Jim Miller Dies

Jim Miller, 64 years of age, passed away Thursday afternoon in the home of his sister, Mrs. Eula Cox, in Clarendon, after a lengthy illness. He had been a resident of Donley county for 30 years.

Funeral services were held Monday from the Clarendon Methodist church by Rev. J. O. Quastbaum, assisted by Rev. G. T. Palmer. Burial was in the Clarendon cemetery.

He is survived by one son, Stanley, of Washington, D. C. He was a brother of Mrs. T. E. Moreman of Hedley.

The Informer extends sincere sympathy to the bereaved.

Baptist Church Notes

The writer of these notes was out of town last week, therefore the notes for last week were not written. We appreciate the inquiries about this absence. We thank the editor for printing them each week. They are written for the good of man and for the glory of God.

The attendances the past two Sundays has been above normal. We need twice as many as we had last Sunday to be regular in attendance. There are plenty of people and more in this community to make it so.

The Easter program Sunday evening was one of the most beautiful and impressive services we have seen in a long time. It was thought provoking, soul warming and heart searching. The person who does not have the hope expressed in the Easter message is surely a miserable creature. "It is a message of hope in a world of despair."

The large crowd present for the Easter program was indeed inspiring. We always welcome visitors. We like company at church. Company which keeps church members away from church are sinners. Church members who let company keep them out of their place are not very good church members. Attend church regularly!

A word of appreciation is due those who made possible the good program. Mrs. Sosies, Mrs. Bridges, Mrs. Payne and Mrs. Teaff worked long and hard in getting the stage ready. The other teachers of the elementary department and the parents helped by teaching the children their parts and in making it possible for them to be present for practice and for the program. A word of thanks is due all of those who had a part in the program. It was a program which will not soon be forgotten.

The Easter Egg Hunt was a success if eggs and children mean anything. There were seventy five children to hunt several large sacks full of eggs. The Sunbeam Band leader and the officers and teachers of the elementary Sunday School department sponsored this egg hunt and served the children cookies and punch.

Eleven were present for Bible Study Monday afternoon at Mrs. Payne's home. Pastor Teaff taught a lesson from the fifth chapter of Ephesians.

Remember the Revival beginning Sunday April 20, next Sunday. Pray for it! Come to it! Bring others!

"I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ; for it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth."

A. L. Teaff, pastor

PAVING FOR HEDLEY

A group of business men met with the City Council last Thursday night to discuss the possibility of getting street paving for Hedley. It was stated that we can secure this paving with government help by putting up cash amounting to about one third of the total cost of the project.

The paving is undoubtedly needed, and the only thing necessary to secure it, will be for the people of Hedley to make some small sacrifices in order to contribute.

J. W. Noel and Ted Dudley are in charge of raising money for the project. If they have not seen you, go to them and offer your support. Any checks given them will not be cashed until the paving contract is let.

Whether you live in town or in the country, a paved Main street in Hedley will benefit you. Projects are favorable for completion of the project, so come in and do your part.

Entertains

The Woman's Culture club entertained the 1919 Study club last Tuesday with a dinner in the basement of the Methodist church. Following the dinner a travelogue was given for the study club and other guests by George Bagby of Clarendon.

All present enjoyed the evening very much.

NOTICE

County Agent H. M. Breedlove asks us to announce that the mattress plant here is again open, and that all who are eligible to get mattresses are urged to come in and see about them.

Mr and Mrs O. G. Anderson of Quail announce the arrival on Friday, April 11, of a fine little daughter, weight 6.5 lbs. She has been named Glenda Edna.

Among the college students home for Easter holidays we see Jerry Hunt and Calvin Reed of Abilene, Ralph Alwine of Brownwood, Clay Fink, Craig Johnson and Ed Varay of Lebock, Misses Theresa Bain, Inell Biffle and Mary Rains Bridges of Canyon.

T. B. Downing and family moved this week to Alvord, where they will make their home.

E. M. McQueen was brought home Sunday from a Memphis hospital, where he has been quite ill.

Messrs. and Mesdames Ray and Ralph Moreman attended the funeral of Jim Miller at Clarendon Monday.

Mrs. W. E. Luttrell has moved to Berger where she will make her home.

Mr and Mrs Carroll Deahl of Berger, Mr and Mrs E. E. Mann and Jean Ray Moreman left Sunday for a trip to Virginia.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

Terrific Fighting Marks Nazi Thrust Into Yugoslavia and Greek Territory; British Lose Bengasi to Axis Forces But Capture Addis Ababa in Ethiopia

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

BALKAN DRIVE: Under Way

With Adolf Hitler's charge to "carry the war to Britain wherever she may be" ringing in their ears, the Nazi soldiers that make up his armies smashed across the frontiers of Yugoslavia and Greece.

Early reports of the fighting in the Balkans were vague, scattered, incomplete. Nazi claims indicated that their movements were on schedule. Greek sources at first claimed the Nazi heavily armored machine was bogging down.

One of the first objectives by the German forces was reached when armored troops and parachutists reported they had broken through to the Aegean sea in eastern Greece. This movement was greeted by military experts to cut off Greece from her potential ally, Turkey.

Even as the German troops moved toward the Yugoslavian and Greek borders announcement was made that Russia and Yugoslavia had signed a new "non-aggression" pact. British were hopeful that this was further indication of what appeared to be a trend of Soviet movement away from the Hitler sphere of influence.

In Yugoslavia before the fighting began there were last minute moves to "placate Berlin," and a last-minute notice from Berlin that these peace overtures "came too late." But Yugoslavia apparently was standing for something far bigger and wider than her own narrow physical confines. Yugoslavia was becoming a byword for courage and daring throughout a jittery world.

Particularly was this noticeable in shaky spots like certain South American countries which saw in the sudden reversal of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes against the government which had signed up with the Axis a sign that Nazi Germany might not have a sinecure in conquering Europe.

They saw that even in the midst of the Nazi-dominated Balkans a certain country, surrounded on four sides by enemies, could have the bravery to stand up to these enemies and to defy them, with all their superior power, to cross their rocky borders.

Not that anyone figured the Yugoslavs would be a "pushover" for the Nazis, in fact, the Nazi position was none too good, for most of the terrain held by them was hostile, and Britain, with 10 to 15 divisions of men, well provided with armored equipment and airplanes, were dug in just south of the Bulgarian border,

C. Fotitch, Yugoslav minister, leaves the White House after calling upon President Roosevelt to thank him for his message to the boy monarch of Yugoslavia, King Peter.

ready to give Yugoslavia and Greece more than lip-service if, as, and when the attack should come.

What part the United States was playing could not be said, although President Roosevelt said that lease-lend aid was being sent to "more than one country," which might include Britain and Greece, or Britain and Yugoslavia, or all three.

Just before the statement from the White House was made, however, the President had conferred with the Yugoslavian minister.

How well prepared Yugoslavia was seemed to be a moot point. Food was short, but so it was in all the Balkans—in all Europe, for that matter. The numbers of the army were large, estimated at from 1,200,000 to 1,500,000, but these figures the Battle of France showed might mean much or little.

There were many who believed that the Yugoslavs, who have the advantage of having the crucial Danube river run through a portion of their country, the part of the river which is so rapid and hemmed in by mountains that a canal bears shipping at that point, might explode huge charges of TNT in the mountainsides and render river and canal unfit for shipping for many months.

Already they had blown up many important bridges in the valley of Vardar and shown a grim determination to make a fight out of it at all points.

BRITISH: Lose Bengasi

The evacuation of Bengasi, capital and port of Libya, was admitted by the British, who reported that the withdrawal was "according to plan" and that Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell was merely "picking his battleground" on which to meet the Nazi-reinforced Fascist troops.

Later dispatches seemed to indicate that the Australia-New Zealand army in Africa had halted the Nazi-Italian drive, for it was said that the situation was well in hand, and the shooting down of six German planes and the damaging of two others was reported officially.

However, on the same day came war office warnings to the British public not to be surprised if there were further withdrawals, saying that it was officially doubted if the "halting" of the German-Italian advance was permanent.

Better news for the British however was the announcement that the Ethiopian capital of Addis Ababa had been taken from the Italians without a struggle. This capture came as a climax to eleven weeks of hard fighting to smash Italian African empire to bits.

IRAQ: Stages Coup

There was a military coup d'etat in Iraq, historic Bagdad being the scene of a governmental overthrow staged by army forces led by Rashid Ali Gailani.

The coup was viewed differently in various quarters, Bagdad itself, two days later, announcing that one of the main features of the new government would be fulfillment of all international obligations, particularly with Britain.

This is Emir Abdul Ilah, regent of Iraq, who ruled for five-year-old King Feisal II and is reported deposed and fleeing for life after the military coup d'etat.

Previously it had been hinted in dispatches from London, passed by the censor, quoting Soviet circles in London as saying that it was believed the coup d'etat was inspired by the Axis, and that the objective was going to be the establishment of Nazi air bases in Iraq.

This naturally was disquieting to London, as if carried out it would place Nazi airplanes in a position of dangerous proximity to the Red Sea and the Suez canal, the defense of which had been going well for Britain.

STRIKES: Mostly CIO

The calling of a strike against the plants of "Big Steel," the United States Steel corporation, by C.I.O. unions proved that the labor situation was still acute, although the soft coal strike was settled, and the men went back to work digging the important fuel out of the ground.

Just 48 hours before the settlement was reached, four men were slain to death in Harlan, Ky., a bloody center of previous strike fighting. Just before the settlement of the bituminous coal strike, it was estimated that 530,000 men were out of work in the United States as the result of strikes, adding considerably to the number of man-days lost in the national defense.

Wally Murray, head of the C.I.O., called the strike against U. S. Steel, declaring that the companies had refused to heed a demand for a 10-cent an hour wage increase. The company has 261,000 wage earners. The C.I.O. also wants a closed shop.

The Ford strike had closed the biggest single industrial plant in the nation, employing 86,000 workers. The gates were marked by many scenes of violence as pickets battled with workers.

Back of these front-line scenes were back-stage battles. The Ford counsel obtained an injunction against the strikers, and the strikers promptly subpoenaed Henry Ford, Edsel Ford and Manager Bennett to appear in court.

The next move saw Ford Attorney Calvani making a court motion that all labor board citations against the company be thrown out as the C.I.O. union was dominated by Communists.

'Social' Work

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—Grace Billotti, YWCA social worker, demonstrates the speaking pose she will use in campaigning against Mayor Frank Hague, Democratic boss and mayor of this city since 1917. In the last election, Hague received 110,700 as against the best GOP showing of 6,700, which shows what "social" work Miss Billotti is up against.

AFTERMATH: Of Seizure

The ordering back to Italy of Naval Attache Alberto Lais of the Italian legation was a sensational aftermath of the seizure in American harbors of Italian and German vessels.

The first step was the seizure of the vessels and the jailing of 875 members of the Fascist and Nazi crews. This was closely followed by the revelation in the state department that Lais would be declared "persona non grata" to the American government and that his return to Italy would be demanded.

Lais had previously described himself as more than 75 per cent American and he is married to an American woman and their handsome daughter lives with them in Washington.

But Secretary Hull's report, which gave no details, showed plainly that Lais' "25 per cent Italian" heart had prevailed on him to participate actively in the attempted sabotage of the Fascist vessels.

This, the secretary said, was an unfriendly and illegal act, and for that his recall was demanded. Mr. Hull also revealed that the United States had sent a flat and uncompromising "No" to the Axis demand that the ships be returned and the crews released.

Yet it was not expected anything would be done with the vessels until the incident had had time to cool down.

It was not the only serious naval reverse for Italy, the British having claimed that they had practically put Il Duce's fleet out of commission in the Mediterranean, declaring that nine vessels, including two battleships, had been sunk, besides others believed put out of action due to damages suffered in the naval battle.

CONVOY: Big Issue

The question of whether or not American naval forces should convoy war shipments to Britain was becoming very much of a moot question in congress, with indications that the anti-convoys vote would lose.

It had been confidently predicted that American naval ships would convoy shipments to Britain "at least halfway across the Atlantic." Senator Tobey, chief opponent of this plan, even during the debate of the lease-lend bill, had a bill to ban convoys slated for consideration before the senate foreign relations committee.

But a poll of the committee showed that only 8 out of 23 committeemen would support the measure.

Yet President Roosevelt said discussion of the matter, in press conferences "was premature." It still seemed, however, likely that the Tobey resolution against convoying would not be allowed to die in committee, as many members felt that a senate vote would be the only way of settling the question once and for all.

Chairman George of the committee had repeatedly said that he would not favor American convoying unless the nation was actively and formally in the war. Senator Pepper, an ardent advocate of aid to Britain, had taken the stand that other methods, giving of convoying ships to Britain, ought to be tried before convoying is resorted to.

The mere appearance of the question out in the open air, however, showed that a probable campaign of preparation of the public mind for convoying was going on.

This attitude of bowing to the administration's lease-lend powers was expressed by Senator Gillette, I.-A., who said that while he did not favor convoying himself, he was unwilling to stand in the way of the President's full administration of British aid.

While the lease-lend bill states specifically that nothing in the bill can be construed as giving the President the authority to order American convoying, legal authorities in Washington said they were of the opinion that he has that power as head of the army and navy.

NEW IDEAS

For Home-makers By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

THE pink and green chintz covered boxes on these closet shelves are lined with plain green cambric and they are hinged so that the front may be opened without taking off the lid. Any box of good stiff cardboard may be hinged and covered in this way. Library paste may be used. Use adhesive tape to hinge the boxes. Cut the box lid straight across with a sharp knife three inches from the front edge. Cut out the front of the box and hinge the pieces in place. Now, cut and paste the covering pieces, as directed in the sketch. Apply the paste on both the back of the fabric and the box and smooth the material in place with a dry, clean cloth. Cover sides first with fabric straight around and about 1/2 inch over edges; then cover top and bottom; then the inner sides with the plain fabric 1/4 inch below the edges and 1/4 inch over the top and bottom; then cover the top and bottom inside.

Assembly

The assembly program Thursday, April 10 was given by boys and girls of the three primary grades.

Grade One, Mrs. Mary Reast, teacher:

The First Grade gave a group of singing games and folk dances under the title, "Some Ways We Play."

Grade Two, Mrs. Myrtle Tindley, teacher.

The Second Grade gave three numbers: 1. A dance by the girls The Ace of Diamonds, 2. Two rhythm band numbers by the whole group, The Ace of Diamonds and Amaryllis, 3. A playlet, Our Country's Flag.

Grade Three, Miss Dorothy Matthis, teacher:

Members of the third grade followed with a reenactment of a plantation party with the customary trimmings, square dance, plantation songs and fiddle band. Two solo selections were rendered by Delbert Lannford and Rowena Burdine. Solo leads were taken in group singing by Jerrol Peters, Jess Howell, Doll Palmer and Ted Spring. A boys quartet consisting of Julian Hunsacker, Doll Palmer, Jimmy Owens and Delbert Langford sang two songs, one a novelty with Lloyd Leeper taking the solo part.

Senior Banquet

The seniors wish to take this opportunity to express their thanks for the banquet given them by the women of the Baptist Church. Especially do we wish to thank our toast mistress, Mrs. H. Moffitt, president of the W. M. U., Mrs. Maak Sims, and the program committee, Mrs. Harrison Hall, Mrs. Lola Dishman, Mrs. Chas. Rains and Mrs. W. C. Payne.

The welcome address was given by Rev. Teaff and the response by V. A. Hansard, president of the Senior class.

Next our toast mistress entertained us with a few witticisms. After the first course was served

Most Popular Girl

Through a contest sponsored by the class of '41, Josie Plunk was elected the most popular girl in high school. Among those contesting for the honor were Ida Lou Johnson, Peggy Doherty, Jane Ruth Hall, Dorothy Jean Fisherman, and the winner, Josie Plunk. These contestants were chosen by the vote of the student body and the winner was presented between the second and third acts of the Senior play, Friday evening.

Josie is an honor member of the Senior class, a member of the basketball team, and had been previously elected to the "Who's Who of Texas High Schools." Her picture will be hung in the study hall for the remainder of the term.

This a great honor and we all congratulate Josie.

At Least Stern Parent Had Son's Rapt Attention

Father had decided that he must administer a strict lecture to his six-year-old son. The boy had been naughty, but did not seem to appreciate the fact, and it was with some reluctance that the parent undertook a scolding.

He spoke judiciously but severely; he recounted the lad's misdeeds, and explained the whys and wherefores of his solemn rebuke. His wife sat by, duly impressed.

Finally, when the father paused for breath, and, incidentally to hear the culprit's acknowledgment of error, the lad, his face beaming with admiration, turned to his mother and said: "Mother isn't father interesting?"

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

Axis Powers Protest U. S. 'Custody' Of Ships Seized in American Ports; Jugoslavia Aims at National Unity In Program of Anti-German Activity

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

AXIS SHIPS: Protective Custody

Protest from the Axis powers was not long in coming following seizure by the United States of some 69 German, Italian and Danish merchant ships docked in American ports.

According to federal officials the ships were seized for "protective custody" on the grounds of sabotage. Finding definite traces of systematic sabotage, the navy's intelligence service started the chain of events that led to the seizures.

One explanation of the action came from Herbert Gaston, assistant secretary of the treasury, who said the move was "protective" and aimed to "prevent the further wreaking of damage which would constitute a menace to American ships and traffic being carried on in the harbors of the United States."

When the seizures were made there was found plenty of evidence to back up the suspicion of sabotage. Many of the ships' crews had wrecked the machinery of their vessels to the point where getting them out of port was impossible.

German and Italian embassies in Washington issued the first notes of protest to the state department but did not immediately disclose their contents. From Rome and Berlin came unofficial reports that the move had a most serious aspect to the foreign powers.

ROOSEVELT: Hits Out

President Roosevelt took time off from a fishing trip off Florida to hit out at antagonists of freedom, liberty and the pursuit of the ideals of the present administration by going ashore at Port Everglades, Fla., and broadcasting a punch-packed message to the American people who were clinging to their firesides as

JUGOSLAVIA: Challenge

The sudden and almost bloodless upset in the government of Jugoslavia was a challenge to popular imagination. In the briefest of intervals the people rose against the Vienna-signed Axis pact, overturned the government, placed Regent Prince Paul and his mates under military arrest, and seized the power.

Yet there was not an immediate turnaround, and though the British and American press welcomed the overturn with joy, it was evident to close observers that it was too early to toss hats in the air and to say that Hitler had been outfaced.

The Nazis immediately, it is true, demanded a clarification of the Jugoslav attitude toward the action of the predecessor government, nay, the Nazis handed it out in the form of an ultimatum.

Yet there was deep doubt over the whole situation. How sincere, demanded the watchers, were the Jugoslavs in their about-face?

Was the nation, ringed about on three sides by hostile powers, and with aid from the British and the United States, though promised, entirely problematical, going to stand up to the Nazi threat of armed invasion, not only from the west, with German troops, but from the north, also, with the Fascist legions?

Here a Nazi soldier and Rumanian sailor are shown on guard duty on the Black sea. If a general Balkan conflict results from the Jugoslavian defiance of Hitler Germany might have to contend with Russia, which, like Rumania, has a border on the Black sea.

Early in the diplomatic move there was evidence that the people were wholeheartedly in favor of the United States and Britain—that they were not willing to ally themselves with those who were inclined to question the early shouts of Long Live Britain and Long Live Russia which were heard side by side in the streets of Belgrade.

Russia and Britain were not openly allies. What did this mean? Did it mean that the Jugoslav people had secret information that Russia had turned against Germany? Did it mean that the dispatches saying Russia had lined up against Germany, had refused oil to the Nazis since last September meant that something reminiscent of the Treaty of Tilsit had occurred.

Or did it simply mean that along with the shouts for Britain there had been Communists shouting for Russia? Soon after the governmental overturn there was evident the fact that the Croats, Serbs and Slovenes, the integral parts of Jugoslavia, were not as one on the issue.

But later reports indicated that Jugoslavian national unity had been reached in opposition to the Axis powers.

R. A. F.: Rampage

The Royal Air Force, taking advantage of every break in the weather, and with a fine disregard of increasingly heavy attacks by the Luftwaffe, carried out repeated daylight attacks and night bombings over Germany and the occupied territories.

British pilots claimed that they had skimmed 20 feet over roof tops in France and Belgium and while machine-gunning military objectives had witnessed the heartening sight of the populace waving them on from the ground.

The story was told how speedy little RAF fighter planes, attacking in pairs, swooped down to fire blasts at railways, roads, shipping and German planes on the runways.

So complete, was the British report, of the RAF mastery of the situation, that not one German fighter rose to challenge them and not even anti-aircraft fire was encountered.

However that might be, German sources did admit that the bombings on Bremen and other key cities had been serious, though minimizing damage of military importance

STRIKES: Menace

When deputy sheriffs were sent to guard the CIO-stripped International Harvester Co. plant at Richmond, Ind., they equipped themselves with football helmets and strong clubs, as shown above.

As a deep basso profundo background to the President's talk was the American strike situation, and there was little doubt that the Chief Executive's blasts were headed in that direction.

The great Allis-Chalmers strike, laid in the lap of the Dykstra-headed mediation board, was ordered settled pending negotiations, but on the reopening day, after some 500 employees had fired up the furnaces and had prepared the heat-treating equipment to handle the vital defense metals, less than 1,250 out of 7,800 workers on the first shift turned out. The company claimed that 1,250 showed up, but the union said it was a scant 400.

But the mediation board was rolling up its sleeves. Even as the Allis-Chalmers workers voted a continuation of the strike, claiming that Knox and Knudsen had worked a conspiracy against them, the walk-out at Plainfield, N. J., was halted, the strike at Bethlehem Steel was settled, and there was evidence that Dr. Dykstra might succeed where Francis Perkins and her conciliators had failed.

The secretary of the navy and the production manager of the nation's defense had charged that the Allis-Chalmers strike was the result of fraudulent balloting. The union's reply was that this was a conspiracy to do labor out of its right.

The union refused to go back to work, throwing a defy in the teeth of the mediation board, while $45,000,000 in defense orders lay idle in the factory.

There was no question but that the Allis-Chalmers walkout was the crux and heart of the whole American labor situation, stormy and severe. On it rested the whole government hope of controlling the situation without cracking down on labor in some drastic fashion, without robbing labor of its hard-won gains over a score of years, without forcing the plant to fall into the defense line despite the "under the law" labor difficulty.

Again the issue was not one of wages, primarily, but one of union membership, one of those technical issues which left the general public cold to the reason for which the strikers were fighting.

It was a case where union men were accusing both government and employer of failing to live up to promises—promises not only made in mediation but fashioned also in the labor laws of the New Deal.

It was an issue that all America and all Europe watched with growing intensity.

ITALY: Almost Out

Defeated at Cheren and with Harar in British hands it was apparent that little was left in the British campaign in Africa except to mop up the faltering legions of Mussolini.

Not only that, but London was claiming that the British navy aided the Greek units and the Royal Air Force had met the rapidly dwindling Italian fleet away from its bases and had badly shattered the remainder.

The British claims included one Fascist warship sunk and one battleship, and a destroyer badly damaged. Apparently this was the major engagement of the war in the Mediterranean.

The victory at Cheren was previously forecast as the last stand of the Italians. On this, it was claimed, the whole campaign in Eritrea hinged. It seemed that the forecasts were well founded, for hardly had Cheren fallen than two events occurred. The first was that Harar, walled fortress, capitulated. The second was that Mussolini, according to grapevine reports, suffering from a nervous collapse, removed Graziani from command.

The naval defeat was said to be the last straw. The British asserted that they lost only one bomber.

Star Dust STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

VERONICA LAKE, the beautiful blonde who's expected to zoom to stardom as a result of her appearance in Paramount's "I Wanted Wings," doesn't want wings right now—all she wants is a chance to stay put right in Hollywood for a while.

After finishing work in the picture—in which she plays a heartless vixen and provides tragic love interest—she flew to Montreal with her mother; she spent three days there, during which she made three personal appearances and four radio broadcasts. Her name was given to three babies, a new fox trot, a park and a military aerial maneuver. Canadian fliers named it the "Veronica roll" in her honor. Then she headed for New York, where she spent a day, and then flew home—where it had been planned that she'd be a feature attraction at the military aerial review at Randolph Field, Texas, staged as a prelude to the first showing of "I Wanted Wings."

"Broadway Limited," which is being made at the Hal Roach studios for release through United Artists, promises to be one of the year's most hilarious comedies. It's a tale of a film star en route from the West coast to New York with her director and her publicity man; the cast includes Victor McLaglen, (as a locomotive engineer), Zasu Pitts, Paty Kelly and George Stone.

Bette Davis received unexpected assistance the other day. For a scene in "The Bride Came C. O. D." she was to walk down a flight of stairs, pause at the bottom, then rush into James Cagney's arms. Just as she reached the bottom a lamp above her head sizzled loudly and shot out sparks; without looking, she gave a surprised leap, and landed in Cagney's arms. "Print it!" shouted Director William Keighley. "It's perfect!"

Incidentally, Miss Davis will have, in "The Little Foxes," a role which might have been created for her. Talulah Bankhead played it when the play had a long and successful run in New York, then took it on tour throughout the country. This will be the first time that Miss Davis has worked for Samuel Goldwyn, and the picture marks his resumption of picture-making after a year of inactivity. William Wyler, who directed "The Letter," will direct, and the play is being adapted for the screen by its author, Lillian Hellman.

Melville Ruick, a radio theater announcer, has been one of radio's top announcers since 1935, but motion picture casting directors persist in seeing him as a typical orchestra leader. He appeared in one in "Kitty Foyle," the picture that brought Academy honors to Ginger Rogers, and has been cast as one in "Miami"—his third such assignment in a year.

Bonita Granville has her most dramatic role in "The People vs. Dr. Kildare," the latest of the Kildare series; she'll have to be on her toes, with Lionel Barrymore, Lew Ayres, Laraine Day and Red Skelton also present.

There's a new style in the air, thanks to Janet Logan and Barbara Fuller, the mythical stepmother-stepdaughter team on the CBS daytime serial, "Stepmother." They used to check up on each other's plans for a week ahead, to make sure of not wearing similar costumes. Then the stress laid on "mother-daughter" outfits gave them an idea; they wear clothes of similar design in contrasting shades—and fashion promoters are interested.

ODDS AND ENDS—Warner Bros. will film "Miniature Melodramas" based on popular short stories, employing top stars and writers. . . . Bob Hope appears in Hollywood's first battle of World War II in "Caught in the Draft" . . . Peter Lorre, who's added a sinister touch to many a movie, will play a rascally and fearsome sea captain in "The Uniform," which stars Rosalind Russell and Clark Gable. . . . Deanna Durbin has moved that wedding date up to April 18th, her parents' anniversary. . . . Paramount's to film "Government Girl," dealing with the life of a small-town girl who goes to Washington as a cog in the governmental machine.

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO
By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WHEN you see "Men of Boys Town" (Spencer Tracy and Mickey Rooney), watch three very young men who have important roles; it's more than likely that, when they grow up, they'll be tops among leading men. Metro thinks so.

They are Darryl Hickman, aged eight; Bobs Watson, who's nine, and Larry Nunn, just thirteen. You probably saw Darryl as "Winfield Joad" in "Grapes of Wrath." Norman Taurog thinks he's one of the finest child actors he ever directed. Bobs has seven brothers and sisters who have film careers. Says Taurog, "Whenever I have needed a regular kid, I have found that I could depend on the Watsons." Bobs got his break because none of the other Watsons fitted the role.

As for Larry, he'd made a name for himself in radio before he tackled Hollywood, two years ago; "Strike Up the Band" was his first picture.

For more than a year there's been discussion at Warner Bros. about filming the life of George M. Cohan, and at last a deal has been arranged with the famous song and dance man. James Cagney will play the lead, probably getting to work on it some time this summer, after he returns from vacationing at his place at Martha's Vineyard, Mass. Mr. Cohan will supervise the production.

Scenario trouble has delayed work on "Babes on Broadway," in which Shirley Temple was to start her come-back, so her first picture will be "Lazybones." It's a story of the San Pedro fishing fleet, and Shirley will be seen as Wallace Beery's motherless daughter.

American people have more than a generous sense of humor; they have generous hearts as well. It's proved every Sunday on the "Double or Nothing" radio program. Walter Compton, master of ceremonies, asks each guest the name of his favorite charity; if the contestant can't answer his questions, the prize money is given to some charitable institution.

Leading figures of grand opera, the theater, the sports world and big business have tried their luck on the program, and many have given their winnings to less fortunate persons. Martha Raye and Frank Forest, the program's popular tenor, gave theirs to the Red Cross. Lyle Talbot had a question from a woman who wanted to buy her blind son a Seeing Eye dog; he gave her his winnings, and the listening audience subscribed the remainder. Frederick Jagel of the Metropolitan Opera sent his to the Hundred Neediest Cases.

Rita Hayworth returns to her home lot, Columbia, to play opposite Fred Astaire, and dance with him in a musical, "He's My Uncle"—she's just finishing a dancing role in "Blood and Sand," with Tyrone Power. The talented Rita may be just the dancing partner needed for Astaire since he and Ginger Rogers parted company on the screen.

Penny Singleton was selected America's Number One Blonde by beauty shop owners and operators at the International Beauty Show held in New York recently. The pretty screen and radio star won out over Madeline Carroll and Alice Faye, who were runners-up; it was said that during the past year she'd done more than anyone else to make American men blonde-conscious. As "Blondie" on the screen and the air she's inspired many another young wife and mother, who've appreciated her quite as much as the men did.

For almost four years Bess Johnson has been managing the mythical orphanage around which the story of "Hilltop House" gravitated. Now the serial has come to an end, and she's to be starred in a new one, titled "The Story of Bess Johnson." Same time, same stations.

ODDS AND ENDS—While making "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" Spencer Tracy's been looking ahead to vacationing in New York with his son, Johnny... After waiting about a year, Paramount will film "Miss Susie Slagle," the popular novel... Greta Garbo is slated to go back to work May 1, in a modern American comedy... About 3,000 enthusiastic fans greeted Glen Miller, CBS band leader, when he arrived in Los Angeles; they practically mobbed him... Conrad Nagel, master of ceremonies for the CBS "Silver Theater," swore off on cigarette smoking from New Year's to St. Patrick's day—but didn't quite make it.

Our Revelation

In all lives there is a formation of character. It comes from many causes, and from some which on the surface are apparently even trivial. But the result is the same; a sudden revelation to ourselves of our secret purpose and a recognition of our, perhaps long-shadowed, but now masterful, convictions.—Van Amburgh.
