FOR AG PRODUCTS

Combest Upbeat On S. American Trade

Congressman Larry Combest, reporting to a group of area newspaper publishers, said he was extremely encouraged by the prospects of trade, especially involving agricultural products, with Venezuela, Chile and Brazil. Combest, newly-appointed House Agricultural Chairman, made the trip to South America at the invitation of Cong. Bill Archer, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and the U.S. Trade Commission.

The group left Washington, on January 7, and returned the 16th. "It was one of the most educational trips I have made," Combest said.

Combest was able to meet with high government officials in each of the three countries. He said he was very encouraged about the prospects of trade with each one. He was invited by Archer due to the fact that agricultural products were thought to be an important part of increased trade.

In Venezuela, the U.S. group met with new president Hugo Chavez. "We are considered friends of the Chavez administration. They are in our same time zone, and can receive import products from America days ahead of anywhere else, even their South American neighbors.

Combest felt that Venezuela could be courted as a much better importer of U.S. goods. "Most of their imports come from Texas and Florida already," he said. In Santiago, Chile, the U.S. delegation met with the country's entire cabinet, and the U.S. Embassy officials and local officials. The Chileans expressed disappointment that their country was not included as part of "NAFTA," which was limited to North American countries.

They have established free trade zones with Mexico and Canada, and have a very strong economy, one of the strongest in South America, the congressman told the publishers. The U.S. already has a two billion dollar trade surplus with Chile, and could increase that by lifting the current tariff, Combest thinks.

The American delegation arrived in Brazil just at the time the news broke about that country's devalued currency. "We came away with a good feeling about Brazil," Combest said. Brazil's economic leaders acted swiftly to counteract the devaluation of their "real" (dollar), and it

BY NOW, EVERY one of our readers has had to do some mailing at the new rate of 33 cents per letter. And you may have, as Ye Editor has, wondered why they bothered with such a trivial rate hike in the first place.

For the past several years, it cost 32 cents for the first ounce, and 23 cents for the second ounce, or 55 cents. The U.S. Postal Service, in its infinite wisdom, has decreed that since they've raised the one-ounce price to 33 cents, they'll just lower the price of the second stamp to 22 cents.

Say what???? So it still costs 55 cents to send a two-ounce letter first class. Not much gain here.

In fact, the government printing office has had to crank up its presses to put out millions of the new 22¢ stamps which will be companions for the 33-centers.

I am in the printing business to some extent. I pay a sizeable printing bill every week, and I can attest that printers don't give you your printing for nothing. How many postage stamps will the USPS have to sell to pay for all of the new 33¢ and 22¢ stamps that mailers will have to use?

They have also had to print a bunch of very confusing-looking one-cent stamps you can use to finish off your old roll of 32-cent stamps. I guess there are some one-cent stamps. The ones we were sold have a picture of a rooster, and the small print (which my one eye can hardly read) says "The H-rate Makeup Stamp."

Say what????-again. When we went to buy our new 33-cent stamps, we were given patriotic red, white and blue stamps with only a big "H" on them. No indication that they were worth 33¢ at all. What kind of idiot comes up with these things? Why couldn't they just have printed 33-cent stamps, instead of the "H" stamps? They have known for two years about the rate hike.

Most people we know, who are smart enough to use the U.S. Mails, can tell the numbers 32 and 33 apart, and know right away what they mean. But "H," and "H-rate Makeup Stamp" ??? Give us a break.

I have thought for years that the only people who come out with big profits from the postal rate increases are the bureaucrat fat-cats who have the government printing contracts.

Our newspapers also got in on the rate hike. Along with that comes new postal forms that we submit with our weekly check to USPS. They change the forms two or three times per year, and we always have a nine-month supply of the old forms to take to the dumpster. Try to picture how this is multiplied across the country, and in the metropolitan areas, whose newspapers' needs for forms, etc. make ours look miniscule.

The government printers are the ones who sell the U.S. Postal Service on the idea of starting out with "H" stamps, and then phase these out for 33-centers. The biggest part of the one-cent, or "makeup" stamps sold may never be used. The government printers and USPS bosses don't care. They have just sold the American public a bunch of shiny new stamps--and a year's supply of postal forms (which will be replaced in April with new ones). This one-cent first class increase was just a smoke screen.

One reason the USPS may have needed rate increases is the fact that it lost around $85 million on new ventures not even related to mail delivery, such as selling coffee mugs, T-shirts, neckties and long-distance phone cards--expanding into areas already covered by the private sector. This was completely unnecessary.

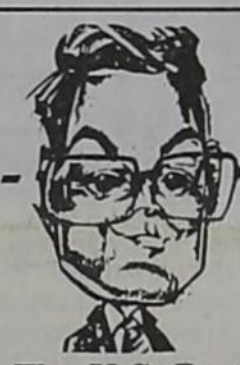

Then, we understand that the Postal Service spent over $265 million in advertising last year. If your local newspaper had received even a dime of this bad-idea expense, it might be easier to swallow the new rate hike, but alas, we didn't.

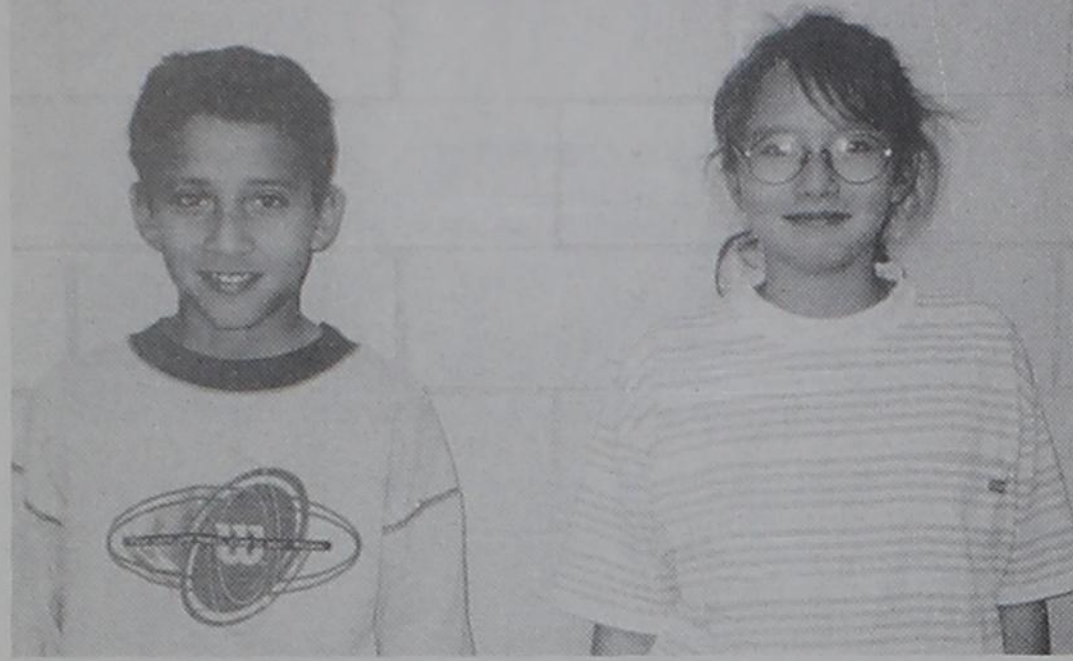

Congress tried to block the postal rate hike, passing a non-binding resolution last year opposing the increase. However, the Postal Service Board of Governors overrode congress' objections and raised the postal rates anyway.

Some innovative mailers, perhaps confused by the "H" and "add-ons" have reportedly taped a penny on their letters along with their old 32-cent stamps. By the time these letters tear up the automatic cancelling machines, the post office may have a legitimate reason to raise the rates.

The Devil Is In The Details

(Warning: Billy Jeff alert: The president has entered the column.)

Coach David Dewitt
Hillsboro, TX, USA

Dear Coach Dewitt,
I had a real dilemma this week and I used your spiritual influence to come to a decision. At times when I face a difficult choice, I say "What would Coach Dewitt do?" and that way if I make the wrong choice, I can blame it on you. (Just kiddin', coach)

Anyway, last Tuesday night the Friona Chieftains and Squaws had a basketball game here and Billy Jeff Clinton was set to deliver the State of the Union address. The problem leaps right out at you doesn't it coach?

Go watch basketball or stay home and watch B.S. Well, Friona was hosting Littlefield. The Chiefs were 2-0 and the Squaws were 2-1, both leading the district.

When I moved here four years ago, it didn't take me long to figure out that the biggest, meanest, most hated rival in Friona athletics is Littlefield.

We don't like Dimmitt or Tulia much. River Road and Muleshoe are always a pain. But Littlefield? Forget about it. We hate those Wildcats just on general principles. Nothing boosts the Friona economy more than kickin' some Littlefield butt.

Preachers around here say that even church attendance goes up for a while after a win against Littlefield.

On the other hand, I really wanted to watch the "great giveaway" that Billy Jeff Clinton had promised to deliver. Like all those other American people, I wanted to get my share of the prize money from our impeached president.

So, coach, you can guess what I chose. That's right. I went to the basketball games but as a backup I asked Carol Ellis to tape Billy Jeff's speech for me.

I wish you had been here to watch the game with me, coach. Our Squaws won handily and now they have a keen 3-1 record and are probably headed for the playoffs.

But I've got to tell you coach, the boys game was crazy. Bill Ellis has been covering Friona basketball for 38 years and he said it was the strangest game he has ever seen.

The Littlefield Wildcats came out "jukin' & jivin'" during warmups and when the game started. I don't think me and Bobby and Booger knew what jukin' and jivin' was in the 50s and you probably wouldn't have put up with it anyway.

The Littlefield coach put on a show. Let's be nice and just say that he never shut his mouth the entire game. He was yelling instructions to his players and he was so nice, coach. He even spent some of his own personal time helping the referees.

He was so helpful the refs kept stopping the game in his honor and letting one of our players shoot some free baskets. Even the Friona fans cheered the Wildcats coach at every opportunity.

Well, the Chieftains took control of the game in the second half, holding Littlefield to only 8 points. The Littlefield coach was called for at least two technicals that I remember. Plus, the referee told him once that if he got up off his chair again, he would toss him out of the game.

It gets better. Two men from Littlefield were at courtside broadcasting the games back to Littlefield on the radio. One of those guys was ejected from the gym by a referee. Apparently all of his chatter was not directed to the radio audience.

The same announcer was thrown out of the Muleshoe gym the week before. Hey dude, it is just a basketball game.

Every time a technical was called, or someone was ejected, cheers rocked the gym. The Chieftains pulled away thanks to an inspired display by our main tall guy, Justin "The Bird" Daniel.

That red-headed country boy, assisted by King, Martin, Rando, and Patterson built a comfortable 17-point lead late in the game after being behind 17-9 at the half.

And then, coach, are you ready for this? The Littlefield coach was still yelling, and the crowd was rockin', and intentional fouls were flyin'.

When a Wildcat took out three of our boys with a downfield block at midcourt the referees (who had had a real long night) just stopped the game. Called it off. There were about 40 seconds left on the clock and they said it was over.

The Littlefield coach protested (big surprise) as though his wasted Wildcats could score 20 points in 40 seconds.

I figured I missed the president's talk but when I got home about 9:30 p.m., Billy Jeff was still talking.

He had promised everybody in America some goodies and left all Americans with lots of hugs and kisses and warm fuzzy thoughts about the future.

Only problem is that none of the programs he outlined will ever get through the Congress.

The Republicans control the House and the Senate for the next two years, so I figure old Billy Jeff has as much of a chance to get his programs passed as the Littlefield coach did in playing those last 40 seconds.

Like you always said, coach, it is easy to talk a good game, but the devil is in the details.

Tonight (Friday, Jan 22) we play old rival Muleshoe over there. Some Mexican food at Leal's in Muleshoe, a couple of good basketball games.

Coach, I've got to tell you. Life in the Panhandle doesn't get much better. Take care of yourself.

Scooter's Scoops

By SCOOTER RUSSELL

I was visiting with Juanita Hastings on the telephone and she was telling me about their granddaughter, J.J., daughter of Jerry and Carol Jean Wright of Albuquerque, New Mexico.

J.J. is an eighteen-year-old senior at Hope, a Christian school in Albuquerque. She wrote and gave a speech on "horse business" and won first place in the State of New Mexico. Later she gave the same speech at the Nationals in Denver and also won first place. It was the first time New Mexico had ever been represented. The banquet was held in Denver and she received a $1,000 scholarship to be used at any college of her choosing.

Jerry and Carol Jean also have a son, Heath, who is a paramedic on an Albuquerque Ambulance.

Jerry works for IDS, which is investments, and Carol Jean works for the Eye Associated.

Andy Garza underwent surgery in recent weeks and had three by-passes. He got along real well and wasn't even in the hospital very long.

Andy is our Water Superintendent at City Hall and has been doing a great job for a number of years.

Family visiting in Minnie Kelso's home were all of her children with the exception of two grandchildren. They were also able to bring husband, Howard home from the nursing home for the day. Her son, Talley, went to Friona for him, and another son, Ferman, took him back. Family members there were: Talley and Brenda Kelso from Llano, Texas; Ferman and Maxine Kelso, who live north of Clovis; granddaughter Jacquelin and her husband and four children; Max and Coleeta and three children; Kelly and family and his daughter and her husband of Michigan and Ferman's daughter, Nikki and husband, Dave.

Becky London and her sister, Robin, returned home recently from a trip to Odessa and Big Lake. Becky's baby son, Ty, was also with them. They drove to Odessa and visited with Becky's sister, Ruby and Randy Hamilton and their new baby. Robin stayed there and Becky and Ty drove on to Big Lake and visited with her grandmother.

Correction: Walter Free of Denver, Colorado, passed away recently and he was brother to Thelma Barron and Dick Free.

Funeral services were held this week for Ruby Wilson, former resident. She was living in a nursing home in Amherst and funeral services were held in Amherst.

Ruby was survived by two daughters, Carolyn and Lori, and one sister, Doris Wilson of Bovina, and several grandchildren.

Ruby and her husband, Frank, lived in Bovina many years and raised their daughters here. Ruby worked at Gaines Hardware for some time and was loved by her many friends. She was a lovely person.

Leon and Martha Schilling returned Tuesday morning from a cruise to Puerto Rico.

They flew to Acapulco, Mexico and from there went to seven different islands. They went through the Panama Canal and saw lots of pretty sights.

Martha said there were all kinds of activities on the ship and they offered delicious meals for guests. It was a wonderful trip and now they just have to rest up, she said.

We're happy to have the restaurant on main street open after it was closed for a month. The food is delicious and the service excellent!

SMILE: The Smiths were shown into the dentist's office, where Mr. Smith made it clear he was in a big hurry.

"No fancy stuff, doctor," he ordered. "No gas or needles or any of that painkiller stuff. Just pull the tooth out and get it over with."

"I wish I had more patients who were as stoic as you," said the dentist admiringly. "Now, which tooth is it?"

Mr. Smith turned to his wife. "Show him your tooth, honey."

Have a great week...Scooter
