."-Henry Drummond.

Service Is a Hard One. Most naval air mechanics are accomplished swimmers, and possess a constitution of iron. When the navy's great seaplanes are launched the mechanics generally have to wade up to their necks into the water to maneuver the machine from the shore. To plunge into icy cold water in the half light of dawn is not a pleasant task, yet it is one which the sailor mechanics have to carry out almost daily. IMPORTANT DRY FARM CROPS

New Bulletin Issued by Department of Agriculture Deals With Wheat, Oats. Corn. Etc.

The work with six field crops at the fourteen field stations operated by the department in the Great Plains area has recently been incorporated in a single bulletin. It combines the salient points brought out in six previous bulletins dealing with spring wheat, oats, corn, barley, milo and kafir, as well as the effects of the time of plowing. The new bulletin tells of the yields secured by different methods of handling the soil in connection with growing these crops and also includes a chart showing the rainfall by months at the stations. How She Was Helped During Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.-"I am just 52 years of age and during Change of Life I suffered for six years terribly. I tried several doctors but none seemed to give me any relief. Every month the pains were intense in both sides, and made me so weak that I had to go to bed. At last friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and I tried it at once and found much relief. After that I had no pains at all and could do my housework and shopping the same as always. For years I have praised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me, and shall always recommend it as a woman's friend. You are at liberty to use my letter in any way. "-Mrs. Thomson, 649 W Russell St., Philadelphia, Pa. Change of Life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to carry women so successfully through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In the large area devoted to dry cern about retaining moisture in the soil, due to the amount of rainfall and the evaporation during the growing season. The drink bill for the crops is enormous. It is found that it takes 90,000 pounds of water to grow a bushel of wheat and, no matter how fertile the soil is, you can grow only as many bushels of wheat as will be represented by the available pounds of water in the soil divided by 90,000. In this connection, however, it will be well to bear in mind that an inch of rainfall weighs 227,000 pounds per acre. Extended observations through experiments conducted in Europe and in this country show that almost all

Does this mean that the grain farmer can grow bushels per acre for each inch of rainfall at the rate of 227,000 divided by 90,000? Not at all. For, no matter how well the soil may be tilled, a large percentage of moisture or water will escape through effect of warm winds of spring and summer. It simply means that everything should be done to conserve all moisture possible in every way possible throughout the growing season. This means putting the land in proper condition in the fall so as to retain as much rain as falls then and to secure all the moisture those spots that start to dry out in the spring should be disked as early as possible. The spring winds are mighty dry and a soil mulch is needed as early as possible. Throughout the entire season the man who practices dry farming should spare no pains to preserve the protective dry soil covering. The time to begin this work is in early
