BAPTIST MEN ARE HOSTS TO WOMEN

A most enjoyable social function was held last Friday evening in the recently completed First Baptist church annex, when the men of the church entertained their wives and a few other favored guests.

When all had assembled the large room was comfortably filled, and some time was spent in neighborly greetings and conversation. After a while it was announced that the main entertainment feature was about to begin. This proved to be "A Womanless Wedding," staged under the direction of Rev. Y. F. Walker, with an All Star cast of characters, including—

P. C. Johnson, bride
C. O. Cooper, groom
J. E. Blankenship and M. J. Smith, ushers, or usherettes
Van Boone, vocalist
C. W. Crawford, organist
C. L. Goin and A. C. Findley, bridesmaids
H. C. Tims, best man
Claud Nash and J. B. Stogner, bride's father and mother
F. M. Acord and J. L. Tims, bride's grandparents
E. H. Peninger, bride's aunt
Jiggs Blankenship, the bride's little sister
M. W. Mosley, nurse
Y. F. Walker Jr., flower girl
L. Mobley, train bearer
"Parson" W. D. Biggers, official knot tier.

Following the scientific execution of a solo by the vocalist, the wedding party entered to the accompaniment of the wedding march rendered by the organist, who is an exponent of the popular Hunt & Peck system so successfully used in operating the Olivar typewriter.

It would require a more competent society editor than our staff affords to tell of the wonderfully beautiful costumes worn by the bride and her attendants. The groom proved his manliness by coming gallantly to the rescue of the bride when she fainted, due to an embarrassing episode precipitated by a disgruntled rejected suitor.

"Parson" Biggers performed the solemn ceremony, the only thing in evidence more solemn than the ceremony being the Parson's countenance. We were somewhat uneasy lest something should happen to make him smile and shatter his dignity. But, no! That dignity remained intact until the knot had been securely tied—though it was about the only dignity in the house that did so.

Following the wedding, appetizing refreshments of ham sandwiches, pickles and coffee were served, followed shortly by a hot pie course. The word "hot" was not put there accidentally. The pie was just that. And heroic action was all that kept this course from ending in a riot. Words that would adequately describe this chapter of the proceedings have no rightful place in a dignified family journal, but those who were absent can get full information in a personal interview with any who were not absent.

However, "a grand time was had by all," and we are looking forward to others of a similar nature.

GRAND JURY GIVES ADVICE TO PARENTS

The grand jury adjourned on Tuesday of last week after submitting their final report to Judge Henry S. Bishop.

A total of eleven bills was returned—four felonies and seven misdemeanors. Several recommendations were made about different matters, and the parents of erring youngsters were given some wholesome advice, as follows:

"It has also come to our attention that there are petty thefts and misdemeanors being committed in the towns and villages of our county by juveniles—mere children; and it is our belief that the parents of these children can greatly aid in the enforcement of the law and the respect therefor by disciplining them at home. We urge that the parents of such children in particular, and all parents in general, co-operate with the officers to the end that the law may be respected and such children saved from their folly."

"Pape's Cold Compound" Breaks a Cold in Few Hours

Don't stay stuffed up! Quit blowing and snuffling! Take "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until three doses are taken. The first dose opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages of head; stops nose running; relieves headache, dullness, feverishness, sneezing. The second and third doses usually break up the cold completely and end all gripe misery. "Pape's Cold Compound" is the quickest, surest relief known and costs only a few cents at drug stores. Tastes nice. Contains no quinine. Insist upon Pape's.

REFLECT TREND OF FASHION; KNITTED MODES FOR SPRING

ABOUT the time that modes for winter have become well established, the first of the northern tourists begin to take their blithe way resort-wards. Those who furnish apparel for these fortunate birds of passage must dress them for the spring that they go to meet—and in clothes of the highest degree of excellence. Winter modes are modified, new ideas introduced, and in the mid-season these resort clothes reveal the trend of fashion. There is nothing in the present showing to forecast a change in the silknocked that Palm Beach styles have a real influence on modes for the following spring and summer. In this connection particular interest is manifest in knitted tops, especially sweaters, for these promise greater favor than ever for the coming months. The outstanding new type among sweaters is the knitted jacquette in openwork stitch. When considering the really new developments in things knitted, start with the premise that the trend is toward lacy stitch of fancy construction, houette, but the finger of the mode points in the direction of skirts a little longer and a little fuller, with draperies that follow the lines of the figure. Dark colors—with the emphasis on dark blue—are shown, brightened by embroideries, or other decorative features, in brilliant colors, and printed fabrics in these colorings are combined with plain dark colors serving usually for the bodice in one-piece frocks. Sand, beige, and gray in light tones are scheduled for spring and they are to be enlivened by colorful millinery.

Two Pretty Midseason Dresses

The waistline remains long but will not go to extremes and skirts are from seven to eight inches from the floor. Crepes continue to hold first place in dress fabrics, with flat crepes, satin-canton, canton, and novelty weaves sharing favor, while broadcloth, serge

A jacquette, for instance, may be in solid plain color, but "style" is written all over it, if the stitch be of the novelty kind. There is no doubt that the knitted jacquette, with the low hipband, or belt, will be more than welcomed, not only in the world of sport's fashions, but also among dressier modes. One has but to look at the handsome knitted fancy-stitch jacquette shown to the left in the picture to realize the brilliant future which awaits it.

It is said that there will be a return of bright colors for spring, such as orange, lemon, jade, rosewood, red, rust and interesting greens, in addition to the leather and nut colors which are so much in vogue for immediate wear.

Slip-ons have lost none of their prestige. The silk kind lead in advance

Jacquette and Slip-on and wool jersey are all sponsored by great names. With all these facts in mind, whoever needs a frock, or wishes to remodel an old one, may go ahead with assurance. The mode is conservative and graceful, lending itself to the remodeling of gowns. Each of the two frocks pictured illustrates the combination of two materials in smart and beautiful designs, and in each of them the material used for the bodice is different from that in the skirt.

With an immediate demand for Palm Beach and Southern resort apparel, what excuse has Madam Fashion to set forward her calendar? It is a happy circumstance which brings about this "wedding of May and December," for it is generally ac-displays. The very charming silk slip-over portrayed herewith is pure silk in a handsome burnt sienna shade. It has brown and buff horizontal stripes, round V-neck, full-length sleeves, and girdle with tassels, all essential points to remember in selecting one's new spring sweater. Models in so-called organdie wool, that is, the sheer kind, so popular last summer, are continued in new interpretations for the coming months. The monogrammed jumper knitted blouse is also exceedingly popular at the moment.

SAW 3 PRESIDENTS SLAIN

Robert T. Lincoln Probably Only Man in America to Witness Chain of Tragedies.

Robert T. Lincoln, son of President Lincoln, and now in his eightieth year, was in the army and stationed in Virginia when he received an order to report at Washington. He got into the theater just in time to see his father receive his fatal wound.

Robert T. Lincoln was secretary of war under Garfield. He was asked by the President to meet him at the station, and he reached there just as Garfield was assassinated. Mr. Lincoln received an invitation to attend the formal opening of the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo, and accompanied by his family got there just in time to see President McKinley shot by Czolgosz.

Mr. Lincoln related this eerie experience recently to a friend, says Forbes' Magazine, and, so far as he knows, says the writer, it had never before been published.

Time Saved by System.

In a report made to the house of representatives by the committee on coinage, weights and measures, which favored the adoption of the metric system by the government of the United States, it was pointed out that, according to estimates made by the bureau of education and others, two-thirds of a year would be saved by the adoption of the metric arithmetic. It is also averred, as a matter of evidence, that the metric system and its application to the solution of problems may be learned in one-tenth of the time required for gaining equal facility in the use of the English system of weights and measures.

Her Preference.

Jane overheard her mother discussing Christmas shopping, and she favored that socks and mittens and a few other immediate necessities of clothing were to be included among her gifts, so she interrupted: "Oh, mother, I wish you'd buy me what I want and let me get along without what I have to have."

Hedley School Notes

SENIOR NOTES

The Seniors are back in school after the mid term examinations, probably with lower grades than they might have desired, but with a strong determination to study hard and really learn the rest of their work so that so much cramming will not be necessary before the next exams.

Ruby Duckett spent the week end at Newlin with home folk.

Jimmy Hays is being forced to miss school this week on account of sickness.

Florence Curd is on the sick list this week.

Of course we ain't a-sayin' nuthin', but some things look mighty suspicious. For instance, all those mint papers found in Mollie's desk.

Inez Blankenship has gone to her home in Goodnight, where she will stay for several weeks. We regret to lose one of our dignified Seniors, but we wish her bon voyage and a speedy return.

JUNIOR JOBS

There are several pupils absent from school this week on account of the flu. We hope to see them back soon.

In the English class today we were discussing the meaning of "intuition" Miss Trapp asked, "What does it mean, Alice?" Alice (who was not paying attention): "Ma'am!—no, I wasn't chewing gum this time."

Miss Willie Merle: "J. R., what great change occurred during the world war?"

J. R.: "Pop bought Ma a new washboard."

Condon: "Will you love me if I give up all my bad habits?"

Vera: "But, Condon, how could you expect me to love a perfect stranger?"

Most all the Caesar class received "M" (mighty good) on their exam papers. All well pleased.

SOPH SPECIALS

Alton Quisenberry failed to report at school Monday and Tuesday.

Granville Koger was absent the last of last week and the first of this week.

Ora Curtis left school last Friday at noon, with the flu.

We regret very much to hear of Leslie Clifton's illness. His parents took him to Clarendon Monday to be operated on for appendicitis. We trust it will be for the best, and that he will soon be well again.

Sarah Hayes, Leon Reeves and Leland Pickett have been absent on account of sickness.

The Sophomore class is indeed glad that the mid term exams are over, as well as the hard work that was necessary in preparation for them.

Last Friday evening, after school five girls of the ninth grade stayed in to finish their English exam, and Miss Trapp was grading papers. After a while one of the Junior girls came in with a box of candy for Miss Trapp, and said that one of her pupils sent it to her. A little later Mr. Biggers and Mr. Weaver came in and disturbed us. Miss Trapp said if they would save for about five minutes, so he could finish grading that paper, she would give them some candy.

Mr. Weaver: "I'll be back in less than five minutes."
Mr. Biggers: "I'll be back in our—to avoid the rush."

FRESHMAN NEWS

The following failed to answer the roll call Tuesday: Porter Pierce, Amanda Lee and Chrysine Spurlin, Hazel Boone, Mae McFarling, Ruth Richerson, Bill Peol, and Ellen Fay Land.

The first year Latin class received their grades Tuesday, and found "M" (mighty good) on many papers.

"David Copperfield is with the Freshies this week.

1. Who is the girl that came to school Monday without combing her hair?

2. Who is the girl that likes to sit near the door leading into the ninth grade room?

3. Why does a boy from the ninth grade room always come into the eighth room to sharpen his pencil?

4. Who is it that goes by town every day thinking she will see a certain student?

5. Who is the girl that sits facing the back of the room, smiling?

6. Who is the boy that is always looking at himself in the mirror?

7. What boy and girl are always chewing gum?

Velma Raney has been seen going to the postoffice every day since one of the Freshmen with drew from school.

CLUB NOTES

The 1919 Study Club had its regular meeting Jan 25th with Mrs. Chas. W. Kinslow. An unusually interesting program was as follows:

Benjamin Franklin, Patron of Thrift—Mrs. Biggers.

Thrift, the Foundation of All Greatness—Mrs. Adamson.

Life Insurance, or Saving for a College Education for Your Children—Mrs. Adams.

A buffet luncheon was served to Mesdames R. B. Adams, J. R. Adamson, W. D. Biggers, P. T. Boston, U. J. Boston, J. C. Coffey, Ed Dishman, J. M. Green, J. D. Key, Ed Kinslow, Alva Simmons, Y. F. Walker, O. E. Johnson, T. B. Berry, W. C. Plunk, L. E. Thompson, Clifford Johnson, Louella Jackson of Snider, Okla., Misses Ruby Watt, Anna Moores, of Clarendon, Blanche Temple, Myrtle Reeves and Imogene Moreman.

A very interesting reading was nicely rendered by little Miss Helen Kinslow during the social hour.

Press Reporter.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

KEEPING IN TUNE

TO AVOID an occasion for unhappiness, for dull days and dreary nights, we should do our best to keep in tune with the "Music of the Spheres."

The tuneful people, the people with songs on their lips and smiles in their eyes are the people who manifest the keenest interest in things around them and take a daily part in doing the world's work.

The secret of their continued content is in employment, change of thought, the right sort of physical and mental activity, which make them oblivious to the jarring discords around them.

The still pool becomes stagnant. So does the dormant mind.

There is bewitching music and exhilarating thrill in the bubbling waters of the crystal brook; there is never a note of gladness in the idle mind, where dissonant holds sway and dismal forebodings darken the beams of the brightest day and dull the voice of greeting friends.

Men and women who keep in tune scatter their sunshine wherever they go, and perhaps without knowing it. Though always occupied, they find time to smile, to help the unfortunate and to console the ill. They decline to air their virtues, refuse to worry, carry close to their hearts the priceless vial of faith and never run away from the battle.

They contrive to love, respect and co-ordinate, and thus they keep in harmony with their fellow kin by being sympathetic, friendly and helpful.

They accept honorable defeat as a form of victory, content with the glorious, courageous virtue of faith, in which they find their greatest consolation when the discordant noises of the world beat all around them.

Ever seeking the brighter things, they discover in them their own happiness and the knack of imparting it to others, which, after all that is said and done, is the explanation of keeping the world attuned to Nature's grand diapason which gives to life its sweetest laughter, songs and blessings.

Keeping in tune is not difficult for those who keep the faith, for even in their darkest hours they seldom strike a wrong key or miss a measure of their joyous song.

WEALTH

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THERE'S wealth enough for all of us.

If wealth we want to win, Just waiting for the call of us, For men to gather in— Enough to have, enough to hold, And wealth enough to share, For weak and strong, young and old Just waiting everywhere!

There's friendship for beginning with, A golden joy, a friend;

For what's the use of winning with No comrade at the end? So find a comrade heart and mind.

They come so easily— For all you need a friend to find Is just a friend to be!

And there's a wealth that's nearer yet.

A love that's near you now, There's some one closer, dearer, yet To whom you made a vow.

The love of husband, love of wife, No purer gold is found— So gather love to light your life, It's waiting all around!

The wealthy are not many, one Who calls a million his;

But wealth will come to anyone Who knows just what it is, For wealth is happy heart and mind, It's laughter, love and song— And, at the last, the only kind That you can take along!

LOS ANGELES MAN SAYS IT NEVER FAILS

"Tanlac is my stand-by, and I wouldn't think of being without it. It has set me on my feet more than once when I had such bad spells of stomach trouble. I thought I couldn't get well." This emphatic statement was made recently by W. C. Wallace, 820 N. Normandy Place, Los Angeles, Calif.

"An acid stomach and indigestion caused me indescribable suffering for more than four years," he said. "Awful pains would strike me soon after eating, and I would be almost doubled up in agony. Often I had to take to my bed, and I would lose much weight with every spell. I was told I had ulcers, enlarged stomach and other ailments, but all my efforts to get relief failed. I kept getting worse, and figured I would have to get something to help me or I couldn't keep going much longer."

"I read in the papers where Tanlac was helping others with stomach troubles, so I began taking it. It never failed to straighten me out, and I gained back my lost weight, too. I am more grateful than I can say for the good this medicine has done me, and I do not hesitate to give it my fullest recommendation."

FEMALE VICTIMS OF PLAGUE

Figures Show That Tuberculosis is Spreading, Chiefly Among Women Active in Industrial World.

The death rate from tuberculosis among women is on the increase. In spite of the increase in active cases among women the death rate for males is still higher than that for females by almost one-third. "The sudden influx of women into industry during the war may, in a measure, be responsible for this increase," says a statement from the National Tuberculosis association. "This does not mean that there is any real basis for the assertion that women are not as well fitted for industrial work as men are. It is a fact, however, that many women who work in industry also look after their household duties and bring up large families of children. Consequently, insufficient rest, improperly cooked food and lack of fresh air so undermine the constitution that they readily become victims of the tubercle bacillus."

IF SICK, BILIOUS! START YOUR LIVER

Don't Take Calomel! "Dodson's Liver Tone" Acts Better and Doesn't Grip, Salivate or Make You Sick—Don't Lose a Day's Work—Read Guarantee!

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible! Take a dose of the dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver, which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated, or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson Liver Tone tonight. Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick.

SERGEANT USES HIS BRAINS

Has Made Discovery That Weather Can Be Utilized as an Aid in Recruiting.

"Studying weather forecasts, that's how I land 'em. Thus one of the regular army's most proficient recruiters explains the success which has made him one of the 'aces' of Uncle Sam's recruiting forces.

When winter blasts blow around his "Uncle Sam Wants You" sign, the sergeant hangs out alluring pictures of a field artillery column at rest on the side of a Hawaiian island road shaded with palm trees. When the city sizzles in the summer he extracts from his supply of posters a persuading "Spend Your Summer in Cool Alaska With the Infantry" sign.

"And you ought to see 'em flock in," gloats the sergeant. "Give me a week of rain and I'll land 'em for my post on the Mexican border, 50 miles away from a river. Come around and see me this winter. I can fill a division for the Philippines any day there's snow on the ground. But Alaska or the Canadian border, not a chance!"

Beneficent Industry.
The very exercise of industry in itself is delightful and gives an innate satisfaction that tempers all annoyance.

Ask some men how they feel and they will entertain themselves for an hour by reciting their woes.

Odd African Tribe.
The El Moro ("Poor Devil") are a small and little-known tribe, dwelling on islands close to the east shore of Lake Rudolf, in East Africa. They are now a community of about 70 souls under the leadership of a blind chief.

They construct the poorest type of shelter from leaves of the Dem palm. Their safe food is fish, which they occasionally spear, but more often catch in coarse-meshed fiber nets; their only drink is the vile soda-impregnated water of the lake.

The El Moro are almost amphibious, and are apparently unable to go for more than an hour without water, for after that time their lips swell up and start bleeding. They have their own language.

Relative Rewards.
"Do you know," said the earnest person, "that there are men renowned in literature, art and science whose annual incomes are not large enough to give them the ordinary comforts of life?"

"I don't doubt it," said Mr. Gawker, "but if nature gave them sound bodies to start with and they've enjoyed reasonably good health, it seems to me that it's their own fault if they haven't gone in for athletics and acquired proficiency with a pair of eight-ounce gloves."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

SCHOOL DAYS

of us can contemplate without getting tired at the mere thought of it.

Yet people are doing it right along, and you seldom hear of any of them killing themselves in the effort.

If you have made up your mind to do something unusual or to be somebody of importance, learn how to work twice as hard as you ever did before. That is only a first step. The second is to think hard. If you can do both, and keep them up long enough, you may land, but remember you will have a lot of competition. Even hard work finds plenty of men to believe in and practice it. And most of them get what they are after.

Has Anyone Laughed At You Because

YOU ARE A HIGHBROW! Let 'em laugh even though you sometimes feel that you are not highbrow. What if it if you do like a good play and not a poor one, if leg shows tire you and you like good books. You've been bothered, haven't you, because your friends say, "Oh, don't let's take him (or her) to the show; he'll hate it and spoil it for us." Maybe you will, but then, if you are a real person you can always get something out of anything, if you try.

SO Your Get-Away here is: To prove to your pals that the best is none too good and that when you go to a poor show you can explain what it is you don't like and maybe get them to appreciate good things too.

WORTHWHILE DISHES

LOAF Cake.—Take two and one-half cupfuls of powdered sugar, one cupful of butter, cream well; add the beaten yolks of five eggs and three-fourths of a cupful of milk and one-fourth of a cupful of water, added alternately with four cupfuls of flour sifted with four teaspoonfuls of baking powder; add a teaspoonful of vanilla and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Bake in a moderate oven.

White Loaf Cake.
Cream one-half cupful of butter with one cupful of granulated sugar, add one-half cupful of milk with one and one-quarter cupfuls of flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two-thirds of a cupful of raisins, one-third of a cupful of sliced citron, both well floured; add a teaspoonful of almond extract and fold in the stiffly beaten white of an egg.

Boiled Dressing.
Take three or four whole eggs, beat until light, add an equal measure of mild vinegar and place over hot water to cook, beating with an egg beater until smooth and thick. Set away in the ice chest and add such seasonings as desired when serving. Butter, cream, salt, mustard, red pepper and paprika with chopped vegetables and chili sauce will make a dozen different dressings from this recipe.

Suedoise Dressing.
Take one cupful of mayonnaise dressing, two tablespoonfuls of grated horseradish, two tablespoonfuls of chopped shallot, one teaspoonful of lemon juice, one-half teaspoonful of tarragon vinegar, one-half teaspoonful of gelatin dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of water, one-half cupful of stiffly beaten cream. Mix ingredients in the order given, adding the cream at the last.

Mrs. Quillon Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her from an Operation

Muskegon, Michigan.—"After doctoring for eight or nine years with different physicians without any relief at all, they said at last that medicine would not reach my case and I should have an operation. I had heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and often saw it advertised in different papers where some women had suffered just as I did and got well and strong again by taking the Vegetable Compound. I decided to see what it would do for me, and before I had finished the fourth bottle I was much better, the weakness stopped and the severe pains in my sides left me. I am now much stronger and do my own work and work in the factory besides. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and give it all the praise."—Mrs. NELLIE QUILLON, 17 Morris St., Muskegon, Mich.

Women should heed such warning symptoms as bearing-down pains and weakness, for they indicate some female trouble, and a persistent and faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will seldom fail to help.

MISS LULU BETT

VI—Continued.
—14—
Lulu had played it now as she must have played it then.

Half after nine and Di had not returned. But nobody thought of Di. Cornish rose to go.
"What's them?" Mrs. Bett demanded.
"Dwight's letters, mamma. You mustn't touch them!" Lulu's voice was sharp.
"Say!" Cornish, at the door, dropped his voice. "If there was anything I could do at any time, you'd let me know, wouldn't you?"
That past tense, those subjunctives, unconsciously called upon her to feel no intrusion.

"Oh, thank you," she said. "You don't know how good it is to feel—" "Of course it is," said Cornish heartily.
They stood for a moment on the porch. The night was one of low clamor from the grass, tiny voices, insisting.
"Of course," said Lulu, "of course you won't—you wouldn't!"
"Say anything?" he divined. "Not for dollars. Not," he repeated, "for dollars."
"But I knew you wouldn't," she told him.

He took her hand. "Good-night," he said. "I've had an awful nice time singing and listening to you talk—well, of course—I mean," he cried, "the supper was just fine. And so was the music."
"Oh, no," she said.
Mrs. Bett came into the hall.
"Lullie," she said, "I guess you didn't notice this one's from Ninian."
"Mother—"
"I opened it—why, of course I did. It's from Ninian."
Mrs. Bett held out the opened envelope, the unfolded letter, and a yellowed newspaper clipping.
"See," said the old woman, "says, Corie Waters, music hall singer—married last night to Ninian Deacon— Say, Lullie, that must be her."
Lulu threw out her hands.
"There!" she cried triumphantly.
"He was married to her, just like he said!"

The Plows were at breakfast next morning when Lulu came in casually at the side door. Yes, she said, she had had breakfast. She merely wanted to see them about something. When she said nothing, but sat looking with a troubled frown at Jenny, Jenny's hair was about her neck, like the hair of a little girl, a south window poured light upon her, the fruit and honey upon the table seemed her only possible food.
"You look troubled, Lulu," Mrs. Plow said. "Is it about getting work?"
"No," said Lulu, "no. I've been places. I guess the bakery is going to let me make cake."
"I knew it would come to you," Mrs. Plow said, and Lulu thought that this was a strange way to speak, when she herself had gone after the cakes. But she kept on looking about the room. It was so bright and quiet. As she came in, Mr. Plow had been reading from a book. Dwight never read from a book at table.

"I wish—" said Lulu, as she looked at them. But she did not know what she wished. Certainly it was for no moral excellence, for she perceived none.
"What is it, Lulu?" Mr. Plow asked, and he was bright and quiet too, Lulu thought.
"Well," said Lulu, "it's not much, but I wanted Jenny to tell me about last night."
"Last night?"
"Yes. Would you—? Hesitation was her only way of apology. "Where did you go?" She turned to Jenny.
Jenny looked up in her clear and ardent fashion: "We went across the river and carried supper and then we came home."
"What time did you get home?"
"Oh, it was still light. Long before eight, it was."
Lulu hesitated and flushed, asked how long Di and Bobby had stayed there at Jenny's; whereupon she heard that Di had to be home early on account of Mr. Cornish, so that she and Bobby had not stayed at all. To which Lulu said an "of course," but first she stared at Jenny and so impaired the strength of her assent. Almost at once she rose to go.
"Nothing else?" said Mrs. Plow, catching that look of hers.
Lulu wanted to say: "My husband was married before, just as he said he was." But she said nothing more, and went home. There she put it to Di and, with her terrible bluntness, reviewed to Di the testimony.
"You were not with Jenny after eight o'clock. Where were you?" Let's speak formally and her rehearsals were evident.
Di said: "When mamma comes home, I'll tell her."

With this Lulu had no idea how to deal, and merely looked at her helplessly. Mrs. Bett, who was lacing her shoes, now said casually:
"No need to wait till then. Her and Bobby were out in the side yard sitting in the hammock till all hours."
Di had no answer save her furious flush, and Mrs. Bett went on:
"Didn't I tell you? I knew it before the company left, but I didn't say a word. Think I, 'She wiggles and chitters.' So I left her stay where she was."
"But, mother!" Lulu cried. "You didn't even tell me after he'd gone."
"I forgot it," Mrs. Bett said, "finding Ninian's letter and all—" She talked of Ninian's letter.
Di was bright and alert and firm of flesh and erect before Lulu's softness and laxness.
"I don't know what your mother'll say," said Lulu, "and I don't know what people'll think."
"They won't think Bobby and I are tired of each other, anyway," said Di, and left the room.
Through the day Lulu tried to think what she must do. About Di she was anxious and felt without power. She thought of the indignation of Dwight and Ina that Di had not been more scrupulously guarded. She thought of Di's girlish folly, her irritating independence—"and there," Lulu thought, "just the other day I was teaching her to sew." Her mind dwelt, too, on Dwight's furious anger at the opening of Ninian's letter. But when all this had spent itself, what was she herself to do? She must leave his house before he ordered her to do so, when she told him that she had confided in Cornish, as she must. But what was she to do? The bakery cake-making would not give her a roof.
Stepping about the kitchen in her blue cotton gown, her hair tight and flat as seemed proper when one was not dressed, she thought about these things. And it was strange: Lulu bore no physical appearance of one in distress or any anxiety. Her head was erect, her movements were strong and swift, her eyes were interested. She was no drooping Lulu with dragging step. She was more intent, she was somehow more operative than she had ever been.

Mrs. Bett was working contentedly beside her, and now and then humming an air of that music of the night before. The sun surged through the kitchen door and east window, a returned oriole swung and fluted on the elm above the gable. Wagons clattered by over the rattling wooden block pavement.
"Ain't it nice with nobody home?" Mrs. Bett remarked at intervals, like the burden of a comic song.
"Hush, mother," Lulu said, troubled, her ethical refinements conflicting with her honesty.
"Speak the truth and shame the devil," Mrs. Bett contended.
When dinner was ready at noon, Di did not appear. A little earlier Lulu had heard her moving about her room, and she served her in expectation that she would join them.
"Di must be having the 'taurim' this time," she thought, and for a time said nothing. But at length she did say: "Why doesn't Di come? I'd better put her plate in the oven."
Rising to do so, she was arrested by her mother. Mrs. Bett was eating a baked potato, holding her fork close to the tines, and presenting a profile of passionate absorption.
"Why, Di went off," she said. "Went off!"

"Down the walk. Down the side walk."
"She must have gone to Jenny's," said Lulu. "I wish she wouldn't do that without telling me."
Monona laughed out and shook her straight hair. "She'll catch it!" she cried in sisterly enjoyment.
It was when Lulu had come back from the kitchen and was seated at the table that Mrs. Bett observed:
"I didn't think Ina'd want her to take her nice new satchel."
"Her satchel?"
"Yes. Ina wouldn't take it north herself, but Di had it."
"Mother," said Lulu, "when Di went away just now, was she carrying a satchel?"
"Didn't I just tell you?" Mrs. Bett demanded, aggrieved. "I said I didn't think Ina—"
"Mother, which way did she go?"
Monona pointed with her spoon. "She went that way," she said. "I seen her."
Lulu looked at the clock. For Monona had pointed toward the railway station. The twelve-thirty train, which every one took to the city for shopping, would be just about leaving.
"Monona," said Lulu, "don't you go out of the yard while I'm gone. Mother, you keep her—"
Lulu ran from the house and up the street. She was in her blue cotton dress, her old shoes; she was hatless and without money. When she was still two or three blocks from the station, she heard the twelve-thirty "pulling out."
She ran badly, her ankles in their low, loose shoes continually turning, her arms held taut at her sides. So she came down the platform, and to the ticket window. The contained ticket man, wanted to load trains and perturbed faces, yet actually ceased counting when he saw her:
"Lenny! Did Di Deacon take that train?"
"Sure she did," said Lenny.
"And Bobby Larkin?" Lulu cared nothing for appearances now.
"He went in on the Local," said Lenny, and his eyes widened.
"Where?"
"See," Lenny thought it through. "Milton," he said. "Yes, sure. Milton. Both of 'em."
"How long till another train?"
"Well, sir," said the ticket man, "you're in luck, if you was going too. Seventeen was late this morning—she'll be along, jerk of a lamb's tail."
"Then," said Lulu, "you got to give me a ticket to Milton, without me paying till after—and you got to lend me two dollars."
"Sure thing," said Lenny, with a manner of laying the entire railway system at her feet.
"Seventeen" would rather not have stopped at Warblenton, but Lenny's signal was law on the time card, and the magnificent yellow express slowed down for Lulu. Hatless, and in her blue cotton gown, she climbed aboard.
Then her old inefficiency seized upon her. What was she going to do! Milton! She had been there but once, years ago—how could she ever find anybody? Why had she not stayed in Warblenton and asked the sheriff or somebody—no, not the sheriff. Cornish, perhaps. Oh, and Dwight and Ina were going to be angry now! And Di—little Di. As Lulu thought of her she began to cry. She said to herself that she had taught Di to sew.
In sight of Milton, Lulu was seized with trembling and physical nausea. She had never been alone in any unfamiliar town. She put her hands to her hair and for the first time realized her rolled-up sleeves. She was pulling down these sleeves when the conductor came through the train.
"Could you tell me," she said timidly, "the name of the principal hotel in Milton?"
Ninian had asked this as they neared Savannah, Georgia.
The conductor looked curiously at her.
"Why, the Hess house," he said. "Wasn't you expecting anybody to meet you?" he asked, kindly.
"No," said Lulu, "but I'm going to find my folks—" Her voice trailed away.
"Beats all," thought the conductor, using his utility formula for the unverse.
In Milton Lulu's inquiry for the Hess house produced no consternation. Nobody paid any attention to her. She was almost taken to be a new servant there.
"You stop feeling so!" she said to herself angrily at the lobby entrance. "Ain't you been to that big hotel in Savannah, Georgia?"
The Hess house, Milton, had a tradition of its own to maintain. It seemed, and they sent her to the rear basement door. She obeyed meekly but she lost a good deal of time before she found herself at the end of the office desk. It was still longer before she reached her room.

Baby Can Sleep For First Time In Two Weeks

"I will never be without Teethina again," writes a delighted mother of Grand Prairie, Texas, Mrs. W. E. Nelson. "Why, the very first dose relieved Frances when she was teething and she slept easy for the first time in two weeks."
Teethina has been a household word with mothers everywhere for forty years. It is absolutely harmless and has brought welcome relief to countless thousands of little sufferers from colds and bowel troubles and untold joy to their mothers.
If your druggist cannot supply you with Teethina send 30c to Moffett Laboratories, Columbus, Ga., and get a package and a valuable booklet on the care of Baby.—Advertisement.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It
Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.
An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.
However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

Ware's Baby Powder Relieved His Baby of Intestinal Indigestion in 48 Hours Cured in a Few Days

Geo. W. Thomas, prominent citizen of Shreveport, La., wrote us July 28, 1922, as follows: "Eight years ago my baby boy, then three months old, was in constant pain, crying continuously, suffering from intestinal indigestion, and after spending $750.00 with the doctors, I got a box of Ware's Baby Powder, and in 48 hours my baby was relieved and in a few days was entirely well."

What a Houma, La., Mother Says About It
Mrs. Aledore Picou, 803 East Park Ave., Houma, La., writes us March 23, 1922, as follows: "Please send me twenty (20) boxes of your Ware's Baby Powder by parcel post, c. o. d. I have used your baby powder in my own home and many of my friends want your Ware's Baby Powder because they have seen what it did in my home. One of my children weighed 134 pounds before he began using your Baby Powder; before two months had passed he had gained nine pounds; and today he weighs 224 pounds and is in perfect health."

For over forty years, Ware's Baby Powder—the prescription of Dr. James Ware, famous old Southern physician—has been a healing boon to babies for bowel troubles, teething and summer complaints, etc. Keep the stomach and bowels in a healthy condition and you need have no fear of these distressing troubles so general among babies especially during the teething period. Perfectly harmless, mixed according to directions, (a teaspoonful of Ware's Baby Powder, a half teaspoonful of sugar, add enough water to make four doses), children love to take it. At your drug store, in 50c and $1.00 packages. Prepared in the laboratories of The Ware Chemical Co., Dallas, Texas. Adv.-No. 4

IS YOUR CHILD EQUIPPED?

Five million school children in this country—a fourth of all the children in all the schools—are not equipped for the work. And what they lack is the most vital weapon of all—GOOD EYE SIGHT. They are given splendid school houses, a full equipment of school books, and yet neither parent nor teacher realizes that many of these children are fighting with the broken sword of Faulty Vision.

Headaches, Nervousness, Listlessness, these proclaim the sapping of energy that is probably due to uncorrected Eyesight. Difficulty in keeping up with school work is a suggestive symptom. The child who buries his head in his books, the child who squints, cannot learn his lessons properly and is thus not fully armed for the competitions of later life.

THE DUTY IS YOURS AND NOT THE CHILD'S

These handicapped children have never looked through any eyes but their own, and assume that all children see exactly as they do. Naturally, they have not complained about their eyes, and their parents accordingly never dream that their eyes are not normal.

Your child's chances in life may depend upon your taking action now in this matter of his Eye sight. The Wells Worth Scientific Staff through many years of research work, has contributed much toward better vision for the school children of America. GET THE FACTS ABOUT YOUR CHILD'S EYES.

MRS. CRAWFORD ENTERTAINS THE I. W. CLUB

The I. W. Club met Monday evening in entertainment, with Mrs. O. B. Crawford as hostess of the occasion, and the time-honored event was unsurpassed in the history of the club's organization. However, quite a few of the members were absent, due to the present epidemic of influenza, but this, though regrettable, did not mar the occasion we enjoyed so immensely.

Auction bridge, forty two and a musical contest were participated in by Club members, the lucky music contestant being our popular member, Miss Imogene Moreman.

A dainty two course luncheon was served. We were further entertained after the delightful luncheon by an exquisite radio program at the Brooks Pharmacy.

The Club adjourned, voting the occasion a royal success on the part of our charming hostess and the following members who participated: Imogene Moreman, Blanche Temple, Alma Anderson, Myrtle Reeves. We had as guests for the evening Mrs. Brooks, Cloeteal Moreman, and Faye Moreman.
