E. V. Hawkins Dies

E. V. Hawkins of Shamrock was almost instantly killed last Thursday in an automobile accident near Liberal, Kansas. The driver of the car in which he was riding was blinded by the lights of an approaching car, and crashed into a dump truck parked on the road without lights.

Funeral services were held at Shamrock Saturday morning by the pastors of the Church of Christ and the Methodist Church. Another service was held Saturday afternoon at Memphis by the pastors of the Church of Christ and the Presbyterian Church. Interment was made in the Memphis cemetery.

Mr. Hawkins was 48 years of age. He is survived by his wife, one daughter and a grand niece of Shamrock, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hawkins of Memphis, one brother, J. Lee Hawkins of Devine, a former Hedleyan and three sisters: Mrs. A. T. Young of McLean, Mrs. B. S. Maddux of Obanoin and Mrs. Luther McNeil of San Pedro, Calif.

The Informer joins their many friends in extending sincere sympathies to the bereaved.

Baptist Homecoming

All members and former members of the First Baptist Church are urged to attend the annual homecoming at the church Sunday. Sunday School and church services will be held as usual in the morning, and lunch will be served at noon. A program is being arranged for the afternoon.

If you are, or have ever been, a member of the church, be sure to attend.

Oh, boy! Santa Claus has come by Hooker's and left a big shipment of toys.

W. M. SOCIETY

Circles 1 and 2 met with Mrs. Watkins Monday Nov. 21 at 6:30. We had a very enjoyable evening. Refreshment were served to those present. Both societies will meet with Mrs. Masterson Monday Nov. 28 at 6:30. Let all old members be present and welcome new ones.

Out of town relatives and friends attending the funeral of G. W. Killingworth were: Mrs. Mary Webb, Ray McTire, Bill Webb and wife, Glen Hickman and family, Sam and George Webb, all of Dimmitt, Mrs. Lena Maples and son Glen of Hart, Mrs. A. O. Muncie, Mrs. Bill Parter and Elmer Lee Breeding of Wellington, Bill Melton and wife of Lottie, Carl Amerson and wife and Mrs. J. O. Breeding of McLean, Alton Martin and family of Allenreed, Carlos Melton and daughter of Pueblo, Colo., and Mrs. Maude Martin and son George of Canon City, Colo., and Mrs. Myrtle Payne of Chickasha, Okla.

R. E. Darnell has purchased the Pierce Grocery from W. A. Pierce, and will continue to operate it at the same location under the name of Cash Way Grocery. He invites his friends to call on him for all kinds of staple and fancy groceries.

O. R. Onwell and son Buster are in Mineral Wells for a ten days stay.

Mrs. J. H. Cooper visited in Sandoz this week.

Thanksgiving Day

This holiday, in the United States, is named by the president and usually by the governors of the various States, to be kept as a thanksgiving for the mercies of the year, and to be observed on the last Thursday of November. The festival is essentially a harvest thanksgiving, and its earliest observance can be traced to the Pilgrim Fathers.

During the Revolution, Thanksgiving Day was a national institution, being annually recommended by Congress. President Madison recommended a thanksgiving for peace in 1815. During the Civil War President Lincoln established the present custom of annual thanksgivings.

Ladies, those club gifts from 10c up have arrived at Hooker Variety Store, and it would please us very much to get to sell you some of them.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging headaches, persistent headaches, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wise in these cases. Dr. Doan's Pills, Doan's have been winning awards for more than forty years. A nation-wide reputation. Get by grateful people the "oh your neighbor!"

Points of Interest from the Juniors

Besides being busy workers in the queen contest at the Carnival, the juniors are outstanding in their school work.

English has been a very interesting subject under the direction of Mrs. Owen. We have been reading and discussing the Reader's Digest. A new course of study has been taken up by working up manuals and using checking cards.

Geometry, the dreaded subject is not so difficult with the direction of Mr. Payne. Problems from the ancient times are taken up and proved by the class.

History 8, under the teachings of Miss Bergner, is a difficult but interesting subject.

Some of the outstanding students in typing are in the junior class.

English 2

The English 2 class has been studying The Piper by Josephine Preston Peabody. Mrs. Owen believed that the play was interesting enough for the class to make individual scenes of it.
 Some of our scenes were very good. We are now taking up

"Here Comes Charlie"

I know the first question that comes to your mind after reading the title is the same that came to mine. Who is Charlie and what does he look like? Well, Charlie is seventeen, and a

 to do like all of the other people, come and let your eyes solve the question for you.

The play will offer everyone a delightfully full evening of en-

Freshmen See Film

When our sponsor told us we might spend our percent from the queen contest as we wished,
 we chose a theater party.

Thursday night, accompanied by our sponsor, Mrs. Owen, and parents Mr. and Mrs. Owen Hill,
 Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bridges, W.
 H. Clay, Mrs. H. H. Hall and her room mother, Mrs. Ray Doherty about 80 of us went to Memphis to see the famous film Mother Carey's Chickens. Even though many of us sat on the edge of our seats lest the Careys leave their house, we fully enjoyed seeing the improvised ghost chase away their tormentors. Seeing 3 year old Peter and his goat was worth the price of the film.

We learned that it pays to be good because Mrs. Owen said we might do something else because we behaved so well. We wish to express our appreciation to the parents who took care of us.

of the winter Mode For Versatile Fur Styling

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

SEEING the beauty, the elegance, the artistry, the charm and versatility of this season's fur fashions it would seem as if each and every designer is possessed with the idea that nothing short of a masterpiece must be turned out in order to meet the demands of a fastidious public.

It is a fact we are growing more exacting each year in regard to the furs we wear. We have come to expect of fur that it be styled with all the versatility of supple fabric, and that every phase of fashion from hats to shoes and even dresses (very smart ones are being turned out made all of thin supple fur) be expressed in terms of fur. The encouraging thing about it is that the new fashions in fur not only come up to expectations but they go far beyond.

This season it is not only that there are coats and jackets and various apparel wrought in fur but special emphasis is being placed on "little furs" as they are often called. By which we mean the most charming little odd neckpieces and hats with bags to match and as for muffs, to be properly styled you really must carry a muff from now on until spring.

The new fur showings give the impression that furriers find it no "trick" at all to manipulate furs with as much sang-froid as if it were the most tractable and supple fabric. Note to the left in the picture an ultra smart suit tailored of black galyack. The pelts have been rendered as pliable as cloth and are here expertly worked in achieving this new box-jacket style with its graceful trim-fitting slenderizing skirt. The high hat is of black suede and galyack.

The double-breasted reefer new "longer" jacket centered in the group is in rich Persian lamb. This is an ultra chic style with the "new" look that makes it convincingly of 1938 vintage. The hat worn with it is also of Persian. It has an insert of bright grosgrain and little red leather motifs held with silver embroidery.

The smartest fashion going is the fur-jacket costume. There are such legions of fur jackets this season and they embrace every silhouette from bolero to the widely exploited "longer" jacket and the furs employed in making them run such a gamut of luxury and novelty, that the best one can hope to do is to touch a few highspots in describing them.

A new fur to some of us, guanaco by name, is receiving a lot of attention this season from the spectator sports angle. This tawny fur is attractively streaked with white. It is a natural guanaco that is so smartly used in the youthful sports jacket pictured in the foreground. The Breton worn with it is of multi-colored hand-woven wool shaped into a rounded brim.

As to hats of fur if you keep pace with fashion a fur headpiece to complement your fur coat or your fur neckpiece or the fur trim on your dress becomes a necessary luxury.

Fits Like Glove

This charming satin evening gown has a modish zinnia-rust color. The short puffed sleeves and the flaring skirt hemline are important style features. To say this exquisite dress, which made its debut at a late revue held in the Merchandise Mart, Chicago, "fits like a glove" is no idle boast for it does just that. The reason for its ideal rounded-to-the-form look is that it is fashioned across the bust and at the back of matelax satin quite after the manner of the amazing last-year form-fitting bathing suits that were such general favorites last summer.

Ostrich Restored To Ancient Glory

Comes again the ostrich upon the fashion scene, as naturally it must, since the current season is one of greater pomp and splendor. It is true Edwardian elegance that the new ostrich trims now bring into the fall and winter millinery picture. The tiny hats with the sweep of a single ostrich plume from back to front are amusingly quaint and wonderfully flattering. Have the fun of trying one on, you'll probably decide to buy it at first glance in the mirror.

Those cunning little tips of yore! See them this season clustered, prince of Wales fashion, atop tiny velvet evening caps or surmounting upswept curls that give the correct evening coiffure.

There is promise too, that intriguing ostrich neckwear and ostrich-trimmed evening wraps will frequent the winter fashion scene.

Fall Styles Call For New Corsetry

In the new silhouettes the trend is toward an uplift bustline, that gives more of a corseted figure. Since the call is for a slenderized waistline that extends into a sleek and slim body line up to the bust it is very necessary to look into this matter of the new corsetry that designers offer in order to conform to demands of a "different" figure from that heretofore advocated in fashion's realm.

New Season Laces Most Attractive

Among the lovely new laces brought out this season comes a most attractive sequin-embroidered type. Floral motifs patterned throughout are wide-spaced, giving a very new look. Each flower is worked in part with glittering sequins, color-matched to the lace. A dance frock in burgundy red lace worked in sequins in same color is something to covet.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Describes Food Value and Versatility of Gelatin; Outlines Its Many Uses in the Diet

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

WHEN we try to appraise the nutritional values of any one food in comparison with others, as a rule we have a difficult task. Most foodstuffs are composed of so many different substances that what is lacking in one will be supplied by another, and making comparisons may therefore be misleading as well as futile. But there is one food which is outstanding, not only because it is far less complex than most others, but because it is no exaggeration to say that without it, some of us might not be alive, and those of us who are alive would obtain far less enjoyment from our daily existence.

That food is gelatin!

What Is Gelatin?

Gelatin is a protein food which has no equal as a carrier, binder and "extender" of a wide variety of other nutritive materials. Chemically, it is classed as a colloid, which means that in solution, it can be removed from its solvent by filtration. It is because of this that it is so useful in producing smooth, delicious ice creams and other dainties, free from ice crystals.

Gelatin is an almost pure protein—a kind of protein known as an albuminoid. It is not a complete protein, because it is deficient in three of the amino acids that are necessary both to support growth and repair body tissues. In this it differs from meat, cheese, fish, eggs and milk, which are known as complete proteins.

It cannot be used as the sole source of protein in the diet, because those three missing amino acids are necessary for the formation of new body tissue. But it is especially rich in lysine, one of the protein building stones that is particularly important in the diet of children. Experiments indicate that no other amino acid can take the place of lysine and that it must be furnished by the food if adequate nutrition is to be maintained.

That coupled with the fact that it is non-irritating and easily digestible accounts for the large part it plays in the diet of infants and young children.

How It Is Made

Contrary to old wives' tales, gelatin is not made from hoofs and horns. In fact, there is no gelatin in hoofs or horns. It is extracted from connective tissue in the skins and from the bones of food animals.

Every homemaker who has made soup by simmering a knuckle bone for hours, and has found the soup "jellied" after standing overnight in the refrigerator, has prepared gelatin on a small scale. The same principles are followed by the gelatin manufacturer, only he operates in a much larger food kitchen, and each step of the preparation is scientifically controlled so as to insure a uniform finished product. Gelatin is sold in two forms: the unflavored, granulated product which requires the addition of flavoring, and when used for dessert purposes, sweetening; and the gelatin dessert powders which contain added sugar, color, flavor and fruit acid. So popular are these convenient gelatin desserts, that about 10,000,000 pounds of gelatin are used annually for this purpose.

From Infancy to Old Age

Nutritionists recognize gelatin as a food possessing many unique advantages in the daily diet, and it is prescribed by physicians for a variety of special diets. Newborn babies, for example, are sometimes given a gelatin-sugar-salt solution which provides readily available protein to raise the protein level of the blood. When an infant cannot readily digest milk, owing to the formation of hard curds, the doctor may recommend the addition of 1 per cent of gelatin dissolved in the milk. This usually causes it to be assimilated easily and satisfactorily.

When it comes time to change a baby's food from liquids to solids, gelatin also proves useful, for its soft, semi-solid texture makes an excellent transitional food. With toddlers and school children, gelatin—the carrier and "extender"—provides a splendid method for offering foods that are disliked. Vegetables that draw forth protests when presented in the usual fashion are eaten with relish when molded into a sparkling lime- or lemon-flavored salad. The coarse texture of certain raw vegetables, such as carrots and cabbage, or the tart flavor of some fruits, may likewise be modified by serving them in a gelatin base.

And it doesn't require statistics from nursery schools to tell mothers how readily children eat gelatin desserts when they are brilliant with color and flavored with

Building, Maintaining Healthy Teeth

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

It is an alarming fact that almost every adult in this great land of ours is affected by some form of oral disease, and that more than 90 per cent of our school children have decayed teeth. A prominent medical authority made the statement that if dental decay became rare, instead of almost universal, more than half of all sickness would be eliminated.

Remarkable and widely heralded advances have been made in our knowledge of how to control and prevent many dangerous and debilitating diseases. A decayed tooth is a poison factory, distributing its noxious product to every part of the body. In the body, that poison attacks and centers in the weakest spot. It may lead to neuritis, rheumatic ailments, dyspepsia, or duodenal ulcers. It may even be a contributing cause of heart disease.

Only a small percentage of our population is yet aware of the far-reaching effects of teeth upon health. There is a close relationship between healthy teeth and healthy bodies, and between decayed teeth and sickly bodies.

By learning something of the importance of caring properly for the teeth, some men and women of middle age look and feel younger than their parents did at the same age.

I have endeavored in many of the WHAT TO EAT AND WHY articles, which have appeared in this newspaper over my signature, to point out the close relationship between diet and dental disease; between frequent and thorough brushing of the teeth with an efficient dentifrice so as to remove all food particles, and strong, beautiful teeth.

I have received many letters from readers of these articles, showing that homemakers are eager for sound, authoritative advice on the proper care of the teeth. To help these and other readers to know how to properly care for their teeth, I have prepared a booklet on BUILDING AND MAINTAINING HEALTHY TEETH which I am offering FREE, because I feel so strongly that this information should be in every home, knowing as I do, that the salvation of the human race may lie in saving their teeth. Address, C. Houston Goudiss, 219 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

orange, raspberry, cherry, strawberry or other well liked flavors. Every mother knows this from her own experience—and I rather suspect that many mothers describe these attractive molded desserts as the prize to be won in return for cleaning the plate of the main course!

In the Reducing Diet

Both men and women who are counting their calories, in an effort to avoid overweight, or to reduce, can profit by taking gelatin salads and desserts, which satisfy hunger without providing unwanted fuel value.

In cases of digestive disturbance, gelatin is frequently recommended because of its bland taste, and because it leaves no residue in the lower intestinal tract.

This same splendid food is also advised by doctors when a high protein diet is desired to speed growth, or during convalescence from an illness. Gelatin may be added to broths, milk, fruit and vegetables, and these, in turn, may be incorporated in solidified gelatin.

Indeed, this many-sided food-stuff has come to play such a wide and varied role in nutrition, not only by itself but by enhancing the value of other foods, that it must be numbered among the products that help to increase national health and vigor.

Mother-Ask Your Doctor First

Never give your children unknown "Bargain" remedies to take unless you ask your doctor.

A mother may save a few pennies giving her children unknown preparations. But a child's life is precious beyond pennies. So—Ask your doctor before you give any remedy you don't know all about.

And when giving the common children's remedy, milk of magnesia, always ask for "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia."

Because for three generations Phillips' has been favored by many physicians as a standard, reliable and proved preparation—marvelously gentle for youngsters.

Many children like Phillips' in the newer form—tiny peppermint-flavored tablets that chew like candy. Each tablet contains the equivalent of one teaspoonful of the liquid Phillips' 25¢ for a big box.

A bottle of Phillips' liquid Milk of Magnesia costs but 25¢. So—anyone can afford the genuine. Careful mothers ask for it by its full name "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia."

EACH of these good-looking new designs is just as comfortable and practical as it is becoming, and each is accompanied by a detailed sew chart that assures you no difficulty at all in the making. The girl's jumper, in dirndl fashion, has everything that your daughter will like and look well in. The women's dress is expertly planned for perfect comfort in working and to make you look pounds slimmer than you are.

Dirndl-Style Jumper.

High neckline, to cover up her collar bones, with a little round collar to soften. High-puffed sleeves and very full skirt to fill her out. Shirred waistline, to make her look soft and small through the middle. Those are the details making this one of the most becoming dresses a girl of the fast-growing years can possible wear. Make the jumper of flannel, jersey or wool plaid, for every day, with linen, batiste or flat crepe blouse. Repeat it, for parties, of velveteen, with organ-dy or chiffon blouse.

Large Woman's Home Dress. Plenty of leeway for reaching up, down and under, is promised you by the ample armholes, slight blouse above the belt, and easy waistline of this practical home dress. And it looks very trim and tailored, because the long lines, the darts around the middle, scalloped closing and narrow collar are just as slenderizing as they can be. You will enjoy having a jersey or challis version of this dress for cold weather, as well as several in calico, gingham or percale. It's a diagram design that you can make in no time.

The Patterns.

SYNOPSIS

Barbara Sentry, seeking to sober up her escort, Johnny Boyd, on the way home from a party, slaps him, and attracts the attention of a policeman, whom the boy knocks down. As he arrests him, Professor Brace of Harvard comes to the rescue and drives Barbara home. On the way they see Barbara's father driving from the direction of his office at 12:45, but when he gets home he tells his wife it is 11:15 and that he's been playing bridge at the club. Next day Sentry reports his office has been robbed and a Miss Wines, former temporary employee, killed. The evening papers luridly confirm the story, and Sentry takes it hard. Mary, elder daughter, in love with Neil Ray, young internist at the hospital where she works, goes off to dinner at Gus Loran's, Sentry's partner, with Mrs. Loran's brother, Jimmy Endie. Mr. and Mrs. Sentry call on old Mrs. Sentry, and Barbara, alone, receives Dan Fisher, reporter, who advises her not to talk. Phil Sentry, son at Yale, is disturbed at the possible implications and suspicion of Miss Wines' absence from her rooms for three days during August. He goes home to help. Sentry is arrested and booked for murder. Dan Fisher explains the evidence against him—that the robbery was a fake, the safe opened by one who knew the combination, and that Sentry, too, had been away those three days in August. Brace calls, and backs up Barbara in her denial that Sentry could have done it, because of the discrepancy of time between the slaying and their seeing Sentry on the road, Phil, showing the police over the house, finds his strong box open and his gun, which only his father knew of, gone. Meanwhile, the police find the stolen money burned in the furnace. Mrs. Sentry sees her husband, who swears his innocence, and tells her he had known of the robbery and murder the night before, but failed to call the police, and came home at 12:30. Mary quarrels with Neil Ray, and runs away with Jimmy Endie to the Caribbean. Linda Dane, friend of Barbara and Phil, tries to comfort Phil.

CHAPTER VI—Continued

A curious crowd stared at them as they came out, and Phil said, "You can wear a veil next time we come, Mother."

"I shall not wear a veil," she answered, fighting to forget Arthur, to forget how gray and lifeless the flesh on his cheeks had seemed, and how dull his eyes were. She must forget, so that she could be brave enough to come to him again.

At home, Barbara was waiting with questions. They told her he was fine; was cheerful, confident, and unafraid. They brought her back to comfort for a while.

Dean Hare, a day or two later, brought Falkran to see Mrs. Sentry and Phil. Phil was not at first favorably impressed. The lawyer was a big man, bald save for a fringe of red hair above his ears, with the wide, loose mouth of the natural orator; and Phil thought he studied the rugs and the furniture with a shrewd appraising eye, and he saw his mother visibly conquer her distaste for the man.

She asked, after introductions were done, "Are you familiar with my husband's case, Mr. Falkran?"

"I see the newspapers have convicted him?"

Her eyes hardened. "You think him guilty?"

Falkran, suddenly, smiled; and Phil at that smile felt a quick liking and trust for him. The lawyer said, "Mrs. Sentry, no man was ever electrocuted on a newspaper verdict."

Her eyes closed at that word, then opened again as he went on. "If I could have my choice," he said, "I should choose to defend men who have already been convicted in the newspapers. When everyone is convinced a man is guilty, the smallest grain of evidence in his favor has a tremendous effect in provoking doubt of his guilt." He added, "And from the practical point of view, such a situation makes it easier to disqualify jurors, easier to get the jury we want."

Mrs. Sentry had not surrendered her question. "You think him guilty?" she insisted.

"No man is guilty till a court has found him so, after a trial by due process, and till all appeals have failed."

"I asked whether you think my husband guilty?"

He smiled again. His smile had won many a jury. He said reasonably, "Mrs. Sentry, I haven't even talked with him. I don't know his side of the case at all. I only know the published facts. Mr. Hare has told me nothing. The evidence is damaging, difficult; but there are a thousand explanations that might meet the situation as it appears."

Phil saw that his mother too was being won to liking. She put her question in another way. "If you thought him guilty, would you defend him?"

Falkran smiled again. "Even a guilty man is entitled to his day in court, to a fair trial, to all the protection afforded by the law." Then he answered her directly: "Yes, Mrs. Sentry. Even if I knew Mr. Sentry guilty, I would defend him with all my powers."

Mrs. Sentry nodded, surrendered her point. "You said," she suggested, "that any one of a thousand explanations might cover all the evidence."

"An infinite number, yes."

"Have you anything in mind?"

"Mr. Sentry may suggest something." She started to speak, to tell him that Arthur had found the girl dead; then remembered Phil was here and caught herself.

Falkran went on: "You see, Mrs. Sentry, until I talk to your husband, remind him of small circumstances he has himself forgotten, I can make no plan."

They talked a further while; and Mrs. Sentry said at last that she would let him know her decision next day. She used the interval to consult Arthur's mother.

Old Mrs. Sentry said: "Falkran? Oh, yes. I've heard of him."

Mrs. Sentry explained: "I should have preferred—one of our friends, of course. I hoped for a certain—dignity! But Mr. Hare says we must have a good criminal lawyer, and he recommended Mr. Falkran."

The old woman said harshly: "Dignity! Ellen, sometimes you— Then she caught herself, spoke almost in apology. "Of course you'd prefer some fine name; but Falkran's a clever man. Arthur will need a good lawyer. Better take him."

So it was decided; but Mrs. Sentry thought, driving home: Even Arthur's mother knows. The whole Phil. And so are we. We're glad to have her come to you."

And Mrs. Urban. Mrs. Sentry had always thought of Mrs. Urban as a mouse of a woman, with no mind of her own; yet she found in her now strength and loyal understanding. Of the others, Mrs. Furness invited Mrs. Sentry to luncheon, but she declined. I will not be made a show of, she promised herself; and Mrs. Harry Murr's persistent advances likewise she put aside.

There was one loss which hurt her keenly. She and Mrs. Waring had been closest friends; and the families were intimate. The two mothers had even discussed the possibility that Phil might marry Ann Waring. But a week after Mr. Sentry was indicted, Mrs. Waring took Ann away to Europe to school there. The decision was sudden; Mrs. Sentry knew it had not been planned in advance. And Mrs. Waring left without even a note to say good-by.

Mrs. Sentry never spoke of this hurt to anyone. In the same way she ceased to resent the curious groups of people who drove past the house in cars, and even alighted to pluck flowers or break down branches off the shrubbery for souvenirs. Only when one night someone dug up a young tree in the front yard and took it away did she accept District Attorney Flood's suggestion that a policeman stand guard in front of the house night and day.

For all these things, Mrs. Sentry found strength and courage; but one thing she could not face. She could not read the newspapers, or look at them. Since the first few days, reporters had been kind. Carl Bettie had been of service in that respect. We had put through with the publishers of the other papers an agreement not to print photographs of Mrs. Sentry or Phil or Barbara, and to use their names as little as possible in news stories. When Mrs. Sentry thanked him, he said: "I don't deserve all the credits. One of our reporters, a young man named Fisher, suggested it." Barbara was in the room and he looked at her, smiling a little, and explained: "He had met you, he said. I think he had you particularly in mind."

Barbara nodded. "Yes, I like him," she agreed. "We've seen each other since, once or twice."

Mrs. Sentry protested, "Seen him, Barbara? Where?"

"In town," Barbara confessed. "He has tea with grandmother and me, sometimes. It's perfectly proper, mother. Grandmother likes him."

"But a reporter, Barbara!" Carl Bettie chuckled. "When there, Mrs. Sentry!" he protested. "Reporters aren't so bad, nowadays. You're prejudiced!"

"I'm prejudiced against any young man who meets my daughter secretly."

Barbara cried: "Oh, now, mother, that's silly! It's not secret, with grandmother there; but even if it was—"

Mrs. Sentry said, yielding: "Of course, dear. I'm afraid it really is prejudice. Ask him to have tea here, too, Barbara, if you wish."

"I'm at grandmother's now more than I'm at home," Barbara reminded her; and this was in fact true. Old Mrs. Sentry had since her son's arrest surrendered her physical immobility. Her mind was as keen, her tongue as sharp as ever; but she stayed in her room of the hotel where she lived, had her meals served there, even submitted to an indignity she had long declined, and hired a companion who was also nurse and masseuse.

And Phil had used the old woman's helplessness to dissuade Barbara from her desire to see her father. "You and I have to make it as easy as we can for mother," Barb, he pointed out. "And mother can't be with father and with grandmother too, and she can't go to the jail without me, so grandmother's your job! Don't you see?"

So Barbara yielded—Phil thought she yielded very easily—and spent much time with her grandmother and old Mrs. Sentry by degrees for got to use toward her that tone of sharp disapproval which had so long been her habit toward both girls. There was during these weeks something deeply and wistfully appealing about Barbara. She was thin, her eyes seemed larger; her color had faded; she looked at people eagerly, anxiously, as though hoping someone would say—what no one ever did say. And Grandmother Sentry was very gentle toward her. "That child is ready to crack, Ellen. Look out for her."

Mrs. Sentry nodded. "I—do all I can!"

Grandmother Sentry sought in her own ways to serve; she welcomed Barbara, and welcomed Professor Brace, or Dan Fisher, when one or the other came with Barbara to be with her.

The old woman did not like Professor Brace, and she told Barbara so. "He's a Middle-Westerner, of course, but he's a rank Puritan at heart, Barbara. Believes in the mortification of the flesh or something of the kind. Believes in duty. The wrong kind. If he were a Spartan he'd nurse a gnawing fox to his bosom. Any man with sense knows that you ought to dodge suffering when you can. He's the 'grin and bear it' type."

"He's been sort of nice," Barbara argued. "Standing by."

"I know. The boy stood on the burning deck! Anyone but a fool would dive overboard!"

"Whence all but him had fled," Barbara reminded her. "But there are a lot of us still on the burning deck, grandmother. And he doesn't have to stay. He's just doing it to be friendly."

"Like him, do you, child?"

"It's sort of nice to have friends—"

The old woman saw in the girl's eyes a secret terror, a mounting fear she had seen there before; and she was silent. Whenever they spoke of Mr. Sentry, and Barbara cried, "He didn't do it, grandmother!" old Mrs. Sentry always assented, always spoke quick reassurances. Barbara was grown so pitifully frail . . .

Calculating Machines Used by Chinese Two Thousand Years Before Christ's Time

Two thousand years before Christ the Chinese knew the principle of the calculating machine: they used the Abacus, that educational plaything not seen so often now as a few years ago, says London Tit-Bits Magazine. They invented gunpowder and used it in brass cartridges long before the western bow and arrow stage. They found their way across vast oceans by using a form of compass.

The Arab pearl-divers of long ago forestalled modern science, too: they discovered a way to examine the ocean bed. They used a glass bowl, or funnel with a glass bottom, which they pressed down into the sea to enable them to locate pearl-shell beds.

The ancient people called the Cholos, of Peru, knew and practiced something that is today only a theory, much debated among doctors and laymen. Fierce wordy battles are being fought on the question of Euthanasia. The Cholos had an official named the Despenador, freely translated "Putter out of Pain." The Despenador was a woman, and her duty, when all efforts to save the life of a pain-wracked dying person had failed, was to thrust her elbow into the breast or stomach of the patient until the merciful relief of death resulted.

One may wonder what was the basis of Shakespeare's suggestion "Hamlet," Act III, Scene 4: "Come, come, and sit you down; you shall not budge; You go not till I set you up a glass Where you may see the inmost part of you."

Had some alchemist or wizard man hinted at what is now known as X-ray photography?

Antaeus, Giant Wrestler

In Greek mythology Antaeus was a gigantic wrestler (son of Earth and Sea, Ge and Poseidon), whose strength was invincible so long as he touched the earth, and when he was lifted from it, his strength renewed by touching it again. It was Hercules who succeeded in killing this charmed giant, by lifting him from the earth and squeezing him to death.

Coast Coast

Men have walked from New York to California. The time that we find was made by amateur walker, Abraham Monteverde of Mays Landing, N. J. He left New York on May 19, 1929, and walked, via Philadelphia, to San Francisco, arriving there on July 24. He covered 3,415 miles in 79 days, 10 hours and 10 minutes. The former record of 80 days, 5 hours was by John Ennis. The famous walker, Edward P. Weston, made distance from New York to San Francisco in a little over 104 days in 1909.—Detroit News.

NEVER SLEEP ON AN "UPSET STOMACH"

Neutralize excess stomach acids to wake up feeling like a million

To relieve the effects of over-indigestion—escape "acid indigestion" next day—do this: Take 2 tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water—AT BEDTIME.

While you sleep, this wonderful alkalizer will be sweetening your stomach . . . easing the upset-feeling and nausea . . . helping to bring back a "normal" feeling. By morning you feel great.

Then—when you wake—take 2 more tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with orange juice.

That is one of the quickest, simplest, easiest ways to overcome the bad effects of too much eating, smoking or drinking. Thousands use it.

But—never ask for "milk of magnesia" alone—always ask for "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia."

WIFADASOS CLUB

Nov 8 the Wifadason Club met with Mrs. Ross Adamson with 8 members present. We were glad to have a former member, Mrs. John Anfill and Miss Lucille Koeninger as visitors. For entertainment the hostess had some cutworks and pillowcases for embroidering, which passed the time very pleasantly. The election of officers is in order. Results, Mrs. Newman, pres.; Mrs. Ruth Kempson, vice pres.; Miss Ola Curd, sec. treas.; Mesdames Adamson, Koeninger and McQueen, program committee. Next meeting will be with the customary Christmas tree and exchange of remembrances. No further business, the hostess served individual pumpkin pies and cocoa. Thus closed a very pleasant afternoon.

Mrs. O. R. Colwell returned as week from a visit in Lenora Okla.

Mrs. Brumley Honored

Mrs. Ed Kinnow entertained Thursday with a morning bridge party in her home in honor of Mrs. Rollie Brumley, who is moving to McCombs in the near future. The home was decorated with pretty autumn flowers. Mrs. Brumley was presented a lovely gift by the hostess. The bridge guests sat for prizes, which went to Mesdames Thompson and Ray.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames Brumley, Hooker, Burden, Thompson, Trimble, Simmons, Moffitt, Payne, Moran, Dishman, Dudley, Mitchell and Adamson, Meses Watkins and Reeves and the hostess. Out of town guests were Mesdames U. J. Boston and Bill Ray of Clarendon.

New Model City To Be Shown at New York Fair

NEW YORK (Special)—A magic carpet ride through space two miles above "Democracy," the perfectly integrated garden city of tomorrow, will feature the central theme exhibit of the New York World's Fair which opens April 30, 1939.

The exhibit, created by Henry Dreyfuss, industrial designer, will be dramatic in form. It will reach a stirring climax when, out of the distant skies above the floating audience, will troupe marching legions of workers, symbolizing the interdependence of man in modern civilization.

Nearer and nearer they will tramp, until the whole great of heaven is filled with towering figures, arms upraised, singing the song of tomorrow. As the final strains of this marching air die away, great streamers of colored light shoot forth from the zenith, drenching the sky from horizon to horizon in all the hues of the rainbow.

A Dramatic Show
This dramatic show will be housed in the eighteen-story Perisphere, companion structure to the 700-foot Trylon, which constitute the architectural focus of the Fair.

An entirely new method of projection, utilizing slides instead of film, will be employed to throw the moving figures on the spot. New methods of fluorescent lighting will be used.

The garden city itself will be a model—one of the largest ever built and the first to portray a full-size metropolis catering to a million people and complete in every last detail. This city of tomorrow will serve 1,000,000 people, but no one will live in it. Homes will be in suburban developments. Factories also will be located in satellite towns, and broad green belt areas will enclose both city and towns.

Model City Possible
City planners, engineers, architects, landscape architects, and art specialists and other experts collaborated on the design of "Democracy," and so accurate is the model that, according to Mr. Dreyfuss, it could be given concrete reality today, were sufficient funds available. Blueprints drawings have been made not only of street layouts, harbors, airports, and the fields and city centers, but of traffic, no-pollution-overpasses, bridges, hospitals, schools, bridges, and other landmarks.

The entrance to the model exhibit will be through the side of the Perisphere. City features above the ground level will be seen by means of the projection. Visitors will see the city in this manner. Visitors will see the city in this manner. Visitors will see the city in this manner.

Basketball

The Hedley Owls tangled with the Goodnight Buffalos Thursday night in a hard fought battle at Goodnight. The warmup was hot; red hot because Goodnight wore red suits.

Watt started the girls game rolling with two free shots soon after the ball was put into play. Goodnight followed suit and tied the score 2 and 2. The next few minutes was tit for tat which 5-am was ahead. At the end of the first quarter the score stood 6 and 4 in favor of Goodnight. Watt again came to the rescue with a goal again tying the score in the second quarter. Captain Eotba Davis fouled off.

The score stood 16 and 12 in favor of the opposition at the half. The girls fought a hard battle with Goodnight leading with 9 points in the third quarter, the score 16 25.

The scores crept upward in the fourth quarter with Goodnight 8 points ahead. The game ended 21 to 29 in favor of the Buffalos.

The boys game was one of the fastest and most thrilling witnessed by the fans recently. The score of the first quarter 7 and 6 in favor of the Owls.

In the second quarter Goodnight scored leaving the score 7 to 9. Moore tied the score soon after. Both teams scored, leaving the score 11 and 11 at the half.

In the third quarter the Buffalos ran the score up 8 points. Hunt and Moore scored leaving the score 14 to 17 in favor of Goodnight. The quarter ended 14 to 21. Moore fouled off.

In the final quarter Edwards Hunt and Adamson ran the score up to 25. The game ended a tie, and in the playoff Goodnight scored winning the game 26-25. Better luck, team, when the Buffalos return this game.

Cotton Ginned

The three Hedley gins had ginned 2270 bales of cotton during the current season up to Wednesday noon.

Entertains

Too Late For Last Week

Mrs. Bill Seal entertained a group of young people at her home for Geraldine Land and Josie Plunk. The house was beautifully decorated with big Japanese lanterns and witches everywhere, and cats too. If you don't believe in spooks you should have been here and seen what we saw because if you had seen those spooks they certainly would have changed your mind for you. The witch and gypsy were spooky too. After the gypsy had looked into our future we decided life wasn't so bad after all. A spook next gave us sacks of popcorn. What fun it was trying to catch apples and marshmallows dangling in mid air. They really did taste good when our teeth finally caught hold. Numerous other games we enjoyed by Herman Smith, Wilma Cavender, J. M. Dickson, Mattie Irene Mobley, Truell Huffman, Billy Johnson, Camilla Dorothy, Jane Kirkpatrick, Chaney Ruth Kay, Billy Bridges, Jane Ruth Hall, Joel Plunk, Betty Hoover, R. E. Alexander, Peggy Dorothy Jack Edwards, Billy Biffle, Adell Myers, Keith Bain, Ralph Alewine, U. L. McQueen, Mary Sue Scales, Mrs. Plunk, Mrs. Rosie Land, Geraldine Land, Josie Plunk and the host and hostess.

Ladies, those club gifts from 6c to have arrived at Hooker Variety Store, and it would please us very much to get to sell you some of them.
