Bovina Christmas Caroling Dec. 18

Christmas caroling for Bovina's kids will be Thursday, December 18. The annual event is sponsored by the Bovina Chamber of Commerce and our local Girl Scout troup.

The cotton trailers full of carolers will be pulled around town assisted by the Bovina Volunteer Fire Department and Bovina Police Department. The trailers will leave the EMS building at 6 p.m. and return by 7 p.m. for a visit with Santa. Cookies and hot chocolate will be served.

If you would like to help with this event, call Toya Deleon at 251-1317 or Deanna Curtis at 251-9930.

Christmas Card Funds Benefit Local Services

Local residents can spread the Christmas spirit, and benefit local causes, with donations to the annual Christmas Card funds in Friona and Bovina.

Project Christmas Card in Friona urges residents to donate money that would be spent on Christmas Cards for local friends and relatives to Project Christmas Card, sponsored this year by the Parmer County Community Hospital Auxiliary.

Donations will be used for hospital equipment and can be made at the Friona State Bank, Friona Star office, or several other local businesses.

The Bovina Christmas Card Fund is divided between the Bovina EMS and volunteer fire department. Donations are being accepted at First Bank in Bovina.

The Friends in Friona volunteer group is also seeking Christmas gift donations to benefit the Pioneer Heritage Museum, located on Sixth Street in Friona. If you haven't visited the museum, you should. Volunteers have done a lot of work with limited resources to preserve the pioneer history of the county. Donations to the museum fund can be made at First National Bank-Friona Banking Center.

The Friona Star will publish the names of donors to all funds in a Christmas issue. This is an opportunity to help assist our local organizations that provide valuable services to the community. Your donations will be appreciated.

THE LIVING CHRISTMAS TREE presentation will be Saturday, Dec 6, at 7 p.m. and Sunday, Dec 7, at 2 p.m. & 7 p.m. in the Friona Junior High auditorium.

The Pheasant Forecast? Better Than Last Year

By Jim Steiert

Opening day of pheasant season is now just under two weeks away. As we slide into December the question on the minds of many outdoor enthusiasts is what kind of season can we expect this year?

Not surprisingly, the forecast is for better hunting than last year-a massive bird crop is required to improve from the 25-year low in pheasant counts that we witnessed last year.

Danny Swepston, the Panhandle wildlife district leader with the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department, predicts an "average" season, though that's sort of like saying we've re-fall or the "average" frost date.

WT Services Offers Globalstar Phones

(Reprinted from the December 2003 Co-Op Connection.)

Some useful Christmas gift ideas are available from WT Services, Inc. this holiday season, including one with global reach.

For the individual constantly on the go, or someone who works in rugged remote locations where there is no other type of phone service, a Globalstar satellite telephone could prove the ideal gift.

Globalstar Satellite Service gives you the ability to stay in touch even when adventures or emergencies take you beyond cellular service. Globalstar picks up where cellular systems leave off, expanding communications coverage via its 48-satellite network to remote areas and beyond. When cellular services are unavailable, calls route to the Globalstar Satellite Net-

To make or receive calls on the Globalstar system, the user must be outside in an unobstructed area with clear visibility to the sky. This provides the necessary line-of-sight to the satellites so that the user can make and receive Globalstar calls.

This satellite calling technology is especially well suited for use in areas of rough terrain, such as the breaks of the Canadian River, the caprock country of western Deaf Smith County, and the rugged Palo Duro Canyon and the Rolling Plains beyond.

Law enforcement and emergency services agencies will find Globalstar Satellite Service practical, particularly when power grids and conventional telephone services are disrupted.

Teel Bivins Resigns Senate Seat

(State Senator Teel Bivins delivered the following letter to Governor Rick Perry on December 3, 2003.)

With this letter, I hereby resign my seat in the Texas Senate at 5:00 p.m. on January 12, 2004. My rationale for taking this action is manifold.

Serving in the Legislature has been the most exciting and challenging experience of my life, and I am proud to have been part of this great and honorable institution. However, I knew going in that the job was only temporary. In 1995, I sponsored a constitutional amendment that would have limited terms in the Texas Senate to no more than 14 years. Now that I have served for fifteen years, I know that my tenure has been long enough.

As you know, I am now a new dad splitting my time between Houston and Amarillo. The reality is that I am simply unable to devote the time needed to represent my constituents in Austin.

Furthermore, I have been honored to learn that President Bush intends to submit my name in nomination to become the United States Ambassador to Sweden. If I am fortunate enough to be confirmed by the U.S. Senate, it is very important to me that the voters of Senate District 31 have the opportunity to select new representation in anticipation of a potential Special Session on Public School Finance in April 2004. By tendering my resignation now, I hope that an early vacancy would allow for a special election to select my replacement prior to that time.

I am deeply honored that the people of Senate District 31 have Loyde was in poor health and allowed me to represent them since 1989. Certainly one of the high points of my service has been working with leaders like yourself, as a I retired from teaching after member of the House of Representatives, Commissioner of Agriculture, Lieutenant Governor, and Governor. Thank you for your service to Estates. I think Friona is the best Texas and for all you have done for me during my tenure in the Texas

Letters To The Editor

Dear Ro

I found this writeup in a scrapbook. It is timely. Was in the Friona Star at that time. Please print it.

Also, why don't they put a stop light at the Hub intersection to avoid so many wrecks? They have put one here at the intersection of Highway 60 and VFW Road that goes north of Canyon. Highway 60 carries many more vehicles than the highway from Friona to Muleshoe. I'm all for it!

Sincerely, Martha Rutherford

(Editor's Note) Martha included a clipping from a 1933 Friona Star which talked about two local musical & thespian programs. One article began, "Under the direction of Prof. Glenn Davis, the High School Glee Chorus will render the following program of sacred music next Sunday night, Dec 10 at 7 o'clock in the regular service at the Congregational church. A brief address by the pastor on 'The Music of the Bible' will follow."

Musical performers named were Goldina Highfill, Claude Miller, Virginia Short, and Forest Osborn.

The other program, "The Gypsy Troubadour", was described as 'another good home talent play' and was also directed by Prof. Davis. Some of the 1933 cast listed were Forest Osborn, Maurine Furlong, Eddie Manns, Lucille Routh, Wilma York, Rex Johnson, Goldina Highfill, Claude Miller, Wilbur Meade, Nadean Benger, Johnnie Benger, Virginia Short, & Dorothy Crawford.

The "chorus" was listed as Orville McElroy, Raymond Jasper, Ernest Osborn, Leslie Meyers, John Blackburn, Martha Slagle, Geraldine McFarland, Helen Maggard, Ruth Reeve, & Wayne New.

The play was presented Dec. 8, 1933, at the Grade School Auditorium at eight o'clock. Admission was 10 cents and 25 cents "to cover expenses of this unusually good program."

(The Martha Slagle listed in the chorus is Martha Rutherford, now living in Canyon, who sent us this letter and clipping. Thank you

Holidays are a special time of year and we all enjoy them. Unfortunately, during this time of year we often become careless and vulnerable to theft and other crimes. Law enforcement officials often find that during the month of December the number of thefts and robberies increase dramatically.

There are steps that we can each take that will allow our Holiday Season to be a "merry" one and not one full of disappointment. During one of the highest crime times of the year, please take the following precautions to ensure the safety of you and your family:

While shopping stay alert to your surroundings and people around you.

Always park in well-lit and busy areas.

Don't leave packages and boxes visible through car windows, lock them in the trunk or take them directly home.

Don't get overburdened with packages; always keep one hand free.

Keep your purse close to your body, not dangling loosely. Teach your children to ask a store clerk or security guard for help should they become separated from you while shopping. Avoid carrying large amounts of cash or credit cards, when possible, to pay for purchases.

If your credit cards are lost, stolen, or misused, notify the issuers immediately.

Lock the doors and windows of your residence even if you'll only be away for a few minutes and always give the impres sion that your home is occupied by leaving on lights and a radio or television.

Do not put large displays of holiday gifts in view of your windows or doors.

Ask a neighbor to watch your house and collect your newspa pers and mail if you are going to be out of town.

We each have a responsibility to take precautions to reduce crime risks. By following the above guidelines we can make it more difficult for thieves to accomplish their goals. Criminals look for easy targets and we can reduce the number of thefts during this holiday season just by practicing a few crime prevention tips. Reduce the opportunity of becoming a crime victim, use good crime prevention tips, and make life hard for the BAD GUYS.

YOUR EYES

NEW HARD CONTACTS CORRECT EYESIGHT OVERNIGHT

Now you can wear hard contacts while sleeping at night and temporarily correct your eyesight. In a process called corneal refractive therapy, or CRT for short, the lens reshapes the flexible cornea during the night, much like a retainer reshapes tooth alignment. The lenses are removed in the morning.

The cure lasts on average from one to three days. The Food and Drug Administration recently approved CRT after studies showed that 67 percent of patients had 20/20 vision or better in at least one eye and 93 percent had 20/32 vision or better. Most states require at least 20/40 vision to drive a car without corrective lenses. How often you need to wear the lenses depends on your prescription. For strong correction, people will probably need the contact every night. For moderate prescriptions, the lenses will be worn from two to three times a week. The effect of the enses is reversed when no longer worn. Presently, the cost for the prescription and contacts from a vision specialist run about $1,500 to $1,800 for both eyes.

China Safeguards Decision A Victory For U.S. Industry's Seeking "Fair" Trade

By Shawn Wade

Even though the recent decision by the U.S. Commerce Department's Committee for the Implementation of Textile Agreements (CITA) affects only three relatively small categories of textile imports, it sends a hopeful message to other manufacturing industres that the U.S. is willing to enforce the provisions of the trade agreements we make.

The petitions granted by CITA last Monday involve Chinese imports in only three textile categories: knit fabrics, dressing gowns and brassieres. These categories account for no more than 5 percent of the $10 billion-plus in Chinese textile and apparel sales that currently flow into the U.S.

For the cotton industry and its textile trade partners the ruling was a small victory in a much larger war to protect not only what remains of the U.S. textile industry, but also the critical new textile industries in the Caribbean Basin and Latin America that utilize mostly U.S. grown cotton.

The decision should send a clear message to current and future U.S. trading partners that we expect them to abide by the trade agreements they sign to gain further access to the U.S. marketplace.

The Bush Administration's decision to invoke the safeguard rule is intended to get China to fully comply with its WTO obligations and puts the ball in China's court by first opening a consultation process between the countries to develop a plan to limit Chinese imports in these categories.

If no agreement is reached, the U.S. then has the option to arbitrarily cap any further rise in Chinese imports in these categories to 7.5 percent above the amount of product that entered the U.S. during the first 12 months of the 14 months preceding the request for consultation.

PCG fully supports the Bush Administration's efforts to get China and the rest of our trading partners to abide by the rules they agree to when trade deals are struck.

"The reality of trading with China has always been that, regardless of the agreements they enter into, they will trade when it is to their advantage to do so," says PCG Executive Vice President Steve Verett. "Past history shows that the U.S. has maintained a very liberal trade policy overall. How else could we post a total 2002 trade deficit of $418 billion with the rest of the world, of which $103 billion is with China alone."

"For me the most important part of this decision is that the Administration is finally saying we expect our trading partners to deal with us fairly and that the only acceptable way to do that is to abide by the rules."

The most feared impact by U.S. cotton growers would be that China would quit buying U.S. cotton to make up their current fiber shortage.

Market analysts believe that implementation of the China safeguard provision will ultimately amount to little more than a bump in the road to future Chinese sales.

Chinese demand has already spurred them to purchase over 2.5 million bales of U.S. cotton to date and another one million is forecast to be needed down the line. Any slowdown that analysts foresee will be caused more from the fact that China has already booked enough cotton to meet their immediate needs.

In public, China can now vociferously object to the U.S. action, threaten to buy the cotton they need elsewhere and then take a wait and see approach to purchasing the additional supplies they need from the U.S. when prices move in their favor.

There is little disagreement that significant damage has been done to the U.S. textile industry and that much of it is directly and indirectly the result of Chinese imports.

The real danger for cotton producers trying to sell their cotton is the fact that most of the U.S. market share that China has gained has been at the expense of the textile exporting countries of Latin America, countries of the Caribbean Basin and to a certain extent Asia, all of whom have been good customers for U.S. cotton.

In the case of the Caribbean Basin and Latin America, many U.S. textile companies have strong ties with the textile industries in these countries and provide a competitive alternative to Chinese textile goods with the added bonus of buying mostly U.S. cotton.

COTTON MARKET WEEKLY

Cotton futures prices on the New York Cotton Exchange exploded higher to end limit-up Wednesday on commercial and merchant buying after closing lower four consecutive days.

The market was expected to continue its decline ahead of the four-day weekend in observance of the Thanksgiving holiday. However, reports of "sizable amounts of business" executed Tuesday night provided support to the market.

Rumors of purchases by China fueled the market on Wednesday despite concerns that a textile dispute between Washington and Beijing might have cooled some of the ardor in China's buying. However, many industry observers believe a severe shortage of cotton in China, due to a poor crop there, means the country will have no choice but to return to the market to secure its fiber supplies.

In the export report for the week ended November 20, released a day later than normal due to the Thanksgiving observance, China was the featured buyer with net purchases of 125,900 bales of U.S. cotton. Net sales to all countries that week totaled 347,900 bales, and export shipments totaled 186,600 bales. China and Mexico were the primary destina-

Z. Barrett Places In Horse Judging

The West Texas A&M University horse judging team was a dominating force at the American Quarter Horse Association World Championship November 19 in Oklahoma City.

WTAMU swept first place in every category-in both individual and team competition-to capture its third AQHA world judging title. WTAMU amassed 3,407 points to easily outdistance the 28-team field, including Colorado State University (CSU), the secondplace team with 3,355 points.

West Texas A&M also won AQHA world championships in horse judging in 1994 and 2001.

WTAMU had nine student representatives in the competition and placed four individuals among the top five in a field of 111 contestants. Zach Barrett, a junior equine industry and business major from Friona, placed among the top five.

One more world competition awaits the WTAMU squad this year. WTAMU will attempt to defend its title December 4-5 at the National Reining Horse Association Championship in Oklahoma City. The WTAMU team won the national reining title in 1999, 2001 and 2002.

Afternoon sessions will address regulatory issues and production strategies. Topics include food safety laws, pesticide regulations, COOL, drip irrigation and water efficiency, fertility for vegetable crops and weed control. Conference sponsors include Texas Cooperative Extension, the High Plains

Based on Census Bureau data, the National Cotton Council (NCC) calculated U.S. textile mills used cotton on a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 6.12 million bales in October 2002. The NCC also revised its September figure to 6.18 million bales from its previous estimate of 6.17 million. The latest estimate was in line with analysts' expectations although slightly lower than some had predicted.

In the meantime, harvest progress across the Cotton Belt advanced by almost eight percentage points in the week ended November 23, according to the National Agricultural Statistics Service. The agency reported 78 percent of the U.S. cotton crop had been picked compared with 71 percent a week earlier and the five-year average of 83 percent. Fieldwork now is finished in Louisiana and Mississippi and is almost complete in Arkansas. Cotton harvesting in South Carolina made the greatest advance on the week rising 14 percentage points to 72 percent complete.

Harvesting continues to gain momentum in West Texas where the bulk of the area's crop still is on the stalk. The High and Rolling Plains were rain-free during the past weekend allowing cotton strippers to operate without restriction. The region experienced a hard freeze on November 24 which will leave many fields ready to be harvested next week. Statewide, the harvest was 61 percent complete as of November 23 compared with 63 percent one year ago and the five-year average of 73 percent

On the spot cotton scene, online sales by Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas producers in the four trading days ended November 26 totaled 9,165 bales compared to 12,521 bales the previous week. Prices received by producers selling their cotton online ranged from 61.81 to 66.03 cents per point versus the previous week's 62.86 to 69.63 cents per pound

Marketing Workshops Explore Futures, Options

Farmers and ranchers can gain a better understanding of futures and options, and how to effectively use them as marketing tools at two, oneday workshops slated for December 18, 2003 and March 4, 2003, said a Texas Cooperative Extension Economist.

"These workshops are designed to help producers improve their pricing and marketing strategies through the study of futures and options," said Dr. Jackie Smith, Texas Cooperative Extension ag economist-marketing specialist based in Lubbock. "In order to take advantage of profitable pricing opportunities, producers must know how to evaluate market

"These workshops will focus on evaluating price alternatives. All pricing alternatives are directly or indirectly linked to the futures market. So, we will be closely studying the basics of futures and options, fundamental and technical analysis, and pricing strategies, using these tools."

Texas A&M's Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock will host both one-day workshops. The center is north of Lubbock on Interstate Highway 27-take exit 11, turn right on FM 1294 and drive one-half mile east.

Smith will teach both workshops, which are designed for those with beginning knowledge of the futures market.

"Each workshop will run from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.," Smith said. "Registration cost is $30.00 per person, for each workshop."

Producers can register, or get more information for these workshops, by calling Smith at 806-746-6101 or by contacting their local county Extension office.

Park Lights & Politics!

Easing into the holiday season. Taking time to smell the roses.

Seems that the Christmas season got here pretty quick. The joy and chaos of the next few weeks is upon us, so no heavy philosophies this week. Just a bit of this and that.

Friona Chamber of Commerce director Kathryn Goddard says if you were not able to attend the Friona City Park program Monday night, be sure to drive downtown at night during the Christmas season to enjoy the decorations in the park. If you'll pardon the grammar, the park is now

Hats off to the city employees and city manager Terri Johnson for the time, effort, and expense of installing the beautiful lights on the trees, depot, and landscape. Drive by. You'll

Also, Mrs. Goddard said the Women's Division of the Friona Chamber provided refreshments for all who attended the park ceremony and the special visit from Santa Claus. The Chamber ladies gave each child that visited Santa a Polaroid picture in Santa's lap, a candy cane and a

The special cookies were decorated and donated by Kenda Dunnam, owner of the Sugar Shack. Bill Hardin, owner of Tasty Cream, also helped the Women's Division provide the refreshments. A big thanks to Kenda and Bill. "Friona is lucky to have businesses that support all the events that make this a special place to live," Mrs. Goddard commented.

Another special thanks to the Friona High School Choir and the Kids Choir from the Methodist Church, both directed by Allison Johnston, for the Christmas music at the park.

And I have a special thanks to give, as soon as you are sure the kids are not reading. Thank you to Santa Claus (Danny Black) who for many years has allowed the little boys and girls to sit on his knee, sometimes bawling, and bend his ear with their wish lists. If you think it's easy. next year you can be Santa. Thanks Danny (and Linda)

In last week's newspaper, top of page 7, there was a big 4-column notice that Congressman Randy Neugebauer was going to visit Farwell and Friona for a town hall meeting Tuesday. He is our man in Washington, elected to fill Larry Combest's term in Congress.

I've heard people complain that Parmer County is "so far north" the politicians don't think we are very important. After Tuesday, it might be Randy Neugebauer that thinks he is not important.

I went to the town hall meeting. You were not there. In the room at Friona State Bank there were 15 people. Six of those were in the Neugebauer party. That leaves nine citizens that showed up and two of those left while Neugebauer was still talking. Four of the seven were concerned about the school employee retirement fund vs. social security controversy. No room here to discuss the issue. Ask a teacher.

Neuge's answer strayed off into health care and the 108th Congress and what federal employees get and he never answered the question raised. Looks like he is learning the Washington ropes pretty quick. His! answer to the school people? You are not likely to get the problem solved soon.

Like many other Republicans these days, he blamed 9-11 for many current problems. He defended our being in Iraq in exactly the same language George Dubya uses. Almost word for word. The question was raised why people who died in the Twin Towers received over $1 million and if a soldier dies his family gets $25,000. There was not a viable answer. To Neuge's credit, he said he did not know why and he wasn't a member of Congress when the action was taken.

There were other politician phrases he used: "We'll look into it" and "Both sides of the aisle". It doesn't take long to learn the lingo.

One of the highlights for me was talking to Dana Neugebauer, his wife of 34 years. She said they live in an apartment in the middle of D. C. The apartment charges $250 a month for parking. They park their car at the Capitol, where Congressmen park free. She didn't say how they get to the apartment. Probably use the

It was a pleasant meeting. Too bad you weren't there. So don't grumble about those damn Washington politicians that don't even know we are alive out here.

You had your chance. You ought to

to Andy. Benefits Start in 2006, Help Available Sooner

After Congress passed the biggest overhaul in Medicare's 38-year history, many seniors may be confused about what the changes will mean for them. Here are some answers as reprinted from a report in the November 26, 2003 edition of USA TODAY.

Q. How will this bill help pay for my prescription drugs?

A. Medicare beneficiaries who join HMOs that provide prescription drug coverage or buy drug coverage policies from private insurers will get help with their medicine bills.

A. Seniors will pay an average monthly premium of $35, which could rise if drug costs increase. After a Q. How much will this benefit cost?

$250 deductible, Medicare will cover 75% of drug costs up to $2,250 and then nothing for drug costs between $2,250 and $5,100. After that, Medicare will pay 95% of drug bills. Q. What if I am a low-income senior?

A. Low-income seniors do not pay premiums or deductibles. Depending on their income, they would pay either $1 or $2 per generic prescription and $2 or $5 for brand-name drugs. But an estimated 1.8 million seniors won't qualify for the low-income benefit because of an assets test.

Q. When do the prescription drug benefits start? A. In 2006.

Q. But I need help sooner. A. Starting in the spring, seniors will be able to buy a discount card for about $30 that administration officials say will save them 15%-25% per prescription. Low-income elderly people will also get up to $600 a year to help pay for drugs next year and in 2005. Q. Will my Medicare Part B payments for doctor visits be affected?

A. Yes. Starting in 2007, seniors with incomes of $80,000 or more will pay higher premiums for their share of the Part B premium, which covers doctor visits and outpatient care. Those below that level will continue to pay 25% of the premium. Wealthier seniors will pay higher percentages, up to 80% for those with incomes of $200,000 or more.

Q. Are there any tax benefits in the bill?

A. Yes. Starting next year, pre-retirement-age workers who have health insurance plans with high deductibles will be able to save money in tax-free accounts to cover health care. Individuals can put away the amount of the deductible, up to $2,250 a year (4,500 for families), to cover health expenses. Withdrawals for non-medical purposes will be taxed.

Q. Will I have more health plans to choose from?

A. Perhaps. Some health plans that dropped out of the Medicare system in recent years may return. The bill will allow higher payments to health plans from a $12 billion fund to entice them to enroll seniors.

Q. What about this private competition experiment I have heard about?

A. Starting in 2010, about 2 million seniors in six metropolitan areas will be able to choose between traditional Medicare and private plans during a six-year experiment.

The test areas have not been chosen, but affected seniors might have to pay up to 5% more a year if they opt to stay in Medicare instead of switching to cheaper private insurers.

Q. I have drug coverage from my former employer. Will that continue?

A. Maybe. The bill's supporters say more than $80 billion in tax breaks and subsidies to employer plans will encourage them to continue retiree coverage.

But the Congressional Budget Office estimates about 2.7 million seniors could lose benefits that may be more generous than those that will be offered under Medicare.

Q. Will the bill limit rising health care costs?

A. Depends on whom you ask. The bill requires Congress to rein in costs if Medicare must get more than 45% of its funding from general treasury revenue instead of payroll taxes, premiums and other sources.

Critics say the bill is flawed because it doesn't allow Medicare to negotiate cheaper drug prices the way the Department of Veterans Affairs does for veterans.

That job will go to private plans, which have less market clout than Medicare with its 40 million beneficiaries.

A Day at Baltimore Airport

I hope that you will spare me a few minutes of your time to tell you about something that I saw on Monday, October 27.

I had been attending a conference in Annapolis and was coming home on Sunday. As you may recall, Los Angeles International Airport was closed on Sunday, October 26, because of the fires that affected air traffic control. Accordingly, my flight, and many others, were canceled and I wound up spending a night in Baltimore.

My story begins the next day. When I went to check in at the United counter Monday morning I saw a lot of soldiers home from Iraq. Most were very young and all

Many people were stopping the troops to talk to them, asking line or just saying "Welcome you." Home". In addition to all the flights that had been canceled on Sunday, the weather was terrible in Baltimore and the flights were backed up. So, there were a lot of unhappy people in the terminal trying to get home, but nobody that I saw gave the soldiers a bad

FHS Spanish IV Class Sponsors Soccer Game

by Dana Jameson

The place was Chieftain field in Friona, but the game was not football. On this chilly November day the game was soccer. At stake was a reputation. Who would be the victors? The Seniors of 2004 or their rivals, the Junior class?

The first half was dominated by the Senior girls team. They scored 1 goal and kept the Junior girls from even coming close to scoring. They played with a mix of fun and competition.

During the break between halves, students from the Spanish IV class sold hot chocolate and donuts in the concession stand. The hot chocolate was made from Mexican chocolate.

The second half of the game the Senior boys and Junior boys took the field. Once again the Seniors dominated, scoring 3 more goals and holding the Junior boys at bay. The boys played with the gusto of a championship game. But, at the same time having fun just being out on the field with their classmates.

In the end the Seniors won the game with a score of 4 to 1. It was all to benefit an orphanage in Juarez. The money gathered, by selling $1 tickets, will be used for gifts of love for the orphans. The soccer game was sponsored by the Friona High School Spanish IV class. The boys and girls who participated are congratulated for making the effort to help those less fortunate than themselves.
