

WRECK ON THE KATY

ONE MAN KILLED AND FORTY-THREE INJURED NEAR THE CITY OF DALLAS.

Freight Engine Collides With Passenger Train Near Bridge and Impact is Terrific.

Special to the Times.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 28.—The M. K. & T. southbound passenger train No. 207, heavily loaded with passengers coming to visit the Texas State Fair, collided with a freight engine, while running at high speed, at a point seven miles north of Dallas yesterday morning.

Fireman F. C. French of Deinson was instantly killed and forty or more were injured, some of whom it is thought will not recover.

Both of the engines were practically demolished. The baggage car was shot upon the tender, the trucks of all the coaches were turned almost completely around, the ends of three of them were stove in and the first two coaches were telescoped.

The passenger engine hit the freight engine with such force as to carry it back on the down grade, for a considerable distance.

The wreck occurred near White Rock Creek where there is a series of curves. Engineer Blair of the passenger train says he was running twenty-five minutes late and was going at a good rate of speed. He did not see the oncoming freight engine until he was within 200 yards of it. He applied the air brakes and jumped from his cab, rolling down a high embankment and received a dislocated ankle, a dislocated shoulder and had bruises about the face and head.

Fireman French was following Blair to jump, but was a second too late, the crash coming before he could cross the cab. He was caught between the engine and tender with his head against the firebox and was instantly killed.

The freight engine was running light and only carried the conductor, the engineer and fireman. Engineer Slayton saw the passenger train when it was about 200 yards away and after applying the brakes he jumped. His engine was nearly at a standstill when it was struck by the passenger train. Conductor Rohrer of the freight also jumped and was but slightly hurt.

The scene of the wreck was one of great confusion. The five coaches were loaded to the guards, many of the injured having been on the platform when the crash came. Passengers issued from doors and windows, standing not upon the order of their going, and it was a mystery that the casualties were not greater. One or two of the passengers were caught between the second and third coaches of the train, or upon the platforms. These two coaches were telescoped and it seems that the shock centered here. The third coach was strongly built and demolished the end of the second coach, which seemed to be in bad repair. All of those who were not hurt, and many of those who were, climbed out of the windows and jumped to the bottom of the 20-foot embankment, escaping steam causing them to think that the wreck was on fire.

In the fight which ensued between the peasants and gendarmes, eleven persons were killed and a score wounded.

COVERED WIDE AREA.

Storm Reported at Byers Extended to Montague County.

The hail storm in the Byers neighborhood Friday night, reported in Saturday's Times, appears to have been far more general than was at first thought, as the following dispatch from Nocona would indicate:

A severe hail and windstorm swept through the famous Red river valley, about ten miles north of Nocona, between 7 and 8 o'clock Friday evening. Reports from that section tell of great damage to crops and livestock caused by the hail. The path of the storm was from one to two miles in width, and, so far as known here, extended for about eight miles in an easterly direction. The hail was terrific and in many places stood several inches deep after the storm had passed. The Red river valley is the richest farming district of Montague county and the loss to the ungathered crops will be heavy. Cotton was late in this section and owing to the scarcity of pickers, the farmers were badly behind with their picking.

The wind also did considerable damage. The home of Henry Clark was completely demolished. Several other houses were more or less damaged, but so far as learned no one was hurt. Several stalks of cotton from the storm-stricken district were exhibited on the streets here today. Not a leaf or boll, and, in fact, very little bark, remained on the stalks.

THE DENVER OFFICIALS TO VISIT WICHITA FALLS.

President Frank Trumbull of the Colorado and Southern, General Manager D. B. Keeler, General Superintendent Cotter and Traffic Manager W. F. Sterley of the Fort Worth and Denver, passed through here yesterday on a tour of inspection on their special train, which stopped here only a sufficient length of time to change engines, leaving over the Wichita Valley a few minutes later for Abilene. The officials will return to this city on Thursday of this week and will likely spend the entire day in Wichita Falls. It has been suggested by one of our prominent citizens that a meeting of business men be called on that day and that Mr. Trumbull be invited to address them.

The object of the officials' visit to this city is not known, but it is believed by many that the "Denver" contemplates making improvements in its property at this place and their visit at this time may be for that purpose.

There are Good, Better and Best Towns in Texas.

Burkburnett, Texas, in the lap of the rich Red river valley, is destined to be the queen of North Texas. A wagon bridge connects with the Big Pasture in Oklahoma on the North, the only wagon bridge for fifty miles on the river. The natural flow of business to Burkburnett makes every dollar invested worth five. Town lots in Burkburnett will be sold at auction Thursday, Oct. 31st. One and one-third fare for the round trip on the Katy west of Gainesville and between Decatur and Childress on the Fort Worth and Denver railways. 141-4t wit

Oklahoma City, Ok., Oct. 28.—Every bank in Oklahoma City remained closed today in accordance with orders issued by Territorial Governor Frank Frantz. It is understood that the order affects all National banks in Oklahoma and the Indian Territory.

By Associated Press. New York, Oct. 28.—Fortified by the remedial plans adopted Saturday for protecting New York's supply of currency, the financiers began their business week this morning in a hopeful frame of mind. They were especially encouraged by the precautionary measures taken by other cities, including the issuance of clearing house certificates in various other centers besides New York, believing that these measures will be effective throughout the nation at large in keeping the necessary supplies of cash within the control of the banks for use in carrying on the business of the country.

This adds not only to the cost of living, but to the cost of death. It now costs practically 25 per cent more than formerly for a person to get a decent burial.

BIG DECLINE IN COTTON CLOSES $1.00 PER BALE LOWER.

The cotton market appears to be in a badly demoralized state, owing to the bearish effects of the money stringency in New York and other big financial centers. Very little if any cotton was sold in Wichita Falls today at the prevailing quotations.

ADVICE TO FARMERS

ADDRESS ISSUED BY R. R. CLARIDGE, PRESIDENT TEXAS DIVISION COTTON ASSOCIATION.

METHODS OF MARKETING

Gives His Views on Plans to Be Followed and Comments on Situation.

The following address has been issued for publication:

"When the Southern Cotton Association and the Farmers' Union established 15c as the minimum price for cotton this year, everything indicated the fairness of that figure. But, in the entire history of the Southern cotton trade, there has never before been such a powerful line-up of influence operating against cotton values. While the fight is led by the cotton gamblers, they are receiving able support from the cotton exchanges, most of the metropolitan newspapers, the big city banks and every other gilded interest in the country.

"The best friends the Texas cotton grower has, with power to help him, are the Texas banks, and the closer they are in touch with the cotton bale and the man who produces it, the more apparent appears their friendship, and the greater their tendency to aid the farmer to get a fair price for his very meager crop. But for the financial squeeze, which naturally causes the banker to hug the shore, the banks of Texas would get behind cotton to a greater extent even than they are doing.

"Theoretically, the Texas merchant desires to see the farmer get all he can for his cotton crop. Practically, he is the most persistent cotton bear in the State, because he has obligations to meet, and needs the money which the farmer owes him. In other words, his necessity makes him a cotton bear. It is not because he expects a profit on the cotton if he buys any, as he sells it at the ruling price the day he gets it, if he can. I have heard 100 Texas country merchants say, the last ninety days, that they would rather not handle a pound of cotton if they could help it.

"Beginning with a public address at the city of Mart, some two or three weeks ago, I have been saying to Texas farmers some things which should be said to them, and which do not make them mad, because they know it is fair, right and in their own interest.

"They should not hold cotton at the expense of the merchant, whom they owe, and who needs his money, no matter how 'good' they may be for the debt. Their solvency does not enable the merchant to meet his obligations.

"If they believe, as I still believe, that every bale of cotton held until the first of January, or for even a shorter time, will bring 15c per pound, and wish to hold for it, they should go to the bank for money, and hold their cotton at their own expense. If they can not get money from the bank, they should sell cotton enough to pay the merchant if they owe him. In doing this they will help themselves as well as the merchant on several counts. In the first place, they will pay their debts, which is good business to begin with, and as soon as the merchant gets his money he becomes a 'bull' and goes to boosting what cotton the farmer has left. If, for instance, a farmer has ten bales of cotton, owes the town the price of five bales, and failing to get money from the bank, sells the five bales and pays the town off, the whole town gets in behind his remaining five bales and whoops it up for 15 cents.

"There is more in this fight than the differences between the price today and 15 cents. There is, on the one hand, the farmer contending, not only for a fair price for his half crop, but fighting for a system by which he may have something to say about the value of what he produces. On the other hand, is the gambler, in a life and death struggle, to hold onto his annual hundred million dollar rake-off upon a six million dollar product. Is it any wonder that he dies hard?

Moral and Material Support.

"The farmer who thinks he can win the fight against the influences arrayed against him without the moral and material support of the business interests of the South reckons without reason, and if the leadership of his great Union has not seen this before, they see it now. To secure the co-operation of these interests requires only business fairness at the hands of the farmer, because they are naturally friendly to him, and they are becoming more considerate of his interests all the time.

ing more considerate of his interests all the time.

"If it takes a certain percentage of the Texas crop to square the farmer with the town, and he sells it, he will have the town and the city, too, behind the remainder. If he gets 15 cents for that, he will have won his fight. If he holds it all at the expense—more or less—of the merchant, keeping the latter upon the bear side of the market, he may not get 15 cents for any of it, in which case he loses the fight and gives a setback to his new market system.

"To the Texas merchants I would say: Be as lenient with the holding farmer as is consistent with your own safety, because the more he is able to hold for a fair price the better it will be for you. There is no use to say anything to the Texas banker. I have had recent and ample opportunity to observe his line-up for the new, the gradual system of cotton marketing. He may be depended upon to do all he can.

"The present financial flurry is a stock gambler's panic, and outside of a lot of people in the cities who should have taken warning long ago, the stock gambler is mainly hurt. The provincial banks are sound to the core, and will serve to steady the situation. The ultimate effect of the disturbance will be salutary, as it is needful that a little 'wildcat' be squeezed out of a gang of frenzied financiers who periodically get themselves into trouble and then chase after the United States Treasurer to get them out.

Objection to Selling.

"Perhaps it were well in conclusion that I answer objection that has been made to selling so much cotton as may owe the merchant, and can't pay him unless sold, namely, that it gives encouragement to the speculator, Georgia, for instance, furnishing a shining example this season. Well, I have already mentioned the effect of gradual selling, upon the merchant, in locating him upon the grower's side of the contest. There is another point to be considered: It is that it will be easier to sell a portion of the 1907 crop at 15 cents than all of it. In other words, every bale of cotton that has been sold renders it more certain that those able to hold and who do hold will get

HUNTING SEASON WILL SOON BE OPEN

It is but a few days now until the opening of the hunting season, and the new game law passed by the last State Legislature makes some important changes which hunters would do well to heed. The game warden and his assistants are keeping a close watch on the situation, and one of these said a few days ago in discussing the law:

"Right at this point another mistake is being made, as many people think they have a right to shoot on lands which have not been formally posted, without consent of the owner. This is wrong, and they are subject to prosecution as trespassers unless they get the permission of the land owners, whether the land is posted or not. Where hunting is prohibited there can of course be no entrance on the lands."

It will be seen by this (and it is the law) that you cannot enter the enclosure of another and kill quail, ducks, squirrels and other game, without the consent of the owner, and that you will be prosecuted if you do so. It matters not whether the pasture or farm has signs up or not—"Posted," you cannot go into the enclosure, as you will be a trespasser. Many parties state that they are going to prosecute anyone who goes into their pastures or farms, and they state that the gun shooting makes their cattle and horses wild, and a number have been killed by careless shooting. You hunters had better look out.

Fortune Knocks Once at Every Man's Door.

She is now pounding at yours. Listen. On Thursday, Oct. 31st, there will be sold to the highest bidder business and residence lots in the new townsite of Burkburnett, Texas. Fifteen miles north of Wichita Falls, on the Wichita Falls and Northwestern richest farming country in all the world, the famous Red River valley. Corn, 75 bushels; cotton, one bale; alfalfa, five tons to the acre. There has never been a failure. Has wagon bridge across Red river, insuring all of the trade in the Big Pasture in Oklahoma. Why? Corn is worth 10c more per bushel, cotton $2 more per bale, live stock 25c more per hundred, on the Texas side on account of freight regulation by the interstate commission. A town destined to have ten thousand inhabitants in two years, on account of natural advantages. Do you want to go into business? Buy. Do you want to invest? Buy. Nothing can prevent Burkburnett from being the greatest border town of North Texas. Railroads give one and one-third fare for the round trip for this great sale, good from Wednesday, Oct. 30th, to Saturday, Nov. 2nd. On the Katy west from Gainesville and between Decatur and Childress on the Fort Worth and Denver railways. 141-4t w1t

A Bridge Proposition.

We understand that the Wichita Falls and Southern Railway Company has made a tentative proposition to the county commissioners of this county to build a joint bridge with the county across the Brazos river near Belknap, understanding as they do that we are going to build a bridge up there in the near future.

As we gather the proposition it is that the railway will pay two-thirds of the cost and the county one-third. If this plan should meet the approval of the court, with the present bond issue two splendid bridges could be erected. The county could spend ten thousand dollars and the railway twenty thousand and on the Belknap bridge and then the county could have thirty thousand to spend on the bridge at South Bend. These joint bridges are perfectly feasible and are in use all over the country. The Wichita Falls and Northwestern has one across the Red river where it enters the territory of Oklahoma.

A watchman would probably have to be regularly employed to stop wagons and teams at train time, but as was well said by a friend the other day, a valuable bridge like that ought to have a watchman anyway.

If the railroad company will agree to put in twenty thousand dollars on it, the proposition seems to us to be a pretty good one and then if the Henrietta railroad people will agree to help build and maintain the South Bend bridge, which is right on their proposed line, we should favor making a trade with them, too.—Graham Leader.

the minimum price. In still other words, the more cotton Georgia sells, the better it will be for what Texas holds. In fact, when it is 'all in' that the bear speculator can get under 15 cents, I look for him—all of him—to flop to the bull side and put cotton to 20 cents, which would be as great a mistake as it would be to put it to 10 cents.

"The crop, especially in Texas, is very short. The State produced a few bales over 4,000,000 last year. This year I doubt if the crop will exceed 2,000,000 bales.

Blindness of Censet.

"Ever notice the density of a conceited person?" asked a business man. "To me that's the most striking thing about such an individual. Maybe he has some qualities that justify his good opinion of himself, and maybe not. He's dense just the same, and the proof of it is that he doesn't realize how he impresses his associates unpleasantly. If the average conceited man had the least idea of the handicap under which he is laboring he'd shed it mighty quick. But he hasn't, and it's impossible to drill it into him. He's the modern human ostrich, with his head stuck into the sand, so far as any recognition of his disagreeable trait is concerned."—New York Press.

MR. BURLESON TURNED DOWN.

Representative Burleson's request that the United States treasury distribute $10,000,000 among the banks of the South in order to prevent a sacrifice of the cotton of the Southern farmer was, of course, turned down, a matter which scarcely surprised Mr. Burleson, who is quite familiar with the relations existing between the Wall street banks and the United States treasury. Nearly all of the public money of the United States not now needed as a working balance is in New York to assist the stock gamblers from suffering losses due to the fall in stocks. All of the government's resources being thus employed, it is, of course, impossible for the treasury to assist the Southern farmers, who are merely taxpayers and not liberal contributors to campaign funds.

Primarily, of course, the United States treasury should be in no position to aid anybody, because it is not an eleemosynary institution, but the tremendous amount which now constitutes the treasury balance cannot remain in the treasury without menacing the business of the country.

But here is the spectacle: The government is employing every available dollar to aid the stock brokers and is withholding the relief to the producers that a law recently enacted contemplated when a provision was included directing the secretary of the treasury to distribute deposits "as far as practicable equally between the different States and sections." The New York banks, which are straining every nerve to protect the fortunes of the stock gamblers, are using all the influence to tighten money in the South so that the farmers may be forced to sell their cotton and thus bring to the country foreign money which will be available as further support for the

New York stock market. The proposition now is that the Southern farmers must sacrifice their cotton to aid the stock gamblers in their distress.

It was stated some time ago that the New York banks had instructed their correspondents in the South to give no further support to the cotton-holding movement, and that a combination had been formed to break the movement and force hundreds of thousands of bales, now being held, upon a falling market.

The Southern farmers may be pained to witness the efforts of the government to aid a combination which seeks their undoing, but they must face the situation as they find it. They are asked to sacrifice the fruits of a year's toil in order to bring money from Europe to be employed in the speculative operations of "The Street." It appears that they must rely upon their own resources with such aid as they may obtain from the local banks. In this crisis the stock jobbers have the support of the government, a government with hundreds of millions for the gamblers and not a cent for the men who produce the real wealth of the country.—Houston Post.

DOPE ON THE CANDIDATES.

The sporting editor of one of the leading Washington dailies was transferred to the political editor's desk during the latter's vacation several days ago and made up the following political dope:

Secretary of War William H. Taft, a little weak, but still in the ring, would be considerably braced up by a declaration from the president that he will not accept a third term under any circumstances. This the president promised today he would do the first time a State instructs in his behalf.

Vice President Chas. W. Fairbanks, apparently in a semi-comatose state, may be second choice on first ballot.

Joseph G. Cannon, speaker of the house, backed by powerful members of congress and with the substantial interest of the country not unfriendly, there's at least a possibility that a combination of circumstances may bring him the nomination.

George B. Cortelyou, secretary of the treasury, drawing the strength from the old McKinley and Hanna following, and enlisting the support largely of the money elements, is in better shape today than he ever was and is more to be feared by Taft than any other man.

Governor Charles E. Hughes of New York, who occupies an advantageous position as representative of so-called reactionaries, has also a strong popular following.

The boom of Senator Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania, falling of material support in its home State, has gone where the woodbine twineth.

Because a man holds high position is no reason why he should be allowed to insult private citizens with impunity and when such a person does this and is called there is only two honorable things for him to do—retract the offensive language or fight. He is bound to do one or the other, or forever wear the brand of a coward and black-guard.

We carry the most complete line of preserves in the city and can please you. Let us show you what we have to offer.

ORDER COFFEE AND PISTOLS FOR TWO

In his speech at Abilene last Friday, Senator Bailey presented his compliments to W. L. Crawford in the following language:

"They send such creatures against me as Bill Crawford. Do you know Bill Crawford? They know him in Dallas. They sued him there for embezzlement. And he did embezzle. He has suborned more witnesses to perjury than any ten lawyers in the State of Texas. He is one of those democrats who attempt to demonstrate their democracy by voting the republican ticket. When he cannot vote for a republican he votes for a populist. He voted for McKinley in 1896 for president and for Jerome Kearby for governor. You know McKinley believed in gold money and Kearby believed in no money at all. I would not deem Crawford worthy of more than passing notice. He is one of these kind that assume a virtue because they have it not. There is not a grafter in this county who is not abusing Bailey."

In a circular published and scattered broadcast in Dallas last Saturday, Mr. Crawford returned the compliment in the following terms:

"To the Citizens of Dallas, Texas: "In a speech which I delivered at Waxahachie Sept. 21, 1907, reviewing Joe Bailey's record as a senator, I stated amongst other things that: 'Bailey never has, never can and never will fairly and honestly discuss the facts in this case. No advocate and no apologist of Bailey can ever do it. Fairly considered, his whole record is wholly indefensible.'"

"Joe Bailey made a speech at Abilene yesterday. In that speech he did not attempt to discuss the facts in the case. He did, however, state: 'Bill Crawford has suborned more men to perjury than any other ten lawyers that now practice in the State of Texas.' I have never suborned any man in my life, and I denounce Joe Bailey as a liar, a bribe-taking scoundrel and a coward. W. L. CRAWFORD. "Dallas, Tex., Oct. 26, 1907."

Men's Suits!

It's easy enough to get clothes with "style" to them—both in design and fabric, but it is not easy to get clothes that have both style and quality that assures permanent value. After their honeymoon to Niagara falls they came back and settled on the old farm.
"Gracious, Sils!" said Cynthia. "Why are you in such a bad humor?"
"Making butter is blamed hard work," grumbled Sils, removing the beads from his brow.
"Oh, cheer up, Sils! Don't the poet say that it is 'love that makes the world go round?'"
"Yes; but, by gosh, it don't make the churn go round."—Chicago News.

The Realm of the "Want Ad."

The Fort Worth Telegram of recent date contained a very interesting and timely article on want advertisements, which in part was as follows:

The quickness, effectiveness and cheapness of classified advertising have made it the advertisement of the masses. And many shrewd merchants, knowing how classified advertisements are read, have profited greatly by sandwiching in items about their wares between personal, lost and found notices, and business opportunities.

And yet there is a secret to successful classified advertising as there is in every kind of newspaper publicity for profit. The secret is to tell the whole story. The display advertiser knows that his space must be filled with coherent and attractively worded reading matter. His words must describe and at the same time draw the prospective buyer's attention. His prices, plainly displayed, must clinch the argument.

The great failing with classified advertisers is that they try to make their advertisements too brief, or neglect details that will attract the person they are seeking away from the advertisement of somebody else in the same column.

Classified advertisements are and have been an enormous success. They would be still more so if most people did not get the idea that in writing a classified ad they are sending a telegram. Brevity is essential in a telegram from a standpoint of cost, yet more and more business men are leaning toward the telephone which does not restrict them to disconnected words sans prepositions, sans articles and sans adjectives. They are finding it pays, too.

If you have something to sell through the classified columns of a newspaper, remember it is not a good advertisement unless it tells all the story you would like to have it tell. Here is a little anecdote that will illustrate:

A certain South side woman is famed among her neighbors because she is never bothered by the servant problem. She always has help, though quite frequently servants leave her and she has to get new ones.

"How do you manage always to have servants?" an envious neighbor asked her one day.

"By advertising as soon as one serves notice that he or she is going to leave," was the reply.

"But I advertise, too," said the first woman. "But somehow, I get few replies and those that do answer are the indifferent sort who seem to have come to me after they have tried everywhere else."

"Did you ever watch the wording of your advertisements?" said the second woman, smiling.

"Why, no; I merely say 'servant wanted,' the work I expect done, the wages and my address. Isn't that enough?"

"Let me read you one of my advertisements," said the woman who always has servants, and she read:

"WANTED—Maid for general housework in family of four, living in new house on car line; wages, $5; Thursday afternoons off. Servant has own south room and bath."

"You may think it foolish to pay for telling that we have a new house and that the maid will have her own room and bath, but those little extra words have brought me many times the few cents they cost."

"But my maid has her own room and bath, too," said the first woman.

"Of course," said the second, "but you never advertised it. I make my help wanted advertisements so attractive I get the first pick of those out of employment. Naturally they choose to respond first to the most attractive position."

The woman had learned the secret of successful classified advertising. Where three words saved may still convey a clear meaning, yet the dropping out of those three words may fail to attract the most desirable person sought. It is not necessary to make liner advertisements verbose or burden them with unnecessary facts. But every attractive fact ought to have a place, and such advertising will always pay.

Those who desire to pay their city taxes for the year 1907 are notified that the books are now ready, and I will be found at my office at the City Hall every week day from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m., ready to give receipts.

THE POLITICAL WHIRLAGIG STORM IS BREWING.

John M. Duncan of Tyler, representative in the Thirtieth Legislature, and Senator E. G. Senter of Dallas spoke in Dallas last night to a large audience on "Baileyism." Duncan gave what he termed a diagnosis of the Pierce letter and the Campbell banquet. He says the Pierce letter was an insult to Governor Campbell, a trap laid for him, but that the governor walked off with the trap. The letter was published the day of the banquet and the inference was left by the speaker that Bailey may have had something to do with it. The trap, he alleges, was intended to spike the governor and make the claim that he was not at war with Pierce. And the political whirligig goes round. If these democratic leaders don't mind the party will get a jolt at some future election that will bring them to their sense. The people of Texas are diagnosing these troubles and when they get ready to settle them it will be done without regard to men, but upon principle. Governor Campbell and Senator Bailey will yet cross swords. When they do there is going to be a contest "what is" a contest. They are now far apart, but the storm will break.—Sherman Democrat.

LEG WAS BROKEN IN JUMPING FROM BUGGY.

Marion Thomson, an employe of Soule's livery stable, suffered a compound comminuted fracture of his left ankle Sunday afternoon while jumping from a buggy to which was hitched a team which was trying to run away.

The accident occurred near the bridge over the Big Wichita just north of town. Thomson and a companion were the occupants of the buggy. One of the horses began to pitch and kick and Thomson's companion jumped out and caught the animal by the bridle. In jumping out to assist his companion Thomson alighted in such a manner that his ankle was broken in the manner described above. He was taken to the Wichita Falls Sanitarium, where the broken bones were set.

Thomson's home is at Decatur and he had been at work here only a few weeks.

RALLY DAY AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

We had a good service at our church yesterday, there being five valuable additions and a deep spiritual interest. We have now more than doubled our membership since our coming last December.

We desire a rally at all our services next Sunday, as it is the first anniversary of our call to the work. Our Bible school has almost trebled its attendance and yet there is room for others.
A. J. BUSH, Pastor.

Abraham Dyre died at the home of his brother on Ohio avenue at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The Revs. Stuckey and Bush conducted a short funeral service at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning, after which the remains were taken to Henrietta for burial. Keep us in mind for your November trade. We will appreciate it and can take care of you.

NEGRO LYNCHED AT BYRON, GA.

Dragged From Cell and His Body Riddled With Bullets and Afterward Burned.

Macon, Ga., Oct. 27.—News reached here today from Byron, Ga., of the lynching of a negro named John Wilks at that place last night. The negro is said to have robbed two small boys of 75c and to have attempted to rob a man of another small amount of cash, when Marshal Tom Johnson was notified and made an effort to arrest him. The negro drew a revolver and attempted to shoot the officer. Quick work prevented this, however, and a general mix-up followed. Several persons became involved, but within a short time the negro was arrested and locked up in the barracks.

At a late hour unknown persons forced an entrance, dragged the negro from his cell and after taking him a short distance his body was riddled with bullets. It was then burned upon a log fire prepared for the occasion. The charred remains were removed this morning and were viewed by a large crowd.
