Mrs. John Wade

Another of Hedley's pioneers passed away at her home in Ed-couch, Mar. 16, after an illness of 2 years.

Mrs. Lonella Wade was born April 26 1872 in Mulberry, Tenn and moved to Texas with her pa-rents when a small child. In 1890 she was married to John Wade in Hill County. To this union 4 sons and 3 daughters were born, of whom 3 son are living. In early life she professed religion and waited with the Baptist Church being one of the charter mem-bers of the church at Edcouch. She was at one time president of the missionary society, a Sunday school teacher and B Y P U leader. Among those who mourn the passing of Mother Wade, as she was lovingly called in her community, are her husband, her sons, J. R. and Raymond of Ed-couch and V. F. of Hedley, a sis-ter, Mrs. Virginia Hamlin of Am-erillo, 3 brothers, W. J. Luttrell of Hedley, R. F. of Floydada and C. N. of Oklahoma City, and 9 grandchildren. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon in Mercedes, and another precious mother has crossed the river of death, reminding us that death is abroad in our land, and that we too must pay the debt she has paid.

Mrs. Wade came to Donley so in an early day, and knew some-thing of a new country's life, where neighbors were far apart. She watched this community de-velop into a liveable place. She was one of those true mothers who cared for home and loved ones, a reserved nature, quiet and tender, and one remarked to the writer, I never heard aught against her. How wonderful to live a life like hers, with not a blot on her good name. Now she rests until the resurrection morning when He shall return for His jewels and will catch them away to ever be with Him. Yes, her memory lives, and her children will rise up to call her blessed in the last day.

Dear grieved loved ones, our hearts go out to you in the dark-est hour that has come into your lives, the separation of wife and mother. May her example be a guide to you through the years, and be the means of landing you safely on the other side is the wish and prayer of your friend,
Mrs. O. R. Culwell

Jr. Play, 'The Phantom'

The Junior class presented their play, The Phantom, Mon-day night at the high school au-ditorium. The cast was good, each member being familiar with his part and rendering it com-mendably. The play seemed to be thoroughly enjoyed by the audience. It was scheduled for last Friday night, but was post-poned on account of bad weather.

JOINT W. M. S.

The Joint Missionary Society will meet Mar. 29 at the Nazza-rene Church at 3. The following program will be rendered:

The Curse of Progress

A Fatherly Fear
"I'm afraid my boy Josh'll never make a farmer," said Mr. Corn-tassel.
"Why?"
"He's too refined. He wants to discourage an insect pest by stand-in' off an' callin' it Latin names, instead of bein' coarse an' uncompromisin' an' hittin' it with a hand-ful o' paris green."

Roughly Spoken
The woman motorist had given her evidence with an abundance of superficial detail.
"Now tell me," asked the magis-trate, "when you knocked down this man, what was his attitude, roughly speaking?"
"It was," answered the woman.

The Dog
"Why is it that you encourage all your clerks to get married?"
"Well," replied the knowing boss, "I find that married men are not in such an awful rush to get home early as single men."—Wall Street Journal.

Household Questions

To make lace look new, squeeze in hot, soapy water, then in cold water, and then in milk to stiffen it. Press on the wrong side with a fairly hot iron.

One gallon of coffee will serve 25 medium sized cups. The size that would accompany a dessert after a dinner.

Chocolate stains may be re-moved by washing in cold water or by soaking in boiling water to which borax or a little glycerin has been added.

Rayons should be pressed with a warm, but not hot iron. A hot iron will melt some synthetic materials.

Dishes that have contained sugar or greasy articles should be soaked in hot water before washing.

A couple tablespoons of molasses will make beans brown nicely.

When blankets are to be washed for the first time they should be soaked over night in cold water and then rinsed. This is to re-move the sulphur used in bleaching. After this they should be soused until clear in a lukewarm lather made with boiled soap and water, and then rinsed well in clear water.

When cream will not whip, add the white of one egg and thorough-ly chill before whipping.

Don't Sleep on Left Side, Crowds Heart

GAS PRESSURE MAY CAUSE DISCOMFORT. RIGHT SIDE BEST.
If you toss in bed and can't sleep on right side, try Adierika. Just ONE dose relieves stomach GAS pressing on heart so you sleep soundly. Adierika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels and brings out foul matter you would never believe was in your system. This old matter may have poisoned you for months and caused GAS, sour stomach, headaches or nervousness.
Dr. H. L. Shank, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierika greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli."
Mrs. Jas. Miller: "Gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart seemed to hurt. The first dose of Adierika brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never feel better."
Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adierika and see how good you feel. Just ONE dose relieves GAS and constipation. At all Leading Druggists.

He's Always So

One thing which the pessimist has on the optimist is that he isn't nearly so apt to be disap-pointed.
Less Monthly Discomfort
Many women, who formerly suf-fered from a weak, run-down con-dition as a result of poor assimila-tion of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUL, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food. Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated. Cardul, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

Dodge Controversies

Controversies only make you warm and your face red and lead to quarrels.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to re-move impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eye—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder dis-order may be burning acidity or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

All the other "serious stuff" is out, if you take just one thing seriously about your engine oil . . . In selecting it—for a '37 model or anything else—be guided by things you really know for yourself.

You know that a plating on metal cannot come off like any mere liquid. Thus Oil-Plating, formed in your engine by Conoco Germ-Processed oil, cannot come off the working parts like any mere film of oil. Though the patented Germ Process puts abnormal strength into the so-called movable oil film, it goes much farther and gives you exclusive Oil-Plating.

With this firmly fastened layer of lubricant always maintained on cylinders, bearings and other parts, it stands to reason that friction never finds them naked. They remain all covered constantly with slippery Oil-Plating, as though they were built with it on. It's on, every time you start the engine, because Oil-Plating can't run down "between times." And it's on throughout your hardest run, because Oil-Plating isn't liable to the usual "squeeze-out, scrape-off and burn-up." None of those worries any more, as you change to Conoco Germ-Processed oil—and Oil-Plating economies. Continental Oil Co.

The Senior declaimers, T. J. Hansard, Clay Plunk, Opal Monroe and Theresa Bain, quavered today as Mrs. Donald, Miss Bishop and Miss Hawkins rendered their decision as to whom was the best declaimer of each group. Clay Plunk and Theresa Bain were the lucky ones, and as a result, they will represent Hedley at Clarendon next Friday night.

Sybil Holland and Stephen Milner are laboring over the "isms" involved in the Spanish War for their extemporaneous speaking. This event will be Thursday night at Clarendon. Go and encourage the speaker with your presence.

Home Economics I

The Home Ec I girls are very eager to learn to sew. We did our first sewing this week and some of us are beginning to believe there is more to making a garment than just cutting it out and sewing it up. We are making anything from summer pajamas to cotton slippers. Although we may get discouraged we will keep on sewing until we have a garment to wear.

ADAMSON-LANE POST 287 AMERICAN LEGION meets the first Thursday in each month.

Chapel Program

Wednesday March 17, we had general assembly to give opportunity for our contestants to have public performance. The play story tellers told us about the little brown bear that lived in the woods. The grade school choral singers sang America and My Banjo by memory.

Poster Pickett described The Westerner, in his declamation. Clay Plunk told us about the Pioneers. T. J. Hansard pictured Early Texas. Faye Leach read Roofs, and Theresa Bain gave Serving the State. The extemporeous speakers were Sybil Holland and Stephen Milner.

The Juniors gave a skit of their play, The Phantom.

We request that all students and patrons hear these speakers in Clarendon next Thursday and Friday nights to help Hedley win.

Doubt, the Pernicious Weed
A suspicious person raises a large crop of doubt.
Add one new word to your conversational vocabulary every day; first you will surprise your friends, then floor them, then lose them.

Keep Health
One would rather lose weight than health. It requires as much wisdom to keep one as the other.

"WHY DO I FEEL LIKE THIS?"

SO much trouble is caused by chronic constipation! Headaches, upset digestion, nervousness, lack of pep are frequently caused by poisonous wastes that accumulate in the bowels. Too often people merely use some temporary relief. See for yourself! If it doesn't make a world of difference in the way you feel after using a purely vegetable laxative. Silk Print for Your Easter Frock

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

FASHION foresees as tremendous a vogue for prints as ere eye hath witnessed. What with gay and flowery, bursting-with-color silk prints massing together in a scene of riotous beauty, as they are at the dawn of this new season, the Easter style parade promises to be a colorful pageant.

The beauty of the super-lovely prints brought out this season transcends all that has gone before. Some of them look as if nature itself had thrown clusters of flowers on black or navy grounds and in their own graceful way petals and leaves had fluttered down in pretty confusion. This tendency to depart from the conventional adds to the fascination of the new prints.

One of the charms of a colorful and chic flowery printed silk dress or ensemble is that it breathes the very breath of spring even if snows may not yet have melted out of sight. Then, too, clad in a rapturous gay print you are sure to look lovely regardless of features, avoirdupois or the color of your hair. As to the practical side of the question a vivacious print has a most fetching way of taking kindly to the idea of being worn under your fur or your smart new spring cloth coat which is something to think about, seeing that Easter comes so early this year.

For a fashion "first" the demand centers mostly about the dark-ground types with emphasis on wide spaced effects. Huge floral patterns both for daytime and evening in a maze of vivid colors is the new note for silk prints. There is also a pronounced trend in favor of strikingly bold black and white effects. Also enthusiasm is running high for paisley and cashmere prints with an oriental beauty that baffles description. Very new, too, and outstanding are the flower-striped silk prints.

DUSTY-PINK WOOL

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

A pastel wool frock for spring, and you will be right up-to-the-moment in style. Among the fascinating colors there is no lovelier than the new much-exploited dusty-pink. The attractive two-piece dress pictured is made of a highly fashionable dusty-pink tropical worsted. Allied with a multi-colored knit swaggar coat the color scheme tunes in delightfully to a gladome spring day. Jet buttons and a black patent belt add to the prestige of this fashionable costume.

COTTON LACES IN FAVOR FOR EVENING

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Cotton laces have been popular for a couple of seasons past, but most often these have been associated with the sports and daytime frocks for summertime, and in the sturdy types of laces that suggest fabrics. This season, however, they are seen in great quantity and variety for evening, and are competing in favoritism with the prints and sheer fabrics. These cotton laces for evening are the sheer and crisp types, and are delightfully novel and varied in their patterns. They usually follow simple classic lines, not too formal in cut, and are especially nice for young girls. They are most effective when worn over rustling taffeta slips, and this of course makes them the more desirable to the debs and sub-debs.

Hemlines Focus Fashion's Spotlight on Smart Heels

There's no longer any need for women to depend on the chance swish of a skirt to reveal the sparkling heels on their evening shoes. To make certain that heels get the notice they deserve, French designers are sponsoring evening gowns with skirts draped up a trifle at the back.

This is in line with the trend for bringing back views to the forefront of style.

Charm Motif

If you have fallen for the fad of charms in your costume decoration, you'll want a quilted suede bag which displays a charm motif. Some of the same figures which are popular for chain bracelets are presented on the leather surface. Animal themes are featured most but they are far from realistic.

STAR DUST
Movie • Radio

By VIRGINIA VALE

OVER at the Paramount studio you are just a wallflower if you don't know your American history. Directors, players, authors and any visitors who happen to be around swap stories about pioneer days, and anyone brash enough to mention current events like who won the second race at Santa Anita, or what happened last night at a cafe, is quickly squelched.

To the great success of "The Plainsman" goes the credit—or the blame—for all this pride in the past. The company is so enthusiastic over that picture, and the forthcoming "Maid of Salem" that they are delving into history for their next big production, "I, James Lewis," the story of the early days of the Wells-Fargo express.

Actors are apt to be a pretty gloomy and pessimistic lot when you know them well. They are always worrying because the career of an actor is apt to be short, always pointing out men in the extra ranks who only a few years ago were stars. Now they have suddenly discovered that their worries were imaginary. Jack Holt, after twenty-four years in pictures, just signed a new contract with Columbia to make six Westerns a year. He is as popular as ever maybe more so.

Jack Holt

For weeks Clark Gable has been completely mystified by receiving high offers for the decrepit old Ford Carole Lombard sent him as a valentine last year. Now the truth is out. A Mr. Brown of Richmond, Virginia, wants to buy it to exhibit at County Fairs. But Clark won't sell unless Carole gives him permission.

Instead of raving about Henry Fonda and Sylvia Sydney in the gripping tragic "You Live Only Once," Hollywoodians come out of the theater making up silly couplets. That is what the company gets for dispensing with grammar in the title. One of Henry's best friends said, "You Live Only Once" may be better grammar, but "You Only Live Once" is elegant diction." Another one, playing with the same idea, said, "You Live Only Once" may be more grammatical, but "You Only Live Once" is very dramatical."

Susan Fleming thought that she had retired from the screen when she married Harpo Marx, but she made the mistake of stopping in at the studio to have luncheon with her husband, and first thing she knew the director called out. "That girl over there—she's just what I've been looking for." So, she is playing in "A Day at the Races" with her husband and his giddy brothers.

Ginger Rogers is not only the most popular girl in Hollywood these days; she is the most surprising. Night after night she is out dancing with one of her many beaux—Jimmy Stewart, or Cary Grant, or the visiting socialite, Alfred Vanderbilt—but all that gaiety hasn't stopped her from breaking into a new career. She has written a song called "I Can't Understand." Maybe you heard Fred Astaire introduce it over the air recently. That is team work for you.

Myrna Loy isn't complaining, but she does think wistfully nowadays of W. S. Van Dyke, and the way he can direct a marvelous picture like "The Thin Man" or its sequel in eighteen or twenty days. She has been working in "Parnell" for three months and the end isn't anywhere in sight. John Stahl, who directed "The Magnificent Obsession" and many other thrilling pictures, is very deliberate about his work, and in making "Parnell" he is just as apt to have Myrna and Clark Gable do scenes over and over as he is to repeat the scenes of minor players.

ODDS AND ENDS: No love scenes have been filmed in any of the studios for the past week and more because of the flu epidemic... with the rest of the country rhapsodizing over spring flowers, Claudette Colbert is surrounded by blizzards, dog teams, and mountains of snow at Sun Valley, Idaho... the eleven most beautiful artist models who usually smile at you from cigarette advertisements have been signed to appear in "Vogues of 1937," a musical Walter Wanger is making.

Dwelling on Grievances—

Power of Trouble Is Increased And Distributed by Talking of It

THERE is a curious and very much mistaken idea that by talking of our grievances and our troubles, we decrease their power over us to make us miserable. Instead, by dwelling on them we reinforce their power. We not only do this, but we scatter the seeds of their discontent, as we unburden our hearts, and a whole new crop of disturbing thoughts enters into the minds of those who bear with us during our outpouring of words.

Making Misery.

If the person to whom we speak is near and dear to us, our troubles weigh on them almost as their own. We are unwittingly the cause to them of an added weight of discordant thoughts, and perhaps they may be trying to get the better of their own bothers.

Sympathy Versus Help.

We have only to consider the effect on ourselves of listening to others talk of their worries, misfortunes, and hard luck, to realize the depressing power of such conversation. It is seldom we can do anything to help them. In fact persons who talk of their troubles seldom do it to get helpful suggestions. They are bespeaking sympathy and often are disturbed, hurt or annoyed, when they get advice, even though it be excellent. What is wanted is to hear expressions of understanding of their position as difficult, and to hear their actions considered wise. Is this not really what we, ourselves, hope to hear when we air our troubles?

When we are awakened to the fact that talking of our woes adds to those of the listener without lessening ours, that we are implanting troubles in the minds of others, we surely will try to be more careful about giving vent to the misfortunes by talking about them. Moreover, if we do continue to be trouble mongers, no one will be eager to talk with us.

Winning Out.

If, instead of dwelling on our grievances, we discuss pleasant topics, we are not only giving pleasure to others, but we are actually doing ourselves a kindness as well. We diminish our own depression by rising above our troublesome thoughts, thus becoming conquerors in and through our conversation.

From no less an authority than the American baking industry itself comes the information that the doughnut came over on the Mayflower. THE GARDEN MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE

Copyright S. S. Van Dine WNU Service

SYNOPSIS

Philo Vance, famous detective, and John F. X. Markham, district attorney for New York county are dining in Vance's apartment when Vance receives an anonymous telephone message informing him of a "disturbing psychological tension at Professor Ephraim Garden's apartment" advising that he read up on radio-active sodium, consult a passage in the Aeneid and counseling that "Equanimity is essential." Professor Garden is famous in chemical research. The message, decoded by Vance, reminds him that Professor Garden's son Floyd and his puny cousin, Woods Swift, are addicted to horse-racing. Vance says that "Equanimity" is a horse running next day in the Rivermont handicap. Vance is convinced that the message was sent by Dr. Siefert, the Gardens' family physician. He arranges to have lunch next day at the Gardens' penthouse. Vance is greeted by Floyd Garden and meets Love Hammle, an elderly follower of horse racing. Floyd expresses concern over Swift's queer actions. Mrs. Garden, supposedly ill, comes downstairs and places a $100 bet on a horse. Gathered around an elaborate loud speaker service, listening to the racing are Cecil Kroon, Madge Weatherby and Zalia Graem, who bet varying amounts on the race. There is tension under the surface gaiety. Zalia and Swift are not speaking terms. Kroon leaves to keep an appointment before the race starts. Miss Beeton, a nurse, and Vance bet on "Azure Star." Swift recklessly bets $10,000 on "Equanimity" and goes to the roof garden to hear the results. Floyd follows Swift, remaining away several minutes. Zalia Graem answers a phone call in the den. Soon after the announcement that "Azure Star" wins, the guests hear a shot. Vance finds Swift dead, shot through the head with a revolver nearby. He says Swift has been murdered. After calling the police, he finds the door of a vault ajar. Kroon returns and is sharply questioned by Vance, who finds he had not left the building. Vance orders Miss Beeton to guard the stairway and prevent Mrs. Garden and Zalia from viewing Swift's body. Floyd Garden admits the revolver belongs to his father. Further questioning by Vance reveals that the revolver had been found recently by Zalia in the presence of the other guests. Floyd hints that Swift bet so recklessly because of Zalia. Markham, Sergeant Heath and two detectives arrive. Markham and Sergeant Heath scorn the murder theory.

Markham meditated on this for several moments. "Still, Vance," he said at length, "reasonable objections could be raised to all the points you have brought up. They are based almost entirely on theory and not on demonstrable facts."

"From a legal point of view, you're right," Vance conceded. "And if these had been my only reasons for believing that a crime had been committed, I wouldn't have summoned you. But, even so, Markham, I can assure you the few drops of blood you see on the chappie's temple could not have thickened to the extent they had when I first saw the body—they must have been exposed to the air for several minutes. And, as I say, I was up here approximately thirty seconds after we heard the shot."

"But that being the case," returned Markham in astonishment, "how can you possibly explain the fact?"

Vance straightened a little and looked at the district attorney with unwonted gravity.

"Swift," he said, "was not killed by the shot we heard."

"That don't make sense to me, Mr. Vance," Heath interposed, scowling.

"Just a moment, Sergeant," Vance nodded to him in friendly fashion. "When I realized that the shot that wiped out this Johnnie's existence was not the shot that we had heard, I tried to figure out where the fatal shot could have been fired without our hearing it below. And I've found the place. It was in a vault-like store-room—practically sound-proof, I should say—on the other side of the passageway that leads to the study. I found the door unlocked and looked for evidence of some activity there."

Markham had risen and taken a few nervous steps around the pool in the center of the roof.

"Did you find any evidence," he asked, "to corroborate your theory?"

"Yes—unmistakable evidence," Vance walked over to the still figure in the chair and pointed to the thick-lensed glasses tipped forward on the nose. "To begin with, Markham, you will notice that Swift's glasses are in a position far from normal, indicating that they were put on hurriedly and inaccurately by someone else—just as was the head-plate."

Markham and Heath leaned over and peered at the glasses.

"Well, Mr. Vance," agreed the sergeant, "they certainly don't look as if he had put 'em on himself."

Markham straightened up, compressed his lips, and nodded slowly.

"All right," he said; "what else?"

"Perpend, Markham," Vance pointed with his cigarette. "The left lens of the glasses—the one furthest from the punctured temple—is cracked at the corner, and there's a very small V-shaped piece missing where the crack begins—an indication that the glasses have been dropped and nicked. I can assure you that the lens was neither cracked nor nicked when I last saw Swift alive."

"Couldn't he have dropped his glasses on the roof here?" asked Heath.

"Possible of course, Sergeant," Vance returned. "But he didn't. I carefully looked over the tiles round the chair, and the missing bit of glass was not there."

Markham looked at Vance shrewdly.

"And perhaps you know where it is."

"Yes—oh, yes," Vance nodded. "That's why I urged you to come here. That piece of glass is at present in my waistcoat pocket."

Markham showed a new interest. "Where did you find it?" he demanded brusquely.

"I found it," Vance told him, "on the tiled floor in the vault across the hall. And it was near some scattered papers which could easily have been knocked to the floor by some one falling against them."

Markham's eyes opened incredulously.

"I'm beginning to see why you wanted me and the sergeant here," he said slowly. "But what I don't understand, Vance, is that second shot that you heard. How do you account for it?"

Vance drew deeply on his cigarette.

"Markham," he answered, with quiet seriousness; "when we know how and by whom that second shot—which was obviously intended for us to hear—was fired, we will know who murdered Swift."

At this moment the nurse appeared in the doorway leading to the roof. With her was Doctor Doremus, and behind the medical examiner were Captain Dubois and Detective Bellamy, the finger-print men, and Peter Quackenbush, the official police photographer.

Miss Beeton indicated our presence on the roof and made her way back downstairs.

Doremus acknowledged our joint greetings with a breezy wave of the hand.

He made a cursory examination of the limp figure, scrutinized the bullet hole, tested the arms and legs for rigor mortis, and then swung about to face the rest of us.

"Well, what about it?" he asked, in his easy cynical manner. "He's dead; shot in the head with a small-caliber bullet; and the lead's probably lodged in the brain. No exit hole. Looks as if he'd decided to shoot himself. There's nothing here to contradict the assumption. The bullet went into the temple, and is at the correct angle. Furthermore, there are powder marks, showing that the gun was held at very close range—almost a contact wound, I should say. There's an indication of singeing around the orifice."

He Made a Cursory Examination of the Limp Figure.

Vance took the cigarette from his mouth and addressed Doremus.

"I say doctor; speak in the blood of the Johnnie's temple, what would you say about the amount?"

"Two damned little, I'd say," Doremus returned promptly. "But bullet wounds have a queer way of acting sometimes. Anyway, there ought to be a lot more gore."

"Precisely," Vance nodded. "My theory is that he was shot elsewhere and brought to this chair."

Doremus made a wry face. "Was shot? Then you don't think it was suicide?" He pondered a moment. "It could be, of course," he decided finally. "Find the rest of the blood and you'll probably know where his death occurred."

"Thanks awfully, doctor," Vance smiled faintly. "That did flash through my mind, don't you know; but I believe the blood was wiped up. I was merely hopin' that your findings would substantiate my theory that he did not shoot himself while sitting in that chair, without any one else around."

Doremus shrugged indifferently. "That's reasonable enough assumption," he said. "There really ought to be more blood. He died instantly."

"Have you any other suggestions?" asked Vance.

"I may have when I've gone over the body more carefully after these babies"—he waved his hand toward the photographer and the finger-print men—"finish their hocus-pocus."

Captain Dubois and Detective Bellamy had already begun their routine, with the telephone table as the starting-point; and Quackenbush was adjusting his metal tripod.

Vance turned to Dubois. "I say,

Captain, give your special attention to the head-plate, the revolver, and the glasses. Also the doorknob of the vault across the hall inside."

Quackenbush, his camera having been set up, took his pictures and then waited by the passageway door for further instructions from the finger-print officers.

When the three men had gone inside, Doremus drew in an exaggerated sigh and spoke to Heath impatiently.

"How about getting your corpus delicti over on the settee? Easier to examine him there."

"O. K., Doc."

Two detectives lifted Swift's limp body and placed it on the same wicker divan where Zalia Graem had lain when she collapsed at the sight of the dead man.

Doremus went to work in his usual swift and efficient fashion. When he had finished the task, he threw a steamer rug over the dead man, and made a brief report to Vance and Markham.

"There's nothing to indicate a violent struggle, if that's what you're hoping for. But there's a slight abrasion on the bridge of the nose, as if his glasses had been jerked off; and there's a slight bump on the left side of his head, over the ear, which may have been caused by a blow of some kind, though the skin hasn't been broken."

"How, doctor," asked Vance, "would the following theory square with your findings—that the man had been shot elsewhere, had fallen to a tiled floor, striking his head against it sharply, that his glasses had been torn off when the left lens came in contact with the floor, and that he was carried out here to the chair, and the glasses replaced on his nose?"

Doremus pursed his lips and inclined his head thoughtfully.

"That would be a very reasonable explanation of the lump on his head and the abrasion on the bridge of his nose. . . . So this is another of your cock-eyed murders, is it? Well, it's all right with me. But I'll tell you right now, you won't get an autopsy report tonight. I'm bored and need excitement; and I'm going to Madison Square Garden."

He made out an order for the removal of the body, readjusted his hat, waved a friendly good-by which included all of us, and disappeared swiftly through the door into the passageway.

Vance led the way into the study, and the rest of us followed him. We were barely seated when Captain Dubois came in and reported that there were no finger-prints on any of the objects Vance had enumerated.

"Handled with gloves," he finished laconically, "or wiped clean."

Vance thanked him. "I'm not in the least surprised," he added.

Dubois rejoined Bellamy and Quackenbush in the hall, and the three made their way down the stairs.

"Well, Vance, are you satisfied?" Markham asked.

Vance nodded. "I hadn't expected any fingerprints. Cleverly thought-out crime. And what Doremus found fills some vacant spots in my own theory. Stout fella, Doremus, understands his business. He knows what is wanted and looks for it. There can be no question that Swift was in the vault when he was shot; that he fell to the floor, brushing down some of the papers; that he struck his head on the tiled floor, and broke the left lens of his glasses—you noted, of course, that the lump on his head is also on the left side—and that he was dragged into the garden and placed in the chair. Swift was a small, slender man; probably didn't weigh over a hundred and twenty pounds; and it would have been no great feat of strength for someone to have thus transported him after death."

There were footsteps in the corridor and, as our eyes involuntarily turned toward the door, we saw the dignified elderly figure of Professor Ephraim Garden. I recognized him immediately from pictures I had seen.

He was a tall man, despite his stooped shoulders; and, though he was very thin, he possessed a firmness of bearing which made one feel that he had retained a great measure of the physical power that had obviously been his in youth. There was benevolence in the somewhat haggard face, but there was also shrewdness in his gaze; and the contour of his mouth indicated a latent hardness.

He bowed to us with an old-fashioned graciousness and took a few steps into the study.

"My son has just informed me," he said in a slightly querulous voice, "of the tragedy that has occurred here this afternoon. I'm sorry that I did not return home earlier, as is my wont on Saturdays, for in that event the tragedy might have been averted. I myself would have been in the study here and would probably have kept an eye on my nephew. In any event, no one could then have got possession of my revolver."

"I am not at all sure, Doctor Garden," Vance returned grimly, "that your presence here this afternoon would have averted the tragedy. It is not nearly so simple a matter as it appears at first glance."

Professor Garden sat down in a chair of antique workmanship near the door and, clasping his hands tightly, leaned forward.

Well-Dressed at Little Cost

IT WAS some job, Ladies of The Sewing Circle, to get these three lovelies together to pose for the camera this week.

They're under the strict tutelage of Dame Fashion just now, learning the latest lessons on how to be well turned out this Spring without benefit of a private mint. You can understand, then, why the co-ed above, center, sort of jumped the gun, so to speak, and was already on her way when the camera clicked.

A Frock That Clicks.

Speaking of things clicking, don't think that new princess gown she's wearing isn't doing it in a big way. Can't you see from where you're sitting that it is simple to sew besides being a figure-flatterer of the first order? The buttons half way and a neat little collar in contrast are all its lively lines need to complete the perfect balance—chic vs. simplicity. Take a tip from this stylish student and figure it out for yourself in cashmere or velveteen. The style is 1202 and it can be had in sizes 12-20 (30-38). Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39 inch material plus 1/4 yard contrasting.

Go Printing for Spring.

The charming young lady above, left, has chosen to model a very dainty and rather picturesque little frock for she believes you'll be interested in this style as a fitting gesture to Springtime. Especially in a modern print, featuring, say, pussycats or deep-sea flowers, would this frock be tempting. The skirt is bias-cut for artistic reasons, and the circles of contrast aid and abet its gracefulness. Let yourself go print then, come Spring. Style 1257 is designed in sizes 12-20 (30-40 bust). Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39 inch material. Eleven yards of bias binding is required for trimming as pictured.

Gay House or Street Frock.

Let you begin to think every day is Sunday for our starring trio, the trim-looking young lady above, right, wants you to concentrate now on her new gingham gown. Not an ordinary bread-and-butter cotton version, but a beautifully cut, carefully planned dress for general service. The linked button front is enough to give it first place on your Spring sewing list if Sew-Your-Own designers know their clients as well as they think. However, there's more to recommend it: a young becoming collar, a simple yoke-and-sleeve-in-one construction, and a slender action-built skirt. Put them all together they spell CHIC—that little word with a vast meaning. Style 1267 is for sizes 34-48. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 35 inch material plus 1 1/2 yards contrasting.

Wins by Tail

A good tail is vitally important to a racing greyhound and to a race horse because the animals use it as a combination rudder and balance when taking a curve. The famous greyhound, Mick the Miller, owed much of his success to his perfect tail, while the colt Coron—son of the Derby winner Coronach—owed his failure to win any of his many races to the fact that he had no tail at all.—Collier's weekly.

METHODIST CHURCH

Next Sunday is Easter. Every body should want to go to church. This is a special Sunday in the Christian world. It marks one of the greatest events that ever happened on earth. When our Lord rose from the dead, death and the grave were conquered. Redemption for all who will believe on Him, and commit themselves to Him, was completed. Therefore, Easter should be a happy occasion. Everybody should come to the services, sing, and praise the blessed Lord. The Methodist Church is open, and a hearty welcome is extended to all who will come and worship with us. A special message for both morning and evening. We hope to have special singing. "I was glad when they said Let us go up to the house of the Lord."

HEDLEY SINGERS

Hedley Singing Class meets at West Baptist Church at 2:30 p. m. Mar. 28. We are expecting several visiting singers to be present. Everyone is cordially invited to meet with us in an afternoon of good gospel singing.

Hedley P. T. A.

Mrs. R. B. Watkins discussed for the Parent Teacher members Thursday the value of art in the life of the child. She said art had a humanizing and vitalizing power in vocational and educational activities. The knowledge of art makes the child have pride in his appearance. Mrs. P. L. Dishman explained that a knowledge of art teaches one to appreciate a sunset, a river scene and the birds. After the program the association elected the following officers for the new year: President, Mrs. J. W. Webb; Vice president, Mrs. F. G. Watt; Cor. sec. Mrs. E. B. Hooker; Rec. sec. Mrs. W. E. Grimsley; Treas. Mrs. Roscoe Lead.

The following delegates were elected to represent our local organization at the district conference at Perrytown Apr. 1 and 2: Mesdames J. W. Webb, W. C. Bridges, E. B. Hooker, Dallas Miller, and Lula B. Owen.

There will be no April first meeting, but there will be a meeting on April fifteenth.

PUBLIC INTEREST DEMANDS FAIR PLAY!

Texas now has good state laws for the regulation—in the public interest—of all transportation. These laws are helping to stabilize transportation, and all business and industry that has to use transportation. These laws are helping to reduce the terrible accident toll on your highways. They are helping to conserve your investment in your highways.

Regulation of transportation in the United States has been developed over a period of fifty years. Reasonable regulation is admitted to be both advisable and necessary in the public interest.

Strict regulation of one form of transportation and the lessening of regulation of any other form is unfair and un-American, and can only result in crippling that part of your transportation facilities which is handicapped—without any resulting benefit to the people of Texas.

Texas railroads obey the rules of the game,—those imposed by the agencies of government and those taken on voluntarily in the interest of public safety.

Texas railroads are spending this year, large sums of money for new and modern equipment—locomotives, freight and passenger cars, improved rail and roadbed facilities, and are expediting freight and passenger schedules to meet growing public demands. All of this is being done in the interest of improved service to the public and at the lowest rates in twenty years.

All the railroads of Texas are asking—have ever asked—is a FAIR DEAL in a fair field.
