Six operators in the Western Telephone Company's exchange at Big Springs walked out several days ago and demanded an increase in pay and shorter hours before they would return. Their demands were as follows: 1st. Thirty dollars per month. 2nd. That day operators should not be compelled to work more than eight hours per day. 3rd. That operators should receive time and a half for Sunday. The management placed new operators in the places of the strikers but the new girls are not giving satisfactory service and the patrons of the office are in sympathy with the strikers.

The Adjustable Pocket to Match the Summer Gown.

MADE OF WASHABLE GOODS.

Silk Linings Are Used to Bear the Weight of the Articles Placed Therein—Each of the Pockets Described Is Easy to Make.

Modern woman is inclined to envy the kangaroo, whose pocket is natural and unavoidable. What with waists buttoned in the back, short sleeves, tight belts and high collars she has absolutely nowhere to carry her numerous belongings. Now, then, will she welcome the advent of the adjustable pocket, designed to match her gown and worn at the belt!

Once having realized the existence of these half bags, half pockets and appreciated their necessity, her next step will be the acquisition of a set of them—for of course she must have one at least to match every summer gown—different from those of every other woman she knows. The time is not far distant when the pockets will be on sale in the stores, and then indeed must she strive for originality. If she will only keep in mind a few general rules, there need be no limit to the variety which her taste and cleverness may devise.

Being eminently practical, her first thought will be to procure a material that will not be harmed by frequent tubbings. Her next will be to line all thin goods with something that will bear the weight of the articles that may be placed therein. And finally, she will stitch a little extra pocket inside to hold change and car tickets and to prevent these from interfering with the other contents of the bag and causing loss and confusion.

Each of the pockets here described is practical, easily made and attractive. They are inexpensive as well, for they are made of the same material as the owner's gowns, and the only cost is for the working cotton. Mercerized cotton is better than silk, as it withstands more firmly the effects of the many washings needed to keep the pocket as fresh and clean as the dress.

An attractive star shaped or passion flower pocket is of natural colored linen, buttonholed around and up the divisions with shaded mercerized cotton.

FOR THE GIRL INTERESTED IN HERALDRY. This comes in skeins and is worked a thread at a time, just as they come, shading the work from dark to light most evenly. In the center of the pocket is a large five petaled flower worked in wallachian embroidery. This, as most women now know, is nothing more nor less than the ordinary buttonhole stitch. Make close stitches and round them a little so as to turn the corner neatly. The center is filled in with French knots, and the two straps, which are buttonholed over the edge, are finished with two small loops to slip over the belt.

THE IOWA IDEA AGAIN.

The stand taken, agriculturally and otherwise, by the Honorable "Jim" Wilson for the Iowa idea against what some people thought the "classical" as reinforced unexpectedly from Europe, where "intellectual circles" are reported to be having the severest orainstorm on record because the Vienna police have ordered a picture dealer to take a print of Titian's "Dane" out of his street window.

In anticipation that "The Daughters of Leukippos" and "Leda and the Swan" are to be reached next, the howl from "intellectual circles" in support of the "classical" is likely to be heard around the world.

Still the Iowa idea is the idea of modern progress as well as of modern morals. In her own day, when she was actually classical, Danae was admitted to be an improper person. She and her doings were not considered a fit subject for conversation in classical family circles, which knew her to be the real thing in her class of the classical. As she was painted at the close of the Middle Ages, she was not even classical in her own class. She had nothing left to recommend her except the idea of her ancient impropriety. As she survives in high art because of the high art used in expressing this, there need be no public objection if she is found hung behind a curtain somewhere and studied for what she is worth by those who think it worth while.

But when it comes to forcing her and what she represents on everyone else, on the pretense that she is classical, we can easily demonstrate in the first place that as Titian knew her she is no more classical than what they think is Latin in the Honorable "Jim" Wilson's Agricultural Department at Washington. And we can hold in reserve for subsequent self-protection the Iowa idea that it makes no difference whether she is classical or not, if she does not suit our style, our morals and our ideas.—St. Louis Republic.

Railroads are town builders. We have six of them. Besides this, Wichita Falls has the fortune to be surrounded on all sides by the finest farming country in the world. In fact, the only farming country which gives to the tiller of the soil two chances in one year at raising a money crop. This was thoroughly demonstrated this year. Early in the spring between 75,000 and 100,000 acres of wheat and oats were completely destroyed by the greenbugs. In most farming countries this great calamity would have been sufficient to discourage the farmers and they would have been satisfied to wait and try again the next year. Instead of doing this, our farmers—or the most of them—planted their wheat and oat lands to cotton and corn. A splendid corn crop has already been made and from the present outlook the prospects are that 12,000 bales of cotton will be marketed at Wichita Falls this fall and winter. By this method of farming, the price of farm lands not only held up, but have increased in value from $5 to $10 per acre over the price asked for the same lands at this time last year. This is the country for the man who wants to farm. There is none that offers better advantages.

The continued growth and prosperity of Wichita Falls depends largely upon the quality of water that its citizens are forced to use, and the city should use every means at its command to see that the water supply is made pure and wholesome. Delays are dangerous and the time to act is now. The physicians of the city have unanimously condemned the water. This did not seem to convince the City Council that the water was bad and a sample of it was sent to a chemist to be analyzed. This analysis supported the verdict of the physicians and the waterworks company is now convinced that something must be done to purify the water and say that they will do this just as soon as it is possible for them to put in the proper machinery to do it with. This is all that the people of Wichita Falls should demand or expect of the waterworks company and time should be allowed for the new machinery to be installed. If, at the end of that time, nothing in the way of purifying the water has been done, it will then be up to Wichita Falls to say whether she will longer tolerate or be satisfied with the quality of water being furnished her citizens.

Wichita Falls merchants should begin now to cultivate the acquaintance of the people who live along the lines of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern and the Wichita Falls and Southern railways. The building of these two lines of railway will greatly enlarge our trade territory, provided a train service is inaugurated that will permit the people living on these lines to come to Wichita Falls in the morning and go back in the evening.

When you say a good word for Wichita Falls don't forget to remember that at the present time more than a quarter of a million dollars is being paid out for building improvements that are under contract to be completed for the fall trade.

A MESSAGE FROM MARS.

His Proof That the Planet Was Inhabited and Civilized.

Ebenezer was driving his master's plow straight and true, but none the less with a thoughtful air, as though his thoughts were elsewhere. And so they were; they were soaring far aloft above the plow and the brown earth turned up as to reach Mars.

The previous evening Ebenezer had attended a lecture at the village school-room on "The Heavens," and what the lecturer had said about Mars being inhabited, profoundly impressed Ebenezer. As he mechanically guided his horses and his plow something struck him suddenly on the head, and he dropped senseless to the ground. A balloonist passing overhead had accidentally dropped an empty whisky bottle upon Ebenezer's fortunately thick skull. When he recovered consciousness the balloon had passed out of sight, but the cut on his head and the blood stained bottle at his feet remained.

Ebenezer gasped in amazement and awe as he gazed all around the wide brown fields and the blue sky above. Then he picked up the bottle and smelled at it and at once deserted his team in great excitement and set off posthaste for the vicarage.

"I muu tell vicar Mars be 'unbited right enough," he muttered. "Civilized, too; they drinks whisky."—London Express.

A FASHION FROM WAR.

How Flat Watches Took Place of the Old Time "Turnips."

When the neat man takes unto himself a watch as thin as parchment he little thinks that that thin watch results from army regulations.

Up to the time of the allies taking Paris the ordinary watch was convex in shape and called from its outline a "turnip." The officers of the Russian and other armies objected to this because its bulbous form made the uniform of a man on parade look untidy, whether it were carried in the coat or the fob. In Paris, however, they found that the watchmakers of the Palais Royal had contrived a chronometer which got over the difficulty.

Flat watches were the fashion in Paris. The English when they appeared in the streets of the French capital marched in not in gala dress such as the others wore, but in the raiment which they had worn on campaign. Great was the impression which their habiliments created, but they at once adopted the smart flat watch and brought it back to England for our own manufacturers to copy.—London Standard.

Our proposed new City Hall is to be a handsome affair, and will be built—provided the taxpayers vote the bonds to pay for it.

More than two hundred carpenters, brick and stone masons are finding constant employment in Wichita Falls at good wages.

Wichita Falls needs more residences. Rents are too high, and the only way to bring them down is to have more houses.

A Washington dispatch says that the application of R. A. Morgan, C. T. Hening, L. J. Massie and R. L. Hearn to organize the First National bank of Chillicothe, Texas, with $25,000 capital, had been approved by the Comptroller of the Currency.

A Few Suggestions From the Pure Food Grocery

How to get a Cup of Coffee that Just Suits You:

It's not so easy as it sounds, for you may get a package of a certain brand that will make just the kind of a drink you like and you will think to yourself, "Well, at last I've got the coffee I've been looking for so long." But wait—the next time you get a package of that same brand maybe it doesn't seem like the same goods at all.

Here's the trouble.

The manufacturers of that brand did not use all the care they should have used in buying the raw coffee, and possibly by mistake, got a lot of inferior material into their product. You were disappointed.

The selecting of the raw coffee is just as important in making a good cup of coffee as the selection of the wheat in making a loaf of good bread.

That's why such special care is taken in Spurr's buying department. They reject a whole lot more coffee than they accept, simply because it is not up to Spurr's standard and it must be of superior quality to receive Spurr's brand. This means that if you buy a tin of Spurr's Mocha and Java coffee now, another in a month from now, or a year from now, the quality will be identical. A uniformly good coffee like this cannot fail to suit you.

The well known flavor of Mocha and Java coffee is even better in this particular brand, for Spurr's M. and J. Coffee is a particular brand for particular people.

A REWARD OF FAITH.

The Story of a Church Twice Struck by Lightning.

A congregation in a hilly district in Ohio, says the Youth's Companion, bought a small tract of land and erected a church building upon it. Then the question of insurance came up. Mr. Sipes, the wealthiest member, who had contributed more than half the money needed for the new structure, declared that he did not believe in insurance. "This is the Lord's building. He'll take care of it," he said.

His view prevailed, and there was no insurance. In a few weeks the building was struck by lightning and almost totally consumed by fire. Another one was erected, Mr. Sipes contributing the greater portion of the fund as before. This time the demand was almost unanimous that it be insured, but Mr. Sipes again objected on the same ground.

"If it burn down again, brethren," he said, "I'll agree to rebuild it myself."

Again he carried his point. In less than a month the new church was struck by lightning again, and although strenuous efforts were made to save it, the loss was almost total.

"There must be some reason for this, brethren," said Brother Sipes. "I am going to find out what it is."

Thereupon he employed a force of men to sink a shaft on the site of the twice destroyed church. Within a few days a rich vein of ore was found, and the church property was sold for many times the amount needed to buy land in another locality and build again.

"I tell you, brethren," said Brother Sipes, "it pays to trust the Lord. He's a great deal better business manager than anybody in this congregation."

Correct Black to Wear.

The etiquette of mourning is far less ironclad today than it was a decade or even five years ago. The somber and oppressive effects once counted absolutely necessary are now seldom seen and never noted on those well versed in the art of dress. The old time mourning was not only incongruous looking, but very trying to wear. Heavy, stiff fabrics and hot, swathing veils are no longer seen. In their place we have graceful and attractive gowns and hats in dull black, in styles that conform more or less to the general vogue of the day and are suited to the time of year and the climate in which they are worn.

One of the most marked changes in mourning is that today all white is counted full mourning quite as much as all black. It must be remembered, however, that it is to be all white, not a particle of black anywhere, and it must be dead white, not a cream white or oyster white shade.

TRUST UNDER CURB.

Anti-Trust Law Causes International To Call in Salesmen.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 21.—The International Harvester Company, with a capitalization of one billion dollars, and with Texas and general Southwest headquarters in Dallas, has found Governor Campbell's new anti-trust law too dangerous to disregard. Since the new statute became effective on August 10th, the International Harvester Company has not done a dollar's worth of business in this State and will not attempt to do any business till it is convinced that it can proceed with safety.

Of all the great harvesting machinery companies in America, the only one now doing business in Texas is the Walter A. Wood company. The Wood company continues to do a jobbing business through the Kingman Texas Implement Company.

Although Dallas is the headquarters of the harvester combine in Texas and the Southwest, nothing as to the intentions of the company with reference to Texas can be learned in this city. John M. Johnson, agent for the company, and in charge of the Southwest, has been in Chicago for more than a week. He went there to learn what could be done. He was met there by Judge Edward Gray, of Dallas, one of the company's attorneys, and so far as is known in Dallas, they are there yet. Nothing will be known here till one or both return.

All the traveling men have been called in and the resident managers have received instructions to let business go for the present. The only busy ones in the International's employ in Texas are C. E. Burbridge and his assistants. Mr. Burbridge has charge of collections in Texas and wants the money for goods sold prior to August 10th.

Happenings at Byers.

Special to the Times. Byers, Tex., Aug. 20.—Monday afternoon when Rev. W. W. Robinson was returning from Riverland, where he had been preaching, his horse became frightened at some box cars on the Wichita Valley road. He was thrown from his buggy, the buggy overturned, but fortunately no serious damage was done.

A recent visitor to our town remarked that at a casual glance the advantages of Byers unfold. The fact that Byers is situated so as to have access to the best farming belt in Texas will always give her advantages as a trade center. The population has more than doubled in the last year and many prominent buildings have been erected within the twelve months past. We have now an excellent school building and the work of its teachers easily ranks it among the very best in Clay county.

The Wichita ball team is coming here this afternoon to play the locals. There is much interest in the coming game.

Miss Daisy Camp returned to her home in Montague county Monday.

Mr. J. T. Dunn is at home now, after an extended visit in Hunt and Hopkins counties.

Rev. W. A. Stuckey of Wichita Falls will assist the pastor here in a revival beginning next Sunday.

We are to be connected with the outside world by telegraph. Men are now at work putting in the apparatus.

The dry weather is not very inspiring in a poetical way, but your correspondent accidentally found the following lines, which, to say the least, express the facts in the case:

"Sweet fields beyond the raging flood stand dressed in living grain; Now over here they're not so good because they're needing rain."

About sixty days hence the weather man will begin to predict a hard winter and to enumerate the signs that show it is coming.

ABOARD A MAN-OF-WAR.

Life Largely Made Up of Scrubbings, Regulations and Inspections.

The day's programme aboard a man-of-war is calculated to make the boy who wants to run away to sea sit up and think twice. It varies somewhat according as the ship is in port or at sea and under different commands, but in any case, from 5 o'clock in the morning till 7:30 at night, it is a rather strenuous round of scrubbings and drills. The recruit realizes very soon that the expression "shipshape" means a good deal.

Saturday morning is a tremendous cleaning time, called "held day," which is followed by a half holiday in the afternoon, and on Sunday morning the captain himself inspects his ship from keel to truck. The marine band is stationed just below on the hurricane deck, and the bluejackets stand on the port side of the quarter deck and the marines on the starboard, all ready for inspection.

But life isn't all scrubbings, regulations and inspections. On the larger ships the government furnishes athletic supplies, and each man-of-war has her champion boxer and baseball and football teams. These teams are managed or supervised, at least, by officers, and many an ensign or lieutenant, who has won his "N" at the Naval academy plays shoulder to shoulder with his bluejackets. Such familiarity would have scandalized old Commodore Porter beyond words.—St. Nicholas.

A PARASITE CREEPER.

New Zealand's Vegetable Caterpillar Is a Most Peculiar Plant.

The most extraordinary object I have ever seen is the New Zealand vegetable caterpillar. The rata is a parasite creeper which first destroys its forest host and then crushes it to death and, usurping its skeleton, becomes a tree itself. If the rata seedling is dug up it is found to be springing not from a seed, but from the head of a perfectly formed caterpillar.

It is supposed by some that the caterpillar, which on dissection proves to be internally the exact counterpart of its living insect relative, swallows the tiny rata seed while living and, burrowing into the ground, becomes, instead of a chrysalis, the germinating home of the seed, which by some agency turns its unfortunate foster mother into wood.

Others, however, contend the caterpillar itself is produced by the rata, urging in support of their theory that if springing from a seed the shoot would grow out of different parts of the caterpillar instead of invariably growing out of the head.

The insect vegetable is yellowish, about four inches long and is fully extended. I have seen them freshly dug up and others that have been kept for years, and all had the appearance of a perfect insect carved in wood.—Pearson's Weekly.

The Elevator Eyes.

One of the greatest hardships suffered by men who run elevators in the tall office buildings downtown is the bad effect it has on their eyes. The cars are run at a high rate of speed, and, as the men have to look straight ahead of them most of the time, their eyes soon feel the strain of the constant motion.

"I've worked in the subway," remarked one of these elevator men, "and I thought that was pretty bad, but it isn't a patch to the way my eyes feel after a day's work in these cars. If you ever run across an elevator man who seems unusually bad tempered toward the close of the business day, just look at his eyes and you will be apt to forgive him. They generally show the strain that has been put on them for eight or ten hours."—New York Press.

As Exemplified.

A learned professor was dining with the Diltzes and the table was set with the best ware that Mrs. Diltz's china closet afforded. The guest was particularly interested in the display and admired it greatly. Picking up the plate in front of him and noting the stamp of the manufacturer on the bottom of it, he remarked:

"I presume you know that china, or the art of making it, was discovered by accident?"

Just then there was heard in the kitchen, where the maid was busily at work, a loud crash.

"Yes," answered Mrs. Diltz, with a pained smile, "and most of it is broken in the same way."—Youth's Companion.

Shocks to the Ear.

A succession of noises means a succession of shocks, says Country Life. The ear, unlike the eye, has no lid under which it may go to sleep, and indeed it has been proved that the sense of hearing is at work just after sleep comes on.

An Obnoxious Cyclone.

People who want something bright and original may be referred to the story of a Texas cyclone that picked up a letter and delivered it to the person to whom it was addressed, twenty miles away.—Toledo Blade.

AIR TREATMENT

Keeps Summer Clothes Odorless and Clean.

To keep one's self fresh and sweet in summer is worth striving for, and next to tubbing having the things one wears in good condition is most important.

Putting them away properly will do more than anything else to prevent their getting that undesirable tumbled look, and, what is even more to the point, will help to hold a fresh odor that one cannot be too particular about. There is no doubt that to air one's clothes too much is impossible, and that the too commonly to be met with odor of materials and worse comes from negligence of which a thoughtless person may be unconscious.

At least every two weeks in summer and once a month in winter the place where clothes hang should be cleaned, but, strange to say, this is comparatively rarely done. Yet all garments worn soon get more or less of an odor of the body, and added to that there are those from the street. Woolens, of course, are more susceptible to this than are cottons, but even the latter hold unpleasant odors, and these must be avoided.

The fortnightly cleaning should consist of taking out all the clothes, including boots and shoes, if they are kept there. Each article should be hung or spread about the room and before windows, so that the air will play around and through it. This air bath should continue for two hours or more, and during that time the wood within the closet should be attended to. Allow the door to remain open and wash the paint with warm water, in which there is a little ammonia. Soap will not be necessary except on the floor.

Even better than ammonia is to put a few drops of oil of lavender in the water, for this is purifying and will leave a sweet odor most pleasant for the clothes to absorb. Every inch of the wood, and especially the mopboard and backing for the hooks should be well gone over, and the cloth may always be wrung quite dry. It is not necessary to soak the wood.

All the time garments are airing the closet door should be left open, and in putting pieces away they should be spread as much as possible. Have two hangers on a skirt and stretch it over two hooks. It will take no more room in this way than when attached to one, and will keep its shape much better. When two hooks are used for the hanging, two or even three skirts may be put on top of each other if care is taken to have those underneath folded smoothly. Wash blouses and all thin waists will keep infinitely better if they are put on waist racks or stretchers, as tight fitting waists should always be kept.

Col. Bryan's Illustrated Book of Travel

Col. Bryan's hold on the popular mind finds striking illustration in the success of his new book, "The Old World and Its Ways." It recounts and profusely illustrates his recent journey around the world. We are advised that in the short period of 90 days it has gone through three large editions, aggregating 25,000 copies and that the demand for it far exceeds that for any book published for the subscription trade since the period of "Grant's Memoirs." In the latter case the demand for the book was strengthened by a just and all pervading feeling of sympathy for a great soldier, struggling against the dread combination of death and poverty, and buoyed by the heroic purpose to recoup his fortunes, and provide for his family.

Col. Bryan's book, with like success, depends upon no sympathetic element for its strength, but it has on the part of the people the enduring feeling of personal confidence in the great moral and intellectual integrity of its author. It has an equally pronounced admiration for his brilliant abilities, and the untiring energy that enabled him to cover the world in his noted tour—and to photograph and describe it in his inimitable way. Without official place Col. Bryan is everywhere regarded, at home and abroad, as a vital force in American affairs. As a student of men and of government, and of governmental conditions, his observations and conclusions profoundly interest the people. Hence the great sale of his book, descriptive of men and things seen during his noted tour around the world and through the Nations. It is vitalized by 251 artistic engravings, from photographs taken by him or under his supervision, representing men, places and things that interested him and that specially interest every American reader. It is a most unique presentation of a wonderfully interesting journey that has caught the attention of the people and met with great demand. It is sold only through soliciting agents.

The Thompson Publishing Company, St. Louis, Mo., are the fortunate publishers. They advertise for agents in another column of this issue.

England's View of Far East Problem.

"Naval men in England, and not naval men only, have learned, with the deepest interest, of the decision, if decision it be, of the American government to transfer the bulk of its naval forces from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The move is regarded over here as being equally significant and reasonable. It is reasonable, because it obeys the compulsion of facts, and is, at least, as much the inevitable product of circumstances, as was the British scheme of naval reorganization and redistribution two or three years ago. It is significant, because it implies, or at least foreshadows, a definite change of front in American policy, and a recognition of the new direction that American interests are likely to take in the future. Americans have always seemed to Englishmen to look somewhat too exclusively north and south for the signs of international complications. They have been occupied with the problems of the Caribbean, with the fate of the various West Indian islands, with South America and the Monroe doctrine, with little incidental questions that have arisen through the proximity of Canada and Newfoundland. These were all natural and legitimate sources of anxiety. But for a decade and more it has been apparent to European on-lookers that they did not and could not cover the whole field of American interest, and that the United States was engrossed in them to the exclusion of other interests that were inexorably growing up on the other side of the continent, and in the other ocean. America, so it seemed, had not yet worked around to the realization of the geographical facts of her position. It had apparently not occurred to her that she faced the Pacific as well as the Atlantic, and that, while vigilant in fencing round her front yard, she possessed a back door that opened into a world of which she knew nothing and seemed to care less. What the transfer of the fleet from the Atlantic to the Pacific amounts to, in English opinion, is that America has discovered her back door."—English Correspondent in Harper's Weekly.
