Senior's Play a Success

The Senior class presented their play, "Don't Darken My Door," in the high school auditorium last Friday night. A large crowd attended and seemed to enjoy the play very much. The play was a comedy drama in 3 acts, and well presented.

Saturday only—special prices on boy's and men's shirts at Hooker's

HEDLEY SINGERS

Hedley singing class will have its regular semi monthly singing at the West Baptist Church as usual; singing to begin at 2:30.

We have been having some mighty good singing at our meetings, but we would like a larger attendance. Let's fill the house this time. Try to be on time and start singing promptly at 2:30.

Rev B. J. Osborn attended the Plainview District Conference Tuesday and the Amarillo District Conference Wednesday, in the interest of the Methodist Orphan's Home at Waco. Bro. Osborn is one of the Directors of the Home.

Lost, strayed or stolen—a brown dog, part bulldog, bearded tail and ears, named Batch. A friendly, well trained dog. Please notify Bruce Stewart Jr.

Joe, the noted Morgan horse, will make the season at my place 1 1/2 miles east of town.

T. R. Moreman

Mrs. C. A. Hicks has returned from an extended visit in California.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

A Mother's Day program will be given Sunday morning at the First Baptist Church. A good program has been prepared, and the public is invited to attend.

M. E. Wells, Pastor

Morning Services:
Sunday School, 10:00, Edward Beliver, Supt.
Song Service and Preaching, 11:00
Evening Services:
Training Service, 6:30, Winfield Mosley, Director.
Preaching, 7:30, by the pastor.

The Nazarene meeting is in progress, and some fine gospel services are being held. Come out to these services. You will receive a blessing from them.

A. R. Marshall has purchased the Hedley Cafe from Paul Hunt and is continuing business at the same location. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt moved this week to Bryson.

Mrs. George Thompson and children, and Margaret Spear have returned from a visit in Quanah and Vernon.

Mrs. Cannon spent Sunday in the Hanson home in Giles.

Mrs. H. K. Jones and Earl Jones of Amarillo and Miss Clara Jones of Ft. Worth visited in the R. H. Jones home Sunday.

NOTICE

If not convenient to take your shoes to Memphis, Mr. Wall will call for them Friday at Huffman Barber Shop, and return same Sunday morning. You will be treated courteously and receive good work.

Selby Shoe Service, in Memphis Hotel Bldg.

Revival

The Revival Meeting at the Methodist Church closed Sunday night. While there were not so much visible results, the church was greatly revived, as well as all Christians who attended services. Bro. Osborn, the pastor, did the preaching. The song services were led by Rev. Frank Beauchamp, pastor at McAdeo. Bro. Beauchamp is very fine help. He endeared himself to the people of Hedley, and will be long remembered as a devout Christian gentleman.

WIFADASSOS CLUB

The Wifadassos Club will meet next Tuesday, May 11, at 8 at the home of Mrs. Newman. It being a Mother's Day program, members are to come dressed like our mothers did, as nearly as possible.

Also remember it is planned for any who wish to, to exchange seeds and plants. Mrs. John Dickson will be joint hostess.

Forty-Two Tournament

On Friday night, May 7, at 8 p. m., the Junior Study Club will sponsor a 42 tournament at the American Legion Hall. 37 Hed merchants have donated merchandise, which will be given away at the close of the games and entertainment. Refreshments will be served and there will be plenty of music.

The admission price is 25c and tickets may be bought from club members.

METHODIST CHURCH

Church School, 9:45 A. M.
Preaching, 11 A. M., 7:30 P. M.
Missionary Societies
Circle I, Monday 8 p. m. Circle 2, 7:30 p. m.
Prayer meeting, Wednesday 7:30 p. m.

We want to express our very hearty appreciation to all those who attended and contributed in any way to our Revival Meeting. We appreciate the opportunity to preach during the meeting. As far as we can know our own hearts, we did our best. It gave us the opportunity to get better acquainted with the people. After all, that is the secret of friendship: knowing each other.

We want to especially thank the other churches of the town for the cooperation we received. May God bless you all.

A Special Word to Methodists: We are going to expect each member of the church "in his place" the remainder of the year. If we do you any good, you will have to give us a chance at you. Next Sunday we shall be looking for you. We shall try to have a helpful message for everyone.
B. J. Osborn

W. M. SOCIETY

Circle no. 2 met with Mrs. Bob Watkins May 3. A very enjoyable evening was spent. Delicious refreshments were served to 18, with Mrs. Cherry as a new member, and Mrs. Burden and Odie Watkins as visitors.

We will gather May 10 at 7 p. m. at the Beauty Shop and go from there to the Road Side Park for a picnic. A Vesper service will be held, Mrs. Trostle in charge.

Mrs. Clyde Adams of Quanah is visiting here this week.

A Bank for Farmers

Success doesn't come easy on the farm. It takes hard work, long hours and much experience to make a profit. Frequently a friendly bank can be of help.

We're interested in farmers, in doing everything within our power to build up their income. And it's only natural that they should come to depend upon a bank thoroughly in sympathy with their needs.

May we give you six dollars?

NOT in cash, of course. We're speaking of its equivalent.
But here is something for you to consider:

Every year this newspaper brings you at least three outstanding novels in serial form. Purchased as books each would cost not less than $2, making a total expenditure of at least $6 per year.

Like yourself, we could find plenty of uses for that $6. Some member of the family is always in need of a new pair of shoes or some other necessity. But at the same time your requirements for good reading material must be met. By accepting these three novels each year we feel you are treating yourself to real enjoyment, at the same time giving your purse a substantial boost.

These novels are a source of constant pride to us. Every year we select them from the season's most outstanding best sellers, offered in serial form by a large newspaper syndicate organization. We'd like to feel that you—as a subscriber—always look forward to reading the coming installment in the next issue.
It gives us a great satisfaction to know that here is another reason why our paper is popular in the home.

You are invited to begin reading our novels now. These regular brief visits to fictionland will prove a delightful interlude from your work-a-day activities. And it will make us happy to know that you are getting enjoyment from them.

The Fight of Sohrab and Rustum, As Seen By a Persian Soldier

We had marched out on the battle field that morning and were being lined up for battle when Peran Wisa stepped forth and challenged any man in our army to fight Sohrab. For a while it looked as if we would have to turn down the challenge, but good old Rustum consented to fight him. Rustum, who had never lost a fight, was our best.

He came out on the field dressed in armor and armed with a shield, spear, club, and sword. Sohrab was dressed in plain clothes and armed with a shield and a sword. We cleared a place for them to fight, and then we gathered around to see the fight. Rustum at first hesitated to fight, but soon he hurled his spear at Sohrab.

Like a flash of lightning it went straight for Sohrab's heart, but he stepped aside and the spear stuck up in the sand. This made Rustum so very angry that he raised his huge club over his head and brought it down toward Sohrab's head, but again Sohrab stepped aside and the huge club went to the ground, and so did Rustum. He lay on the ground half dazed and Sohrab tried to get him not to fight, but by this time Rustum was furious. He jumped to his feet and ran toward Sohrab. Just then a black cloud rose in the sky and a whirlwind of dust inclosed them; hence we could see no more of the fight.

When the sun hung low in the west, just as suddenly as the cloud had blown up, it blew away to our surprise and joy there lay Sohrab on the ground with a spear in his side. We never knew why, but Rustum was on his knees grieving over him.

We left them alone and when we came back they were gone. It was said the Oxus covered them.

Senior's Play a Success

The grand affair has come and gone! The seniors have presented their 3 act play entitled 'Don't Darken My Door'. The seniors have shown us their talent by the way they did their parts, and believe it or not, the senior class already contains two old maids. It was presented nicely, and we were also favored with songs between acts by Jackie Ransom, Opal Monroe and Fred Wells. The class took in $33 and earned $31.50. They wish to express their thanks for the attentive crowd, and here's hoping we'll have more plays in the future as good as this one.

6th Grade

The Sixth Grade program grew out of our study of Texas history and related particularly to the study of the Texas flag.
After the students had marched in bearing the flags of the U S and of Texas rules were given governing the making and the display of the Texas flag. Peggy Everett, Frank Holland, and J W. Luttrell explained why we celebrate our most famous Texas holidays. Hazel Whitfield presented ten facts with which every Texan should be familiar.
Four of the boys described a number of amusing incidents which occurred during the Revolutionary Period.

vocating an Educational Tour;
and he merely stopped by Hedley on his way to Memphis. He is a very witty fellow and kept the students roaring with laughter at his amusing stories and tales of Mr. Harmon's early courtship.

Butterfly Bridal Veil Is Lovely

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THERE'S a spirit of romanticism and the prettily feminine being revived this season that affects the entire program of fashion for spring and summer. In no phase of the mode is this favor of the pretty-pretty type of dress and adornment so definitely emphasized as in the realm of bridal array.

If you are in quest of a veil and headdress that dramatically and picturesquely interpret a beguiling new theme just say "butterfly veil" to your milliner or utter the magic word in shop or salon where bridal array is made a feature and you'll forever after agree that dreams do come true. The bride centered in the illustration is wearing a most exquisite butterfly veil, so called because of the huge applique lace butterflies that flutter among the mists of tulle like butterflies winging their way in a garden of sweet scented flowers. The model pictured is a full, circular fingertip veil but if you prefer a long veil rather than short they are shown in either length. The tiara that makes this beautiful bride "look every inch a queen" is applied with princess lace.

The versatility of types in headdress makes it an easy matter for any bride-to-be to find a style tuned to her individuality. Note the variety shown in this group. In the upper right corner a Margot style cap declares romance and poetry in its quaint picturesque type. The pointed bonnet-like brim of stiffened tulle is applied with battenburg lace. A diadem of pearls and rhinestones is pictured above to the left. Her gown has a becoming latticed bead-work neckline.

If you covet a veil of Parisian chic note the classic cap in the panel below to the left. Hand-rolled satin rosettes trim this cap. The veil is cut to a double point in the back, finished all around with a four-inch hem. An exquisite veil and headdress are pictured in the right lower panel, featuring a most lovely halo of beautiful lace with quaint ruffle across the back.

Fashion this season is most kind to the individualistic bride who seeks outstanding originality. In the matter of color especially, exciting innovations are taking place. Many a bride will be a "perfect picture" in pale pink, or in an extremely delicate blue and the latest news for wedding gown and veil is beige so light it is just a degree or so from white.

This pale beige for the bride invites dramatic color schemes for the attendants, one of which is rose tones for the bridesmaids, from pale pink to American beauty with arms laden with roses. A more daring color scheme includes yellow, apricot and flame sheer frocks for the maids contrasting the creamy beige of the wedding gown and veil.

And here's more news for brides-to-be who are planning a wedding scene that will ever linger in the memory of those who behold—the bridal veil fashioned of the identical chiffon or filmy mousseline de soie as that which makes the wedding gown; appliques of lace or flowers (either artificial or handmade) on satin or sheer gowns; net over silver lame for distinctive originality; wide use of the new summer velvets that pattern mousseline de soie of fragile beauty with tiny velvet motifs. The bridesmaids wear the same white fabric with the velvet motifs in detectable flower colorings.

FLOWERS AND VEILS
 By CHERIE NICHOLAS

You can be just as piquant-minded and alluringly feminine in your choice of millinery as you care to be this spring. Fashion's mood is for pretty flowers and saucy veils in hilarious colors. The "first" hats have come out decked in flowers. The model pictured is of bright red carnations. It would look fetching with a flare-around red veil bordered with big chenille dots. The new "beauty spot" veil is vastly becoming. See it shown here. Note the huge dot which comes at just the right place on the face to show off flirtatiously.

Dalmatian Styles
 The new vogue of Dalmatian styles has brought another interest in velvet. Little waistcoat and boleros with berets to match are being adopted by the college set and by the sub-deb crowd.

REDINGOTE COATS LAUNCH NEW VOGUE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS
 When a plain monotone crepe coat is worn over a print frock that is no longer new but when a coat of gaily colorful print crepe tops a somber black or navy frock—aye, there's news that is filling first page headlines. And it should! You get a perfectly new slant on fashion when you see these swanky costumes that seem to say a "turn about is fair play."

These fetching print-coat outfits take on added charm in that through the front fastening of the coat flutters a bright bi-color or tri-color, if you prefer, sash warranted to live any black, navy or brown crepe frock even when the coat happens to be removed. However, we wager you won't be removing the coat often as that absolutely necessary for it will prove too attractive to lose sight of at any time.

While the majority of these new print coats are styled in redingote fashion, there is also a trend to the shorter, three-quarter loose-fitting types. Some few versions stress jackets of the print with handbags out of the same print.

Shoe Season Brightened by Addition of Novel Colors

Colored shoes have stepped back into the picture and add a bright touch to somber winter costumes. Schiaparelli touches up a black wool suit with a pair of scarlet kid shoes matched by scarlet kid gloves. For a navy blue outfit, this couturiere furnishes jade green shoes that match a twisted jade velvet roll on one of the new peaked and high-crowned hats. Patou uses much bronze this year. One gown of royal purple velvet is worn with a girle that is studded in clear amber beads. The jewels in the belt are matched by slippers of glittering bronze. The same slippers are shown as a complement to a brown costume trimmed with bronze seal fur.

Latest in Spring Prints

The youngest, freshest and at the same time the most sophisticated design of the season is just this one, with its raised waistline girdled with a belt that ties in front. The neck closes with a soft fold-over collar and a suggestion of the new surplice opening. Puffed sleeves and a swingy skirt continue the sprightly effect. It's a model you mustn't miss for now and summer days to come. Comfortable, utterly smart, it gives you a grand new poise whether you choose a silk, rayon or sheer cotton print!

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1272 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 14 (32) requires 4 1/2 yards 39-inch fabric, and 2 1/2 yards ribbon for the belt.

The Garden Murder Case

CHAPTER X—Continued

"Not now. No," Vance returned. "A little bromin gas a few minutes ago; but the air will be clear in a little while. No casualties. Every one doing well . . . Did you want to see me?"

Garden looked round at the group on the roof with a puzzled air.

"Awfully sorry to interrupt you, Vance; but the fact is, I came for the doctor." His eyes rested on Siefert, and he smiled, dryly. "It's the usual thing, doc," he said. "The mater seems almost in a state of collapse—she assured me that she hadn't an ounce of strength left."

A worried look came into Siefert's eyes.

"I'll come at once, of course," he said. He looked at the nurse and then lifted his gaze to Vance. "Will you excuse me?"

Vance bowed. "Certainly, doctor. But I think Miss Beeton had better remain here in the air for a while longer."

Vance watched them until they turned through the door of the passageway; then he spoke to the nurse.

"Please sit here a few minutes, Miss Beeton. I want to have a talk with you. But first I'd like a minute or two with Mr. Hammle."

The nurse nodded her assent and sat down a little wearily on the settee.

Vance beckoned curtly to Hammle. "Suppose we go inside for a moment."

Hammle rose with alacrity. "I was wondering how much longer you gentlemen were going to keep me here."

Vance led the way into the study, and Markham and I followed behind Hammle.

"What were you doing on the roof, Mr. Hammle?" asked Vance. "I told you some time ago, after our brief interview, that you might go."

Hammle fidgeted. He was patently apprehensive and wary.

"There's no crime in going out into the garden for a while—is there?" he asked with unimpressive truculence.

"None whatever," Vance returned casually. "I was wonderin' why you preferred the gardens to going home. Devilish things have been happening in the garden this afternoon."

"As I told you, I wish I had gone. How did I know—?"

"That's hardly the point, Mr. Hammle," Vance cut him short. "It doesn't answer my question."

"Well now, look here," Hammle explained fulsomely; "I had just missed a train to Long Island, and it was more than an hour until the next one. When I went out of here and started to go downstairs, I suddenly said to myself, 'It'll be pleasant waiting in the garden than in the Pennsylvania station.' So I went out on the roof and hung around. And here I am."

Vance regarded the man shrewdly and nodded his head.

"Yes, as you say. Here you are. More or less in evidence. By the way, Mr. Hammle, what did you see while you were waiting in the garden for the next train?"

"Not a thing—absolutely!" Hammle's tone was aggressive. "I walked along the boxwood hedges, smoking, and was leaning over the parapet by the gate, looking out at the city, when I heard you come out carrying the nurse."

Vance narrowed his eyes; it was obvious he was not satisfied with Hammle's explanation.

"And you saw no one else either in the garden or on the terrace?"

"Not a soul," the man assured him.

"And you heard nothing?"

"Not until you gentlemen came out."

Vance stood regarding Hammle for several moments. Then he turned and walked toward the garden window.

"That will be all for the moment," he said brusquely. "But we shall probably want to see you tomorrow."

"I'll be at home all day. Glad to be of any service," Hammle shot a covert look at Vance, made his adieux quickly, and went out down the passageway.

Vance returned at once to the garden. Miss Beeton drew herself up a little as he approached her.

"Do you feel equal to a few questions?" he asked her.

"Oh, yes," she smiled with more assurance now, and rose.

As we crossed the garden to the balustrade, Miss Beeton took a deep breath and shuddered slightly.

"You'd better have your coat," Vance suggested. He returned to the study and brought it out to her. When he had helped her into it she turned suddenly and looked at him inquiringly.

"Why was my coat brought to the study?" she asked.

Vance's tone was reassuring. We really owe you an explanation. You see, two revolvers figured in Swift's death. One of them we all saw on the roof here—that was the one with which the chap was killed. But no one downstairs heard the shot because the poor fellow met his end in Professor Garden's storeroom vault."

"Ah! That was why you wanted to know if the key was in its place." The girl nodded.

"The shot we all heard," Vance went on, "was fired from another revolver after Swift's body had been carried from the vault and placed in the chair out here. We were naturally anxious to find that other weapon, and Sergeant Heath made a search for it."

"But—but—my coat?" Her hand went out and she clutched at Vance's sleeve as a look of understanding came into her frightened eyes.

"Yes," Vance said, "the Sergeant found the revolver in the pocket of your top-coat. Someone had put it there as a temporary hiding-place."

She recoiled with a sudden intake of breath.

"How dreadful!" Her words were barely audible.

Vance put his hand on her shoulder.

"But it's too terrible! . . . And then this—at this attempt on my life. I can't understand. I'm frightened."

"Come, come," Vance exhorted the girl. "It's over now, and we need your help."

She gazed directly into his eyes for several minutes. Then she gave him a faint smile of confidence.

"I'm very sorry," she said simply. "But this house—this family—they've been doing queer things to my nerves for the past month. I can't explain it, but there's something frightfully wrong here . . . I was in charge of an operating room in a Montreal hospital for six months, attending as many as six and eight operations a day; but that never affected me the way this household does. There, at least, I could see what was going on—I could help and know that I was helping. But here everything goes on in dark corners, and nothing I do seems to be of any use. . . . But please don't think I am not ready to help—to do anything I can for you. You, too, always have to work in the dark, don't you?"

"Don't we all have to work in the dark?" Vance murmured, without taking his eyes from her. "Tell me who you think could have been guilty of the terrible things that have happened here."

All fear and doubt seemed to have left the girl. She moved toward the balustrade and stood looking over the river with an impressive calm and self-control.

CHAPTER XI

"Woode Swift's death wasn't at all the sort of thing I would expect to happen here," the nurse said.

"I wouldn't have been surprised at some act of impulsive violence, but this premeditated murder, so subtle and so carefully planned, seems alien to the atmosphere here. Besides, it isn't a loving family, except on the surface. Floyd Garden is saner than the others. His interests are narrow, to be sure, but, on his own mental level, he's dependable, too, I think."

She paused and frowned.

"As for Mrs. Garden, I feel that by nature she is shallow and is deliberately creating for herself a deeper and more complex mode of life, which she doesn't in the least understand. That, of course, makes her unreasonable and dangerous. I have never had a more unreasonable patient. She has no consideration whatever for others."

"And Professor Garden?"

"He's a researcher and scientist, of course, and, therefore, not altogether human, in the conventional sense. I have thought sometimes that he isn't wholly rational."

"What is your impression of the guests who were present today?" Vance said.

"I don't feel competent to pass judgment on them," the girl replied seriously. "I can't entirely understand them. But each one strikes me as dangerous in his own way. They are all playing a game—and it seems to be a game without rules. To them the outcome justifies the methods they use."

"Yes, quite. You have clear vision," Vance scrutinized the girl beside him. "And you took up nursing because you are able to face the realities. You are not afraid of life—or of death."

"The girl looked embarrassed. "You're making too much of my profession. After all, I had to earn my living, and nursing appealed to me."

"Yes, of course, it would," Vance nodded. "But tell me, wouldn't you rather not have to work for your living?"

She looked up.

"Perhaps. But isn't it natural for every woman to prefer luxury and security to drudgery and uncertainty?"

"No doubt," said Vance. "And speakin' of nursing, just what do you think of Mrs. Garden's condition?"

Miss Beeton hesitated before she answered.

"Really, I don't know what to say. I can't understand it. And I rather suspect that Doctor Siefert himself is puzzled by it. Mrs. Garden is obviously a sick woman. She shows many of the symptoms of that nervous, erratic temperament exhibited by people suffering from cancer. Though she's much better some days than others, I know that she suffers a great deal. Doctor Siefert tells me she is really a neurological case; but I get the feeling, at times, that it goes much deeper—that an obscure physiological condition is producing the neurological symptoms she shows."

"That's most interestin'. Doctor Siefert mentioned something of the kind to me only a few days ago."

Vance moved nearer to the girl. "Would you mind telling me something of your contacts with the members of the household?"

"There's very little to tell. Professor Garden practically ignores me—half the time I doubt if he even knows I am here. Mrs. Garden alternates between periods of irritable admonition and intimate confidence. Floyd Garden has always been pleasant and considerate. I've rather liked him for his attitude."

"And what of Swift—did you see much of him?"

The girl seemed reluctant to answer.

"The truth is, Mr. Swift asked me several times to go to dinner and the theater with him. I got the impression that he was one of those unhappy men who feel their inferiority and seek to bolster themselves up with the affections of women. I think that he was really concerned with Miss Graem, and merely turned to me through pique."

Vance smoked for a few moments in silence. Then he said:

"What of the big race today? Had there been much discussion about it?"

"Oh, yes. For over a week I've heard little else here. A curious tension has been growing in the house. I heard Mr. Swift remark to Floyd Garden one evening that the Rivermont Handicap was his one remaining hope, and that he thought Equanimity would win."

"Was it generally known to the other members of the afternoon gatherings how Swift felt about this race and Equanimity?"

"Yes, the matter was freely discussed for days."

"By the by," asked Vance, "how did you come to bet on Azure Star?"

"Frankly," the girl confessed shyly, "I've been mildly interested in the horse—betting parties, here, though I've never had any desire to make a wager myself. But I overheard you tell Mr. Garden that you had picked Azure Star, and the name was so appealing that I asked Mr. Garden to place that bet for me. It was the first time I ever bet on a horse."

"And Azure Star came in," Vance sighed. "Too bad. Actually you bet against Equanimity, you know—he was the favorite. A big gamble. Most unfortunate that you won. Beginner's luck, d'ye see, is always fatal."

The girl's face became suddenly sombre, and she looked steadily at Vance for several moments before she spoke again.

"Do you really think it will prove fatal?"

"Yes, Oh, yes. Inevitable. You won't be able to resist making other wagers. One doesn't stop with the first bet if one wins. And, invariably, one loses in the end."

Again the girl gave Vance a long and troubled look; then her gaze drifted to the darkening sky overhead.

"But Azure Star is a beautiful name, isn't it?" She pointed upward.

"There's one now."

We all looked up. High above we saw a single bright star shining with blue luminosity in the cloudless sky. After a moment Vance moved toward the parapet and looked out over the waters of the river to the purpling hills and the still glowing sunset colors in the west.

"No city in the world," Vance said, "is as beautiful as New York seen from a vantage point like this in the early twilight." (I wondered at his sudden change of mood.)

He stepped up on the parapet and looked down into the great abyss of deep shadows and flickering lights far below. A curious chill of fear ran over me—the sort of fear I have always felt when I have seen acrobatic performers perilously balanced high above a circus arena.

Miss Beeton was standing close to Markham, and she, too, must have experienced something of the sensation I felt, for I saw her face go suddenly pale. Her eyes were fixed on Vance with a look of apprehensive horror.

"Vance!" It was Markham's stern voice that broke the silence. "Come down from there!"

STAR DUST

Movie • Radio

By VIRGINIA VALE

THE Women's National Radio committee has named the Rudy Vallee hour as the best variety program on the air, and Bing Crosby's loyal host of followers are so upset that letters of protest are pouring into radio stations and newspaper offices.

Correspondents agree that the Vallee program is always a grand show, but they point out that Bing's hour gives much greater variety, since it consistently includes the greatest musicians as well as popular songs, comedy and dramatic sketches.

Warner Brothers cabled Errol Flynn in Ireland to return to the studio at once to start work in a new picture, but the cable was undelivered as the adventurous Errol had already set out for Spain.

First news from there was that he had been injured in a rebel attack and for a few hours groups of anxious friends stood disconsolately around the studio talking about what a grand guy he is. Nobody felt like working until the welcome news came that his injury was a slight and that he would be able to return soon.

As summer approaches and radio programs call it a season, radio singers look wistfully toward the big rewards of Hollywood engagements. Two who have already landed engagements are Jessica Dragonette and Lanny Ross. Miss Dragonette will appear in a Bobby Breen picture called "Make a Wish."

Lanny Ross will join the ever-growing ranks of Grand National company. Victor Schertzinger, who composed the never-to-be forgotten "Marcheta" and who is a splendid director believes he has a story that will catapult Ross right into the front ranks of film idols.

Being just the husband of a popular Hollywood actress is no career for an ambitious young man, according to Leonard Penn, who left the New York stage to come to Hollywood with Gladys George, and George McDonald who left his newspaper job when he married Jean Parker. Penn is being tested by M-G-M, and George McDonald is being tested by Paramount.

Gail Patrick, the only survivor at the Paramount studio among all the girls who won in their "Panther Woman" contest a few years ago, has at last attained real recognition. Not only will she be featured in "Artists and Models" with Jack Benny, she will get one of the best dressing rooms on the lot. It was built years ago for Pola Negri and was later occupied by Clara Bow.

Every time Sam Goldwyn spends a few days away from the studio, he catches up on all the newest national fads and promptly arranges to use them in pictures. Recovering from a cold at Tucson, Arizona, a few days ago, he was impressed by a trailer camp. Promptly he bought a story called "Heaven on Wheels" and cast Barbara Stanwyck for the lead.

Fred Astaire is so determined to have Carole Lombard in the first film that he makes without Ginger Rogers that he is postponing production until she is free. And James Stewart is so determined to play opposite Ginger Rogers in her solo starring vehicle that he is pleading with M-G-M to release him from working in Luise Rainer's next. It is so much fun working with Astaire or Rogers that players are willing to give up better roles in order to be with them.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . Dick Foran won't finish any more pictures with an embrace. It seems that the juvenile audiences who so enjoy his pictures shrieked in derision when he went romantic . . . M-G-M has thwarted Elissa Landi's plan to ride in the hunters' trials at Palm Springs. They won't let her risk her neck while she is making "Thirteenth Chair" for them . . . Claire Windsor, too long absent from the screen, will return in support of Constance Bennett in "Tupper"

Luise Rainer has dyed her hair bright red for "The Emperor's Candlesticks" and likes it so well she is going to leave it that way . . . Whenever 20th Century-Fox needs Wallace Beery for scenes of "Slave Ship" they page him at the circus. Ever since the days when he traveled with a circus as elephant valet, he has loved hanging around the sundust tent.

The Oldest Ball Club Cincinnati claims to have the oldest professional baseball club in the country. The Reds were founded in 1869.

Murmurings of Spring

IF YOU'D take a few steps, Sis, I believe I'd be inspired to answer that question, 'Did you ever see a dream walking?' You are nothing less than devastating—truly a menace!"

"You meow so sweetly, Connie. I'm a bit suspicious that this little peplum frock of mine has got you catty. Your eyes really aren't green by rights, you know."

Connie Sews Her Own.

"How could you? I think my dress looks as nice on me as yours does on you. Why practically all of the girls at the Laf-a-Lot last night wanted to know where I found such a lovely frock. Not one of them guessed that I made it myself. And did I feel elegant when I played Mendelssohn's Spring Song on Diane's new baby grand! The girls said I fit into the picture perfectly. I thought if only Dwight could see me now."

"I still say my two-piece with its piped peplum, cute little buttons and stream-lines is the No. 1 spring outfit in this woman's town."

Mother Happens Along.

"Girls, girls, if your talk were only half as pretty as your frocks you'd be better off. Sometimes I wonder if you wouldn't be more appropriately titled The Cheek Twins, rather than The Chic Twins."

"Okay, Mother, you win. Let's change the subject by changing clothes. We'll put on our culottes and join you in a round of golf, how's that? Gee, Mother, you never look sweeter than when you're wearing a casual young two-piece shirt dress. The plaid pique is just the thing for you, too. In fact, Mom, you're just about tops from any angle."
