Ag community seeks relief

Water board may extend April 1 deadline for registration fees

It looks like the agriculture community will get some relief from the Groundwater Conservation District.

The water board voted Tuesday to extend the deadline for citizens to have their wells metered from April 1 to July 1.

Citizens must register their wells by April 1, with either a historic use application or a regular permit application.

Steven Walthour, the water district's acting general manager, will answer questions concerning well permit applications Saturday morning at 8 in the District Courtroom at the County Courthouse.

Walthour, a permitting enforcement manager with the Edwards Aquifer Authority, was hired in January as a consultant with the local district. He was in attendance at Tuesday's meeting.

"We really appreciate you answering questions for us," said Jennifer McDaniel, whose family farms in Kinney County. "We never get answers from the board."

In addition to the registration deadline, permit fees are currently due on April 1. The fees are $500 for applications for more than 100 acre-feet of water and $200 for applications for up to 100 acre-feet of water, plus applicable groundwater use fees.

Members of the agriculture community asked the board Tuesday to consider extending the deadline to pay the fees.

The directors said they would consider moving the deadline after discussing the legalities with the district's attorney, Brian Sledge of Austin.

"We need to find out what we legally can do," said Cecil Smith, chairman of the board.

"As soon as we get that information, then we can schedule a special meeting. We will do it as quick as we can."

Sledge had previously said the city of Brackettville and the Fort Clark Municipal Utility District would have to pay for water usage, but officials are seeking clarification. The directors are also studying to see if Brackett ISD will have to register its wells.

Rally for a Cure helps raise funds for cancer research

The Fort Clark Ladies Golf Association raised $360 with its Rally for a Cure event, held last Thursday in conjunction with couples golf.

This is the fourth year the golfers have sponsored the event. These funds go toward research for the Dallas-based Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation.

Breast cancer is the leading cause of death for women ages 35-54, and the disease also accounts for more than 75 percent of all cancer deaths in women 55 and over.

The winning lady golfer was Pat Alexson, who repeated her winning form from last year. Walt Saylor won the men's division.

A total of 21 couples participated in a scramble format. Everyone whose tee shot stayed on the green was given a ball. A prize was given to the lady and the man who were closest to the pin. All women participants received a breast cancer awareness symbol pin to wear and literature about early detection, plus a full-year subscription to Golf for Women magazine.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Importance of voting for the right people in the FCS election has no limit

Once again, these wonderful and generous people of The Brackett News are allowing me the use of the tall soap box to make another plea to those who haven't marked their ballots as of yet.

Stressing the importance of your vote for the right people to the board has no limits and will only help to insure the survival of Fort Clark Springs.

The latest slam dunk from the current administration is this Devils River minnow restoration thing, which will be the end of golfing, fishing and I'm sure many other things that are enjoyed here, due only to the use of chemicals alone.

You think we've had some bad rules dumped on us already? You just wait until Uncle Sam steps in and tells you what will be done because of this little fish. And, oh yes, we will be paying out more money for our part in this new scam.

I have asked many questions in my letters about the seemingly underhanded dealing and mismanagement that have been done in those "nasty little secret meetings," I might add, by the current administration, questions which remain unanswered.

I had thought that by reading through the propagandistic sheets put out by these all powerful rulers, the answers might be found, but alas, to no avail, did that happen?

All I found were more questions that needed answering. And, of course, I had to remind myself, more than once, to "dream on!"

In closing, I ask that you look past the troubles and woes, but instead, look at where the fort's future lies. Where, in my opinion, those votes cast for Brandt, Dixon and Reyna is that all important step in the right direction needed for its survival.

I beg of you, please vote against removing Tom Saylor. He has done everything in his power to save the fort from total ruin and is now being wrongfully accused by those, who might be guilty of worse deeds, wishing to rule us with an iron hand.

So please vote and thank you again, The Brackett News, for this opportunity.

The glory of Texas

Last Sunday marked a special occasion for our great state. It was the anniversary of our state's independence from Mexico. On March 2, 1836, a convention of 54 men met in the small settlement of Washington-on-the-Brazos to sign the Texas Declaration of Independence.

The Texas Declaration of Independence was produced, literally, overnight. Its urgency was paramount. While the founding fathers of Texas prepared the document, the Alamo in San Antonio was under siege by Santa Anna's army of Mexico. In near-freezing weather, in an unfinished building, the convention voted in the early morning hours of March 2 to unanimously accept the resolution. Ultimately, 58 members signed the document. And thus was born the Republic of Texas.

The declaration sent a sign to Mexico that Texans would no longer live under what many of them regarded as a tyrannical rule from a distant source. It was testimony that Texans were ready and willing to fight for their freedom. And fight they did.

Weekly Report

Henry Bonilla

abled him to win the Battle of San Jacinto on April 21, 1836. This victory spelled a final freedom for Texas.

In the saga of Texas history, there is no period as distinctive as Texas' struggle for independence. The period's heroes are remembered in the names of cities and towns, streets, plazas and public buildings. The Lone Star flag, inherited from the original Texas Republic, still flies proudly throughout our state.

I'd like to leave you with a quote by Sam Houston just before the Battle of San Jacinto:

"We view ourselves on the eve of battle. We are nerved for the contest, and must conquer or perish. It is vain to look for present aid: none is at hand. We must now act or abandon all hope! Rally to the standard, and be no longer the scoff of mercenary tongues! Be men, be free men, that your children may bless their father's name."

Texas Independence Day is an occasion for all Texans to stand proud and remember the men who stood up for their rights and fought for their freedom. God Bless Texas!

Stress is just a lot of worrying about nothing

Why worry? Why do we often find ourselves being nervous wrecks over such small issues? I am definitely not one to talk, but over the many years of my life (15 years, 10 months and 26 days to be exact) and all my experience, I have learned that stress is just a whole lot of worrying about nothing. Everything always works out in the end.

I have learned this after much experience with school projects, plans and friendships.

Life is like riding a really old roller coaster. You are sitting in your seat, rattling around, and you can swear you hear the whole ride falling apart beneath you. It is so bumpy, you're being jerked around, and you start rethinking whether you really should have ever ridden in the first place. Then, after much fuss, it's all over and you realize it wasn't so bad and that it was kind of fun — you may have even learned something.

That's how life is. You have these giant ordeals in your life that you don't think you can get through, and the whole world seems to be falling down all around you, but in the end you're still there, alive and everything is OK.

I have experienced this many times. Sadly, this is often the reason for my procrastination. I know that everything will work out in the end, because it always has in the past, so I don't worry about things getting done. But then as deadlines creep up on me, worry sets in, and I stress out. In the end though, it all works out once more and I didn't even know how it happened. Life is odd that way.

I think that many of us, especially those at risks of heart attacks, should just relax.

Now I am not saying for everyone to turn into lazy bums like myself. I am saying we should just pull our underpants out of a bunch and go out and experience life instead of fearing it.

When we sit and worry about things, we usually miss the things that we worried we would miss. It is an endless cycle.

For example, when I was younger, I would always worry about growing up. I wanted to grow up as quick as I could, and I worried about adult problems. Then, as I grew older, I began trying to become a little kid again, because I worried I had overlooked childhood on my path towards adulthood. I was always worrying about time — the past, the present, and the future. Now, I don't know where I will try and make up my teen years because I have been living life backwards.

See how complicated life is. (Don't worry I lost myself awhile back too.) I think what I was trying to say was that life is not as hard as it seems, and if we keep a chuggin' like the Little Engine That Could, we can overcome mountains.

Don't worry, be happy. Yeah, I think that was it.

Time Machine entertains BISD students and faculty

Over 600 students and faculty attended Mario Fraga's presentation of the Time Machine last Friday in Brackettville's Civic Center.

Fraga is a musician of the highest quality. He was able to play piano and guitar while entertaining students with a variety of compositions from G.F. Handel through some of the rock tunes of the '80s.

The school system thanks the Kinney County Arts Council for making this concert possible.

We also appreciate Kinney County for allowing students to use the Civic Center.

A huge thanks goes out to Clint Cooper, BHS vocational ag teacher, and his hard working students for moving school chairs to and from the site.

Cool Season

The sprinkles of rain continue in Brackettville. It continues to be cooler than the seasonal norms.

I have seen purple verbena blooming. The rains should give us a beautiful season of wild flowers.

Making A Difference

Taylor Stephenson

Also, the purple martins have arrived back in Brackettville. Our school has clay pipes that seem to make good homes for the martins.

It is nice to hear the sounds of all of the birds coming back into Kinney County. The humming birds could not be far behind.

State Debate Competition

We wish our debate teams of Maria Martinez and Eliot Stone, and Tony Rosetti and Beau Watkins, and their sponsor Kathy Bader the best luck in their performance at the state debate contests to be held in Austin early next week.

BISD Athletics

Most of our junior high and high school students are involved in baseball, softball, track, tennis or golf. They are busy practicing to be the best that they can be.

Our fitness center is open and is operating with lots of students every day. Improved fitness is a major goal of the state this year.

This is a very impressive program of fitness that reaches all junior high students, and a very high percentage of high school students.

BHS Band

Our band director, Jim DCamp, is working the Tiger Band hard trying to get them ready for their spring concert performance in the next month. We're proud of the work that is going on in music classes.

Spring Break

We will turn out at 1:15 p.m. Friday for spring break. Enjoy the week, but be careful and return safely to BISD on March 17. Have a great week!

Notice to Kinney County Landowners

February 25, 2003

Dear Kinney County Landowner:

It is our understanding that various absentee landowners have been approached about contributing to a "legal defense fund" in order to support the actions of the Kinney County Groundwater Conservation District. As fellow landowners, we share your concerns about this county's resources- its land, its water and its people. We also care about our private property rights and our land values, both of which, in our opinion, have been severely impacted by the local district's rules and fee schedules. Our goal is to make sure you are aware of all sides of this issue, specifically our views as operators and landowners actively engaged in farming and ranching for our livelihoods.

The agricultural community of Kinney County supports the existence of this district, but we firmly oppose its adoption of substantive rules in the total absence of a management plan based upon sound scientific groundwater studies as required by law. The following are areas of extreme concerns for us as private property rights proponents:

Fees: It was unanimously agreed during the structuring of the district's enabling legislation, that the district would have absolutely NO user fees and would solely be supported by ad valorem taxes. In the event that water was ever exported out of the county, an export fee would be assessed, thus shifting the burden to the export fee vs. local taxes. However, the district has adopted a user fee, of which the City of Brackettville and Fort Clark Springs M.U.D. are exempt! These exemptions place the burden solely on agricultural users, specifically farmers, who have to pay for their water use in advance with no refunds!!!

Metering Requirements: The metering requirements were adopted for non exempt wells at the expense of well owners. The fees associated with this requirement in Kinney County ($1,500 per meter) will put small farmers out of business. Other districts, such as the Edwards Aquifer Authority, provide meters and installation. The cost is included in the registration fees of each well. Furthermore, registration fees are $25 per well in the EAA versus $500 per well in the Kinney County Groundwater Conservation District.

Production Limits: Landowners whose property sits over very prolific and highly productive aquifers are treated exactly the same as those with absolutely no water underneath their property (two acre feet of water per surface acre of ownership). Most of these landowners paid a premium for their property based on the ability to utilize this water. Limits should be derived from a purely scientific driven process based upon subsurface hydrogeology.

Well spacing: We believe the same scientific driven process used in determining production limits should be used when establishing well spacing requirements. These spacing requirements have no business being applied to property located over "karst" aquifers such as the Edwards and the Edwards Trinity areas in Kinney County. One director, whose wells were essentially "slid" in under the wire— completing them within a month of the August 6, 2002 'cutoff' date established by the District's rules— is exempt from the adopted well spacing rules. Otherwise, the wells would be in violation of current rules.

Historical Use: Landowners who have high capacity wells, some for as long as forty years, get absolutely no historical claim if they have not used them in the past ten years. Due to the way the rules were crafted, one director can extrapolate large quantities of water in order to declare a historical use on their wells that were just completed before the August 6, 2002 deadline.

Despite numerous motions for rehearing being filed against the current rules, the district has determined that our concerns, though well documented, are not valid. As demonstrated above, there are reasons for concern. If the directors had done their job ethically and with the support of the agricultural community, there would be no need for a legal defense fund. Three of the original seven directors have resigned in the past year.

The only request of the agricultural community during the rule making process was that science be incorporated into the rules. The directors did not see the need for it and thus, we find ourselves in this predicament today. Due to the appearance of certain adopted rules being tailored to only benefit certain landowners, a Request of Investigation of the Kinney County Groundwater Conservation District has been filed with the Texas Attorney General Greg Abbott and is currently under review. This includes possible instances of self dealing, nepotism, and conflicts of interest. Please let us know if you would like a copy of this request.

As landowners, we object to this kind of unethical government and stand together in opposing this district's rules and fees. If you would like to discuss this further or would like additional information, please do not hesitate to contact any of us.

Respectfully,

'You're not going to believe this'

"You're not going to believe this."
I always hate it when somebody starts a conversation with those words. Usually, I don't believe it. More often than not, the speaker doesn't expect me to believe the tale because it's not even close to the truth.

But I Could Be Wrong

Chuck Hall

My son-in-law started the story that way: "You're not going to believe this, but I went out to check the hog trap the other day and it was full of pig. Not pigs, pig. Just one big boar pig."

"I had two other guys with me and when they got out, the old tusker went crazy. I told them to stay back so he wouldn't tear something up."

I guess youthful enthusiasm got the better of them because they did not heed his advice. They stood at the door of the home-made trap and watched as the oinker repeatedly rammed his snout into the spot where he had entered this prison.

The gate was strong. The swine was determined. The metal portal bent, sprung open and the porker was free. Free to run away.

He chose another option. Not knowing who had caused him to lose his independence of late, he attacked the nearest likely culprits. He put everybody in sight to flight.

One young man declared that he couldn't get on the hood of the truck. He did.

End of the story: the hog ran away, leaving three young men shaking and stationed on top of the pickup.

Porky the pig is alive and well. He's won round one. We'll get him next time.

But I could be wrong.

Miller named sorority's sweetheart

The Beta Epsilon Omicron Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met last Thursday in the home of Cathy Conroy.

The Texas State Convention to be held in Austin on June 6-8 was discussed.

Cathy served finger sandwiches, frosted brownies, pigs in the blanket, nuts, mints and beverages of choice. This lovely buffet was enjoyed as sisters worked on their pictorial life biographies and reminisced about the more than successful sweetheart dinner held Feb. 14.

Breaking with tradition, the dinner was held in the home of Dee and Ken Curry rather than a restaurant.

Steaks were grilled to perfection by several husbands. Sisters contributed baked potatoes with all the toppings, a wonderful spring salad, fresh vegetables, fruits and garlic bread. Ken prepared a very special Spanish Sangria. There was a beautiful Beta Sigma Phi cake, brownies and chocolate dipped strawberries savored for dessert.

Twenty-six members and guests were seated at beautifully appointed tables, leading a lot of lively conversation. Connie Miller was announced as this year's sweetheart. It was a beautiful evening, but most especially it was an evening of camaraderie.

Citizens get warnings when tornadoes are approaching

This is Severe Weather Awareness Week in Texas. Larry Eblen, NOAA lists Top 10 killer tornadoes in Texas since 1900.

No. 3 on the "Hit List" is the Rocksprings tornado of April 22, 1902. This killer "occurred well south of what is generally considered Tornado Alley."

It was an F5 (the most severe rating a tornado can get) and touched down 3 miles northwest of Rocksprings and moved toward the southeast. Its one mile path destroyed 235 of 247 buildings and killed 74 people, leaving 205 persons injured.

Since that time, Kinney County has had too many tornado sightings to count.

Many storms that develop over our county cause extensive damage, as we witnessed last year in March. We had hail, high winds and heavy rain here, but in Hondo and Sabinal, as well as Bexar County, millions of dollars worth of damage occurred from tornadoes which touched down in populated areas.

For some reason, we have dodged the death and injury bullet, but just barely. Everyone with property here in Kinney County suffered damage from hail and wind last March. You can still see vehicles (like mine!) with hail damage. There were so many broken windshields and windows on homes, as well as roofs blown off. Do not lull yourself into a false sense of security, though.

The difference between 1900 and 2003 in Kinney County is that today we get warning to take cover. There are Weather Alert radios, which give warnings of severe weather approaching and even other man-made disasters looming in our area. But how many people have these radios?

They are available at electronic stores and they cost between $35 and $50. This is "cheap insurance" and gives everyone notice of what to do. If you hear sirens going off, which blast for more than 15 to 30 seconds, that means pay attention to weather. Tune in your local radios and televisions for important information. This is the new Emergency Alert System, which gives warnings on the lower portion of the television screen. If you need to take shelter, it will advise.

EMS Update
Carolyn Rutherford

Next week's article will go into more depth about what to do when you hear the sirens or notice the Emergency Alert System on radio and television.

We at EMS now have a very informative videotape, "Shelter in Place," which is available for civic and church groups to view. It is based on hazardous materials incidents affecting communities, but it can be applied to severe storms, chemical and biological attacks, and other natural and man-made incidents.

If your group would like to view this tape, please contact the EMS Station at 563-9090 or come by the office at 401 S. Ellen St. to make arrangements for your group to view this.

Above all, during these erratic weather patterns we experience this time of year, the rule is "use your head, stay alert, and plan what to do." More next week.

If you have an emergency, call 911. Kinney County EMS will send our primary ambulance with staffing level that meets TDH personnel requirements.

Subsequent calls received during the commitment of the primary ambulance to patient care and transport will respond with a minimum of one EMS-certified attendant. This response is allowed by a personal variance given by TDH for a period which ends on Dec. 31.

If you have questions regarding emergency management or EMS, please call our office or visit Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Drivers need to respect pedestrian crosswalks

This column is for your information — and to those who think their heads are harder than metal.

Case in point is I sit at the school zone day after day and watch some people who think they are tougher than metal.

They do not use the crosswalks. They would rather wait until a vehicle comes along, and then step out in front of it in a non-pedestrian crosswalk. I gave a citation the other day for it.

This is known as jaywalking. In the traffic code, it is referred to as a "pedestrian crossing at place other than crosswalk." Yep, it is against the law.

Another fact is if a pedestrian gets struck by a vehicle in that non-pedestrian crossing, the driver of the vehicle may not be held responsible. In other words, it means he or she may not be ticketed and their insurance may not cover any medical expenses.

It does not mean a pedestrian can just walk out in front of a vehicle in a legal crosswalk either. That pedestrian is to look both ways and make sure the oncoming vehicle has time to stop.

It also means that drivers who see a pedestrian approaching a crosswalk must stop and let the pedestrian have the right of way. Wait until it is safe to proceed.

Remember, as a pedestrian, you may not suddenly leave the curb or another place and proceed into the path of a vehicle so close that it is impossible for the vehicle operator to yield.

Constable's Corner

The operator of a vehicle shall yield the right of way to a pedestrian crossing a roadway in a crosswalk if:

- No traffic control signal is in place.
- The pedestrian is on the halfway of the roadway in which your vehicle is traveling.
- The pedestrian is approaching so closely from the opposite half of the roadway as to be in danger.

In my opinion, for safety's sake, give the pedestrian the benefit of the doubt to cross safely so as to avoid a terrible accident.

One more point to ponder for people parking vehicles near crosswalks. You cannot park within 20 feet of a pedestrian crosswalk in an intersection. Nor can you park on or in front of a crosswalk at any time.

I saw a school bus do this the other day. Remember, I am watching and will issue citations. Drive safe!

Texas DAR celebrates Washington's birthday

Pat McKelvy, chapter regent, and Louise Stone, chapter historian, of the Uvalde de las Encinas Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution recently joined approximately 150 other DAR members from across the state in celebrating George Washington's birthday.

The San Antonio DAR Regents Council sponsored the luncheon Saturday at the Dominion Country Club.

The event was also held to honor the Texas state slate of officer candidates.

Florence Elizabeth Fitch Patton, who was born and raised in Eagle Pass, is a nominee for state regent. Nacodoches, her maternal family home place since the 1830s, has been her hometown since 1961.

The guest speaker was Lt. Col. Paula Haley whose topic was "Flags Across America: Long May They Wave."

Haley showed the various flags that have flown over the United States and played the type of patriotic music that was of the time period. When the current flag was presented, April sang "God Bless America."

A Texas Armed Services Award was presented to the Brooks Base Flight Nurse Honor Graduate of the year, 2nd Lt. Lisa Anderson by Mrs. Dorothy Welch. The Good Citizenship Medal was presented to high school senior Scott Leikner by Mrs. Becky Royce.

In closing, the group stood and sang "I'm Proud to be an American."

A simple, easy dessert that is an eye-catcher and taste-pleaser

A friend shared this simple, easy dessert that's a real eye-catcher and taste-pleaser. You must plan ahead a few hours before serving this colorful creation. It's called prism cake or confetti delight.

We need three small boxes of Jello — choose all different colors and flavors — and one large tub of coolwhip, thawed.

Mix each box of Jello separately and pour into square pan or dish to set. You may use a plastic ice-cube tray, but I found pans easier.

Once the Jello is set, cut the Jello into approximately 1/2-inch squares (slice while in the pan, checker-board style) and combine it all into large mixing bowl. Carefully fold in cool whip. Spread into 9-by-13 pan (preferably glass) or a large bowl. Refrigerate at least one hour before serving.

Goodies From G.G.
Vada Baldree

When serving, cut into squares. It does not sit out of refrigeration for longer than 30 to 40 minutes well.

Now, choose your favorite colors and flavors to watch this airy dish quickly disappear. Note: 3/4 cup of coconut and nuts would be nice addition if desired.

Note: We left out a 1/4-cup of milk in last week's breakfast casserole recipe.

FLOROSCOPES

by Charles Cooper

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)
 What happens on the home front requires the understanding of a close friend. With this person's support, you can safely navigate these troubled waters. The weekend is blissfully uneventful.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)
 Indulge that desire to be on your own. Togetherness isn't what you really need this week. Later, business advice you receive is very sound.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20)
 You think you're being clear in what you say. However, someone close to you just doesn't get it. Utilize patience, and you ultimately get your point across.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22)
 Family is most important this week. However, resist the urge to indulge a child's material wishes. To some extent, you're being manipulated.

LEO (July 23 to August 22)
 Quiet pursuits are best this week. It's also a good idea to avoid strenuous physical exercise. By the weekend, you're on a more even keel.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22)
 While it's fine to focus on your goals, be sure they don't take precedence over everything else. Family is also important. Later in the week, a personality conflict has you fretting.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22)
 You can really turn on the charm when you have to. However, someone puts a fly in the ointment. This person isn't easily swayed by your personality.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21)
 Co-workers share a secret that you're not part of. Fortunately, it's just routine office gossip. Let it go at that and go about your work.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21)
 You're tempted to speak your mind to a friend in distress. You mean well. However, your advice is neither wanted nor needed.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19)
 A minor argument with your mate doesn't have to turn into full-scale war. Make an effort to compromise. You may be right, but don't push the point.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18)
 It's not like you to do sloppy work. However, your mind is on other things this week. Make an effort to concentrate.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20)
 It's best to stick to your methodical way of doing things. While a job has a pressing deadline, you can't rush through it. Be thorough.

Humility is commanded and rewarded

This week's subject is humility. I'll describe what it is, how it can be obtained and how it makes you feel.

Humility is the state of being humble, freedom from pride and arrogance, a modest estimate of one's worth, or a sense of unworthiness through imperfection or sinfulness, lowliness, meekness, the opposite of pride.

A humble man does not attribute to himself any goodness or virtue that he does not possess. He does not overrate himself and he does not take immoderate delight in himself. He realizes his imperfections, and he ascribes all his goodness and good works to God's grace.

If you have ever felt humility, let me tell you a story about a husky 13-year-old farm boy named Jonathan.

Jonathan was very ambitious and worked from dawn to dusk and his father was very proud of him. For Jonathan's 14th birthday, his father bought him a second-hand mowing tractor and he was thrilled.

Right away he started earning extra money by mowing yards and fields for his neighbors and the people of a nearby town. He took great care of his tractor, washing and cleaning the motor and shining it's exterior.

One day, he noticed that it's blade was dull. He drove it into the barn and turned it on it's side to remove the bolt that holds on the blade. Having been around equipment and machinery a lot, he knew that to loosen a bolt, you turn it to the left (counterclockwise). He put a big wrench on the bolt and gave it a turn. It only moved a little bit and then it wouldn't budge.

Frontier Baptist Church

Now, this boy was very proud of his physical strength. He was a star linebacker on the school football team.

When he couldn't loosen the bolt, he remembered what his father had said: "Get a longer piece of pipe and put it over the wrench handle for additional leverage."

After several attempts, he finally gave up. In humiliation, he loaded the tractor into the family truck and took it to the repair shop in town.

When he got there, the mechanic looked it over and said, "wait a minute, let me check something."

After looking up the model number, he said "I hate to tell you this, but on this particular model, the company decided to reverse the treads on that bolt. You've been tightening that bolt instead of loosening it. And don't worry about being strong, son. You've tightened it so much that we're going to have to burn it off with a torch."

To say the least, Jonathan felt even greater humiliation.

This is a small example. The supreme example of humility is found in the incarnation and death of the Son of God.

Humility is commanded. Here is an example. Jesus said in Matthew 18:1-4, "At the same time came the disciple unto Jesus saying, who is the greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven? And Jesus called a little child unto him, and set him in the midst of them, and said, verily I say unto you, except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the Kingdom of heaven. Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is the greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven."

Humility is rewarded. Here is an example from 1 Peter 5:5, "Likewise ye younger, submit yourselves unto the elder. Yea, all of you be subject one to another, and be clothed with humility, for God resisteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble."

Sow to the spirit in everything that you do and reap a better life

Have you sold your birthright for a "bowl of bean soup?"

Esau sold his birthright to his brother Jacob for a bowl of bean soup because his flesh was weak. (Genesis 25:29-34)

Has your flesh been stronger in your life than the spirit of God?

I have good news for you! God has a way out for you.

He is the way, the truth and the life and he forgives every sin that is presented to him. He is for you, not against you, and he has made you more than a conqueror. (Romans 8:31, 37; John 14:6)

Jesus is not bound by time or space, and the blood he shed thousands of years ago still covers and washes away the sins you have made in your past, as well as the mistakes you will make in your future. (1 John 1:7)

Jesus is the God of fresh starts. He forgives you the moment that you cry out to him.

The next step is for you to forgive yourself. If you don't forgive yourself, you place yourself against the word of God.

Gateway Ministries

Bob & Charolette Corey

Jesus said, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." (Matt. 22:39)

Jesus also responded to his disciples when asked how often a person should forgive another: "I say not unto thee, Until seven times: but, until 70 times seven." (Matt. 18:21-22)

This does not mean for you to literally count how many times you forgive, but to do it so frequently that it becomes a habit. This does not mean you condone sin, it simply means that you spiritually release that person for God to move in his or her life.

The same must apply to yourself. You may have fallen often of choosing the best for your life, but God is the author and finisher of your faith and he will carry you through to the end.

Jesus is your example for setting healthy habits. He started off each day with walking many miles to pray (He believed in physical fitness). He was not afraid to fast (a healthy form of fasting cleanses toxins from the body).

He used the word of God to overcome the temptations that the devil would throw at him through physical or verbal confrontations.

Jesus is our example to sow to the spirit and not to our flesh.

"For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting. And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not." (Galatians 6:8-9)

Make a sign and put it on your refrigerator or TV that says: "Am I sowing to my spirit or sowing to my flesh?" Whatever you "sow," you will reap. Choose not to loose your inheritance of faith.

Be not like Esau who sowed to his flesh, but sow to the spirit in everything you do and reap a better life both on earth and in heaven.

Stand in faith, rest in hope, walk in love.

Going in the opposite direction describes sin

One day in 1938, Douglas Corrigan presumably intended to fly his plane from New York to California. But instead of going west, he went east and landed in Dublin, Ireland. For that he earned the nickname, "Wrong Way Corrigan."

Of course, others have gone in opposite directions. The prophet Jonah, told by God to go east to Ninevah to preach repentance, caught a ship to sail west.

Going in the opposite direction accurately describes sin. Already in the beginning, Adam and Eve did the opposite of what God desired. That is what sin still is today.

God says, "Come to me," but people go away from Him, as the prodigal son went away from his father and home. Does going in the opposite direction get us anything good? No, only unhappiness, disillusionment and death.

On Ash Wednesday, we are called to turn back around, to stop going in the opposite direction of what God intends for us. Christian obedience means going in the right direction, going God's way, which He presents to us in His

Our Redeemer Lutheran Church

Nathan Lafrenz

Word, our travel guide, our road map.

All His commandments are summed up in the word "love." Love God totally and love your neighbor totally. When we love, we go the right way, thus avoiding the pitfalls of sin.

The problem has to be recognized, however, that we are imperfect in our love and would lose our way if left to our own strength and sense of direction.

Knowing this even better than we do, God sent His Son into the world as the Way, the Truth, and the Life. Not only does Jesus point out the right way, He Himself is the Way to peace with God, with one another, and eternal life.

Come and celebrate the Way, the Truth, and the Life each Sunday morning at 9 at Our Redeemer Lutheran Church.

God will comfort you in times of grief

Everybody sat staring at the food. Nothing seemed important just now. The silence was awkward and smothering. Josie looked into her husband's face, searching for some clue that might tell her his thoughts.

Juan looked up at his wife, catching her gaze. Quickly he looked away, afraid she might sense the tremendous weight that crushed his heart.

Lupita picked at her food, glancing alternately between her mom and dad, not knowing what to say. The sadness of the funeral left her numb.

Juan knew that he must comfort his family. He stood up and looked anxiously at his wife and daughter. Slowly he moved to the empty place at the table. Resting his hands on the back of the chair, he bowed his head as if to pray.

Empowering Families

"Three days ago," Juan began, "somebody none of us knew made an unfortunate decision to drink and then drive. That decision by a stranger has changed our lives forever."

Juan moved to stand behind his wife. His gentle touch brought tears. He put his hands upon her shoulders and continued.

"Now we share an unbearable grief," he said. "A piece of each of our hearts has been taken away and will never return."

Then Juan moved again to Lupita. Kneeling beside her chair, they both faced the empty place at the table. Lupita put her arm around her daddy's neck. Taking her hand, Juan looked up to her face. He could barely speak for the pain that gripped his heart.

"God has given us two beautiful children. Now one of them has been taken away by someone else's sin. God who gave us his only Son in death shares our pain and will comfort us in this time of grief.

"A very wise man long ago said, do not give in to sadness for cheerfulness will prolong your days. Distract yourself and renew your courage, drive resentment far away from you. Trust in God for nothing escapes his eye." (Sirach 31:21-23; 39:19,20)

The Lord will give grace and glory

They go from strength to strength, every one of them in Zion appeareth before God.

O Lord God of hosts, hear my prayer: give ear, O God of Jacob, Selah. Behold, O God our shield, and look upon the face of thine anointed.

For a day in thy courts is better than a thousand. I had rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my God, than to dwell in the tents of wickedness.

For the Lord God is a sun and shield: the Lord will give grace

Lent begins this week

Lent begins again this week. As you read this, many people have enjoyed the annual Shrove Tuesday pancake supper at the Episcopal Church. Ash Wednesday found St. Mary Magdalene, as well as many other churches with services on that day, filled to capacity. Why is this?

I think all of us as children of God approach each church holiday with the attitude that this time I will do better. I know I do. This year is no exception for me. As I have said before, I do not make New Year's resolutions — I can never keep them, and it is just one less time for me to feel guilty. I do, however, try to make some sacrifices for Lent.

When I was a child, the nuns always seemed to focus on what we should "give up." And it should always be something we really liked — candy, gum, etc. They didn't seem to talk about the extra "do's," just the "do not's."

I try all the time not to eat between meals. Incidentally, isn't it strange that when we think about "giving up" something, it always involves food? For me, anyway! So this year, I really plan to focus on what I "do," not on what I "do not."

So now, what can I do? I can pray more and spend more time reading my bible. I used to get up at 5 a.m. every day to spend 30 minutes or an hour in prayer and Bible reading while it was quiet, before anyone else was awake. Now I get up at 7 a.m. and spend an hour reading the newspaper, and get upset if the paper isn't here exactly when I want it. What's wrong with this picture?

We have Mass every Wednesday at noon and what am

St. Mary Magdalene Church

Lynn McNew

I doing at that time? I sometimes make the excuse that church services are not at a convenient time for me. I certainly hope when I need some attention from God, it is a "convenient" time for Him.

I can do more for others. Churches and community organizations have Christmas food drives, but what about an Easter food drive. I'm sure all the people who received help at Christmas time have used up everything they were given and could use more. If you know someone who needs help getting to the grocery store, church or a doctor's appointment, call me at 563-9229.

Lord, I thank you for yet another opportunity to "get my act together." As I remember Your perseverance on the road to Calvary, I will persevere on my road to Easter and the Glory of Your Resurrection.

You are welcome to worship with us anytime at St. Mary Magdalene Catholic Church.

In addition to regular week-end Masses, there is a Mass at noon on Wednesday, with "Quiet Time with the Lord at 5 p.m. and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament at 7:45 p.m. On Friday, there will be morning Mass at 7 a.m., and Mass at 6 p.m. with Stations of the Cross incorporated at 6:15 p.m. There are also morning Masses at 7 a.m. on Monday and Thursday.
