Students Enjoy Outdoor Watermelon Picnic After Reading Program Adjourns

By J.J. Guidry

Brackett I.S.D. offered a summer reading program, which was federally funded, to help students improve many needed reading skills. Approximately 25 students took part in this essential program.

These students went to school for the last four weeks from 8 am to noon.

They were awarded a picnic at Fort Clark at the mid-term and were rewarded with a watermelon party last Friday, which was their last day.

All of the students were successful in passing the class. Mrs. Oliver and Mrs. Ortega taught the elementary students while Mrs. Henniger taught Jr. High and High School students. Mrs. Talamantez, a Brackett I.S.D. aide, also helped out with the class.

The classes covered vocabulary, writing, using context, poetry and plays.

Congratulations to all the students involved in the program!

Alamo Village Fascinates News 4-KMOL Team

News 4-KMOL was in Kinney County all day Monday, filming segments of the ever popular Alamo Village.

The news team will air filmed clipping of Alamo Village as part of the "Going Places" series aired at 6-6:45 a.m.

Probably Tuesday, August 8, will be the time spot available.

"They're not sure yet," stated Mary Seavers, Chamber of Commerce secretary. Mary Seavers and her husband Glen helped escort the team around the grounds and also mentioned several other areas in our community that may be of interest.

The news team from San Antonio had hoped to stop by Fort Clark and the Bud Breen Art Gallery. "They were so fascinated with Alamo Village, that's all they got around to," added Mary.

Brackettville Students Perform at S.W.T.J.C.

The Upward Bound students at Southwest Texas Junior College will be performing a play Wednesday evening, July 12, at 7 p.m. in the Tate Auditorium on the SWTJC campus. The play, entitled "Choices and Crises," is an original script written and acted out by the high school students themselves, under the direction of their English instructor, Ms. Pam Jucknies. The idea originated during the spring with contacts made by Mrs. Phyllis Erdman, Upward Bound Director, with Southwestern Bell Public Relations Manager, Mrs. Karen O'Neill, in Hondo.

Southwestern Bell recognizes the pressures under which today's teenagers must survive. By opening avenues of communication with parents and peers, some of these problems can be alleviated. The play, "Choices and Crises," hopefully, will provide such an opportunity.

"We have made more progress with this since we started at the first of June than expected," says Erdman, "and the students have decided to perform for a public audience in addition to their parents." Their success is attributed to their own personal interest and hard work, and to the excellent assistance of Jucknies and O'Neill.

Brackettville student cast members will include Maria Duran, Susan Hale, Fidel Hernandez, Arturo Lincon, and Epi Palacios.

Admission will be $1.00 for adults, with proceeds going toward similar educational programs within Upward Bound, and children under 12 will be admitted free.

We urge everyone to attend, whether you have children or not. There will be a message for everyone.

Twin Bull Calves Follow Twin Heifers

Twin bull calves were born at the ranch of Don Nance, long time area rancher. Twin calves are very unusual, more so than for human twins.

What is really unusual is that these bull twins are the second set born to the red Brahma mother. Last year she had a set of twin heifers.

"She's a real big cow," stated Nance, "and a good mother," he added.

Nance sold the twin herefords last year due to drought conditions and may have to sell the new bull twins.

When asked if he might sell the 7 year old mother, he replied, "Nope, I'm not selling her, she's the best cow I've got!"

Volksmarchers who arrived at Fort Clark Springs to mark trails and set distances for hiking, biking and swimming events this weekend included, from left, Texas Volkssport

Volksmarch Organizers Arrive

by Penny Nixon

Selma Pathfinder Volksmarch organizers arrived at Fort Clark Springs in Brackettville on Wednesday, July 5, to begin marking trails for the "Super Six" hiking, biking and swimming events this weekend, July 8 and 9. Up to 30 additional Selma Pathfinder club members will arrive before starting time at 7 a.m. on Saturday to help run the American Volkssport Association sanctioned events.

Participants can earn medals and credit for hiking, biking and swimming by registering on the Fort Clark Springs Activity on Scales Road from 7 a.m. until noon on both Saturday, July 8 and Sunday, July 9. In addition to the three events each day, a special "Night Walk" will begin from 4 to 6 p.m. on Saturday.

Volksmarch participants are encouraged to take each event at their own pace. These are non-competitive events, not tests of speed or endurance. Those who register, and complete the required distances, are declared winners and will receive a beautiful red, white and blue medal. Registration for the first event is $5 and $2.50 for each additional event.

The Selma "Super Six" marks the first time Volkssport events have been offered at Fort Clark Springs. "We've passed by Fort Clark on our way to West Texas Walks, and we always wondered what it would be like to walk here," Selma Pathfinder Club President Jay Spradling said.

"We thought it was a nice area, but we have to credit our former president, Bill Lackey, who always said it would be a great place for multiple events," Spradling added. Bill and his wife Kathryn, are long time Fort Clark Springs members. Bill is currently the president of the Texas Volkssport Association and regional director for the Southwest Region of the American Volkssport Association.

Volkssporting evolved from running races in Germany. When these events became too competitive, the clubs changed the events to be non-competitive, so that everyone could be the winner. The International Volkssport Verband (IVV) was formed to establish Volkssporting throughout the world. There are over 16 member countries of the IVV.

Participation is free to those who don't wish a medal or credit, but everyone needs to sign a simple disclaimer before attempting any event. The events at Fort Clark Springs this weekend are 10 kilometer (about 6 miles) walks through different parts of the Fort, 25 kilometer (about 15 miles) bike rides down the Spofford Highway, and 300 meter swims in the pool. Bike rides will be offered on both Saturday and Sunday.

The Brackettville Volunteer Fire Department will provide food and drinks on both days. The Fort Clark Springs Association will sell coffee and donuts in the Activity Center both mornings. Selma Pathfinder club members will offer refreshments along the trails during the events.

Join the Selma Pathfinders and other AVA members in their goal of promoting physical fitness and good health by encouraging all people, regardless of age, race, color, creed or economic status, to exercise in a stress-free environment this weekend at Fort Clark Springs.

Texas Agriculture Extension Service Grazing Advisory

Area livestock producers need to be careful about grazing animals on the sorghum-type fields. Plant tests have been showing high nitrate levels and also prussic acid. Sorghum plants exhibit nitrate toxicity when stressed from a freeze or lack of moisture. Death from nitrate poisoning and prussic acid is very quick often in a couple of minutes.

There are several factors that can help minimize losses. Cattle are particularly susceptible but hungry cattle that have not had quality forage for a while, will be hit harder. It is a good idea to feed some grain once a day when you turn cattle into a sorghum field to reduce the amount they consume in a day's time.

The poisoning occurs when cattle eat a large amount of stressed sorghum in a relatively short period of time. For more information feel free to contact my office.

When People Lose Their Guns

When these people lose their guns, who is going to protect them?

William Johnson was squirrel hunting near his Thompson Township, Ohio, home when he heard a child's voice cry for her mother and shout "Stop, please stop." Investigating, Johnson discovered a man attempting to rape a 12-year-old girl. The hunter halted the man's attack, subdued him and bound the would-be rapist's hands with a belt and his rifle sling. Johnson was joined by another man, and they took the attacker to the police. (The News-Herald, Lake County, Ohio 10/18/88)

A Baton Rouge, La., woman awoke to find a strange man in her bed. After raping the woman, the attacker was momentarily distracted, giving her the opportunity to pull a revolver from a nightstand and shoot the rapist at point-blank range. The seriously injured assailant fled but was later apprehended. (The Morning Advocate, Baton Rouge, La. 10/1/88)

Hearing screams and barking outside his Colorado Springs, Colo., home, David Dudley got a handgun and rushed out to investigate. Finding Rebecca Nelson, a blind teacher, being attacked by three Rottweilers, Dudley fired at one of the dogs, but his gun malfunctioned.

We generated a total of $19,124 in federal prisoner care fees for the month of June, 1989. This brings our total for this fiscal year to date to $163,548. If our monthly income for the remaining three months of this fiscal year continues at the YTD average, we will have generated a total of $218,064 by September 31st. When the same man who'd robbed Frank Consalvo's Bridgewater, N.J., gas station two times previously showed up again, the owner called police and locked himself behind a door. But when the robber broke through the door, Consalvo opened fire with his revolver, wounding the man. "No charges are being brought against this heroic man," the county prosecutor said. "Mr. Consalvo fired to protect himself." (The Courier-News, Bridgewater, N.J. 1/21/89)

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

This letter is in reference to your story about J.J. Guidry as a news reporter for The Brackett News and his leaving the Kinney Cavalryman. This is not correct.

J.J., and the rest of the journalism class at BISD, were given a page or two in the Kinney Cavalryman and shown how to do the layout as part of their coursework. As time past, J.J. was the only student still writing and producing work. He has at no time been paid as an employee of the Cavalryman.

His work was through the Journalism class alone. Your offer to the class was to all students and only J.J. accepted. Well, he was offered a job at the Cavalryman at about the same time. He told us his mother made the deal with you for him to work there, that it was not of his doing. We did not feel he should be working for both papers as that would be a conflict of interest and wished him luck.

Both of our newspapers have enough competition without J.J. trying to pit us against each other with different stories of his employment. J.J. has the right to work for whoever he wishes and we still wish him well, but we would like the story straight.

Sincerely,
Sandy Herman
(Editor's Note: J.J. is paid as a Brackett News reporter and we're happy to have him report for us. No deals were made with J.J.'s mother. She did state that she was happy to have him work for The Brackett News.)

Dear Brackett News

Unsung Hero

by Joe Townsend

A man came to Brackettville to work for the railroad. He married a young lady of Brackettville and they have one son. He worked for the railroad at Spofford until electronics did away with his job.

He then retired. He has stayed busy with various things, including ranching. He served for a number of years as a City Councilman. He has worked in many community activities. He is always willing, able and ready to help any person or in any situation.

He is friendly, warm-hearted and just an all around good fellow. Surely, Don Nance is an "Unsung Hero".

Green Thumb

One of the beauties of a yard is the opportunity it gives to attract birds.

Where there are trees there can be birds. Where there is not much traffic the better the chance of having birds but they can be attracted even under circumstances of much activity.

If water, a bird bath for example, is available it is certain birds will find it. Even a humming bird feeder will attract humming birds, ordinary bird feeders will attract birds.

Once you have attracted birds and they become comfortable they will come back year after year. This is particularly true of orioles, cardinals, parulozia and even the painted bunting.

If there are cats predominately in the area birds will give it a wide berth. It's interesting and enjoyable to watch these feathered friends. The grackle is one of my least favored birds. He steals other's nests and will eat the eggs or even the young birds.

However I enjoy sitting near the water trough in the pasture and watching the grackle.

They come one after another, land on the edge of the trough, usually take three swigs of water and fly off to deep woods for the night.

The interesting is each one will have something in his mouth.

Usually it's a super large grasshopper but sometimes another large insect. He takes the drink without ever turning loose of his food.

In the meantime there come orioles, (Orchard, Baltimore, Hooded Scott's) Scarlet Tanager, Painted Bunting, Redwing Blackbird, Yellow Headed Blackbird, the ever present cactus wren, king birds, various sparrows, vermilion fly catcher and on and on.

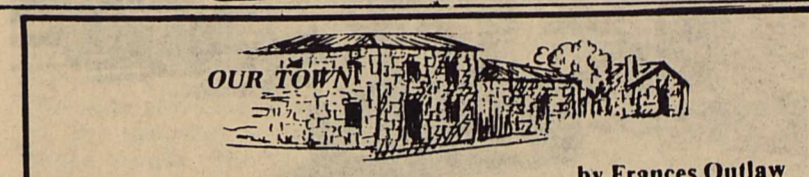

Most of these you will not attract in the city or crowded areas but you can attract enough to have many hours of enjoyment as you form an attachment for those you attract.

Golf News By Les

The golf course was probably the busiest place on the Fort this past week, due to the tournaments sponsored by various organizations and the excellent food being served by Lela and her good crew of workers. Our golfing activities seem to get bigger and better each week and Lela's food continues to "draw 'em in".

The golfers are very fortunate to have four organizations who plan tournaments and work overtime to provide these games for the members and their guest. We have the Golf Committee, headed by Bill Bizzell and his committee members, the PBGA (Pot Belly Golf Association), headed by P.M. Moore and his able bodied workers, the Ladies Golf Association, headed by Mae Roper and her lovely ladies, and, last but not least, the good people who work from week to week keeping records and kicking the Couple's tournament off each Friday.

For the "life of me" I can't imagine a golfing family who is looking for a place to retire and settle down looking any further than Fort Clark Springs. Of course, if they are allergic to "having fun" and "laughing a lot" then maybe they should move on. Having folks around you at all times as happy as these "Fort Clark settlers" could cause the perennial grouch to change his lifestyle and he just might not want to do this.

Wednesday, June 28, the men continued their league play with some changes taking place in the point standings. Les Roper's team number one played Charlie Smith's team number two and outscored them 6.5 points to 5.5 points. High point scorer on the Roper team was Jim Bussey with 3 points and on Smith's team it was Jack Wood with 3 points.

Ralph Viestenz' team number three played Reuben Warren's team number four and outscored them 8 points to 4 points. High point scorer on the Viestenz team was Sam Heninger with 3 points and on Warren's team it was Ward Pomroy with 3 points. The point standings now are:

Team #1 ... Les Roper, Captain	51 points
Team #2 ... Charlie Smith, Captain	28 points
Team #3 ... Ralph Viestenz, Captain	57 points
Team #4 ... Reuben Warren, Captain	36.5 points

On Wednesday there was also a Men's tournament with a blind draw. This Tournament was won by George Miller and Fred England with a 138 net score, second place was won by Doc Cruse and P.M. Moore with a net score of 139, and third place by Bobby Derrickson and Jack Wood, with a net score of 141.

Thursday evening, June 29, the Golf Committee sponsored a Twilight Scramble and it would have to be termed a total success. The golfers were drawn in to teams of four each and they played a nine hole scramble. Following the tournament, the players congregated in the club house where a "super Mexican supper", carefully prepared by Lela, was served.

The winning foursome was captained by Roy Dyer and his team was made up of Dan Isenberg, May Roper and Joy Ralston. Their winning score was a sizzling 3 under par. There was a four way tie for second place and these teams were Bob Young, Helen Miller, Odette Mills and Frank Eckenroth; Gordon Lundquist, Bill Mills, Luella Johnson, Jack Whitworth and Eileen Voracek; Bill Bizzell, Jim Bussey and Les Roper, George Miller, Vickie Nichols and Doris Eckenroth.

The Couple's Tournament was held on Friday, June 30, and still remains one of the more "fun" tournaments played at Fort Clark. The players are paired with their wives or lady friends and their score is based on their handicaps. It is an 18 hole event and everyone is invited to participate.

This week's winning team was headed by Jerry Adams, Mary Lee Trollinger, Andy Anderson and Avis Anderson. Their winning score was a net 41.75. Second place went to Charlie Smith, Luella Johnson, Alice Seargent and Jason Brumfield with a score of 42.75. Third place went to Danny Isenberg, Marti Isenberg, P.M. Moore and Evelyn Whitely with a score of 45.

The ladies on the Golf Committee are now in the preliminary stages of planning a fashion show in the near future. The committee is very fortunate in having Vickie Nichols as a member who is interested in a function such as this.

She brings many years of experience in this particular field to our area and we certainly appreciate this endeavor by her. Assisting her will be Eileen Voracek and we can look for great things from these two talented ladies. We will keep our readers posted from week to week as the show plans continue to progress.

This week's "Most Courteous Golfer" award goes to a pair of golfers. I played in a foursome in one of our local tournaments and it took us four hours to complete the round. This couple followed the foursome the entire time and not one time did they request to play through, even though the offer was made by the team.

When they were approached, they just commented how happy they were to be out on the course and they certainly were in no hurry. This kind of courtesy has to be recognized. Hats off to Andy and Avis Anderson, two of the nicest people you will ever hope to meet.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by Charles King Cooper

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Non-marital pursuits are clearly favored over business ventures this week. Be extra careful regarding the use of credit. While you might be interested in adding a few credit cards to your collection, this is not the time to do so. Be sure to read all fine print regarding offers that intrigue you before signing on the dotted line.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Some relaxation is necessary this week as you may be too hard on yourself or those around you. Perhaps a quick and inexpensive weekend getaway is in order. Financial problems could be in the picture now, so worry could keep you from being your best self.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Be wary of co-workers this week as everything you hear on the job might not just be the exact truth. This week you need to be especially shrewd and wary of rumor mongers who might not have your best interests at heart. This weekend socializing is clearly favored as are club or hobby-oriented activities.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Now is not the time for a lot of talking. You still need to keep a plan under wraps for now. You can, however, expect a marked increase in social activities this weekend. Unexpected developments on the job are favorable this week. Try not to spend too much money this weekend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) It is very important this week that you have your privacy. Be wary of a friend who continually intrudes on your time. If you allow yourself some peace of mind and needed rest at this time, you will be able to sort out any pressing problems on your mind. This weekend, stay close to the homefront with the accent on rest and relaxation.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your originality and politeness will lead to great gains this week on the job. In fact, your stars are working for you now in many ways. A new budding romance is in the stars for singles, and married couples will experience renewed love and harmony. Enjoy.

MOON CHILDREN (June 21 to July 22) If you are in a new budding romance this week, you could have a slight disappointment. Be on the lookout for a manipulative family member. Collaborative efforts aren't especially favored this week, so work alone. Now is the time to catch up on those chores you have ignored.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Discussions with higher-ups at work are very favorable this week. However, be sure not to take on more than you can handle regarding your job responsibilities. Someone close to you has some good advice regarding a project. Romance is also in the air this week, especially for the unattached.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) This week will feature some of your very best business ideas, so be prepared to be at your best as bigwigs will be watching with heightened interest. Even though you are feeling anxious and restless, home activities are more favored now than outside interests.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A surprise visit from someone in your past could be in the works, but do not allow this shocker to get you in an uproar. Instead, enjoy renewing this tie and sharing news. You will be tempted to overspend this week, so keep a tight rein on your purse strings.

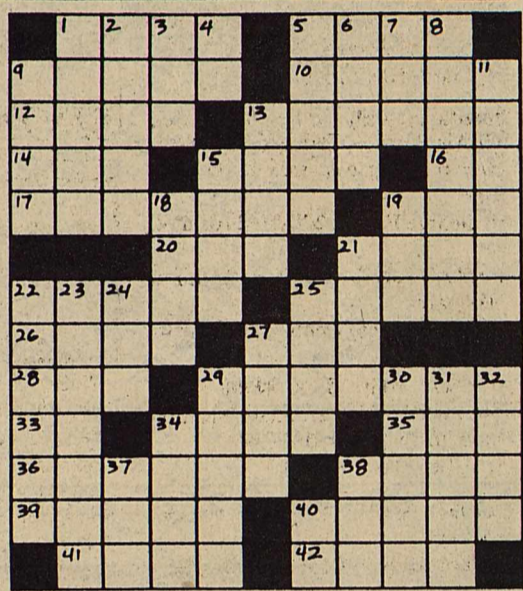

VRGO (August 23 to September 22) Though your judgment is very good this week regarding activities on the job, you may be a bit blinded in your personal life. A friend now is extra sensitive and easily offended, so think before you speak. It is not, though, necessary to be overly accommodating this week.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You've been sitting on the sidelines for quite some time now without expressing an opinion to a loved one. Now is the time to speak your mind. If you jump in and share your thoughts, others will be surprisingly welcome to your ideas and suggestions. In addition, you may be surprised now a meeting of the minds sparks romance or financial gains.

VID PICK OF THE WEEK — "Dangerous Liaisons" starring Glenn Close, John Malkovich, and Michelle Pfeiffer. Three great performances by the aforementioned save this steamy and devilishly divine movie. Close is the vain Marquise de Merteuil, who is at the forefront of the "sex is power" strategy, which she holds strongly to during the beginning of the French Revolution. Malkovich is also a power-hungry man who is determined to conquer, as is the Marquise. Meanwhile, Pfeiffer portrays the woman who is religious, feeling that turning to God is the only defense she has against wicked people.

This movie is a delight for those who love to relish the villains, but root for the good guys. Additionally, the costumes are strikingly grand and fit the era in which this movie takes place. This vid is available from the good folks at Warner Home Video and retails for $89.95.

OTHER NEW VIDS OF NOTE — "The Boost" starring James Woods and Sean Young (HBO) $89.99 ... "Buster" starring Phil Collins and Julie Waters (HBO) $89.99 ... "Letting Go" starring John Ritter and Sharon Gless (AIP) $79.95 ... "The Lone Ranger: Outlaw's Trail" and "The Lone Ranger: Texas Draw" starring Clayton Moore and Jay Silverheels (Orion) each vid $19.95.

Flick Picks

STAR TREK V

I have very fond memories of staying up past my bedtime to watch "Star Trek." In school, we gave each other nicknames after the crew members we felt we most closely emulated. (I was Spock!) When the show was cancelled, my friends and I wrote letter after letter begging NBC to reconsider. Like many childhood dreams, it didn't happen.

To my utter delight as an adult, "Star Trek" came back — on the big screen. And, with the exception of the first "Star Trek" movie, I loved every single adventure. Now, along comes the fifth one in the series. I happily hurry to the theater, slip into my seat, and prepare for another flight with my favorite crew.

To my vast disappointment, this film was so disjointed and, for lack of a better word, totally illogical. The plot was really convoluted, and the major characters (outside the old crew) went undeveloped and two-dimensional throughout the movie. The dialogue was stilted, melodramatic, and downright silly.

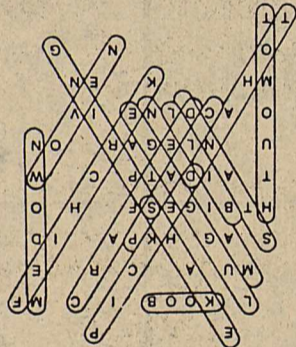

Here, loosely, is the plot: The Enterprise is hijacked and piloted beyond the Great Barrier which is the border into infinity. What lies beyond? Eden? Paradise? Hell? Who knows? Who cares?

I think what happened here is that the film went into production with a half-finished, half-baked script. Had the powers-that-be taken the time to polish the script, I believe the movie could have been as riveting as "Star Trek IV." To William Shatner's credit, he did the best he could with what he had. I would not hold his directorial job suspect. Rumors had circulated that Leonard Nimoy was called upon to doctor up a botched job on Shatner's part, but I don't buy it. The script simply was unworkable.

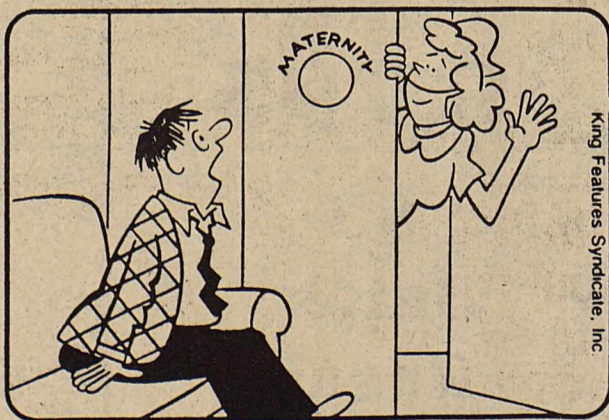

My night at the movies was not totally ruined, however. I still enjoyed the camaraderie and banter of my old friends. Oh well, I guess I'm just another Baby Boomer in the throes of nostalgia for the Good Old Days!

Grandma's Kitchen

I just spent the most beautiful few days going through some old books of my Mama's and I found an article on Roquefort Cheese that literally cracked me up. I want to share it with you and I hope that you enjoy it as much as I did.

Roquefort Cheese is made in France from the milk of a certain breed of sheep, which are fed on wild thyme and the cheese has a wild time trying to keep from stinking itself to death in its infancy. The wild thyme grows on the banks of the Lat Tarn and other rivers in the department of Aveyron in France. After it has first been besheeped and then becheesed it generates a lot of the tarndese smells that ever perambulated down the pike.

Thyme is a kind of an aromatic plant with a pungent odor and after it is converted into Roquefort Cheese, it is the most pungent thing known to man. After this cheese is made, it is put in solitary confinement until its whiskers begin to turn grey and gangrene sets in, then it is taken out and chained to a post.

Before it is served, it is chloroformed or knocked in the head with an ax. It is then brought to the table in little square sections about the size of a domino. It is served at the close of meals together with black coffee. It usually has a running mate in the shape of a round cracker that has to be broken with a maul.

Roquefort Cheese is of a dull white color, except in spots where mortification has set in. Some claim it to be inhabited, but this is not true. Even the intrepid and mephitic microbe flees from it, as we flee from a pestilence. We have seen Limburger

Cheese strong enough to shoulder a two-bushed sack of wheat, but a piece of Roquefort the size of a dice can carry an election.

Limburger is a rose geranium compared with Roquefort. There is as much difference between them as there is between the purr of a kitten and the roar of a lion. Some people, who claim to be civilized, say they like Roquefort Cheese, but they only eat it because it is imported and expensive. A man who will eat it is an open sepulchre and should be quarantined or driven into the wilderness and never again be allowed to look into the face of a human being.

In all my life, I've never tried either of these cheeses, and after reading this, I don't believe I ever will. There's something else that has as pungent of an odor and that's the garlic. Of course, we all use and love it, but I'll bet you didn't know it came from the lily family.

Besides the savor it gives to food, garlic is said to have given strength to the pyramid builders, courage to the Roman legions and fighting spirits to the English gamecocks. It was also used as a charm against evil until modern times.

Its medicinal uses have been documented for centuries. It was always a popular remedy for colds, sore throats and coughs. When plagues ravaged Europe, people ate garlic daily as a protection against disease. Most people say that it worked as a preventive simply by keeping others at a safe distance.

Now that, I believe. My, my, I've rattled on and on and nearly forgot my recipe for the week. I just went through S.C. I bought some of the first peaches off the trees, best little morsel I've had in a while. Then my aunt and I made this delicious cobbler. I guarantee you'll love this. My grandma handed it down to all of us for over 100 years, so give it a try with any fruit.

Fruit Pie - or Cobbler
1 stick soft margarine 3/4 cup sugar
3/4 cup flour 3/4 cup sweet milk
Mix together and place in bottom of baking dish. Now if you're too lazy, like me, use bisquick and mix up a biscuit dough, works just as well. Now take 1 cup fruit juice, 1 cup sugar and 1 cup fruit (any kind). Mix this together and pour over the dough mixture. Bake at 375° for about 40 minutes. As this cooks, the dough rises to the top and becomes the crust - delicious.

My thought this week is - You cannot force the growth of human life and civilization any more than you can force these slow-growing trees. This is God's economy, that all good growth is slow growth.

The Comancheros we see in the films and on T.V. are sometimes hogwash, almost as much as the many tales of Billy the Kid. Only in the last few years of their trading do the tales hold true.

Comancheros means someone who traded with Comanches, but they also traded with other tribes. In 1786 a peace declaration was signed between the Spanish and Comanche.

As early as the 16th century the Spanish explorers traded for corn, cotton, blankets, pottery and turquoise from the Pueblos for buffalo meat and hides.

In a few years the early settlers did the same. This trading was carried on even while raiding occurred. It took place at trade fairs on the Pecos and Taos fairs in their pueblos. The 1786 Comanche peace treaty was a pact that lasted for almost a hundred years.

Comanche trade goods included flour, sugar, dried pumpkins, onions tobacco and corn bread.

Corn bread became so popular it would bring a good pony for a sackful. Comanches received in turn horses, mules, buffalo meat and robes and some firearms. The Comanches traded for lead and powder with the Osage tribe to the north.

When the Comancheros went to trade on the plains of Oklahoma and beyond to the Texas mountainlands, and to the South Platte River in Colorado, the Pueblo Fairs ceased to exist.

Even with their crude carretas the Comancheros were pathfinders. They guided the Texas Sante Fe Expedition. The risks were great from the Kiowas, Navajos, Apaches and Utes. They traded and bought prisoners from the Indians.

In 1837 a Mrs. Horn was bought from the Comanches for a horse, four bridles, two mirrors, two knives and some tobacco. Earlier and American had offered the Indians a poor old horse for her and had been turned down.

The army had little success in dealing with the Comancheros but the New Mexicans kept up an active trade with them. After 1862 the Comancheros were used for some scouting by the army.

A leader of the Comancheros was a seven foot tall man named Tofoya who at one time was called "Prince of the Comancheros". He is believed to have been from San Miguel County, and was said to have done more trading than any other.

When the Comancheros wanted to set up a trade they would send up smoke signals. The Comanches would respond, first they would feast, then compete in archery, wrestling and horse racing. In the trading later, ten pounds of coffee would bring a pack horse, five pounds of tobacco a mule, a keg of whisky or the robes off their backs.

Charles Goodknight estimated they traded thousands of beavers and horses between the years 1860 and 1867. He always claimed the Comancheros caused the price of beef to drop on the markets of the territory.

Unexpected Pleasure

I experienced an unexpected pleasure Saturday night at the swim park on Fort Clark. The Eric Scott Band entertained us for a few hours with some toe-tapping music which was enjoyed by young and old alike. This band with its personable leader could compete with any organization for its excellence in performance. Eric hails from San Antonio and certainly gave all of us attending the dance a pleasant evening.
