WARNING AGAINST INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC

Austin, Sept. 19—State Health Officer C. W. Goddard has issued warning that a renewal of the influenza epidemic of last winter is expected to come this year.

He points out that history shows that each initial outbreak of the disease has recurred each winter for several following years.

"I cannot predict with certainty that we will have another epidemic of influenza this fall and winter; but I can with certainty say that if we do not, the history of the epidemics of influenza in the past will not hold good in the future," he continued.

As a means of lessening the severity of the expected epidemic, Dr. Goddard is urging every city and town to inaugurate clean up campaigns and to direct the attention of the civic organizations to betterment of health conditions.

WANT TO KILL YOUR TOWN? HERE'S HOW

An exchange prints the following receipt for killing a town:

"Underrate every present and prospective enterprise, speak ill of the churches and schools; enlarge the vices of the people; withhold patronage from your merchants and tradesmen, and buy your goods and groceries at some other place; never subscribe for or support your local paper, and if you are in business never spend a penny for advertising."

M. J. Smith.

TO INFORMER READERS

A number of you owe us money on subscription. We have some rather heavy obligations to meet in a short time, and ask that you pay us next time you find it convenient. This is a serious matter with us; please keep it in mind.

Another thing: After Nov. 15th the price of the Informer will be $1 50 a year. This announcement was made once before, but we decided to try to "get by" at the old price a while longer. We've lost money on the trying, paper and other materials continue to soar, until it's a matter of raising the price or closing the shop. In these high price times, if the paper isn't $1 50 it isn't worth printing. Remember, Nov. 15th. Until that time you can still buy it for a dollar a year.

There will also be a slight increase in ad and job prices, beginning at once.

We hope in this manner to exchange our yearly deficit for a small net income; to improve our plant, publish a paper that will be a credit to Hedley and the Hedley country.

Pay us!

Just Once! Try Dodson's Liver Tone!
Take No Calomel! Listen To Me!

If bilious, constipated, headachy or sick, I guarantee relief without taking dangerous calomel which sickens and salivates.

Stop using calomel! It makes you sick. Don't lose a day's work. If you feel lazy, sluggish, bilious or constipated, listen to me!

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver, which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile, crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents. Take a spoonful tonight, and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous by morning, I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep the entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.—Adv.

IT'S NOT YOUR HEART;
IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Kidney disease is no respecter of persons. A majority of the ills afflicting people today can be traced back to the kidney trouble.

The kidneys are the most important organs of the body. They are the filters of your blood. If the poisons which are swept from the tissues by the blood are not eliminated through the kidneys, disease of one form or another will claim you as a victim.

Kidney disease is usually indicated by weariness, sleeplessness, nervousness, dizziness, backache, stomach trouble, pain in loins and lower abdomen, gall stones, gravel, rheumatism, sciatica and lunging.

All these arrangements are nature's signals that the kidneys need help. You should use GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules immediately. The soothing, healing oil stimulates the kidneys, relieves inflammation and destroys the germs which have caused it. Go to your druggist today and get a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. In twenty-four hours you should feel fresh and vigor returning. After you feel somewhat improved continue to take one or two capsules each day, so as to keep the first-class condition and ward off the danger of other attacks.

Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand. Three stars. Money refunded if they do not help you.

REPTILES AT HOME IN SAND

Naturalist Makes Interesting Report of Habits of Small Dwellers of the Desert.

Quaint and curious are the ways of some reptiles of the desert, as revealed by the famous naturalist C. L. Camp, who has been studying them in the Colorado desert. He tells of some reptiles, the burrowing snake, the gridiron-tailed lizard, the ocellated sand lizard, and the desert "horned toad," which actually swim into the loose sand by the strong lateral movements of their heads. The gridiron-tailed lizard is very swift and agile, and when chased will race over the sand at fifteen miles an hour. Most of the desert reptiles of Colorado are colored like their surroundings, and are difficult to detect. Others can change their colors to suit their surroundings, while not a few of the desert lizards are able to part with their tails very readily when they are seized. There is humor in the ways of desert tortoises. When one meets another, unless both are males, when a fight inevitably takes place, each needs its head rapidly up and down as though in salutation, and sometimes noses are touched as they pass.

If the toothache doesn't worry a man it's because some other fellow has it.

"There's a Reason"

Primate Cathedral of Colombia in Bogota.

THE name with which Licenciado don Gonzalo Jimenez de Quesada and his warring hosts christened the Andean plateau was Santa Fe. To that nobleman nothing seemed more fitting than to give to the land he had discovered the name of his birthplace—that classic Santa Fe founded upon royal command of Ferdinand and Isabella opposite the opulent Granada, to vex the multitude of heretic Mohammedans who aroused the jealousy and resentment of the Spanish by their fiestas and tourneys, the valor of their sons, the Moorish beauty of their women, and the unequalled romance of their arched windows, stone lacework, and balconies adorned by expert goldsmiths.

And what a thrill the conquistador must have felt, yet what homesickness must have been awakened within him as he gazed upon a plain watched over by two somber hills, so like that of his own land, with the Moorish Granada guarding the Castilian city, writes W. F. Anzola Somper in the Bulletin of the Pan American Union. But the Valley of Castles (Valle de los Alcázares), the Touzenquillo or recreation spot of Zipa de Bacata, its rightful possessor, was renamed by the new lords in mail and gorget. Bacata fled, abandoning his dominion, to die in the heart of the forest, never knowing that after centuries justice should be paid him; that the "very noble and loyal city" should bear his name, slightly modified, as decreed by the Emperor Charles V in 1540. On December 3, 1548, it was given a coat of arms portraying a black eagle on a gold field, with an open pomegranate in each claw, and bordered by golden branches on a blue field.

Old and New Are Mingled. Bogota, the intellectual and cultured capital city, moirer of thought, home of savants and thinkers, is a metropolis, which, while offering to the tourist no startling display of New York or Parisian skyscrapers, boulevards or Broadways, claims attention by reason of the gifts with which nature endowed it. Spring is there eternal; the climate is ideal; the fertility of the soil surrounding is extraordinary.

Bogota conserves vestiges of her colonial period. Over the portals of rambling old houses which defied the ages are to be seen coats of arms. The century-old churches, venerable relics of the past, guard beneath panels of gold and costly wood collections of masterly paintings; Byzantine cornices of arabesque designs atop the granite pilasters which support arches, and under dais of wrought gold and silver the choir lofts are to be seen; long spiral staircases, massive towers, and beiry spires stand out against the clear sky, just as they did centuries ago.

On the other hand, the tendency toward twentieth century building is irresistible, and the most up-to-date talent is displayed in the erection of luxurious homes or public buildings in Bogota today.

The national capital situated on the southern side of the Plaza de Bolivar, resembles the Church of the Madeleine in Paris, and is considered one of the best stone edifices in South America.

Along the entire western side of the plaza extends buildings uniformly of pure French style, and along the northern side modern buildings occupied by banks and commercial houses; the eastern side is occupied by the cathedral, a massive structure, the towers of which rise 30 meters, and some few old houses.

In the heart of the plaza there is a small park which attracts notice principally because of the statue of Bolivar the Liberator, which rises upon its marble pedestal in the center of the square, being one of the finest works of the Italian sculptor, Tenerani.

From the Plaza de Bolivar the main thoroughfares extend in every direction, almost all paved with asphalt and kept in excellent condition by the municipality. Calle Real, the principal business street, and Florian street are the most bustling of the city. The former, a wide thoroughfare, merges into Republic avenue (Avenida de la Republica), flanked by modern buildings and traversed by electric cars.

Called the Athens of the South. The Colombian capital has long been the patron of science. The astronomical observatory, National Library, the academies, museums and universities form a group of institutions which maintain the right of Bogota to be considered the "Athens of the South," the name with which a European scholar christened her.

The observatory owes its existence to the efforts of the naturalist, Jose Celestino Mutiz. It is octagonal in form, 2,636 meters above sea level; hence, is one of the highest of the world and possesses a valuable set of instruments for taking observations.

The academies were established by devotees of science and art. The Language academy recently took possession of a new building. The Museum of Bogota contains objects of beauty and considerable historic worth. A Museum of Natural History founded by the Christian Brotherhood (Hermanos Cristianos) possess exhaustive collections.

The universities happily own adequate buildings. Recently the building to be used for anatomic lecture halls was completed, equipped much like the corresponding building of the University of Paris. Public instruction is becoming constantly more widely diffused and Bogota is the center of secondary schools supported by the government.

Cultured and Prosperous. Bogota, by the refinement of its inhabitants and the luxury in evidence, might be taken for a European city. Culture is marked; foreign news is received promptly; desirable features of Paris and London are imitated to stimulate progress. Unfortunately, owing to the extreme narrowness of the streets, many of the architectural features of the city cannot be appreciated; nevertheless, upon contemplating the constant progress of the capital and its development, one is forced to the conclusion that Bogota will become an imperial city in the western world, the heart of the plateau which extends 16 leagues from north to south and 8 from east to west.

Economically Bogota is on a sound footing, being a commercial and banking center of constantly growing importance. There are five banks of large capital, the American Mercantile bank (Banco Mercantil Americano) having been established last year, and at present the establishment of another is under consideration. Several insurance companies contribute to the success of financial enterprises. Large export houses, have founded headquarters there and importation is conducted on rather a large scale. Foreign credit companies in the United States and Europe are added factors in Bogota's development. Industry also is being exploited. Thread and textile industries compete with foreign establishments in the production of fabrics and cloth. Stock raising is increasing considerably on the plain, the strains having been carefully selected from stock brought from England, and the wool market is plentiful.

COAST TO COAST U. S. FOR LEAGUE

MILLIONS ACCLAIM WILSON AS HE SPEEDS ACROSS THE LAND.

FEW ASK FOR CHANGES

Majority Feel That President's Guidance Should Be Held—He Regards Pact As Sure to Come Soon.

(By Mt. Clemens News Bureau)

Aboard President Wilson's Special Train—From the Capital at Washington to the far Pacific coast the President of the United States has journeyed on the most unusual expedition ever undertaken by a chief executive of the nation.

To discuss national questions, many presidents have toured the land; but Mr. Wilson is laying before America a question which affects the whole world—the question of whether or not we are to join in the League of Nations; whether we are to forget our former isolation and share with the other peoples of the earth the responsibilities of maintaining civilization and preventing, as he says we can do, future warfare.

Between the capital and the coast the president made fifteen speeches and half a dozen brief talks. All of 100,000 fellow citizens listened to him. Several millions had the chance to see him, and apparently everyone wanted to see him, from those who thronged the streets of the cities and towns where he stopped, to those who came to the railside or stood at little flag stations in remote places, knowing their only reward could be a fleeting glimpse and a wave of the hand.

He has met and talked to all types of citizens—to men big in the business, financial and professional worlds, to farmers and mechanical workers, to Indians and cowboys and foreign-born herdsmen and rangers, to soldiers and to mothers who lost soldier-sons in the late war.

What do they all tell him? Unanimously they say they want peace definitely settled, they want no more wars, they want the League of Nations, and most of the American people, it may be fairly said, tell the President they want the League just as it is, without the reservations or amendments which certain senators have insisted upon. The majority of citizens say to those who interview them on this tour:

"Woodrow Wilson guided us rightly before and during the war with Germany. We entered that war, everyone agrees, to end all wars. He says the league can do that. We want to do that, so let us keep on trusting him and get the league into operation as soon as possible. Forget politics."

Most Americans encountered on the tour have forgotten politics. Republican Governors and Mayors have introduced the President to his audience; the Major part of the local committees which have met him have been Republicans. They have all said: "We are nothing but Americans, Mr. President."

Mr. Wilson's arguments for the league, briefly summarized, are those:

There can be no peace, either now or in the future, without it. There can only be a regrouping of nations and a new "Balance of Power," which is certain to lead to war. There can be no war in the future, with the league in existence, because no single nation would defy the united rest of mankind, and if it did, it could be brought to terms by an economic boycott, and without the use of arms.

There can be no reduction in the cost of living until the league is established, for nations will not go ahead with peace time production until they know that peace is definitely assured and that production of war material is no longer necessary.

There can be wonderful prosperity with the league in existence, for relations of labor and capital all over the world will be made closer and more friendly, and the worker will receive a fairer share of what he produces.

These declarations of the president, logically and eloquently put, have left his hearers thinking and thinking deeply. And then Mr. Wilson has pointed out, the people themselves, a differentiation from senators and politicians, seem to want just what the president wants, which is America for leadership.

Quite as unusual as the purpose of the cross country tour is the manner in which it is being carried out and the completeness of the arrangements on the nine car train, which is bearing the party.

At the rear is the private car Mayflower, occupied by the President and Mrs. Wilson. Next is a compartment car for the secretary Tumulty, Admiral Grayson, Mr. Wilson's Physician, four stenographers, the chief executive clerk and seven secret service men. Beyond are three compartment cars which house twenty-one correspondents, five movie men, and a telegraphic and a railroad expert.

Then there is a dinner, a club car, and two baggage cars, one of them converted into a business office. The train was exactly on time at every stop between Washington and the Coast.

Clothes are higher priced

--- all of them, good or bad. The poor ones cost about the same as the good ones---not much difference any more.

Here's some good advice; take it from us: don't try to "beat the game" and pay the lowest price; you'll get poor quality; the clothes won't last and your "high cost of clothing" will go up several notches.

Here's the right way; get good quality; pay for it; the wear and service you get saves for you and reduces the H. C. L.

The NATIONAL PARKS ASSOCIATION

By John Dickinson Sherman

ROCKY MOUNTAIN NATIONAL PARK SCENES

FRANKLIN K. LANE SECRETARY OF INTERIOR

CHARLES D. WALCOTT SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

THE National Parks association is something "new under the sun," despite the dictum of the adage. It is organized by unofficial friends of the national parks to enter a field of the national park movement which it is not the function of the federal government to occupy. This national park movement is the liveliest cause which is not primarily a cause growing out of the great war. Our entrance into war in 1917 caused temporary postponement of the plans then well under way for the organization of this association. In its place the National Parks Educational committee was formed to hold the ground already gained and to organize the association at a propitious time. The committee has done its work and the National Parks association is now doing business, with headquarters in the Union Trust building, Washington, D. C.

The purpose of the association is splendidly patriotic. Wholly independent of the federal government, it will closely co-operate with the national park service, the new bureau of the department of the interior established by congress to administer the national parks.

It is nonpolitical and one of its purposes is to keep politics out of the national parks.

It stands for the outdoor life, for recreation amid scenic beauty; for "See America First;" for the development of the national parks as great economic assets of the nation; for keeping billions of American dollars at home—before the war something like $500,000,000 a year was spent by American tourists abroad in sightseeing, of which Switzerland alone got more than $200,000,000.

Yet, notwithstanding these many activities, the main purpose of the association is educational. It says to the people of the nation who are to use these public playgrounds:

"Do you know that our national parks are nature's great laboratories and museums—that the splendid spectacles which our national parks present are not only 'wonders,' not merely 'scenery,' but also the conspicuous exhibits of a passing stage in the eternal progress of creation—that they show us, upon a mighty scale, the processes by which she has been and is making America—that you may double your pleasure in these spectacles by comprehending their meaning and that an intelligent study of them will introduce you to a new and wonderful world? Let us know America, and let us really know it. Let us know its natural as well as its national history. Let us differentiate and distinguish and appreciate. Then only shall we know."

The purposes of the National Parks association may therefore be concisely summed up thus:

To interpret the natural sciences which are illustrated in the scenic features, flora and fauna of the national parks and monuments, and circulate popular information concerning them in text and picture.

To encourage the popular study of the history, exploration, tradition and folk lore of the national parks and monuments.

To encourage art with national parks subjects, and the literature of national parks travel, wild life and wilderness living and the interpretation of scenery.

To encourage the extension of the national parks system to represent by consistently great examples the full range of American scenery, flora and fauna, yet confined to areas of significance so extraordinary that they shall make the name national park an American trademark in the competition for the world's travel; and the development of the national monuments into a system illustrative of the range of prehistoric civilization, early exploration and history, land forms, American forest type, wild life, etc.

To enlist the personal services of individuals and the co-operation of societies, organizations, schools, universities, and institutions in the cause of the national parks and monuments.

The National Parks Educational committee consisted of 25 members. Charles D. Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, was chairman. The vice chairman was William Kent, former congressman from California and the donor of Muir Woods National monument to the nation. Henry B. F. Macfarland of Washington was chairman of the executive committee and the secretary was R. S. Yard of the national park service.

Among the outdoor men were Belmore Browne, explorer, author and artist; Henry G. Bryant, explorer and president of the Geographical society of Philadelphia; William E. Colby, president of the Sierra club; George Bird Grinnell of the Boone and Crockett club and Glacier National park pioneer; George D. Pratt, president of the Camp Fire club, and Charles Sheldon, explorer, hunter and author.

The American Game Protective and Propagation association and the American Bison society were represented by their presidents, John B. Burnham and Edmund Seymour. George F. Kunz, president of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation society, was a member. The colleges contributed W. W. Atwood, department of physiography at Harvard; President John H. Finley of the University of the State of New York; E. M. Lehnerts, department of geology of the University of Minnesota and a pioneer in national parks classes. Others well known were Arthur E. Bestor, president of the Chautauqua institution; Dr. J. Walter Fewkes, chief of the bureau of American ethnology; LaVerne W. Noyes, president of the board of trustees of the Chicago Academy of Sciences, and Mrs. John Dickinson Sherman, conservation chairman of the General Federation of Women's clubs (the only woman).

This personnel assures the co-operation of many public-spirited organizations, popular and learned, from the beginning. The officers of the association are: President, Henry B. F. Macfarland of Washington, D. C. Vice presidents, Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university; John Mason Clarke, chairman of geology and paleontology, National Academy of Sciences; William Kent of California; Henry Suzzallo, president of the University of the state of Washington. Treasurer, Charles J. Bell, president of the American Security and Trust company of Washington. Executive secretary, R. S. Yard. Chairman ways and means committee, Huston Thompson.

Congress conceives the national parks as concrete possessions of the people. As such, it provides for the protection, maintenance and development of the parks. What use the people will make of them is for the people to determine.

Here, then, is where the National Parks association finds its work. It is, in effect, an organization of the people themselves to enable them to use effectively the magnificent reservations which congress creates and the national parks service maintains and develops.

It will be seen that, while the functions of the governmental bureau and the popular association do not overlap, they are nevertheless intimately associated. In a practical way the two are partners, each with its individual duties, both working toward a common end.

To emphasize this individuality, the National Parks association is entirely separate and distinct from government. The association is nongovernmental and nonpartisan.

The association purposes to be of use to its members. It will, among other things, issue a series of beautifully and usefully illustrated popular-science papers upon the scenery and the wild life of the national parks and monuments; issue bulletins reporting national parks development, state and other movements affecting national parks, progress of significant bills before congress, and the progress of association activities; place members' names on bureau lists to receive new government publications concerning national parks and popular science; keep members informed concerning new books on American travel, exploration, archaeological research, plant and animal life, and the meaning of scenery; refer travel and route inquiries from members to that governmental or other agency, railroad, or automobile association, which will give each inquiry the kind of attention it needs.

The association has prepared an elaborate plan of popularizing natural science through universities and schools, public libraries, writers and lecturers and artists, and motion picture activities. A feature of its work will be the assembling of material by intensively studying the parks, through committees, separately and as a system, especially their history, nomenclature, folklore, geology, fauna and flora; by collecting this material in ready reference shape as the basis of a practical library; by compiling a working bibliography, by park and subject, of material of every sort available especially in the library of congress and the scientific libraries of the government departments.

The association will establish volunteer working committees of scientists, professors, students and other public-spirited members, and will utilize, as far as possible, the machinery already established and in operation by university and school organizations, state and county educational organizations, state park organizations, scientific institutions, the national government, public-spirited organizations of all sorts, automobile and highway associations, business organizations, like railroads, automobile manufacturers and national parks concessioners, whose business will be helped by the work of the National Parks association.

The executive committee is assured of one subscription of $5,000; it is planned to secure five-year pledges amounting to a minimum of $10,000 a year. It also expects at least 3,000 members at $3 a year.

The association already reports results. The University of the City of New York has prepared sets of national parks lantern slides. The University of Minnesota has been sending study classes to the national parks for two years; Chicago sends one to Rocky Mountain National park this summer and Columbia will send one next year. Columbia has also included a lecture course on the meaning of scenery in this season's summer school. A prominent studio has arranged film stories to show how glaciers work on Mount Rainier, how the Grand canyon was cut; how water carved the Yosemite valley, etc.

If well handled, the National Parks association, with a large membership, may do a great work; it has a large field and a great opportunity. It may even succeed in forcing congress to adopt a consistent park policy. About 500,000 people now visit the national parks every year and the increase promises to be very large. There is, therefore, a body of national parks enthusiasts numbering several millions.

While the association is organized on a nonpolitical basis, it will presumably have to go into politics to accomplish its ends, since the agricultural department is waging a campaign to secure the control of the national parks from the interior department and is setting up the national forests and the forest service as scenic and recreation rivals of the national parks and the national parks service. Also, in its plans to increase the national parks system it will encounter both the open and secret opposition of the forest service, the biggest and smoothest running political machine in the United States.

Fourteen-Sided Structure Is Novel, But Convenient.

IS YEAR OF FARM BUILDING

The Design Shown Here Is Intended to House Sheep, Horses and Cattle —Modern Buildings Good Investment.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building work on the farm, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD. With wool at the present price and the likelihood that it will stay there because of the world-wide shortage, thousands of American farmers are adding flocks of sheep to the live stock on their places. And in so doing there has come a need for buildings to house them.

Raising lambs and keeping a flock of sheep in a healthy condition requires more care than in accomplishing the same result with other farm animals. Sheep, and especially lambs, are very susceptible to weather conditions, and frequently a rainy spell will cause a considerable loss. While sheep must have plenty of pasture in which to run and feed, they also must have a place to shelter them, for they certainly "know enough to come in when it rains." Besides the feed the flock gets from the pasture, it is necessary also to provide them with roughage, which usually is placed in specially designed feed racks. Most of this feeding is done indoors by those who have been successful in sheep raising.

Farm building architects, whose business it is to design buildings to suit the needs of various kinds of animals, have taken the needs of sheep into consideration in planning the sheep barn. But there are many farmers who would keep a small flock of sheep, if they could do so without making a large investment in buildings. For the latter class there has been planned the barn shown in the accompanying illustration.

This fourteen-sided barn is 60 feet in diameter and has a 12-foot silo in the center. On the mow floor around the silo there is ample space for the winter's supply of hay for the animals the building will accommodate, while the silo furnishes them with fresh feed throughout the winter months.

The exterior of the barn is attractive and will add to the appearance of the farm building group. It is of frame construction set on a concrete foundation. The half of the interior which is devoted to stalls for the horses and cattle has a concrete floor, graded so as to provide ample drainage to keep the floor dry, a thing the sheep must have.

The stalls for horses and cows or for either of them are placed in a semi-circle, the animals to face in. At the rear of the stalls is a gutter sunk into the concrete floor, and overhead is a carrier track for the removal of litter. The track also runs over the head of the stalls, which makes the feeding of the stock easy, and extends around the building over the sheep feeding racks. The plan of the floor shows the placing of the stalls, the sheep feed racks and the overhead carrier system. The feed racks are movable and can be constructed by the carpenters who build the barn. While they are placed under the carrier track for convenience, they can be transferred out doors, in good weather and taken into the barn in bad.

The stalls will accommodate fourteen horses or cattle and provide them with the comforts that these animals need to do their best work, or to be at the highest state of productivity. The windows admit plenty of sunshine and keep fresh air circulating through the barn. These are two essentials if the animals are to be kept healthy, especially the cows.

The construction of farm buildings, homes, barns, hog houses, granaries, chicken houses and the smaller buildings the modern farmer wants and needs, has undergone many radical changes during the last few years. Architects have made an intensive study of the requirements in a building to make it a healthful place for the livestock, and have embodied the results of this study in the designs for these structures. The prospective builder will make no mistake in consulting an experienced architect when he plans to erect any sort of a new farm building. From the architect and from the contractor and material dealer can be gained some valuable pointers.

Poor farm buildings are a bad investment. If they are to house the livestock they must be so equipped and so planned as to keep the animals producing at top speed, or the profit, at the present prices of feed and labor, will be lost. Labor, too, is a big expense item on the farm nowadays, and by installing in the barn a litter carrier and other conveniences less time is required to care for the livestock and more time can be devoted to the work in the fields. Besides, labor saving equipment tends to make the help more contented to remain on the farm, which is a point the progressive farmer is not overlooking. This is the year of farm building. The farmer's business has become one of the most important in the scheme of existence, and, likewise, one of the most profitable, if it is conducted efficiently and economically. And there is nothing that brings about this happy result more than well-built, well-planned and modern buildings. While the cost in money this year is more than it was during the years preceding the war, some bright mind has figured out that when the price of buildings is figured in terms of farm products it is much less. In other words it requires fewer bushels of wheat, corn or oats, or less of any other of the things produced on the farm to build a barn or a home than it did three or four years ago. And as the cost of everything is relative, the farmer has no cause to hesitate if he needs a new farm building.

Cities Go West. Henry Watterson says cities have a strange tendency to move west. He do, writes "Guard" in the Philadelphia Press.

Europe's three largest cities, London, Paris and Berlin, have distinctly moved west from their original centers. Tokyo, which is Japan's biggest city, and Canton, the metropolis of China, Calcutta for years the capital of India, and Cairo, the largest city of Africa, shifted westward.

South America's two principal cities, Rio Janeiro and Buenos Aires, couldn't well move East and they grew inland, as did Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Chicago.

New York expanded north and east, as it couldn't leap the Hudson on the west.

If you examine the records of Pennsylvania's chief cities, you will find that the center of population in most of them has traveled toward the setting and not the rising sun.

Vegetation Carried Far. Evidence of possible long-distance plant dispersion could doubtless be picked up on many coasts. N. Colgan reports to the Royal Irish academy that for two centuries observers have been finding tropical seeds along the Atlantic coast of Ireland from Donegal to Kerry Head, and it is concluded that these have come from the West Indies without human aid.

Eight species of fruits and seeds have been recognized—all native or naturalized in the West Indies and known to be capable of floating on the water at least a year.

Lift off Corns!

Doesn't hurt a bit and Freezone costs only a few cents.

With your fingers! You can lift off any hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the hard skin calluses from bottom of feet.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon the corn or callus. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callus right off, root and all, without one bit of pain or soreness. Truly! No humbug!

Sudden riches spoil many a good workman.

WHEN KIDNEYS ACT TOO OFTEN

If bothered with that form of kidney trouble which causes too frequent or excessive passage of urine, don't expect relief from medicines that are intended for common kidney complaint. These remedies generally are intended to increase kidney action.

Liquid Shu Make should always be used where the kidneys are over active during the day or at night. It is not a cure for all forms of kidney trouble, but is intended for over-activity of the kidneys of both children and adults alike, especially for children bothered with kidney action at night.

Ask any druggist for Liquid Shu Make or enclose sixty cents to the Shumake Remedy Company, Fort Worth, Texas, for a bottle by return mail.—Adv.

You Do More Work,
You are more ambitious and you get more enjoyment out of everything when your blood is in good condition. Impurities in the blood have a very depressing effect on the system, causing weakness, laziness, nervousness and sickness.

GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC is not a patent medicine, it is simply IRON and QUININE suspended in Syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs Quinine to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. These reliable tonic properties never fail to drive out impurities in the blood.

The Strength-Creating Power of GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC has made it the favorite tonic in thousands of homes. More than thirty-five years ago, folks would ride a long distance to get GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC when a member of their family had Malaria or needed a body-building, strength-giving tonic. The formula is just the same today, and you can get it from any drug store. 60c per bottle.

ROAD BUILDING

MEET DEMANDS OF TRAFFIC

Construction of Freak Highways Should Be Stopped—Permanency Should Be Sought.

J. J. Hill, in a speech in Minneapolis, January 23, 1910, said: "If the problem of the railroad terminals be neglected for the next five years as it has for the last ten, it will blight every form of activity by paralyzing the whole trade."

W. C. Brown, president of the New York Central lines, said November 5, 1912: "If cars are kept in motion at the average speed of freight trains at present time, they would make on the average four times the mileage they do now. The trouble is the cars, as a rule, are held longer to load and unload than the time involved in the actual movement of the cars"—that is, the terminal had the railroad by the throat and was choking three-quarters of its efficiency out of it. The prediction of Hill was absolutely correct. A period of acute congestion in railroad transportation had already set in.

and would have gone to the bitter end of paralyzing every form of activity had not the motor truck, which had no terminals, gone to the rescue. Now at this time, May 1, 1910, another thing has got the motor truck by the throat and is choking three-quarters of its efficiency out of it.

This time it is the dime museum freak construction of our so-called good roads, not by tying up the motor truck as the locomotive was tied up in the terminal, but by knocking it and its trailers to pieces, thus cutting short the life of the rolling stock, as well as making it move slower and with not over one-quarter of a load over the imperfect surfaces, increasing the cost of motor-truck transportation way beyond what it ought to be for what the motor truck does, as well as limiting the amount it can do away down below the normal, writes Frederic J. Nash, in New York World. Had these roads been properly constructed they would have gone to the stock exchanges and been bought and sold there, like every other kind of transportation securities.

As it is, they have gone to pieces and left the bondholders, the states, counties and townships, their hands on their heads and only a scrap heap of bad roads to show for them. These freak roads, had they been offered on the stock exchanges with only themselves as security would not have sold for one cent on the dollar. They are built on the credit of the states, counties and townships through which they passed. This at the rate of two hundred millions of dollars per year.

A speed of 150 miles an hour on the beach at Daytona, Fla., was made last Lincoln's birthday, a rate of speed which the locomotive has never been able to reach. Anything beyond a three-ton truck load is more than a freak highway can safely carry, while the ordinary normal load of the freight car on its railroad is 50 tons. If these few things could be combined in the highway—absence of terminals, a rate of speed beyond that of the railroad, a freight-carrying tonnage equal to that of the railroad, a cost of the upkeep less than that of the railroad, this would multiply our present means of transportation seven or eight times and give this country a prosperity during the next dozen years such as we have never even dreamed of. We want to change our form of highway construction over night and put our highway securities on the stock exchanges and not our highways on the dump heap. Highway stocks and bonds based on the value of this properly-constructed highway will pay a higher rate of interest than the railroads ever have, for it will do much more work.

Good Roads in Arizona.
Assisted by national and forest service appropriations, the state of Arizona and its 14 counties have started upon a road improvement program expected to consume at least $10,000,000.

Bond Issue Is Answer.
Few communities, except those having large cities in them with a resulting high valuation, can afford a modern system of highways and pay as they go. The only other alternative is to issue bonds.

Roller-Skating in Business.
Roller-skating, once indulged in only for pleasure, has now become an important accomplishment in many business houses. Several large mail-order houses in both Chicago and New York require office boys to know how to get about on skates, giving them a carefully worked-out route between the different departments.

HOME TOWN HELPS

FREE PLANS FOR DWELLINGS

United States Housing Corporation's Scheme to Assist Own-Your-Own-Home Committees.

The fact that plans for dwellings, prepared by the United States Housing Corporation during war time for various government projects, are to be made available for general public use by the own-your-own-home section, information and education service, United States department of labor, will serve to stimulate the interest of women in all parts of the country in this movement.

Several types of houses have been selected, and the plans for these will be given to own-your-own-home committees which are now carrying on campaigns in more than 40 cities. These plans are for dwellings that will best serve the needs of average families. Beauty and utility have been combined in the most practical manner and the plans are capable of many variations. It is explained that the purpose is not to interfere in any way with the work of local architects by thus providing government plans, free of cost, but it is expected that when the estimates in widely separated states are compiled the information will be of value to prospective home owners, while it will afford comparisons of the varying cost of construction in many parts of the United States. The employment of local architects is advocated.

Requests that local own-your-own-home campaigns be started without delay were sent out by the United States department of labor to 400 cities. Letters were addressed to mayors, labor organizations and the clergy, as well as to clubs and other associations that have expressed willingness to aid the campaigns. While there are now 40 cities conducting well-advanced own-your-own-home campaigns, nearly 200 others have started the work of stimulating building.

SEES NEED FOR ZONING LAW

Writer Points Out Why Exclusively Residence Districts Should Be Afforded Proper Protection.

Chicago is asking the Illinois legislature for a zoning law—a law that will permit cities in Illinois to say what part shall be reserved for residence purposes. This is a thing that every city in the country has some interest in because it is a step in the right direction, asserts the Davenport Times. There must be factory and commercial districts, of course, and there must also be residence districts. But it isn't fair to a man who has developed a residence property, beautified the grounds, and arranged the house to suit him, to have all of sudden, some sort of business concern established next door, to the detriment of his home. Every city in the country has numerous examples of just that sort of thing. Restricting residence property is going to become more and more the thing as the years go by. We have a few districts in Davenport that are thus protected, but there are many other districts where the people who own homes have no protection at all from the possibility of undesirable construction and business enterprises on the lots next door.

Building a House for Sunshine.

One of the problems of modern city planning is to get sunshine. For example, to quote a Canadian city planner propounding what almost sounds like a conundrum: "How shall a detached building be constructed and oriented so that not only the exterior wall surfaces, but also the surface of the ground around them shall have the direct rays of the sun for as long a time as possible on December 21?" The problem, it appears, can be worked out, and has been. In the case of at least one town, in which each house, and even each building in the business section, is a solution of this technical problem. It appears also that the way not to do it is to follow the long established custom of many builders in the north temperate zone and square the walls of the building with the points of the compass. The town that gets all possible sunlight has no north and south or east and west streets, and the walls of its structures stand at various angles with the weather vane, if there is one, on the church steeple.

Own a Home.

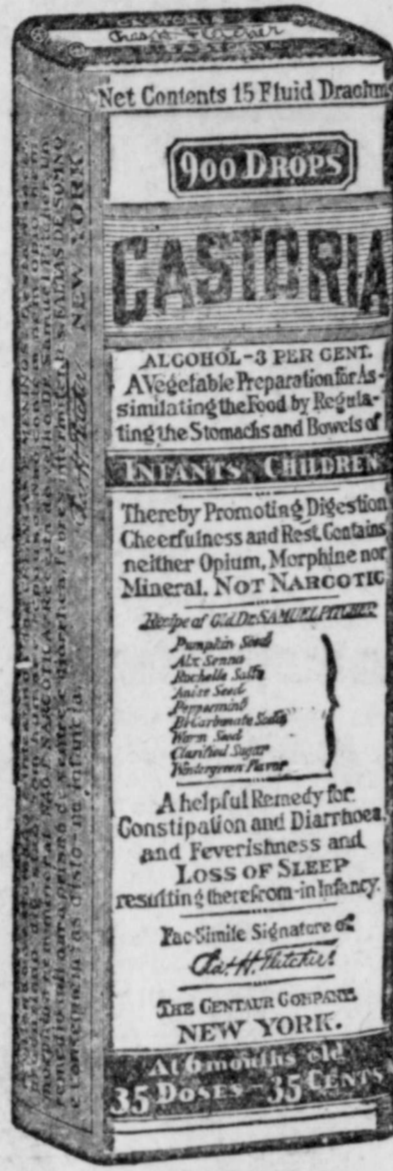

The ownership of homes makes for the spirit of co-operation for the good of the community, based upon full appreciation of the fact that no man's real success can be built upon the failure of those around him. Of the lasting impressions that one gains upon going to a new town are the character of its inhabitants and the character of the houses that they live in.

Imitations Are Dangerous.

AN OHIO druggist writes to "The Practical Druggist," a prominent New York Drug Journal, as follows: "Please furnish formula for Castoria. All the formulas I have worked with are either ineffective or disagreeable to administer."

To this "The Practical Druggist" replies: "We do not supply formulas for proprietary articles. We couldn't if we wanted to. Your experience with imitative formulas is not surprising, but just what is to be expected. When Castoria is wanted, why not supply the genuine? If you make a substitute, it is not fair or right to label it Castoria. We can give you all sorts of laxative preparations for children, but not Castoria, and we think a mother who asks for Castoria would not feel kindly toward you if you gave her your own product under such a name."

No mother with a spark of affection for her child will overlook the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher when buying Castoria.

Exact Copy of Wrappers.

Children Cry For

Mothers Must Use Care.

Why do we so often call your attention to imitations of Fletcher's Castoria? Because it is a baby's medicine and imitations are always dangerous, particularly imitations of a remedy for infants.

Your druggist may not keep an imitation but they are to be found on drug-store shelves. Reliable druggists think only of the welfare of their customers. The other kind only of the greater profit to be made on imitations.

Your own judgment tells you that Fletcher's Castoria having for over thirty years at great expense held up its reputation, must jealously guard it. Then, it follows that this company must use the very best of material. Must employ experts in the selection of the herbs. Must retain skilled chemists in its manufacture.

Your same good judgment must tell you that these irresponsible imitators are trading on your credulity and the reputation built up by Mr. Fletcher, during all these years, for his Castoria.

Laying the Trap.

Our first job was executed much more easily than I had anticipated. We caught Manuel sound asleep, and LeVeré had sneaky hands at his throat before the fellow could grasp a weapon. The narrowness of the stateroom prevented my taking much part in the affair, but the mulatto needed no help, as he dragged the cursing Spaniard from his bunk to the deck and throttled him savagely. Indeed he would have killed the fellow had I not interfered and twisted his hands loose, leaving Estevan barely conscious. A blanket ripped into strips served to bind him securely enough for the present, but I thought it best to lock the door, and keep the key in my own pocket. LeVeré would have knifed him even as he lay there helpless, but for my threat and insistence. Once back in the cabin my eyes distinguished the frightened face of the steward peering forth at us from out the dark of the passage leading forward.

"Come here, Gunsauls," I said sternly. "Step lively, lad; there's nothing for you to fear. Senor Estada has been killed during the night, and we have just captured his murderer." I explained. "There is reason to believe this act was part of a conspiracy to seize the ship in connection with those fellows amidships. Does that passage lead to their quarters?"

"It did once, senior, but now there is a closed door of oak, studded with iron, not only locked, but barred on this side. There are but two keys—one for the captain and the other for him who commands the buccaners."

I stood there a moment, considering this information. The only way the mutineers could reach the cabin then would be from the deck, descending through the companion. So long as they remained unaware of the capture of Manuel there was little danger of their taking such action.

"Very well, steward," I said. "You go on about your work as though nothing had happened. If any word of this affair gets to the crew, or to those fellows forward, I'll hold you responsible. You are not to leave this cabin without my permission, nor speak to anyone. LeVeré."

The mulatto faced me respectfully enough, and I had a feeling he would obey orders, largely because he dare not rebel.

"They will be wondering why you are not on deck. It will be better for you to take charge of the watch at once, and keep the men busy. Believe me, Watkins, at the wheel and send the man down to me. He can choose the fellows who will stick better than you could, and then can circulate among them without arousing suspicion."

Watkins soon shuffled down the steps. He whipped off his cap and stood waiting.

I put my hand on his shoulder. "Tom," I said soberly, "we are in the same boat, and understand each other. The chance has come for both of us, if we play the cards right. Listen while I tell you the situation, and what I plan doing."

I told it briefly, wasting no words, yet relating every fact. He listened eagerly, but without interruption until the end.

"What do you make of it?" I asked. "About what you do, sir. I knew there was something of the kind going on—some of the men forward are in on it. You've got the ring-leader."

"Manuel, you mean. Who did he count on for help in the forecastle?"

"Cochose, and a handful of others, niggers and Spaniards, mostly. They meant to pull the affair off either today or tonight. Your plan gives us a fair chance, sir. A dozen good men on deck might do the business."

"But are there a dozen aboard to be trusted?"

"Well, yes sir. I rather think there are. I'd say that in both watches there's maybe fourteen to be relied on."

"In my watch there's Jones, Harwood and Simms, either English or Welsh. They're all right. Then there's a nigger named Sam; Schmitt, a Dutchman, with his partner, whose name I don't know, and two Frenchies, Ravel and Pierre. That makes eight, nine counting myself. Then in the starboard watch I'd pick out Jim Carter and Joe Cole, two Swedes, Carlson and Ole Hallin, and another nigger. Then there are a couple of Finns who ought to be with us, but I can't talk their lingo. That would give us sixteen out of thirty, and it's quite likely some of the others would take a snuff. I haven't any use though, sir, for Francis LeVeré. There ain't a worse scamp aboard."

"I know that," I admitted, "but he had to be used."

"And what is my part now?"

"This is my watch below, and it will be best for me to keep off the deck until all is prepared. You sound these men and get them together; wake up the ones in the starboard watch you feel sure are all right, and have them slip quietly on deck. Then we'll get these arms in the rack here, and be ready for business—the rest will be done in a hurry. I'll wait here for your report."

At the very best Watkins could scarcely perform the task assigned him in less than an hour. The success or failure of our effort depended entirely upon taking these fellows by complete surprise. If it came to an open fight our cause was hopeless, for that would mean fourteen or fifteen men unarmed, pitted against over a hundred thoroughly equipped and trained fighters. Only by confining them below, with hatches battened down, and a carrouse trained upon them, would we be safe.

I sat where I could watch the stairs, and the entire forward part of the cabin. Gunsauls lowered the table, and began preparing the morning meal. Finally he announced breakfast.

"Suppose you rap on the lady's door yonder, and ask if she will join me. Say your message is from Senor Gates."

She came at once and seated herself opposite me, and we spoke of the weather while Gunsauls served. He was still hovering about, but my anxiety to have a word with her alone caused me to send him to attend Captain Sanchez. We waited until he disappeared within the after stateroom, bearing a tray; then her eyes suddenly lifted to mine, filled with questioning.

"Tell me what has happened?" She breathed eagerly. "I heard the noise of a struggle out here, and voices conversing. Why are you alone?"

I leaned over to speak in as low a tone as possible. And I told her the situation in detail and my plans.

She sat silently gazing at me across the table, her parted lips trembling an unasked question. Before she could frame this in words, the door to the companion opened, and Watkins descended the stairs. At sight of her he whipped off his cap.

"You may speak freely," I said. "This is the young lady I told you about, and of course she is with us. Only talk low."

"Yes, sir," using a hoarse whisper, and fastening his gaze on me. "It's all right, sir."

The Deck Is Ours.

I had the next step carefully outlined in my own mind, and yet I hesitated a moment, glancing into the two faces before me, with a sudden realization of what the contemplated action would mean to all of us, if by any chance it should fail of success. I managed to speak cheerfully, putting a ring of confidence into my voice.

"Then the sooner we act the better. Watkins, have LeVeré order these men aft. Let him say that Senor Estada wishes them to break out some stores in the lazaret. They need be here only long enough for us to distribute these arms among them, and for me to speak a word of instruction to them."

"But have I no part? Is there no way in which I can help?" asked the girl.

"You have your pistol? Then remain here. I shall have to go on deck with the men, and will not dare leave them a moment until the ship is absolutely secure. Manuel is locked in that stateroom, but must not be communicated with by anyone. It will be your part to see that Gunsauls neither enters that passage leading amidships, nor approaches this door. Keep him in sight. You will save us a man. Wait here now until I see how securely this passage forward is closed."

It was as described to me—a heavy oaken door, half studded, not only locked, but held firmly in place by a stout iron bar. There was not the faintest possibility of any entrance aft, except through assistance from this side. As I returned to the cabin, Gunsauls came out of the captain's room and crossed the deck. At sight of me he stopped instantly.

"Gunsauls," I said, "you are to remain in this cabin until I give the word. The lady here has a pistol, and orders to shoot if you attempt to either enter this passage, or approach the door of Manuel's stateroom. How did you find Sanchez?"

"Sitting up in his bunk, senior, and able to eat."

"Does he know what is occurring or about?"

"No, senior. He questioned me, but I only told him everything was all right, so far."

In my heart I believed the fellow deliberately lied, but there was no opportunity to question him further, for at that moment the door of the companion opened and a miscellaneous group of men thronged down the stairs. They were a rough hairy lot, here and there a sturdy English countenance meeting my gaze, but the faces were largely foreign, with those of two negroes conspicuous.

"Twelve here, sir; I couldn't get Harwood down from the foretop," said Watkins.

"And there are others below who will join us?"

"Yes, sir; six more I count on."

"Which means lads, that with Harwood, Senor LeVeré, and myself, we'll total twenty-one in this shindy. Now I'll tell you what is up. Watkins gave you some of it no doubt, but a word from me will make it clearer. I'm no pirate; I'm an English sailor, shanghaied. Estada named me first officer because I understand navigation."

I stopped speaking, staring at one of the faces before me; all at once it appeared familiar. "What is your name, man?"

"Jim Carter, sir."

"You were on the Sinbad, three years ago?"

"I was that, Mister Carlyle," he answered grinning. "I know'd you the minute I cum down here."

"Then that is all I need say on that line. Here's one of your mates, lads, who will vouch for me. Now, as I've been told, you are all of you in the same boat—you are prisoners on board. Luck has given us a chance to make a break, and get away. Captain Sanchez is wounded and helpless. Pedro Estada is dead, and I've got Manuel locked in that stateroom. His cut-throats are all below, and now all we've got to do is clap on the hatch and keep them there. Now, what I want to know is are you fellows with me?"

Watkins answered promptly; then Carter; the others joining in with less heartiness, the different accents revealing their nationalities. I knew sailors well enough to feel assured they would follow their leaders once the game started.

"That's good enough; now we've got to hit hard and quick, lads. There are six men on deck who are not with us. Watkins will take care of them with those fellows I don't assign to other work. Jones, you and Carter make straight for the forecastle and don't let anyone come up the scuttle. One of you had better drop down below, and prevent any of these lads from unbaring the door leading amidships. Who is the best for that job?"

"Let Carlson do it."

"All right—Carlson it is then. You Frenchmen, and the two negroes, your part w light."

"I'll soon a

you boys will handle those better than firearms. Good; now are you all ready?"

There was a low murmur of voices, the faces watching me showing their increasing excitement and eagerness. Our little talk had served to arouse their confidence in my leadership, and with gleaming weapons in their hands they became self-reliant volunteers. Once turned loose my greatest difficulty might be to restrain them, rather than urge them on. Revenge for past wrongs was in each heart, and they welcomed a chance to strike.

I whispered a parting word of admonition into the ear of Dorothy, receiving in return a glance from her eyes, which gave a new throb to my heart; then straightened up, and pistol in hand, pushed my way through the throng of sailors to the foot of the stairs.

"Follow me, lads," I said quietly. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

Celtic Isle.

The smallest dependency of France is the Ile d'Hoëlle, situated at the east of Belle Isle. Its population is 228. The people do not speak French, but Celtic. Fishing is the principal industry, and all the inhabitants are provided with food at an inn managed by the women. The town has no streets. The houses are mostly of mud,

Rubberized Silks in Bathing Suits

Looking over the newest things in bathing suits one might easily conclude that fair bathers object to getting wet and only go into the water to get cool, or to be "in the swim" with their sister bathers. What they really object to (unless they possess Venus de Medici figures) is the way in which bathing togs cling and stick and the somewhat bedraggled appearance they are likely to make when they come out of the water. Nothing escapes the notice of the keen manufacturers of bathing togs and they have met this situation with suits on the order of that shown in the picture.

Rubberized silk in rose color is used to make the shapely and modest over-dress in this suit and it is trimmed with black and white checkerboard bands that give it a lot of snap. The long-waisted body is gathered into a wide flat band with the fullness brought to the sides and the skirt is managed in the same way, so that even bathing suits take note of the wider hips that are indicated in styles for fall.

The knickers for this suit are made of black satin and a vestee of the same material in the overdress bears them company. Black silk stockings and black sateen slippers take care of the feet in an effective but inconspicuous fashion, while a gay little four-cornered cap of rose colored rubber cloth puts a pretty finishing touch to the outfit. As no one aspires to a deep coat of tan this year, a black and white striped parasol lends its aid to face creams to keep the face and neck from too much sunburn.

Rubberized silks in brilliant colors have been used in much more elaborate beach clothes than this very sensible suit, and even for those who prefer silk or wool in their swimming clothes, mantles and capes of rubberized silk prove slightly for wear on the beach and for the walk to and from it.

Pile Fabrics Popular

The prophecy that, when the price of a pile fabric clashes with that of a fair quality fur, the latter is preferred, does not seem to be borne out in the operations of the cloak manufacturers for fall. Pile fabrics in the most expensive makes are proving so popular with the buyers that it is estimated the supply is going to fall far short of the demand. The pile fabric makers believe that the most important reason for this successful competition of their product with fur is that the imitation has reached a stage where it is difficult to tell the difference between it and the real thing. Another reason ascribed is the better wearing quality of the artificial fur.

Wash Colored Embroidery. Best way to bleach white goods colored embroidery (such as) and other articles which cancelled for fear the color will to wash them and then dry the shade. Put them in an aw-case which has been dipped strong bluing water and thoroughly dried. Then hang the case, with the embroidered articles inside, in the light for several days. They will be perfectly white and the colored embroidery will not be one bit faded.

Look After the Smoothing Iron. After the temper of a smoothing iron is spoiled it will never retain the heat so well again. Therefore never let irons stand on the stove when there is a hot fire unless they are in constant use, and do not allow them to become over-heated.

When Heating Irons. Turn an old pan or kettle over irons which are being heated and they will get hot much quicker. This also keeps the room cooler.

How to Press Black Lace. To press black lace, sponge with clear water on the right side until quite wet, lay right side down on a black pad, cover with a black cloth and press with a hot iron. When this is done it will be found that the lace is like new.

A New Scheme for Ironing Ribbon. If the ribbon has been washed in gasoline let it get thoroughly aired before pressing. If washed in soap and water, roll in a dry cloth before pressing. Lay several thicknesses of paper on the ironing board, then place one end of the ribbon on the paper, with a piece of brown or white paper on each side. Now press hard with a warm flatiron on the ribbon under the paper, and pull the ribbon all under the flatiron. Then reverse the ends. It requires two persons to successfully press ribbons in this way. The process is very simple, and the ribbon will look as good as when new, and will not lose its stiffness or look glossy, as those ironed the old way.

Big Demand for Skirts. The great retail demand for summer skirts has cleaned out retail stocks and showered the manufacturers with duplicate orders. Flannels and gabardines are among the leaders, although linens and crepes are getting their usual heavy demand. White is most desired, but the pastel shades are attracting more than the usual amount of attention given to colored skirts for the summer. The scarcity of silks and the high prices quoted by jobbers of such material, will turn to other fabrics, it is said, some of the business that would otherwise go to silk numbers.

If a Rug Curis. Rugs that curl on edge or wrinkle in middle have lost their "sizing." Place the rug face down on the floor. Make very thin cooked starch and add a small quantity of powdered gum arabic dissolved in a little water. Apply to back of rug with a paintbrush or a paper hanger's brush. When the rug is dry it will be quite stiff and will lie without curling.

A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Miss Kelly Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Newark, N. J.—"For about three years I suffered from nervous breakdown and got so weak I could hardly stand, and had headaches every day. I tried everything I could think of and was under a physician's care for two years. A girl friend had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she told me about it. From the first day I took it I began to feel better and now I am well and able to do most any kind of work. I have been recommending the Compound ever since and give you my permission to publish this letter."—Miss FLO KELLY, 476 So. 14th St., Newark, N. J.

The reason this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, was so successful in Miss Kelly's case was because it went to the root of her trouble, restored her to a normal healthy condition and as a result her nervousness disappeared.
