AUSTIN CALLAN'S ESSAY ON "MAN"

Man is the queerest of all the animals. He is born barefooted and dies bareheaded. The more you know about him the less you understand why the Creator did not make the horse first and then quit.

An average he thing will shave a note or clip a coupon, but insists on having a barber to mow his whiskers or crop his locks.

Man is of many ways and full of prunes, when he can't find any moonshine liquor. It takes him a year or so to learn how to talk, but he never learns when to talk. He will lie all night and dream; he will lie all day and scheme. He is a complex assembly of egotism, stomach and stubbornness, believing that a dog which belongs to him is better than a dude that belongs to his neighbor.

Man is an unfinished piece of common furniture. He spends all his spare change trying to keep his teeth, and all that he can borrow getting rid of his appendix. He imagines himself the king of all beasts, and yet it takes him longer to learn how to walk than a jungle monkey and longer to grow whiskers than a Mexican billy goat.

LOST—Two weeks ago, a Poland China sow pig, 8 weeks old. Notify the Informer, or write to W. E. Walling, Lelia Lake, Texas.

BATTLE-MASTERTSON

One of the biggest social surprises of the year came to Hedley people Tuesday about noon when a phone message from Lelia Lake announced the marriage of Mr. Marvin Battle and Miss Dannie Mae Mastertson of this city. Without taking anyone into their confidence, so far as we know, they motored to Lelia Lake about 10 a. m. and were joined in wedlock by Rev. Kercheville, of the Christian church, the groom having secured the license the day previous at Childress.

The bride and groom are members of two of Hedley's most prominent families, and have a host of friends who will wish them every joy and happiness. Mr. and Mrs. Battle returned to Hedley Wednesday, and for the present are at home with the groom's parents.

Van Boone has been courting in Clarendon this week.

NAYLOR CITIZENS DO A KINDLY DEED

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Osborn visited relatives and friends in Naylor community Tuesday. Mr. Osborn tells us of a splendid act that was done that day when the good people of that community got together and "laid by" the cotton crop of Mr. Cargile, who has suffered an extended illness this year and thus was unable to give his crop proper attention. A big dinner was served at the schoolhouse, including ice cream and other delicacies, and a baseball contest was waged between the married men on one side and the single men on the other—thus combining a good deed and a good time. Nobody who knows them will deny that Naylor people are "all to the good."

WINDMILLS AND WAGONS

Just received a good stock of Eclipse Windmills, and am expecting a car of Peter Schuttler wagons any day. Hedley Hardware.

A PLEASANT VACATION

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Moreman and their two sons returned the first of the week after an absence of two months, which time was spent in an auto tour through Central and South Texas. They covered some 2000 miles or more, making extended stops at Palacios, Kerrville, Brownwood and other points. They derived enjoyment and benefit from the tour, though of course the long continued trip home from South Texas was tiring. Misses Cleo and Faye remained in Brownwood for a longer visit with their sister, Mrs. O. B. Stanley.

To increase your egg strains, see Mrs. J. C. Gerner, at Lelia Lake, and get one of those White Leghorn cockerels.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Bow and little son, formerly of White-wright, arrived in Hedley last week to make their home. Mr. Bow is the new prescriptionist for the Hedley Drug Co., and the Informer is pleased to welcome them to our town.

FOR SALE—About 20 or 25 bushels of corn, at my home in Hedley. Mrs. W. T. White.

Dave Mendenhall, manager of the Barnes & Hastings store at Lelia Lake, attended to business here early Tuesday morning.

Most of us on this side of the water have a hazy mental picture of Coblenz and have, perhaps, seen a photograph of the neutral zone, the tiny towns that to most of our returned soldiers mean "Germany." We have not the slightest conception. They are alike in size and appearance, these hundreds of hamlets, and save for the fact that Pasmach is Protestant, while its neighbor, Hansbach, a quarter kilometer distant, is Catholic, when you have known one Rhineland valley you know them all. Here the remaining 6,000 or so of our men are prey, without doubt, to the army rumors, marching on Paris, withdrawing to Paris, never falling to find a negative tale with which to "sinn" when "chow" call. We can find them by the signs of a train and formalities of a truck.

Heaviest Gun in the World Made for Uncle Sam

This gun is the heaviest in the world and is the first wire-wound 16-inch rifle ever made in the United States, and the last modern rifle to be made on a disappearing carriage. It was completed at Watervliet arsenal. It is a navy type and will be used in coast defense work. It can hurl a 2,400-pound projectile 31 miles. Each round requires a charge of 850 pounds of powder. It weighs 170 tons, is 68 feet, 10 inches long; greatest outside diameter, 64 inches; muzzle velocity, 2,700 feet per second. It cost about $200,000.

YANK TROOPS NEAR SCENE OF FIGHTING

Those in Towns Around Coblenz Had No Part in Trouble in Ruhr District.

OCCUPY 38 TOWNS IN ALL

American Forces in Germany Consist of 769 Officers and 18,219 Men—Coblenz is Headquarters of Yankee Army.

New York.—There are still American troops in Germany. We had almost forgotten this fact until Doctor Kapp strode into the day's news and vanished. Strikes, bloodshed and rebellion followed in rapid succession. German government troops moved the Ruhr district and Foch moved forward across the neutral zone. We read that the American forces in Germany, like the British, will hold to their bridgehead.

With its center at Coblenz the American bridgehead forms the military occupation district along the course of the Rhine, between the British to the north and the French to the south. The town of Frankfurt, recently occupied by the French, lies in German territory just beyond the neutral zone which rims the French bridgehead, and is only 80 kilometers south of American divisional headquarters.

Since the recent "red" uprisings, Katherine Gay, formerly attached to an artillery division, tells the New York Post, American-occupied territory has been surrounded by disorder, but the American chief of staff at Coblenz has kept strictly to his statement that he has no concern with affairs outside his jurisdiction. Attention may be focused at any moment, however, on the district held by American forces if German communists seek refuge and internment in American-occupied territory as they have recently done in British territory after the failure of their revolt in the Ruhr valley.

At Coblenz.

The American forces in Germany today consists of 769 officers and 18,219 men, inclusive of 19 officers and 173 men stationed at the port of Antwerp, Belgium. They occupy, all told, 38 towns. A year ago there were some six divisions holding this same territory, and every little town in the bridgehead carried its quota of Americans. Indeed, it often seemed as if there were more American soldiers than German civilians in the hill country. Even Coblenz, city of Rhine wines and gayety, appeared for the moment Americanized. Coblenz today garrisons less than 400 American officers and about 7,500 men. Andernach, former headquarters of the third division, has the next largest garrison, 161 officers and 4,048 men.

Most of us on this side of the water have a hazy mental picture of Coblenz and have, perhaps, seen a photograph of the neutral zone, the tiny towns that to most of our returned soldiers mean "Germany." We have not the slightest conception. They are alike in size and appearance, these hundreds of hamlets, and save for the fact that Pasmach is Protestant, while its neighbor, Hansbach, a quarter kilometer distant, is Catholic, when you have known one Rhineland valley you know them all. Here the remaining 6,000 or so of our men are prey, without doubt, to the army rumors, marching on Paris, withdrawing to Paris, never falling to find a negative tale with which to "sinn" when "chow" call. We can find them by the signs of a train and formalities of a truck.

rocky fortress, follows the river for a kilometer or two and then begins to climb steadily to the northeast to the hill country, the heart of the American bridgehead.

There are no isolated farm houses or dwellings of any description in this part of the world—such a thing is undreamed of. Nor has the average little town the unsightly fringe of straggling outposts with which the American village announces a transition from rural beauty to urban complexities. Our road, well managed by German labor under American supervision, running through rich fields and velvety forest patches groomed to a faultless beauty, plunges us into the very heart of a Baumbach, Vielbach, Dernbach or Nentershausen with dangerous precipitancy; so dangerous, in fact, that were it not for the watchful mounted policemen who hold up a warning hand as we approach, the fatalities among the children of our one-time enemy would be beyond all computing.

These little towns, so compact and circumspect in appearance, house the farming population of the Rhineland. They are a survival of feudal days. The farmer goes out boldly enough to his fields in broad daylight, but with manufacturing towns also lie along the way, with an industrial population of a few hundred souls or less, employees of the local sawmill, pottery or the fabric.

Happy Children.

It was in such a town that I lived for nearly five months of the spring of 1919, and though my main business lay with the American army, I had an opportunity to get at least a surface impression of the life of the village.

I shall think of our little town always as it appeared in the dazzling sunshine of the first spring days. The ugly, modern houses were in the main, gardenless and built plumb to the street, but despite the lack of crocus and swelling bud, spring was there in the tremendous bustle of moppings and sweepings and drubbings that overflowed through doors ajar and open windows. Stills became fashionable with the more adventurous small "squareheads." The children swarmed on the main street (from which they had been expressly banished by the "Amerikaner" for their own safety), playing games involving much singing and a sort of chant, "Ein, zwei, drei, vier." Occasionally, they broke into a weird and fearful English, overheard at the horse line during grooming hours, or chorused strictly phonetic renderings of "K-K-K-Kat." One little girl of 6 or 7, cherishing a deep admiration for our colonel, waylaid him each morning on his way to mess, to call out shyly and in her most winning tone, "Hello, chicken!" and then rush, overcome, to shelter. History does not reveal the identity of the sponsor for this pretty compliment, but it is rumored that the child was often seen conversing with a private who had languished overlong in the guardhouse. The colonel went his way, serene and unruffled. After all, what is one adoring feminine voice in the life of a colonel?

American Town Major.

Life on the main street was always full of interest. There was, for instance, the daily parade of the burgo-master and the American town major. Here was one member of the army of occupation who had every right in the world to have his disposition permanently soured with the assurance that no other wearer of the American uniform could honestly put the familiar question, "How do you get that way?" He was responsible for the good behavior of Germans and Americans alike—the restriction of liquor sales to the men (which meant that schnapps was verboten); the closing of the Gasthoffs at an early hour and the enforcement of the rule against fraternizing (in public). He administered the system of fines for dirty streets and yards. It was a hard life, but who can say that he was not well repaid by the sight of the local banker's wife painstakingly brushing away the street refuse from before her house each day at the end of a stormy siege of weepings, protestations and small fines? I was never privileged to accompany the little gray burgo-master and the lanky young town major, a citizen from Alabama, on their daily tour of inspection.

This village of approximately 1,000 souls had lost something over 50 of its men in the war, yet what resentment there might have been against the Yankee conqueror was too well concealed to command respect.

Soldiers Become Socialists.

All the soldiers who really got to the front came home Socialists. "Our girls are crazy. They believe the Americans will marry us. That is not so, is it? In Germany everyone laughed during the war when they heard how many little German babies were born in France. Perhaps there will be little American babies in this town." I hastened to protest that she had an entirely wrong idea of the American soldier. She shrugged her shoulders with a cynical laugh. "Who knows, 'frauleinchen?' It is too soon to tell."

Not far up the road was the main-spring of the village, a good-sized pottery works presided over by three prosperous, rotund and well-groomed brothers in the neighborhood of 50. Children worked in their factory, not many, it is true, but enough to banish preconceived notions of Germany's elaborate care for her common people. In this pottery works were designed and manufactured hundreds of souvenir plates for the American and finally also for the British army. The plates were circled with a gold laurel wreath and in the center appeared in formal design the individual purchaser's name, his regiment, division emblem and the insignia of the army of occupation, the date of the division's entry into the war, its victorious engagements and November 11, 1918. The tale of Germany's humiliation was thus voluntarily served out to her enemies with no thought, apparently, beyond the harvest of marks reaped. Visitors were always cordially welcomed to the warehouse where long ledges were lined with shelves full of steins and simple potteries. "These," the herr smilingly explained in French, "will go to America when the peace treaty is signed. We sell a great deal of our goods in America."

Spring has come round again. It smiles upon a distraught Germany. Perhaps the fears of the burgo-master were well grounded when he groaned over the bolshevistic mutterings of his people and prayed that the American soldiers might never be called away. The town crier, red of nose and warped as to teeth, still rings his bell, perhaps to announce nothing more serious than that "Children have been throwing stones at the horses of American officers. This must be stopped at once or the parents will be severely punished. By order of the burgo-master."

DAIRY FACTS

ASSOCIATIONS ARE BIG HELP

Evidence of Popularity of Plan With Small Dairymen is Shown in Mississippi County.

From Attala county, Mississippi, new evidence of the popularity of the bull association among farmers with small dairy herds has come to the attention of the dairy division, United States department of agriculture, through the announcement that a cooperative bull association has been organized in that community.

Dairying is almost a new venture with many of the farmers in Attala county. Perhaps it is this very newness and the consequent lack of prejudice in favor of old methods of doing things that has made it so comparatively easy to introduce this modern method of improving cattle. Many of the dairymen in the community have shown themselves to be progressive, but one man especially stands out as a leader in this respect. We will call him Green. He is a good old Southerner who is said to have farmed for some sixty years.

When the agricultural extension agents from the federal and state departments came into the community to organize a bull association Green was the man they called on first. They knew from experience that he would be very likely to see the advantage of such an association to the community, and would be a strong factor in swinging into line other farmers in the neighborhood. As was expected, Green at once saw the advantages that the proposition offered, and the very next day he started in on the preliminary work of organizing a bull association "block."

A few days later the extension men heard over the telephone that a block was practically assured. Later, however, Green telephoned that some of the prospective members were dropping out, as they remembered a disastrous experience of some years before, when they had paid a high price for a worthless stallion. This objection was met, however, with the assurance that the federal and state agents were indorsing this project and would see that no one was swindled.

Later on Green informed the county agent that a block of 40 cows had been formed and could be signed up if the agent and specialist would come out to the schoolhouse and clear up certain doubtful points. This was done, and six farmers signed up 43 cows, so that $430 was then available for buying a bull.

Things were moving along in such a promising manner that the farmers who had refused to join decided that

Good Pasture is One of the Best as Well as One of the Most Economical Cow Feeds.

It would be a good thing to get into the association after all, and requested membership in this block.

"No, sir," said Green, who had been elected director of the block. "You had your chance and wouldn't come in. Organize a block of your own. We don't want you in ours."

With the arrival of the excellent Jersey bull Oxford Mon Plaisir 169738, which had been secured for the use of block members, the farmers who had at first refused to join the association were doubly anxious to get in, but were again told that they would have to organize a block of their own. Thus it appears that the doubting ones, who are found in every community, had to pay the penalty of hesitating. While they may still get into the association and enjoy its benefits by organizing a new block, they have lost a great deal of time.

Cannot Praise this Remedy too Highly

THE WAY ONE LADY FEELS AFTER SUFFERING TWO YEARS

Judging from her letter, the misery and wretchedness endured by Mrs. Charlie Taylor, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 144, Dillon, S. C., must have been terrible. No one, after reading her letter, can continue to doubt the great healing power of PE-RU-NA for troubles due to catarrh or catarrhal conditions in any part of the body. Her letter is an inspiration to every sick and suffering man or woman anywhere. Here it is: "I suffered two years with catarrh of the head, stomach and bowels. Tried two of the best doctors, who gave me up. I then took PE-RU-NA and can truthfully say I am well. When I began to use PE-RU-NA, I weighed one hundred pounds. My weight now is one hundred and fifty. I cannot praise PE-RU-NA too highly, for it was a Godsend to me. I got relief from the first half bottle and twelve bottles cured me. I advise all sufferers to take PE-RU-NA."

As an emergency remedy in the home, there is nothing quite the equal of this reliable, time-tried medicine, PE-RU-NA. Thousands place their sole dependence on it for coughs, colds, stomach and bowel trouble, constipation, rheumatism, pains in the back, side and loins and to prevent the grip and Spanish Flu. To keep the blood pure and maintain bodily strength and robustness, take PE-RU-NA. You can buy PE-RU-NA anywhere in either tablet or liquid form.

BIG ULCER ALL HEALED

"Here is another letter that makes me happy," says Peterson, of Buffalo. "One that I would rather have than a thousand dollars."

"Money isn't everything in this world. There is many a big hearted, rich man who would give all he has on earth to be able to produce a remedy with such mighty healing power as Peterson's Ointment, to sell at all druggists for 50 cents a large box."

Dear Sirs:—
"I was an untold sufferer from old running sores and ulcers. I had tried most everything without any relief from pain. A friend told me of your wonderful ointment and the first box took away the pain that had not left me before in years, and after using just nine dollars' worth of the ointment I am cured. The ulcer was 9 inches by 4 1/2 inches. It is all healed and I can walk. Never, never will I be without Peterson's again."

"You may use this to recommend your ointment, if you wish. I cannot say enough to praise it. Yours truly, Mrs. Albert Southcott, Medicine, N. Y. Mail orders filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y."

STYLES PROGRESS IN UNDERTHINGS

GENTLE women have always appreciated all the little subtle touches that are the essentials of good dressing. In days gone by our grandmothers learned the art of embroidery and occupied many hours of their time doing painstaking and beautiful work on their belongings. They replenished their store of underthings with dainty hand-made pieces, adding refinements to them in embroidery and other stitching. Underwear of fine cottons, decorated with exquisite embroideries, is as much admired as ever, but most of it is made in other lands than ours.

Meantime styles in underthings progress. They have not grown any less dainty but they have become more luxurious. Wash silks and satins, laces and even chiffons have been added to the materials used for making them and ribbons have replaced embroidery. The camisole petticoat and boudoir mantle pictured here reflect the mode in luxurious and beautiful underthings of silk which has eclipsed cotton in the favor of many fair women.

If it were not for embellishments of ribbon our underwear of today would be uninteresting and tame. No matter whether of silk or cotton it is all designed with reference to ribbon decorations and no manufacturer could hope for any success who failed to reckon with ribbon. Lingerie bows, flower forms and ornaments that are detachable are taken as a matter of course in the wardrobe of today.

The petticoat pictured is made of white wash satin and finished at the bottom edge with a border of lace. Deep scalloped pieces with bound edges are set on instead of a flounce and headed with a band of lace insertion. Small flowerlike rosettes made of narrow pink ribbon are set at the top and bottom of the scallop. The camisole is made of a filmy lace with narrow satin ribbon simulating flowers applied to it. The same ribbon supplies the shoulder straps and makes the little blossoms set on where they join the body. Wider ribbon with a picot edge takes care of the adjustment at the waist and supplies a pretty bow and ends for a finish. By such means the much-occupied women of today contrive to have those delicate underthings that are essential to perfect dress.

INDOOR DRESS NOW GOES TROUSERWARD

NEGLIGEEES patterned after the garb of Chinese women are developing popularity at a rate that promises to make them rivals of the kimono. They prove to be comfortable, practical and unexpectedly becoming—especially to small women. Other skirtless models reveal a trouser-ward trend in boudoir clothes, as is apparent in any representative display of such garments. Turkish trousers of satin or even of silk and metal tissues, over low bodices, form the foundation for long, loose coats of crepe georgette or chiffon. In the showiest and most splendid examples of negligees; so there is plenty of precedent for the Chinese garments of much less magnificence, although nearly all of these are fashioned in silk or satin which is more than fine enough.

An excellent example of indoor georgette make an equally simple indoor dress having a straight chemise slip of the heavier material and an over garment of lace and georgette, with square neck that allows it to slip over the head. A ribbon girdle and small spray of ribbon flowers acquit themselves perfectly as finishing touches. A bandeau of ribbons on the head is substituted for a boudoir cap and proves an advantage in the direction of dignity.

Very pretty negligees of lightweight broadened satins and in novelty crepe de chine are among the last addition to indoor clothes. They are usually cut like long, loose and slightly draped coats with long shawl collars that are a froth of lace frills and organdie. Bandeaux of frills and ribbon, with tiny chiffon roses for trimming, complete with the collar and complete

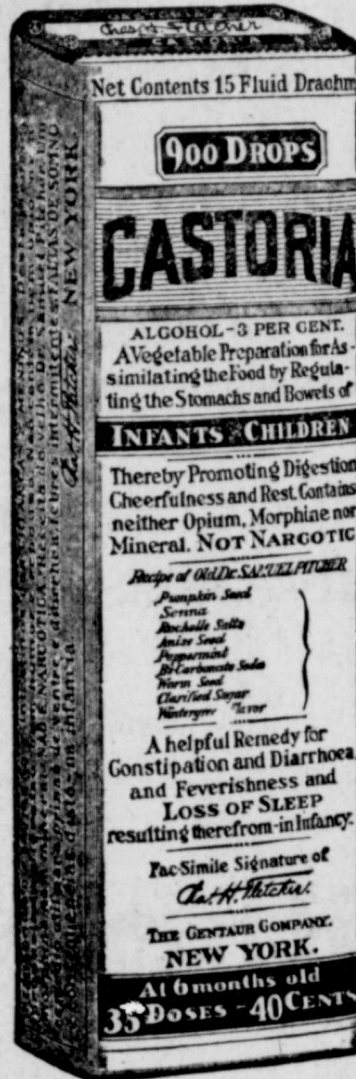

False Claims.

WE hope there is no Mother who thinks she can treat her sick baby without calling in a Physician, or with remedies that she uses for herself.

Most Mothers know that Baby requires remedies especially prepared for babies, yet there are some who think that what is good enough for them is good enough for Baby, and it is to these Mothers we appeal to give nothing to their babies that is not specially prepared for babies or recommended by their Physician.

False claims may kill, but false claims can never restore your child.

For over thirty years Fletcher's Castoria has been aiding in the reduction of the deaths among infants as Mothers have become more and more acquainted with it. Always keep it in the house.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Mothers Must Use Care.

Why do we so often call your attention to imitations of Fletcher's Castoria? Because it is a baby's medicine and imitations are always dangerous, particularly imitations of a remedy for infants.

Your druggist may not keep an imitation but they are to be found on drug-store shelves. Reliable druggists think only of the welfare of their customers. The other kind only of the greater profit to be made on imitations.

Your own judgment tells you that Fletcher's Castoria having for over thirty years at great expense held up its reputation, must jealously guard it. Then, it follows that this company must use the very best of material. Must employ experts in the selection of the herbs. Must retain skilled chemists in its manufacture.

Your same good judgment must tell you that these irresponsible imitators are trading on your credulity and the reputation built up by Mr. Fletcher, during all these years, for his Castoria.
