U. S.-British Forces Fight Grimly In Resisting Heavy Jap Pressure; 'Joker' Found in Price Control Bill Has Power to Check Farm Prices

(EDITOR'S NOTE-When epinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, shown conferring in Washington, D. C., with naval officers and John W. Studebaker, on a plan to have high school youth of America participate in a vital part of the U. S. navy's training program, plane model making. Looking over some of the models are (left to right) Artemus Gates, assistant secretary of the navy for air; Secretary Knox and Mr. Studebaker. In the rear is Adm. John H. Towers, chief of the navy's bureau of aeronautics. About 26,000 American youths in the high schools throughout the country are being asked to build 500,000 aircraft models-10,000 each of 50 different types of fighting planes-for training personnel in aircraft recognition and range estimation in gunnery practice. The models likewise will be important in the training of civilians in aircraft recognition.

MIRACLE:

Man on Luzon

The continued holding out of General MacArthur's "smoke-begrimed army in its foxholes on Bataan peninsula" to use his own words, challenged and won the admiration of all Americans.

It was felt that his long stand in the face of more than 10 to 1 odds, his ability to maneuver his men into a position where only a fraction of the Japanese power could be used against him, and the fact that he was still immobilizing a vastly superior force, entitled him to the title of "miracle man" of warfare.

If the Japanese attempted to infiltrate his lines, as often as not he checkmated them with counterattacks. If they succeeded, either by a skillful withdrawal or by vigor-ous counter-measures at hand-tohand, the following day would find the MacArthur army still intact, still fighting, still able to resist all eforts to drive him into the sea.

Though the communiques from Luzon never had given hope of a successful outcome, there was no tinge of heroics, save the tribute of the general to men who, without relief and subjected to almost constant attack by fresh troops in rotation, continued a defense that seemed to grow from day to day in strength rather than to be collapsing under pressure.

General Homma, Japanese com-mander, sent over a "leaflet raid" in which he strongly suggested surrender, paying tribute to the magnificent defense of MacArthur's army. It was not rejected-the army simply paid no attention to it whatever.

SINGAPORE:

Siege

The Japanese, having increased their pressure on the narrow and difficult Malayan peninsula, finally induced the British defenders to make a sudden, dramatic withdrawal from the mainland, starting the long-expected siege of Singapore. This, a battle expected to go down into history as one of the bitterest and bloodiest in the history of v.tofare, started with the 750,000 populatics of Singapore largely added to in command of the India-Australia by civilian refugees from the main-

Singapore stood buttressed on the north by a mile-wide strip of land from which the British had attempted to strip all obstructions which might offer refuge and cover to enemy soldiers or batteries; by another mile-wide strip of water which had become the "moat" of Singa-pore following the destruction of the granite causeway which connected the potato-shaped island with the

New York's Harlem

The 250,000 Negro inhabitants of the Harlem section of New York city actually constitute only 48 per cent of its total population. Spanish Harlem contains 120,000 people and Italian Harlem contains 150,000 people, the latter being, incidentally, the most densely populated section of Manhattan.

All agreed that while it was a "big order," it could and would be filled. We can expect and will willingly accept any extra burdens or inconveniences this vast program demands. Our only release is in doing the job thoroughly and quickly. In so doing our burdens will not long endure, then we, all of us, may return to our accustomed, normal routine of life. To this end we pledge our full effort.

BOB BOYLE AIRCRAFT SCHOOL 3608 Ross Ave. • Dallas

'Star-Maker'

PHILADELPHIA, PA.-Have you ever been curious and wondered where came the stars that spangle our banner? If so, this may appease that curiosity of yours. The man shown is operating a machine that cuts white stars from bunting in blocks of dozens at a clip. He is one of the many workers in the Philadelphia quartermaster depot where all flags, guidons, standards, colors and battle streamers for the army are made.

PILOTS:

By Thousands

Secretary Knox electrified the nation when he announced that four large American universities would "join the navy" and serve as training centers for a huge army of combat pilots for the new navy air force, to be created with a 25 billion dollar appropriation.

Keeping the identities of the universities a secret, Knox revealed that the plan will be put into opera-tion so swiftly that by May 1 it will be in full swing-perhaps sooner.

Briefly, the plan was this. Each school is to become an Annapolis of the air. The entire facilities of the universities will be rented by the navy for the duration of the war.

A rigorous routine will be adopted for the students, future combat pilots. They will handle 2,500 naval flying cadets monthly.

A three-month preliminary training will be started, with men digging ditches, marching up to 40 miles from sunup to sundown. They will chop wood, clear land, will learn jiu-jitsu, boxing, rough-and-tumble fighting.

The whole course is expected to take a year, from the time the student starts until he has his navy wings. But when the first class gets through, the navy's supply of pilots will grow at the rate of 2,500 $ month, according to the plan.

SOVIET:

Continued

Groundhog day came and went, but regardless of shadows, King Winter reigned in Soviet Russia, freezing into motionless hulks the majority of Hitler's mechanical war-fighters, and giving the Russians continued strength to hurl the Nazis back along the entire long front.

A 93-mile gain in the Ukraine had brought the Reds to within easy striking distance of the lower bend of the Dnieper river, brought within the realm of possibility the capture Dnieperopetrovsk, where the $100,000,000 dam had been blown up by the Russians in their retreat.

Most remarkable dispatch was the announcement of the capture of a town named Berestovoya, 115 miles west of German-held Taganrog, a serious blow to the German rear, and forming a possible trap for thousands of Nazi troops.

CHINESE:

Drive Japs Back

What a major disaster the closing of the Burma road would be had been convincingly demonstrated by the Chinese in their latest victory, an important defeat of the Japanese eact of Canton.

The fight was in the Waichow area, only 60 miles from the city, and the Japs were reported in disordered flight, with the Chinese armies in close pursuit.

Of tremendous interest in this dispatch was the report that one entire division of Chinese troops of the Nanking government, armed and equipped by the Japanese, had deserted to Chiang Kai-shek's banner.

If this fight should develop with continued favor to the Chinese, they would place the Japanese holding forces on Hong Kong with a tough job to retain their tenure of the Canton is only 60 miles from Hong Kong, and the Chinese said they had possession of the Canton-Kowloon railroad.

The Chinese are driving to liberate Canton, and then move on Hong Kong itself.

TEMPEST:

Arrival of a large number of apparently well-equipped U. S. troops in Northern Ireland, seemingly from the Middle West, provided the first reinforcement story of land forces sent to combat areas by this country and started an Irish tempest.

DeValera, in southern Ireland, objected strenuously to the arrival of American troops, and criticized it most sharply for being what he called "a British attempt to make more sharp the breach between northern and southern Ireland."

IT'S UP TO TOU TO JUDGE ...

Q Most large organizations today have skill men whose job it is to create a public opinion favo the organization and its products. This is known as the creation of good will - one of the most necessary ingredients in business. G But the peculiar thing about good will only comes to those who deserve it. In other asking the public for good will is'nt enough: ness must be worthy of that good will throug good service, through selling good merchandis

Q One of the chief services of advertising to you as a consumer has been in pointing out the manufacturers and merchants who deserve your good will. It has done this by telling you the story of their goods and their policies - and then letting you judge for yourself if they are worthy of your support.

Q Advertising shows you exactly where you can buy, with perfect assurance that here you will find a man who is worthy, a product which is honest, a price which is right.
