NUMBER 21

JAPANESE FRIENDSHIP WILL BE FORFEITED

REPUTURE IS FEARED

REPETITION OF SAN FRANCISCO INCIDENTS OCCUR.

BOXER-LIKE OUTRAGES

Characterization Given the Attacks Upon Japanese.

Associated Press.
Tokio, June 6.—The Nichi Nishi, the leading Tokyo newspaper, commenting on the Japan and American trade relations this morning says: "Even though friendship will not avert a war, should incidents like those which occurred in San Francisco be repeated. The Japanese there are under a heavy protection. President Roosevelt's enlightened message to the congress was received here with great satisfaction but actual developments since are total failures."

Boxer-like Outrages.

Associated Press.
New York, June 6.—Count Okkama, former leader of the progressives and a member of the Japanese delegation party in Japan, in reply to a request by the World, gave an opinion regarding the incident in San Francisco in which the Japanese are involved. A repetition of such incidents against the Japanese he said, "will seriously hurt our warm relations towards America and our trade friendship will be weakened. We sincerely appeal to the American people to stop boxer-like outrages and the unfair discrimination against the Japanese."

Want Treaty Modified.

Associated Press.
San Francisco, Cal., June 6.—The Japanese today that the Japanese of this city have decided to send a special envoy to Tokio to urge the Japanese government to take steps to modify the treaty made recently by Japan and the United States.

Nations Feelings are Cordial.

Associated Press.
London, England, June 6.—Baron Okuma, vice president of the Japanese Red Cross society, who arrived here from New York May 26th, addressed the Red Cross conference which is to open here on June 10th. He said that the treatment of the Japanese in America, to which some of the English papers are devoting much attention. In an interview today he is quoted as saying: "I was anxious to see to it that no anti-Japanese feeling should be spread by the United States. I may say that the San Francisco affair is much more cordial than I thought it when I was in the United States. I am anxious to declare that the feelings of the Americans towards my country are the most cordial. Nowhere did I see the least sign of unfriendliness towards the exception of San Francisco. I wish the situation between the two countries to become more harmonious, hence desire no more incidents to occur in San Francisco, although purely a local one, it should not be repeated."

No Hostile Demonstration.

By Associated Press.
Tokio, Japan, June 6.—Leading afternoon papers here, whose opinions are worth quoting, are absolutely silent on the question of extreme proceedings in the San Francisco affair. Common sense people only expect reparation in the form of damages for the losses suffered by the Japanese residents there and the punishment of the assailants. It is believed that the government of Japan is taking the proper steps in the matter and while the interested public is displeased at the tardiness displayed in effecting the same, its opinion has not yet reached the stage of advocating a hostile demonstration in any form.

Weather Indications.

By Associated Press.
Indications for weather in Oklahoma and Indian Territory—Tonight and Friday, showers. East Texas and north—Tonight and Friday, probably scattered showers. East Texas south—Tonight and Friday, partly cloudy; Western portion of Texas—Friday, light to fresh southerly winds on coast.

PATRICK'S LIBERTY

OBJECT OF NEW MOVE IN THE PRISONER'S BEHALF.

A FRIEND OF GOVERNOR

Hughes and Patrick Were Once Associated Together in Sunday School Work.

New York, June 5.—Undismayed by their failure to obtain full pardon from the late Governor Higgins, the friends of Albert T. Patrick, now serving a life sentence for the murder of William Marsh Rice, are planning to interest Governor Hughes in the prisoner's behalf.

While they do not expect the Governor to take any action this year, they are hopeful that before the end of his term he will grant a release to the convicted slayer of the Texas millionaire.

The new movement is being carried on by the same persons who made such a determined fight during Governor Higgins' regime and who obtained for Patrick a commutation from a death sentence to imprisonment for life.

Governor Higgins commuted Patrick's sentence on December 20, 1906, just before he left office and but a short time before the date set for his death. Patrick said at the time that he would appeal to Governor Hughes for a pardon.

Old Time Friends.

It is interesting to recall, in view of the new effort to obtain freedom for the prisoner, that Patrick and Governor Hughes were at one time good friends. It was back in 1896, when Mr. Hughes was a leader of the Rockefeller Sunday school class. He was the first leader and while he presided at the meetings Patrick was a regular attendant and one of the most active debaters on all subjects which came up, particularly legal questions.

Frequently Patrick and Mr. Hughes had debates on religious topics while the class was in session, and in other sessions the two sharpened their wits in legal discussions. While as many as half a dozen lawyers, all members of the class, would begin a debate, it would invariably narrow down to Mr. Hughes and Mr. Patrick.

Lunched With Hughes.

As a result of these meetings, Mr. Hughes and Patrick became good friends. Many times they disagreed heartily, but often they were in accord. Very frequently Patrick and some of the other class members went from the church to the home of Mr. Hughes, where luncheon was served and the discussion continued.

Other members of the class at that time who recall the Hughes-Patrick debates were J. W. Troxel, now president of the class; Dr. E. W. Foote and Dr. Faunce, president of Brown university, then pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church. Mr. Hughes resigned as class leader at the end of two years, but Patrick continued to be a member up to the time of his arrest, in 1900.

CONTRACTS ARE SIGNED.

Frederick Gives W. F. & N. W. Railway a Bonus of $30,000 and Right of Way.

The Frederick railway committee has signed up the contract for the extension of the Wichita Falls & Northwestern railway to that place. The contract binds Frederick to pay a subsidy of $30,000 and to give the right of way through the big pasture and the ground for the depot and the terminals in Frederick.

The surveyors are now in the field getting ready to locate the route.

At present they are following the route first selected, which will throw them about six miles north of Quanah, Oklahoma, but they will probably have to make several changes in the route as originally surveyed.

If that line should not be satisfactory the surveyors will drop to the south, about midway between the first line and the line which runs by Quanah, and will run a trial line.

The line that passes through Quanah will probably not be followed, as it ran about five miles south of Frederick.

The officers of the road state that the exact route will be determined by the engineers in the field with a view of securing the best grade at the least expense of maintenance.

They hope to have the line in operation to Frederick by October 1, 1907.

ARE USING DYNAMITE

ANARCHY INAUGURATED BY THE STRIKERS.

CLERK BLOWN TO DEATH

Troops Have Been Sent to the Scene to Restore Order.

By Associated Press.
Tokio, Japan, June 6.—Reports Matsuyama state that the situation at the Besshi copper mines is grave. A thousand striking employees are using dynamite freely and threaten to destroy the mine. The telephone stations are destroyed and the clerk has been blown to death. Troops have been sent. The grievance of the strikers is not stated.

BIG CROWDS ATTEND BURKBURNETT AUCTION

SHOT HIS OWN WIFE

AND THEN TURNED THE WEAPON UPON HIMSELF.

MADE GOOD HIS THREAT

Wife Invites Intoxicated Husband to Shoot—Results Were Fatal.

By Associated Press.
Los Angeles, Cal., June 6.—W. C. Harrington, proprietor of a small grocery store, last night fired three bullets into his wife's head from a revolver and then inflicted a fatal injury on himself with the same weapon. Mrs. Harrington will probably die and the husband's death is expected momentarily. Harrington, who is 38 years old, is his wife's junior by fourteen years. According to the statement of the injured woman, both were residents of Youngstown, Ohio, up to two years ago. They eloped and married in Chicago. Quarrels have been frequent lately and Harrington yesterday came home partly intoxicated and informed his wife that he was going to kill her. The woman invited him to fire and he made good his threat.

BIDDING WAS LIVELY

LOTS SELL AT RATE OF ONE A MINUTE.

ALL BRING GOOD PRICES

Burk Burnett Buys First Two Lots Sold at $585.00 Each.

Special to the Times.
Burkburnett, Tex., June 6.—A big crowd is in attendance at the auction sale here this afternoon and the bidding is of the liveliest sort. The lots are being sold at about the rate of one a minute and at the present rate not a single lot will be left unsold tonight. There was a big rain here last night and all the streams on the Oklahoma side have swollen into young rivers, and on this account only a small number of Oklahoma people reached the sale before the noon hour. Many of the Oklahoma streams are yet impassable.

The bidders this morning were mostly Wichita county people. On the first train which pulled out of the Falls city for the new town this morning were three hundred passengers, of whom nineteen were women.

About seventy-five lots were sold before dinner and the prices realized were good.

Burk Burnett of Fort Worth, for whom the new town was named, purchased the first two lots offered for sale, paying $585.00 apiece for them.

Other lots in block 26 brought the way from $275.00 to $550.00 and many of them were purchased by Wichita Falls people.

Lots in the residence section are selling all the way from $60.00 to $250 each.

Altogether, the auction is considered a very successful affair and the interest in the bidding augurs well for the future of the new town.

Will Not Defy Injunction.

By Associated Press.
Muskegon, I. T., June 6.—William H. Murray will not call an election in the new state in defiance of the federal court injunction. Acting upon the advice of prominent Democrats of the state, he has decided to withdraw his call sent out yesterday, but not published. He will reconvene the constitutional convention after the supreme court decision is rendered, not later than June 14, to set a new date for the election.

Sullivan Gets New Berth.

R. J. Sullivan, who recently resigned as superintendent of the North Texas division of the M. K. & T., has been appointed as superintendent of the Shreveport and Mineola divisions and the McKinney branch of the same system.

Ill health, brought on by the excessive duties of handling the large North Texas division, was given as the cause of Mr. Sullivan's retirement, and at the time it was said that he would take a trip to Mexico to recuperate. Before he could make his preparations to leave, however, officials of the Katy persuaded him to accept the post at Greenville, where the duties are much less arduous than at Denison.

REASSURING EFFECT

WILL BE EXERTED BY PROMISED PROSPERITY IN IRON AND STEEL.

PRODUCTION IS LARGEST

In the History of the Country—New Foundries Increase Capacity.

By Associated Press.
Pittsburg, Pa., June 6.—Despite the rumors in the iron and steel market abroad as well as in this country, a canvass of the industrial situation warrants the statement that the last half of 1906 and the first half of the year 1907 were the largest in producing capacity in the history of the United States and Canada. It is estimated that the new foundries have constructed at least 2,000,000 tons to the producing capacity of the country. Last year the total output of all furnaces was 25,307,000 tons of steel. A corresponding stimulus, it is said, will be given the coke trade, inasmuch as it is estimated that the new pig iron furnace capacity will consume the product of between five and seven thousand coke ovens. It is stated that this information, which is derived from official sources, will have a reassuring effect upon the business men who had a reasonable doubt as to the maintenance of the wonderful degree of prosperity which prevailed in the iron and steel industry last year.

sell of a great stock exchange at an exciting opening. It not only fills and refills space, for the volume is terrific, but it has an individuality all its own, coming from the incisive "take-mine-I've-got-yours," from the aggressive, almost arrogant "you-can't-you-won't-have-your-way," the confident "by-heaven-I-will" individual notes that enter into the whole, as they blend with the shrill scream of triumph and the die-away note of disappointment, when the floor men realize their success or their failure. I picked Bob's magnificently resonant voice from the mass—"40 for any part of 10,000 Sugar." It was this daring bid that struck terror to the bears and filled the bulls with a frenzy of encouragement. Again it rang out—"45 for any part of 25,000;" and a third time—"50 for any part of 50,000."

The great crowd was surging all over the room. Hats were smashed and coats were being stripped from their owners' backs as though made of paper, and now and then a particularly frantic buyer or seller would be borne to the floor by the impetus of those who sought to fill his bid or grab his offer. Through all the wild whirl, straight and erect and commanding was the form of Bob, his face cold and expressionless as an iceberg. In five minutes the human mass had worked back to the Sugar pole and there was the inevitable lull while its members "verified."

I could see by the few entries Bob was making on his pad that he had been compelled to buy but little. This meant that his campaign was working smoothly, that he was driving the market up by merely bidding, and that he had the greater part of my 50,000 yet unsought, which in turn meant he could continue to push up the price, or in the event of his opponents' attempting to run it down, he would be under the market with big supporting orders.

Suddenly the lull was broken. Bob's voice rang out again—"153 for any part of 10,000 Sugar." Again the gamblers closed in and for another five minutes the opening scene was duplicated, with only a shade less fierceness. After ten minutes' mad trading a mighty burst of sound told that Sugar was 160 bid. Then Bob worked his way out of the crowd, and passing by me fairly hissed, "By heaven, Jim, I've got them cinched!"

I went back to the office. In a few minutes Bob without a word strode through my office and into the little room occupied by Beulah Sands. He closed the door behind him, a thing that he had never done before. It was only a minute till he opened it and called to me. In his eyes was a strange look, a look that came from the blending of two mighty passions, one joy, the other I could not make out, unless it was that soft one, which suppressed love, emerging from terrible uncertainty, generates in deep natures and which usually finds vent in tears. Beulah Sands was a study. Her heart was evidently swaying and tugging with the news Bob had brought her. She must have seen the nearness of release from the torture that had been filling her soul during the past three months, and yet such was the remarkable self-control of the woman, such her noble courage, that she refused to show any outward sign of her feelings. She was the reserved, dignified girl I had ever seen her.

"Jim, Miss Sands and I thought it best that we should have a little match at this stage of our deal," Bob began. "I want to know if you both agree with me on adhering to the original plan to close out at 175. I never felt surer of my ground than in this deal. The stock is 163 on the tape right now." He glanced at the white paper ribbon, whose every foot on certain days spells heaven or hell to countless mortals, as it rolled out of the ticker to the corner of the office. "Yes, there she goes again—3 1/4, 3 1/2, and 1,200 at a half. There is a tremendous demand from all quarters. Washington's buying is unlimited; the commission houses are tumbling over one another to get aboard and the shorts are scared to a paralyzed muteness. They don't know whether to jump in and cover or to stand their present hands, but they have no pluck to fight the rise, that is certain. The news bureaus have just published the story that I am buying the Randolph & Randolph, and they are the insiders; that the new tariff is as good as passed; and that at the directors' meeting to-morrow the Sugar dividend will be increased, and that it is agreed on all sides she won't stop going until she crosses 200. I've been obliged to take on only 18,000 of your 50,000 and at present prices there is over two hundred thousand profit in them. I think I could go back there and in 30 minutes have it to 180. Then if I rested on it until about one o'clock and threw myself at it for real fireworks up to the close, I could, under cover of them, let slip about half our purchases, and to-morrow open her with a whirl and let go the balance. If I'm in luck I'll average 180-185 for the whole bunch, but I'll be satisfied if I get an average of 175, which would allow me to sell it on a dropping scale to 160."

I agreed that his campaign was perfect, and Beulah Sands said in her usual quiet way, "It is entirely in your hands, Mr. Brownley. I don't see how any advice from us can help."

Bob went back to the exchange and I into my office. Bob had been right again. In ten minutes the tape began to scream Sugar. With enormous transactions it ran up in 15 minutes to 185; in three more it dropped to 181, and then steadily mounted to 185 1/2, dulled up, and was healthy steady. Presently Bob was back and we sat down again.

"I've bought 20,000 more for you, Jim, on that bulge. I've 35,000 in all of the last 50,000, which leaves me 12,000 reserve. The average is way under 75, and there must be $400,000 for you in it now and a strong $1,400,000 in Miss Sands' 20,000, and $1,800,000 in our 30,000. They say it's bad business to count chickens in the shell, but ours are tapping so hard to get out I can't help doing it this once. I'm going to keep away from the floor for an hour or so, then I will go over and wind it up and—good God, Beulah—Miss Sands—are you ill?"

The girl's face was ashen gray and she seemed to be gasping for breath. I rushed for some water while Bob seized both her hands, but in an instant the blood came to her cheeks with a rush and she said, "I was dizzy for a moment. It must have been the thought of taking $1,800,000 back to father that upset me. With that amount father could make good all the trust funds, and have back enough for his own fortune to make us seem, after what we have been going through, richer than we were before. Pardon me, Mr. Randolph, won't you, when I say—God bless you and every one whom you hold dear, God bless you? What could I or my father have done but for you and Mr. Brownley?"

She turned her big eyes full upon Bob, filled with a light such as can come only to a woman's eyes, only to a woman before whom, as she stands on the brink of hell, suddenly looms her heaven.

Sharp and shrill rang Bob's exchange telephone. The ring seemed shriller; it certainly was longer than usual. Bob jumped for the receiver.

CHAPTER III.

He listened a moment, then answered, "Stand on it at 50 for 12,000 shares. I will be there in a second." He dropped the receiver. "Jim, we have struck a snag. Arthur Perkins, whom I left on guard at the pole, says Barry Conant has jumped in and supplied all the bids. He has it down to $1 and is offering it in 5,000 blocks and is aggressive. I must get there quick," and he shot out of the office.

I sprang for Bob's telephone. "Perkins, quick!" "What are they doing, Perkins?" I asked a moment later. "Conant has almost filled me up. He seems to have a hoghead of it on tap," he answered.

"Buy 50,000 shares, 5,000 each point down; and anything unfilled, give to Bob when he gets there. He is on the way."

I shut off and turned to Miss Sands: "This is no time to stand on ceremony, Miss Sands. Barry Conant is Camemeyer's and Standard Oil's head broker. His being on the floor means mischief. He never goes into a big whirl personally unless they are out for blood. Bob has exhausted his buying power, and though I tell you frankly, that I never speculate, don't believe in speculation and am in this deal only for Bob—and for you—I swear I don't intend to let them wipe the floor with him without at least making them swallow some of the dust they kick up. Please don't object to my helping out, Miss Sands. Ordinarily I would defer to your wishes, but I love Bob Brownley only second to my wife, and I have money enough to warrant a plunge in stock. If they should turn Bob over in this deal, he—well, they're not going to, if I can prevent it," and I started for the exchange on the run.

When I got there the scene beggared description. That of the morn-

POLLARD STANDS PAT.

Holds to His Opinion on the New Liqueur Bill.

Austin, Tex., June 4.—Thomas B. Love, speaker of the house in the Thirtieth legislature, was here today and had a conference with Assistant Attorney General Pollard regarding the latter's ruling on the Baskin-McGregor liquor bill. Mr. Love submitted authorities to Judge Pollard to show that the ruling made by the judge, to the effect that all saloons will have to close for a period of from ten to fifteen days is a wrong construction of the law. It appears that most of the authorities had been submitted to Judge Pollard by the delegation which was here Saturday. Judge Pollard, however, has not shown any inclination to change or modify his ruling on the question.

Speaker Love said that he still maintained the position he had taken as announced in an interview, that the saloons will not have to close their places of business from the time that the law goes into effect until a new license is issued. He contends that under the law the old licenses will not expire until the new one is issued.

He takes issue with Judge Pollard, as contained in the latter's statement, that the intent of the legislature can not be taken into consideration as a basis for the construction of a law. Mr. Love declared that the intent of the legislature is what is to be taken into consideration in construing a new law, and all the facts surrounding the enactment of the law must be taken into consideration.

Continuing the speaker asserted that all courts have so held in passing on the acts of the legislature. Strictly speaking he declared that the legislature can not do anything unintentional. He said that an effort had been made to provide that all licenses shall not expire on July 11, or the time that the new law became effective, but this was defeated.

A Fair Census.

Poppyland.

In Washington the census bureau is even now making preparations for the national census to be taken in 1910. It is a vast work, involving infinite detail, and must be carefully planned. The millions of people who inhabit the United States are to be enumerated, together with the live stock, and comprehensive reports also are sought on the innumerable industries of the country, its development and resources. That all of this can be done with absolute accuracy is out of the question, but it can be done in a far more thorough manner than the census records of the past bear out in many, many instances is certain. The faithful enumerators are in the minority, and in self-protection the interested public should see to it that returns as nearly correct as it is humanly possible to make them should be sent to Washington for final summing up and publication.

Horses Killed By Lightning.

During the heavy storm which swept over Wichita county yesterday morning lightning struck in a pasture lot on L. B. Duckett's farm near Allendale, six miles southwest of this city, killing two valuable horses.

In recent years lightning has struck in that vicinity and Mr. Duckett lost several hundred dollars worth of stock on that account.

Mr. Duckett has a gas well on his place and many attribute the frequent lightning bolts in that vicinity to this.

The Revival Meeting.

The services last evening were held at the Methodist church. The threatening weather about church time kept many at home and the congregation numbered twenty-six including the preacher and the singer.

Rev. L. S. Barton had gone to Sherman for a day or so and the services were conducted by the singer, W. J. Ramsey. A test showed that four of the twenty-six present were not Christians.

Bro. Ramsey had prepared a sermon for the hour, but after the congregation proved so small he discarded it and made a common sense heart to heart talk to those who were unconverted.

As a result of the services two young ladies gave their hearts to God. Rev. Stuckey, being the only minister of the town present, opened the doors of his church and in the absence of the other pastors, their church doors also. The ladies who were converted gave their names for membership in the Methodist church and Rev. Stuckey announced that they would be received next Sunday evening.

Services will be held at the Methodist church until further notice at 9:30 a. m. and 8:30 p. m.

We have just received another shipment of those U-All-Know week end mints. Try them.

AS TO SEWERAGE.

The Times believes that the great majority of the citizens and taxpayers of Wichita Falls are opposed to the granting of a fifty-year franchise to Will McKenzie of Gainesville, or for that matter, to any other person, which will give him or them a virtual monopoly over the sewer rights of the city.

If possible the people of Wichita Falls want the city to own and directly control a public utility for this purpose. Their own experience with privately owned public utility corporations and the experience of other towns influence them to this view of the question.

The Times, without having consulted expert opinion, is under the belief that a satisfactory sewer system could be put in at a comparatively small cost. Whether this should be done now or whether we should wait until the town has grown larger and the necessity becomes more apparent is a question for the people themselves to decide.

In any event, before the city council give to any individual or corporation a monopoly over the sewers of this city, we believe that they would do well to wait, and to investigate the feasibility and probable cost of the city putting in its own sewers.

T. H. Libby created a sensation at Houston by walking into the court house, accompanied by his attorney and his pastor, and asked the judge to grant him a new trial on the charge of lunacy. Libby had been convicted on a lunacy charge last March and sent to the asylum at Terrell, but made his escape from the second story of the institution by means of a rope made from bed clothes, and his appearance in the court room at Houston yesterday was the first news the authorities of the asylum at Terrell had heard of him since his escape. He was granted a new trial.

WRECK ON THE VALLEY.

Five Cars Were Derailed at Dundee Last Night.

The heavy rains yesterday morning were responsible for a freight wreck on the Valley road last night near Dundee.

Five freight cars were derailed when the tracks gave way, and the resulting smash almost completely demolished the five freight cars.

No one was injured in the smashup and the tracks were cleared for traffic this morning.

STRUCK BY A BALL

ARTHUR HUFF RENDERED INSENSIBLE BY BLOW ON HEAD.

VICTIM HAS RECOVERED

And No Serious Results Will Follow the Accident.

While playing in a practice game of ball at the park yesterday afternoon, Arthur Huff, the eighteen year old son of Judge R. E. Huff and wife, was struck on the back of the head by a pitched ball and a few minutes later fell in a faint upon the field and was insensible for nearly half an hour.

Young Huff was placed in a wagon and driven to the office of Dr. Burnside and Walker where he was restored to consciousness and later removed to his home where he has almost completely recovered from the effects of the blow. This morning he was able to be up and around as usual and excepting the soreness caused by the bruise on his head, felt no bad effects from the severe blow.

Arthur was at the bat when he was hit and other than being rendered dizzy for a few seconds, experienced no immediate injurious effects from the blow. He was able to run the bases and it was not until after his side had been retired and he went out to his place in the field that he fainted.

His father thinks perhaps that the exertion in running the bases had something to do with his fainting as well as the blow.

The young man's hat was pushed back upon his head and protected it from the full force of the blow, which would probably have had serious results but for this fact.

GREWSOME STORY

ORCHARD RESUMES STORY OF
CRIME AND ASSASSINATION.

THE BOMB IS PRODUCED

With Which It is Alleged Orchard
and Adams Sought the Death of Governor Peabody.

Boise, Idaho, June 6.—Harry Orchard, who says his true name is Albert Horsley, and who assassinated former Governor Frank Steunenberg at Caldwell on the night of December 30th, 1905, continued his grewsome story as a witness against William D. Haywood, secretary and treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners this morning.

Orchard began his day's testimony by giving the names of several persons he met in San Francisco when he went there to assassinate Fred Bradley, who had formerly been manager of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine, in the Couer d'Alene district in Idaho. These names were related in order to pave the way for the possible corroboration of Orchard's testimony on this point.

Orchard said he was known a part of the time in San Francisco by the name of Jarry. Leaving California, Orchard returned to Denyer, wearing the uniform of a federal soldier. He said he immediately called Pettibone on the telephone. "Pettibone asked me how Bradley was," continued Orchard. "I told him Bradley was alive when I left San Francisco, but that it was reported that he had lost both eyes in the fight and would probably be deaf for the rest of his life. Pettibone said 'That is better than if he had been killed outright; that Bradley would now be a living example.'" Orchard said that he asked for money and received $125.00 from Pettibone, with the assurance that he would get more whenever he wanted it. Orchard said Haywood next asked him "to go to work on Judge Gabbart of the Supreme Court of Colorado."

"He said Judge Gabbart," Orchard went on, "had been rendering decisions against Moyer, who we were trying to get out of the Telluride jail on habeas corpus. I went to Judge Gabbart's house the following Sunday night with Steve Adams and we were armed with shot guns, but we did not see the Judge. Haywood also wanted us to try again at Governor Peabody, saying he did not care how we got rid of him. At this time it seemed that Peabody was about to be elected for another term. Steve Adams, Billy Acherman and I set to work and made a bomb. We put it under the side walk at Thirteenth street and Grant avenue in Denver. Governor Peabody walked along here every morning. Adams and I watched for the governor as he came out. Just as the governor walked over the place where the bomb was two heavy coal wagons came out of an alley and passed over the wire leading to the bomb and we could not pull it."

Bomb Produced.

The bomb buried by Orchard in Canyon City for the purpose of killing former Governor Peabody was produced in court.

Indictments Returned By Grand Jury.

Indictments have been returned by the grand jury and bench warrants issued and the persons indicted taken into custody of the court as follows: Zed Wilson of Electra, charged with rape; F. F. Hughes, charged with burglary at night and a man named Stockdale, alias Stocky, on the same charge. The last named individuals are indicted for the robbery of Robertson's store on the night of February 5th. They are now in jail at Montague.

Other indictments have been returned, so it is reported, and the grand jury will probably finish its business next Saturday.

HE WOULD BE SAFE.

Senator Foraker Assured That He May
Visit Brownsville Without Fear.

Washington, D. C., June 5.—Senator Foraker was given assurance today that it would be safe for him to visit Brownsville, Tex., regardless of his efforts to prove that negro soldiers were not guilty of shooting up the town. At the conclusion of the testimony of Louis Cowan of Brownsville, who was a witness before the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, Cowan said he had been quoted in special dispatches from St. Louis as saying that if Senator Foraker went to Brownsville he would be "tarred and feathered."

Cowan denied that he had made any such remark.

"Then you think it would be perfectly safe for me to go there," asked Senator Foraker.

"Oh, yes, sir," said Cowan. "I greatly appreciate your assurance," said Foraker.

The senator then referred to another special dispatch saying that Cowan, on his way to Washington compelled a negro porter to make up a berth in a Pullman car by threatening to shoot him. Cowan also denied the truthfulness of this story.

Senator Foraker told Cowan that he had seen the stories, but thought so little about them that he had forgotten them.

At the afternoon session of the committee Cowan was examined closely concerning ammunition he purchased the day of the shooting, but this purchase was not connected in any way with the affray.

He testified that he saw the flashes of shots from Company D barracks as he stood in front of a saloon on Elizabeth street, but he did not see the negro soldiers.

Bernard Kowalski testified that he attended a party at Cowan's house on the night of the shooting, and as he sat in the window facing the alley, some negro soldiers passed. The witness said that one of the negroes remarked that the people in that house were having a good time, but would not be in half an hour.

R. B. Creager, United States Commissioner at Brownsville, was examined concerning the investigation by citizens of the shooting.

Friday the 13th

By THOMAS W. LAWSON
Author of "Frenzied Finance"

Jag was tame in comparison. A Bull market, however, terrific, always is tame beside a bear crash. In the few moments it took me to get to the floor, the battle had started. The greater part of the exchange membership was in a dense mob wedged against the rail behind the Sugar pole. I could not have got within yards of the center of that crowd of men, fast becoming panic-stricken, if the fate of nations had depended on my errand. I had witnessed such a scene before. It represented a certain phase of stock exchange gambling procedure, where one man apparently has every other man on the floor against him. I understood Bob against them all—he trying to stay the onrushing current of dropping prices; they bent on keeping the sluice gates open. He was backed up against the rail—not the Bob of the morning; not a vestige of that cold, brain-nerve-and-body-in-hand gambler remained. His hat was gone, his collar torn and hanging over his shoulder. His coat and waistcoat were ripped open, showing the full length of his white shirt front, and his eyes were fairly mad. Bob was no longer a human being, but a monarch of the forest at bay, with the hunter in front of him, and closing in upon him, in a great half circle, the pack of barriers, all gnashing their teeth, baring their fangs, and howling for blood. The hunter directly facing Bob, was Barry Conant—very slight, very short, a marvellously compact, handsome, miniature man, with a fascinating face, dark olive in tint, lighted by a pair of sparkling black eyes and framed in jet-black hair; a black mustache was parted over white teeth, which, when the trend of their battle. "All knew that if Bob should be beaten down by this concentrated modern financial devil, a panic would ensue and Sugar would go none could say how low. But if Bob should play him to a standstill by exhausting his selling power, Sugar would quickly soar to even higher figures than before. It was known that Barry Conant's usual order from his clients, the "System" masters, for such an occasion as the present was "Break the price at any cost." On the other hand, every one knew that Randolph & Randolph were usually behind Bob's big operations; this was evidently one of his biggest, and every man there knew that Randolph & Randolph were seldom backed down by any force.

As Bob made his bid "72 for 5,000," and got it, I saw a quick flash of pain shoot across his face, and realized that it probably meant he was nearing the end of my last order. I sized it up that there was devilry of more than usual significance behind this selling movement; that Barry Conant must have unlimited orders to sell and smash. My final order of 50,000 brought our total up to 150,000 shares, a large amount for even Randolph & Randolph to buy of a stock selling at nearly $200 a share. I then and there decided that whatever happened I would go no further. Just then Bob's wild eye caught mine, and there was in it a piteous appeal, such an appeal as one sees in the eye of the wounded doe when she gives up her attempt to swim to shore and waits the coming of the pursuing hunter's canoe. I sadly signaled that I was through. As Bob caught the sign, he threw his he was stalking his game, looked like those of a wolf. An interesting man at all times was this Barry Conant, and he had been on more and fiercer battlefields than any other half-score members combined. The scene was a rare one for a student of animalized men.

While every other man in the crowd was at a high tension of excitement, Barry Conant was as calm as though standing in the center of a ten-acre daisy field cutting off the helpless flowers' heads with every swing of his arm. Switching stock gamblers into eternity had grown to be a pastime to Barry Conant. Here was Bob thundering with terrific emphasis "78 for 5,000," "77 for 5,000," "75 for 5,000," "74 for 5,000," "73 for 5,000," "72 for 5,000," seemingly expecting through sheer power of voice to crush his opponent into silence. But with the regularity of a trip-hammer Barry Conant's right hand, raised in unhurried gesture, and his clear calm "Sold" met Bob's every retreating bid. It was a battle royal—a king on one side, a Richelieu on the other. Though there was frantic buying and selling all around these two generals, the trading was gauged by head back and bellowed a deep, hoarse "70 for 10,000." I knew then that he had already bought 40,000; and that this was the last ditch stand. Barry Conant must have caught the meaning, too. Instantly, like a revolver report, came his "Sold!" Then the compact, miniature mass of human springs and wires, which had until now been held in perfect control, suddenly burst from its clamps and Barry Conant was the fend his Wall street reputation pictured him. His five feet five inches seemed to loom to the height of a giant. His arms, with their fate-pointing fingers, rose and fell with bewildering rapidity as his piercing voice rang out—"5,000 at 69, 68, 65," "10,000 at 63," "25,000 at 60." Pandemonium reigned. Every man in the crowd seemed to have the capital stock of the Sugar trust to sell, and at any price. A score seemed to be bent on selling as low as possible instead of for as much as they could get. These were the shorts who had been punished the day before by Bob's uplift.

Poor Bob, he was forgotten! As in (To Be Continued.)

OLD SETTLER.

"Thank goodness, there is a happy medium between self importance and subject diffidence; else this old world would go topsy turvey.

"That reminds me that in the early days of the Texas frontier a young man came from an Eastern college loaded down with theory. In his own estimation, what he did not know was not embodied in book form. He was the portage of a rich uncle, who sent his nephew west to learn ranch life, with a view of making him a cattle baron.

One can imagine the self-importance that oozed out of this young man, who had listened to the wise professor's lecture about the anatomy of a cow but if called on to pick out the cow that gave buttermilk, (?) would have been compelled to confess their ignorance.

"The first morning's experience did much to knock the halo from around this young man's theory."

"The outfit was preparing for a day of marking and branding and little time and attention was given to the college graduate from the East. But he did not propose to be ignored. He got busy asking questions and was always referred to the 'range boss' by the other boys.

"Now this same range boss happened to be a wild Irishman by the name of O'Connor, who had an utter contempt for what he called a 'spider-legged dude.' Consequently, when the young man had chased around from place to place trying to locate O'Connor, he found him dismounted near the cook's shanty, cinching up his broncho.

"I say, me good fellow, how far is it to where those gentle bovines are to be decorated with the insignia of ownership of me dear uncle?"

"O'Connor looked up from beneath his shaggy brows and eyed the young man with contempt, as he blurted out, 'Oh, to blaze wid yez foine talk, ye blubberin' idiot. If I had me way I'd chunk ye down a prairie dog hole, where yez could tell yer story to the snake and owl, instead of snoopin' around here with yez baby talk.' "But, my good man, you do not seem to understand me. I take great interest in this ideal life of the cowboy."

"I suppose so," remarked O'Connor. "I don't know what yez mean, but I am willing to do what is right about it."

"Then if you will kindly order me a horse, I will take great pleasure in accompanying you, so that I may take observation and make suggestions that may prove helpful in simplifying your work."

"Say, Tucker," shouted O'Connor to a cowboy near by, 'saddle up that old flea-bitten gray and turn him over to this dude—I'm off for the pen."

"Following instructions, Tucker saddled one of the old outlawed cayuses that had been turned loose for a year. This old skate always took the bit in his teeth and ran away.

"So it happened when the young man from the East was mounted one of the boys came galloping up, yelling 'Yip! Yip! Yahee!' Away went the old cayuse like he was shot out of a gun, carrying the young man from the East far out over the prairie and it was the noon hour before he returned, sore, dejected and humbled."

Oil company Will Appeal, Says Pierce's Counsel.

St. Louis Republic.

"The finding of the jury in the Waters-Pierce Oil case undoubtedly will be appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States on a plea of error," said former Judge H. S. Priest, counsel for the Waters-Pierce Company last night.

"The charge, as given to the jury, is in itself a fundamental error. In reality the contention of the State of Texas is that the Standard Oil Company owned two-thirds of the stock of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company. It alleged that if the Standard Oil Company owned a majority of the stock the corporation was a trust, and violated the laws of Texas in operating in that State.

"The Waters-Pierce Company was organized as a corporation under the laws of Missouri, and the contention of the company was that when it went into Texas it carried with it corporate rights. The company also contended that it was not a part of a trust, owing to the fact that neither the Standard Oil Company nor the Waters-Pierce Oil Company had operated in Texas before the consolidation in Missouri. The company holds that a corporation cannot be a trust unless it is made up of competing factors engaged in the same business in one State.

"Of course, it would be absurd for me to say the company cannot ultimately be prevented from operating in Texas, but I am confident in saying it stands an excellent chance of having the findings of the jury at Austin set aside by the Supreme Court."

Shortly after the finding of the jury was printed, H. Clay Pierce, chairman of the board of the Waters-Pierce Company, left his residence, No. 40 Vandeventer place, telling a servant she would not see him before breakfast.

BUYS PARTNER'S INTEREST.

The W. F. Jourdan Furniture Company Now Numbered Among Wichita's Mercantile Houses.

W. F. Jourdan has purchased the half interest of his partner, K. A. White, in the Jourdan-White Furniture Co., and is now the owner of the entire business. The deal was closed yesterday and included the transfer of $12,000 in stock, all notes, accounts and other property in the business from Mr. White to Mr. Jourdan. The terms of the sale are private.

The business will be conducted at the old stand at the corner of Indiana avenue and Eighth street under the new firm name of the W. F. Jourdan Furniture Company.

Both a retail and wholesale business will be conducted by the firm and the Times wishes it unbounded success.

It is understood that Mr. White will soon go on the road for a big furniture house in St. Louis.

Another Runaway.

The horse that is worked to Burt Bean's delivery wagon became frightened near the residence of Mr. J. A. Kemp yesterday afternoon and ran at breakneck speed down Ohio avenue. He ran into three buggies along the way and all of them were more or less damaged. One of the buggies belonged to Dr. Coons and the names of the owners of the other two were not learned.

Near Tullis' paint shop a serious accident was prevented by the runaway wagon smashing into a telephone post. In a buggy just ahead was Mr. Darnell, who is old and almost helpless. If the post had not been struck his buggy would have been struck broad side and the collision might have resulted fatally for the old gentleman.

"CAMERA DELEGATE"

Supplements the Walking Delegate in the Unions.

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Ill., June 6.—The traditional union "walking delegate" was replaced yesterday by a person carrying a "snap shot" camera under his arm. The "camera delegate" is something new in organized labor circles, being a combination "walking delegate" and photographer, whose duty it is to take pictures of buildings under construction, so that he can call a strike from the office without visiting the job. It is planned to photograph every building in Chicago where union men are at work as well as a number where non-union men are employed. Sufficient data will be given in connection with the pictures to enable the union officials to keep track of every building industry from day to day.

NUMBER 21

JAPANESE FRIENDSHIP WILL BE FORFEITED

REPUTATION IS FEARED

REPETITION OF SAN FRANCISCO INCIDENTS OCCUR.

BOXER-LIKE OUTRAGES

Characterization Given the Attacks Upon Japanese.

Associated Press.

San Francisco, Cal., June 6.—The Nichi Nishi, the Tokyo newspaper, commenting upon the Japanese and American trade relations this morning says: "Even though friendship will not avert a war should incidents like those occurred in San Francisco be repeated. The Japanese there are unhesitatingly protected. President Roosevelt's enlightened message to the congress was received here with satisfaction but actual developments since are total failures."

Boxer-like Outrages.

Associated Press.

New York, June 6.—Count Okuma, former leader of the progressives in Japan, in reply to a request by the World, an opinion regarding the incident in San Francisco in which the Japanese are involved. A repetition of such incidents against the Japanese will seriously hurt our warm relations towards America and our trade with America will be weakened. We sincerely appeal to the American public to stop boxer-like outrages and the unfair discrimination against the Japanese.

West Treaty Modified.

Associated Press.

San Francisco, Cal., June 6.—The Japanese today that the Japanese government have decided to send a special envoy to Tokyo to urge the American government to take steps to modify a modification of the immigration pact made recently by Japan and the United States.

Japanese Feelings are Cordial.

Associated Press.

London, England, June 6.—Baron Okuma, vice president of the Red Cross society, who arrived from New York May 26th, addressed the Red Cross conference which opened here on June 10th. He spoke on the sensational treatment of the Japanese in America, to which some of the English papers are devoting attention. In an interview to-day he is quoted as saying: "I was anxious to see to-day any anti-Japanese feeling in the United States. I may say that the San Francisco affair is much more than I thought it when I was in the United States. I am entirely cordial towards my country and towards the Japanese. Nowhere did I see any sign of unfriendliness towards the Japanese of San Francisco. I wish the situation between the two countries to become more cordial, hence desire no more incidents like those which occurred in San Francisco."

although purely a local one, it should not be repeated."

No Hostile Demonstration.

By Associated Press.

Tokio, Japan, June 6.—Leading afternoon papers here, whose opinions are worth quoting, are absolutely silent on the question of extreme proceedings in the San Francisco affair. Common sense people only expect reparation in the form of damages for the losses suffered by the Japanese residents there and the punishment of the assailants. It is believed that the government of Japan is taking the proper steps in the matter and while the interested public is displeased at the tardiness displayed in effecting the same, its opinion has not yet reached the stage of advocating a hostile demonstration in any form.

Weather Indications.

By Associated Press.

Indications for weather in Oklahoma and Indian Territory—Tonight and Friday, showers. East Texas and north—Tonight and Friday, probably scattered showers. East Texas south—Tonight and Friday, partly cloudy; Western portion of Texas—Friday, light to fresh southerly winds on coast.

PATRICK'S LIBERTY

OBJECT OF NEW MOVE IN THE PRISONER'S BEHALF.

A FRIEND OF GOVERNOR

Hughes and Patrick Were Once Associated Together in Sunday School Work.

New York, June 5.—Undismayed by their failure to obtain full pardon from the late Governor Higgins, the friends of Albert T. Patrick, now serving a life sentence for the murder of William Marsh Rice, are planning to interest Governor Hughes in the prisoner's behalf.

While they do not expect the Governor to take any action this year, they are hopeful that before the end of his term he will grant a release to the convicted slayer of the Texas millionaire.

The new movement is being carried on by the same persons who made such a determined fight during Governor Higgins' regime and who obtained for Patrick a commutation from a death sentence to imprisonment for life.

Governor Higgins commuted Patrick's sentence on December 29, 1906, just before he left office and but a short time before the date set for his death. Patrick said at the time that he would appeal to Governor Hughes for a pardon.

Old Time Friends.

It is interesting to recall, in view of the new effort to obtain freedom for the prisoner, that Patrick and Governor Hughes were at one time good friends. It was back in 1896, when Mr. Hughes was a leader of the Rockefeller Sunday school class. He was the first leader and while he presided at the meetings Patrick was a regular attendant and one of the most active debaters on all subjects which came up, particularly legal questions.

Frequently Patrick and Mr. Hughes had debates on religious topics while the class was in session, and in other sessions the two sharpened their wits in legal discussions. While as many as half a dozen lawyers, all members of the class, would begin a debate, it would invariably narrow down to Mr. Hughes and Mr. Patrick.

Lunched With Hughes.

As a result of these meetings, Mr. Hughes and Patrick became good friends. Many times they disagreed heartily, but often they were in accord. Very frequently Patrick and some of the other class members went from the church to the home of Mr. Hughes, where luncheon was served and the discussion continued.

Other members of the class at that time who recall the Hughes-Patrick debates were J. W. Troxel, now president of the class; Dr. E. W. Foote and Dr. Faunce, president of Brown university, then pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church. Mr. Hughes resigned as class leader at the end of two years, but Patrick continued to be a member up to the time of his arrest, in 1900.

CONTRACTS ARE SIGNED.

Frederick Gives W. F. & N. W. Railway a Bonus of $30,000 and Right of Way.

The Frederick railway committee has signed up the contract for the extension of the Wichita Falls & Northwestern railway to that place. The contract binds Frederick to pay a subsidy of $30,000 and to give the right of way through the big pasture and the ground for the depot and the terminals in Frederick.

The surveyors are now in the field getting ready to locate the route.

At present they are following the route first selected, which will throw them about six miles north of Quanah, Oklahoma, but they will probably have to make several changes in the route as originally surveyed.

If that line should not be satisfactory the surveyors will drop to the south, about midway between the first line and the line which runs by Quanah, and will run a trial line.

The line that passes through Quanah will probably not be followed, as it ran about five miles south of Frederick.

The officers of the road state that the exact route will be determined by the engineers in the field with a view of securing the best grade at the least expense of maintenance.

They hope to have the line in operation to Frederick by October 1, 1907.

Wife Invites Intoxicated Husband to Shoot—Results Were Fatal.

By Associated Press.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 6.—W. C. Harrington, proprietor of a small grocery store, last night fired three bullets into his wife's head from a revolver and then inflicted a fatal injury on himself with the same weapon. Mrs. Harrington will probably die and the husband's death is expected momentarily. Harrington, who is 38 years old, is his wife's junior by fourteen years. According to the statement of the injured woman, both were residents of Youngstown, Ohio, up to two years ago. They eloped and married in Chicago. Quarrels have been frequent lately and Harrington yesterday came home partly intoxicated and informed his wife that he was going to kill her. The woman invited him to fire and he made good his threat.

REASSURING EFFECT

WILL BE EXERTED BY PROMISED PROSPERITY IN IRON AND STEEL.

PRODUCTION IS LARGEST

In the History of the Country—New Foundries Increase Capacity.

By Associated Press.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 6.—Despite the rumors in the iron and steel market abroad as well as in this country, a canvass of the industrial situation warrants the statement that the last half of 1906 and the first half of the year 1907 were the largest in producing capacity in the history of the United States and Canada. It is estimated that the new foundries have constructed at least 2,000,000 tons to the producing capacity of the country. Last year the total output of all furnaces was 25,307,000 tons of steel. A corresponding stimulus, it is said, will be given the coke trade, inasmuch as it is estimated that the new pig iron furnace capacity will consume the product of between five and seven thousand coke ovens. It is stated that this information, which is derived from official sources, will have a reassuring effect upon the business men who had a reasonable doubt as to the maintenance of the wonderful degree of prosperity which prevailed in the iron and steel industry last year.

LOTS SELL AT RATE OF ONE A MINUTE.

ALL BRING GOOD PRICES

Burk Burnett Buys First Two Lots Sold at $585.00 Each.

Special to the Times.

Burkburnett, Tex., June 6.—A big crowd is in attendance at the auction sale here this afternoon and the bidding is of the liveliest sort. The lots are being sold at about the rate of one a minute and at the present rate not a single lot will be left unsold tonight.

There was a big rain here last night and all the streams on the Oklahoma side have swollen into young rivers, and on this account only a small number of Oklahoma people reached the sale before the noon hour. Many of the Oklahoma streams are yet impassable.

The bidders this morning were mostly Wichita county people. On the first train which pulled out of the Falls city for the new town this morning were three hundred passengers, of whom nineteen were women.

About seventy-five lots were sold before dinner and the prices realized were good.

Burk Burnett of Fort Worth, for whom the new town was named, purchased the first two lots offered for sale, paying $585.00 apiece for them.

Other lots in block 26 brought the way from $275.00 to $550.00 and many of them were purchased by Wichita Falls people.

Lots in the residence section are selling all the way from $60.00 to $250 each.

Altogether, the auction is considered a very successful affair and the interest in the bidding augurs well for the future of the new town.

Will Not Defy Injunction.

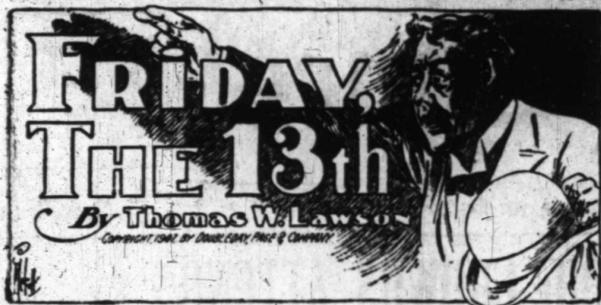

By Associated Press.

Muskogee, I. T., June 6.—William H. Murray will not call an election in the new state in defiance of the federal court injunction. Acting upon the advice of prominent Democrats of the state, he has decided to withdraw his call sent out yesterday, but not published. He will reconvene the constitutional convention after the supreme court decision is rendered, not later than June 14, to set a new date for the election.

Sullivan Gets New Berth.

R. J. Sullivan, who recently resigned as superintendent of the North Texas division of the M. K. & T., has been appointed as superintendent of the Shreveport and Mineola divisions and the McKinney branch of the same system.

Ill health, brought on by the excessive duties of handling the large North Texas division, was given as the cause of Mr. Sullivan's retirement, and at the time it was said that he would take a trip to Mexico to recuperate. Before he could make his preparations to leave, however, officials of the Katy persuaded him to accept the post at Greenville, where the duties are much less arduous than at Denison.

yeil of a great stock exchange at an exciting opening. It not only fills and refills space, for the volume is terrific, but it has an individuality all its own, coming from the inclusive "take-me-I've-got yours," from the aggressive, almost arrogant "you-can't-you-won't-have-your-way," the confident "by-heaven-I-will" individual notes that enter into the whole, as they blend with the shrill scream of triumph and the die-away note of disappointment, when the floor men realize their success or their failure. I picked Bob's magnificently resonant voice from the mass—"40 for any part of 10,000 Sugar." It was this daring bid that struck terror to the bears and filled the bulls with a frenzy of encouragement. Again it rang out—"45 for any part of 25,000;" and a third time—"50 for any part of 50,000."

The great crowd was surging all over the room. Hats were smashed and coats were being stripped from their owners' backs as though made of paper, and now and then a particularly frantic buyer or seller would be borne to the floor by the impetus of those who sought to fill his bid or grab his offer. Through all the wild whirl, straight and erect and commanding was the form of Bob, his face cold and expressionless as an iceberg. In five minutes the human mass had worked back to the Sugar pole and there was the inevitable lull while its members "verified."

I could see by the few entries Bob was making on his pad that he had been compelled to buy but little. This meant that his campaign was working smoothly, that he was driving the market up by merely bidding, and that he had the greater part of my 50,000 yet unsought, which in turn meant he could continue to push up the price, or in the event of his opponents' attempting to run it down, he would be under the market with big supporting orders.

Suddenly the lull was broken. Bob's voice rang out again—"153 for any part of 10,000 Sugar." Again the gamblers closed in and for another five minutes the opening scene was duplicated, with only a shade less fierceness. After ten minutes' mad trading a mighty burst of sound told that Sugar was 160 bid. Then Bob worked his way out of the crowd, and passing by the fairly biased, "By heaven, Jim, I've got them clinched!"

I went back to the office. In a few minutes Bob without a word strode through my office and into the little room occupied by Beulah Sands. He closed the door behind him, a thing that he had never done before. It was only a minute till he opened it and called to me. In his eyes was a strange look, a look that came from the blending of two mighty passions, one joy, the other I could not make out, unless it was that soft one, which suppressed love, emerging from terrible uncertainty, generates in deep natures and which usually finds vent in tears. Beulah Sands was a study. Her heart was evidently swaying and tugging with the news Bob had brought her. She must have seen the nearness of release from the torture that had been filling her soul during the past three months, and yet such was the remarkable self-control of the woman, such her noble courage, that she refused to show any outward sign of her feelings. She was the reserved, dignified girl I had ever seen her.

"Jim, Miss Sands and I thought it best that we should have a little match on at this stage of our deal," Bob began. "I want to know if you both agree with me on adhering to the original plans to close out at 175. I never felt surer of my ground than in this deal. The stock is 163 on the tape right now." He glanced at the white paper ribbon whose every foot on certain days spells heaven or hell to countless mortals, as it rolled out of the ticker in the corner of the office. "Yes, there she goes again—3 1/4, 4, 4 1/4, and 1,200 at a half. There is a tremendous demand from all quarters. Washington's buying is unlimited; the commission houses are tumbling over one another to get aboard and the shorts are scared to a paralyzed muteness. They don't know whether to jump in and cover or to stand their present hands, but they have no pluck to fight the rise, that is certain. The news bureaus have just published the story that I am buying the Randolph & Randolph, and they are the insiders; that the new tariff is as good as passed; and that at the creators' meeting to-morrow the Sugar dividend will be increased, and that it is agreed on all sides she won't stop going until she crosses 200. I've been obliged to take on only 18,000 of your 50,000 and at present prices there is over two hundred thousand profit in them. I think I could go back there and in 30 minutes have it to 180. Then if I rested on it until about one o'clock and threw myself at it for real fireworks up to the close, I could, under cover of them, let slip about half our purchases, and to-morrow open her with a whirl and let go the balance. If I'm in luck I'll average 180-185 for the whole bunch, but I'll be satisfied if I get an average of 175, which would allow me to sell it on a dropping scale to 160."

I agreed that his campaign was perfect, and Beulah Sands said in her usual quiet way, "It is entirely in your hands, Mr. Brownley. I don't see how any advice from us can help."

Bob went back to the exchange and I into my office. Bob had been right again. In ten minutes the tape began to scream Sugar. With enormous transactions it ran up in 15 minutes to 188, in three more it dropped to 181, and then steadily mounted to 185 1/2, dulled up, and was healthy steady. Presently Bob was back and we sat down again.

"I've bought 20,000 more for you, Jim, on that bulge. I've 38,000 in all of the last 50,000, which leaves me 12,000 reserve. The average is 'way under 75, and there must be $400,000 for you in it now and a strong $1,400,000 in Miss Sands' 20,000, and $1,800,000 in our 30,000. They say it's bad business to count chickens in the shell, but ours are tapping so hard to get out I can't help doing it this once. I'm going to keep away from the floor for an hour or so, then I will go over and wind it up and—good God, Beulah—Miss Sands—are you ill?"

The girl's face was ashen gray and she seemed to be gasping for breath. I rushed for some water while Bob seized both her hands, but in an instant the blood came to her cheeks with a rush and she said, "I was dizzy for a moment. It must have been the thought of taking $1,800,000 back to father that upset me. With that amount father could make good all the trust funds, and have back enough for his own fortune to make us seem, after what we have been going through, richer than we were before. Pardon me, Mr. Randolph, won't you, when I say—God bless you and every one whom you hold dear, God bless you? What could I or my father have done but for you and Mr. Brownley?"

She turned her big eyes full upon Bob, filled with a light such as can come only to a woman's eyes, only to a woman before whom, as she stands on the brink of hell, suddenly looms her heaven.

Sharp and shrill rang Bob's exchange telephone. The ring seemed shriller; it certainly was longer than usual. Bob jumped for the receiver.

CHAPTER III.

He listened a moment, then answered, "Stand on it at 80 for 12,000 shares. I will be there in a second." He dropped the receiver. "Jim, we have struck a snag. Arthur Perkins, whom I left on guard at the pole, says Barry Conant has jumped in and supplied all the bids. He has it down to $1 and is offering it in 5,000 blocks and is aggressive. I must get there quick," and he shot out of the office.

I sprang for Bob's telephone. "Perkins, quick!" "What are they doing, Perkins?" I asked a moment later. "Conant has almost filled me up. He seems to have a hoghead of it on tap," he answered.

"Buy 50,000 shares, 5,000 each point down; and anything unfilled, give to Bob when he gets there. He is on the way."

I shut off and turned to Miss Sands: "This is no time to stand on ceremony, Miss Sands. Barry Conant is Camemeyer's and Standard Oil's head broker. His being on the floor means mischief. He never goes into a big whirl personally unless they are out for blood. Bob has exhausted his buying power, and though I tell you frankly that I never speculate, don't believe in speculation and am in this deal only for Bob—and for you—I swear I don't intend to let them wipe the floor with him without at least making them swallow some of the dust they kick up. Please don't object to my helping out, Miss Sands. Ordinarily I would defer to your wishes, but I love Bob Brownley only second to my wife, and I have money enough to warrant a plunge in stock. If they should turn Bob over in this deal, he—well, they're not going to, if I can prevent it, and I started for the exchange on the run."

When I got there the scene began a rapid description. That of the morn-

Holds to His Opinion on the New Liquor Bill.

Austin, Tex., June 6.—Thomas B. Love, speaker of the house in the Thirtieth legislature, was here today and had a conference with Assistant Attorney General Pollard regarding the latter's ruling on the Baskin-McGregor liquor bill. Mr. Love submitted authorities to Judge Pollard to show that the ruling made by the judge to the effect that all saloons will have to close for a period of from ten to fifteen days is a wrong construction of the law. It appears that most of the authorities had been submitted to Judge Pollard by the delegation which was here Saturday. Judge Pollard, however, has not shown any inclination to change or modify his ruling on the question.

Speaker Love said that he still maintained the position he had taken as announced in an interview, that the saloons will not have to close their places of business from the time that the law goes into effect until a new license is issued. He contends that under the law the old licenses will not expire until the new one is issued.

He takes issue with Judge Pollard, as contained in the latter's statement, that the intent of the legislature can not be taken into consideration as a basis for the construction of a law. Mr. Love declared that the intent of the legislature is what is to be taken into consideration in construing a new law, and all the facts surrounding the enactment of the law must be taken into consideration.

Continuing the speaker asserted that all courts have so held in passing on the acts of the legislature. Strictly speaking he declared that the legislature can not do anything unintentional. He said that an effort had been made to provide that all licenses shall not expire on July 11, or the time that the new law became effective, but this was defeated.

A Fair Census.

Poppyland.

In Washington the census bureau is even now making preparations for the national census to be taken in 1910. It is a vast work, involving infinite detail, and must be carefully planned. The millions of people who inhabit the United States are to be enumerated, together with the live stock, and comprehensive reports also are sought on the innumerable industries of the country, its development and resources. That all of this can be done with absolute accuracy is out of the question, but it can be done in a far more thorough manner than the census records of the past bear out in many, many instances is certain. The faithful enumerators are in the minority, and in self-protection the interested public should see to it that returns as nearly correct as it is humanly possible to make them should be sent to Washington for final summing up and publication.

Three Killed By Lightning.
During the heavy storm which swept over Wichita county yesterday morning lightning struck in a pasture lot on R. Duckett's farm near Allendale, six miles southwest of this city, killing two valuable horses.
In recent years lightning has struck in that vicinity and Mr. Duckett has lost several hundred dollars worth of stock on that account.
Mr. Duckett has a gas well on his place and many attribute the frequent lightning bolts in that vicinity to this.

The Revival Meeting.
The services last evening were held at the Methodist church. The threatening weather about church time kept many at home and the congregation numbered twenty-six including the preacher and the singer.
Rev. L. S. Barton had gone to Sherman for a day or so and the services were conducted by the singer, W. J. Ramsey. A test showed that four of the twenty-six present were not Christians.
Bro. Ramsey had prepared a sermon for the hour, but after the congregation proved so small he discarded it and made a common sense heart to heart talk to those who were unconverted.
As a result of the services two young ladies gave their hearts to God. Rev. Stuckey, being the only minister of the town present, opened the doors of his church and in the absence of the other pastors, their church doors also. The ladies who were converted gave their names for membership in the Methodist church and Rev. Stuckey announced that they would be received next Sunday evening.
Services will be held at the Methodist church until further notice at 9:30 a. m. and 8:30 p. m.

Wichita Falls, Texas, June 6th, 1907.

AS TO SEWERAGE.

The Times believes that the great majority of the citizens and taxpayers of Wichita Falls are opposed to the granting of a fifty-year franchise to Will McKenzie of Gainesville, or for that matter, to any other person, which will give him or them a virtual monopoly over the sewer rights of the city.

If possible the people of Wichita Falls want the city to own and directly control a public utility for this purpose. Their own experience with privately owned public utility corporations and the experience of other towns influence them to this view of the question.

The Times, without having consulted expert opinion, is under the belief that a satisfactory sewer system could be put in at a comparatively small cost. Whether this should be done now or whether we should wait until the town has grown larger and the necessity becomes more apparent is a question for the people themselves to decide.

In any event, before the city council give to any individual or corporation a monopoly over the sewers of this city, we believe that they would do well to wait, and to investigate the feasibility and probable cost of the city putting in its own sewers.

T. H. Libby created a sensation at Houston by walking into the court house, accompanied by his attorney and his pastor, and asked the judge to grant him a new trial on the charge of lunacy. Libby had been convicted on a lunacy charge last March and sent to the asylum at Terrell, but made his escape from the second story of the institution by means of a rope made from bed clothes, and his appearance in the court room at Houston yesterday was the first news the authorities of the asylum at Terrell had heard of him since his escape. He was granted a new trial.

WRECK ON THE VALLEY.

Five Cars Were Derailed at Dundee Last Night.

The heavy rains yesterday morning were responsible for a freight wreck on the Valley road last night near Dundee.

Five freight cars were dinged when the tracks gave way, and the resulting smash almost completely demolished the five freight cars.

No one was injured in the smashup and the tracks were cleared for traffic this morning.

STRUCK BY A BALL

ARTHUR HUFF RENDERED INSENSIBLE BY BLOW ON HEAD.

VICTIM HAS RECOVERED

And No Serious Results Will Follow the Accident.

While playing in a practice game of ball at the park yesterday afternoon, Arthur Huff, the eighteen year old son of Judge R. E. Huff and wife, was struck on the back of the head by a pitched ball and a few minutes later fell in a faint upon the field and was insensible for nearly half an hour.

Young Huff was placed in a wagon and driven to the office of Dr. Burnside and Walker where he was restored to consciousness and later removed to his home, where he has almost completely recovered from the effects of the blow. This morning he was able to be up and around as usual and excepting the soreness caused by the bruise on his head, felt no bad effects from the severe blow.

Arthur was at the bat when he was hit and other than being rendered dizzy for a few seconds, experienced no immediate injurious effects from the blow. He was able to run the bases and it was not until after his side had been retred and he went out to his place in the field that he fainted. His father thinks perhaps that the exertion in running the bases had something to do with his fainting as well as the blow.

The young man's hat was pushed back upon his head and protected it from the full force of the blow, which would probably have had serious results but for this fact.

GREWSOME STORY

ORCHARD RESUMES STORY OF
CRIME AND ASSASSINATION.

THE BOMB IS PRODUCED

With Which It is Alleged Orchard
and Adams Bought the Death
of Governor Peabody.

Boise, Idaho, June 6.—Harry Orchard, who says his true name is Albert Hoxley, and who assassinated former Governor Frank Steunenberg at Caldwell on the night of December 30th, 1905, continued his grewsome story as a witness against William D. Haywood, secretary and treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners this morning.

Orchard began his day's testimony by giving the names of several persons he met in San Francisco when he went there to assassinate Fred Bradley, who had formerly been manager of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine, in the Coner d'Alenc district in Idaho. These names were related in order to pave the way for the possible corroboration of Orchard's testimony on this point.

Orchard said he was known a part of the time in San Francisco by the name of Jarry. Leaving California, Orchard returned to Denver, wearing the uniform of a federal soldier. He said he immediately called Pettibone on the telephone. "Pettibone asked me how Bradley was," continued Orchard. "I told him Bradley was alive when I left San Francisco, but that it was reported that he had lost both eyes in the fight and would probably be deaf for the rest of his life. Pettibone said 'That is better than if he had been killed outright; that Bradley would now be a living example.'" Orchard said that he asked for money and received $125.00 from Pettibone, with the assurance that he would get more whenever he wanted it.

Orchard said Haywood next asked him "to go to work on Judge Gabbart of the Supreme Court of Colorado." "He said Judge Gabbart," Orchard went on, "had been rendering decisions against Moyer, who we were trying to get out of the Telluride jail on habeas corpus. I went to Judge Gabbart's house the following Sunday night with Steve Adams and we were armed with shot guns, but we did not see the Judge. Haywood also wanted us to try again at Governor Peabody, saying he did not care how we got rid of him. At this time it seemed that Peabody was about to be elected for another term. Steve Adams, Billy Acherman and I set to work and made a bomb. We put it under the side walk at Thirteenth street and Grant avenue in Denver. Governor Peabody walked along here every morning. Adams and I watched for the governor as he came out. Just as the governor walked over the place where the bomb was two heavy coal wagons came out of an alley and passed over the wire leading to the bomb and we could not pull it."

Bomb Produced.
The bomb buried by Orchard in Canyon City for the purpose of killing former Governor Peabody was produced in court.

Indictments Returned: By Grand Jury.
Indictments have been returned by the grand jury and bench warrants issued and the persons indicted taken into custody of the court as follows: Zed Wilson of Electra, charged with rape; F. F. Hughes, charged with burglary at night and a man named Stockdale, alias Stocky, on the same charge. The last named individuals are indicted for the robbery of Robertson's store on the night of February 5th. They are now in jail at Montague.

Other indictments have been returned, so it is reported, and the grand jury will probably finish its business next Saturday.

HE WOULD BE SAFE.

Senator Foraker Assured That He May
Visit Brownsville Without Fear.

Washington, D. C., June 5.—Senator Foraker was given assurance today that it would be safe for him to visit Brownsville, Tex., regardless of his efforts to prove that negro soldiers were not guilty of shooting up the town. At the conclusion of the testimony of Louis Cowan of Brownsville, who was a witness before the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, Cowan said he had been quoted in special dispatches from St. Louis as saying that if Senator Foraker went to Brownsville he would be "tarred and feathered."

Cowan denied that he had made any such remark. "Then you think it would be perfectly safe for me to go there," asked Senator Foraker.

"Oh, yes, sir," said Cowan. "I greatly appreciate your assurance," said Foraker.

The senator then referred to another special dispatch saying that Cowan, on his way to Washington compelled a negro porter to make up a berth in a Pullman car by threatening to shoot him. Cowan also denied the truthfulness of this story.

Senator Foraker told Cowan that he had seen the stories, but thought so little about them that he had forgotten them.

At the afternoon session of the committee Cowan was examined closely concerning ammunition he purchased the day of the shooting, but this purchase was not connected in any way with the affray.

He testified that he saw the flashes of shots from Company D barracks as he stood in front of a saloon on Elizabeth street, but he did not see the negro soldiers.

Bernard Kowalski testified that he attended a party at Cowan's house on the night of the shooting, and as he sat in the window facing the alley, some negro soldiers passed. The witness said that one of the negroes remarked that the people in that house were having a good time, but would not be in half an hour.

R. B. Creager, United States Commissioner at Brownsville, was examined concerning the investigation by citizens of the shooting.

ing was tame in comparison. A dull market, however, terrific, always is tame beside a bear crash. In the few moments it took me to get to the floor, the battle had started. The greater part of the exchange membership was in a dense mob wedged against the rail behind the Sugar pole. I could not have got within yards of the center of that crowd of men, fast becoming panic-stricken, if the fate of nations had depended on my errand. I had witnessed such a scene before. It represented a certain phase of stock exchange gambling procedure, where one man apparently has every other man on the floor against him. I understood Bob against them all—he trying to stay the onrushing current of dropping prices; they bent on keeping the sluice gates open. He was backed up against the rail—not the Bob of the morning; not a vestige of that cold, brain-nerve-and-body-in-hand gambler remained. His hat was gone, his collar torn and hanging over his shoulder. His coat and waistcoat were ripped open, showing the full length of his white shirt front, and his eyes were fairly mad. Bob was no longer a human being, but a monarch of the forest at bay, with the hunter in front of him, and closing in upon him, in a great half circle, the pack of barriers, all gnashing their teeth, baring their fangs, and howling for blood. The hunter directly facing Bob, was Barry Conant—very slight, very short, a marvellously compact, handsome, miniature man, with a fascinating face, dark olive in tint, lighted by a pair of sparkling black eyes and framed in jet-black hair; a black mustache was parted over white teeth, which, when the trend of their battle. "All knew that if Bob should be beaten down by this concentrated modern finance devil, a panic would ensue and Sugar would go none could say how low. But if Bob should play him to a standstill by exhausting his selling power, Sugar would quickly soar to even higher figures than before. It was known that Barry Conant's usual order from his clients, the "System" masters, for such an occasion as the present was "Break the price at any cost." On the other hand, every one knew that Randolph & Randolph were usually behind Bob's big operations; this was evidently one of his biggest, and every man there knew that Randolph & Randolph were seldom backed down by any force.

As Bob made his bid "72 for 5,000," and got it, I saw a quick flash of pain shoot across his face, and realized that it probably meant he was nearing the end of my last order. I sized it up that there was devilry of more than usual significance behind this selling movement; that Barry Conant must have unlimited orders to sell and smash. My final order of 50,000 brought our total up to 150,000 shares, a large amount for even Randolph & Randolph to buy of a stock selling at nearly $200 a share. I then and there decided that whatever happened I would go no further. Just then Bob's wild eye caught mine, and there was in it a piteous appeal, such an appeal as one sees in the eye of the wounded doe when she gives up her attempt to swim to shore and waits the coming of the pursuing hunter's canoe. I sadly signaled that I was through. As Bob caught the sign, he threw his he was stalking his game, looked like those of a wolf. An interesting man at all times was this Barry Conant, and he had been on more and fiercer battlefields than any other half-score members combined. The scene was a rare one for a student of animalized men.

While every other man in the crowd was at a high tension of excitement, Barry Conant was as calm as though standing in the center of a ten-acre daisy field cutting off the helpless flowers' heads with every swing of his arm. Switching stock gamblers into eternity had grown to be a pastime to Barry Conant. Here was Bob thundering with terrific emphasis "78 for 5,000," "77 for 5,000," "75 for 5,000," "74 for 5,000," "73 for 5,000," "72 for 5,000," seemingly expecting through sheer power of voice to crush his opponent into silence. But with the regularity of a trip-hammer Barry Conant's right hand, raised in unhurried gesture, and his clear calm "Sold" met Bob's every retreating bid. It was a battle royal—a king on one side, a Richelieu on the other. Though there was frantic buying and selling all around these two generals, the trading was gauged by head back and bellowed a deep, hoarse "70 for 10,000." I knew then that he had already bought 40,000, and that this was the last ditch stand. Barry Conant must have caught the meaning, too. Instantly, like a revolver report, came his "Sold!" Then the compact, miniature mass of human springs and wires, which had until now been held in perfect control, suddenly burst from its clamps and Barry Conant was the fiend his Wall street reputation pictured him. His five feet five inches seemed to loom to the height of a giant. His arms, with their fate-pointing fingers, rose and fell with bewildering rapidity as his piercing voice rang out—"5,000 at 69, 68, 65," "10,000 at 63," "25,000 at 60." Pandemonium reigned. Every man in the crowd seemed to have the capital stock of the Sugar trust to sell, and at any price. A score seemed to be bent on selling as low as possible instead of for as much as they could get. These were the shorts who had been punished the day before by Bob's uplift.

Poor Bob, he was forgotten! As in (To Be Continued.)

OLD SETTLER.

"Thank goodness, there is a happy medium between self importance and subject diffidence; else this old world would go topsy turvey.

"That reminds me that in the early days of the Texas frontier a young man came from an Eastern college loaded down with theory. In his own estimation, what he did not know was not embodied in book form. He was the portage of a rich uncle, who sent his nephew west to learn ranch life, with a view of making him a cattle baron.

One can imagine the self-importance that oozed out of this young man, who had listened to the wise professor's lecture about the anatomy of a cow but if called on to pick out the one that gave buttermilk (?) would have been compelled to confess their ignorance.

"The first morning's experience did much to knock the halo from around this young man's theory.

"The outfit was preparing for a day of marking and branding and little time and attention was given to the college graduate from the East. But he did not propose to be ignored. He got busy asking questions and was always referred to the 'range boss' by the other boys.

"Now this same range boss happened to be a wild Irishman by the name of O'Connor, who had an utter contempt for what he called a 'spider-leg dude.' Consequently, when the young man had chased around from place to place trying to locate O'Connor, he found him dismounted near the cook's shanty, clenching up his broncho.

"I say, me good fellow, how far is it to where those gentle bovines are to be decorated with the insignia of ownership of me dear uncle?"

"O'Connor looked up from beneath his shaggy brows and eyed the young man with contempt, as he blurted out, 'Oh, to blazes wid yez foine talk, ye blubberin' idiot. If I had me way I'd chunk ye down a prairie dog hole, where yez could tell yer story to the snake and owl, instead of snoopin' around here with yez baby talk.'

"But, my good man, you do not seem to understand me? I take great interest in this ideal life of the cowboy."

"I suppose so," remarked O'Connor. "I don't know what yez mean, but I am willing to do what is right about it."

"Then if you will kindly order me a horse, I will take great pleasure in accompanying you, so that I may take observation and make suggestions that may prove helpful in simplifying your work."

"Say, Tucker," shouted O'Connor to a cowboy near by, 'saddle up that old flea-bitten gray and turn him over to this dude—I'm off for the pen'

"Following instructions, Tucker saddled one of the old outlawed cayuses that had been turned loose for a year. This old skate always took the bit in his teeth and ran away.

"So it happened when the young man from the East was mounted one of the boys came galloping up, yelling 'Yip! Yip! Yahee!' Away went the old cayuse like he was shot out of a gun, carrying the young man from the East far out over the prairie and it was the noon hour before he returned, soggy, dejected and humble."

Oil company Will Appeal, Says Pierce's Counsel.

St. Louis Republic. "The finding of the jury in the Waters-Pierce Oil case undoubtedly will be appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States on a plea of error," said former Judge H. S. Priest, counsel for the Waters-Pierce Company last night.

"The charge, as given to the jury, is in itself a fundamental error. In reality the contention of the State of Texas is that the Standard Oil Company owned two-thirds of the stock of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company. It alleged that if the Standard Oil Company owned a majority of the stock the corporation was a trust, and violated the laws of Texas in operating in that State.

"The Waters-Pierce Company was organized as a corporation under the laws of Missouri, and the contention of the company was that when it went into Texas it carried with it corporate rights. The company also contended that it was not a part of a trust, owing to the fact that neither the Standard Oil Company nor the Waters-Pierce Oil Company had operated in Texas before the consolidation in Missouri. The company holds that a corporation cannot be a trust unless it is made up of competing factors engaged in the same business in one State.

"Of course, it would be absurd for me to say the company cannot ultimately be prevented from operating in Texas, but I am confident in saying it stands an excellent chance of having the findings of the jury at Austin set aside by the Supreme Court."

Shortly after the finding of the jury was printed, H. Clay Pierce, chairman of the board of the Waters-Pierce Company, left his residence, No. 40 Vandeventer place, telling a servant she would not see him before breakfast.

BUYS PARTNER'S INTEREST.

The W. F. Jourdan Furniture Company Now Numbered Among Wichita's Mercantile Houses.

W. F. Jourdan has purchased the half interest of his partner, K. A. White, in the Jourdan-White Furniture Co., and is now the owner of the entire business. The deal was closed yesterday and included the transfer of $12,000 in stock, all notes, accounts and other property in the business from Mr. White to Mr. Jourdan. The terms of the sale are private.

The business will be conducted at the old stand at the corner of Indiana avenue and Eighth street under the new firm name of the W. F. Jourdan Furniture Company.

Both a retail and wholesale business will be conducted by the firm and the Times wishes it unbounded success.

It is understood that Mr. White will soon go on the road for a big furniture house in St. Louis.

Another Runaway.

The horse that is worked to Burt Bean's delivery wagon became frightened near the residence of Mr. J. A. Kemp yesterday afternoon and ran at breakneck speed down Ohio avenue. He ran into three buggies along the way and all of them were more or less damaged. One of the buggies belonged to Dr. Coons and the names of the owners of the other two were not learned.

Near Tullis' paint shop a serious accident was prevented by the runaway wagon smashing into a telephone post. In a buggy just ahead was Mr. Darnell, who is old and almost helpless. If the post had not been struck his buggy would have been struck broad side and the collision might have resulted fatally for the old gentleman.

"CAMERA DELEGATE"

Supplements the Walking Delegate in the Unions.

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Ill., June 6.—The traditional union "walking delegate" was replaced yesterday by a person carrying a "snap shot" camera under his arm. The "camera delegate" is something new in organized labor circles, being a combination "walking delegate" and photographer, whose duty it is to take pictures of buildings under construction, so that he can call a strike from the office without visiting the job. It is planned to photograph every building in Chicago where union men are at work as well as a number where non-union men are employed. Sufficient data will be given in connection with the pictures to enable the union officials to keep track of every building industry from day to day.
