Many Historical 'Firsts' Fall on New Year's Day

Among the events of historic sigificance which have taken place on January 1, one of the most beloved to Americans occurred in 1776.

It was then that Gen. George Washington raised over his camp at Cambridge, Mass., a flag which, although it had the Union Jack in the canton, had the 13 alternate red and white stripes, representing the 13 colonies. This flag was referred to in the correspondence of the day as the "American colors," and may safely be regarded as the first Ameri ican flag. Since the 13 colonies rep resented in the 13 stripes, although fighting for their rights, had not yet broken entirely away from the mother country, the British Union Jack was retained to show their connec tion with England. Six months later, however, the ties which bound them were severed by the Declaration of Independence, and then the need for a new banner resulted in the doing away with the Union Jack, Then came the historic resolution of June 14, 1777, the stars were placed in the canton and the flag of the United States became the Stars and

The War of 1812 saw another important event taking place on New Year's day. For it was on January 1, 1815, that the British made their first attack on New Orleans, and a week later occurred the decisive engage-ment in which "Old Hickory" Jackson so decisively defeated Pakenham's veterans. On January 1, 1822, the first American settlers arrived in Texas, an event which forecast the struggle for a second war of independence in North America and the addition of the Great Southwest to the United States. On January 1, 1831, William Lloyd Garrison, the Abolitionist, published the first issue of the Lib

Egyptians First To Measure Time

Gregorian Calendar of 1582 Universally Adopted.

Astronomers, geologists, and scientists estimate the age of the earth at approximately three or four biln years.

However, the Egyptians were ap-parently the first to figure out any exact measurement of time. They were astronomers, besides having the Nile which overflowed pretty regularly every 365 days. As a result, they divided the 365 days into 12 periods of 30 days each and added the remaining 5 days to the last period or months. Historians have accredited the Egyptian calendar as having been established some 4,000 years before the birth of Christ.

Now, the Babylonians, having no Nile to assist them in their calculations, fitted up a lunar calendar according to the observation that a new moon appeared about every 29 days and that the passage of 12 moons brought the star clusters into the same position again accompanied by a corresponding season of warmth The resultant man calendar soon proved to be about 11 days short of the solar year, necessitating the addition of extra days.

Julius Caesar detested inefficiency. So, he tackled the calendar and called the Alexandrian scientist, Sosigenes, to his assistance. Sosigenes explained the differences between the solar and the lunar years. As a result, the Julian calendar divided the year into 12 solar months -the sum of which totaled 365 days with an extra day added every three or four years.

Grant's Reception

Ulysses S. Grant was severely criticized by the public in regard to a New Year's reception at the White House. Because of the death of Mrs. Belknap, wife of his secretary of war, he cancelled the function. Thereupon Washington gossips declared it was a bad breach of international good manners for the President to slight the foreign diplomats; who desired to pay their respects to the head of the Amer-

HOME FRONT

OT all the Pennsylvania Dutch were free-hand artists and you may not be either. The early Dutch artisans often used stencils for the main part of a motif and added a few flourishes to give a free-hand effect. You may do that too or you may stencil the scrolls and flourishes on chairs, chests and gay gifts until you get the feel of this type of decoration.

All of these quaint motifs are symbolic. That is the Dove of Peace that you see in the upper left corner of the sketch. The tulip symbolizes Lily Time or the golden age of peace and plenty promised the Dutch settlers in the New World. The pomegranate bud and fruit symbolized God's bounty. The blade, the flower, the seed and the heart of man were symbols used in decorating furniture, pottery, glass and tin. "Hex" signs were for luck and to keep away evil.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears has prepared sten-ciling designs for 12 authentic Pennsyl-rania Dutch motifs with color guide and irrections. There is a large design for supboard doors, designs for chairbacks. designs for charbacks, designs for charbacks, dresser drawers and chests. Also borders and small motifs for decorating bottles, boxes, jugs and tinware. These designs may be used many times for gifts and for bright touches in every room in the house. By the end of this year almost 50% of the tires now on war workers' cars in Ohio are likely to be completely worn out under normal use, according to a survey which showed that war workers faced a crisis in their motor transportation. # DRAFT-AGE FARMERS RELEASED for TEMPORARY WAR JOBS!

State Headquarters for Selective Service permits draft-age farmers in this area to accept war jobs during slack seasons without affecting their deferment classifications.

Because men are urgently needed in vital war industries in this area, farmers and farm laborers may accept temporary jobs in essential industries under the following conditions as cited in a Headquar ters memorandum of Dec. 6th to ail local boards, WMC Area No. 6:

- (A) They remain in their seasonal occupations for a period of not less than 8 months of the year;
- (B) They become engaged during the
- off-season for farming operations in some occupation in war production or in support of the war
- (C) Upon the reopening of the season in which they may pursue their normal seasonal occupation they return to the seasonal occupations that constituted the basis for their original deferment and resume their status as necessary men

'HAT vacant spot in the I entertainment world is filled, now that John F. Sullivan-Fred Allen to the world at large-is back on the air on Sunday evenings. Once again, he's working 40 to 50 hours a week to bring us that 30 minutes of entertainment. During the last war Fred served with the AEF; during this one he's doing his best for men in the service; while he was on that long "vacation" he did several programs which were exclusively for transmission to overseas Allen fans in the armed forces. He played his first radio role in 1932-Helen Morgan was his guest star. Now, 11 years later, he's at it again, better than ever.

For the first time in 23 years of stardom Richard Dix turns from hero to heavy in RKO's "The Ghost Ship." "When I returned home after a day of violent villainy at the studio, I was almost ashamed to face my wife and the kiddies," he remarked.

Dick Powell claims that he has answered the question of how to stay happily married while acting in pictures 103 times since he began work in Rene Clair's "It Happened Tomorrow." He says he plans to issue a mimeographed statement-"It's just the same as if you worked for the telephone company in Kokomo. Don't take your business home." He adds: "It helps if you love your wife!"

Jean Arthur'd like to remain Jean Arthur on the screen, but can't. It's her real name, and a certain blonde comedienne made it famous first. So 19-year-old Jean, of "Song of the Open Road," has had to give in and become Jean Vail profes-

The March of Time's "Naval Log of Victory" is a factual record of our navy's fight to regain control of the seas from Murmansk to Midway. Documented by scenes of actual air and sea combat, the film is an overall picture of actual naval tactics in operation from Pearl Harbor to the present. It is our navy's answer to Pearl Harbor, and nobody can afford to miss it.

That roar of laughter heard after Producer Ted Collins introduces Professor Tom Howard of "It Pays to Be Ignorant" on the "Kate Smith Hour" is due to this—Tom bounces on stage garbed in a cap and gown. When he turns his back to the audience they see that, emblazoned on the back of the gown, are the words, "Charlie's Tire Shop."

Three laughs per minute or better is the average for listeners who tune in the big four Tuesday night comedy shows between 9 and 11 Eastern War Time—Burns and Allen, Fibber McGee and Molly, Bob Hope and Red Skelton. A statistician's check showed a total of 366 laughs during the two hours: Burns and Allen registered 106; Fibber McGee and Molly, 75; Bob Hope, 92; Red Skelton, 93.

Kicking Nazis From Greenland

Vital war information was reaching Germany from a post not far from the North American continent. A Nazi radio and weather base was operating in the Arctic off the coast of Greenland. It was solidly built and its occupants, hidden by blizzards and arctic wastes, expected to remain permanently. But the Nazis were surprised by vigilant Danes who spotted the base, battled its occupants and got word to the United States. Soon U. S. troops penetrated the arctic wastes and smashed the Nazi nest. The campaign is shown in the following sketches by Norman Thomas coast guard combat artist, and photographs taken at the base.

Coastguardsmen and soldiers go ashore from a cutter. Guns of the cutter cover the landing. This landing was preceded by a heroic fight by Nazi radio base just beyond the hills. Besides a radio station, the enemy post included a power house, emergency generator, machine gun emplacements and food caches.

'Flowering of the Tisza'

A strange sight in Hungary, known as the "flowering of the Tisza," is caused by the drowning of billions of small insects. Once in three years they hatch, fly over the Tisza river, and fall on its surface, coloring it richly with their bodies to make it appear covered with small yellow flowers. The river remains that way for days and always attracts a large number of visitors.
