MOTHERS AND FATHERS OF HEDLEY COMMUNITY--- READ

Shall there be a private pool hall in a public place in the town of Hedley?

The Local Post of the American Legion has opened a Legion Hall in Hedley in the building at the rear end of the blacksmith shop, and has installed equipment for playing pool.

I will preach next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock on the moral aspect of this feature of the opening of the new quarters.

The Local Post is invited to come—singly or in a body. Reserved seats for entire Post, if desired.

Y. F. Walker, Pastor.

SQUARE DEAL GARAGE NOW RANKS WITH BEST

The Informer editor had the pleasure of visiting the Square Deal Garage Tuesday, and noted the many improvements recently made in that business.

Roy Swafford, the proprietor, has just completed the renovating and remodeling of the building's interior, from front end to the backyard. Everything looks spic and span, and many additions to stock and equipment are in evidence.

A nice and convenient office room has been cut off near the front, which also makes a comfortable and good looking rest room, for which it is to be used when occasion demands. Here are desks, chairs, telephone and other needed fixtures.

The most extended of the new departments is the addition of a good size stock room, new tire racks, etc., with the installation of a large stock of genuine Ford parts of all kinds. This is something that has long been needed, and Mr. Swafford has filled the need with the largest assortment of Ford parts ever assembled in Hedley. It consists of everything used in connection with a Ford car, and Hedley people who have heretofore been forced to go or send elsewhere for these parts can now get the genuine article right here at home.

The Square Deal Garage is now among the best equipped in the Panhandle, and Mr. Swafford invites you to call on him when in need of anything in the garage line.

SCHOOL TAX NOTICE

We are advising every taxpayer in the Hedley Independent School District to call at First State Bank, Hedley, and find if they owe any delinquent school taxes. Many do, and doubtless some of them are not aware of the fact. We don't want to sue on these delinquents without first giving due warning. Hence this notice. The school needs the money, and must have it.

By order of the Board,
W. A. Armstrong, Pres.
Van Boone, Secretary.

Frank Osborn was in Hedley Tuesday, from Clarendon.

GIDEON BAND AND VALIANT KNIGHTS ENTERTAIN

One of the most enjoyable socials of the season was given the Glad Girls and Queen Esthers on Friday evening, Jan. 19th, by the Gideon Band and Valiant Knights. An instructive as well as entertaining time was enjoyed by all.

Everyone was initiated into the mysteries of the Siamese language by an Oxford professor with an unpronounceable name, and it was discovered that mysteries are sometimes resolved into commonplace affairs.

Another instructive feature was the profound debate between representatives of the Gideons and Knights upon the subject, "Resolved, That the Pen Is Mightier than the Sword." The conclusion of this debate was never reached, because a digression from the subject by the first speaker precipitated a hand to hand conflict, which scattered all thoughts of the debate. In addition we learned that we entertain actors and men of genius equal to that of Demosthenes, Cicero, and Burke.

After a time well spent in fun and pleasant association, delicious refreshments were served. All who were present unite in voting the Gideon Band and Valiant Knights right royal entertainers.

CHIFFON VELVET IS POPULAR;
TOTS IN SMART COATS OF FUR

CHIFFON velvet, in afternoon dresses, proves an inspiration to designers who love to elaborate this romantic fabric with ribbons and laces, gold or silver tissue and other embellishments. It lends itself to fur-belts, but is also charming in the simplest dresses and only the expert can afford to give fancy a free rein in the matter of decorative features on frocks of this material.

Just how far genius may go in this direction is set forth by the unusual and beautiful dress illustrated. It is a sapphire blue frock in which much this year, and has evidently brought home many pelts of muskrats, rabbits and squirrels along with those of other animals, to wrap the baby up in. Tiny girls are going about in smart little coats of fur, or are provided with fur-trimmed cloth coats and furnished with caps, neckpieces and muffs of fur—and they wear these luxuries proudly. The "hat to match" idea has proved especially successful, used with fur coats or accessories, and little ladies are more smartly clad on account of it.

In northern lands the fur coat, with narrow moire ribbon and velvet-covered cord in the same color, silver tissue and a little fine lace, are blended in a gem of the designer's art. Its lines are simple, with straight skirt and bodice. Four panels on the skirt are made of plaited ribbon, one at the back and front and one at each side. Each of these panels consists of three narrower panels grouped together and they are joined at the top and bottom of the skirt by four rows of the plaited ribbon.

The straight, long-waisted bodice is cut with kimono sleeves, elbow muff and headwear to match, is the smartest outfit for midwinter. It is illustrated here by two examples, one of muskrat, and the other of white rabbit fur trimmed with krummer. Coats are straight, usually flaring a little toward the bottom, with plain coat sleeves and wide belts of the fur. They fasten with a few large buttons and have high collars, either in the straight band or turnover style, that button snugly about the throat, protecting the lower part of the face. The coat at the left of the picture, of muskrat, shows the advantage of a length, and split on the upper side, where they are finished with a piping of the velvet-covered cord. Cord of this kind forms a fringe of loops at the bottom of the sleeves and three little roses of silver tissue give them a delightful finishing touch. Similar roses and loops make the girdle. A collar of fine lace is of a dignity to match the excellence of this distinguished gown.

Fine lace collars are shown at their best on velvet dresses, and the two flourish together.

high collar into which the small wearer's head may snugly down. She wears a Russian turban, with soft crown, and a round muff, all made of the muskrat fur.

The small lady at the left is much dressed up in a coat of white rabbit skins, with collar, belt and cuffs of gray krummer. Her muff is also round and she wears a wide turban of rabbit with a headband of the krummer.

COW DAY DREAMS

"Moo, moo," said Mrs. Cow, "I am not asleep but I am dreaming."

"Goodness me," said Mrs. Brown-and-White Cow, "I do not understand. That is too much for my cow mind."

"Much too much."

"Well," said Mrs. Cow, "it is quite possible to be dreaming and yet not be asleep. Perhaps though I should say that I am day-dreaming."

"When creatures day-dream they think of things during the day-time which they would like to have, of places they would like to visit, of happy events they would like to have come off."

"Such are day dreams. Creatures may never close their eyes and yet they may have day dreams."

"I do hope in my cow way I am clear and that I am explaining it to you so you understand."

"Yes," said Mrs. Brown-and-White Cow, "I understand. And what have been your day dreams, Mrs. Cow?"

Mrs. Cow was much pleased to tell her day dreams. In fact, that had been what she had been wanting to do.

"I have been dreaming of the springtime," said Mrs. Cow. "The springtime will not be here for quite awhile now, but I am dreaming of it."

"I am thinking of the brook and the stream. The ice will have gone when the springtime comes."

"And after Mr. Sun has taken the chill off the water it will be so pleasant."

"Then the grass will begin to grow and everything will start in for another summer of glory."

"As I look out of the stall window upon this cold winter day I do not think of the snow which I see before me. I would see that if I were not day dreaming."

"But as I am day dreaming I think of the warmth and the soft, lovely earth and of days and nights spent out of doors."

"I think of all of that."

"To my cow mind," said Mrs. Brown-and-White, "I think you are clever."

"Yes, I think it is clever for one to think of warm weather when it is cold."

"Of course anyone can think of warm weather when it is cold, but I mean that I think it is wonderful when they can actually almost feel the warm weather."

"Why when you were talking just now you spoke as though you actually felt the warm spring air upon your face and could feel the lovely earth under your feet."

"The very way I felt," said Mrs. Cow. "Oh, that is the great joy of day dreaming. You should try it, Mrs. Brown-and-White."

"Yes, you should try it."

"Well," said Mrs. Brown-and-White, "maybe I will."

And there was quiet for awhile. Then Mrs. Brown-and-White said:

"Moo, moo," and Mrs. Cow said:

"My dear, do tell me! Have you been having a pleasant day dream? Have you?"

"Why yes," said Mrs. Brown-and-White, "I've been having a beautiful day dream. In fact I almost felt I was too hot and that the flies were bothersome. I got very far along in my day dreaming."

"And I understand now how children have make-believe games. I remember a little boy this fall asking his mother if he could make a bonfire."

"There would have been no one to watch the bonfire and the mother was afraid something might happen, so she told the little boy that he could only make a make-believe bonfire."

"That little boy had a beautiful time, too. He pretended there were flames and he danced about the bonfire."

"He had made it out of leaves, but there was no fire about it."

"And yet he had such a splendid time making-believe."

"And there was I actually feeling too warm, so real a 'make-believe' as I was having."

And Mrs. Cow smiled and so did Mrs. Brown-and-White for it was a great joke to think a day dream could be as real as all that.

So the cows often had their day dreams during the winter and their day dreams were always of the springtime and the summer and of beautiful meadows and streams.

THREE-FLAT HOUSE
GOOD INVESTMENT

Provides Home for Owner and Additional Income.

RENT WILL HELP PAY FOR IT

It is a Three-Flat Home With the Appearance of a Regular Private Residence—Has Many Good Features.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 132 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD
The home shown in the accompanying photograph is a new and ingenious income property that is gaining in popularity among home builders in every section of the country.

It is a combination residence and apartment building and is so designed that in addition to providing the owner a home of his own, it brings him an additional income.

This beautiful structure, therefore, will particularly appeal to the man desiring a home for his family, but because of his financial circumstances feels the property must also produce an additional revenue to take care of the interest on his investment or assist him in meeting some other ob-three-room apartments with private baths. The home is designed so that another story could be built on with out destroying its attractiveness. This would provide a six-room apartment on the first floor and four three-room flats instead of two.

The two three-room flats will bring in more rent than if the entire floor was rented as a six-room apartment. Three rooms is the popular size of small flats today in nearly all modern hotel-apartment buildings. They are also much easier to take care of and not so costly to furnish. Numerous space-saving devices may be installed that will provide nearly all the conveniences and advantages of larger quarters.

From the spacious and inviting front porch one enters a hall where the steps leading upstairs are located. The first entrance at the left opens into the large living room, which is 17 by 11 feet. Directly ahead is the dining room, which joins the kitchen.

First Floor Plan.

figations. It is designed with that idea in view and is an excellent investment.

In building a home of this type the owner need pay down only an initial investment. He can pay off the remaining indebtedness in regular payments from the rent he receives.

It is a three-flat home with the appearance of a regular private residence. This overcomes one of the most frequent objections to building a double house.

This particular style also has another advantage over the ordinary double or duplex house. By converting the second and third floor—if there is one—into three-room apartments it increases the earning capacity of the property considerably more than building a regular duplex.

In this arrangement one flat, consisting of six rooms—three of them bedrooms—and bath, occupies the first floor. This is ideally suited for the owner and his family, as the rooms are all large and comfortable with excellent light and ventilation. As can be seen from the floor plan this arrangement does not interfere with the privacy of any of the apartments.

On the second floor are the two

To the right of the kitchen is a roomy pantry.

The other side of the first floor is occupied by the three bedrooms and bath. Each bedroom is equipped with a modern space-saving closet.

The stairs lead onto another hall on the second floor. Both apartments have a living room, dining room, kitchen and private bath. In the dining room and living room of each flat are bed closets containing disappearing beds of the type found in high-priced apartment hotels today. These beds are quickly and easily taken down at night, providing two beds for each apartment. During the day, since they are out of sight, the space that beds ordinarily occupy may be used for some other purpose. The floor plan indicates where the beds are located.

The two baths are located at the rear of the floor. In the hall near the bathroom doors are located the two scuttles to the attic, which is lighted by the windows of the two dormers.

The kitchens have an entrance opening onto a large back porch with steps leading to the ground.

Both flats open onto the common hallway which leads to the balcony.

"By the help of Tanlac I have overcome a case of nervous indigestion I had suffered from for ten or twelve years," is the emphatic statement of Norman W. Brown, well-known wall paper and paint dealer, of 213 N. Cedar St., Charlotte, N. C.

"My stomach was always out of fix and everything disagreed with me. I was troubled with heartburn and dizziness, and at times there was a pressure of gas around my heart that almost cut off my breath."

"Since taking Tanlac my digestion is fine. My appetite is a wonder and I eat just anything I want. In fact, my stomach acts and feels just like a new one and my nerves are as steady as a die. To put it all in a few words, I am just the same as a new man. It's a pleasure for me to tell my friends about Tanlac."

The Modern Youth.

Two flappers were looking at the window display. They paused before the figure of a woman, dressed in a gown that dated back half a century. After inspecting it closely one of them was moved to speech. Said she:

"Say, kid, it's no wonder girls was reserved in their days. Why, if a fellow would rough-house a girl in them kinda clothes she'd bust!"

A revolution may be the same thing over again.

Hedley School Notes

SENIOR NOTES

A marked improvement has been noticed in the attendance of the Seniors since such drastic measures have been taken in regard to tardies and absences. Ruby Dackett spent last week end at Newlin with home folk. Florence Curd was absent Monday on account of sickness.

Things we are paid not to tell:

- 1 Where did three experiments go?
- 2 Who said "Spit 'em out, or leave 'em alone"?
- 3 Who sings "I Want My Jazz Bo"?
- 4 Who asked: Is Mayme jealous of me?
- 5 Who is it that always wants to know where Cuckoo is?
- 6 Who told one secret of the T J F?
- 7 Who says: Just because I yawn a lot is no sign that I'm up late at night?
- 8 Why is one of the Senior girls called "Heaven Eyes"?
- 9 What Senior girl keeps a lip stick hid in her desk?
- 10 Who has made the latest discovery?
- 11 What was Bill's first soloquy?

JUNIOR JOTS

We are glad to have Gladys Peninger in school again. The Juniors are being exposed to more memory work this week. Mercy on us! We were real glad to get our report cards Friday afternoon, although some of us were really shocked when we discovered our grades.

One of the Juniors overheard the following:

Little Pat, to Dad: "Dad, can you write your name with your eyes closed?"
Dad: "Sure, son."
Little Pat: "Well, shut your eyes and sign my report card."

Do not forget the surprise promised the 10th and 11th grades.

In Cicero class Friday some one read a sentence in which "per se" appeared. Miss Monnie Jean began explaining the use of "per se" when Vera says: "Miss Monnie Jean, I'm gonna go home and tell mama I got my Cicero per se."

A paraphrase handed in by a Junior: (Does it remind you?)
"So study, that when thy summons comes from the teacher to answer the miserable questions on exam of That awful subject where each shall take His seat in the silent study-hall, Thou look not like one who has not studied."

But read Western-Stories at night, but sustained and soothed. With a perfect knowledge, approach thy exam.

Like one who has studied, and can wrap the drapery of his couch About him, and lie down to pleasant dreams."

SOPH SPECIALS

Alton Quisenberry was absent a few days last week. Ansil Adamson failed to be at school last Wednesday with his funny jokes and sweet smiles.

Lorraine Simmons of Clarendon visited the Sophomore Class last Friday morning.

Faye and Nita Culwell failed to report at school last Thursday.

Chant of the Soph:

"Shall" I ever get 'em straight?
Night and day

FRESHMAN NEWS

Almost all the "Fresh Fish" went down to "sea" (see) and attended the art exhibit last week. The pictures were enjoyed very much by all. The eighth grade received their report cards Friday, and some of the grades proved to be M—"mighty good."

Syphel: There is such a difference between men and women when it comes to birthdays.

Hazel: How is that?
Syphel: Why, when Mr. Weaver has a birthday he takes a day off, but when Miss Cannedy has a birthday she takes a year off.

Light are seen in the home of the school children earlier these mornings, as they have decided it is about as pleasant to lose a few minutes sleep as to stay 45 minutes after school, or have some taken from their grades,—their grades being low enough at best.

ATHLETICS

Hedley High was victorious again Saturday in a game with Clarendon. The home team did splendid work from start to finish, winning by a score of 24 to 19. Coach Weaver is working the team hard for a game with McLean Saturday, for the championship of Donley and Gray counties. The winner of this game will go to Canyon. The lineup is as follows:

Forwards, Shaw and Moore. Guards, Simmons and Clifton. Center, Hill.

PARENT TEACHERS MEET

On January 19, at 3:30 o'clock, the Parent Teachers Association met at the school building in regular session. Reports of officers and committees were heard and some interesting plans were made. After the business discussion, the pupils of the second grade rendered a pleasing program, which consisted of readings by Johnnie Webb and a clever Mother Goose health play. The program by these little tots was very enjoyable. From time to time pupils will furnish the program. Their efforts are to be appreciated.

The following are hints to P. T. A. members:

MY TASK

- "To love someone more dearly every day;
- "To help a wand'ring child to find his way;
- "To ponder o'er a noble thought and pray,
- And smile when evening falls;
- This is my task.
- "To follow truth as blind men long for light;
- "To do my best from dawn of day till night;
- "To keep myself fit for His holy sight,
- And answer when He calls;
- This is my task."

How to Kill Your P. T. A.

1. Don't come to meetings.
2. If you do come, come late.
3. If the weather doesn't suit you, don't think of coming.
4. If you should attend a meeting find fault with what is being done.
5. Never accept an office; it is easier to criticize than to do things.

6. If asked for your opinion during a discussion in a meeting, have nothing to say. After the meeting tell everyone how the thing should have been done or decided.

7. Hold back your dues as long as possible or don't pay at all.

8. Don't bother about getting new members; let George do it.

9. If asked to serve on the program or on committee, agree to do it and then fail at the eleventh hour.

How to Keep Your P. T. A. A Live

1. Come to the meetings.
2. Come on time.
3. If weather doesn't suit you come anyway.
4. Do not find fault with what is being done. Give only constructive criticism.
5. Accept your share of work. Do it cheerfully and conscientiously.
6. Take part in discussions.

Mother Says Babies Never Get Real Sick

That Teethina, the famous baby laxative and stomach corrective, is the greatest medicine on earth for keeping little children well and happy all the time is conclusively proven by the statement of Mrs. R. B. Bogart, of 80 Lindsey street, Atlanta, Ga., who says:

"I have three boys, the oldest five, the next will soon be four and the baby is eighteen months old. I have given them all Teethina whenever they showed the slightest sign of feeling bad, and not only have the results been wonderful, but none of them have ever been really sick in their lives. I believe their good health is due entirely to Teethina."

TO WIPE OUT TUBERCULOSIS

State of Washington Expected to Be First to Eliminate Dreaded Cattle Disease.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Washington is expected to be the first of the 48 states to make definite plans to wipe out all bovine tuberculosis within its borders. In 20 of the 29 counties area eradication work has already been conducted in co-operation with the United States Department of Agriculture. The commissioner of agriculture and the state veterinarian have planned a state-wide program that will be presented to the legislature in January. The governor is understood to be in favor of the plan, and there is every reason to believe that sufficient money will be appropriated so that with the co-operation of the department on the present basis all the cattle in the state will be tested within a reasonable time.

The light infection of the cattle herds in the state and the fact that most of the cattle already have been tested make the outlook particularly promising. An indication of the low percentage of tuberculosis was found in Spokane county this summer. The veterinarian in charge tested 469 herds, containing 2,754 animals, and condemned only 4.

Ninety-five per cent of the purebred herds in Washington are already under supervision.

GATE MADE HANDY FOR HOGS

Permits Small Animals to Pass Through, but Horses and Cattle Are Kept Out.

I am sending diagram (D-181) and description of a gate which we have used with much success for about twenty years to allow hogs through but not cattle or horses, writes F. Nolin of Kansas in the Prairie Farmer. This gate can be of any length or height desired, and as shown the vertical cleats are made long enough to catch on bottom board of fence to prevent pushing and breaking, but if wanted to work both ways the lower projections will have to be cut off. It will be better, however, to keep the gate hooked down, and when wanted for passing stock through, to raise gate up and hook it out of the way. We generally make such a gate out of 1 by 6 rough cypress and about 4 feet high, spacing cracks from bottom up 2 1/2, 3 1/2 and 5 inches.

HAVE MILK HOUSE SEPARATE

Room for Straining, Cooling and Storage Should Be Free From Dust and Bad Odors.

Every farm on which dairying is an important interest should have a milk house separated from the stable. At least there should be a milk room, which though it may be under the same roof, should not open into the stable. The milk should be promptly removed from the stable and carried to the milk room for straining, cooling and storage. This work should be done in an atmosphere free from dust, insects and noxious odors.

Farmers' Bulletin 1214 issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, gives plans and pictures of milk houses adapted to various conditions. Blue prints may be obtained from the department at Washington, D. C.

IMPORTANT FEEDS FOR SOW

Ration Supplied While Carrying Her Litter Must Contain Proteins and Minerals.

The ration which the sow receives while she is carrying her litter must be plentifully supplied with proteins and minerals. These important food materials not only affect the quality, but also the number of pigs which are farrowed.

Time to Wean Pigs.
Pigs may be weaned when they are about eight weeks of age. When the pigs are two or three weeks old they begin to take an interest in the grain fed their mothers, and this should be encouraged.

Consideration for Animals.
Be considerate of farm animals; it pays.

Save the Feed Bill.
Put up the stock when cold rains come, and it will save you lots of feed.

MISS LULU BETT

By ZONA GALE
Copyright by D. Appleton & Company

VI—Continued.

"Oh, by the music houses. You go by the sales." For the first time it occurred to Cornish that this was ridiculous. "You know, I'm really studying law," he said, shyly and proudly. Law! How very interesting, from Ina. Oh, but won't he bring up some songs some evening, for them to fry over? Her and Di? At this Di laughed and said that she was out of practice, and lifted her glass of water. In the presence of adults Di made one word, she was so slender, so young, so without defenses, so intolerably sensitive to every contact, so in agony lest she be found wanting. It was amazing how unlike was this Di to the Di who had ensnared Bobby Larkin. What was one to think?

Cornish paid very little attention to her. To Lulu he said kindly, "Don't you play, Miss—?" He had not caught her name—no stranger ever did catch it. But Dwight now supplied it: "Miss Lulu Bett," he explained, with loud emphasis, and Lulu burned her slow red. This question Lulu had usually answered by telling how a felon had interrupted her lessons and she had stopped "taking"—a participle sacred to music, in Warbleton. This vignette had been a kind of epitome of Lulu's biography. But now Lulu was heard to say, serenely:

"No, but I'm quite fond of it. I went to a lovely concert—two weeks ago."

They all listened. Strange, indeed, to think of Lulu as having had experiences of which they did not know.

"Yes," she said. "It was in Savannah, Georgia." She flushed, and lifted her eyes in a manner of faint defiance. "Of course," she said. "I don't know the names of all the different instruments they played, but there were a good many." She laughed pleasantly as a part of her sentence. "They had some lovely tunes," she said. She knew that the subject was not exhausted and she hurried on. "The hall was real large," she superadded, "and there were quite a good many people there. And it was too warm."

"I see," said Cornish, and said what he had been waiting to say: That he, too, had been in Savannah, Georgia.

Lulu lit with pleasure. "Well!" she said. And her mind worked and she caught at the moment before it had escaped. "Isn't it a pretty city?" she asked. And Cornish assented with the intense heartiness of the provincial. He, too, it seemed, had a conversational appearance to maintain by its own effort. He said that he had enjoyed being in that town and that he was there for two hours.

"I was there for a week." Lulu's superiority was really pretty.

"Have good weather?" Cornish selected next.

"Oh, yes. And they saw all the different buildings—but at her 'we' she flushed and was silenced. She was coloring and breathing quickly. This was the first bit of conversation of this sort in Lulu's life.

After supper Ina inevitably proposed croquet. Dwight pretended to try to escape and, with his irrepresible mien, talked about Ina, inexpressible in his insistence on the third person—"She loves it, we have to humor her, you know how it is. Or no! You don't know! But you will"—and more of the same sort, everybody laughing heartily, save Lulu, who looked uncomfortable and wished that Dwight wouldn't, and Mrs. Bett, who paid no attention to anybody that night, not because she had not been introduced, an omission which she had not even noticed, but merely as another form of "tantrum"—a self-indulgence.

They emerged for croquet. And there on the porch sat Jenny Plow and Bobby, waiting for Di to keep an old engagement, which Di pretended to have forgotten, and to be frightfully annoyed to have to keep. She met the objections of her parents with all the batteries of Cornish and, set for both Bobby and Cornish and, held in the presence of "company," at last went laughing away. And in the minute arena of her consciousness she said to herself that Bobby would be more in love with her than ever because she had risked all to go with him; and that Cornish ought to be distinctly attracted to her because she had not stayed. She was as primitive as pollen.

Ina was vexed. She said so, putting in a fashion which she should have outgrown with white muslin and blue ribbons, and she had outgrown none of these things.

"That just spoils croquet," she said. "I'm vexed. Now we can't have a real game."

From the side door, where she must have been lingering among the water-proofs, Lulu stepped forth.

"I'll play a game," she said.

When Cornish actually proposed to bring some music to the Deacons', Ina turned toward Dwight Herbert and the facets of her responsibility. And Ina's sense of responsibility toward Di was enormous, oppressive, primitive, amounting, in fact, toward this daughter of Dwight Herbert's late wife, to an ability to compress the offices of stepmotherhood into the functions of the lecture platform. Ina was a fountain of admonition. Her idea of a daughter, step or not, was that of a manufactured product, strictly, which you constantly pinched and molded. She thought that a moral preceptor had the right to secrete precepts. Di got them all. But of course the crest of Ina's responsibility was to marry Di. This verb should be transitive only when it is speaking of a other, or the minister or magistrate is speaking of lovers. It should never be transitive when predicated of parents or any other third party. But it is. Ina was quite agitated by its transitivity as she took to her husband her incredible responsibility.

"You know, Herbert," said Ina, "if this Mr. Cornish comes here very much, what we may expect."

"What may we expect?" demanded Dwight Herbert, crisply.

Ina always played his games, answered what he expected her to answer, pretended to be intuitive when she was not so, said "I know" when she didn't know at all. Dwight Herbert, on the other hand, did not even play her games when he knew perfectly what she meant, but pretended not to understand, made her repeat, made her explain. It was as if Ina had to please him for, say, a living; but as for that dentist, he had to please nobody. In the conversations of Dwight and Ina you saw the historical home forming in clots in the fluid wash of the community.

"I'll fall in love with Di," said Ina.

"And what of that? Little daughter will have many a man fall in love with her, I should say."

"Yes, but, Dwight, what do you think of him?"

"What do I think of him? My dear Ina, I have other things to think of."

"But we don't know anything about him, Dwight—a stranger so."

"On the other hand," said Dwight with dignity, "I know a good deal about him."

With a great air of having done the fatherly and found out about this stranger before bringing him into the home, Dwight now related a number of stray circumstances dropped by Cornish in their chance talks.

"He has a little inheritance coming to him—shortly," Dwight wound up.

"An inheritance—really? How much, Dwight?"

"Now isn't that like a woman, isn't it?"

"I thought he was from a good family," said Ina.

"My mercenary little pussy!"

"Well," she said with a sigh, "I shouldn't be surprised if Di did really accept him. A young girl is awfully flattered when a good-looking older man pays her attention. Haven't you noticed that?"

Dwight informed her, with an air of immense abstraction, that he left all such matters to her. Being married to Dwight was like a perpetual rehearsal, with Dwight's self-importance for audience.

A few evenings later, Cornish brought up the music. There was something overpowering in this brown-haired chap against the background of his negligible little shop, his whole capital in his few pianos. For he looked hopefully ahead, woke with plans, regarded the children in the street as if, conceivably, children might come within the confines of his life as he imagined it. A preposterous little man. And a preposterous store, empty, echoing, bare of wall, the three pianos near the front, the remainder of the floor stretching away like the corridors of the lost. He was going to get a dark curtain, he explained, and furnish the back part of the store as his own room. What dignity in phrasing, but how mean that little room would look—cot bed, washbowl and pitcher, and little mirror—almost certainly a mirror with a wavy surface, almost certainly that.

"And then, you know," he always added, "I'm reading law."

The Plows had been asked in that evening. Bobby was there. They were, Dwight Herbert said, going to have a sing.

Di was to play. And Di was now embarked on the most difficult feat of her emotional life, the feat of remaining to Bobby Larkin the lure, the beloved lure, the while to Cornish she instinctively played the role of womanly little girl.

"Up by the festive lamp, everybody!" Dwight Herbert cried.

As they gathered about the upright piano, that startled, Dwightish instrument, standing in its attitude of unrest, Lulu came in with another lamp. "Do you need this?" she asked.

They did not need it, there was, in fact, no place to set it, and this Lulu must have known. But Dwight found a place. He swept Ninian's photograph from the marble shelf of the mirror, and when Lulu had placed the lamp there, Dwight thrust the photograph into her hands.

"You take care of that," he said, with a droop of lid discernible only to those who—presumably—loved him. His old attitude toward Lulu had shown a terrible sharpening in these ten days since her return.

She stood uncertainly, in the thin black and white gown which Ninian had bought for her, and held Ninian's photograph and looked helplessly about. She was moving toward the door when Cornish called:

"See here! Aren't you going to sing?"

"What?" Dwight used the falsetto. "Lulu sing? Lulu?"

She stood awkwardly. She had a piteous recrudescence of her old agony at being spoken to in the presence of others. But Di had opened the "Album of Old Favorites," which Cornish had elected to bring, and now she struck the opening chords of "Bonny Eloise." Lulu stood still, looking rather piteously at Cornish.

Dwight offered his arm, absurdly crooked. The Plows and Ina and Di began to sing. Lulu moved forward, and stood a little away from them, and sang, too. She was still holding Ninian's picture. Dwight did not sing. He lifted his shoulders and his eyebrows and watched Lulu.

When they had finished, "Lulu the mocking bird!" Dwight cried. He said "ba-ird."

"Fine!" cried Cornish. "Why, Miss Lulu, you have a good voice!"

"Miss Lulu Bett, the mocking ba-ird!" Dwight insisted.

Lulu was excited, and in some accession of faint power. She turned to him now, quietly, and with a look of appraisal.

"Lulu the dove," she then surprisingly said, "to put up with you."

It was her first bit of conscious repartee to her brother-in-law.

Cornish was bending over Di. "What next do you say?" he asked.

She lifted her eyes, met his own, held them. "There's such a lovely, lovely sacred song here," she suggested, and looked down.

"You like sacred music?" She turned to him her pure profile, her eyelids fluttering up, and said: "I love it."

"That's it. So do I. Nothing like a nice sacred piece," Cornish declared.

Bobby Larkin, at the end of the piano, looked directly into Di's face.

"Give me ragtime," he said now, with the effect of bursting out of somewhere. "Don't you like ragtime?" he put it to her directly.

Di's eyes danced into his, they sparkled for him, her smile was a smile for him alone, all their store of common memories was in their look.

"Let's try 'My Rock, My Refuge,'" Cornish suggested. "That's got up real attractive."

Di's profile again, and her pleased voice saying that this was the very one she had been hoping to hear him sing.

They gathered for "My Rock, My Refuge."

"Oh," cried Ina, at the conclusion of this number, "I'm having such a perfectly beautiful time. Isn't everybody?" everybody's hostess put it.

"Lulu is!" said Dwight, and added softly to Lulu: "She don't have to hear herself sing."

It was incredible. He was like a bad boy with a frog. About that photograph of Ninian he found a dozen ways to torture her, called attention to it, showed it to Cornish, set it on the piano facing them all. Everybody must have understood—excepting the Plows. These two gentle souls sang placidly through the Album of Old Favorites, and at the melodies smiled happily upon each other with an air from another world. Always it was as if the Plows walked some fair, interpenetrating plane, from which they looked out as do other things not quite of earth, say, flowers and fire and music.

Strolling home that night, the Plows were overtaken by some one who ran badly, and as if she were unaccustomed to running.

"Mis' Plow, Mis' Plow!" this one called, and Lulu stood beside them.

"Say!" she said. "Do you know of any job that I could get me? I mean that I'd know how to do? A job for money. . . . I mean a job. . . ."

She burst into passionate crying. They drew her home with them.

Lying awake sometime after midnight, Lulu heard the telephone ring. She heard Dwight's concerned "Is that so?" and his cheerful "Be right there."

Grandma Gates was sick, she heard him tell Ina. In a few moments he ran down the stairs. Next day they told how Dwight had sat for hours that night, holding Grandma Gates so that her back would rest easily and she could fight for her faint breath. The kind fellow had only about two hours of sleep the whole night long. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

COTTAGE CHEESE CLUB SANDWICHES

Tasty Dish for Lunch or Supper or Unexpected Guests.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
For a tasty dish for lunch or supper or unexpected guests, the United States Department of Agriculture recommends cottage cheese club sandwiches.

This sandwich is made of three good-sized slices of toasted bread, one or more being spread thickly with cottage cheese. The rest of the filling may be varied to suit the taste or the larder. Such sandwiches are often cut diagonally and served on individual plates with the halves arranged in diamond shape. It is desirable to toast the bread on one side only and to cut it immediately after toasting, otherwise the pressure of cutting crushes out the cheese and spoils the appearance of the sandwich. The cut slices may be placed together again while the sandwich is being filled, and the filling may be sliced through with a sharp knife.

In addition to the cottage cheese these club sandwiches may contain mayonnaise dressing, lettuce, and tomato; or thin-sliced cold ham spread with mustard; or sliced tart apple, nuts; or sliced orange, watercress; or sliced Spanish onion, pimiento; or two tiny strips of bacon; or cucumber and green pepper, pimiento. Lettuce and salad dressing are usually used in all these combinations.

Sweet sandwiches may be made with layers of cottage cheese and marmalade, or a paste made of dried fruits. For these the bread need not be toasted and the lettuce and mayonnaise should not be used.

RECIPE FOR MAKING A GOOD PLAIN CAKE

Suitable for Icing in Layers or in Tiny Squares.

One Has Been Tested by Department of Agriculture and Found Suitable for Purposes Named—Use Good, Clean Fat.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
There are many uses for a quickly made, economical, plain cake recipe of the "cottage pudding" type, suitable for icing in layers or in tiny squares, diamond shapes or triangles which are to be iced "all over." The following one has been tested by the United States Department of Agriculture and found excellent for the above purpose. Almond or other flavor may be substituted for the lemon. Clean, good fat of agreeable flavor, or without pronounced taste or odor may be used, such as lard, oil, compound, or vegetable fat. If butter is used, the fat should be increased to four tablespoonfuls. The frosting will be found very reliable if made as directed in the double boiler.

Plain Cake Recipe.
2-3 cupful milk
1/2 cupful granulated sugar
1/2 cupful lemon extract
1 teaspoonful lemon juice

Cream fat and sugar together, add egg well beaten and milk and flour alternately, reserving about quarter-cupful of the flour. Sift baking powder with this reserved quarter-cupful of flour and fold in last. Bake in 9-inch square pan at moderately low heat for twenty to thirty minutes, increasing the heat until the cake is brown, after ten or fifteen minutes. This cake will not be a success unless baked very slowly at the beginning.

Frosting.
White of 1 egg
1 cupful sugar
4 tablespoonfuls cold water
1 teaspoonful vanilla

Place the first three ingredients in a double boiler over a low fire, and beat until it stiffens enough to hold shape. Then add a pinch of salt and beat until thick enough to spread. Add vanilla or other flavoring. Chocolate flavoring may be made by melting two and a half squares of unsweetened chocolate and pouring into the mixture when it has stiffened enough to hold shape, then cook until thick, and spread. For caramel icing caramelize two or three tablespoonfuls of sugar until dark in color, and add an equal amount of boiling water. Substitute two teaspoonfuls of this syrup for two teaspoonfuls of the water in the frosting recipe, and continue according to the above directions.

POTATO STUFFED WITH PORK
Holes Made With Apple Corer and Filled With Cooked Sausage Is Most Excellent.

Pare large potatoes, suggests the United States Department of Agriculture, and then make several holes through each one with an apple corer. Fill the holes with previously cooked sausage meat and bake. Potatoes that have been peeled take longer to bake than those in their skins.

When Sink Stops Up.
When you find that the sink is stopped up, turn on the tap until the sink is three-quarters full, then turn it off. Put the palm of your hand flat over the hole and lift your hand up and down very quickly. This will soon make the water run away.

Use for Old Stockings.
When packing furniture for moving, old stockings will be found invaluable for wrapping legs of chairs and tables. They will not tear or leave exposed places for scratching as paper does.

GOOD PORK SAUSAGE RECIPE

Homemade Product Favored More by Many People Than Any That is on the Market.

Many people like homemade sausage cakes better than any other on the market. An excellent pork sausage may be made by using three parts of fresh lean pork to one of fat pork, the United States Department of Agriculture says. Cut into small pieces and pass through meat grinder, using a rather coarse plate. Weigh the meat, and for each pound add two teaspoonfuls salt, a pinch of sage, a few grains of ground nutmeg, and a saltspoonful of black pepper. Mix thoroughly and pass again through meat grinder, using small plate. Form into little round or flattened cakes and fry in deep fat until nicely browned.

MILLIONS OF SHOES WASTED

Annual Loss to Country Placed at $250,000,000 by Bureau of Chemistry—Poorly Shaped.

The 105,000,000 people of the United States buy about 300,000,000 pairs of shoes a year. Their needs could be supplied by 250,000,000 pairs, if the shoes were well cared for and kept in repair. The wasting of a single shoe a year by each person costs the country at least $250,000,000 at present prices, says the bureau of chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture.

Shoes of poor shape are one cause of waste. Attractive shoes of good shape combine comparatively straight inner lines, rounded toes, heels of medium height, and moderately thick soles, all of which make for greater serviceability, comfort and safety.

SIMMERING BURNER IS BEST

Helps Greatly to Cut Down Amount of Gas Necessary in Boiling and Stewing Meats.

The use of a simmering burner helps to cut down the amount of gas consumed in the processes of boiling and stewing, suggests the United States Department of Agriculture. Most gas stoves are provided with but one "simmerer," but a second one could easily be substituted for one of the larger burners.

Along with this ration should be fed leguminous roughage and some corn fodder or stover. To keep the bull in excellent condition, but not fat, exercise is a factor that must not be forgotten. If the bull cannot have access to a yard at all times, he should at least be tied outdoors each day and allowed to go back and forth by a cable.

DAIRY FACTS

Some Good Dairy "Don'ts"

Don't forget to wipe the cow's udder and flanks before milking.
Don't milk with wet hands.
Don't run cold milk through the separator.

Don't forget to cool the cream immediately after separation is completed.
Don't mix warm and cool cream.

Don't put milk or cream into dirty vessels.
Don't forget to wash the separator after each separation.

Don't separate the milk without first straining it.
Don't fail to operate the separator according to directions.

Don't expect the cream can to reach destination unless it is plainly addressed.
Don't feed dusty hay or ill-smelling feeds just before milking.

Don't expect the milk or cream to be cooler than the surroundings where it is kept.
Don't skim too thin cream.

Don't expect to get top price for cream unless cows, stable, utensils, separator, and milkers are kept clean.
Don't forget that there is good money in dairying if it is properly done.

GIVE HERD BULL GOOD CARE

Animal Entitled to and Needs as Much Attention as Milking Herd—Feed Some Grain.

Cost must not play the important part in caring for the herd bull, which needs as much attention as does the milking herd. When six months old the bull calf should be separated from the heifer calves and fed a ration that will keep him growing rapidly. At this age from four to eight pounds of grain daily, depending on his size, is the amount recommended by dairy specialists of the New Jersey State Agricultural college.

Most dairymen prefer to feed bulls the same grain ration that is fed to the other growing stock. But in addition, a good leguminous roughage is necessary, the amount depending on the size of the animal. Mature bulls will often consume 15 pounds of hay daily. Silage may be fed to the growing bull in small amounts, and up to 15 pounds to a mature animal.

Herd Bull Needs as Much Care as Milkers.

A common grain ration for the mature bull after complete growth is:

Three parts cornmeal.
Three parts ground oats.
Three parts wheat bran.
One part linseed meal.

Along with this ration should be fed leguminous roughage and some corn fodder or stover. To keep the bull in excellent condition, but not fat, exercise is a factor that must not be forgotten. If the bull cannot have access to a yard at all times, he should at least be tied outdoors each day and allowed to go back and forth by a cable.

NEW DAIRY FARM INDUSTRY

Co-operative Shipment of Surplus Cream in Georgia County Makes Large Growth.

In the spring of 1921 seven farmers in a Georgia county were induced by the county extension agent to make a trial co-operative shipment of 20 pounds of surplus cream. In June, 1922, 14 months later, according to a report made to the United States Department of Agriculture, this new farm industry had grown to the extent of 10,000 pounds shipped from that county during the month.

Prevent Spoiled Silage.
There will always be more or less spoiled silage around the doors unless something is done to make the joint airtight.

Roughage of Importance.
In planning a ration for dairy cows the roughage is of first importance. It affords the bulk that is necessary to every good ration.

Better Half of Herd.
The purebred sire is the better half of the herd.

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

New Inoleum will last longer and clean more easily if given a light coat of varnish.

Add a tablespoonful of vinegar to the last rinsing water, to bring up the color—do not use blue.

When washing colored clothes add a handful of ordinary salt—it prevents the color from running.

Brooms may be made quite new and clean if dipped into a pail of boiling soda water, then dried in the sun.

Apple sauce that has its sugar added after it is removed from the fire will not turn an unappetizing brown color.

To stew steak allow about one and three-quarter hours to two and three-quarter hours, according to amount and thickness.

Juice may be extracted from an onion by cutting a slice from the root end, drawing back the skin and grating on a coarse grater.

Old furniture can be stained mission color with a package of green dye. Simply add one quart of water to the dye and boil it and then put it on with any common paint brush. The result will be a rich mission color.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

Mrs. J. B. Masterson was hostess to the Home Economics Club on Wednesday, Jan. 17, at a very interesting meeting.

Food, or the Different Properties of Various Foods, was the subject of discussion, the program being as follows:

How Much Is a Calorie?—Mrs. J. R. Adamson.

What Are Vitamins?—Miss Richmond.

Food Elements of a Well Balanced Meal—Mrs. Richey.

Demonstrations:

Proteins—Mrs. P. T. Boston.

Nitrogenous—Mrs. Clifford Johnson.

Carbohydrates—Mrs. W. D. Biggers.

Fats—Mrs. Brooks.

Mineral Salts—Mrs. Webb.

The President is to be commended for the interest she is taking in the work. She and several other Club members have met recently at Mrs. Charles Kinslow's and at Mrs. R. B. Adams' and made four dress forms.

It has been decided to meet hereafter in the basement of the Methodist church, instead of at the homes of the members.

The next meeting will be on Wednesday, Feb. 21.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

The State of Texas

To the Sheriff or Any Constable of Donley County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon the unknown heirs of John Patton, deceased; the unknown heirs of Hamilton Patton, deceased; the unknown heirs of Mary Bennett, deceased; and the unknown heirs of Nancy Patton ———, deceased; Pierce Patton, Mary Fesler and husband James Fesler; Vina Fields and husband ——— Fields, and the unknown heirs of the said Pierce Patton, Mary Fesler and Vina Fields and each of them, deceased, who are alleged to be non-residents and the residences of said unknown heirs is unknown, to appear at the next regular term of the County Court of Donley county, Texas, to be held at the court house thereof in the town of Clarendon, Donley county, Texas, on the 19th day of February, 1923, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 17th day of January, A. D. 1923, in a suit numbered 375 on the docket of said Court wherein Abbie Lee Patton is plaintiff and the unknown heirs of John Patton, deceased; the unknown heirs of Hamilton Patton, deceased; the unknown heirs of Mary Bennett, deceased; and the unknown heirs of Nancy

Patton ———, deceased, Pierce Patton, and his unknown heirs if he be deceased and have heirs; Mary Fesler and her unknown heirs if she be dead and have heirs, and Vina Fields, and her unknown heirs if she be deceased and have heirs, and the said Pierce Patton, Mary Fesler, and Vina Fields, are defendants, the cause of action being alleged as follows: That Abbie H. Patton is dead; that she died in Donley county, Texas, on or about January 11th, 1923, intestate without having made any will, leaving as her heir and her only heir the plaintiff in this cause, and at the time of her death the said Abbie H. Patton was lawfully seized and possessed of the following property: all Lots 17 to 20, both inclusive, in Block 44 of the town of Clarendon, Donley county, Texas, and some money on deposit in her name in the Donley County State Bank, Clarendon, Texas, and further alleging that plaintiff does not know whether any of the defendants be living or dead except those alleged to be dead, and does not know whether any of those dead left heirs, nor the names or residences of such heirs if there be heirs, and further alleging that defendants named, John Patton, Pierce Patton, Hamilton Patton, Mary Bennett, Vina Fields, Mary Fesler, and Nancy Patton ———, were the children and only children of David Patton deceased, who died in the state of Illinois in the year 1874, and his first wife; that plaintiff's mother, Abbie H. Patton, was the second wife of said David Patton, deceased and that plaintiff was the only child of said second marriage, and that the property herein described was the separate property and estate of the said Abbie H. Patton deceased, acquired by her with her separate funds and estate, and declaring that plaintiff is her only heir, and entitled to all said estate, and praying for judgment so declaring. And you will summon said defendants by making publication of this citation for four consecutive weeks in some newspaper published in your county.

Herein fail not, but have you before said Court, on the first day of the next term thereof, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness Lottie E. Lane, Clerk County Court, Donley County, Texas.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

LOOKING BACKWARD

THE old year is drifting out to the unseen sea, where in a little while it will be lost, no more a part of our joys and sorrows, nor a portion of our existence.

Let us take a retrospective view of the days that have gone, consider how we have spent them, whether we have played our part wisely or foolishly, or whether we have moved ahead or lagged behind.

As we stand upon the hill-top, or in the vale, what are the thoughts that crowd in upon us? Do they bring us pleasure or regret; do they cheer the heart or depress it?

We are disposed at the end of every twelfth-month to pause a while and reflect, to make new promises for our betterment, to seek a new star for our future guidance and to flatter ourselves that whatever failings we made in our little journey were due to no fault of ours, but to a stroke of Fate!

We refuse to rub our velvety skin with coarse sand-paper for the very good reason that it hurts. Nor do we look backward like to rub our conscience, for that pains, too, and causes us to wince, when we would sit in our easy chair and administer to our moral self a stupefying dose of chloroform that we may for the time being become insensible to the smart and aches, which otherwise might drive us to repentance.

We lack the courage to stand up and face the music, or to look truth in the face, a prevailing form of cowardice frequently preferred by most of us to bravery.

Event follows event agreeably or annoyingly when we awake to the realization that we have run through the vicissitudes, mutations and innovations of another year, breaking as we proceeded on our way the laws of the Medes and Persians, to say nothing of the laws of our own.

Whatever opinion we may have regarding our conduct, we hide it with utmost care beside the skeleton in the family closet.

Then with a sublime devotion to duty, which sometimes lasts two whole days, we take a peep backward, swear solemnly beneath our breath that we'll be good, true and faithful, which we usually are until the next cog slips, and then away we go again, tripping along the primrose path, oblivious to everything but our selfish content.

NEW YEAR GREETING

By WILL M. MAUPIN

I WISH a happy prosperous year To all my good friends, far and near:

From California 'cross to Maine, From lakes to gulf, and back again; From north to south, from east to west,

I wish for each of you the best The New Year has within its store— All this I wish for you—and more.

I wish a year of joy and peace; From sorrow and from pain release; For friends about on every side; And Love's door ever opened wide; Hope's full fruition day by day, And sunshine all along your way, And harbor safe when tempests roar— All this I wish for you—and more.

For you I wish, instead of gold, That you may gracefully grow old; That each day's slowly setting sun Will see some duty nobly done. I wish that home "es stronger grow, That for you flowers bloom and blow, That God's rich blessings on you pour— All this I wish for you—and more.

The best that's old, the best that's new— All, all of these, I wish for you.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS

The English rusk is well known to be a delicious hot bread. To prepare them, set a sponge with a pint of milk, half a yeast cake, well dissolved in half a cupful of water, and flour enough to make a thin batter.

Beat well and let it stand where it will rise. When the sponge is light add two beaten eggs, one scant cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of melted butter and not quite four enough to make a dough to knead. Do not knead it, but let it double in bulk.

Then, with well-floured hands, form the dough into biscuits and place in tins to rise. Bake in a moderate oven. Glaze each top of the rusks by brushing with powdered sugar and water.

Broiled Venison Cutlets.—Cut chops from a loin of venison. Brush them with melted butter or olive oil, sprinkle with salt and pepper and roll in bread crumbs. Broil over coals or under the gas flame until cooked to the right turn.

Good Old-Fashioned Butterscotch.—Put two cupfuls of brown sugar, one-half cupful of butter, four tablespoonfuls of molasses, two tablespoonfuls of water and two tablespoonfuls of vinegar into a granite kettle; stir until the sugar is dissolved, then boil without stirring until a drop becomes brittle, dropped into cold water. Pour into shallow pans to cool. When cool, mark off in squares.

Molasses Candy.—Make a sirup of two cupfuls of molasses, one cupful of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of vinegar and one tablespoonful of butter. Boil until it hardens in water; add a quarter of a teaspoonful of soda. Pour on a greased platter and, when cool enough, pull until light in color. Cut in pieces with the shears.

Popcorn Crackle.—Prepare a large pan of popped corn. Make a sirup of one cupful of molasses, one-half cupful of sugar, a tablespoonful each of vinegar and butter. Boil slowly until the mixture is brittle when dropped into cold water. Pour a little at a time over the corn, mixing well until the corn is touched with the sirup. Two persons can do this much better, one to hold the kettle, the other to mix the corn.

Sweet Potatoes in Slices.—Boil the potatoes in their jackets; peel and slice rather thickly. Arrange in a baking dish; sprinkle with sugar and bits of butter; if dry, add a very little water and cook until the potatoes are well browned. Serve as a garnish to a platter of broiled ham.

True social feeling, true warmth and cordiality, naturally expresses itself in words, and is strengthened by the expression.

FOODS YOU'LL LIKE

A good soup is an economy not to be overlooked, for it leads to hearty enjoyment of the dishes that follow.

Turkish Soup.—Cook one-quarter of a cupful of rice in a quart of boiling water until tender. Add two cupfuls of strained tomato, a cube or two of bouillon or a teaspoonful of beef extract, one slice of onion, eight peppercorns, one stalk of celery, a small bay leaf; cook thirty minutes and add to the stock. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add one and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour; stir smooth and add to the boiling soup. Boil one minute, rub through a sieve, season with salt and pepper and return to the fire to heat.

Veal and Tripe Soup.—Chop finely two each of small green peppers, onions and beets. Melt a teaspoonful of fat in a saucepan; add the vegetables and stir over the heat. Add one-half pound of tripe, cut in small cubes, one-quarter of a cupful of rice, two quarts of water and a two-pound veal knuckle. Let simmer for three hours; add one cupful of tomato, salt, celery salt and pepper. Remove the bone, chop any meat upon it and return to the soup.

Creole Panned Rabbits.—Cut rabbits into pieces, season with salt and pepper and roll in flour. Cook in six tablespoonfuls of pork drippings; drain the fat, pour on a cupful of any canned fruit juice and simmer eight minutes. Make a sauce with the fat in the pan, using strained tomato, some of the stock, flour and seasonings. Cook until thick. Put the rabbits into a baking pan, pour over the stock and bake one hour.

Beef and Corn Pudding.—Take a can of corn and one pound of lean beef; put through the meat grinder. In a saucepan brown one tablespoonful of fat with one teaspoonful of minced onion; cook for two minutes, then add one tablespoonful of browned flour. Add one cupful of soup stock, salt and pepper to taste, and cook until smooth. Into a buttered baking dish put layers of corn and beef; sprinkle lightly with seasonings and the thickened sauce. Cover and bake in a moderate oven. Uncover, sprinkle with cheese and serve when the cheese is melted.

Has Anyone Laughed At You Because —

By ETHEL R. PEYSER

You are so easy to see through? If you are, you have been up against it a lot, because when you are easy to see through your very honesty and kindness are often taken the wrong way and your frankness is often as "acting" and people think you are queer! You need comfort. Keep on being easy to understand; it means pretty much your mind is clear, that your heart is in the right place. You will waste less time, too, as it is hard to be something you aren't.

SO

Your Get-away here is: Let them "see through you" and don't worry, and if they laugh be glad you can be amusing!

SCHOOL DAYS

THE ORIGIN OF THE SWIMMY

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

LEARN HOW TO FORGET

BE ASSURED that you will sometimes be wronged; often hated. Unless you have far more luck than most men, others will injure you, and despitely use you.

The more successful you are, the more you will suffer from the dislike and the envy of others.

But if you resent every injury and nurse every spite, you will have little time for anything else.

Revenge may be sweet, but it is too expensive to be indulged.

The man who makes up his mind to "get even" with every one who has harmed or insulted him maps out a difficult life for himself.

Hatred is a passion which destroys judgment as well as the soul. And judgment is too difficult to acquire to be frittered away in fruitless brawls.

Learn to forget injuries and grievances. They will harm you but little if you dismiss them from your mind, if you cherish their memory and brood over them they will harm you even more than the enemy who inflicted them ever believed it possible to harm you.

Give men no reason to injure you. Then, if they insist upon doing so, despise them of any satisfaction in the injury by not allowing it to trouble you.

Peace of mind and serenity of spirit are worth a great deal in this world. Go about with a chip on your shoulder and before very long someone will knock it off. And your attention will be distracted from whatever you are doing by your effort to punish him for it.

But when you are wantonly insulted, or when your feelings are hurt remember that the person who offers the affront is not worth hating. Do not flatter him by nursing your wrath against him.

Irritations disturb the smooth working of your brain and cut into your sleep. Forget them and you will be happier and better able to attend to your own job, which is getting all out of your brain that was put there by its Creator.

THINGS TO EAT

DISHES which are inexpensive, wholesome and not difficult of preparation, are the favorites of the busy housewife and mother.

Never-Fail Cake.

Take one cupful of New Orleans molasses, one teaspoonful of soda, one tablespoonful of butter, or lard, one teaspoonful of ginger, cinnamon and nutmeg, mixed, and a little lemon rind, one-half cupful of milk, a pinch of salt, two cupfuls of flour, or less, to make a soft batter. Dissolve the soda in a tablespoonful of hot water and add to the molasses. Mix and bake in layers or in a shallow pan.

Scotch Pies.

Prepare a rich pastry; roll out, not too thin; cover with raisins and currants, chopped and mixed with enough water or fruit juice to moisten; place over this another layer of pastry and bake in a hot oven for fifteen minutes. Cut in rectangles about two inches square.

Peach Pudding.

Thickly butter a melon mold and sprinkle the bottom and sides with chopped nut meats and shredded citron. Fill the mold loosely with small pieces of sponge cake and slices of drained peaches. Prepare a custard from a pint of milk, a pinch of salt, one-third of a cupful of sugar and two lightly beaten eggs. Pour this over the fruit and cake, cover with buttered paper and set the mold in a pan of hot water. Cook in a moderate oven until set. A mixture to serve unmolded must be firm enough to hold its shape. Serve with fruit juices from the canned peaches.

AN INTERESTING LETTER FROM CALIFORNIA

The following interesting letter from Mrs. F. A. Snipes was received a few days ago by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Wood:

116 Venitian Square
Long Beach, Calif.

Dear Parents:

Received your letter and was glad to hear from you again, and to learn that you had a nice time for Christmas. Christmas was great here. Hot,—it was 104 in the shade; that was when it was hottest. It is not hot all the time like this. From 4 o'clock in the evening until about 8:30 in the morning is something like winter, especially when we get the ocean breeze.

Last night Allen and I went walking, and when we got back Allen wanted to go down to the beach, so to the beach we went, and, oh my! I shivered all over! The tide was getting high, and roar!—you've read these blood curdling stories! Well, I told Allen we must go back quick, and that would not be quick enough for me. When I would think of thousands of miles of that same old roar, and what if it would come and catch you,—and it would only have to rise four feet higher than it has been to get us. I can still hear it roaring now, and it's pretty lonesome.

This afternoon Allen didn't work, so we took Neal and walked along the edge of the beach where the tide washed in shells last night. Then we went on up to where there is a wall in front of some apartment houses. We sat down there, read, played in the sand, watched bathers ride the waves, and ate oranges.

Say, you can afford to eat oranges here. We bought three dozen for 15c; they were small, but of fine flavor; also bought six pounds of fine apples for 25c, rhubarb 5c a pound, 22 pounds of spuds for 25c, etc. If meat and the rent were not so high, things would run along pretty smoothly.

Say, what do you think about us putting Neal in the Movies? I can hardly conceive of such an idea, but he is such an extra baby, and they want him, and all of them say he will make good, as he never sees a stranger and is always laughing. He can get from $7 to $25 per day, whether he is acting or not. Allen rather likes the idea, but I cannot give up to put him in. Besides, if they were to take him into the movies they'd have to take me, as I would not let him leave me. There was another lady here that 'had a spell' over him, and before night there were sixteen women came in, wanting to see "that big four months old baby." He weighs twenty pounds now.

Well, Allen didn't go to town yesterday and we did not get to mail this, so will tell you about our trip yesterday.

Mr. Rayfield and wife came over and got us to go on an outing. So we fixed our lunches and went to San Pedro, the Los Angeles harbor. We saw several large battleships, freighters, schooners, etc. It was sure great, and tell Garland that I saw my first lighthouse. We went on down below San Pedro, and left our car and went down the worst hill you ever saw to the beach. We got two star fish and a collection of shells. We saw a devil fish and it made my blood run cold to look at it. The Japs were fishing for them, as they eat them.

After so long we started home and there was a car wrecked, so we got into a jam. There were about 1500 cars, and only one way to go. They were four deep and about three or four feet was all you could move at a time. I never saw so many cars in my life. We were an hour and a half going three miles.

We sure had some time, and wish you were here to see the sights. Cannot begin to tell all of it in a letter.

We want to subscribe for the Hedley Informer so we can keep up with our old town and our friends. Love to all.
