Old Settlers' Picnic

The old settlers of Donley County held their annual picnic last Friday at the Tate Grove.

H. Mulvey furnished sound equipment and was master of ceremonies.

The program opened with music by the Clarendon high school band. E. H. Watt of Giles gave the welcome address, to which Claude Wells of Memphis responded.

Rev. Walter Patterson was in charge of the old time singing, assisted by Newt Waldron, and several quartets and other numbers were given.

In the business session Uncle Billy Rains finally persuaded his friends to "pass a good thing on" and a new president, Tom Tate, was chosen. Mr. Rains has been a good president and has served faithfully since the association was started in 1931. M. W. Mesley was chosen vice president and Mrs. Joe Crawford was re-elected secretary treasurer.

After the invocation by Rev. Patterson the crowd, estimated at over a thousand, gathered at the tables and enjoyed a bountiful basket dinner. After all had eaten, plenty of feed remained for another meal.

Among the afternoon's speakers were Judge Henry S. Bishop of Amarillo; John Stroud, who was dressed as a "hick" and entertained the crowd; Vance Johnson, the "Line Rider" of the Amarillo News and "Stuttering Sam" of Amarillo.

J. M. Christian of Emerson, Ark., sang an old time song from the 4 note book.

The Clarendon Lions Club brought dinner and held their meeting on the platform after lunch.

Music was furnished by the Yellowjacket orchestra and by Pete Chandler's orchestra of Wellington.

A collection was taken up for the expenses of the association, which amounted to $30.

Rev. Patterson states that they appreciate the help of the musicians and singers who helped to make the program a success.

School days again! With new hope and new determination the boys and girls of the community will begin a new year's work fully expecting to accomplish for themselves a year of real development and growth. Growth in knowledge, character, work habits and personality. With these growths aims in mind, the administration is working hard to have plans complete this week for providing a year of opportunity. The consummation of these plans will be realized through the united efforts of the parents, pupils and teachers and at the close of the year we should be able to say that we have made a valuable contribution to the growth of the citizenship.

The opening exercises will be dedicated to that group which will be entering school for the first time. The Beginners Come out and make their first day in school a memorial one.

The transportation set up will consist of one bus which will make the usual southward run and back on the highway to the schoolhouse where it will unload. # FDR Still Grips Public Fancy After 6 Years in Limelight

Unpredictable Now as in 1933, President May Run for Third Term If Success Seems Likely

By JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Six years ago came March 4 Franklin Roosevelt kissed the Holy Bible and promised to defend the United States constitution. Those six years have been the most unpredictable, topsyturvy years in modern American history, because an unpredictable man has been President.

Once surrounded by a aura of quiet dignity, the White House has emerged a nerve center of the nation, the local point of more eyes and ears than ever before watched a chief executive in his house of glass.

Six years of Roosevelt have jarred America from its inertia—whatever else you may say about the New Deal—and made people think about their government in terms of economics instead of politics. They have made the most conservative Republicans realize that a growing democracy must be a changing democracy, though not necessarily with so many changes as Mr. Roosevelt has offered. That's a matter for debate.

But the most amazing feature is that six years have not dulled America's interest in this so-called New Deal. Whether pro or con, arguments are still as heated, still filled with as much fresh fighting fodder as in the days of "apple soup" and the blue eagle. The answer lies not in the people but in the man, a President whose impulsiveness, whose quicksilver mind and aptness at sensing the public trend has kept foe and friend in a six-year dither.

Still a Mystery Man

Franklin Roosevelt has shattered more precedents than all his predecessors put together, and in some cases it was a fine idea. Since the day he flew dramatically from Albany to Chicago and accepted the presidential nomination, he has been administering constant psychological rabbit punches to the national vertebrae. Yet, after six years of the most withering publicity any man ever experienced, he remains an enigma whose personal habits and mental processes are misunderstood by the millions who follow him.

There have been simple suspicions, as when the Supreme court enlargement plan fell like a bench bomb, or when the White House tried to "purge" undesirable Democrats in last year's election. More recent has been the series of judicial appointments in direct defiance of a frowning, independent twenty-sixth congress.

At the time it seemed impossible that these unpopular moves should have originated with a mass psychologist, if such the President is. But they did, and still the average Roosevelt devotee does not know what Gen. Hugh S. Johnson discovered about the President. He is, says the outspoken "Ironhorse," a strict opportunist who will do anything if he thinks he can get away with it.

Loves the Spectacular

This impulsiveness goes to Mr. Roosevelt's flair for showmanship and the spectacular. He is probably the most convincing orator ever to occupy the White House, and if he seeks an audience with him anything might happen. As witness the Maryland "urge" speech last autumn when he departed from carefully worded manuscript to make public endorsement of Rep. David J. Lewis for the senatorial post then—as now—led by Millard Tydings.

There is evidence, however, that the Supreme court reorganization fiasco may not have been an impulsive, stubborn gesture. Though congress balked like an unbroken horse over this unheard-of proposal, it was stirred to passage of measure permitting retirement of justices at full pay. Subsequently, via deaths and retirement, Mr. Roosevelt has been able to fill four vacancies with "liberal" justices.

Generally speaking, the White House of Mr. Roosevelt's day knows what it's doing, thanks to new methods of gauging public sentiment. He isn't America's most widely traveled President for nothing; these excursions provide a choice method of getting reactions.

MOST PERSONABLE—The quick-witted President shares a joke with Vice President Garner at the Jackson day dinner in Washington shortly after congress convened.

Nor is Mr. Roosevelt's unprecedented use of the radio to no avail; from sheaves of telegraphic responses he learns how the wind is blowing.

Questions Visitors

Each day he reads 10 to 15 newspapers from scattered sections of the country. His incoming mail totals 4,000 letters a day compared with President Hoover's 400. A steady stream of callers files daily through the white doorway that has become the No. 1 interview and picture spot in Washington.

If six years have changed the nature of the Presidency, they have also changed domestic life in the White House itself. No less energetic and unpredictable than her husband is Mrs. Roosevelt, who has done considerable precedent shattering in her own right. Often away from home (she was recently found to be more popular than her husband), Mrs. Roosevelt leaves many ordinary duties in the hands of Miss Margaret LeHand, the "Missy" who doubles in brass as the President's secretary, guardian and sometimes hostess. Although the 1939 version executive mansion still, has its rigidly formal diplomatic banquets, a sample evening guest list is more apt to include a cabinet member, a novelist, a labor leader and two or three miscellaneous visitors.

MOST 'SPEECHABLE'—President Roosevelt's radio voice, among the best in the land, is not heard so frequently as during the first term. Here he addresses the Mobilization for Human Needs over a nation-wide radio hook-up.

Then, too, the President is a hobbyist. It takes a heap of shelf space to hold his ship models, and his stamp collection provides a fraternal tie with another group.

Popularity Still Stands

The essence of this discussion is that President Roosevelt still maintains his personal popularity even though most people think his New Deal has gone through the wringer via court rebuffs and congressional perverseness. Whether this has happened is debatable; most of his advocated principles have actually been adopted. Still to come, provided congress is willing, are more measures along these liberal lines, plus amendments and corrections to existing legislation.

The President maintains we were something like 30 years behind when he took office in 1933. Most of that time has been caught up but we're still a few years to go. Answering critics who maintain he has forced reforms too abruptly, Mr. Roosevelt points out that Lloyd George did an even more radical job in England 25 years ago.

Halfway through his second term, the President has yet to settle the issue of a third term, but keen observers think he really wants it. As before he will probably jump if the chances look good, and another precedent will go smash. The core of this problem is that he wants the New Deal program preserved above all else; if another man can do it, fine. If not it must be Roosevelt.

For obvious reasons this points to a third term. First, New Deal and Roosevelt are inseparable in the public mind. Second, last autumn's "purge" failure showed what the President's magnetic personality can do for himself, it cannot do for others.

But you can't make predictions—F. D. R. is unpredictable!

New Subway Car Has 3 Parts; Or Is It Three Cars in One?

NEW YORK—This month a weird looking 80-foot car will pop through Manhattan's subway tunnels, inaugurating a new era in rapid transit. Streamlined, noiseless and comfortable, it will attract even more attention because it's actually three cars in one!

The new unit was perfected after five years of research by scientists purposely chosen from outside the transportation field so they would not be hampered by traditional designs. It has three segments to reduce the weight on each axle of the four underlying trucks.

Specially lighted for reading and general illumination (two kinds), featuring thermostatically controlled temperature and air conditioning, the new cars will sit 84 people. It will stand 200. Working in automatic sequence are three types of brakes, the first utilizing the car's generators, the second a magnetic principle and third a mechanical process.

Light construction was emphasized in the car, built at Battle Creek, Mich., by the Clark Equipment company in co-operation with engineers of the Aluminum Company of America and the B. F. Goodrich company. A new type rubber spring was developed to support the body, resembling a rounded pyramid or a horizontally ridged cone whose ridges descend one by one when the body strikes a bump.

Wheels also use rubber to advantage in absorbing shock. Bouncing will be further reduced since the body is made of light-weight aluminum. Total weight on the rails is one-third less than that of conventional cars. With twice the power, they start and stop as fast as a large automobile. Proven successful in lowering operating and maintenance costs, the new rubber-protected trucks also increase speed and safety.

Star Dust

- ★ Brushing Off Old Scripts
- ★ Courting Our Neighbors
- ★ Got Breaks; Now Stars

By Virginia Vale

REMEMBER "June Moon"? It's going to return to the screen probably as "Lover Come Back to Me," with Nelson Eddy as its star, and perhaps with Miliza Korjus appearing opposite him. This is just one of the old pictures that will bob up before long in new versions. "Morocco," for instance, the first picture that Marlene Dietrich made in this country, with Gary Cooper as her leading man. Most of us think that it was also her best one. There may be a new "Show Boat." In fact, most of our old favorites will be back, for Hollywood is playing safe and brushing off many of the scripts that brought the public to the box office once upon a time.

Given different directors, stars and sets, they'll practically be new pictures.

When you see "Captain Fury," (with Brian Aherne, Victor McLaglen, and June Lang,) you will see special dances that are authentic of the hectic period of American colonization in which the story is laid. You old-timers will recognize Betty Blythe as the wife of a colonial secretary; she is one of the stars of the silent screen who still likes to appear before a camera occasionally.

There'll be old fashioned dances in "Wuthering Heights," too. The dance director who's responsible for them is Jack Crosby, who once was a cowboy, and then was a railroad fireman.

"Dancing Daughters" made a star of Joan Crawford, and may do the same for Virginia Grey. Metro is going to give her a chance at it, at least. And since the original version appeared in 1928, a new screen audience has grown up who won't feel homesick for Joan when they see the 1939 one.

The European market for films may be shot to pieces, but the Latin-American one is more important than ever. Movita, the Mexican actress who was last seen in "Rose of the Rio Grande," will have the same sort of role in "The Girl From Rio," and will sing songs in both English and Spanish.

RKO is whipping up "The Girl From Mexico" with Lupe Velez as the Star. No doubt all the other companies will blossom out with pictures intended to please our good neighbors in South America before the year is over.

Kay Francis will appear on the air in a full length play for the first time in March. She has made few broadcasts in the past, but may turn to radio more frequently if she sticks to her decision to turn her back on the movies.

Many a radio star can thank a lucky break for the boost that brought success. Lanny Ross is one of them. Ten years ago he wanted to join NBC's legal staff. They told him they were looking for singers, not lawyers. He auditioned as a singer, and to his amazement, was engaged. He's never returned to the law.

Gabriel Heatter leaped into national prominence as a commentator when he handled the Hauptmann trial, although he'd been doing an excellent job long before that. Paul Whiteman just happened to hear Joan Edwards singing one day in a music publisher's office, and engaged her to sing with his band. Mark Warnow was a violinist in an orchestra that accompanied Morton Downey. One day the leader was ill, and Warnow substituted for him, with the result that Downey insisted that he conduct all his broadcasts from that time on.

ODDS AND ENDS—This year's winter carnival at Dartmouth college will save Walter Wanger some money; he's sending a crew of technicians to record plenty of it for background material for his picture, "Winter Carnival." . . . Samuel Goldwyn will use a large cast of unknown players in "Thirteen Go Flying," which will be based on the recent crash of the British flying boat "Cavalier." © Western Newspaper Union.

What to Eat and Why

Advice to Homemakers on How to Feed Families During Coldest Days of Winter; Essential Nutritive Values Described in Terms of Everyday Foods

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

TOWARD the end of winter we sometimes experience some of the coldest weather of the entire season. Temperatures remain below freezing for days at a time. The air is often raw and penetrating, and blustery winds make it seem as if man is being persecuted by nature.

Moreover, this trying weather comes after months of short and often sunless days . . . days which many people have spent in overheated houses, and without sufficient exercise. So it is no wonder that the body is on trial . . . fighting to maintain health . . . to avoid the colds and other respiratory diseases that are so prevalent. This is, perhaps, one season when food has a mightier power than at any other time to influence physical well-being.

Food Your First Defense

In general, women seem to be more aware of the power of food than men. This is fortunate, because they are charged with the solemn responsibility of determining what foods their families shall eat. Since the right food sometimes makes the difference between sickness and health their husbands and children are the unhappy losers if they fail to recognize the need for even one essential food substance.

Occasionally the homemaker's task is made more difficult by men-folks who pooh-pooh the idea that meals should be planned scientifically, and who point out that generation after generation survived without a specific knowledge of nutrition.

People who hold this view fail to take into consideration that many of our ancestors consumed a satisfactory diet without knowing it.

Safeguarding Health

They should realize also that one can suffer from dietary deficiencies and live . . . though he may not live well! A man can exist upon much less than the amount of iron required for normal health . . . but he probably cannot escape secondary anemia. He may be able to get along on a meager supply of vitamins . . . but the chances are that his vitality will be greatly diminished. And he will face the constant threat of disease that follows in the wake of lowered resistance.

Nothing is more foolish than to suppose that what a man eats is entirely his own business! It is a matter of grave concern to his wife and children. For it has been suggested that fully one-half of the illnesses of the American people may be traceable directly, or indirectly, to dietary deficiencies.

Let no man, therefore, twit his wife for trying to feed him correctly!

Time for Good Eating

But don't imagine for a moment that correct eating and good eating cannot be synonymous. It is true that there is no time of year when correct eating is more important. But it is also a fact that there is no time of year when good eating is more distinctly indicated.

These are the days when breakfasts must be especially hearty . . . to satisfy keen appetites, to provide generous amounts of fuel or energy values. That means cereals always, and some form of breadstuff, pancakes or waffles.

Cereals are primarily energy foods, but they may also carry substantial amounts of precious mineral salts and vitamin B.

Rounding Out Day's Nutrition

Whether the third meal of the day is lunch or supper in your household, it should round out the day's nutrition. If you need to get more milk into the diet, let your lunch or supper include a cream soup. If you haven't served eggs previously during the day, choose a soufflé or a dish containing creamed eggs. A starchy food, a salad, a dessert and a beverage will complete a meal that both satisfies the appetite and meets nutritional requirements.

Let the balanced diet be your ideal—and cold weather will prove a tonic instead of a possible menace to health!

Taking aim again, he fired, and again missed miserably.

"And that," he exclaimed, "is how you, Hardaker, and you, Phillips, do it."

In despair he again took aim and fired, and managed to score a bull.

In U. S. Alone of All World Is There Real Freedom of Speech

Disturbing Signs Recently Indicate All Is Not Well; Administration Tirades Against Press Become Frequent; Concerted Effort to Get Rid of Critics.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—One of America's greatest and most glorious traditions is the jealousy with which its citizens guard the right of free speech and a free press.

There have been some signs lately, however, that are disturbing. I do not mean to over-emphasize them by a discussion of them, but the greatest lesson that I have learned is that the American people will correct conditions, or prevent their development, if they know what the facts are and find them adverse.

During the last several months, there have been frequent tirades against the press of the nation. Some of the denunciations have come from President Roosevelt in reply to press criticism of some of his policies.

Administration Seeks to Get Rid of the Critics

Now to turn abruptly from one phase of the situation to another, attention should be directed to the recent bill introduced in the senate by Senator Wheeler, the Montana Democrat.

There can be no doubt that the federal communications commission is shot through with dissension. There is no doubt that it has developed one of the worst messes in government supervision of any industry.

Well, you ask, how does this have anything to do with President Roosevelt's denunciation of the newspapers. Where does it touch free speech that may be adverse to the New Deal administration?

The answer lies in a belief, now held by a great many observers in Washington, that somewhere in the administration is a concerted effort to get rid of the critics.

Radio News Commentators Eliminated From Air Waves

Some things have happened lately that bear recounting. Just as an example, and to cite only one case, Boake Carter is off of the air as a news commentator.

There have been frequent recurrences of the rumor, too, that W. J. Cameron, who speaks for the Ford Motor company, was marked by administration trouble shooters as a speaker who ought to be eliminated from the air waves.

ed from the air waves. Mr. Cameron continues on the air. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA boss, is a pain in the neck for the New Deal as well, but nothing has happened to him, yet.

Other rumors of the type could be mentioned, but I was asked how any body in the government would dare to interfere. The same letter asked how such ends could be achieved.

A few paragraphs earlier, I referred to governmental supervision, licensing, etc. That is the answer to the question. Any radio station gets a license for only a short period. Renewal of that license depends, according to law, upon compliance with federal communications commission regulations and the law's provisions.

President's Trusted Adviser Drafts Reorganization Bill

So, to link the Roosevelt denunciation of newspapers and the Wheeler radio bill, one has only to know that Chairman Frank McNinch, the President's most trusted radio adviser, largely drafted the Wheeler reorganization bill.

Plant for a CROP not for a sample!

TIPS to Gardeners

Helping Seeds Along

THE first step toward insuring germination of seeds is proper planting.

In exceptionally dry weather, however, even properly planted seeds may not germinate. It is advisable in such a case to prepare the dry soil for the seed.

Excessive rainfall, on the other hand, may make the soil so moist as to cause rotting. If seeds have not germinated within a reasonable length of time after planting, a few of them should be dug up and examined.

While few vegetable seeds require special treatment to assure germination, numerous flower seeds can successfully be treated, according to Harry A. Joy, flower expert.

He advises as follows: Nick the seed coat of lupin, moonflower and morning glory; remove the tough outer coating of nasturtium, mormordica, castor bean and sand verberna; soak canna lily, job's tear and sweet pea seeds in water for 12 hours before planting.

The Wifadasos Club met with Mrs. D. K. Hall Aug 15 with 9 members present. Two others joined. Misses Lucille Koeninger and Velma Collier. We were glad to have Mesdames Killian and Killingsworth as visitors. The time was passed very pleasantly in fixing a quilt for Mrs. Hall and the usual conversation and exchange of ideas. Toward evening Mrs. Newman, pres., called the house to order, and we repeated the Lord's prayer in unison. After the business was disposed of, the hostess served cake and ice cream, which were both very fine. The meeting adjourned to meet with Mrs. Reese Sept 12 in an all day meeting.
