

Major Cotton Quality Meeting Set Wednesday

Principles for Improving Cotton Quality will be the theme of a special meeting planned by the Extension Service for Feb. 22 in Lubbock.

Keynote speaker at the session will be Dr. M. K. Horne, Jr., chief economist of the National Cotton Council, Memphis, Tenn. Dr. Horne will be the first speaker when the public meeting gets underway at 9:30 a.m. at the Koko Palace, Ave. Q at 50th here.

SIX OTHERS TO SPEAK
Six other speakers will discuss various segments of producing and marketing quality cotton before the meeting adjourns at 2:30 p.m.

Extension Service District Agent Billy C. Gunter, who planned the cotton quality meeting with county agents and members of their County Program Building Committees, said they felt particularly fortunate in getting Dr. Horne to appear at the meeting.

Horne is recognized as one of the leading cotton economists in the nation, Gunter said. He will speak on the world cotton situation and the demand for quality cotton.

Horne has been an economist with the Cotton Council since 1950. He has served on the Economic Research Advisory Committee to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Other speakers at the meeting are also highly regarded in cotton circles, Gunter said. BLOCK GINNING TO BE EXPLAINED

Dr. Harold Loden, general manager for Paymaster Seeds, Abilene, will give the closing address on the one variety-block ginning concept. He will discuss how this production and handling system can improve cotton quality.

Loden has been a member of the Joint USDA-Industry Cotton Breeding Policy Committee since it was formed in 1954. He was appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture in 1955 as a member of the USDA's Cotton Research Advisory Committee.

RESEARCHER TO DISCUSS GINNING
Ginning for fiber quality preservation will be the topic discussed by Victor L. Stedronsky, of Mesilla Park, New Mexico. Stedronsky has been a cotton ginning researcher for more than 30 years and currently heads the USDA's Southwestern Cotton Ginning Laboratory at Mesilla Park.

His talk is scheduled for 1 p.m.

FOUR LOCAL MEN INCLUDED
Four Lubbock men will also make presentations during the Extension Service meeting.

Local men to speak during the morning session are Dan Davis, general manager of the Plains Cotton Cooperative Association, and Lee McElroy, Lubbock County agricultural agent. Davis will discuss how quality control can help to improve High Plains cotton.

Following Johnson will be Dr. Levon Ray, an associate professor of agronomy with Texas A&M at the South Plains Research and Extension Center. Dr. Ray has titled his speech "The Cotton Variety-Fiber Quality Picture on the South Plains."

Lynn County Agent Bill Griffith is morning chairman and E. M. Trew, Plainview farmer and chairman of the Hale County

Program Building Committee, is the afternoon chairman of the meeting. The cotton quality meet is open to the public. District Agent Gunter says anyone interested in cotton is welcome to attend.

Sponsors of the event are area county agents and members of their County Program Building Committees.

Park Grant Okayed For Alpine Job

Austin -- A $71,195 Federal grant has been approved for Alpine under the Land and Water Conservation Fund Program, according to Will E. Odum, Chairman of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission.

These funds will be matched by Alpine and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department for a total of $142,390 for construction of an outdoor swimming pool at Alpine City Park.

The project includes the swimming pool, a bathhouse, a pump and filter building, a fence, and necessary utilities. Odum said the grant marks the ninth approval of projects submitted by local political subdivisions.

Under the Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund Program for Texas, the government money is prorated 60 percent for State projects and 40 percent for local projects. The program is administered on the Federal level by the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, U.A.'s Department of Interior.

Its funds are derived from the sale of the $7 Golden Eagle Passport and other outdoor recreation fees, the Federal motor boat fuel tax and proceeds from the sale of surplus real property. Odum, who is the State Liaison Officer for the fund, is responsible for reviewing projects and proposals submitted for Federal assistance.

He said the original application was made by Mayor W.E. Lockhart and Dr. John W. O'Donnell, chairman of the Alpine Parks and recreation Department.

George Washington...

He constantly exchanged letters with agricultural experimenters at home and in England and imported plants, shrubs and trees from all over the world. Today at Mount Vernon there are at least 57 trees still standing which were set out by him.

He experimented with clover, rye, timothy and alfalfa to enrich the soil, as early as 1760. He was the first in the country to plant pecan trees. He was one of the few who tried crop rotation at a time when plenty of new land was available. And still he found the time to tinker with several inventions to make planting, harvesting and processing easier on the plantation.

The result? The flour, for one, produced at Mount Vernon was so unusual for its purity and excellence that it was known all over the Americas and Europe.

As a businessman and accountant, Washington was also a tinkerer; in an age when it was necessary to do all correspondence in longhand, he wrote more than 18,000 letters!

Washington also excelled in the field of architecture. This came in quite handy after his return from the Revolutionary War, as he developed a strong desire to enlarge and beautify his estate, Mount Vernon—due, in part, from seeing beautiful homes elsewhere and to contact with cultured people on both sides of the Atlantic. Indeed, many architects after the war consulted Washington—whose eminence in design and building craft is said to have given him much prominence in his day. He drew up plans and specifications with his own hand, ordered stucco, terrazzo and other materials, and almost singlehandedly converted his small house of eight rooms into the highly celebrated and beautiful mansion we know today—with two floors, an attic, an immense cellar and the magnificent portico overlooking the Potomac.

By being one of the very first Americans to use terrazzo flooring, Washington was extending a building tradition that began thousands of years ago with the ancient Egyptians and Romans; a tradition that was to continue with many of the fine public buildings constructed for our nation's capital, Washington, D.C.

The number of guests which found their way to the floors and tables of his home were legion. The General himself called his mansion "a well resorted tavern" because of the steady flow of guests he and his wife found themselves entertaining as the official hosts of the young nation.

Although he has often been depicted by historians as a cold, formal man, Washington was actually congenial and fun-loving with friends and family—shown time and time again by his great hospitality and magnanimous reputation. He loved dancing, parties, the theater and guests—particularly if they were of unusual interest. He is said to have possessed a hot temper, held tightly in check—which he seldom lost, and then only for good cause.

He helped family and friends with gifts and loans, asking only that they not reveal the donor. Admired by all for his great achievements, he could be extremely modest, diffident and almost bashful at times. When he entered the Virginia House of Burgesses, for example, after winning major battles in the French and Indian War, he is said to have blushed crimson at the warm welcome he received.

George Washington was in every respect an American. Most of his early years were spent in the backwoods. He was a farmer, a man who worked with his hands. He gave his young manhood to the Indian Wars, his maturity to the Revolution, his ripe and mellow years to the Presidency.

He was the first person to fire a shot in the French and Indian War, the first American General, the first President of the U.S., and also, "first in peace, first in war, first in the hearts of his countrymen."

Where's The Fire?

Firemen have been getting in some practice fighting grass fires this month, thus far, except for the case of the toaster this has been all on their agenda.

The dry conditions bring about grass fires easily and firemen were called to Muleshoe airport for a grass fire February 3. The following day, grass caught fire on east Highway 84 near the railroad bridge and again on February 9, a grass fire took them to the lot behind the Barron buildings south of the courthouse.

The case of the toaster came about on February 9 when firemen were called to a home in west Muleshoe where a toaster, bent on doing the job well, did just that and filled the house full of smoke.

Mrs. Willie McAlpin and Mrs. A. J. Phillips, former teachers in the Muleshoe Schools, have been chosen to appear in the 1966 edition of "Outstanding Young Women of America."

These young women were nominated by the Muleshoe Branch of American Association of University Women in May 1966, but the organization was not informed of the selections until recently. The purpose of these selections is to recognize and honor outstanding young women and to focus attention on their abilities to get things done.

Mrs. W. V. (Jackie) McAlpin is a 1961 graduate of West Texas State University, Canyon, with a BBA degree. She also has done graduate work at W. T. S. U. and Eastern New Mexico University, Portales. Her teaching experience has been varied, including one semester at Tulla High School, one year in Silverton Public schools, and three years in the Muleshoe Schools.

While teaching, Mrs. McAlpin was an active member of the National Education Association, the Texas State Teachers Association and the Texas Classroom Teachers Association. She served as president of the Muleshoe Classroom Teachers Association during the 1965-1966 school year.

Mrs. McAlpin is a member of the First Methodist Church and has served on the Commission of Education in the church. Presently, she is serving as Secretary of Missionary Education in the Wesleyan Guild; Vice president of A. A. U. W.; Secretary of the Athletic Booster Club; is a member of the Richland Hills P. T. Mrs. Phillips taught the second grade at Mary DeShazo Elementary School for five years 1960-1965. She was an active member in all the professional organizations, Texas Classroom Teachers, Texas State Teachers Association, and National Education Association.

She served as secretary of the T. S. T. A. for one year. Mrs. Phillips is a member of the First Baptist church and taught a Sunday School Class of 16 year old girls for three years.

Presently, Janis is a substitute teacher, does private tutoring, and takes care of Jennifer Paige, her young daughter who is 16 months old. Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Phillips and daughter reside at 306 Cedar.

Both these young women have set goals for themselves and are working diligently toward those goals. In making the extra effort to excel, they have enriched their own lives, and are making possible a fuller life for those in their community. They have successfully managed to combine three capabilities—motherhood, career, and civic work. They are truly deserving young women.

Doris Lambert read the minutes of the previous meeting and it was announced that Girl Scout week would begin March 12 and would continue through March 18. Sammie Lewis is the chairman of the event and Glenna Shelton, the co-chairman. Peggy Sugarek, district representative from Lubbock, presented the schedule to the women at the meeting on Girl Scout Week and explained the birthday celebration which will be observed at the Game Refuge March 18. Information for the Scouts may be obtained from leaders concerning the day's events. All Scouts are to meet at the Girl Scout Hut at 10 a.m. to leave in a group for the refuge.

Girl Scouts will present the Llano Estacado Civic Club a gavel in which Wanda Harmon and Marlene St. Clair will present the club.

MULESHOE, TEXAS

The timetable for a decision from the U. S. Department of Agriculture on its announced intention to increase the 1967 loan schedule discounts on lower quality cottons appears to have been moved up.

In a news release on November 29 last year, the Department wrote "... if at the time the loan differentials are announced certain types or qualities of cotton are continuing to accumulate in CCC stocks and not selling because they are over-priced in relation to other types and qualities of cotton, loan program differentials for location, grade, staple length and micronaire readings will be established to encourage the production of the more desirable types and qualities."

Subsequently, USDA appointed a "task force" to study the need and the implications of such action. And it now looks as if the Department will expect the report and recommendations of this task force by about March 1.

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. and other interest groups have been asked to submit their views on the matter no later than February 15.

If the task force receives all these views and reports its findings to Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman by March 1, there is some speculation that 1967 loan schedule premiums and discounts, along with prices for Commodity Credit Corporation stocks, might be announced later that same month. The first CCC sales under newly announced prices could then be held in April.

Normally, the premiums and discounts for the 1967 loan were announced in May.

Plains Cotton Growers is presenting its case against the contemplated action of the Department in the form of a letter to W. E. Underhill, assistant to the president of CCC, who was named chairman of the Department's task force.

The points made by PCG in its letter include the following:

1. We sincerely believe that sufficient incentives for growing longer, stronger cottons are now in evidence, and that these incentives are increasing under established procedures, therefore no additional manipulation of premiums and discounts is needed for this purpose.
2. The incentives referred to are: (a) loan level for mid-length lint cotton at 20.25 cents per pound, down from 23 cents in 1965; (b) increasing costs of production which farmers can only offset with better cotton prices; (c) substantial premiums being paid for longer staple, good character cottons in 1966 and in indicated continuation of that situation in 1967; and (d) the certain prospect of loan differentials in 1967 widening substantially under the presently accepted procedure for their establishment.

On the Plains producers we have the potential to produce longer staple, higher quality cottons are in 1967 making every effort, within the bounds of economic practicality, to do so.

Additional lowering of prices to those producers who in a given year, for reasons often beyond their control, produce the lower quality, shorter staple cottons will only serve to intensify the cost-price squeeze with which they are already faced. The economics of cotton production are such that many of these could be forced out of cotton production, disrupting within a short time supplies for those mills whose requirements are adequately met by lower quality cottons.

That there are a substantial number of such mills is evidence by the average annual disappearance of U.S. Cotton stapling one inch or less for the five years 1961 through 1965. During that period, mills bought, used, and were apparently happy with, just over 3.4 million bales of such cottons per year.

2. Any orderly pricing procedure must base premiums and discounts on market experience over a number of years not on the situation prevailing in 1966 or any given year. We need only look back to 1961 to realize that cotton markets fluctuate and that situations are subject to relatively rapid change.

In 1961 only two tenths of one per cent of the cotton in one inch. The remaining 99.8 per cent was in staples one CCC stocks stapled less than one inch or longer.

Sudden, precipitate changes in pricing procedure, prompted by short-term considerations, can undermine and destroy the confidence of all concerned in the pricing system.

3. The current system of basing premiums and discounts assure that market quotations on which they are based are for all qualities provides price stability and at the same time is flexible within certain limits. This is exactly what is needed.

Telephone Cooperative Sets Up Payments To U.S. Treasury

The Five Area Telephone Cooperative, Muleshoe, has made an advance payment of $70,000 on its loans from the Rural Electrification Administration in response to the Agency's request that its borrowers help counter inflation by stepping up payments to the U.S. Treasury.

The advance payment is in addition to regular quarterly principal and interest payments the cooperative makes to REA on funds borrowed to provide telephone service to about 1,400 subscribers. Previously, the cooperative had made advance payments of $15,398 on its REA the economy practice gram under which the cooperative acted was announced by REA Administrator Norman M. Clapp on October 25 in response to President Johnson's memorandum of September 9. The President asked that both public and private sectors of loans.

The counter inflation proself-restraint as a means of combatting inflation.

Clapp said "we gave very careful consideration to means by which the REA lending programs could best be carried forward consistent with current national objectives. We believe that the program worked out represents a practical solution which will enable the rural electric and telephone systems to plan intelligently, keep their line of credit intact and yet make a constructive and significant contribution to the effort to reduce inflationary pressures in the economy."

- The counter inflation program calls for:
1. Deferring all post-ponable construction.
 2. Reducing the net cash impact of the program on the Treasury during current circumstances by --
 3. Getting borrowers to make advance payments on their loans; to defer as long as possible the withdrawal of loan funds from the Treasury; and, c. Encouraging borrowers to invest a maximum number of dollars in U.S. Treasury Bonds -- REA Series, paying 2 percent interest.

Borrowers were asked to give substantial priority in their planning for the coming year to set aside some of their developing cash resources toward achieving a two-year cushion of credit, as recommended by REA.

Mr. Clapp, emphasizing that the program was temporary in nature, said borrower response has been excellent, and that it was expected to gain momentum as boards of directors meet and determine the extent to which their systems can participate.

The Administrator said that banking with the U.S. Treasury helps reduce the cost of Government by lowering the amount of money the Treasury must borrow at this time, and, simultaneously, reduces inflationary pressures by taking money out of circulation. He said the program serves to "demonstrate to the Nation that the REA loan programs are a source of cash receipts to the Government as well as objects of cash disbursements."

Mr. Clapp pointed out that the $70,000 advance payment from Five Area Telephone Cooperative comes from depreciation reserve paid in by the cooperative's subscriber-members as a part of their telephone bills. The money had been held by the cooperative as a portion of its reserve funds for replacement of plant

Jesse George To Oppose Measures

AUSTIN - State Representative Jesse T. George, Bailey County's Austin legislator stated today that he will oppose measures before the 60th Session which would provide for the regulation, licensing, and taxation of horse racing and pari-mutuel wagering in Texas. He stated that he also will vote against any proposals authorizing the sale of liquor by the drink in the state.

George reflected that "In 1962 the voters of Texas expressed their opposition to pari-mutuel wagering in Texas. The five-county district which I represent cast 2,543 votes in favor of the measure, while 6,004 people opposed it. The citizens of Bailey County expressed a sentiment parallel to those of my other counties, for here 419 votes were cast for the measure, while 1,114 votes were in opposition."

He continued, "Though I realize that both pari-mutuel gambling and liquor by the drink would provide substantial tax revenues to the State, I believe that a representative of the people owes it to his district to reflect their majority views. My mail has run extremely heavy in opposition to both of these proposals, and I will reflect that attitude during this Session, as I did during the 59th Session two years ago."

Upping National Debt

A key House committee recently agreed to the Administration's request-it is now an annual request-to increase the maximum ceiling of the national debt. The committee agreed to an increase of six billions, whereas the Administration has asked for seven billion.

The national debt will thus rise to $336 billion, or more, from the present maximum of $330 billion.

The average taxpayer may not be aware of the fact he is already paying fourteen times a year interest on this debt. Instead of being increased in these good times, the debt should be slowly decreased.

The excuse today is that we must finance the Asian war in Vietnam, and it is a good excuse. However, whether we should continue to expand domestic aid programs to needy cities, areas and citizens whether we can afford to do so is the question. Until we end the war, it would be prudent to limit social, domestic programs. We simply can't afford both at the same time.

Yet the Johnson Administration has asked Congress for various domestic-spending increases for the coming fiscal year. Congress, it is hoped, will exhibit the fiscal responsibility needed at this critical time.

Revenue and Reform

GUEST EDITORIAL—

STATE AND LOCAL governments may be flirting with a tax, some of the symptoms showed up in an Austin hearing.

Mayor Louie Welch of Houston said he wants permission to levy a city sales tax because the property tax is inadequate. Rep. James Nugent of Kerrville disagreed.

"Do you tax real estate notes? What about stocks and bonds? Our laws say you should tax them. 'All property,' by law, should be taxed fairly and equally. But all property is not being taxed, and there is some question whether it could ever be. Moreover, there are shocking inequities in taxation of property that is carried on the rolls at present.

A state-authorized study committee found, for example, that homeowners in Webb County are taxed, for state purposes, at three times the rate of their counterparts in Brazoria County, Dallas County lies somewhere between.

Each of the 254 counties is on its own in assessing property values, with the result being a crazy-quilt pattern of inequity. But the problem goes much deeper.

In the state's 24 most populous urban counties, there are 685 taxing jurisdictions with 464 separate tax offices. In Dallas County there are 46 tax offices serving 58 jurisdictions.

It is not unusual for the Dallas County to find his property carried on the rolls for as many different values as there are tax offices with jurisdiction over the property. Obviously, this is not the optimum situation.

Impartial and authoritative studies recommend two courses of action:

State law should be made realistic, altering the "all property" provision to something that tax assessors can carry out. Under present law, the assessor might be forced to place a dollar value on a 6-year-old sofa or a pair of old shoes.

The law should be tightened and regulations established to assure that property tax administration will in fact be "equal and uniform," as the constitution requires.

The property tax now furnishes nearly half the revenue collected by state and local government, and it is an imperfect tax doing an inadequate job.

Calling on other taxes to cover up the property tax's shortcomings is merely treating cancer with aspirin. Cities and the state need more money. But more desperately needed is thorough reform of the property tax.

WASHINGTON BUREAU

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

The Kennedy-LBJ Tilt-Book Revives Memories-G.O.P. In South-Tougher Days Ahead

Washington, D.C.—The latest serialized version of the Manchester book, relating the events surrounding President Kennedy's death from the Kennedy viewpoint, revives many old pains. The installment deals with scenes and emotions at the Dallas hospital and airport, and, although reporters have known something about them, the public has been unaware of the extent of friction.

The revelations are certain to damage the image of the Kennedy family and President Johnson. It becomes evident to anyone reading the Manchester lines that the thought of Lyndon Johnson becoming President was simply unbearable to the Kennedys.

No could these strong-willed people act with the needed dignity and decorum in a tragic moment. It may be also that President Johnson did not consider every need of the bereaved at this hour but the public has the general impression that he tried before the fact to be forgotten that he was suddenly faced with the tremendous responsibility of being the President of the United States.

Bringing all this friction into the open at this time, more than a year before the election campaign in 1968, provides grist for the G.O.P. mill indirectly, insofar as any tarnish remains on the Johnson side of the political scale (the President's image battered). But the permanent damage may affect the Kennedys more than J.F.K.

This is because some of Manchester's "revelations" are thrusts generally conceded to be below the belt. His jibe at Mrs. Johnson, for having said what she hated most was that the assassination occurred in Texas, is a case in point. That was only a natural reaction and a natural remark, which would not be interpreted except in hostility.

Considering all the Johnsons had tried and to do for Mrs. Kennedy, the public is not likely to be turned against them by such efforts.

The heyday of the G.O.P. in the South may have lost its luster. It is increasingly clear Republicans will not select another ultra conservative candidate next year. In fact, he may be as liberal as the President in many fields. Even if the present Regan element prevails within the party it will be a change from Goldwater standards but chances are more liberal elements will prevail. Thus Dixie Republicans are not likely to have a platform or a candidate giving them a corner on the market, so to speak.

The recent ultra-conservative push to get Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina to be a favorite son candidate at the G.O.P. convention next year, is likely to be fizzling. Thurmond has himself repudiated the drive. Nothing could embarrass G.O.P. liberals more than to get Thurmond one of the kingmakers at the G.O.P. convention. They are fearful this could be the kiss of death in a national race. Never again is likely the G.O.P. will have a candidate and platform as appealing to Dixie segregationists as in 1964.

"PRETTY PLEASE!"

More food to the acre

GUEST EDITORIAL—

How to produce more food on a fixed supply of land -- and on land of diminishing fertility -- is one of the world's puzzles. The remarkable fact is that in many areas farmers are finding a way to do it.

The striking increase in productivity of corn, wheat, and other crops in the United States is well known. The jumps are startling. For example, there is the corn story -- increase in a recent 15-year period from the national average of from 37 bushels to the acre to 82 bushels.

It is too much to expect such a rate of gain to continue indefinitely. There are limits to the amount of fertilizer, machinery, and other inputs that can be added to increase production. But it would be shortsighted to accept any final limitation on food supply.

Progress on every front, however, is important. We commend heartily those researchers in the agricultural experiment stations who are working on projects designed to increase food supply for the world in new ways.

One of the most promising is that being conducted at Purdue University. A new strain of "high-lysine" corn, far more nutritious than those varieties now in use, has been developed. Tests indicate that this hybrid, containing a high percentage of a certain amino acid known as lysine, is twice as effective as the presently grown varieties in supplying protein for human consumption. Also animals fed on it have been found to grow much faster than those on a diet of ordinary hybrids.

It will take several years before seed of this variety will be available commercially. Research cannot be hurried. But enough has been accomplished in improving corn in the past to give hope for the present. Agricultural research holds great promise. The world's food needs demand that it be given adequate support.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm writes a rather complicated letter this week, but we suppose he knows what he's talking about, perhaps.

Dear editor:

A man from town drove out here to this Johnson grass farm the other day and said, "Say I want to ask you something."

"Go ahead," I said. I don't know that a man from town turning up out here is as good as a newspaper but you have to take what comes in this life.

"Whatta you want to know?"

"Well," he said, "I've got a little patch of land north of town, just a few acres, and I'd like to know how many cows you think I can run on it."

"Now I don't know why he picked me to advise him, it's about like asking a movie goer to discuss politics or William Manchester to write history, but since he didn't have anything else to do I told him it was simple.

First, I said, you count the blades of grass on one acre, multiply that by the number of 115,000, take the square root of that, get an accurate weather forecast for the next twelve months, divide the number of inches of rain predicted by twelve, subtract the number of inches you'll probably get, average out the price of cattle over the past 50 years and guess what the price six months from now will be, figure up how many years, months and weeks it'll be before the War in Viet Nam is over, determine whether Russia and China are mad at each other or just acting, subtract this year's income tax increases from last year's decrease, figure up how many miles you get to a gallon of gas, subtract that from the miles the manufacturer claims you ought to get provided you keep going down hill all the time, renew your subscription to the Muleshoe Journal or buy your fence, put a few head of cows on the land, weigh them every week, and at the end of six months take the total weight, then equals what it was at the start, you have the right number of cows but the wrong number of acres of land.

He said he would think this over, and I believe he should.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Tax-Sharing Only a Trend

GUEST EDITORIAL—

Republicans seeking a policy cornerstone for the 1968 elections are reportedly studying the "tax-sharing" idea first advanced by Walter Heller when he was chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors in 1964.

GOP planners report that they have found widespread support for the plan. The plan would give back to the states for the legislatures to use with no strings attached an amount equal to three per cent of federal income tax receipts.

A Gallup Poll survey shows Independent and Democratic voters favor the plan (69 per cent in favor) and all voters favor it by 70 per cent. The interviewees, perhaps significantly, were not offered the alternative of cutting the federal tax by three per cent, so one should be cautious about turning cartwheels over the Gallup findings.

A more significant finding in the same survey shows that the public favors Big Government (49 per cent) more than Big Labor (21 per cent) or Big Business (14 per cent) as the major threat to the future of the country. This contrasts with a 1959 finding of fears; Big Labor (41 per cent), Big Business (15 per cent) and Big Government (44 per cent). At that time, 30 per cent had no opinion; today only 16 per cent.

The GOP has some more issue-defining to do.

—San Antonio Express—

STATE CAPITAL
Highlights
AND Sidelights
By Wern Sanford

AUSTIN -- Gov. John Connally's emergency appropriation recommendations to the Legislature held the spotlight at his weekly press conference.

Connally noted that the Senate "apparently wants to study very carefully" the emergency appropriations for which he has asked. He said that plans for San Antonio's HemisFair '68 may have to be "seriously altered" if the Senate takes much longer. Governor asks $5,500,000 in emergency funds for the state's exhibit, the Institute of Texas cultures.

Legislature could pass an emergency appropriation to finance immediate pay raises for state employees only if Connally asked them to. However, he declined and stood by his original recommendations for increases, effective September 1.

Connally also answered some of the opposition which has lived up since he asked the Legislature to legalize the sale of liquor by the drink. "Opponents on an issue like this always write, and proponents never do," he said, after the flood of letters began arriving. His bill initially contemplated automatically legislating over-the-bar sales in wet areas without necessity for additional local option elections. Connally acknowledged the entire proposal faces "tough sledding."

Governor also revealed that A. W. Moursund of Johnson City, close friend and business associate of President Johnson, has asked not to be re-appointed to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission. His term expired last week, but he will serve until Connally appoints a successor.

Connally also hinted that he is considering running for a fourth term. He said, "My future action may be determined by what we accomplish during this session."

He declined to say where he stands on pari-mutuel horse race betting legislation or daylight saving time for Texas.

CODE would set maximum credit charges, limit insurance required for credit transactions, make clear to consumers amount of credit or cash advances and charges or percentage of total purchase. Also included in the recommendations was altering the state statutory ceiling on interest rates which various types of business may charge for P.A.R.K. MONEY.

Governor Connally's proposed constitutional amendment to authorize the sale of $75,000,000 in bonds for state development was unopposed at its hearing before the House Committee on Constitutional Amendments.

Measure would provide that the bonds be paid off from entrance fees to state parks. Interest rate would not exceed six per cent per year.

When no one appeared to testify against the measure, Rep. Rayford Price, committee chairman, referred it to a subcommittee composed of Reps. A. C. Atwood of Edinburg, Bill Bass of Ben Wheeler and Gerhard Schulle of San Marcos.

CONSTITUTIONAL REVISION

Three bills are in the Legislature aimed at forming a Texas Constitutional Revision Commission to investigate whether and how to either revise or rewrite the Texas Constitution.

Governor Connally's bill, sponsored by Rep. Randy Pendleton of Andrews, would set up the commission and provide for a state constitutional convention in Austin in June, 1968. It also would give Connally authority to appoint 10 of the 25 members of the commission and call for a November election of 450 delegates.

Rep. Carl A. Parker of Beaumont also introduced a bill setting up to commission. But his would give the governor no more appointments than the speaker, the lieutenant governor and the chief justice of the supreme court.

Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston has introduced a Senate bill to create the commission with 45 members. The governor, speaker and lieutenant governor, each would appoint 15 members under this measure.

FEED LOT LICENSING

Disagreement on bill to regulate and license cattle feed lots marked a hearing before the House Committee on Livestock Raising. Disagreement is among cattlemen concerning its merits and among committee members on whether to immediately approve it.

Bill, sponsored by Rep. Tom Holmes of Granbury, would require cattle feed lots with a capacity of more than 1,000 head of cattle to be licensed by the state and to meet state and federal standards.

Motion to approve the bill without submitting it to a subcommittee came out with an 8-8 tie and was thus defeated.

Lloyd Bergsma, representing the Texas and Southwest Cattle Raisers Association, testified on behalf of the bill. Three witnesses appeared to oppose it, asking for evidence that feed lots are a public nuisance.

POLLUTION STUDY WINDS UP

In its final report to the Legislature, an interim pollution study committee recommended controls against leaking oil, bolts and septic tanks.

Proposals included more funds for the Railroad Commission to plug abandoned leaking wells; salt water controls; state control of air and water pollution from commercial livestock feed lots; authority for river authorities to operate local and municipal sewage and waste disposal facilities; and creation of another study group with power to look into air and noise pollution and land use.

Ask me
BY AMY ADAMS
COULD BE A "WRONG NUMBER"

Dear Amy: On New Year's Eve I accidentally dialed a wrong number and the most engaging female voice I've ever met. I wasted the dime, I struck up a conversation with her and over the ensuing weeks carried on a "correspondence" by phone. I have never seen her nor do I know her real name, but this I know, I have fallen in love with her voice.

She has been two weeks since she has last called me and I don't know what to do. I'm always thinking about her voice. I have read many books on psychology and sociology to try to find out how I could be in love with a voice. Could you help me or tell me, please, what is wrong with me? (You know, I can never forget the way she says "Any way.")

Dear Amy: "Any way" Falling in love with a voice via the telephone can be quite frustrating. You're a pretty slow operator. You haven't been able to see the "voice" in the flesh. Invest another dime. If the voice still wants to remain a mystery, you can assume this number is already connected and she is just a "phony."

Dear Amy: I had been going out with a wonderful fellow who took me to all the nice places. He must of spent a small fortune on me. Good times. Suddenly, he just dropped out of sight and I never heard from him again. I finally found out that he lost his job and has not money to take me, or any other girl out.

Well, I let him know that I value his friendship more than his ability to afford good times for me.

Shelley

Dear Shelley: Your fellow, without knowing it, has invested his "small fortune" wisely. Call him up and tell to do their dirty work. In my book, they are pretty sick, low-down and disgusting. You want my advice, your mother needs to tell her problems to a psychiatrist.

IMPACT VARYING

Impact of optional city sales taxes would vary widely from town to town, according to a study made by the Committee on State and Local Tax Policy. Committee said Baytown residents, for example, would pay a per capita average of $12.10 a year -- while San Benito citizens would pay only $3.45. Other examples: Garland and Grand Prairie, $5.50; Pasadena, $6.45; Odessa, $7.35; Tyler, $11; and Temple, $8.25.

MHS Offers Two Graduation Plans

Curriculum Guide

During the course of the next few weeks, the Bay County Journal will run course descriptions of each subject taught in Muleshoe High School. This will enable students and parents to plan courses of study for children that will be most beneficial to students after graduation. Two graduation plans are offered--The College Preparatory Plan and the Vocational Plan.

The Vocational plan requires the following courses: Three units of English, two units of math; two units of a laboratory science (one unit must be in biology, chemistry, or physics); three units of social science (one unit must be in American history, civics, world government--the last two are 1/2 credit courses); one-half unit of health; and seven units of elective subjects (a major of three units is required in one of the following: homemaking, business, agriculture, auto mechanics, or distributive education). The Vocational plan must total eighteen units. This plan meets the minimum requirements of the state agency for graduation, and it is designed for those who do not expect to go to college. Some colleges will accept this plan for entrance. A student enrolling in this plan must have his parents come to the principal's office and sign a waiver, releasing the school from the obligation of preparing the student to enter college. Two units of foreign language, two units of agriculture, or two units of homemaking may be substituted for general science only.

Requirements for the Non-Vocational (College Preparatory) Plan are: Four units of English; two units of math (above general math); two units of laboratory science (one unit must be in biology, chemistry, or physics); three units of social science (world history, American history, civics, or world government--the latter two are one-half credit courses); one-half unit in physical education (two years--one-fourth credit each year--and, this may be substituted with band); one-half unit of health; six units of electives. The total credits must be eighteen. If a foreign language is chosen, two units should be taken; colleges do not recognize one high school credit in foreign language. The Non-Vocational (College Preparatory) Plan, when completed, offers the necessary subjects for entrance to most colleges. Students preparing for engineering or scientific fields should take trigonometry, solid geometry, physics, chemistry, and foreign language. Students should check with the school counselor about the entrance requirements of the college or university of their choice; requirements differ at various schools. Two units of foreign language, two units of agriculture, two units of homemaking or two units of distributive education may be substituted for general science only.

The following articles are course descriptions of the four levels of English in Muleshoe High School. Three years of English are required under the Vocational Plan and four years of English are required under the Non-Vocational (College Preparatory) Plan.

English I

Certain elements are common to all levels in high school English classes. These are the study of language for effective communication. The program from grades nine through twelve is intended to be a cumulative and sequential program devised so that the student each year builds upon knowledge and skills attained in earlier grades.

The literature program in the ninth grade is intended to be an introduction to the best types of writing of yesterday and today.

The objectives are as follows:

- To enrich the young people's knowledge of the world, of other individuals, and of themselves.
- To create on the part of the student a desire to further his range of reading.
- To develop the student's acquaintance with some of the best writing of the past and the present.
- To create in the student a livelier appreciation of language skills and of words themselves.
- To broaden the student's reading skills.

In the ninth grade instruction necessary to effective communication, including spelling, capitalization, punctuation usage, and grammar, should be coordinated with reading, writing, speaking, and listening activities. Students should be persuaded that writing is a normal human activity and that their own experiences, observations, and reflections are suitable content for writing.

English II

Grade 10

The second year of English presents a program of interest and challenge to the sophomore student. The main objective of English II in grammar study is to provide each student with the necessary skills of writing and speaking effectively. This includes a vocabulary study in which we learn word histories, study the dictionary, and strengthen the background of the student's "suffix and prefix" usage in his speech. The sophomore is also introduced to a new method of learning English, which is known as the "Linguistic Method." Experience in speaking before a group and in organizing a speech is gained in the second year of English. The students concentrate on developing good writing habits which includes not only writing paragraphs and themes, but also includes learning how to organize material in the report they write towards the end of the year.

Another area of interest for the sophomore is in the study of literature. The main objective is to give the student a wider appreciation of reading literature. The students learn to recognize the elements which make up a good short story such as plot, setting, theme, and character. Poems such as "Jabberwocky," written by Lewis Carroll, are read for enjoyment. Poems such as "Four Preludes on Playthings of the Wind," written by Carl Sandburg, are read for the deeper, underlying meanings that the poets have written into their poems. The elements of style in non-fiction stories such as "Three Days to See," by Helen Keller, are compared to the elements of style in the short stories.

Another category of literature read for appreciation is the drama, in which three plays are read. The plays are "The Man Who Liked Dickens," thoroughly reviews all previous studied grammar, including parts of speech, parts of the sentence, and punctuation. Verbs, clauses, and phrases, compound and complex sentences are emphasized in order to enable students to better organize their thoughts and present them in an orderly and constructive manner.

A vocabulary chapter is presented in which students learn basic Latin and Greek suffixes, roots, and prefixes used in the English language. Throughout the year, the etymology of selected words used in context of readings are made and studied for use, significance and context meaning.

Six book reports representing American authors are required during the year. Various poetry selections from American authors are memorized.

The English III program includes, encourages, and welcomes individual and group discussion and participation in class. Recognizing that Americanism is instilled with the study of American literature, opinions, ideas, and ideals contribute much to individual appreciation.

English IV

Thoroughness of instruction in the areas of reading comprehension of the literature, building better English, and composition should be the basis for any course in English. Increased reading power is the goal in English literature just as it is in any reading program. In the study of literature, the Anglo-Saxon period (449-1066), Early English and Scottish ballads, Chaucer and the Canterbury Tales, as well as Thomas Malory, are studied in the Medieval Period (1066-1485). The drama studied is William Shakespeare's Macbeth from the Elizabethan Age (1485-1625). The light-hearted Cavalier poets, as well as the solemn Puritan literature of the Seventeenth Century (1625-1700), is included in the study. The prose of the Eighteenth Century, revealing intelligence, sophistication, and originality, is studied, and the essay and the English novel are given special attention. The Romantic

Age (1800 - 1837) was known as the "golden age" of lyric poetry, and the writings of several poets are taught. Most of the essayists, poets, and novelists which are included in the Victorian Age (1837 - 1900) wrote thoughtfully of manners and moral values. Shaw's "Pygmalion," modern poetry, modern biography, and modern essays are studied, including an essay by the eloquent historian Winston Churchill.

Critical thinking and critical writing are the keystone of senior composition. In addition to vocabulary development, improvement of skills in speaking and listening and reading and studying, the development of skill in writing is a goal of English IV. It is planned that through the writing of a research paper in the second semester, the student will learn basic skills of research and will gain experience in the preparation of a documented paper. Students of English IV are also required to read and give book reports on six books from the senior reading list. This list is made of principally English authors.

Department Paints Retaining Wall Make Parking Lot Improvement

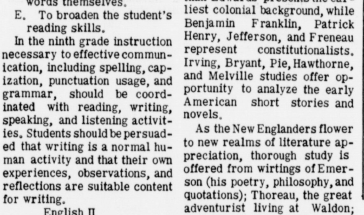

Muleshoe High School finished a new step in its beautification program this week. The administrations National Honor Society and Industrial Arts Department joined hands in painting the retaining wall east of the school and in stripping the parking lot. To aid in the parking lot improvement, the Student Council purchased 10 curb blocks for placement along the south side of the Auditorium.

The school system has also completed the clearing-off of the area East of the Junior High School. This area has now been fenced off and grass will be planted on the area as soon as weather permits.

With the coming of spring, Muleshoe High School will present a much improved "look" as a result of the many beautification programs the administration and the students have originated.

IT BEGAN HERE -- These are students of MHS who began the beautification program on the school campus by picking up trash. Many improvements have been made during this school year.

Wilson, Young Named Mules Team Captains

Mickey Wilson and Myron Young were elected as Captains of the 1966-67 Mules Basketball team. Mickey was the leading scorer for the Mules with 495 total points and a 19 points per game average. Mickey was voted the most valuable player in the Tulsa Tournament and was a member of the all-tournament team at Farwell.

Myron was one of the leading rebounders for the Mules with a total of 167 rebounds and a 6.4 rebounds per game average. Eighty-four of these were offensive rebounds. Myron was outstanding on defense, stealing the ball from the opponents many times when the Mules needed to have possession of the ball.

Directors Attend Association Meet

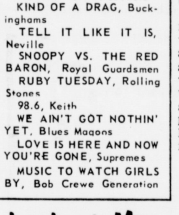

The West Texas Association of Curriculum Directors met Monday evening, February 13, at 6:30 p.m. in the Alcove Restaurant, 908 West 5th Street, Plainview.

Dr. Lee Williamson, assistant superintendent of the Amarillo Schools, spoke on "Issues and Ideas in Educational." Dr. Williamson stressed the two things that can harm children, namely, (1) killing the desire to learn and (2) treating a child unfairly. He also pointed out that educators should be very careful that the essential concepts (the cake) are taught first, then the enrichment (icing) can come second.

Look at Me, I'm Writing

IN ORBIT. By Wright Morris. New American Library. $3.95.

Morris is a well-known writer whose principal following is among academic students of the American South.

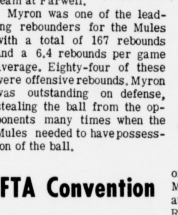

His title about a moronic young dirt dodger, who steals a motorcycle outfit, complete with plastic helmet, and then runs out of gas in a little college town just as a cyclone is about to strike.

He chances to find a feeble-minded woman who offers little or no resistance to his advances and then is pursued by a farcical newspaper editor. Among the other oddballs on the scene is a very eccentric member of the college faculty.

Theoretically, this is a story equating the arrival of this young punk and the storm. Both of them appear out of nowhere, stir up the whole community and then move on.

Morris is very good at description and conveys impressions aptly. The dialogue is convincing.

But somehow there is a catch to all this. The reader is as conscious of the act of writing as he is of the action of the story. Morris is the English teacher (and he is not the only one these days) who demonstrates to his students how well he can write. But he seems to have lost sight of the idea that art must conceal its own art.

WINNERS--The seventh grade basketball team are 'winners'. They had all wins to their credit when the season closed. They are shown here, in action, during the tournament Friday.

Easter Seal Appeal Starting Here Monday

The 1967 Easter Seal Appeal will open in Bailey County on Monday, February 20, according to Jimmie Crawford who serves as Easter Seal Representative for the county. Crawford said that Easter Seal Appeal letters would begin arriving at homes in the county about March first.

As Easter Seal Representative Crawford is the person to contact to request rehabilitation services from the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas. These services include physical and occupational therapy, speech and hearing program and special information services to help solve the many problems faced by the families of handicapped children and adults.

Special emphasis is being given in 1967 by the Easter Seal Society in Texas to locating disabled children and adults who may need rehabilitation services and do not know where they are available. Anyone who could benefit from treatment and services offered by the Easter Seal Society can contact Jimmie Crawford at the Muleshoe State Bank in Muleshoe.

The Easter Seal Society was established to assist disabled persons and their families in finding and making effective use of all resources which will be helpful to them in developing their abilities and living more useful lives. The Society helps support 23 treatment facilities where crippled children and adults are treated regardless of their ability to pay. Wheelchairs, walkers and related services are provided to those who cannot provide for themselves.

Crawford said the Easter Seal Society depends on the annual Easter Seal Appeal to finance this program of rehabilitation in Texas. He urged Bailey County citizens to increase their support of the Easter Seal Society, and his program to help crippled children and adults.

Washington Report

From Congressman
BOB PRICE 18TH DISTRICT, TEXAS
1222 LONGWORTH OFFICE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D. C. • 205-3704

On February 7 the House of Representatives approved the President's request for an increase of the national debt limit to 336 billion dollars. Also, on that day I introduced my fourth bill of the session. These two items go hand in hand. I voted against the bill to raise the debt ceiling because of my belief that the time is long overdue for this government to stop its deficit spending.

The bill I introduced in House Resolution 5093 to repeal the Participation Sales Act of 1966. This act, passed during the last session of Congress, allows the government to sale certain financial assets at exorbitant interest rates. Under the participation sales procedure, however, the Congressional appropriations process is eliminated. As a result, the money spent does not show in the formal budget as expenditures, nor are the obligations counted in the national debt, which the House voted to raise the limit on.

I voted against the bill because the majority of members in the House, Democrats defeated an attempt to require that Participation Certificates (P.C.'s) be counted as part of the national debt. As I stated at the time: "If this Administration is going to spend American people into bankruptcy they should at least know what is happening."

The President felt it necessary to sale these P.C.'s because the current high interest rates hampered the sale of regular long-term government securities. The maximum interest rate the government can pay on these securities is 4.25 percent. Rather than be known as a high-interest Administration, however, and ask Congress to raise the maximum interest of those long-term bonds, President Johnson resorted to the trickery of the P.C.'s and cost the American taxpayer an uncalled for 1.5 billion dollars in interest.

In a speech on February 13 I suggested a way to cutback on deficit spending and stabilize our economy. This would require the holding of non-defense expenditures for the remainder of Fiscal Year 1967 and all of 1968 to the 1966 level. If such an effort were undertaken it is reasonable to expect that three billion dollars could be saved in the remaining months of 1967 fiscal year which ends in June. Combined with the proposed increase of 7.3 billion dollars for 1968 ten billion dollars could be saved.

At the present rate, the interest on the national debt in the next 23 1/2 years will be an amount equal to the total debt, yet, we would still owe every dime of the principal.

On the better side of the ledger for the week...I received my two top choices for subcommittees on the House Agriculture Committee. Membership on the Livestock and Grains Subcommittee means I will be dealing with legislation concerning livestock, wheat, maize, and other feed grains. This combined with my duties as a member of the Cotton Sub-committee means I will be dealing directly with a majority of the legislation affecting our Panhandle agricultural interests.

My third subcommittee is Departmental Oversight. With the other members of this group I will be trying to determine if the Department of Agriculture is administering the laws as Congress intended.

WORSHIP OF WEALTH

NEW YORK (AP) — "The idolatry of property is an old religion," says an Episcopal layman and attorney, William Stringfellow, in a new book, "Dissenter in a Great Society," published by Holt, Reinhart and Winston. He adds:

"American Protestantism has kept the shrine of property. The doctrine that the acquisitive man is the whole man is still definitely preached." It assures people that "religion is a business asset," by which God helps them get what they want.

The Lord is my shepherd

PSALMS

THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD
David's confidence in God's grace.
A Psalm of David.
The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures:
He restoreth my soul:
He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness
because of His great mercies.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death,
I will fear no evil:
For thou art with me;
thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.
Thou art my Father,
my God, and my Redeemer.
He hath delivered my soul from all iniquity:
and he hath preserved my life from all danger:
because thou, O Lord, art my God.

The 23rd Psalm is one of the most familiar chapters in the Bible. Early in life, most of us have committed it to memory. Every once in a while we should go back to these verses and think of the wonderful message of faith and trust in God that they reveal to us. They show us that we have a loving Father; one who will show us the right paths; one who will protect and provide for us. These scriptures end with a note of thanksgiving and a promise.

"Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

Plan to start a regular worship in the Lord's house this Sunday.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Cotton Producers Need To Highlight Meeting

El Paso, -- Latest results in research and their application to cost-reducing practices will be explained to producers here during the eastern Cotton Production Conference at the Rowley Inn, March 7 & 8. The two-day meeting is directed to the specific needs of western cotton producers.

Means for increasing yields will be the topic of one speaker, while another will delve into future technology in agricultural trends. Weed control will be closely examined by several speakers including a panel on coordinated weed control through the use of materials and equipment. The importance of quality in cottonseed for planting will be stressed as well as practical solving of irrigation and soil problems.

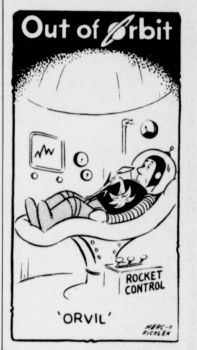

Problems, research developments, and the job still to be done with the pink bollworm will highlight one session, including a discussion of insect population control through the coordination of biological, chemical, and cultural measures.

A report on wilt defoliation will be presented along with discussions by a producer and a researcher on the results of variable row spacing for planting cotton.

An El Paso merchant will explain the qualities customers require for clothing and household goods, and describe the programs of cooperative advertising conducted by synthetics producers. He will also report on the possibilities of selling more cotton products through cooperative advertising and improvement in cotton products.

General conference chairman Joe Hoover, president of the El Paso Valley Cotton Association, Fabo, stresses the meeting is open to anyone interested in cotton, and no registration fee is involved. Co-sponsors of the conference are the Southwest Five-State Cotton Growers Assoc., and the National Cotton Council.
