MOOS OF THE MOMENT

BY UNCLE BOB
of the Kraft Dairy Farm Service

A little cash laid out right now in repairing barns and silos or putting up a temporary silo, if you do not have a permanent structure, will do a lot to save your cows some misery next winter.

Leaky and drafty barns can cut down winter milk production. Cows, like us humans, work best in comfortable surroundings. Silos which have sprung leaks or suffered wind damage may cause trouble, too. August is a good time to check up and make repairs.

If you could see into the future, you would know whether you will be able to get adequate supplies of grain and mixed feeds this winter. But not having a crystal ball myself, I want to suggest you get some "insurance" by planting cover crops.

Land which has been used for corn, cotton, soybeans, tobacco and similar items normally lies idle in the winter, but you can put it to work by sowing barley, oats, rye, crimson clover, alfalfa or vetch and Austrian peas—crops which will provide grazing. These use available land to greater advantage.

The Extension Service at the University of Tennessee has issued a leaflet on this subject, discussing what to plant and how the various crops can supplant grain in your dairy herd's ration. August is the time to plant such cover crops, according to these bulletins.

Alabama Polytechnic Institute has a bulletin devoted entirely to crimson clover. I believe you will want both these bulletins in your file. Write for Tennessee Leaflet No. 6, at Knoxville, Tennessee, and Alabama Circular 254, at Auburn, Alabama.

They say money cannot buy happiness but it's nice to have enough cash so a fellow can select his own brand of misery.

There is perhaps more than a usual need this year for farmers to put away plenty of silage. An abundant quantity of good quality silage is more important than ever this year, to reach the 121 billion pound milk goal.

If you do not have a permanent silo or if you need additional storage space, I suggest you get a copy of Missouri Circular 346, issued by the Extension Service, Columbia, Missouri, on the subject of temporary silos. It tells how to build trench silos and slat fence or "snow fence" silos. These types have proved highly successful in various parts of the country.

A trench silo 12 feet across the top, 8 feet across the bottom and 8 feet deep will give one ton of silage per foot of length. This silo should be covered with a layer of cut straw or chaff and a thicker layer of straw or dirt.

The slat fence silo should be lined with some sort of tar paper or a good grade of specially prepared building paper, strong enough not to tear easily and capable of withstanding weather conditions. The booklet gives a lot of information on location of such temporary silos as well as detailed material on construction and filling.

Farmer's Bulletin No. 578, issued by the U.S.D.A. in Washington, D. C., warns that the important thing with any silo is to keep out air. It contains a good discussion of box silos and has many helpful suggestions for putting away silage. I suggest you get a copy. It is free.

City folks have got acquainted with sharing the ride, which brings them a step closer to farm boys who are pretty familiar with riding the share—that is, behind the plowshare.

Whenever I think of plowing, for some reason I think of corn, which leads me up to corn silage and a bulletin on this subject issued by Wisconsin.

Circular 337 stresses the importance of putting corn silage away at the proper stage of maturity. If properly prepared, corn silage is one of the most palatable and nutritious of silages. To get the greatest food value possible, it should be ensiled when neither too ripe nor too green.

Corn is ready for ensiling when the kernels have barely finished denting, and when all or nearly all leaves are still green. If cut too early, soluble nutrients may be lost and the silage may become soggy and unpalatable. Cut too mature, it may be too dry to pack well, causing air pockets and mold.

The Wisconsin circular says hybrid corn is just as good for silage as is open-pollinated corn, but it cautions that hybrid corn may stay green after the crop is too mature for silage. Denting of the kernel is the reliable guide to proper time for cutting.

You can get this circular by writing the Extension Service, University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisconsin.

When Your Back Hurts -

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

Leave me out of it.

I'd rather skip any new car rush—worse than a nylon stocking sale after War. More cars have already gone out of the running than ever were built any year! How'll everybody get his new one overnight? But I've come this far with my engine OIL-PLATED, so I figure I'll be all right. I'll just keep it safely OIL-PLATED by staying with my good old friend Conoco Nth motor oil. If you think you can beat it, okay. But remember, any engine is bound to have acids inside from every explosion. Therefore you'd risk too much grief from corrosion, as I understand, except that OIL-PLATING is made to check it.

The cans of Nth oil tell you about a modern synthetic that does the OIL-PLATING. You'd imagine it's kind of magnetized to working parts, making a protective surface to shed off acids, before the worst happens. Good thing you needn't wait for an OIL-PLATED engine; you can have that whole improvement now, using Conoco Nth oil.

all get the same

electric service!

WAR has moved many American families into new living quarters. But, whatever the size of their homes, they all get exactly the same dependable electric service.

Oh, sure, some folks may light more rooms and use more appliances than you do. But the service and the quality of the electricity you receive remain the same. You can't buy an "exclusive" grade.

Electricity is also the one service whose cost has remained low—while the cost of living in general has been going up. Whoa, you say? Your bill's been more over the years? Well, that's because you're now using electricity to keep food, wash clothes, clean rugs, tell time and make music—where once you used it only for light.

The truth is, the average American family today gets about twice as much electricity for its money as it did 15 years ago! And we, your friends and neighbors, are proud to be one of the many electric companies under business management, bringing you this bargain.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Good morning, Doc. Your good wife tells me you're working night and day now that so many of the younger doctors are in the army."
"That's right, Judge, and I'm glad I'm still able to do it. Had a long letter from Harry... that bright young fellow I was breakin' in to take over my practice. He said the boys in the service are getting the best medical care of any armed force in our history. They really should with all these brilliant doctors and plenty of supplies to work with."
"Speaking of supplies, Doc, not many people realize that a large part of the alcohol required to make the medical supplies that are being used right this minute to alleviate pain, combat infection and save human lives, is produced by the beverage distilling industry. For nearly two years this entire industry has been working night and day producing nothing but alcohol for the government's program."

"Nobody knows better than I, Judge, what an important contribution to our war effort that has been."

"Boy, oh boy, it's getting to be a job to run this railroad!"

"You see, I started out with just a little bit of track and only one train."

So did the Fort Worth and Denver Railway, Jimmy, back in 1882.

"But I kept adding new track and switches and engines and cars, until now I've got a real railroad."

Nice work, Jimmy; that is exactly how we grew to our present size. Altogether, the Burlington Lines have 11,000 miles of track and serve 13 different states.

"Boy, can I get around on my railroad! Why, I've got track running all over the place."

In a way, the Burlington Lines blanket the country, too, Jimmy. Because of their location and because they serve 22 principal gateways and have more than 200 interchange points, they form an essential link between railroads from the north, east, south and west. So, you see, as a team, we have track running "all over the place."

"Look, I've got a lot more things along my track than I used to have. Army camps and munition plants and a bunch of new factories. It sure keeps me hustling to see that they get good service."

It's keeping all of the railroads bustling these days, Jimmy. A freight train starts on its way somewhere every four seconds. Every six minutes, a troop train. And there's a tremendous amount of civilian travel being handled at the same time.

"You know something, though—my dad says for me to keep right on figuring new ways to do more things better on my railroad. Because, he says, there'll be plenty of new jobs ahead that will take a lot of doing."

Dad is right, Jimmy. There's a lot of work for all of us in the peacetime days ahead. And the Burlington Lines are proud to be among the army of railroads which will team up to handle the lion's share of tomorrow's transportation job—just as they're handling today's.
