Hedley Schools: When Mr. L. A. Woods became State Superintendent of Schools in 1933, one of his first plans for the schools was a system of transportation whereby the high school pupils of the rural schools could be transported to a central high school to become graduates of affiliated high schools. At the same time this plan would accomodate all children who lived two and one half or more miles from the schools even though they resided within the central school system. In the fall of 1934 the Hedley Board of Education saw fit to cooperate with Mr. Woods in his plan. This meant the purchase of buses and Mr. Woods and the State Board of Education promised that the State of Texas, out of its Equalization Fund, of three million dollars annually, would pay one fifth of the purchase price of any bus for five years; and in addition to the one fifth purchase price of the bus, would pay two dollars monthly for all children transported into the district and one dollar monthly for all children transported two and one half miles within the district, for operating costs. For school districts, this was an excellent plan-transportation for the pupils at no extra cost to the district. But so many districts bought buses that it was impossible for the State to keep its promise even though it increased the Equalization Fund to five million dollars annually, and the State no longer pays one fifth the purchase price of the buses but only the one and two dollar oper-

Hedley's buses were bought for a price of approximately $3300.00 payable one third annually. Last year the district defaulted on its payments and the company threatened to take the buses. After a conference with the company's men in Amarillo the payments were re-financed provided the district could pay $700 this year, $600 next year, and $552.52 the next year. All money that this district will have to pay on this $700 must be taken from taxes or raised by the patrons, because the one and two dollar payments are barely sufficient for operation. To take $700 out of the local maintenance fund would mean that just that be left off which, of course, would cripple the school and lessen its standard of work. For that reason, the Board has invited Cal Farley's show to Hedley on the night of Oct. 23. Mr. Farley will receive no part of the proceeds. It is strictly for the benefit of the bus fund. The Board calls all loval supporters of the school whether individual or organization to back it in its effort to keep transportation and at the same time maintain its scholastic standards. Will you all not come? Buses are here and are a help. Many children are given more advantages, your school has a music teacher only because the buses made it possible for 36 children to transfer to Hedley, and our neighbor districts are now closer to us. $125.00 is our goal as the proceeds from this show and the admission is 25 and 15 cents. Some will buy extra tickets to help the common cause. Can you not afford an extra quarter? Your support will be appreciated by all the friends of the boys and girls of our

Longfellow Cherished Laborer's Compliment

When Henry Longfellow was departing from an audience with Queen Victoria, he was accosted by a workingman who said, "Please, your honor, and are you Mr. Longfellow?"

"I am," replied the poet. "And did you write the 'psalm of Life?' " the man asked. "I did," answered Longfellow. "Then, sir, would you take a workingman by the hand?"

Instantly the poet gave his admirer a warm handclasp.

Telling of the incident later, Longfellow said, "I never in my life received a compliment that gave me greater satisfaction.'

It's Season of Intriguing Woolens

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

their day and a grand and glorious day it is, marked with new triumphs in color, in designfulness and versatile weave. They are grand and glorious beyond description and they have taken on a sheerness and featherweight texture that adds much to their lure. With the college girls the thoughs of a backto-school wardrobe that does not include a costume suit fashioned of handsome wool is inconceivable. And so it's wool-gathering these fair collegians are going with all the en-thusiasm of youth that sets forth to get what it wants.

Not that college-faring girls are the only ones engaged in the wild scramble to be first in fashion by going stepping in a brand new autumn ensemble styled of chic and handsome wool weave. Fact is every woman who is fashion-wise is making one grand dash in the direction of the glamorous wool fabric sections, which is exactly what she should be doing to be smartly apparelled in the days to follow.

Among the woolens to meet the rapturous gaze of the woman in quest of modish materials for her fall costume are the most enticing jacquard-patterned weaves fancy could possibly picture. These are that new you will get all the thrills that come with having a forward look into fashion futures. In these jacquard wool weaves the patternings are woven right into the mate-Then there are the cunningly embroidered woolens which promise to be quite the rage. These make up ever so smartly in tunics, and waistcoats. They come in pretty florals and bold coin dots and other clever motifs mostly wide-spaced but not infrequently all-over designed. As to wool plaids and stripes and checks their name is legion. The big idea right now is a gay plaid skirt with monotone blouse or sweater. The

THE new woolens are having flaring plaid tunic is also outstanding in the new stylings. As to the fantastically nubbed tweeds that are so important this season, everyone who sees falls prey to their wiles at first giance

Designers are playing up the new woolens for all they are worth, using them by the two's and three's in combinations that stress striking contrast both in color and weave. The costume made up of two or more woolens is the "hit" of the

Two of the three models in the picture make contrast their theme, in use of versatile woolens. The ensemble to the left can be worn from early fall to early spring in perfect comfort, with or without its matching coat. Here a plaid rabbit's woolen dress in pencil silhouette with a high surplice bodice and a bright velveteen ascot has a plain rabbit's hair tunic coat with double-breasted front and wide revers of the plaid. The new "swing" effect is achieved with unpressed box pleats that start from the waist.

To the right in the trio a striped rabbit's woolen plays a duet with a plain rabbit's wool weave. The dress in pencil silhouette has as complement a flared tunic coat of the plain wool with tuxedo fronts of the stripe. A bright velveteen ascot and belt uckle match the color in the stripes. The dress is ideal to wear under a separate winter coat later Centered is a cape outfit of jacquard tweed. It is this sort of novelty woolens that is glorifying the fabric style picture just now. The raised shoulder line which is the much-talked-of new silhouette is carried out in sunray tucks. The long sleeved dress has a flared skirt. The popular stand-up collar adds a keen touch, also a patent leather beit to match the patent leather shoes.

ROSE DECORATIVE THEME FOR AUTUMN

Newest feature of this season's costume flowers is the American beauty rose. Singly, or in clusters, it is worn with full-length stem almost to the knee. The flower, flatteringly soft and graceful, is posed just below the shoulder.

The rose motif is also prominent on printed and blocked scarfs and in formal chiffon evening handkerchiefs. Rich evening brocades follow the romantic mode in large allover rose or leaf designs. Rose patterns have all the old-world air so typical of the Victorian and Edwardan revivals that are dominating the fall modes.

Accents of rose on black are a leading theme for fall: copper-rose buckles, necklaces of rosy crystal, touches of lace in a faint blush-rose, nail polish in old rose with faintly smoke-blue undertone. Polish this autumn is going romantic, along with everything else. Soft shades of old rose, coral, mauve-or if you're wearing gold or autumn-leaf red, a new light rust polish—faintly echo the undertone of the gown or its accessories.

Knitted Reading Jackets

Novel nightdresses and match-ing reading jackets in pale blue, loosely-knit fine wool are featured in the fall collections.

as they should be. T hus imbecile means that the individual did not have enough brain power when he was born and never will have enough to enable him to earn a living. In other words, he was born that way. Dementia, on the other hand, means that the brain power has "gone downward." individual was born with sufficient brain power and was able to think, do mental work, earn a living, but his mental power has become less due to various causes. We have all seen this in many friends or acquaintances who have lost their memory, their power to think as they grew older.

Types of Dementia. Now this dementia may not be one of decay but of change in the attitude of the mind towards the surroundings, family, or work. The individual may get very excited about things, very depressed, or pay no attention to the most important or vital matters. This latter is called the apathy - not interested-type.

The excited dementia patient talks a great deal, is greatly interested in a matter, drops it and gets greatly interested in something different; his attention being attracted by the most trifling object or subject. He is generally pleased with himself, but may have outbursts of furious anger.

Depression is exactly the opposite

Thus in a general way then imbecility or being an imbecile is not having enough brains. Dementia means having brains but not

A Sane Reducing Program. In following a reducing diet every overweight individual tries to remember that starch food-potatoes, bread, sugar and pastry — is definitely known to store fat. It is of course known that these foods are all good necessary foods as they create heat and energy in the body. But as the average fat individual does not use up as much energy in work or play as one of normal weight, the excess starch food gets stored away as fat. It is only natural then that potatoes, bread and sugar are the first foods reduced.

Similarly with fat foods. Fat foods give twice as much energy as starch foods or the proteids -meats, eggs, fish. In every reducing diet it is advisable that butter. cream, and fat meats be also reduced.

Now this reduction starch and fat foods-the energy producersoften means that the individual feels weak, lacks energy, is afraid he or she will collapse, with the result that both starch and fat foods are immediately resumed in amounts and these individuals feel that reducing weight by reducing food just cannot be done.

It might be well therefore for some who are reducing to start reducing the fat foods first, leaving the reduction of starch foods for a few weeks later.

Another point to remember is that food must not be cut down in large amounts at first. While the excess fat on the overweight individual can serve to a certain extent as fuel for the needs of the body, only a small amount of it should be used as fuel daily or there may be shock, and sagging of face and domen.

However one of the main points in reducing weight is to remember not to cut down on proteid foods; in fact it might be well to actually increase the amount of meat eaten. Whereas fat foods and starch foods burn skwly, meat foods burn fast.

FRANK E. HAGEN ELMO SCOTT WATSON

THE DEMOCRATIC DONKEY A LTHOUGH Thomas Nast is usually credited with being the man who made the donkey one of the emblems of the Democratic party, the fact is that some other cartoonist, whose name is unknown, used the same symbol fully three decades before the famous Harper's Weekly artist did.

When Andrew Jackson retired from the presidency in 1837 he dumped in the lap of his successor, Martin Van Buren, a flood of "wildcat currency" and wild speculation caused by his destruction of the United States bank and the distribution of the treasury surplus in private banks. So a cartoonist of that period drew a picture entitled "The Modern Balaam and His Ass" which showed Jackson mounted on a donkey, across whose withers hung a bag labeled "Specie Curghost, labeled "Bankrupts of 1836," was causing the donkey to balk and its rider was belaboring it with a cane labeled "Veto. the rider and his mount walked Van Buren saying "I shall tread in the footsteps of my illustrious predecessor.' From that time on, during the disputes over the money question, the donkey frequently appeared in the cartoons and became the accepted symbol of the Democratic But it was the genius of Thomas Nast which made this symbol familiar to millions of Americans.

During the feud between President Andrew Johnson and Edwin M. Stanton, secretary of war, Nast was a strong ally of the latter. When Stanton died soon after Président Grant had made him a justice of the Supreme Court, the southern Democratic papers, continuing the feud, attacked Stanton even in their obituary notices of him.

On January 15, 1870 Nast drew his first donkey cartoon. It pic-tured Stanton as a dead lion being kicked by a donkey labeled "Copperhead press." Underneath it were the lines: "A Live Jackass kicking a dead Lion and such a Lion! and such a Jackass." In later carfoons he also depicted the Democratic papers, especially James Gordon Bennett's New York Heralu, as a donkey and after a while began applying the symbol to the Democratic party as wel- as its press.

HEADGEAR

"IF YOU lose your standards, rally to my white plume!" cried Henry of Navarre before the Battle of Ivry and so the helmet of Navarre with its snowy decoration became the sign and symbol of a cause which won and made him king of France.

In American politics, too, voters have rallied behind candidates hose headgear or some other bit of apparel have been characteristic of the man. In the days of Andrew loyal Democrats dished hickory canes in imitation of the one which "Old Hickory" carried. In 1840 the Whigs clapped coonskin caps on their heads and went out to sing and cheer "Old Tippecanoe," the Indiana frontiersman, into the White House.

On the streets of New York the white beaver hat worn by Horace Greeley, editor of the Tribune, was a familiar sight. But perhaps even in those days the "peepul" ' were suspicious of a "high hat" candidate, so Greeley's supporters, wearing "white plugs," failed to elect him. Ulysses S. Grant once worked in a tannery, therefore parades in his honor were marked by men wearing shaggy and obviously untanned fur coats and bearing signs which declared "Bring on the enemy and we'll tan his hide.

the Cleveland campaign of 1888 his running mate was Se Thurman, the last member of the upper house to use snuff. After doing so he would sweep a red bandanna handkerchief out of his pocket with a grand gesture. So Democrats that year had whole suits made of bandannas and women wore bandanna dresses.

Another vice-presidential candigear symbol for his party was The-odore Roosevelt. Thousands wore Rough Rider hats in the campaign of 1900 and it was still a potent mblem in 1904 when T. R. was candidate for President.

But another quarter of a century was to elapse before a bit of headgear would be a feature of the campaign. In 1928 Alfred E. Smith made the brown derby famous from one end of the land to the other but it became a symbol of de feat instead of victory.

SYNOPSIS

Sleepy Cat, desert town of the Southwest, is celebrating the Fourth of July Jane Van Tambel, beautiful daughter of Gus Van Tambel, beautiful daughter of Gus Van Tambel, beated owner of Guslook ranch, has arrived from the East for the first time. She watches the Frontier Day celebration in company with Doctor Carpy, crusty, tender-hearted friend of the community. Henry Sawdy of the Circle Dot ranch, tricked in a fake horse race the day before by Dave McCrossen, foreman at Gunlock, plans revenge. He enters Bill Denison, a handsome young Fexas wrangler, in the rodeo which McCrossen is lavored to win, and lays heavy bets on him. Unknown to the crowd, Denison is a champion horse-man. McCrossen and the young stranger tie in the various even's. Denison then drops a cigarette carclessly Racing down the track full tilt, he picks up the cigarette. The ver dict goes to Denison when McCrossen retuses to attempt the stunt. Entreated by the crowd, Denison agrees to perform another trick, Jane Van Tankel, is asked for her breedet and the property of the stunt to the property of the property of the stunt. dict goes to Denison when McCrossen retuses to attempt the stunt. Entreated by the crowd, Denison agrees to perform another trick. Jane Van Tambel is asked for her bracelet and throws it on the track. Just as Denison rides to pick it up a yell from Barney Rebistock, a McCrossen henchman, scares the pony, ocarly costing the rider his file. Gun play is prevented by the intervention of Doctor Carpy. Back on Gunlock ranch, after two years in Chicago, because of her tather's illness, Jane gets lost riding in the hills and meets Denison, now a neighbor, who guides her home. Not knowing her identity, he speaks bitterly of Van Tambel. She tells McCrossen who brought her home and he denounces Denison as a cattle thiel. Later she asks Doctor Carpy why her, father is unpopular and he tells her it is because of Van Tambel's ruthless and unscrupulous character. McCrossen tries to woo Jane, but is sharply rebuffed. Once again she loses her way in the hills and meets Denison. On impulse she gives him her bracelet for guiding her home. Their interest in each other growing, she reveals her identity to him.

Carpy laughed his dry little laugh. "Well!" he exclaimed benevolently "You did pick a real outsider, didn't you? What did you think of the brute? In ber confusion, Jane hesitated "Why-I thought him not bad at all." she declared with spirit. What do you think of him?"

"Why, to speak just offhand, Jane. I'd say Bill Denison had his enemies; but I think he's about as square and open-and-aboveboard a young fellow as lives in the hills. I don't suppose any of your father's following would agree with me."

"He struck me, too, Doctor, as just such a man," interposed Jane im pulsively.

"What do you know about things like that?" asked Carpy Jocularly. "You're just a kid! He might be a horse thief for all you could tell, girl."

Jane drew herself up. "Don't be so some or them might fool you! He told me he used to work at Gunlock. What was the quarrel between him and Father?" Dr. Carpy laid his cigar on the edge of the table and braced himself. "It's a kind of long story," he began, not knowing exactly how to tackle a delicate subject "I've lots of time," remarked Jane disconcertingly. "To begin with, your father was always a grabber, Jane. Probably couldn't help it-just built that way. I suppose that hurts your feelings?" The girl winced a little. "Whether it does or does not, Doctor, I want to hear both sides, and I know you are bonest. Go ahead, please. Her appeal was not unheeded.

You're a kind of surprise. Jane," continued the doctor slowly, "for in spite of the fact that the family name is not very popular in this country. everybody is talking about you-bow nice you are, and all that,

"Just to show you, Jane, how fee ing has been: we've got an ex-sheriff out here, one of the best and biggesthearted men in the mountains. He's s character. He happened in to the hotel the other day, and we got to talking about you-now don't blush or get confused, girl—you're entitled to a good cend-off, and I gave you a good one.

"Old Bill Pardaloe set where you're setting, with his feet on the table chewing tobacco, listening to every word and never, all the time, saying one word himself. When I got through. I told him about you, and that you had an aunt in Chicago who'd been out here—a regular sport and no fancy airs because she had a rich brother.

"Pardaloe-now I'm telling you this Jane, only to show you how some of us says, 'Doc, It's kind of hard for me to believe there's one decent Van Tambel in the world; I'm damned if I'll ever

"Oh. Doctor!" "Don't take it hard, girl. One thing about these frontier men, they're as open-minded and simple as children. Just a word or a smile from an up-'a'coming girl like you and you'll have em eating out of your hand.

"Bill Denison worked awhile for your father; he was foreman at Gunlock Your father thought Denison was Just about right. He could do everything-and do it well. He made so much money for your father that he gave him a share in the cattle, a tenth, I it was. When he quit, Denison usked for a settlement on his share. Your father told him he didn't have so Denison got beat-he didn't bave anvthing but a verbal contract. So Bill went back to live on his own ranch next to the Reservation. It's small, but has plenty of good water from a big spring that makes it valuable. Then he began running off enough Gunlock cattle in small bunches-cattle he claimed belonged to him, anyway-to pay off what your father owed him. There was a great hue and cry. But Bill was too smart for the Gunlock boys-privately, I think the In-dians helped Bill. They swear by him.

"So Bill was cussed by your father as a rustler. It made cattlemen laugh, thinking of your father's own reputa-tion in that respect. And the old man brought a lawsuit against Bill to oust him from the little ranch, account bad title. That suit is still pending in the land office at Washington. Now that's just about the story, Jane. If I've burt your feelings some, I didn't do it because I wanted to. You asked me to tell you the truth. Did I do right or wrong?"

The shock of the doctor's story so humiliated Jane that she wanted only to get back home and hide what she felt to be the shame of her father from everybody. She had promised to ride back the hill traff with Denison; she felt she just couldn't do it. She took a short cut bome across th Her mystified and disappoint ed admirer, after lingering patiently in the hills till dusk rode into town only to learn at McAlpin's barn the: Jane had taken her pony out early in the afternoon.

It was a painful night. She realized why the name she bore was so unpop ular in Sleepy Cat.

Her depression bore her down; even Quong saw that something was wrong. He cooked special dishes to tempt Jane's appetite, but her appetite could not be tempted.

"Why don't you get out and ride any more?" asked Bull Page one day, "You haven't been on a borse for two weeks -just sit moping around the house eating nothing, talking nothing, just

They started together. It was afteroon. The air was thick with a soft haze that tempered the sun's rays. The trail led in and out of the thin pine

She began to think her nervous ap prehension of meeting Denison again had been a wasted worry. Indeed, she and her guide were homeward bound within a mile of the ranch house when both heard the clatter of hoofs behind them. Jane would not have looked around for a million dollars. Bull told her there were two men coming up.

"Looks like Carpy and Bill Denison." Jane's neart raced. However, this seemed not so bad. Three men and one woman were better than one man and one woman. Carpy and Denison approached together. "Where are you riding to today, doctor?" asked Jane. "Gunlock ranch."

Jane showed surprise. "Who's sick at the ranch?"

"One of the boys," said Carpy. "That's the first I've neard of it," exclaimed Jane. "Who is it?" "One of the boys that got cut up last night downtown. I sewed him up and want to see how he is Nothing serious, I guess." said Carpy. "Any news in town, doctor?" asked

Jane, though not in the least interested in Sleepy Cat news. "Nothing but the brush fires up North. This whole country's dry as tinder. I hope the winds will keep 'em up North. What do you hear from your father?" asked the doctor in re-

"Well, that's news," commented Doctor Carpy, noncommittally. "He's got a wonderful constitution, that man, thinking to himself that it was much

"Oh. I'm just fine, doctor." "Rarin' to go, eh? Come on, girl, I'll ace you through this pine belt." Jane saw her chance to escape an uncomfortable situation, for Denison hadn't said a word. She dashed gayly ahead and outran Carpy. But Denison followed her, overtaking her and riding alongside.

The spurt couldn't last forever. though Jane prolonged it to the best of her ability. She wondered whether she had jumped from the frying pan into the fire; she was alone now with

When she slackened her pace, out of breath, her cheeks were aglow.

"I wouldn't push that pony of yours too hard." suggested Denison incidentally. "He's a nervous critter."

"Oh, he's all right," said Jane lightly, "but it does shake one up, doesn't it?"

she exclaimed, panting a little. "It does," agreed Denison, "But I got my real shakeup when I spled you on the trail. I've been staking myself out alone on this trail every day for a month or so, hoping to get sight of

"I was afraid you were sick. I watched for the doctor coming out, bu' I didn't see him. I used to ride up Gunlock Knob every day or two to see if I could see anythin, of you." "I wish you wouldn't do such things.

Where is Gunlock Knob?" "It's that peak over by the spring. It's really on your father's ranch, I guess but I'm aiways careful not to run into any of your men."

"I'm sorry, but you mustn't look for me any wore-please don't." She glanced at him firmly as she spoke. To Denison she had never looked so lovely.

"Why?" he demanded. "Have I-" "You beven't, but I have-I guess that's the way to put it. I mustn't see you any more. I don't expect to remain in this country very long, any wav."

"What have I dove Jane?" "Nothing, nothing."

"Somebody's been feiling lies about me." he declared with some hitterness.

"If you'd tell me what they bre, could answer them."

"I said, no! No one has talked about you" His sudden intensity frightened Jane. She burst into tears. "Now I've made matters worse!" he exclaimed penitently. "I didn't mesa to scare you, Jane. I guess my bark's worse'n my bite. But it makes me wild to think I've been lied about to

"You haven't," sputtered poor Jane. 'Don't you believe me when I say no body's been talking about you?"

"Please excuse me, then. I to be lieve you. But if you'd give me chance to, I'd be willing to tell you every mean thing I've done in my lifeand leave it all to you Don't condemn me without a hearing-that's all ask."

"Nobody is condemning you. I' only, if anything, condemning myself." "For what?" he demanded.

"For ever coming to this country at all, if you must know," she declared in angry desperation.

"But if I can't see you any more Jane, please remember that wherever you are, here or ten thousand miles from here, I love you."

Jane got home thinking of how wretchedly she had handled the situation with Denison.

It proved to be her foremin. Mc-Crossen, who had been cut up in gambling quarrel.

Jane kept Doctor Carpy for supper, and that evening she held him as long as she could. She felt down in the

"I hope we shan't be bothered here."

"No danger here unless they cross the river. You haven't much timber on the east ranch. There's none to speak of over on the range. But you've got a lot scattered around here in the reservation timber, there would be bell to pay.

uged with telegrams asking for it. But Carole's telegram arrived first, and Carole is an old friendso she got the racket. And as all Hollywood is tennis-mad, (as well as polo-mad and football-mad) that was something to cheer about.

Incidentally Alice Marble, who is very pretty, was asked if she'd like to go into pictures. She said she

a very gay honey-moon. They were lucky to have three whole weeks between pictures; as it was. Dick had to plan for a broadcast the minute they landed in New York. Joan and Dick are among the most popular stars of Hollywood.

That first broadcast of Major Bowes' for his new sponsors was very much a society affair, with men in formal evening attire and women in low-cut gowns crowding in to hear and see it, and policemen holding back the uninvited.

"Hollywood Boulevard" is a picture that all you old-timers certainly ought to see. John Halliday, Betty Compson, Esther Ralston, Mae Marsh, Charles Ray, Francis X. Bushman-they're all in it, and so are others who made movie history in the silent days.

The picture is interesting, too, because of the very good plot, in-volving pretty Marsha Hunt, who looks very much like the Gish girls in their early days.

If you have listened to the "Myrt and Marge" programs on the air you've heard a chap named Vinton Haworth, who's about to burst into fame and glory on the motion picture screen.

Some booking agents heard him on the air and got him a screen test. Then, as frequently happens, nothing happened for months. Finally Cliff Reid, who is producing "The Plough and the Stars" for RKO saw the test. He was casting "Without Orders", an aviation story, and took a terrific chance by casting Haworth as the second male lead.

Bob Armstrong was playing the first lead; the girl was Sally Eilers. And-Mr. Haworth stole the picture!

Mary Carlisle has come along fast since she was just one more of the pretty, blonde girls of whom Hollywood was so full two years ago. They had pretty figures, they were -but it was hard, sometimes, to tell them apart.

But see Mary in "Lady, Be Careful" with Lew Ayres, Buster Crabbe, and some other awfully good young actors, and you'll realize that she leading woman. It's a riotously funny picture, made from the successful play, "Sailor Beware."

Leslie Howard has made no secret of the fact that he didn't want to go on making pictures in Hollyw About to do "Hamlet" on the stage in New York, at last, he has also let it be announced that he is one of the organizers of a new motion picture company, called Associated Artists. Dudley Murphy, who has ence as a director in Hollywood, and Hugh Walpele, the novelist, are associated with him in the company, which has been formed in London.

ODDS AND ENDS... Hollywood is still shocked by Irving Thalberg's death... George Brent is planning now to go to London for the coronation next spring... There's a dearth of young leading men in Hollywood... "Give Me Your Heart," Kay Francis' newest picture, is one of her best, and once again she proves her ability to wear lovely clothes better than most of the girls in Hollywood do... Ruby Keeler and Al Jolson celebrated their eighth wedding anniversary the other day... Paramount pays George Raft as much money as Metro pays Clark Gable... Frank Morgan's mother, one of the country's most successful business women, died recently at the age of eighty-four... "Sing, Baby, Sing" is breaking records and making a reputation as one of the year's funciest pictures.

Cowboy Terms

If you are one of those who thought lariat and lasso meant the same thing you have been badly fooled. One is a noun and the other a verb in the cattle country, according to Dan McCarthy, of Montana, in his book of "cowboy lingo, rodeo terms, dude ranch jargon, range profanity and other Western expressions" published for the benefit of posterity. A "lariat," according to the author, is a rope often used to "lasso" various animals. A "paint" is a horse "splashed with several colors" while "rotten loggin'" has nothing to do with a lumber camp. It means "sparkin'" in the moonlight.
