Two injured in post office crash

By Leigh Jenkins
mybrackettnews.com

Two local people were injured when a truck crashed into the front of the Brackettville Post Office on Thursday, September 16. Ken Callnan, 79, was pulling into a parking space on the west side of the post office entrance when he mistakenly stepped on the gas pedal and jumped the curb; and then once again stepped on the gas pedal and drove his 2010 Toyota pickup truck into the front of the building, a witness standing outside the post office reported to the Kinney County Sheriff's Department. Inside the postoffice at the time was a Fort Clark man. The inside witness said he was standing in the back of the postoffice when he saw Anthony Green, also of Fort Clark, standing in front of a large, wooden table, be knocked to the floor and land on his back after Callnan's truck bulleted into the wall from the outside. The witness was not injured and rushed to the aid of Green and found him unconscious. Green was transported to an area hospital.

The third person in the lobby was Margaret Talamantes, of Brackettville. The sheriff's department believes she may have sustained injuries, unknown at press time, while trying to get away from the damaged area at the time of impact. Talamantes was also transported to an area hospital. Unconfirmed posts made on

The Brackett News' Face book.com page revealed this is not the first time a person has driven into the front of the post office. Several other buildings in Brackett are also believed to have met the same fate, including the BISD Band Hall, a house at Fort Clark, Slater Hall at the Methodist Church, Southwest Service and Super S.

Council approves new budget

By Leigh Jenkins

Brackettville City Council voted to approve the 2010-2011 budget at their Regular meeting on September 14.

The city's budget included a three percent cost of living raise to be given to each employee across the board; however, during the discussion on the budget, Mayor Pro-Tem Mary Flores stated she felt the city's long-time employees deserved more than three percent raise. Alderwoman, and local math teacher, Francisca Chica Hernandez responded by explaining, long-time employees make more money than employees with less years of service and because the three percent raise is based on each individual's wages, a person with a higher pay will receive more of an increase than those with a lower wage. Hernandez also said the increases were cost of living increases, or an adjustment due to increases in the cost of everyday goods and services, and not merit raises which are normally based performance.

The council agreed to review the budget in six months to make sure they were on track and discuss wage increases for long-time employees including David Martinez, Oscar Martinez and Joe Kelly.

The budget was passed by a majority vote with Flores, Hernandez, Demitrus Williams and John Plunker Sheedy, voting in favor. Nancy Mendoza abstained.

The City has an overall budget of $1,190,395.32, including $845,914.06 for the Utility Fund and $344,481.26 for the Operating Fund.

Chief of Police Vito LaGioia stated he was patrolling the school zone and reported instances of people speeding, driving without a license and driving without insurance. LaGioia stated he had been enforcing the golf cart ordinance; settling domestic issues between landlords and renters; settling disputes between people who have borrowed things from one another; and responding to animal calls.

City Manager Henry Garcia introduced two new front office employees. Lydia Solis and Marisela Pacheco will fill positions in the front office recently vacated by two other women.

Laughlin plays host to POW, several Vietnam vets

Photo Courtesy to The Brackett News Photos - Four Vietnam veterans, one of whom was a prisoner of war and three others who were shot down in action, address the crowd at Anderson Hall here September 17. The roundtable panel was part of Laughlin's POW/MIA day activities, which also included a luncheon at Club XL and a special retreat ceremony at Heritage Park.

LAUGHLIN AIR FORCE

BASE, Texas — Laughlin hosted one former POW and three other men who were shot down in action. The Vietnam veterans' visit included a luncheon at Club XL, a roundtable panel at Anderson Hall and a special retreat ceremony in Heritage Park.

The third Friday of each Sept. is National Prisoner of War/Missing in Action Day. Airman also continuously guarded a POW/MIA remembrance wreath from 7:45 a.m. Sept. 17 until the start of the retreat ceremony at approximately 3:45 p.m. that day. During the roundtable panel, the men discussed their respective stories.

Lt. Col. (ret.) John Blevins was imprisoned by the North Vietnamese Sept. 9, 1966 after having to bail out of the F-105D aircraft he was flying. He said he parachuted onto enemy soil and as he landed, he heard a sound similar to that of a tree limb breaking. Unfortunately, the sound was his leg breaking.

"When the rescue capture party arrived, they took my boots, my watch and my flight suit. Soon I was unable to walk so they began carrying me like a wounded animal," recalled Lt. Col. Blevins.

The pilot spent six-and-a-half years in the Vietnamese prison in a 12 by 12 cell with two other prisoners.

"War is hell. They can imprison your body but they can't imprison your mind," he said.

Col. (ret.) Kevin "Mike" Gilroy, one of the most decorated electronic warfare officers in the history of the Air Force, and Lt. Col. (ret.) Ed Larson, the fighter pilot Col. Gilroy flew with, told their story of being shot down by enemy fire while performing one of their many missions together and escaping capture.

Col. Gilroy said someone later told him while he was the mayor of a California town that he handled pressure well. He dismissed the notion of politics being pressure-packed. "I said no, being in a badly damaged jet fighter at 5,000 feet, doing 350 knots while everybody is trying to kill you, that is pressure," he said.

Lt. Col. Larson, who was enlisted in the Air Force for nine years before commissioning and becoming a pilot, spoke fondly of his time as an Airman.

"I spent 28-and-a-half years in the military and if you see something running down my cheek here, it is envy looking at you young people," Lt. Col. Larson told the crowd of mostly young officers and enlisted members.

Col. (ret.) Joe Lee Burns, who was shot down in the Gulf of Tonkin in 1972, told a similar story as Col. Gilroy and Lt. Col. Larson but with a humorous twist. Several times during his story, the audience was overcome with laughter. The overall sentiment shared by Col. Burns was that extensive training is vital to surviving during war and is what sets military members apart from the rest of the world.

Following the roundtable, most who were in attendance made their way to Heritage Park for a special retreat ceremony. Four T-38 Talon aircraft performed a flyover, Col. Michael Frankel, 47th Flying Training Wing commander, addressed the crowd and Laughlin's honor guard retired the American and POW/MIA flags.

"This is a time to remember the faces of the prisoners of war, remember the names of those missing in action and remember and reaffirm the pledge our nation's leaders have made to account for every service man who did not come home," said Col. Frankel. "There is no greater legacy for our future aviators to mirror than these great men."

Letters to the Editor

School has started and there is no swim program for BISD school children. It could have been implemented by now. What could be the hold up?

The county judge, Tim Ward, is very supportive and could possibly get grants for improvements, such as a heating system and cover for year round use. The BISD superintendent is positive about the project, who is dragging on getting started? There is a qualified interested person, who could be the instructor.

Maybe there are obstacles I'm not aware of; how ever with facilities available and interested parents - there should be a way. School children would welcome another choice for P.E. credit. Ask any parent and they will assure you they want their children to have life-saving skills. With multiple children in school and expensive supplies required, there is no money left for swimming lessons and life saving instructions. Swimming is the only physical activity that engages all of the body's muscles.

Developing motor skills encourages a learning rhythm. With so many advantages that could contribute to students' achievement, to let die is a tragedy. Why not go for it? Who knows, BISD may be the only school of its size in Texas to have a swim program. Fortunately, this system has all of the ingredients, including an available pool, proximity to location, and a majority of students eager to participate. So, what is stalling the program?

Life's Sweetener

I am the foundation of all business. I am the cornerstone of success. I am the fount of all prosperity. I am the parent of genius. I have laid the foundation of every fortune in America, from Rockefeller's down. I am the sweat from an honest man's brow. I must be loved before I can bestow my greatest blessings and achieve my greatest ends. Loved, I make life sweet and purposeful and fruitful. I can do more to advance a youth than his own parents, be they ever so rich. Fools hate me; wise men love me. I am represented in every loaf of bread that comes from the oven, in every train that crosses the continent, in every newspaper that comes from the press. I am the mother of democracy. All progress springs from me.

WHO AM I?? WHAT AM I?? I AM WORK!!!

Football season has finally come. So Homecoming is right around the corner. I hear people making or taking orders around town. Otherwise we would have never known it.

I know football is one sport this small Texas town loves. Heck we have two Peewee, Prep Teams who want to grow up to be like our Tigers. But would have never guessed it. There is no school spirit throughout out the town. Where is the Black & Gold? Where is the school tradition? The school song no longer on the gym wall and I bet no one knows it anymore.

I know many of you will say "Well where are the cheerleaders? Aren't they suppose to be the ones doing all that?" Yes well maybe before they were told they can't do this or can't do that, hey they can't even wear their cheerleading uniforms to school. They are inappropriate. Band can't play unless the band director says ok and by then our boys are down and out and so is the crowd. We can't have a bonfire because of students who already graduated ruined it for the current ones. I remember hearing the bells on the cheerleaders shoes walking down the hall or in the cafeteria selling ribbons as a reminder of the game that evening. Or just to see them in uniform. WOW I want to be like her when I grow up. And the mums OMG it was once a year we got to show off our school spirit and wear them to school.

But we can no longer do that either because they are either distracting or someone at one point did something that again ruined it for current students. How is our community going to show spirit for our High School Athletes? When the school itself doesn't allow it. They can't even get loud at a pep rally without someone telling them to keep it down. Why can't they wear ribbons or have stick pom-poms because they might hurt someone? And why is there so much confusion on times of the Pep Rally? Why isn't it announced on the scroll board to invite the community? It's for announcements.

I know there are a lot of parents who like to talk about all this and then some. But very few who will go out and do something. So how about getting together to show some homecoming traditions.

Think twice before joining the "Gold Rush"

Emily Cooper
Edward Jones in Del Rio

In recent months, you may have heard a lot about investing in gold. But is gold the right choice for you? Actually, many factors are involved in this investment decision—and you'll want to consider these factors before you invest.

Of course, the lure of gold is undeniable. Throughout history, gold has been perceived as having great intrinsic value. And this year, as you may know, gold prices have hit record highs, at well over $1,200 an ounce, as people have sought "shelter" from the stormy financial markets. But as an investment possibility, gold has some "scratches" to it. First of all, contrary to what you may believe, gold prices do not always go up; instead, they will fluctuate, sometimes greatly. Furthermore, there are specific risks with the different ways of investing in gold. If you bought a gold futures contract (an obligation to buy gold at a predetermined future date and price), you could lose money if gold falls, because you'll still be obligated to complete your contract at the higher, agreed-upon price. If you purchased gold in the form of coins, bullion or bars, you'd face storage, security, insurance and liquidity issues. You need to do a lot of research before investing in gold mining companies, because some of these companies may still be in the gold-exploring stage—and there's no guarantee their explorations will lead to profitable discoveries. Also, even when its price is considerably lower than it is today, gold is still a fairly expensive investment compared to other choices. It can be costly to go into the gold futures market. And you'll likely have to spend thousands of dollars if you want to buy a bar of gold or even a bunch of coins.

Given these drawbacks to investing in gold, what can you do to fight back against market volatility? One of the best ways is to diversify your holdings among a variety of investments suitable for your financial objectives. Market downturns often affect one type of asset class more than another, so if you can spread your dollars among a variety of asset classes, you can help blunt the effects of volatility. Keep in mind, though, that diversification, by itself, cannot guarantee a profit or protect against loss. In coping with volatility, you'll also help yourself by taking a long-term view of your investments' performance. If you look at your investment statement for a given month, you might not like what you see. But holding your investments for the long term may help your portfolio better weather the ups and downs you'll encounter in the investment world. So try to avoid the allure of gold as a "quick fix" to whatever seems to be ailing the financial markets at a particular time. Other investments may be less glitzy and glamorous than gold, but they can have their own sparkle.

Learning to lead

Fly Lady Marla Cilley

As our children grow up we find ourselves getting involved in their activities. It doesn't matter if this is your chosen profession or someone bailed on the kids and you volunteered to help out. Whatever reason you have been placed in your leadership role it is important for you to set an example for the children. The best way to do this is to have your home in order. I can see you shaking your heads now! What does having my home in order have to do with me being a Sunday School teacher, scout leader or soccer coach? It has everything to do with your stress levels. A calm leader is an efficient leader. We love being with the kids. It makes us feel young again because we get to play. Let's face it all that any of us want to do is play. With any volunteer position there is always paperwork. That paperwork has to be done for many reasons but the main one is to keep the children safe.

I want to help you build your Volunteer/Leader Control Journal. My Grandmother taught me that everything has a place and everything in its place. Our Control Journal will be that place for your permission slips, check lists and records. It will also help you find things when you are looking for them. When I was in the sixth grade I had my first experience with scouting. My sister Paddi had been a Girl Scout and had signed up for camp. She spent the summer with our father and could not go to camp so I got to take her place. I was hooked! Two weeks of fun, consistency and organization. Who knew that roughing it in the woods could be so much fun! I think that those weeks helped to shape me into who I am today. After camp I joined our local troop. Each Wednesday we gathered at a church for our meetings. I remember our leaders having refreshments, crafts and activities. I also remember Patrol Leaders and having to work together as a group. I think that this is where I get my "Can Do" Spirit! As an adult I was not involved in scouting even though it was near and dear to my heart. I did help to teach Sunday School to four, five and six year olds. I was so disorganized at the time that I am very thankful that I was only called upon once to actually teach the class. Every adult is a teacher whether they choose to be or not! Children are watching you! They see how you react in all situations. If you are going to be a good example for the children you are guiding; you will need some simple routines in place to help you be organized. It all starts at home. If your home is a mess you can't find things, when you can't find things you become stressed. That stress causes you to procrastinate. In order to lead you have to be prepared! This is why getting your home in order will help you more than anything. With that being said let's talk about our control freak perfectionist personalities. Your goal as a leader is to give the children wings! You can't do that if in order to hide your flaws you have to do everything by yourself. We don't want anyone to find out our dirty little secrets so we don't delegate because we haven't looked at this week's activities or even planned for 15 minutes. We get caught up in doing it all ourselves; when in fact "You are the leader" Leaders delegate, check up on progress and reinforce good behavior.

Here are some tips to help you. 1. Download my FREE Teacher Control Journal on FlyLady.net http://budurl.com/LeaderControlJournal 2. Keep all your Emergency Contacts/Permission Slips in a Zippered Bag with you all the time. 3. Corral your supplies and craft activities into crates, banker boxes or rolling suitcases. 4. Establish a Basic Weekly plan that helps you prepare for each week. Just 15 minutes. 5. Declutter your abundance of stuff! 6. Use your timer so that you don't crash and burn. 7. Don't allow your volunteer life to take over your home! Good leaders don't have to micro-manage or play the martyr. They plan so they can play! Praying At The Pole

Photo Courtesy To The Brackett News - Fifty-three students and adults arrived at school early on September 22 to pray for our nation's leaders and for the staff and students at Brackett ISD. The students were participating the global day of student prayer known as See You at the Pole™. The annual event, according to the SYATP website, began in 1990 as a grass roots movement with ten students praying at their school. Twenty years later, millions pray on their campuses on the fourth Wednesday in September. See You at the Pole™ is simply a prayer rally where students meet at the school flagpole before school to lift up their friends, families, teachers, school, and nation to God. See You at the Pole™ is a student-initiated, student-organized, and student-led event.

Mitsuo Fuchida

By Jeff Janca

Mitsuo Fuchida was a Captain in the Japanese Naval Air Service. He was the Japanese pilot who led the first wave of Japanese planes that attacked Pearl Harbor. After the war, Mitsuo was convinced that the Japanese military had not hurt or tortured American prisoners of war.

He believed that the Americans had tortured Japanese prisoners of war. As he began to investigate for himself, he soon found out that the Japanese military not only tortured American prisoners but also tortured and killed Christian missionaries.

One day Mitsuo went to welcome home some returning Japanese soldiers who had been prisoners of war. He saw a friend of his named Kazuo Kanegaski.

When Mitsuo questioned his friend on how he was tortured, his friend said that he had never been tortured and that they had been treated well by the Americans. Mitsuo was disappointed. His friend went on to tell him of a young lady who served them while they were prisoners of war. She was the daughter of Christian missionaries who were killed by Japanese soldiers in the Philippines.

He told Mitsuo that this Christian lady treated them with respect and love. Mitsuo could not understand how this lady could love those who could be considered her enemies, and he became obsessed with finding the answer. In 1948 in Japan, he was handed a pamphlet about the life of Jacob DeShazer, a bombardier and a member of the Doolittle Raid, who was captured by the Japanese after his B-25 ran out of fuel over occupied China.

DeShazer told the story of how he was tortured and imprisoned by the Japanese. During this time as a prisoner of war, DeShazer became a Christian. After reading that story, Mitsuo became even more curious and interested in Christianity and he began looking for a Bible.

He bought a New Testament and began to read it. Later that Fall in 1949 Mitsuo finally understood why the young lady had loved her enemies and he took his first steps in becoming a Christian.

In May of 1950, Mitsuo finally met Jacob DeShazer and they became friends. Mitsuo became a Christian Evangelist and in 1952 toured the United States as a member of the Worldwide Christian Missionary Army of Sky Pilots. Later in 1960 he became a citizen of the United States. He wrote a book entitled "From Pearl Harbor To Golgotha" which detailed his search for Jesus Christ.
