WHITTLIN'

BY DOLPH MOTEN

It turns out that the "Bovina man" Paul Crume was referring to in his recent column about this community was Jerry Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jones who live west of town. Jerry was graduated from Bovina High in '49 and since that time has become a lawyer in the big city.

A scaffold fell with him while he was doing some week-end type work on his house. Crume implied that the difference in the humidity or something in Dallas compared with that in Bovina caused the scaffold to fall.

Jerry's dad, however, says that "He didn't build that scaffold like I told him to, anyway," implying that it would not have fallen no matter the climate if it had been built according to instructions.

Jones suffered an injured shoulder in the fall which he has been wearing taped up. He isn't completely over it yet, his dad told us the other day.

Perhaps mention of it in the Dallas Morning News will make the injury heal faster . . . and certainly with much more attention focused on it.

In the same column, Crume mentioned coming to Bovina to visit the Ezell boys or the Caldwell boys. He implied that sometimes they stole watermelons at night.

Bedford Caldwell says that must have happened when Crume was visiting the Ezells or another family of Cawdells. "No one in our family has ever done anything like that," he assures all he can get to listen.

And, too, since Crume's now-famous column appeared, a Dallas resident has written to the "Mayor of Parmer County, Bovina, Texas, inquiring about how he can purchase some Bovina vegetables. He mentions that he has purchased Bovina cantaloupe, liked them, and is interested in other vegetables from here.

No telling what all would happen, if we could get Paul Crume to write a "Bovina column" in the Dallas paper every day for a week. So much excitement would be created, we couldn't keep up with it.

For almost 100 days now we've been without the benefit of direct cigarette or cigar smoke in our lungs. That, in itself, is good, we think, and we're semi-proud of the accomplishment. This is the first time in a period of 12 years of relying on cigarettes when we didn't know what to do next that we've been able to actually quit.

Our observations on the quit-smoking campaign include the fact that there is a definite shock to the body when the habit is dropped abruptly. And that is, we've been told, the only way to quit effectively.

Nicotine, we've decided, is a mild form of "dope." It's rough on the body to have to do without it after it has become accustomed to it. We've cheated a little on this count in that we've chewed a few sacks of Beech-Nut in successful efforts to keep from growing completely beserk over the nicotine craving.

However, we now have the fear that the habit of chewing tobacco would be rougher to knock than that of smoking it.

But the main thing wrong with not smoking is the ever-present weight problem. All these years we've figured that being overweight was something that happened to other people and we looked on them with pity and wondered why they just didn't quit eating so much.

But, we've learned, overweight can be a tremendous problem! (We expect understanding readers to mutter "Amen" after that sentence is digested--no pun intended.)

Most of our clothes no longer fit. And those that do are uncomfortable. Tying of our shoes is more of a chore than we ever before realized and our feelings are hurt when friends or acquaintances who are well-meaning or otherwise comment, "You're gaining a little weight, aren't you?"

One of these days, our answer to that question is going to be, (Continued on page 5)

FIRST BEETS -- First sugar beet harvest in history got underway here last week. Bringing the first load to the new dump here were Billy Sides, left, and Albert Cannon. After being unloaded here, the beets are transported by rail to Hereford for processing. A total of 550 tons per day will be received here when the harvest gets in full swing, according to Mrs. Henry Minter, bookkeeper for the beet company here.

SECOND DISTRICT TILT--

Bovina Meets Happy In Important Game

"One down and five to go" could be the way the Bovina Mustangs are looking at their district football race now that they've opened conference competition with an easy whitewashing of Texline.

This week's opponent is Happy, a team the Mustangs almost always have a hard game with.

The game will be played there with kickoff time at 7:30 p.m. The Cowboys are probably the Mustangs' strongest district rivals. This rivalry has developed down through the years because many times when the two teams meet the district championship is being decided in that particular game. Often they are the two leading teams in the district.

The winners of this year's game will again have an inside track on the championship of the district. Nazareth, which both Happy and Bovina play later, is expected to be strong and will probably have something to say about the district championship.

Happy will be a slight favorite in the game with Bovina. The Cowboys have a better season record. However, it won't be a major upset if Bovina wins.

Coach Roy Stone says the Cowboys base their offense around their big fullback, Jim McManigal. He weighs 189 pounds and is strong enough to go up the middle and fast enough to carry the mail on end-sweeps. "We'll have to stop McManigal to stay in the game," the Bovina coach says.

During the season, the Cowboys have won three, tied one and lost one. They were defeated by Class A Kress, the team the Mustangs scrimmaged in a pre-season practice, 19-6. They tied Turkey, 8-8, and won from Silverton, Lefors, and Lazbuddie. The Lazbuddie win was by a 32-6 count last week. That was the only district game for the Cowboys.

Coach Stone says his team will be in the best condition physically that it has since the season opener with Farwell. Fullback Gene Pruitt, who

TOMORROW NIGHT--

Jaycees Plan Election

Final organizational meeting of the new Bovina Junior Chamber of Commerce will be tomorrow (Thursday) night at 8 in Bovina Restaurant.

Major business item will be election of Jaycee officers who will serve until April of next year. Other business scheduled is the setting of a dues rate, final approval of by-laws and constitution, final arrangements for affiliation with the state and national organizations and planning for a charter night banquet.

Sid Killough, a member of the planning group, says that some 15 men have already been enrolled and at least 15 more are expected to join prior to the charter night banquet.

All men enrolled prior to the charter night are entitled to special charter membership.

ship. Interested men, between the ages of 21 and 35, are asked to contact Killough or Bobby Fillpot or attend the Thursday night meeting.

Membership in the organization is open to all men in the community between the ages of 21 and 35.

Major purposes of the Jaycees are community improvement and personal development of its members.

Some 10 men who are interested in organizing the chapter here met with a group of Hereford Jaycees last Thursday night to continue planning the Bovina chapter.

Members of the Hereford chapter, the sponsoring organization, will also assist in the final organizational meeting tomorrow night.

PLANNING UNDERWAY--

City Considering New Municipal Building

"I'm in favor of building a new city hall," Mayor Boyd Gilreath commented at a regular meeting of Bovina city council last week as plans were discussed for constructing a municipal building.

Councilmen agreed to begin planning on the new structure which will probably include city offices, a fire station, a police department, a meeting room, a shop and storage room for city equipment and possibly other facilities.

Estimates on the cost of the new building vary from $50,000 to $100,000. A bond issue will possibly have to be voted to finance the new building.

No definite plans have yet been made, but it now appears likely that if and when the building is constructed it will be on the property now occupied by the American Legion Hall. Discussion about a new municipal building began several weeks ago when the need for a new fire station was brought up. Present fire station facilities are considered totally inadequate.

In other business at last week's meeting, councilmen heard a plan offered by Milt Flitts, Bovina High Coach. He asked if the city would furnish land and parking area for a swimming pool constructed and operated at his expense.

The council agreed to cooperate with Flitts by furnishing land and water for the pool. Also, the council voted to let a contract for $1976.50 for repair of a water tank.

Bill Denney and Henry Minter, representing Bovina Volunteer Fire Department, met with the council to discuss needs in a new fire station.

60% NOW PAID--

Payment Made On Building

Board of trustees of Bovina Independent School District voted to pay the fourth estimate in the building project now under construction at a regular monthly meeting Monday night.

Paying of this payment makes approximately 60 per cent of the $177,000 project paid, announces Superintendent Otis Spears.

Building is scheduled for completion by December 15. School officials hope to be able to start using the new portions by shortly after first of the year.

Recently completed audit report for the year ending August 31 was examined and discussed. It is slated for final approval at the next meeting of the board.

Board members voted to purchase 300 gym locker baskets with racks for a total of $650.

Present at the meeting were Board members Johnie Horn, Vernon Estes, J. W. Harris, Don Murphy, Grady Sorley and Robert Read.

NOT A VEGETABLE STAND -- A trailer truck loaded with vegetables overturned Sunday morning in the driveway of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dean McCallum on FM Road 1731 three miles south of Bovina. Driver of the truck who said he was forced off the road by an oncoming car was uninjured. The boxes of vegetables are shown being loaded on another truck.

Rev. Morris' Father Dies

C. A. Morris, father of Rev. Harold Morris, pastor of Bovina Methodist Church, died Monday morning in Carterville, Mo. He was a resident of Carterville for 50 years and active in civic affairs there.

He is survived by his wife of the home and three sons, W. W. of Kent, Ohio; Lynn of Fullerton, Calif.; Harold of Bovina and 6 grandchildren.

Services will be at First Methodist Church in Carterville and burial will be at Joplin, Mo.

Truck Flips When Forced From Road

A trailer truck loaded with vegetables overturned three miles south of Bovina on FM Road 1731 late Sunday morning.

No one was injured in the spectacular accident which saw the large truck end on its side in the driveway of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dean McCallum.

Nelson Unhurt In Accident At Lariat

Bernard Nelson, Oklahoma Lane farmer, escaped injury in a two-vehicle collision Thursday at Lariat.

Two people in a car going east on U. S. 84 were injured in the wreck. Nelson's pickup struck the car as he pulled onto the highway from a FM Road 1731.

Driver of the truck was Hernandez Cruz of Laredo. He was going south at the time of the accident. The car which had forced him off the road left the scene of the accident, according to the patrolman.

The truck was loaded with cucumbers, cabbage and carrots.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Thanks
Sincerely yours,
W. E. Bill Johnson
9760 - 208th NE

October 12, 1964

Dear Editor,
Why don't you grow yourself a beard and go to Mississippi as a civil rights worker? I'm sure with your thinking you could get the job.

In one of your columns you said we extremists couldn't give a reason for being for Goldwater. I have many reasons. Now let me give you a few. Because Kruchey, Castro, Walter Ruther, CORE, the NAACP, and The Bovina Blade are against him; and now the Saturday Evening Post, the magazine that proved what it was when writing about the football coaches of Alabama and Georgia.

Wasn't the Democratic convention just great? Did you ever see so much double talk. While they were hollering peace, our American boys were dying in Viet Nam in a war with a no win policy. While they were hollering civil rights they were refusing to seat the duly elected delegates from two of our southern states; because they were afraid these delegates would say something to offend James Farmer or Martin Luther King.

I wonder what it is about this present administration you are so proud of. Could it be the price of cattle, $1.30 wheat, the Bobby Baker case, the Billie Sol Estes case, or the Civil Rights Bill that your friend, Wrestling Ralph Yarborough, said was the greatest piece of legislation Congress ever passed. The bill that encourages inner marriage and mixing of the black and white races, and takes the white man's rights away and gives the Negro special privileged rights.

You left wing liberals talk about the extremist. What could be more extreme than this administration spending over three million dollars in Mississippi hunting for the bodies of three troublemakers, or talking prosperity out of one side of their mouth and talking poverty out the other side, or supposedly fighting Communism 9,000 miles from our shores while they let it move in and take over just 90 miles away, or condemning the John Birch Society and the Ku Klux Klan while embracing the ADA,

CORE, and the NAACP which are extreme left groups, or hollering about Goldwater suggesting conventional weapons for NATO while they nominate a man for Vice President who advocates turning all atomic weapons over to the United Nations and having a one world government.

Yes, I, too, remember the milk price in the fifties. I also remember the good cattle price, good wheat prices, and our cotton acreage which was much more than it is today. I also remember that we didn't have American soldiers dying in a war of any kind.

When writing about politics in your column you stay as far from the issues as Daddy bird Johnson does. The only thing he can say is let's go forward together. Forward to what, a welfare state or a dictatorship?

I can not understand how a Christian can pray and ask God to protect our boys in South Viet Nam then go vote for the people who sent them there to fight in a war with a no win policy. I heard in the news a few nights ago that an American soldier dying in Viet Nam and with blood running from his mouth he asked the question, "Just whose side is Washington and the United States on anyway?"

With all these facts you can still give your puny selfish answer. "Why change, we've never had it so good."

By Sue Moten

Maybe this is finally going to be the year of a woman winner in the football contest.

We heard Barry Goldwater making snide remarks about President Johnson's high heeled boots and cowboy hat the other afternoon and this seemed a might strange to use since Goldwater is known to ride a horse occasionally himself. Do you suppose he puts on his one button suit and spats to ride in?

Monster shows seem to be the things on TV this season. Children find these somewhat amusing but they do wonder what is wrong with their faces and hair. The one we enjoy is about the housewife who is a witch. Now she seems to have it made. Just "poof" and the housework and cooking are done. This would be a real advantage to someone who hates to cook as much as we do.

We don't know what we expected sugar beets to look like but it certainly wasn't like sweet potatoes. Perhaps we had them pictured complete with "granulated" written on the outside of the bag instead of realistically. We have decided that it would be worthwhile to go through the Holly plant at Hereford in order to see just how in the heck they get sugar from that sweet potato looking thing.

In answer to a popular question, No, we don't have hot biscuits at our house each morning. We have had them only a few times. Think the spouse of the house has decided in favor of full progress and believes the canned ones are excellent.

(EDITOR'S NOTE -- On the contrary, no such decision has been made --DM)

Gene Ezell's directions for getting to Texline, where the Mustangs played football Friday night: Go north to just the other side of the Canada line and then turn west.

It is quite a distance from here to Texline. We understand that the Tornados were added to our district during the realignment last year so they wouldn't have so far to go to play district games. Could that be?

FIRST DISTRICT GAME--

Mustangs Kick Wind From The Tornadoes

Surprising even their most dedicated fans, the Bovina Mustangs blasted the favored Texline Tornadoes, 26-0, in the opening district game for both teams there Friday night.

Though they had only a 6-0 lead at halftime, the Mustangs had an easy time of racking the North Plains team. The Texliners were never able to penetrate the midfield stripe into Bovina territory.

Texline's efforts were handicapped by the loss of their starting quarterback, Keith Sheets, who was injured late in the second period. However, the Tornadoes had managed to pick up only two first downs up until the time he left the game.

David Anderson, regular Mustang quarterback who has been out of action since the opening game of the season, returned to the lineup for the district opener. He played fullback in the absence of power-runner Gene Pruitt, who was out of the game with the flu. Anderson plunged for two short touchdowns while Halfback Dean Stanberry opened the scoring with an 18-yard dash late in the first quarter and Quarterback Scotty Rundell wound it up with a 32-yard gallop in the fourth period.

Texline managed for only three first downs in the first half and two of those came in the closing seconds as they were backed deep into their own territory and the Mustang defense was protecting against the long play.

Mustangs had to punt first time they got the ball but soon were in possession again on their own 30. The score came in eight plays with Stanberry getting a 12-yard gainer during the drive as well as the 18-yard scoring dash.

Late in the second stanza, the Ponies knocked on paydirt's door but it wouldn't open. Short yardage attempts banged the ball down to Texline's one yard line where possession was lost via the fumble route. At the time it was lost, it looked like a tough break for the Mustangs who had a first down and only one to go.

The second half was all Bovina. Al Shamblin kicked off to Texline and the ball sailed into the endzone giving the Tornadoes possession on the 20. Two plays later a fumble gave Bovina possession on the 21. The Mustangs blasted across their second touchdown of the night in seven plays with Anderson going the final yard. Stanberry and Anderson got one each to begin the scoring effort, then Stanberry added five more. Bulling his way on a fourth down and three yard to go situation, Anderson went to the 11 and got the first down. Stanberry made two more, then Anderson's next carry plus a half - the - distance - to - the goal penalty put the ball on the one.

Rundell was stopped in his attempt to run the extra points and the score stayed 12-0.

The third score for the Mustangs came easier. Again Shamblin's kickoff went into the endzone. A penalty had moved the Texliners back to their own nine when they were forced to punt. The kick was blocked and Bovina had the ball on the two. Anderson plowed over on the first play from there. Al Shamblin, who had missed the point after following the first touchdown made this one good and the score was 19-0.

Late in the third quarter, the Ponies missed another scoring opportunity as they lost the ball on the 11-yard line of Texline.

Final score came midway through the fourth period and climaxed a 69-yard drive. Rundell scooted the final 32 yards to the goal and the score was 25-0. Shamblin's kick boosted it to 26-0.

Bovina's second team took over offensively from there.

returned it 35 yards for a score. It was nullified, however, by a penalty.

The victory gave the Bovina boys a season record of 2-3 and a district mark of 1-0.

It was the first defeat of the season for the Tornadoes. They had two wins and a tie going into Friday night's game.

Anderson, who played with a cast on his arm to protect the injury which kept him out for three weeks, was the leading ground gainer for Bovina. He picked up 126 yards in 22 attempts. Stanberry made 72 in 19 runs. Rundell picked up 59 yards in six carries while Marshall netted 17 in six chances.

The Mustangs didn't go to the air on a single occasion. Texline completed three in 10 attempts.

Texline meets Vega this week to continue the district schedule while Bovina goes to Happy.

MEETS HAPPY--

to be back in harness. If he is, David Anderson, who played fullback last week, will return to his regular position of quarterback. Scotty Rundell, who has been at quarterback while Anderson was recovering, will return to his right halfback slot. Dean Stanberry, the crowd-pleasing 130-pounder will remain at left half.

Mustang linemen are all in good shape for the Happy tilt. Al Shamblin and Jerry Roach will be at ends, Eddi Corn and Roman Ramirez will play the tackles, guards will be Gary Beauchamp and Don McKinney and Radford Venable will be the center.

In commenting on the district race up to now, Coach Stone says he thinks it will be possible for a team to lose a district game and still win the conference. He says he thinks Texline will "beat somebody" in the district before the season is over.

Shamblin will handle the kicking off chores for Bovina while Ramirez will do the punting.

Happy will have a weight advantage of about six pounds per man, according to Stone.

"We'll have to play as good a game as we have this year to win, but I think we have a good chance to do it," the coach says.

Bovina was the winner in last year's game, 18-14. Happy won in '62, 7-0, and Bovina had the better team in '61, 39-6. A good crowd of Bovina fans is expected to follow their team to the Swisher County town for the game which will, again this year, in all probability, have an important bearing on the district championship.

Enrollment Continues Increase

Enrollment in Bovina Schools continues to increase.

Number of students is now 670, announces Superintendent Otis Spears. This is an increase of 26 since the second week of school. The total then was 644.

On the opening day of school, 611 attended classes.

Most of the enrollment, as well as the increase during the past month, is in the elementary grades, Spears says.

Thin wire-like fingers on this pickup attachment gently gather the pinto bean vines that have been severed at the base and they are transported directly into the mouth of the moving combine. Dub Howard, grower, says this is much more efficient than windrowing the vines with a hay rake.

Plain Old Pintos Do Well For Howard

Most everybody in the Southwest is fond of pinto beans. Eating them, that is.

On the other hand, not many farmers are too fond of growing them, but one High Plains farmer who's downright enthusiastic about his bean crop this year is W. D. "Dub" Howard who farms north of Texico-Farwell.

Dub has about 70 acres of pintos this year and he's in the last stages of harvest. Unless his pencil has slipped—and he's been doing a lot of figuring lately—his lowly frijoles are going to pay off better than either his grain sorghum or cotton; and he's a successful producer of both.

This isn't the first time Howard has put some beans on his place. Last year he had 80 acres, although the results were anything but spectacular.

This season, thanks to a new rust and blight resistant variety called Luna, there has been a phenomenal difference in production.

No clean beans have been across the scale as yet so yield is only an estimate, but Howard is convinced that he's making between 2,000 and 2,500 pounds of clean beans. At the market price of $7.00 or slightly higher, he feels that is a good return.

Some of the problems associated with pinto beans growing this area (aside from disease which apparently has been licked by the new variety) are shattering and keeping dirt out of the vines.

The conventional means of mechanized harvesting of beans is to cut the vines with sweeps, then using a hay rake to windrow them into a large pile every fourth row. Then the combine comes along and gobbles up the crop.

Howard harvested about half of his beans this way, but in recent days has idled the rake in favor of having the combine pick up the vines directly from the ground where they were severed. A special pickup attachment facilitates this operation.

A lot of dirt is carried into the combine, but so far it has been kept within tolerable amounts by carefully modifying and adjusting the machine.

Howard used two planting dates this year. The first beans went in May 5 and the late beans were planted June 25. Surprisingly, the yields of the late crop are up to the early one.

Fertilizer included 32 pounds of nitrogen and 40 pounds of phosphate, and the crop received only one pre-irrigation and two waterings during growth. "I've got a lot less in this crop than in my maize this year," says Dub, who irrigated his excellent milo five times.

Besides the gross from the sale of the beans, the Parmer County farmer figures on grossing about $30 an acre from the baled hay. That is estimated from the one-ton yield, which will sell for about three-fourths what alfalfa hay will.

Pintos also work very well into the cropping program on the farm, with the 40% layout provision in effect on grain sorghum. They do not affect the compliance provisions of the government program.

There is a price support on beans, but it is of little effect since the market has been running well over it, Howard says.

On The Farm In Parmer County

BY JOE VAN ZANDT
County Agent

4-H NEWS

Last week we were real pleased with the progress made by a group of Bovina parents towards getting a 4-H Club organized. From what I can gather it has been some time since that community has had a 4-H club. There were about 65 in attendance at the meeting and they made definite plans to get 4-H work going there.

There adult advisory group, Travis Dyer, chairman; Durward Bell, vice-chairman; Mrs. Earl Dean Boyd, secretary; and Directors Joe Pinner and Mrs. Earl Hise, met earlier this week to select an organizational leader and worked out other problems facing the organization of a club in Bovina.

This now gives each community in Parmer County a 4-H Club. The work is yet to be done; but at least the parents of 4-H'ers have been real interested in helping. This parent assistance is what it takes to get these boys and girls some real meaningful 4-H activities going.

We can not afford to fumble the ball now-if you want to help or have agreed to help and need some assistance, please let the Agents know. We are working on helping you leaders get started, but it just takes time to get around.

COTTON HARVEST

At last we are seeing a few fields of cotton opening up. This is sure a welcome sight and just hope our warm weather holds with us and prevents a frost for another few weeks.

If you farmers with this early cotton are thinking about using a desiccant of defoliant, at least 60% and preferably 80% of your cotton should be open. You will likely get decreases in yield and lower quality lint and seed if you use a harvest-aid chemical too early.

SCREW-WORMS

The fall build-up in screw-worms is very likely now. Five cases of screwworms have been identified in the last week in Texas. These cases were all in the South Texas Area, but we could very easily have a case of worms here in Parmer County.

All producers should check their livestock as best they can for worm cases. Get a good sample of worms should you have an infestation and please get in touch with the County Agent's office.

SUGAR BEETS

All beet producers recently received some information that pointed out the value and uses of their beet tops. Beet tops are comparable in cattle feed value to alfalfa hay.

We have additional copies of this material. If any livestock producers would like a copy, let the office know and we will send you a copy.

4-H is a national program for farm and city boys and girls.

Wheat Program Goes Over Big

According to Prentice Mills, manager of the Parmer County ASC Office the government controlled wheat program will go over in a big way with 1182 (or 96%) farms of the 1232 in the county signing up for the program.

Total acres allotted to wheat was 96,240 of which 95,178 (or 99%) will be growing wheat and the other 12,161 being diverted to lay out land for the year, according to Mills.

Farmers in the area flocked to the ASC office on Friday to sign up for the program.

Final checks on the wheat stabilization, feed grain and domestic cotton programs for 1964 were being handed out to farmers in the area this week with the remainder of the checks to be ready for distribution by the beginning of next week.

4-H Club work is administered by the Cooperative Extension Service and supervised locally by the county extension agents.

There's a lot of dirt, plus other foreign matter, in these combined pintos, but after they are cleaned and sacked they'll be ready for market. Cleaning costs 50 cents a hundred.

Those bales aren't alfalfa, although they look it. They are pinto bean vines and leaves, the "remains" after a combine has been through the field. This hay will rank close to alfalfa in protein.

Quality in meat is highly variable and almost impossible to judge in small retail cuts. The best buying guide is the USDA grade stamp on meat.

Buying Guides For Consumers

These food buying tips by Mrs. Gwen Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist, may save consumers some money during the next several days.

The cooler weather may bring out the "soup kettle," so look for best beef values on ground beef, short ribs and arm and blade pot roasts, the specialist says. Shoulder and round steaks are the most economical.

Pork values include smoked hams and picnic, shoulder roasts and pork liver. Fryers remain an excellent bargain in retail meat departments, and Grade A large size eggs continue as the economy quality egg buy.

A SHOPPING LIST IS A TIME-SAYER

Food Stores may be a jungle to some shoppers--who fight their way through once a week and have a miserable time doing so. Other shoppers look forward with anticipation to the shopping trip and thoroughly enjoy it.

Oddly enough, it is often the shopper who dislikes shopping that takes the longest time, has no shopping list, and ends up with the most "impulse" purchases in the shopping cart.

Impulse items need not be a problem to the informed shopper--she knows where to look for items on her shopping list and won't be as easily attracted to the message of the impulse purchase.

The difference in these two shoppers is mainly a matter of planning. A shopping list of foods needed, arranged in the same order as the foods appear in the store, helps save time. And chances are that the shopper will arrive home with all the items she went after.

Meat Shoppers Should Consider Three Guides

Three safety guides should be considered by the consumer when buying meat. They are the inspection stamp, grade stamp and appearance of the meat itself, says Frank Orts, Extension meats specialist, Texas A&M University.

There should be no confusion between the inspection stamp and the grade stamp. Inspection should be associated with health, and grade, with quality, the specialist points out.

Federal inspection, established under the Meat Inspection Act of 1906, is supervised by the Meat Inspection Division of the Bureau of Animal Industry, USDA. Its primary purpose is to protect the consumer by guaranteeing that all meat so inspected and passed is from healthy animals, slaughtered, processed and packaged under sanitary conditions; that it is entirely suitable for consumption when leaving the processing establishment; and that no labels carry misleading statements.

All meat packing plants which slaughter or otherwise process meats or meat products intended for out-of-state shipment must operate under federal inspection, Orts points out. Meat establishments whose products do not enter into interstate commerce must meet applicable state and/or city inspection regulations where they are in effect. Such meat may carry a state or city inspection stamp.

All meat shipped interstate must also be inspected and bear the proper stamp, says the specialist. Grading is optional with packing plants doing the processing, although most inspected meat is graded as well.

When meat from inspected plants is passed as wholesome food, all wholesale carcass cuts are marked with a round purple stamp indicating the meat has been inspected and passed. The code number on the stamp identifies the packing house. According to Orts, the harmless vegetable dye used for stamping need not be trimmed from the meat.

All labels used on canned, processed or packaged meats must be approved. Labels are required to give a name that adequately describes the product, a list of ingredients in decreasing order of predominance, net weight, and name and address of manufacturer or distributor.

Hamburgers or watermelon for breakfast may seem "way out" to you, but it's not so much which foods children eat so long as the foods supply needed nutrition, according to nutritionists with the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Since many children eat no breakfast, an off-beat breakfast may tempt them to the table. For example, best source of Vitamin C is citrus fruit or juice. But watermelon and cabbage also contain Vitamin C. And some teenagers who balk at breakfast might go for watermelon or cole slaw with a hamburger.

No Conservation Payments To Farmers Who Burn Wheat Stubble

A number of people in agriculture have long been concerned with the fact that organic material is not being maintained in the soil on our farms; and, farmers have been encouraged to retain and utilize all available crop residue on their farms.

In order to encourage the utilization of crop residue on farms, the Texas ASC State Committee has determined that farmers who deliberately burn crop residue, other than flax, are violating reasonable conservation principles and will not be eligible to earn cost-share payments under the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Science Plays Major Role In Modern Agriculture

Science in agriculture has contributed most to our nation's ability to produce an abundance of food. Thus we have become a generally well-fed nation of people who enjoy a variety of foods costing only one-fifth of our disposable income.

Yet many Americans fail to understand the important role that science plays in modern farming, says Reagan Brown, Extension sociologist, Texas A&M University. They also indicate a lack of knowledge about modern farming and reflect an awareness of the dependence of urban and industrial growth upon a highly productive agriculture.

Brown believes this lack of knowledge perhaps arises from the great variation in size and productivity of our farms. Over 90 per cent of all farm products sold in our country are produced on 44 per cent of our farms. Thus more than half the farms are so small and unproductive that they produce less than 10 per cent of our food and fiber supply. Unfortunately, says the sociologist, these small and inefficient farms provide the image that many Americans have of farming.

This image, in turn, leads to a belief that recent advances in scientific knowledge have had no impact on farming; that farming is unscientific. Nothing could be further from the truth, Brown contends.

Science has enabled a single farm worker to produce enough food, fiber and tobacco to satisfy the demand of 30 people. Between 1950 and 1962, a span of 12 years, it made possible a fourth increase in livestock production per breeding unit, an increase of 2,000 pounds of milk produced per cow, and 38 more eggs per hen per year.

Even more spectacular has been the reduction in time required to produce a three-pound broiler—from 13 to nine weeks, and on half the feed. Similar advances in crop production have occurred, Brown points out. Within the last decade, crop yields increased at a rate of 2.8 per cent annually.

If the American farmer had disregarded recent scientific achievements and produced the 1957 agricultural production by methods available to him in 1939, the cost to the nation would have increased by 7.5 billion dollars.

Scientific research and the farmers' ability to adopt its results have released 29 out of 30 people to build cars, television sets and other material goods. We should be justly proud of this achievement, says the sociologist, and we need to become more aware of the importance of science in the accomplishment.

Furthermore, so long as food production is limited by utilization of seven to 10 per cent of the earth's surface, conversion by the animal of only 10 to 25 per cent of its feed to human food, and fixation by the plant of no more than five per cent of the radiant heat it receives, there will be a need for science in agricultural production, says Brown.

Feeding Conference Set For November

The Fourth Annual Southwestern Cattle Feeding Conference will be held in Amarillo, Texas, Nov. 24.

Lloyd Bergsma, director of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, sponsor of the event, said conference headquarters will be the Holiday Inn West Motel.

A special conference committee consisting of feeders and businessmen from the Texas Panhandle area have planned an outstanding program designed to be of interest to the entire cattle industry.

Bergsma said nationally known speakers will present information on topics of current interest and that attendance is expected to reach a record high for conference participation.

Registration at previous conferences has been running between 400 and 500.

New knowledge on why wheat gluten can stretch and hold together, as it does in bread dough, was reported by USDA chemists. These studies of gluten, which contains most of the protein in flour, add to basic knowledge for the baking industry and for effort in USDA to find new uses for wheat and other farm products. Wheat gluten's unique elasticity and cohesion, required in bread dough, might be put to work in industrial and food products.

Leadership Responsibilities Cited

Women today have inescapable leadership responsibilities, according to a Texas educator who gave the keynote address at the recent annual meeting of the Texas Home Demonstration Association in Houston.

Director John E. Hutchison of Texas A&M University's Extension Service told approximately 800 homemakers attending the meeting that "capable, informed leadership is essential at all levels of operation."

"There is a new emphasis on adult education in America. Society now has as great a stake in the continued learning of adults as it has had in the education of children. The kind of education being discussed is to a large degree the kind of training and education experiences which home demonstration clubs and leaders can provide for a significant segment of the population. Many of you already are providing this leadership," Director Hutchison said.

Research studies indicate that many young homemakers with small children cannot take time to participate in many club activities, yet they have a great need for specific training in certain subject-matter areas. Home demonstration clubs can sponsor workshops for them, the educator suggested.

"The Agricultural Extension Service can provide some of the specialists and assistance needed, and you can enlist other resource people to help," he told THDA members.

Workshops in health and safety, citizenship, civil defense, 4-H work, family life and recreation were among highlights of the annual meeting.

New officers, elected for two-year terms beginning January 1, are Mrs. C. R. Berkley, Odessa, president; Mrs. Maynard Gaines, Coleman, vice president; Mrs. L. P. Chapman, Paris, secretary; Mrs. Sam Speir, Manchaca, treasurer; and Mrs. George Hackney, Jr., Greenville, advisor.

LUBBOCK, Friday, October 9 - At least the first if not the biggest beneficiaries of the current battle to keep boll weevils from overrunning the High Plains will be those in the weevil infested control zone, or those "on the front line," and here's what some of them have to say about the program.

S. J. Braselton, farmer and merchant of Roaring Springs--one of the boll weevil "hot spots" -- is enthusiastically supporting the diapause control program. And he has good reason. As a farmer, he has been fighting a losing battle with the weevil. And as a merchant, he says, "If we don't do something about the boll weevil, at least 80 per cent of my customers will soon be out of the cotton business."

Braselton, who farms 40 acres of cotton, says that boll weevils began to trickle into the Roarings Springs area in 1961. A year later they were a serious problem, and in 1963 they hit with full force. He spent more than $20 an acre trying to control the weevils. But they still took one-third of his crop.

As a businessman, Braselton is a "great believer in the private enterprise system." Yet, he doubts that it would have been possible to carry out a diapause control program without the cooperation of government agencies. He was also especially complimentary of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. for its leadership in the program.

What do the farmers think of the program so far? "I haven't heard one unfavorable comment," says Braselton. He adds, "At 50 cents a bale, we consider the program almost a gift. We couldn't do this kind of job for $5 a bale." Commenting that even the first treatment looks very good, he says, "Of course anyone familiar with insects knows you don't get rid of all of them the first time."

Polk M. Cooper, who farms 175 acres of cotton in the Roaring Springs area, expresses cautious optimism about the diapause program when he says: "We're hopeful it will help." Cooper's fields were first hit by the boll weevil four years ago and he says, "I wouldn't have had a crop for the past three years if I hadn't poisoned." One year he treated his fields 18 times for the boll weevil. Yet, each year he loses about one-third of his crop to this ravenous insect.

As for the effectiveness so far, Cooper says it's too soon to tell. He explains, "I had just dusted the day before my fields were sprayed the first time." However, he did note that the malathion continued to kill the boll weevils for several days after it was applied.

H. C. Smith, Roaring Springs ginmer and farmer, says, "We're all real hopeful and most of us are confident that the diapause control program will work. We all realize that weather conditions have been very bad for the control program but we're 100 per cent behind the program."

In talking to other farmers, Smith found that "despite the bad weather, the kill was real fine. Almost everyone I heard talk is well pleased."

However, Smith said that "entirely too many farmers" wanted to quit their own dusting and depend on the diapause program to take care of this year's boll weevil problem.

As a ginmer, Smith has an especially big stake in the boll weevil program. He built a new $350,000 cotton gin just before the boll weevils decided to move in, and says he won't be able to continue operating that gin in that area if the war against the weevil is lost. It's easy to see why. His gin normally gins around 5,500 bales a year. Last year, the weevils cut this to 2,900 bales. He doesn't expect the total to be that high this year.

Use Cotton Harvest-Aid Chemicals Wisely

Defoliants and desiccants have a place on the High Plains. But unless they are used properly--and when cotton is ready for their application--they can do much more harm than good.

Older, more mature cotton frequently can be prepared for machine harvest before frost, says Shelby Newman, Agronomist at the South Plains Research and Extension Center, Lubbock. Experience shows that proper use of harvest-aid chemicals, permits earlier harvesting of mature cotton before exposure to weather damage reduces the grade or actual field losses occur due to bad weather. Research shows that open cotton left in the field generally deteriorates one grade and around 1/32 inch in staple per month of weathering.

"When" is the key word in using harvest-aid chemicals. For example, if a desiccant or defoliant is applied before cotton is fully mature--more than 60% of bolls open and preferably 80%--not only yield decreases but also detrimental effects to seed and lint quality are possible. The more immature the cotton, the greater the losses. In any event, harvest-aid chemicals should be used only when at least 60% of the bolls are fully open, indicates research at the Center.

Proper timing of harvest-aid chemical use has been easier to obtain on cotton grown under non-irrigated and light-irrigated conditions than under heavy irrigation. This is because dryland or light-irrigated cotton generally matures 30-40 days before frost.

Economics is the biggest consideration when debating between harvest-aid chemicals or letting frost do the job. According to John Selbert, Extension Area Farm Management Specialist, it is up to each producer to determine, under his conditions, whether or not use of harvest-aid chemicals is profitable. From all indications, concludes Selbert, it is often hard to economically justify their use. Where such things as earliness of harvest for debt retirement and risk of adverse climatic conditions are of primary consideration, then economics -- or more net income -- is secondary.

County Agent Jo VanZandt can supply you with additional information on harvest-aid chemicals--their use and value.

Demand For Farm Products Up But Prices Lower

An increased demand for farm products, increased farm production and stocks, increased production expenses, and lower prices for farmers make up today's general agricultural situation, reports John G. McHaney, Extension economist, Texas A&M University. Increasing personal income and an expanding population point to continued gains in consumer demand for farm products through the remainder of 1964. McHaney contributes income gains to increasing employment, rising wages, larger dividends, surge in corporate profits, and reduction in income tax rates. Output of farm products continues to increase and will likely total above last year's level, says McHaney, and stocks of most crops were larger at the beginning of the present marketing year. Crop indications as of July 1 were brighter than those a year earlier, and the uptrend in yields is expected to continue.

Production of livestock and livestock products in January-June, 1964, period was four or five per cent above last year and is expected to total a little above 1963 during July-December of this year.

Production expenses have been rising steadily in recent years, the economist points out. During the first half of 1964, the index of prices paid by farmers for production items was slightly higher than a year earlier and will remain high during the rest of the year.

Prices received by farmers in the first half of 1964 averaged two per cent below last year. For the year as a whole, they are expected to average about three per cent below 1963.

Although realized net farm income has remained relatively steady for the past decade, averaging about $12 billion annually, the number of farmers and ranchers has declined steadily from 4.8 million in 1954 to 3.5 million at the present. Thus the average income per farm is rising this year to about $3,500 compared with about $2,500 in 1954.

Farmers who have been able to stay in agriculture may continue to have a higher income on the average, says McHaney. However, he points out that their income is higher since many had to drop out of agriculture because they were unable to compete in a very competitive business.

Guard Against Winter Fires

As outside temperatures drop, indoor fire dangers rise! National Fire Protection Association records show that cold weather always brings an increase in destructive fires, according to County Agent Joe VanZandt.

Heating systems are mainly to blame. When they're pushed hard in the cold weather, any weakness in the equipment or installation may show up -- sometimes with disastrous results. And any faulty practices in using and fueling heaters, especially portable kerosene units mean trouble.

To reduce fire hazards as well as fuel bills, all furnaces and heaters need a periodic cleaning and check-up. Likewise flue pipes should be kept clean, free of holes and weak spots, well-supported and away from combustibles. Make sure they are spaced far enough from nearby surfaces to prevent overheating. Check chimneys for cracks and loose bricks, and if used for coal or wood fires, a yearly cleaning is a must.

Refueling portable oil heaters calls for care. Never fill while they are burning or still hot, and avoid overfilling. If cold oil is used watch for possible burner flooding and flare-up.

Keep portable heaters out of halls and away from doors or stairs where they might block escape. See that they are not placed too near curtains, clothes racks and other combustibles. Don't buy or keep tippy heaters.

If your heating equipment -- and your handling practices -- aren't already checked and ready for the winter, get busy now during Fire Prevention Week, urges County Agent Joe VanZandt. Your family and farm will be safer from fire.

Rear View Mirror On Tractor Can Save Lives

A rear view mirror on your tractor can save lives on highways and will help you do more work in the field.

Beverly Reeves, cottoning and mechanization specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, believes every tractor should be equipped with a rear view mirror.

He cites a recent highway mishap to indicate how a mirror can prevent accidents. A tractor on the right side of the road had just passed the crest of a hill. A car approached -- meeting the tractor. Another topped the hill behind the tractor at 50 to 60 miles an hour. A quick look by this driver and he could see two ways to go -- both poor choices. He could try to pass the tractor on the left and take a chance on getting around him. Or, he could hit the dirt on the right of the tractor.

Well, the driver decided to try to gamble on passing the tractor. He made it around the tractor -- scaring the approaching driver out of his wits -- but he couldn't straighten up after getting around. After completely rolling over, the car came to rest right-side-up in the shallow road ditch. All four occupants could have been killed instead of receiving serious injuries.

With a rear view mirror, the tractor driver could have seen the approaching situation, says Reeves. A quick move, then, to the right shoulder would have removed all danger to everyone.

A rear view mirror also aids in viewing the operation of a trailing machine in the field. It makes your work much easier and keeps your eyes looking ahead where they should be, allowing for greater safety as well as a better job.

A rear view mirror on your tractor will let you work more efficiently, and it could save a life -- perhaps your own.

Good Food Buys Of The Week

Family food shoppers can look for good meat buys this week, says Mrs. Gwen Clyatt, Extension Service consumer marketing specialist.

Best beef values during the next several days will be found on short ribs, ground beef, round steak, and arm and blade pot roasts and steaks. A canned ham in the refrigerator is handy to have in case unexpected guests drop by. Pork shoulder roasts and steaks and cured sausage products are good choices now.

Fryers remain the bargain in most meat departments, and frozen young turkeys are available at economical prices. In the egg category, Grade A large eggs offer the most quality for the price.

Fresh fruit and vegetables in ample supply at moderate prices include new crop apples, bananas, cantaloupes, watermelons, plums, prunes, nectarines, peaches, grapes, celery, potatoes, tomatoes, okra, green peppers, & squash.

Prefried Canned Bacon To Hit Market

Canned bacon, sliced and prefried, will soon go into commercial production.

This new product is table ready after a minute's heating. It is vacuum packed under a process worked out by the U. S. Department of Agriculture 15 years ago, reports Frank Orts, meats specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

This process is based on USDA research, showing that bacon can be successfully canned by keeping the moisture-salt ratio low, which is achieved by partial dehydration before canning.

Pork packers in Denmark have been using this process for the last five years with much success, says Orts. Their product has been available in food markets as an import. Three of the large meat packers are anticipating producing this new product with an added convenience -- prefried. It needs only to be heated and served. Canned bacon was used during World War II but was not well received, says the specialist, because the amount of curing needed to prevent spoilage made it excessively salty. A mildly cured, vacuum-packed bacon with acceptable taste could be produced, but it soured in storage and considerable swelling of the can occurred.

Further research found that the organisms in these cans produced carbon dioxide which caused the can swelling. Tests have shown that growth of these gas-producing organisms could be prevented by keeping moisture-salt ratio in canned bacon below 5-1.
