After a storm at sea, a doctor, a parson and a lawyer found themselves in a rowboat without oars. Finally, they came in sight of an island, but their only hope of landing was for one of them to go over the side, and, swimming through the shark-infested sea, tow the boat to land. Lots were drawn, and the job fell to the lawyer. When he slipped over the side the sharks divided and made an avenue for him. "Ah," said the parson, "the answer to a prayer." "No, no," said the doctor, "just professional courtesy."

Ketchall orner Sally Whitesides

With such an abundance of vegetables in the Bovina area this year, surely it is appropriate to consider ways of working more of these into the family diet.

The hints received while working up the material for this article were given generously by the many women called upon. Mrs. Quickel, for instance, reports that her good friend, Mrs. Buck Ellison, likes her cantaloupes fresh; but with just a touch of chicken gravy to add flavor. In fact, Mabel is reported to have said that those who haven't tried them this way just haven't taken advantage of the marvelous taste of cantaloupes.

Mrs. Robert Wilson says that she has been serving cantaloupe with ice cream this summer. Cutting the melon in half and scraping the inside, she then fills the well with vanilla ice cream. Neat, attractive, tasty, and best of all--no dishes to wash.

Another woman reports that freezing sweet potatoes is easy and very handy, too. Just cook until well done (but not over cook) and peel. Place in cartons and freeze. Makes wonderful candied yams, months from summer. Also, freeze roasting ears in their shucks for better flavor and far less preparation trouble. Remove the outer layer of shucks and pull down and examine the ear for damage. Cut top couple of inches off the cob and fold the shucks down over the end tightly with a rubber band. They keep until Thanksgiving and really hold their flavor, it is reported.

Another method of preparing corn is to cut the fresh corn from the cob and fry in lots of butter, until well done. Although it takes quite a bit of butter, the taste is said to be worth it all. When first started to cook, the corn should be covered with a close-fitting cover and allowed to steam. Then, when uncovered, it is one of those foods that you can't be reading a magazine or watching television and cooking at the same time---it takes close watching and frequent stirring.

Several years ago, when this writer was first beginning to understand the mysteries of cooking and canning, I was lucky enough to have Mrs. Ward Thompson, now of Collinsville, as a neighbor. Shall never forget her canned tomatoes. She would peel and core lightly the firmest, well-ripened tomatoes in her patch. Then, placing them in wide-mouthed jars and covering them with thick tomato juice, Mrs. Thompson would process them in the hot water bath method. The bath, which is done in a large, covered container, not a pressure cooker, should cover each jar with at least an inch of boiling water. The process takes about 35 minutes of simmering or 180 degrees. But the time and effort is worth the final result. Mrs. Thompson had sliced tomatoes for the table in January and they were firm enough to use in even the daintiest of salads.

To stuff bell peppers, Mrs. Carl Rea chooses large, firm vegetables, which she cuts the top out of and removes the seeds. She then stuffs the hole with her own meat mixture. Her approximate recipe follows:

Brown a small, chopped onion in a skillet greased with meat drippings and when it is almost brown, she adds a couple of stalks of celery, chopped fine. This is allowed to cook together slowly until celery is done and then she adds one pound of hamburger meat and seasonings; chili powder, cayenne pepper, salt and black pepper. This mixture is cooked slowly until well done and a small can of tomato puree is added. In the meantime, Mrs. Rea cooks a half cup of rice and when both are done, she mixes them together and then stuffs each green pepper. Placing the peppers in a deep casserole, Mrs. Rea bakes slowly until the pepper is well done, which can be checked by piercing with a fork. By the way, the juice left over from the meat preparation is used as a basting liquid and used throughout the cooking process.

But back to tomatoes and the preparation thereof. Mrs. McCain likes to fry green tomatoes. Choosing the best possible green tomatoes, she slices them much as she would squash, sprinkles them with salt and pepper and rolls each slice in corn meal. The slices are then dropped in hot, deep fat and watched carefully. Each slice takes no more than two minutes to be cooked to perfection, she reports.

Mrs. E. C. Berry, on the other hand, prefers fried ripe tomatoes and dips her sliced tomatoes in a beaten egg, then in flour, adds salt and pepper and fries, turning from time to time and adding more grease as the tomatoes take up what she started with.

The method that this writer was "brought up" with was to peel and core well-ripened tomatoes and slice or chunk cut them into an iron skillet with a little bacon or ham drippings. Cook slowly and persistently for as long as possible, up to about 20 minutes. But one must be sure to stir them often and see that they don't burn. The sad-looking, but delicious mess is served on a slice of crisp, buttered toast and is a family breakfast favorite.

Mrs. Berry also came up with another new idea when asked for unusual recipes. She reports that she has often made a delicious tomato gravy. Her method, which she says is certainly a treat to the tastebuds, is to make a gravy from either ham or bacon drippings, as long as there aren't any brownings from flour in it. When the gravy is almost done, she adds her tomatoes, which have been previously cooked and mashed to a puree texture.

Several women reported that green peppers were easily and conveniently frozen for use during months when they skyrocket to 65¢ a pound. Mrs. I. W. Quickel, Mrs. Earl Stevenson and several others suggested that each pepper be washed, sliced or chopped into desired sizes and packed either in a plastic bag or in aluminum foil. Mrs. Stevenson says she packs enough for one salad in each individual foil package and then crumbles the still-frozen pepper into her salad just before she adds the salad dressing. That way, they are about the right texture by the time they are served.

Thawed peppers, like thawed cantaloupes, leave much to be desired, report a number of local housewives. In fact, the majority of the women asked had tried freezing cantaloupes once---and didn't bother to try it again. Seems, says Mrs. Stevenson, cantaloupes are tasteless while still frozen and are absolutely repulsively mushy when thawed. However, several reported that Mrs. Joe Bell and Mrs. John Dixon, both of whom were unavailable for comment, successfully froze cantaloupes and peppers regularly.

Mrs. Looney Is Club President

Mrs. Howard Looney was elected president of the Bovina Good Neighbor Home Demonstration Club Friday afternoon. The meeting was in the home of Mrs. D. H. Wilkerson and nine members were present.

Mrs. D. C. Looney was named vice-president; Mrs. John Sikes, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. W. E. Sikes, reporter; Mrs. Mabel Newberry, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Earl Dean Boyd, council delegate.

During the business meeting, the members made plans for the next meeting, which will be Friday afternoon, September 19, in the home of Mrs. Stacy Queen. The meeting will be their annual luncheon and birthday social and will begin at 1:30. Secret pal gifts will be exchanged and all members are urged to be present.

Those attending Friday's meeting were Mesdames Jack Morris, Howard Looney, D. C. Looney, Boyd, J. D. Stevens, Mabel Newberry, Stacy Queen, J. E. Sikes and the hostess.

Celebrate Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Estes celebrated their 23rd wedding anniversary Sunday with friends. Guests in their home throughout the day were Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Joseph, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hawkins and daughters, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jeter and daughters.

Mrs. Hawkins presented Mr. and Mrs. Estes with a wedding cake, decorated with yellow jonquils and bluebirds. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph presented the couple, their daughter Sue, and Mrs. Estes' mother, Mrs. Lucy Shamblin, with corsages.

RETURNS HOME

Mrs. Lucy Shamblin returned to Bovina from Fort Worth Monday of last week. She had been staying in that city with her son and family, Rev. and Mrs. Dale Shamblin. She returned home with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Estes, after they had spent several days in Fort Worth.

TO MEET

Mrs. Thomas Rhodes, a member of the Bovina Town and Country Club, reported Monday that the organization will meet Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Robert Read. The meeting will begin at 2:30.

TO IDAHO

Mrs. J. R. Caldwell left Monday for Hansen, Idaho, to visit her sister, Mrs. J. J. Frochlich. The local lady's sister is planning to have surgery in a few days and Mrs. Caldwell expects to spend about a month with her.

WARES TO REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Ware spent several days last week-end in McLean attending a reunion of her father, T. B. Windom's family. They were guests in the Windom home from Friday through Monday. Also attending the reunion from Bovina were the Ware's two sons and families, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Ware and children and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Ware and daughter. About 75 people attended the reunion.

STUDY CLUB TO MEET THURSDAY

Members of the Bovina Woman's Study Club will meet

Thursday at 1 p. m. at Bovina Restaurant. The meeting, the first of the fall season, will be in the form of a luncheon and all members are urged to attend.

Mrs. Rouel Barron, club president, will be in charge of the program.

A castaway from a wreck-ship was captured by cannibals. Each day his arm was cut by a dagger and the natives would drink his blood. Finally one day he called the king. "You can kill me and eat me if you want to," he said, "but I'm tired of being stuck for the drinks."

Showers, Cool Weather Return

Showers and cool weather have returned to the Parmer County area, bringing an interruption to the hot and dry days that have characterized all of August.

The showers, which fell Saturday evening and Sunday, were general over the county, and most of them measured from one-half to almost one and one-half inches.

The respite from the cool weather was welcome in nearly all circles, but with certain reservations. For one thing, it helped many farmers out with the wind-up of their grain sorghum irrigation. Many farmers had been falling behind in watering their feed because of no relief from the hot and dry weather.

Also, the showers stirred the planting itch of area farmers to get going with the 1959 wheat crop. Some wheat and barley is already planted and the showers will stimulate more seeding. However, the showers alone won't prove to be enough to get a crop started. They may just provoke the planting of it.

Cotton growers didn't mind the cool and damp weather especially but they certainly hope it doesn't stay around for long. The soggy days remind them all too well of the wet and cold plague that cost them so much money last fall.

A little moisture just at this point isn't expected to hurt the cotton a bit, but it could if it continued very long. More sunshine is what the cotton crop will need to do its best.

NEWS FROM THE FARM BUREAU

By RAYMOND EULER

We regret to report that our U. S. senators, Lyndon B. Johnson and Ralph Yarborough, voted AGAINST the states rights bill that passed the house with a good margin . . . and either of these Texans could have voted for it and it would have become law.

It is difficult for us to understand how these men could with any consciousness have done this when the Texas legislature has been as strong as, if not stronger than, any other state legislature in insisting upon the principle of states rights. What the law would have provided is very simple:

When a state law was not in direct conflict with a federal law, the state law or ruling would stand, as the United States constitution stated that it should in the beginning. However, since these two senators of ours voted against upholding the constitution specifically, the United States supreme (?) court can, as it has recently demonstrated quite often, overrule the state supreme courts and reverse their decisions. That means that if Texans don't want a man who has been a communist to practice law in the state, the U. S. court can give him permission and Texans must let him try cases in the state at will. This, of course, is just one of the implications involved.

It also, among other things, means that the Texas right to work law is still subject to the whims of the U. S. supreme court. . . .

Well, we tried again to have a district winner in the Farm Bureau queen contest. Even though she didn't win, our county queen, Miss Mary Ann Stacy, did a very fine job of participating last week in Lubbock.

CUMMINGS FARM STORE TO SPONSOR HOG FIELD DAY

Hog raisers in the county have been invited to attend a hog field day sponsored by Cummings Farm Store and the Purina Feed Company in Friona this Saturday.

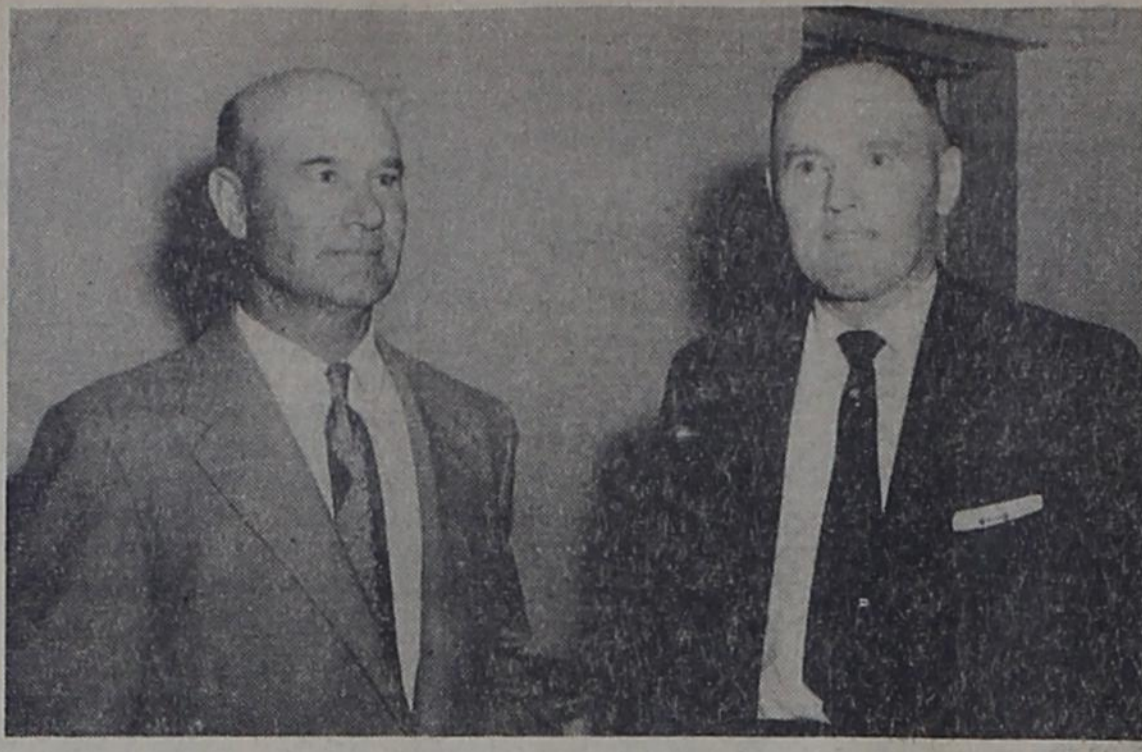

The field day will begin at the Friona club house at 2:30 p. m. Saturday and from there the plans call for tours in the country to visit various points of interest, including the Walt Mabry, Dub Anthony and Doyle Cummings pig parlors.

Doyle Cummings says plans call for the tour to be over by 6 p. m.

SCD ANNUAL ESSAY WINNER—Roy Crawford, foreground, presents a handsome gold plaque to Ramey Brandon of Bovina for his essay which was entered in the annual contest sponsored by the Parmer County Soil Conservation District. The presentation was made at the annual banquet held Monday night in Lazbuddie.

Blend all ingredients, chill. Colorful vegetable slaw:
Toss 4 cups shredded green or Chinese cabbage, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1/3 cup grated raw carrot, and 1/4 cup sliced radish with 1/2 cup above dressing. . . .

Waldorf Slaw: Toss 4 cups shredded green cabbage, 1/2 cup diced unpared red apple, 1/4 cup broken nut meats, and 1/2 cup seedless raisins (plumped in hot water, then chilled) or grapes with 1/2 cup above dressing. . . .

Artichoke bottoms, canned Avocado: slivers
Bacon: crispy bits
Cauliflowerets, raw
Celery: chunks or slices
Cheese—any kind: grated, crumbled or silvered
Chicken, ham, luncheon meat, salami, turkey, or tongue: in thin strips.
Crab meat, salmon, tuna, shrimp or sardines.
Cucumber: Chunks or slices
Eggs: chopped, shelled, hard cooked
Grapefruit, orange or tangerine sections.
Mushrooms, raw: caps or slices
Olives, green or ripe
Pineapple, fresh, canned, or frozen: fingers or chunks
Potato chips or corn chips: coarsely broken.

Last Go - Round For Maize Men

Most Parmer County maize producers can see the end of their summer-long struggle with the elements. The production cycle of 1958 is about complete and harvest is about to begin.

All over the county this week grain sorghum growers were winding up their final waterings and shutting wells off or diverting them to wheat land. Within another two weeks all irrigation is expected to be complete—even for the latest crops.

Combining has already started in scattered fields. The 1958 maize crop is maturing out nicely and may set another record in yield. Chinch bugs are now pretty well under control although extensive spraying has been necessary to keep them that way. Red spiders are in maize, but not in serious numbers. Some army worms and headworms are also reported, but the crop is believed over the hump.

The unusual amount of poisoning this year has raised some doubts about whether all the feed produced will be safe for consumption.

County Agent Joe Jones, who met with officials of the Pure Food and Drug Administration the past week, reports: "We're not in any trouble with poisoning we've done up until now. But we should watch the rules closely from here on in." He referred especially to time requirements for delaying harvest a certain length of time after a crop has been sprayed.

We promised you more on salads this week, didn't we? If you've tried the green salad we suggested last week, you might like to experiment with these variations for either the salad or the dressing.

DRESSING EXTRAS
Add one or more of these surprise flavors when mixing a dressing for tossed green salad:

Anchovy: Cut-up fillets or paste.
Bottled meat sauce: few dashes.
Celery: minced or sliced diagonally.
Cheese: crumbled blue, grated Parmesan
Chile sauce: a little
Chives or scallions: snipped
Chutney: a little
Croutons: browned in garlic flavored salad oil
Curry powder: a pinch
Horse-radish, bottled: a little
Monosodium glutamate: a pinch
Onions: sliced paper thin or minced.
Paprika: a pinch
Parsley, chervil, or tarragon—fresh or dried
Pickles: chopped
Seasoning salt: onion, celery, or garlic -- a sprinkling.
Lic: a sprinkling
Seeds—poppy, dill, celery, caraway, sesame, or fennel: a sprinkling Tabasco or Worcestershire: few dashes.
SALAD EXTRAS
Weave in bits of color by adding one or more of these just before tossing:
Apple: slices or sedges

Cotton Opening, Farmers Plan For 1958 Harvest

Parmer County's 1958 crop of cotton—which could be the best in history—is opening this week. Although full-scale harvesting is a long way off, farmers are already thinking in terms of getting the money-making lint to the gins.

One pre-harvest practice becoming increasingly popular is defoliating the plants. The idea behind defoliating cotton is to knock the leaves off the plant so that sunshine can get in and mature out and open up bolls that are still green.

County Agent Joe Jones this week warns that farmers should exercise care in using defoliants and desiccants. He points out that a good defoliation job will return dividends in terms of less trash and green stain and better grades if harvesting is done by machine. This is especially true if the crop yield is to be high and the plants are tall, leafy and succulent.

Tests made by the Extension Service indicate that the best time for defoliating will vary with the weather, condition of the crop and the principle benefit expected. "In general, however, application of the true defoliants should be delayed until 55 to 60 percent of the bolls are open," says Jones.

Dew is necessary to activate dust defoliants, and those applied as sprays should be used in accordance with recommendations.

Because true defoliants do not always give acceptable results for mechanical stripping, sometimes desiccants are recommended. Desiccants kill the plant outright, stopping all growth immediately.

Great care should be used in this practice, however, and no farmer should consider their use until the top bolls are mature and a full 70 percent or more of the cotton is open.

Jones says that good coverage of the cotton plant by the defoliant or desiccant is a "must" if the best results are to be obtained. Spray applied in too little water per acre is listed by the Extension Service as the most common mistake ever made by both operators of ground sprayer rigs and planes.

Most agricultural observers feel that the High Plains area farmers have a good opportunity to produce a lot of quality cotton this year. Things have gone pretty well for the cotton crop.

After such a poor season last year, cotton farmers are all the more anxious to increase their returns from cotton, and it is this desire that may encourage them to be too early with some of their plans for defoliation.

A man often neglects his own chances trying to figure out what he'd do if he had another's.

Lee variety soybeans grown in Floyd County, Texas, nearing maturity. Note the high pod set and number of three bean pods that developed.

Keep On Watering Soybeans, Says Jones

Parmer County area farmers are growing an estimated 10,000 acres of irrigated soybeans this year, and for many of them, this is their first try with the legume-type crop.

Because knowledge of soybeans is on the short side in the area, County Agent Joe Jones says it will be easy for costly mistakes to be made.

Of particular importance at this time is the fact that irrigation of soybeans can and should continue so long as the soil needs moisture, says Agent Jones.

This is in strong contrast to irrigation practices of certain other crops, and especially cotton, he notes. There has been an intensive campaign to encourage farmers to stop irrigating their cotton the latter part of August.

Irrigating of soybeans, though, should continue so long as the beans need the water because the moisture helps fill out the bean pods. Unless rains occur, irrigations usually continue all through September and sometimes into the early part of October to complete the crop.

The county agent also believes that it is not too soon for farmers to start thinking about harvesting their soybeans, because it has been established that improper harvesting practices cost farmers more soybean yield than any other factor.

Losses from poor harvesting practices can run up to 10 bushels an acre. With High Plains irrigated yields running typically around 30 bushels per acre, that is a big bite if the farmer loses it.

Not only does shattering and falling cost the farmer by leaving the beans in the field, but improper adjustment of the combine sometimes results in a high number of cracked beans, which usually finds the farmer getting docked for his crop.

Combining a mature soybean crop requires careful adjustment of the machine and a reliable operator. Improper combining causes shattering, reduced grades from cracked and split beans, and losses due to unrecovered pods set low on the plant.

As soybeans mature, plant leaves turn yellow and drop. Even after leaves are shed, combining should not begin until the moisture content of the beans is between 12 and 14 percent. Harvest should not be delayed beyond this point.

Soybeans should be combined at slow ground speeds with the cutter bar set close to the ground. Cylinder speed of from 350 to 500 RPM and a slow reel speed is essential.

A special reel with narrow hats and steel tines has some advantages over the standard combine reel.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

The annual banquet of the Parmer County Soil Conservation District was held Monday night at the Lazbuddie School. After dinner in the cafeteria a good crowd gathered in the auditorium for the program. Awards were presented to James D. Mabry of Hub for being the top conservation farmer in Parmer County in 1958, and to Ramey Brandon of Bovina for writing the winning essay on soil conservation.

James Mabry of Hub became a cooperater with the district in August of 1951. His interest at the time was to get a better application of water on the land. Since that time he has done some dirt work to improve water application. About 1.6 miles of underground concrete pipeline have been installed on the farm to conserve water. What little tail water that he has is utilized on the farm with the exception of one 55-acre field on the lower end.

Land that has excessive slope is planted to close-grown crops to prevent erosion by water. Mabry uses a conservation crop rotation of the following crops: grain sorghums, wheat, cotton and vetch and rye.

He has applied cotton burrs to the land for the last two years, building up the organic content of the soil. Last year he applied four tons of burrs on 55 acres. The year before he applied three tons of burrs on 60 acres. Gin trash has been added to a six-acre block each year.

Mabry has a test plot of Texas 660 and DeKalb F62a in which he is hoping to get 10,000 pounds. This is the area that has the heavy application of gin trash. All of the crop residue in the farm is returned to the soil. He turns about half of the residue under and leaves half on the surface.

He believes that he gets a better application of water if the rows are not too long. Ideal row length for him is 1700 feet.

Mabry has proved to be a good farmer and he is willing to put forth the energy to conserve his soil and water.

Men are like steel, when they lose their tempers, they are worthless.

ATTENTION GETTER IN A FIRST GRADE CLASSROOM-- A tiny horned lizard gets the attention of these three beginner students, rather than the required three R's. Kelly Jamerson, center, usually keeps the "frog" in the box most of the time, but its appearance on the table draws the attention of classmates Dennis Ellison and Horace Gardner. They are students of Mrs. W. E. Williams' class.

Lots To See in Bovina's First Grade Classrooms

By SALLY WHITESIDES

Fifty-nine shining faces; each with a different expression on it, can be seen by anyone who wishes to visit the two first grade classrooms of Bovina Public Schools.

At the end of their first week in school, these youngsters, under the skillful leadership of their teachers, Mrs. Leola Williams and Miss Lillian Fisher, are in the process of stepping into life. Here, in the classroom, each is having to learn that the world, life, is much more than just a place with loving parents and doting--or teasing older sisters and brothers.

Here, in local classrooms, as in classrooms all over the United States, they are trying to learn. This learning is from both books and other school material and experience. This experience is with other individuals and with the actions and reactions of teachers and other children.

While visiting in the two classrooms last week, I watched with interest the effort of the teachers to spark initiative in these 59 children. Interest must be caught first then the initiative will take over and this will naturally follow by the fundamentals of scholastic achievements.

Take, for instance, Mrs. Williams' students. Their interest was caught and held if only briefly, by a brightly colored edition of the "Weekly Reader," a magazine known and loved by all who have attended public schools in the United States for at least the last 20 years. Little stories told in simple words; pictures in full color that tell stories without words and games to teach them numbers, are all part of the little magazine.

As Mrs. Williams handed out the papers to each child, the facial expressions gave play; from avid interest to sheer boredom. Some looked at the pages contentedly; others skimmed over the front, flipped on through and were soon ready to go on to something else; something new that would hold their attention for an equally few minutes.

A couple of the little air-headed citizens of six years of age proceeded to make paper planes from their papers; much to the interest of the others. It was only through the expedient handling of the situation by Mrs. Williams that the room didn't become a scene of flying paper planes.

In Miss Fisher's room, a few minutes later, preparation for the recess period was in progress. Through her firm, but affectionate directions, each child was required to clean his desk and to pick up the paper from the floor. This, too, was of interest to the youngsters, only as long as they themselves were doing it or those next to them were busy at the job.

Discipline, to the outsider, was gentle, but firm. Teachers know that it doesn't take much to MAKE children do something; but it takes much to make them WANT to do the same job. Only by attracting their interest can they be made to want to accomplish something.

Desks, pencils, name cards, and crayolas, tablets, chalk, papers and erasers; all are prized possessions to these little students. Their care of such articles shows the different personalities. The little girls, generally, are fanatics about keeping the desks "tidy." Typical of the boys was one swoosh, and all had to be picked up from the floor. But woe to the one who happens to pick up but not return one of the straying objects. At a time such as this, the term "referee" would better sum up the duties of the teacher.

"Miss Fisherrrrr" can be heard occasionally, as a child calls for her help or her judgement on a discussion between themselves and another novice at the school desk. If they don't catch her attention in, say, all of 15 seconds, first graders are apt to leave their seat, and make their way to her. Here again, her firm, but diplomatic behavior sends them back to their desk, to wait with a certain degree of patience, for her attention to be focused on them and their trouble.

Opportunities which were never offered at home are also prevalent throughout the classroom. There are, for instance, the big blackboards on which the young masters can create images to their satisfaction. Glue, lots of paper, their "very own desk" all go to make up a certain pride for each child.

Personalities show up as if under a search light. One little boy may be valiantly trying to unscramble the mystery of the written word, and the one next to him may be bored to the point that any excitement that the can create will be a marvelous occurrence.

Little girls, tidying their desks, could often be seen to turn from natural little housekeepers into miniature shrews when another, thinking the cleanup a lot of nonsense, proceeds to play hob with her labors.

Sad are the words, "Teacher, I want to go home." These words, often accompanied by tears these first few weeks of school, call for immediate and loving attention.

Homesickness, when suffered by an adult, is acute; but when it clouds the brow of a six-year-old, the effect is harrowing. Some in the room immediately feel touched by the situation; while others jeer with a degree of cruelty that is only possessed by the "little people." Quite forgotten by these who feel so self-assured is the fact that a day or so ago, they, too, had the same "all gone" feeling.

It's an interesting experience to walk into a classroom and sit there and watch the actions and reactions of these children. If a parent would visit a classroom, watch the children, listen to the teacher and become involved in one crisis after another, their respect for first grade teachers would increase one-hundred fold. These teachers, for their patience and understanding should be appreciated; they have, now in their hands, the little ones you started on the road of the world. It will be through their efforts, combined with teachers in higher grades, that will instill those most important scholastic characteristics in your child. Take time out to thank them. Of the 59 students, 31 are in Mrs. Williams' classroom. They are Aulana Levins, Jan Gromowsky, Cindy Crump, Suzanne Wilson, Jean Sullins, Suzie Sanders, Pamela Grison, Ofelia Villareal, Joanne Gilbert, Edith Varner, Doris Corn, Krita Morria, Rose Ybarra and Nancy Mitchell. Others are Daniel Guerrero, Philip Sorley, Donald Pesch, Kelly Jamerson, Dennis Ellison, Stuart McMeans, R. D. Looney, Jessie Munoz, Joe Don Stevens, Mark Stevens, Bruce Caldwell, Angel Herrera, Frank Herrera, Horace Gardner, Roy Mayhew, Randy Barrett, and Paul Blake.

OES Has Masonic Night Thursday

Members of the local chapter of the Order of Eastern Star were hostesses to an annual social in honor of their Masonic Brothers Thursday night of last week. The affair, which featured a buffet supper and program, was in the Masonic Hall and approximately 50 members and guests were registered.

Masonic and Eastern Star Brother, Carl Rea, was in charge of the program. He introduced Mrs. Doris Wilson and the Wilsonaire Trio. The three girls sang several selections, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Wilson. The invitational was given by A. D. Smith and the welcome was delivered by Scotty Barry. The Masonic response was given by Hubert Ellison, and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Dunn, of Muleshoe, and former members of the local organization, were honored.

The meal featured fried chicken, green beans, potato salad, congealed salad, hot rolls, pie, coffee, and iced tea. Mrs. Leola Williams was hostess chairman and she was assisted by Mrs. Rose McCain and Mrs. Erna Louise Jamerson. The hall was decorated with fresh cut flowers.

Out-of-town guests for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Buchanan of Friona, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Everett of Muleshoe, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Smith of Farwell, and Mr. and Mrs. Dunn.

Those attending from Bovina were Messrs. and Meses. Leslie McCain, Lawrence Jamerson, Reagan Looney and grandson, Stuart, W. E. Williams, Aubrey Brock, H. J. Charles, Carl Rea, Elmer Lowrie, Hubert Ellison, Roy Crawford, Frank Hastings, E. R. Barry, Clyde Perkins and O. M. Hammonds. Also present were Mrs. Julia Leake, Mrs. Hazel Rigdon, Mrs. Mary Looney, Mrs. Annie Derrick, Mrs. Pearl Dodson, Mrs. Ona Pesch, Kenneth Johnson and Mrs. Wilson and the trio.

The delegation of Lions waited patiently at the airport for the great man who was to address their meeting. He didn't show up and they went dejectedly back to town--only to find that he had arrived by train.

After completing his address, the great man was approached by the chairman of the club's welcoming committee.

"Sir," said the chairman, "we're powerful sorry we couldn't escort you into our fair city, but we sure will take great pleasure in escorting you out of it."

Hobo Party Held By Hammonds Class

Various odd-looking characters gathered in the City Park Thursday evening, it is reported. Women and men, all in outlandish clothing much resembling that usually worn by "gentlemen of the rails," congregated for a hobo party. The participants were members of the Hammonds Class of the Methodist Church.

They gathered at 8:15 p. m. and drew for a prize. John F. Dixon was the "lucky" man and received a well-smoked cigar stub as his reward. Rouel Barron was chosen as the "best dressed hobo" and was presented with a two-cup perking coffee maker--minus the perking part and more than a little the worse for wear.

Games, under the direction of Mrs. Jimmie Charles, were played during the first part of the evening. Later, the group went to the church yard for games of volleyball. Refreshments of sandwiches, cookies and soft drinks were served by the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Charles and Mr. and Mrs. Dixon.

Others attending were Mr. and Mrs. Billie Sudderth, Mr. and Mrs. Barron, Mr. and Mrs. Bedford Caldwell, Rev. and Mrs. Edens, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Ezell and the host and their children.
