Scattered Shots

By the Editor

I notice that a doctor has made an intensive study of the health of George Washington. No doubt you have read that the reason that the various portraits of George Washington look so different is that he was trying out different sets of false teeth. In those days there was practically no such thing as dental science, and when a tooth started aching it was pulled out. It has been reported that when Gilbert Stuart made his famous painting of Washington, he used cotton to stuff the cheeks of our first president, so that his face would not appear so sunken. The most interesting portion of this doctor's report is the fact that according to modern military standards, Washington would have been declared physically unfit for active duty. This goes to prove something or other, perhaps that in every age spirit counts for more than mere physical condition.

The diverse conditions during the development of America have produced some widely varying types of heroes. It seems a little odd to think of Washington and at the same time think of men like Jedediah Smith, perhaps the greatest explorer of them all, of Jim Bridger, Kit Carson and a host of others. Yet Kit Carson had a profound influence on America, as did Jed Smith. Washington was an aristocrat, a gentleman, and a truly great man, but Kit Carson, who spoke English which in these days would be considered uncouth, was also a great man.

Perhaps again this only goes to prove that the diversity of America is its real greatness, and that there are heroes in the low places as well as the high. One thing we can say for Kit Carson—he enjoyed a freedom that we have never known, and never will

December 8, 1957

Dear Informer:

We are enclosing our Christmas greeting to our Hedley friends. We look forward each week to getting the paper Sunday morning. But sometimes the news is very sad. So many of our friends have passed on. Five have met violent deaths.

We sincerely wish for the Informer family a very happy and merry Christmas, and that 1958 may be one of the very best ever.

To our friends in Hedley, our very best wishes to all for a happy Christmas, and may the year 1958 be one of the very best ever.

From Khiva Caravan

The following appeared in the Khiva Caravan for December, published at Amarillo:

Who says that our Drum and Bugle Corps is not on the ball? We represented the Temple in a parade Saturday, October 26, at the Cotton Festival in Hedley and won first place. The prize was a ribbon and a check to go into our drum corps fund. How about thrt? Think we are not pleased? You bet we are and want to thank the committee in Hedley very much and hope they ask us again.

New Texas Almanac

In a swift-changing nation, Texas is setting the pace in economic expansion, according to facts and figures presented in the Texas Almanac for 1958-59, which has just been published by The Dallas Morning News.

Most striking has been the development of manufacturing. In the eight years, 1949-1957 the net annual value of Texas manufactured products increased from $1,814 million to $3,991 million, an increase of about 60 per cent.

The expansion of Texas banking, insurance, distribution, transportation and general commerce has been greater in recent years than in any other period of Texas history, as shown by many pages of concrete data.

The Texas population increase, 1950-1957, has been even more rapid than during the census interval, 1940-1950.

The state's population increased from 7,711,194 in 1950 to 9,127,000 in 1957, with some counties, cities and towns showing more than 50 per cent increase. Farm population continues to decline in relation to the population of the entire state but in less degree than during the 1940-1950 census interval.
