"If a man had half as much insight, as he has hindsight, he would have twice as much foresight."

Swanson Named FCS Member Of Year

Board secretary Niemann presented the Fort Clark Springs Member of the Year Award to a most deserving recipient, Don Swanson, at the annual membership meeting Saturday morning, March

Don and his wife, Fran, have been Fort Clark residents since 1981 and have been members for 20 years.

Don and Fran were among the first to buy a Colony Row House. He then researched, applied for, and secured the Texas Historical Commission markers you see on the eight duplex former officer quarters on Colony Row.

Don has served on the Planning Committee and on the Board of Directors. He was board president part of that time.

His special interests in Seminole Indians and army history made him a natural as curator of the Fort Clark Museum. He served in that position for several years and was always available to open the museum for tourists outside regular hours.

His study of the Seminole Indians began at the age of 2 when he accompanied his mother, who was a nurse, to Seminole reservations in Florida.

After coming to Fort Clark, he devoted most of his time to his studies and received training in museum operation while volunteering at Fort Davis in the summer

He is a retired military officer, but not army. Somehow he got into the navy, and became a pilot. God surely his co-pilot because he survived three plane crashes.

He also serves on the Kinney County Historical Commission.

Without this member's devotion to duty, his research and his vision, the history of the Fort would not be known and recognized as it is today.

The Association will be forever grateful to Don Swanson, Member of the Year, 1994.

Underground Water Study In Progress Could Help Legislate K.C. Water District

consulting firm from Austin, will be working in the Brackettville area for the next two weeks conducting a study of the western edge of the Edwards aquifer. A natural "ground water divide" near Brackettville is thought to act as a barrier which may prevent ground water in eastern Kinney County from moving westward towards Del Rio as well as possibly preventing ground water movement from the Del Rio side towards San Antonio.

Guyton and Associates has received a contract from the Edwards Underground Water District (EUWD) to study the ground water divides in Kinney County in the west and in Hays County near Kyle, Texas, in the eastern edge of the Edwards aquifer.

For several years the EUDW's Division of Field Operations have been conducting research to better define the hydrologic boundaries of the Edwards aquifer. In 1992 the EUWD completed a study along the bad water line (southern limit of fresh water) between San Antonio and Uvalde and discovered that about a 100 square mile area existed within the fresh water zone not identified on previous maps. Additionally, the EUWD is studying the northern boundary. It is believed that approximately 300 cubic-feet per second of recharge to the Edwards aquifer occurs from the Glen Rose (Middle Trinity) aquifer across the northern portion of six counties from Kinney to Hays County. The EUWD will determine if this in fact, occurring or if the amount of recharge is more or less than previously believed.

Many property owners in Kinney and Uvalde Counties have reported ****

L.B.G. Guyton and Associates, a a rise in water levels in their wells after Amistad Reservoir was constructed in 1969. The work now being done in Brackettville will help answer this question and complete the series of studies performed around the perimeter of the aquifer from Kyle to Brackettville. Geologists from the EUWD will be assisting Guyton and Associates in measuring water levels in wells which produce from the Edwards aquifer along the assumed position of the ground water divide.

The operation involves running a steel measuring tape, which has been coated with chalk on the last few feet, in through any opening in the top of the well and down into the top foot or two of water in the well. The water washes the chalk off of the portion of the tape that is below the surface, allowing the geologist to measure the depth from the water surface up to the ground level. Guyton hopes to be able to get measurements in a minimum of fifty wells in the northeastern portion of Kinney County during this study.

Each well owner will be given a copy of the data from their wells and with their permission, will be acknowledged in publication.

Guyton and Associates as well as the EUWD, would appreciate any well owners that would allow their wells to be measured to contact the Substance Abuse Media Fair Winners Edwards Underground District toll free at (800) 292-1047, or Guyton and Associates at (512) 327-9640. The information gathered from this study will be used solely to better understand the position and behavior of the ground water divides, and how they relate to the overall understanding of the Edwards aquifer.

Sheriff's Corner

By Sheriff Norman H. Hooten

Ironically, these career criminals have developed this tremendous physical advantage with equipment and actual training provided in state and federal prison facilities at TAXPAYERS EXPENSE!

find themselves victims of these career criminals.

We are not only paying for the room and board, medical, dental, and educational costs of criminals, but we are also paying for their preparation to defeat us in our own homes, on the streets, and in the correctional environment itself.

Most law enforcement officers, although they should find the time, often do not have the time to devote to their own weight training, boxing, and/or martial arts training programs. All inmates in state or federal jails or prisons have is time.

And, ironically, very few, if any, police or sheriff's departments provide boxing or martial arts lessons for their officers (after all, they might hurt someone and get sued!) and there are very few that provide their officers with weight lifting equipment (it's hard enough just to get the much needed basic law enforcement equipment to get our work done).

Jail and prison inmates also train among themselves to defeat us on the streets and in our homes. Corrections officials have actually captured, on camera, inmates training to defeat the commonly used tactics of police in wall and patdown searches, come -along holds, as well as practicing attacks on officers with edged weapons (knives). And, adding insult to injury, due to the inmate's "First Amendment" rights, we must allow prison inmates access to law enforcement publications while in confinement so that they can train more effectively. Kinda like the Dallas Cowboys football team giving their "playbook" to the opponent!

Kinney County

The issue of providing inmates with the training and use of equipment that enables them to train and prepare for the defeat of officers and citizen victims has long been an issue discussed in detail by both street officers and corrections officers. These discussions usually occur after an officer has been injured, or killed, when confronting one of these fresh releases on the street. The issue also caused some controversey and discussion after rioting inmates of the Lucasville, Ohio, prison used the steel bar of a weightlifting set as a battering ram to break down a concrete wall and capture a corrections officer and a prison inmate hiding in an emergency security area. The inmate was murdered by fellow prisoners for assisting the corrections officer.

At issue is the difference between providing inmates with equipment and training to develop "absolute strenth" opposed to "calisthenics" which increase muscular endurance, improve muscle tone, and increase cardiovascular endurance. Absolute strength is a measurement of how much short term work a muscle group is capable of doing. It is usually measured by the amount of weight in poundage that can be moved through a bench press or leg press test. Absolute or raw strength increases through an increase in muscle mass, which can only be accomplished by lifting weights greater than one's own body weight. Calisthenics cannot increase absolute strength beyond the limit of one's own bodyweight. Absolute strength is the one component of physical fitness training by jail and prison inmates that poses the greatest threat to police and citizen victims of newly released convicts

At long last an effort is being made to do something about this problem and the Law Enforcement Alliance of America (LEAA) has drafted the "Prison Inmate Training Reform Act", commonly known as the "Weightlifting Ban" Bill. Simply put, this legislation, if enacted, would ban and remove all weightlifting equipment, ban and remove boxing lessons and equipment, and prohibit all martial art lessons and equipment. All such equipment would be given to community youth groups, such as the YMCA/YWCA, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, etc. for their use. (Why not offer to police and sheriff's departments first?) The bill DOES NOT ban calisthenics, jogging, basketball, and other physical exercises that pose no threat to police, corrections officers, or citizens. It only addresses those devices that build absolute strength.

At the present time only federal. prisoners in federal detention centers would be affected but efforts are being made to have state lawmakers address this very serious threat to the lives, safety, and security of police and corrections officers and law-abiding citizens. who are all too often finding themselves at the mercy of 250 pound masses of muscle recently released from prison and returning to their life of crime and throwing their victims around like rag dolls! let them develop their running skills to get away after committing a crime, but let's not continue to provide, at taxpayer's expense, the means for which to injure and kill police officers and citizens.

Congresswoman Deborah Pryce (R) Ohio has agreed to sponsor legislation for national introduction in th U.S. House of Representatives. The Bill, if enacted, will amend Chapter 303 of Title 18, United States Code by adding at the end of the following new section:

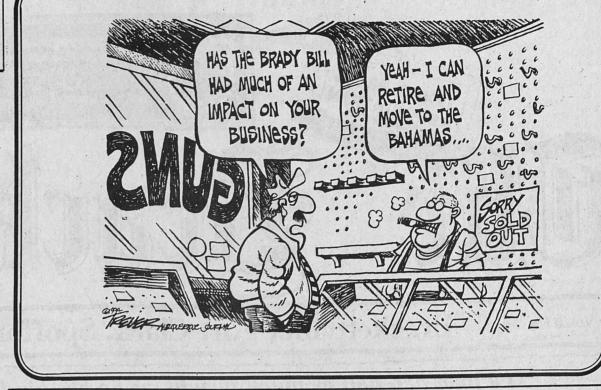

*4047. Strength and fighting skills training by prisoners prohibited.

Under this legislation the federal Bureau of Prisons shall take care that: (1) prisoners under its jurisdiction shall not be permitted the use of any and all forms of weight machines; or any other device specifically designed to develope muscle mass and strength;

The new law would continue on with other prohibitions as mentioned above. Hopefully it will be passed and then states can follow with state laws patterned after the federal law. We need all the help we can get to continue our sometimes seemingly hopeless battle against crime in this continuing era of "Prisoner's rights!"

That's All!

the penitentiary. The boy has a smooth talking lawyer who plays to the sympathy of the women on the jury. He's found to be guilty of capital murder and the jury sets his penalty at 41/2 years. This sends the message loud and clear that any thing below 15 years old can coldly kill respectable people and with a slick lawyer and mostly women on the jury and walk away.

Now comes Rodney King. Officers were tried for beating the thug. The jury couldn't find him guilty so another jury (stacked) and a judge favorable to the criminal finally found some officers guilty.

Driving Tests License Renewal

An officer from the Texas Department of Public Safety will be at the County Courtroom, Kinney County Court House, each 1st and 3rd Thursday and each 5th Thursday, during the normal working hours of county offices.

The officer will be available to give driving tests, or to renew drivers licenses.

Now comes the removal of the chief of Police. After a "nationwide" search a Negro from back east is hired. The man who is not continually causing more problems than he solves as U.S. Secretary of State came to mediate the problems of police in Los Angeles.

His actions led to decimating the power of police and policies favoring criminals.

Now comes the habitual criminal Rodney King with an ambulance chasing lawyer, sensing mega-bucks and sues the city.

A man who never in his life had worn a suit and tie was dressed as a modicum of well dressed decorum in an effort to con the jury. -It worked in the second trial so he'll try again.

The "city" offers him a "settlement" of one million two hundred thousand dollars. His lawyer thumbs his nose at the offer and demands ten million dollars.

A gutless jury may well turn its back on taxpayers and give him a large amount of money. This man has defied the law all his life. He had been picked up (not on) three times since his bout with police.

Two men with him at the time of the fracas simply followed orders by the police and there was no problem. This miscreant defied the police actively and threateningly and now denigrates the police and wants millions of dollars from the tax payers of Los Angeles.

In the meantime another black drags a man from his truck and openly almost kills him and a jury fails to convict him of obvious crime.

As long as criminals are treated as heroes and police officers are treated as criminals, crime will continue to escalate and all the posturing by politicians is sounding brass and tinkling cymbals.

Composting. A simple way to save a pile.

Composting saves you and your community money. It's an easy way to convert yard wastes into a nutrient-rich soil additive. Used on your lawn and garden, it can save water, improve soil quality and cut down on the amount of expensive fertilizers, peat moss, and mulch you buy. Plus, yard waste takes up as much as 20% of what we dump. So, composting can make your landfill last longer. That could mean lower sanitation fees and a savings of tax dollars to you. So heap it up! Compost and save. For more information visit or call:

Only two more weeks before the IRS income filing deadline. We still have plenty of forms left, but they are on a first come-first serve basis. However, we do have a master book to make copies from in case we run out, or do not have, the particular form you need. We also have the form and master copy to file for an extension.

Where can a person go in Brackettville to find current information on medical and health topics? The Kinney County Public Library, of course. Through a grant from the National Library of Medicine, our library has received the computer software program "Grateful Med." This program allows us to access search several medical databases for current medical and health journal articles. Once you have selected the articles you need. we then can order them through interlibrary loan. A $2.00 fee will be assessed for the online time, however, online time for AIDS related databases is free. During the past year we have completed several successful searches on such topics as Addison's Disease, massage therapy, and juvenile asthma. I encourage everyone to take advantage of this valuable service.

New books in the library are Seasons Of Her Life, the latest from Fern Michaels, 9 Lives To Murder by Marian Babson, Unnatural Causes by P.D. James in large print, The Biography Of John C. Calhoun by Irving H. Bartlett, and The Roads Of Texas, a county by county road map of Texas.

Unsung Hero

Today I'm departing from the norm. I want to take this opportunity to pay tribute to a fine group of dedicated people.

The "Voices of Fort Clark" serve a very needful place in this community. Many of them are here for only a short time each year and yet in those months serve the community well.

Their recent concert was a fine display of their hard work. From the annual Community Thanksgiving Service through the Easter Sunrise Service this fine group adds much to our community.

A great tribute is due Lee Herron, the leader of The Voices, and Mrs. Lynn McNew, the director, as well as those who give so much time and effort to add blessing and enjoyment to all who hear them.

Surely the "Voices of Fort Clark" classify as Unsung Heroes.

Fax machines are the mail of the future and we are excited to be able to offer our services to you at a reasonable price. Outgoing faxes are $2.00 for the first page, $1.00 for the second page and 50¢ for each page thereafter. Incoming faxes are $1.00

Board Secretary Barbara Niemann read results of the recently held board election: those elected were Dorothy Gore, Val Finch, and Barry Williams. General Manager Pete Cook gave a report noting all the improvements and special maintenance of several fort facilities during the past year. Spirits remained high as over 500 Bar-B-Q plate lunches were served at the Service Center. Nancy Frerich, lunch coordinator, did an excellent job as always. Nancy wishes to thank Travis and Mitch Wilson for cooking the excellent brisket and beans, Restaurant Manager Tammy Melton for her assistance in preparing other tasty dishes, and fellow employees and members who served up the plates.

Later in the evening a fish fry dinner was held at the Service Club. Special thanks to the chief cooks Jack Whitworth, Ronnie Hobbs, and Rick Hagler. You can always count on the best fried catfish in all of Southwest Texas at Fort Clark.

Topping off the evening was the absolutely best entertainment anywhere. The Old Quarry Society presented a variety show to a standing room only crowd at Town Hall. The entertainment varied from singers, dancers, musicians to comic acts. It was all there! The most outstanding performers anywhere were at our own Town Hall. Of course, the most side splitting act was three "Lovely Ballet 'Ladies'." Harrell Floyd, Rick Bacon and Larry Sofaly were the "Lovely Ladies" who tripped (well, not really) the light fantastic to the sound of laughter from the packed audience. Our hats are off to the organizers for a terrific evening.

April will begin with Prime Rib Dinner Saturday, April 2, at Las Moras Restaurant. The annual sunrise services will be at the Amphitheater Easter Sunday. A special Easter buffet will be served starting at noon at Las Moras Inn.

Have you ever noticed that when the wind blows and the dirt flows, it has an adverse effect on most civilized people?

Well, I have. And I am here to tell you that most of the people in Querecho Flats have a really bad attitude in the spring and late winter

Yep, I have studied human nature for quite a long time now and it finally dawned on me that it's the wind and dirt that make most people irritable. Course that statement doesn't always apply to women. (They seem to be irritable without all that much help from the elements of nature).

But the thing of it is, when the wind blows it has a really neat way of messing things up. Like hair, sand hills change appearance, clothes blow off of clothes lines, and dirt gets into everything.

One of my most recent finds concerning the nature of human nature is that one shouldn't mention the fact that another one's hair seems to be "mussed" because of the wind.

I made the mistake just the other day when three of the good ladies (?) from the Better Than Thou Club came back from town after spending mega-bucks at the beauty parlor.

I was unaware of the beauty parlor extravaganza until I managed to make a statement that wasn't all one more time. The ladies (?) stopped in at Garlan's for a soda pop and a little more gossip before going home and dazzling their dear old husbands their store-bought improvements.

I just happened to be in there enjoying a soda pop and some peanuts when they came in.

Now I personally couldn't feature any one wanting to look like they had just stuck their fingers in some high voltage light socket. But these ladies (?) hair looked a little rough.

Chronicles Of Fort Clark, Texas By Donald A. Swanson (To run in installments)

General Of The Army George C. Marshall

In the 92 years of active service in the U.S. Army of the post Fort Clark, Texas, many important military men passed through its gates. Probably from his record of accomplishments General George C. Marshall tops all of them. From Fort Clark's position it is great to claim the likeness of General Marshall but from his standpoint he probably wouldn't be as ready to claim Fort Clark. General Marshall is quoted about his duty at Fort Clark as "the hardest service I ever had in the Army!"1

Marshall was born George the head with an ice cream sandwich December 1, 1880, to George C. Marshall and Laura (Bradford) Marshall. He graduated from Virginia Military Institute in Lexington, Virginia, in 1901. On February 11, 1902, soon after he received his commission in the army, Marshall married Elizabeth Carter Coles of Lexington, Virginia.

His first duty with the army was with the 30th Infantry in the Philippine Islands, 1902-1903. His next duty was at Fort Reno, Oklahoma, 1903-1906, and it was during this period in his career that he was assigned the detached duty at Fort Clark. He drew several assignments of duty but by 1913 he had been selected as aide-de-camp to Major General Hunter Liggett. His ability in that post pegged him for another aide-de-camp assignment with Major General J. Franklin Bell, 1916-1917.

World War I was now in progress, he was assigned chief of staff, G-3 with American Expeditionary Force in France. This duty led him to be aide-de-camp to General Pershing in France and Washington, 1919-1924.

Although Marshall later commanded several army posts, he seemed to be assigned more frequently to the staff positions. In 1939, Marshall became the acting Chief of Staff then later that year he was named the Chief of Staff, the position he held until the end of World War II. While General of the Army, Marshall was named Special Representative of the President with rank of Ambassador to China.

January 1947 Marshall was selected by President Truman to be Secretary of State. It was in this position that he devised the Marshall Plan to aid in revitalizing of war-torn Europe. This endeavor he will probably be remembered most for in history. In 1949 he became the President of the American Red Cross but by 1950 President Truman had reappointed him in his cabinet, Secretary of Defense.

September 1951 he retired from public life. In 1953 he received the Nobel Peace Prize for his initiation of the European Recovery Act and he died on October 16, 1959.

Let's stop this great officer's career at the period of 1905, when he was a Lieutenant, in order to review the time "that was the hardest service he ever had in the Army." From Fort Reno Lt. Marshall was transferred on detached service to the First Cavalry Regiment Headquarters, Fort Clark, Texas.

The specific duty Lt. Marshall was to perform on this detached service was to map 2,000 square miles of territory and to survey an area between Comstock and Langtry, Texas. This was an area of desert and scrub with deep ravines and no water at all except for a small section near the Devil's River. The Southern Pacific Railroad had found it difficult in 1881-82 to build a railroad through this area. Due to the terrain, the SPRR had to return in 1890 to change the route and its crossing for the Pecos River.

In order to perform this duty Lt. Marshall was given a team consisting of a 1st Cavalry sergeant, a driver, a packer and his assistant and a cook, two horses, an escort wagon, a four-line mule team, and a pack train of twenty mules. He was told that the only place where he would get food and supplies in the area for men and animals was at Langtry, in 1905, was probably best noted as a watering stop for the train and Judge Roy Bean's "Law West Of The Pecos." Although Fort Clark had in the past had an outlying camp at Langtry, it was closed April 31, 1891, and the Pecos High Bridge which became an outlying outpost of Fort Clark much later, after the 1910 Mexican unrest started. So the population of the area Marshall was to map consisted mainly of railroad workmen, some hearty ranch men. and bars with their followers, a rough area as to people and terrain. To conduct the extensive detached service from Fort Clark, Lt. Marshall placed a requisision with the Quartermaster requesting rations and forage be shipped to the train stops along the railroad between Comstock and Sanderson (probably Dryden). This way he and his team could come to the stops and replenish their supplies as needed. The requisition was still being passed from post to post between Texas and Oklahoma when Marshall and his men were in the middle of the Southwest desert and it was never executed. Luckily the Lt. took the precaution of getting vouchers for buying forage while enroute.

This mapping expedition departed Fort Clark in July 1905 and had all the making of a vintage western film. His mule driver was Nat Cox of Brackettville, who was a veteran of the Indian Wars that had stood as a child at his father's, Nathan Cox, knee and watched him shoot at a Comanche raiding party trying to storm their tent (1865). Marshall's sergeant was a cavalryman with 20 years of service, overly proud of his luxurious drooping mustache and his capacity for bad liquor.

The midsummer heat was fierce by the time the team started out from Comstock. "The thermometer would go up to a hundred and thirty" Marshall recalled. The team followed the railroad to begin with as Marshall had to walk the track and count the sections of rail. That would give him an exact measurement which he needed as a base line. He got his distances otherwise from the odometer on the wheel of the wagon or from the time scale on the walking of his horse.

Forage was not too difficult to come by, but food was another matter. The onions and potatoes that the group took with them were exhausted by the end of the first week. Thereafter, they had to subsist on canned bacon and other meats, and Marshall did badly on it. Lacking fresh vegetables, his digestion suffered, and he was soon in great pain from heartburn. He stated, "I could barely drink without gasping. As I recall, I went in there weighing about a 165 to 170 pounds, and I came out weighing 132 poun-

But the lack of water was the greatest trial. The lieutenant made sure his animals were watered first and then carefully rationed the rest of the water among his men, but toward the end Marshall denied himself any liquids at all. Nat Cox. claiming he was used to desert conditions, volunteered to abstain with him in order to sustain the rest. Marshall and the old one (Cox was sixty) marched or rode the last fifty miles without any water and all but collapsed when they reached Langtry but were quickly revived by the hospitality of the citizenry.

Langtry, the old frontier town west of the Pecos, which had been named by its gun-toting Judge Roy Bean after a famous English beauty, Lillie Langtry, was a pretty wild town in 1905 and was prepared to give its visitors a hearty welcome, particularly if they had money. It so happened that there was mail awaiting the expedition in Langtry, and it included pay for the men. The sergeant, an old hand at paydays, promptly loaded up with liquor from the local store, found Langtry's principal bar and brothel, and moved in, threatening to shoot anyone who tried to interrupt him. He declared he was going to sit back and enjoy both drink and girls (Continued next column)

Moncus' Musings

Fisherbirds

Osprey came on the wind the other day. At first I heard only their shrill screams so sharp they pulled my eyes skyward. There I saw their beautiful shape high up in the sun. They rode currents quickly out of This day I didn't but I have watched them dive for fish. Everyone should see that happen. They are extremely efficient. If they venture a dive they retrieve a fish. They seem to fold up and fall from the sky and hit the water like a broken thing but soon recover and lift out of the water clutching a fish in their long talons. On á day when you've seen such pretty birds you shouldn't worry, wonder instead. Where do they come from? Was the north wind what brought them? Do they come the same way every time? Who else north of you saw them coming down? When did they fish last? How special the fish was that's caught by osprey.

Osprey were made for taking fish and you wonder why what we were made for doesn't seem so obvious. How is looking at fish from high in the air? How hungry do those birds get between fish? Where are they going to land and does that shrill screaming mean anything besides, "I'm here, where are you?"

A moment with them is worth so much more than an hours work or an argument about anything or a rushed kiss or worry and if I never know the answers to any of my wondering questions about the osprey, the moment I had with these two birds was more than satisfying. The flight of these two fisherbirds today was as they were one with the wind.

Chronicles Of Fort Clark Continues

until such time as they, and his money, were used up. But if the girls were willing, the citizenry were not. They objected to having their main source of entertainment and relaxation requisitioned by the U.S. Army and demonstrated before the entrance to the saloon. Threatening to burn it down if the sergeant kept the padlocks on the doors, a panicky little town committee roused Marshall from his well-merited slumbers to demand that he resolve the situation before all hell broke loose. He was taken down the street to the place where the riotous townsfolk were demonstrating and he was interested to note that many of the protesters seemed to be wives and other respectable-looking women-

Marshall, having listened to their complaint, went up to the door of the saloon, loudly demanded admittance, and he was allowed in by one of the girls. The Lieutenant found his sergeant sleeping upstairs like a baby, a blissful smile on his face, with one handlebar of his rich mustachios missing (he and the girls had been playfully shaving each other) and no one was willing to wake him up since he still had his .45 revolver belted around his long johns. With his eyes averted from the girls, who were by no means bashful in welcoming this handsome young newcomer, the lieutenant took the sergeant in his arms, dunked him in a bath tub full of cold water, and then told the half-sobered and shaken veteran to share the place with the irate citizens. He agreed to do so, and Marshall went below to inform the crowd. But when the men swarmed inside, Marshall was not among them. He went back to his quarters and gave no sign whatsoever that he had been tempted to stay.

It was three months later that the small unit of men and mules eventually limped back into Fort Clark, Texas, where Marshall and his sergeant reported to the officer of the day. Marshall looked by that time more like an Indian scout than an officer of the United States Army. His face and arms had been burned black by the sun. His old campaign hat, which a mule had bitten the top out of, looked like a headgear for a scarecrow, and his uniform was in tatters. The Officer of the Day was so embarrassed by Marshall's appearance that he wouldn't hardly look at him. He didn't think Marshall could be an officer and talked entirely to the old sergeant, despite of the fact that the noncom's facial adornment had not yet grown back in place.

But Marshall had a warmer reception when he reported with his findings to the chief army engineer, Southwest Division, who found his map the best one received and the only complete one. In the office of the commanding general in San Antonio he was welcomed back by the military secretary, Captain George Van Horn Moseley. Marshall was near exhaustion, he stated that he had a pretty hard time, as a result of the climate and a harsh terrain, but Moseley's sympathetic reception more than made up for it. It was through Moseley's recommendation that the commanding general issued an immediate order granting Lieutenant George C. Marshall four months leave.

Marshall took the train at once for Virginia and a reunion with his beloved Lily. It was three and a half years since their marriage and she was still the bride he barely knew.

Thirty-three years later the former captain who had been the officer of the day at Fort Clark when the then Lieutenant Marshall reported in was now General Malin Craig, the newly appointed Chief of Staff of the Army. General Craig, at this juncture in Marshall's military career, was an added influence although General Craig may not have remembered the previous meeting but it was for sure Marshall hadn't forgotten it.

Marshall had been recently promoted to Brigadier General at the time General Craig had succeeded General Douglas MacArthur as Chief of Staff of the Army. This fact put a wholly different complexion on the face of Marshall's future. Craig was a Pershing man and, in marked contrast with his predecessor, was very much inclined to look with favor on any officer who had been with Black Jack at Chaumont. He strongly admired his old Commander in Chief, would do anything to please him and was well aware that Marshall was one of his protegees. On that basis alone he was determined to see that the new Brigadier General got preferment and so much the better that his record made it plain that he surely deserved.

95,000 To Scour The State On April 9

It's time to take out the trash in

On Saturday, April 9, some 95,000 Adopt-A-Highway and Keep Texas Beautiful volunteers will help ready the Lone Star State for another colorful wildflower season by participating in the ninth annual 'Great Texas Trash-Off." This event, which is part of the Texas Department of Transportation's "Don't Mess With Texas" antilitter campaign, is considered the largest one-day cleanup in the nation.

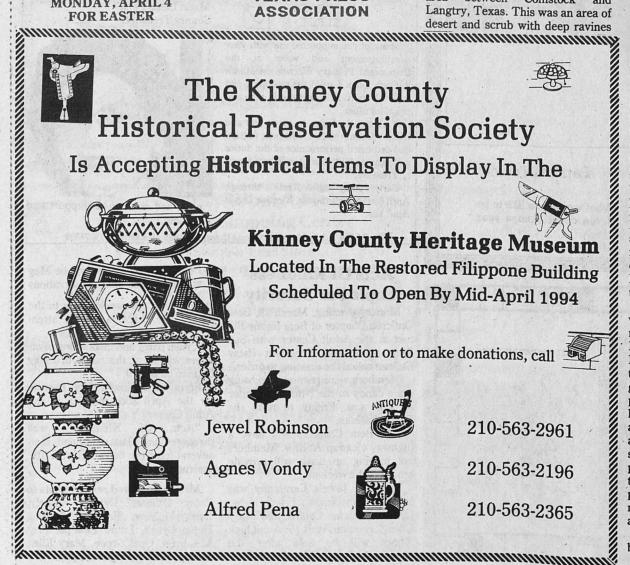

This year, TxDOT is adding a new twist to the event by encouraging all Texans to kick the littering habit for at least 24 hours in observance of Trash-Off Day.

In Kinney County, 2 Adopt-A-Highway groups, Beta Sigma Phi and Air Force Sergeants

Association, will scour state roadways for litter. (Air Force Sergeants Association is located in Val Verde but their adopted highway is in Kinney County).

For the fourth year in a row, Trash-Off sponsor Coca-Cola is providing volunteers with Texas-sized garbage bags. Last year marked the largest Great Texas Trash-Off in the history of the Don't Mess with Texas campaign, with 85,000 volunteers picking up more than 7-million gallons of litter across the state. That's enough garbage to fill the beds of 17,000 pickup trucks.

Since the Don't Mess With Texas and Adopt-A-Highway programs were launched in 1986, the state has seen a 72% decrease in roadside litter. Keep Texas Beautiful, Inc., a grassroots partner of the Texas Department of Transportation's antilitter program, is a non-profit, environmental umbrella organization consisting of a network of private citizens, communities, industries, civic groups, schools, and government agencies.

Making A Difference

Success At BISD: The UIL Story

It's been a grand week at Brackett ISD. The UIL play, Shut And Bar The Door, will be one of two district plays to advance to the area competition. This is the fourth time in six years! Cast members Wil Shahan, Charlie Hall, Katie Hall, and Michael Benacci received Allstar cast medals. Matthew Benacci was named to honorable mention. The entire cast and director Merry Beth Mills should be commended for a job well done! "Break a leg at the Area Competition on April 9!" Brackettville, Fort Clark Springs, and all of Kinney County are PROUD OF YOU! I was able to see the play a couple of weeks ago, and it was one of the best performed that I have seen a high school do. Every person that had a part in this play did a superb job!

University Interscholastic League (UIL) literary events were held this week. Brackett did just great! We racked up the points and outperfor- pressive running events. med lots of schools in our district. The final results were:

Folks, that's not too shabby. The math, speaking, business, current events, and calculators. The teacher/sponsors did a great job. Our students are starting to taste victory and success, and I predict that we are on the verge of becoming a power in all of our competitive events. I beleive life is filled with competition. When we compete with the right spirit, we are preparing our kids for life after public school. I'm so proud of our students. The principals will submit their names for publications. I want to recognize the teachers:

If you see some of these teachers, give them a pat on the back. I especially ask that you recognize the students for their accomplishments.

This is six weeks test week and that's the main reason we have schools. We should not ever forget that academics come first. These literary events complement academic events. Most states are not organized into district and state competition in literary events. It's a plus in Texas! In small schools, our kids can do it all. We can be involved in UIL literary, one act play, athletics, music and stock show competition. I'm proud to work in a good, small school district in Texas. Take note! There are some other folks that are doing well. John Paul Schuster and the FFA have competed extremely well during their season. The band is sounding really fine under new director Chuck Wilson. Their UIL competition in concert and sight reading is in April. Tom McNew reports that the girls golf team won third at Kerrville meet, and that the guys recently shot their best score of the year. Tennis coach Frank Taylor expects to have several players win district and move on to regionals. The baseball team under Coach Grubbs is 2 and 0 in district -- first place. Girls softball has 19 players, and Coach Nowlin reports that they are very competitive. I understand that the track teams have some im-

I enjoy watching the kids compete, but I must confess that I enjoy watching them win! At BISD, we every day to be better at what they do. Other districts have more staff, Brackett High School Third Place and more money to spend on education. We have some really fine kids and teachers.

Because we try harder, we are Second Place making it work. This week, I salute Second Place the hard working, high achieving students and staff at Brackett ISD!

This Easter, as we get our lives students worked hard in science, focused on the real meaning of life on earth, let's say a special thanks for the best kids and teachers in Texas! Happy Easter!

Tivy Girls Invitational

Monday, March 28, the Tigerette Girls brought home the gold - well, ok bronze - by placing third in the Tivy Girls Invitational Golf Tournament. Although the Tigerettes have placed first in district play the last three years, this is the first invitational tournament in which they have achieved success.

The Tigerettes led by the Hall girls (Katie at 103 and Charlie at 105) have shown continued improvement this year. Lisa Dalton at 114 rounds out the three experienced players. This year two freshmen Brandy Meeks and Mirinda Rogers complete the five member squad. Alamo Heights placed first at 391, followed by Kerrville Tivy 420, Brackett 454, Ingram Tom Moore 464, New Braunfels 464, Tivy "B" 465, Fox Tech 487, Floresville 533, Sam Houston, Lago Vista, Smithson Valley, Bandera, John Jay, and Incarnate Word all failed to field a Boys Invitational. The Tiger boys placed eighth out of 12 teams. Conditions in Kerrville were a sharp contrast to normal. Winds up to 35 mph bloomed scores by all players.

Jared Shahan again paced the team with a 94, while steady Michael Aguirre posted another 100. Michael was tied with Brian Hooker. Ignacio Aguirre, Jr. finished at 109. Rounding out the team was freshman David Melancon in his first tournament.

Coyote Invitational

Saturday, March 26, the Brackett

Boys Golf Team, competing in the

Uvalde Coyote Invitational Golf

Tournament, scored a team best of Shahan with a 92. The other mem-

tournament shooting a 96.

Uvalde placed first at 322, Tivy 330, Tivy "B" 333, Alamo Heights 364, Lago Vista 366, Smithson Valley 391, Pleasanton 397, Brackett 403, Floresville 420, New Braunfels 438, Roosevelt 450, and Fox Tech which did not field a complete team.

Lackland Forfeits To The Mighty Tigers

The Tigers were scheduled to face the Lackland Eagles in 31-2AA district play on Friday, March 25.

Both schools had the same problem...baseball players were also starring in the district One-Act play competition at the same time.

The game was moved to 7:00 in LaPryor so it could be played under the lights and both schools could have full teams. Lackland still failed to field a team and forfeited the game.

Had they heard too much about the Tigers and were scared to face them? Brackett was credited with the win. This moved them to 2-0 in District play. Brackett also got the One-Act play victory.

Tigers Fall To Lytle

Tuesday, March 29, the Tigers were guests at Lytle as they played their third district baseball game. The Tigers unfortunately fell to Lytle 4-2.

Lytle saved their best pitcher to face the Tigers, he did a dandy job. Jesse Terrazas struck out, reached base on an error, stole second and scored a run. Later he walked, stole second again and scored the Tigers only other run. Ramon DeLeon struck out twice, flied out, and reached base on an

Wil Shahan walked, struck out, reached first base on an error, and grounded out. Moses Hernandez walked, got a single, and grounded out twice.

Brian Hooker struck out, flied out, and was hit by a pitch. Michael Padron struck out twice and walked. Lupe Rodriguez struck out all three times at bat. Butch Lopez got a single, struck out, and was walked. Kelly Henrich struck out all three times.

This loss brings the Tigers record to 2-1 in district play and they are tied with Lytle for first place.

Natasha's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A friend's refusal to go along with one of your ideas could both anger and disappoint you. It will be difficult now to reach agreements with others about financial interests. However, your thinking is inspired where career interests are concerned.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Travel is a plus. Joy comes through philosophical concerns. However, you may feel blocked in business. A partner may be hard to get along with. Strive to cooperate. A turning point is reached in a relationship this weekend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Interruptions may interfere with time you had hoped to spend on personal interests. It's a poor week to begin a do-it-yourself project. Guard against overtiredness. You are extremely motived at work and will put in long CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You are in sync with a partner this week but relations with either a friend or a child may be strained. You are easily upset now and not the best of social companions. Be careful that you don't come on too strong in romance.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) A partner is reluctant to go along with a plan of yours. Business ideas are on target but you may have your hands full with domestic concerns. Try not to quarrel. You may be making sweeping changes at home this weekend. No doubt you will get rid of some clutter.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You could run into problems this week when tackling a work project. It would be better now to accent pleasure interests. Stay away from argumentative types if possible. Perseverance pays off this weekend.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Though you are shrewd this week, remember that the people you are dealing with are also adroit in financial dealings. Now ideas come now about home decorating projects. You and a close tie could be at odds about a money concern now.

THANKS

To Father David G. Zumaya, Deacon Bob Nelson, Altar Boys in helping celebrate my anniversary mass. Thank you to my family, relatives, friends and parishioners who were present.

Thanks to Father David for coming by the hospital to visit and give me the anointing of the sick

To all my family, friends and relatives who came by to see me and who called, sent flowers, and prayed for me.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A relative seems set in his or her ways and is unamenable to any sort of compromise at present. If you are too self-insistent now, a problem could arise with a partner. You will be going after what you want out of life with renewed vigor. SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Though you will have good business ideas now, it's a poor time to execute them. Details may prove to be your ultimate undoing. Some will experience delays in travel this week. An attic or a garage needs your attention this weekend.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A financial matter may have you concerned. Though pleasure interests are foremost on your mind this week, differences could arise easily with a moody friend. Try to avoid unnecessary confrontations at work.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Be careful that you don't dampen another's enthusiasm this week. Juggling the demands of a career and family may be difficult now. Try to remain cool and collected. You will be dealing with power brokers in business this week.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) An inclination to worry can make you downcast now. A visit with friends, though, will lift your spirits. You have passionate beliefs but do try to avoid arguing about them. Useful business information comes from an unexpected quarter.

Alamo Village Hosts Commercial Shoot

By MIKE BOWLIN

Brackettville's famed movie location, Alamo Village, owned by Happy Shahan, served as the backdrop Friday, March 18, 1994, when Double D Ranchwear shot a fashion layout for their 1994 fall line.

The family owned wholesale clothing firm, based in Yoakum, Texas, features designs with a definite Southwestern flair that are sold to upper-end boutiques in all 50 states and several foreign counties. The stylish clothing is adorned with leather fringe, intricate beadwork and bone and tortoise shell accessories.

"Reba McEntire, Jane Fonda, and Kathy Mattea are some of the celebrities who own Double D designs," said Cheryl Matusek, designer.

Models taking part in the fashion shoot were Matusek's sisters, Audrey Franz and Hedy Carter. Photographing the layout was Pat Mercer from Victoria. Margie Mc-Mullen, mother of Cheryl, Audrey and Hedy, was on hand to oversee the day-long session. Alamo Village employees Dave Crowe and George Streib assisted in the shoot.

"This place (Alamo Village) is fantastic. We'll definitely be back," a smiling McMullen said.

Alamo Village owner Happy Shahan said his film location has hosted dozens of commercial shoots over the last 35 years.

First Baptist Church

Rev. Gil Ash, Pastor

"The Pastor's Pen"

Every year about this time my wife, Annie, asks about where "we" would like to go for a vacation. As we discuss the matter we mention places that we have already traveled to that have been extremely enjoyable or beautiful: Cripple Creek, Colorado; Santa Barbara, California; the Grand Canyon; Branson, Missouri; Nashville, Tennessee; and the list goes on.

But then our thoughts turn to places more exotic that we have never been, such as: Jamaica, Cancun, Hawaii, Australia, and the Holy Land. Yes, we have looked at travel brochures, dreamed and hoped, saved and thought someday we can afford to do that. But for right now other things are calling for our finances like college educations for two sons. Those exotic vacations will remain a distant dream.

Now don't you think for a moment that we are discouraged because we are not. As a matter of fact a number of years ago we had a retirement home that was bought and paid for and given to us. In fact there was one for me and one for Annie. We don't even have the responsibility of maintenance or upkeep or even the taxes. All of that has been arranged for. We haven't seen them yet but we understand that, by description, they are mansions. We have never seen or heard of any place that compares with what we have been told about these homes. The architect and builder is a Master Craftsman with lots of experience so that we don't have to worry about them deteriorating and falling down around us either

You may have guessed by now that our retirement homes are the ones being built for us by Jesus. He has promised, "In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also." (John 14:2,3).

With that assurance we have the best of plans for the most exotic vacation of all. We hope you have made plans also so that you can come to visit us in our vacation home up there.

One of the outstanding physical characteristics of Jesus Christ was his eyes. They were outstanding because of what He saw. Where there was a physical need, He saw it.

Marjorie Moore

Memorial services were held in San Antonio at 11:00 a.m., Tuesday, March 29, 1994, for Marjorie Moore.

Born August 28, 1910, Mrs. Moore was 83 years old when she passed away at Wilford Hall on March 22, 1994.

Survivors include two sons and one daughter: Robert Carter Moore, Palo Alto, California; Randle Brooks Moore, San Antonio; Patricia Moore, Madison, Wisconsin; three grandsons - Christopher of Madison, and Jonathan and Jeremy of Palo Alto.

Mrs. Moore and her husband, who preceded her in death two years ago, formerly lived at Fort Clark Springs. She was a member of the Fort Clark Springs Historical Society, The Kinney County Historical Commission, and the Kinney County Friends of the Library.

Mary Jane Kunis

Memorial services were held for Mary Jane Kunis at 3:00 p.m., Monday, March 21, 1994, at St. Mary Magdalene Catholic Church in Brackettville.

Mrs. Kunis passed away Sunday morning, March 13, 1994, at the home of her niece in North Plains, Oregon. She was 70 years old. Mary Jane and her husband,

Fran, were long time residents of Fort Clark Springs. He preceeded her in death December 29, 1992. She is survived by her son, Robert

John, and his wife, Kathy, and granddaughter, Allison, of Avon, Colorado and numerous other relatives.

The family has suggested memorials may be made to the Kinney County Ambulance Fund.

Marion McHorse

Graveside services were conducted by Lewis Funeral Home of Magnolia, Arkansas, at Frazier Cemetery near Magnolia for Marion McHorse on Monday, March 28, 1994, at 2:00 p.m.

Mr. McHorse was born June 10, 1910, in Brady, Texas, and died at age 83 on Friday, March 25, 1994, at Barksdale Air Force Base Hospital.

He is survived by his wife of Sibley, Louisiana.

Mr. McHorse is a former resident of Unit 3, Fort Clark Springs. While he lived at Fort Clark, he was a security guard for the Fort. Blind, lame, hungry, lepers, all caught his eye and brought forth his compassion and help.

Where there was hypocrisy he saw it and condemned it. When He was upset his eyes penetrated and silenced his detractors. These eyes are the same today.

Jesus sees the needs of God's children and ministers to them today. He sees hypocrisy today and brings rebuttal.

His piercing scrutiny guides his followers.

So much of the time people let their foolish desires lead them blindly away from God feeling God will not know.

God sees us every minute, of every day and even into the future.

Christ sees his children and carefully watches, not as a "Simon Lagree" seeking to find wrong, but seeking ways to help and bless. His all seeing eye sees sin and wrong and He takes note but his love and character make him to be concerned and caring, searching for ways to bless his own.

Sunday will be observance of Easter at Frontier Baptist Church. The Lord's Supper will be served and will be followed by the monthly Fellowship Lunch.

A blessing is in store for all who attend. Come and see.

Take a moment of your time to remember Jesus Christ. After He was crucified and buried, came forth from the tomb and lives today. Happy Easter!

LETTER TO EDITOR

Once again my husband and I were lucky enough to spend four months on the Fort and try to take part in your town's services and activities.

For a small town, you should be proud of your library and personnel. You are fortunate to have a clinic with a staff of well-qualified people and a caring and knowledgeable doctor.

The children are fortunate to have the support of the town in the 4-H, FFA, and school activities. The various supermarkets and grocery stores usually have a wide variety of items and the clerks are helpful.

In the paper there is always an interview with a person on the street. One of the questions deals with changing Brackettville. If I were asked, I would say no major changes are necessary.

But, it would be nice if the community could designate a day to have a "Plastic Pick-up Walk." Plastic bags are the nemesis of our whole county.

But, don't change the hospitality; that's what makes the town so special.

LETTER TO EDITOR

During his recent campaign for County Judge, Tommy Seargeant sent out a propaganda letter to the citizens of Kinney County. Since some of the false information printed in his letter pertains to me, my family, and my personal business, I have decided to address his accusations in order to set the record straight.

"Judge Ward 'negotiated the sale of family member's land to Tex-

FACT: The land sold to Texcor by P.H. Coates IV was his property and the sale of that property was negotiated entirely by him.

FACT: The land sold to Texcor by me, Sherry Ward Finch, was my property. I negotiated the sale of my land myself, I did not need or receive any help from my brother Tim Ward.

FACT: The sale of my land took over three years, during that time the only person who asked me not to sell my land to Texcor was my brother Tim. Not one caring citizen ever asked me not to sell to Texcor. (Please note: I am not sorry that I sold my land but I am very sorry that my actions caused Tim and his family to be falsely accused and persecuted by people in Kinney County who did not care enough to learn the truth.)

Mr. Sergeant states: "New business for Kinney County: Which ones???Texcor???" FACT: Charles Salsman, who represented Texcor, came to Kinney County in 1988. Mr. Salsman was given a warm welcome by County Judge Tommy Seargeant. Judge Seargeant introduced Mr. Salsman to the Commissioners Court and to other civic organizations. Judge Seargeant even sold gravel to Texcor and delivered it to their site near Spofford. I would say that Mr. Seargeant is one of the few of us who has profited from Texcor.

Mr. Seargeant states: "Elect an honest experienced County Judge..."

FACT: Honest men do not print a dishonest letter in order to win an election. As for being experienced well, after reading his letter I would say that Mr. Seargeant is very experienced at criticizing others and distorting the truth.

To Tim Ward's many supporters I would like to say - Take heart!! Tim will continue to work in the best interest of Kinney County, whether it be as County Judge or private citizen. He has always been "A young man with a plan" and that beats "an old man with a grudge" any day!

Search For Best Granny Begins

The search is on to find the world's greatest granny. The Washington Apple Commission has announced the official beginning of its second-annual Search For Granny Smith - a nationwide hunt to find the perfect grandmother to promote the state's famous green fruit.

"We're looking for grannies on the go, someone who personified the healthful attributes of our apples," said Vicky Scharlau, vice president of the Washington Apple Commission.

The successful candidate should meet the following guidelines:

*Be sweet - but not too tart or mushy - and have good moral fiber. *Stem from a big family tree, handpicked by children, grandchildren, spouse, or friends.

*Have beauty that's more than skin deep, and just the right amount of maturity.

Those wishing to nominate their favorite granny should write, in 100 words or less, why the nominee should be considered and enclose a photo. Nominations should be sent to Granny Smith, P.O. Box 18, Wenatchee WA 98807, and received no later than April 29, 1994.

Nominees don't have to have the last name 'Smith' and the photos sent, like Granny Smith apples, should be in good taste.

Eight grandmothers, and the person who nominated each of them, will be chosen to participate in the "Granny Finale," to be held Sunday, May 15, at the historic Capitol Theater in Yakima, Washington. Finalists will be interviewed by a board of apple growers named Smith to pick the national Granny Smith winner, who will be featured on grocery store posters and make promotional appearances in the upcoming year. Airfare and trip expenses will be picked up by the apple commission.

All nominations received will be kept and displayed for the upcoming year at the Washington Apple Visitor's Center in Wenatchee.
