PLANS UNDER WAY FOR EARLY PAVING

All obstacles to the paving of Highway 5 thru Armstrong and Donley counties are being rapidly removed, we are informed.

Right of way has already been secured thru Armstrong county. crews are at work setting back fences, and the plans have been forwarded to Austin in order that contract may be awarded at next meeting of the Commission.

Engineer Van London has been in conference with Judge Lowe and our Commissioners the past week, and it is said the preparing of plans for paving thru our county will start at once.

At a meeting of our Commissioners Court on December 30th at which all members were present except Commissioner Lee Hawkins who was sick, a jury of view committee was appointed to purchase the right of way: M. M. Noble, T. F. Connally and W. T. Hayer of Clarendon, A. B. Bynum of Lella Lake, and T. C. Johnson of Giles. They expect to obtain the right of way in two weeks, we understand.

ANNUAL MEETING NEDLEY PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of members and directors of the Hedley Protective Association was held last Monday, Jan 8th. The old members of the Board were retained for 1933. W. O. Bridges was also re-elected secretary and treasurer. The secretary made a report of the year's work which was accepted by the members.

We paid 14 children for the past year 88 dollars were reinstated, and 112 dollars for 112 new members.

We are still working for times to be hard as we have lost some members, but are working hard to keep the membership up as high as possible. Our members are to be commended for the way they are sacrificing to keep their dues paid in this Association.

The harder times are, the more we need some insurance, to pay funeral expenses if we should pass away. You owe this much to your loved ones, and to the doctor who waits on you in your last sickness. If you have no insurance, how do you expect your folks to pay the doctor for his work, or the undertaker, if you should die.

Now, think this over, and give us you application for a policy in Hedley Protective Association.

STATE MAKES FIRST SCHOOL PAYMENT

The first payment on the 1932-33 per capita school apportionment was authorized last Saturday by L. W. Rogers, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, according to a report from Austin. The payment, which is to be $1 on each scholastic enrolled, will be mailed the latter part of this week.

The assessment for the County Superintendent's office, in all counties having an elective Superintendent, will be deducted from the first installment.

Rogers estimated that $8 of the per capita apportionment of $16 would remain unpaid at the end of the present fiscal year. Contracts for the current school year have a priority claim on the available school fund, and funds appropriated for the various districts should not be used to liquidate indebtedness of a previous year until after provision is made for liquidation of all current obligations, Rogers said.

Our Government—How It Operates

By William Bruchart HUNTING THE MARKETS

IT is untrue to say that commerce knows no barriers, yet it must be explained that it knows no barrier insofar as the age-old law of supply and demand is concerned.

Hence, a great commercial and industrial people, if they are to remain so, must be kept acquainted with where that demand is. Unless they are apprised, and apprised quickly of the existence of a market, there is a very real danger that some enterprising group elsewhere will become the early bird that catches the worm.

Without fear of contradiction, I think it can be said, the fact that American export trade has captured so much of the world trade has been attributable to the ever watchful eye of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.

For instance, regularly the bureau makes public reports from the rubber estates of Ceylon. With equal regularity, it receives and disseminates the latest details of the Bradford wool prices. Again, it receives and passes to the trade here the facts about the newest tariff decrees of every country that occupies a position of importance in our export market, and that just about covers the entire world.

Taking things chronologically, let us examine first into the methods employed by the government in getting this information, leaving to other articles later an exposition of what is done with the facts by the bureau and by the citizens of the nation for whom they are gathered.

There is what is called in a general term, the foreign service of the United States. That corps comprises representatives of the Department of State as well as the Department of Commerce. The Department of Commerce men, obviously, are trade men.

In every important capital, there is an official attached to the embassy or legation who is called a commercial attache. In addition, there is stationed at same post a trade commissioner. The former is a State department man, while the latter is strictly what his title implies.

Not all of the facts thus gathered are handled with that celerity. More often, the information is assembled slowly, methodically, carefully, from all of the sources, public and private, to which an official representative has access. Statistics are quoted fully, and a picture drawn from them to make the information as accurate as possible as it is possible to obtain.

House Passes Bill Legalizing 3.2 Per Cent Beer—President Hoover Plans Delegation to Commission and Asks Roosevelt Co-Operation.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

CHAIRMAN COLLIER'S bill legalizing the manufacture and sale of beer was put through the house by a vote of 230 to 165 after all attempts to amend it had been defeated. The bill provides for an alcohol content of 3.2 per cent by weight or 4 per cent by volume and for sale by the barrel or in eating places, the understanding being that it is not intoxicating and there should not be a prohibition.

Rep. Rainey placed on the beer is $5 for a 31-gallon barrel. A brewers' permit tax of $1,000 was voted. The old revenue tax of $50 for wholesalers in 1929 and $25 for retailers were re-enacted. The bill prohibits the shipment of beer, ale, or porter from wet states into dry states whose laws forbid such shipments and sales. The penalty for such violations is set at a minimum of $1,000 or six months' confinement in jail.

During a day of strenuous debate the wets fought off all attempts of dries to defeat or nullify the measure and were themselves held in line by the able management of Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, majority leader. To him and Chairman Collier most of the credit for victory was given by Speaker Gannett. The classification of the vote was as follows: 133 Democrats, 96 Republicans and one Farmer-Laborite voted for the bill, and 64 Democrats and 10 Republicans against it.

The Collier bill, it was evident, faces a fight in the senate, but leaders of the upper house were confident some sort of beer bill would pass by that body, probably within 90 days.

ENTRAPMENT by federal officers in prohibition law violation cases was condemned by the United States Supreme court in a ruling on a case brought up from North Carolina. A majority opinion, read by the chief justice, reversed the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals, which had upheld the trial judge in refusing to allow the defense of entrapment to go to the jury. The case was remanded for retrial.

"It is clear," the majority opinion said, "that the evidence was sufficient to warrant a finding that the act which defendant was prosecuted for was the creature of his own free will. That defendant had no previous disposition to commit it, but was induced by the government officers, otherwise innocent, to its commission by repeated and persistent solicitation in which he succeeded by taking advantage of the sentiment aroused by reminiscences of their experiences as companions in arms in the World War."

"Such a gross abuse of authority for the purpose of detecting and punishing crime, and not for the punishment of criminals, deserves the severest condemnation, but the question whether it precludes prosecution affords a ground of defense, and so, upon what theory, has given to conflicting opinions."

ONCE more President Hoover turned to obtain the co-operation of his successor in the handling of the debt problem, and once more he failed. The Chief Executive in a special message to congress said he proposed to go ahead with some sort of reconsideration of the debts owed by those nations that have not defaulted, and that he intended to name a commission which would handle that matter and also take part in the general economic conference and the conference on armament, holding that the three questions were inextricably connected. The commission, he said, could discuss with the debtor nations trade other concessions and reduction of armaments in exchange for the settlement of the debts. Mr. Hoover said he would ask Mr. Roosevelt to help in the selection of the members of the commission and otherwise co-operate if he realized no settlement could possibly be concluded until long after his own term had ended.

Governor Roosevelt called Owen Young into conference, and after talking for two hours with that eminent banker and reparations expert he answered the President by telegram saying that he was opposed to the creation of a war debt commission and also to linking the debts with either the armament conference or a general economic conference. He stated his policy was to keep the wheels of that no longer separated, and that he would not be a well-in congress praised the President's message, some declaring it was the best state paper he had written. But the Democrats seemed to agree with Mr. Roosevelt that the latter should not take a hand in the debt matter until he became President. Mr. Hoover evidently is not to receive any active support from the Democrats in congress in carrying out his three-fold plan, but he is determined to go ahead with it and do whatever he can in the short time remaining before he goes out of office.

DISPATCHES from Paris said that Great Britain would informally advise France to drop her idea of submitting to arbitration the question of payment of the $20,000,000 December interest that was due the United States. The British, however, were represented as being in favor of the French plan for a general conference or general negotiations on the debt question.

M. Paul-Boncour

Joseph Paul-Boncour had succeeded in forming a new French government, not differing widely from that of Herriot, and it is his idea that negotiations with America can be kept open, though he hopes for the accomplishment of nothing vital until after Roosevelt is inaugurated. The American embassy in Paris was prompt in establishing contact with the new cabinet on the debt question. Its counselor, Theodore Marriner, was received by M. Cot, undersecretary of state in the foreign ministry, who probably will have considerable power on foreign questions and is very close to Paul-Boncour.

Both the British and the French statesmen are interested mainly in what the next American administration and the next congress will do about the debts and they refuse to get excited over present developments in this country.

GREECE, through Minister Simopoulos in Washington, notified the State department that it is holding ready the $440,000 interest due on the $12,000,000 refugee loan of 1929, but will not hand over the money until the question of whether the loan was a war loan or a commercial loan has been decided by arbitration.

Greece proposes that the United States choose the method of arbitration, but suggests the Permanent Court of Justice at The Hague. Minister Simopoulos was instructed to tell the American government that all political parties in Greece solidly maintain that the loan was a "war loan," although it was negotiated in 1929.

JAPAN so far has successfully bluffed the League of Nations out of taking any action in the Manchurian dispute, and if the British and French representatives have their way, nothing will be done to irritate the island empire. The special committee of 19 of the assembly has dropped all active negotiations until January 16, nominally because of the Christmas holidays, but actually because the Japanese have flatly rejected the proposal for conciliation of the quarrel by a committee on which the United States and Russia would be represented. This was insisted upon by China and the small nations of the league, though there is no reason for believing that the United States wishes to participate. The Japanese also refused to put in question the authenticity of the new state of Manchukuo.

When the league takes up the matter again it will be faced with the choice of invoking articles 15 and 16 of the covenant, involving sanctions, or admitting that the covenant doesn't work in a case like this. The latter is the view of Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, but he has recently invoked article 15 against Persia in the dispute between that country and the Anglo-Persian oil interests. The big powers in the league seem determined not to offend Japan, and China is furious, charging that the Japanese have schemed it that they will be able to gain a complete victory in Manchuria before any conciliation negotiations can be started.

GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT was dividing his time between cleaning up his work as chief executive of New York in preparation for leaving that post on January 1, and interviewing various distinguished members of his party, presumably concerning cabinet appointments. Among his callers were Arthur Mullen, national committeeman from Nebraska, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. It was understood that Mr. Green was promoting a candidate for the national committee, and that Mr. Mullen was to be permitted to go to the convention to be held in New York in the summer of 1933. Mr. Mullen is a well-known name in the party and is a member of the national committee.

NEGOTIATIONS that had lasted ten days and appeared hopeless ended suddenly in Chicago in a settlement of the wage controversy between the railroads and their union employees. A compromise proposal of the railroad managers to renew for nine months the so-called Willard agreement, under which the workers now have 10 per cent deducted from their pay checks, was accepted with alacrity by the 1,250 delegates representing the 21 standard railroad unions in the negotiations. When the Willard agreement expires October 31 next the basic scale is restored.

EDWARD O'NEAL, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, announced in Washington that about 150 members of congress had formed a bi-partisan farm bloc to support demands for agricultural relief in the short session. Their program, he said, includes measures for the expansion of currency, for lowering the price of the dollar, stopping farm mortgage foreclosures and giving economic equality to agriculture and labor.

Vigorous opposition to the farm organizations' relief bill, with its proposal for a tax on the processing of wheat, cotton, tobacco and hogs, was voiced before the house agricultural committee by representatives of the packing industry. Under the bill the receipts from such a tax would be distributed by commodities to farmers who had cut production.

Frank A. Hunter, head of the Hunter Packing company of East St. Louis, Ill., declared such a tax would cost the packers $300,000,000.

George E. Putnam, economist of Swift & Co. of Chicago, asserted that the packing industry could not absorb such a tax, that the consumers would not, and it, therefore, would have to be passed back to the farmer, with the result that instead of helping agriculture the "relief plan" would work great damage.

BELIEVE it or not, the national government is now handing over almost one-half of its annual revenues to the veterans' administration to be paid out in benefits or other disbursements to, or in behalf of, war veterans and their dependents. William M. Bullitt, former solicitor general of the United States, so told the joint committee of congress that is investigating veterans' legislation, and he added that the peak of the huge expenditures was not yet reached.

Payments to Spanish war veterans now exceed the total cost of that war, while payments to or on behalf of World War veterans, Mr. Bullitt said, have reached the point where they are about one-half the cost of that war and this does not include about $2,000,000,000 in adjusted compensation, the payment of which is a standing obligation of the government.

"The Economy league," Mr. Bullitt testified, "insists that the government's expenses be cut $450,000,000 a year in the veterans administration alone. This can be done by eliminating $109,000,000 paid to veterans of the Spanish-American war who have never suffered any injury or disability as a result of such service. Secondly, we ask the elimination of $340,000,000 paid on account of veterans of the World War."

ON CHRISTMAS eve Arturo Alessandri assumed Presidential authority in Chile, and promised his country that his government would guide it safely through its economic and political troubles. He called to his assistance the Conservatives, Liberals and quasi-Socialists, barring only Col. Marquade Grove and his red associates. Alessandri also made every effort to secure the support of Javier Figueroa, former chief justice and premier under the outgoing government, who played a leading part in the overthrow of the dictatorship.

Alessandri's right-hand man will be Gustavo Ross, who spent many years in exile in France with the President-Elect. Ross is a financier and has been offered the post of finance minister. He is now on his way back from London, where he negotiated a secret pact with the Rothschild bankers. This is believed to offer the consolidation of $150,000,000 of British debts at a lower interest rate and with a moratorium of five years' duration. Ross is hated by the Socialists and not trusted by the army and navy cliques, but he is the new President's closest friend and undoubtedly will have great influence on the government's policies. He is opposed to the Cochabamba combine and some persons fear he will bring the government into early collision with the American administration of the industry.

THERE seems little doubt that the crushing of the abortive attempt of the radicals of Argentina to overthrow the government saved that country from a veritable reign of terror. When former President Irigoyen and his associates were arrested the police seized documents that show the city of Buenos Aires was to be taken over by a group of criminals and that the government was to be permitted to go to the convention to be held in New York in the summer of 1933. Mr. Mullen is a well-known name in the party and is a member of the national committee.

WIFADASOS CLUB

The Wifadasos Club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. R. E. Newman, with eleven members and six visitors present. Visitors were Mrs. R. F. Newman, Mrs. Joe Everett, Mrs. Beast, Mrs. A. A. Nipper, Mrs. Dallas Milner.

The meeting was opened with prayer and song. Mrs. Audil, vice president, presided, as Mrs. Luttrell was absent on account of sickness in the home.

As we are just taking up the work for the new year, we did not have a program; instead Mrs. Maness demonstrated carding wool bats for quilts, which was interesting and instructive.

The Club voted to keep in touch with the Council, and to send a delegate to Clarendon on meeting days.

We regret to lose Miss Mabel Howell from our Club, but wish her much success in her new field of labor.

We will have a chicken canning demonstration at our next meeting. All women of the community invited to be with us.

The hostess served refreshments of whipped cream and cake and cocoa.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Owls Beat Broncs

The Hedley Owls mopped up on the Clarendon Bronchos Tuesday night, 46 to 12.

On the same night the Hedley War Horses defeated the G. team, 26 to 9.

The basket ball boys and girls went to Clarendon Saturday and played night games. The boys won a heavy score, the girls losing a few points.

Appreciation of Miss Howell

January 10, was the last time Miss Howell met with the Home Economics department. Her appreciation for her helpful work with us. Her helpful advice will be remembered in the future by every member of her classes. We presented Miss Howell with a boudoir lamp, which we hope she will accept as a token of our respect and love. Our very best wishes go with her to her new home, and we truly hope her future will contain only joy and success.
