ROCK ISLAND LAYING STEEL.

Work Rushing on Amarillo-Tucumcari Extension of Road.

Amarillo, Tex., Mar. 12.—The work of laying steel on the Tucumcari extension of the Chicago, Rock Island and Gulf, from Amarillo, was begun Monday and is being pushed at the rate of one-half mile per day. About twenty miles will be laid and trains put in operation on that part to facilitate the work on the remainder of the road. Rock Island officials report that trains will probably be running regularly by the middle of May over this track.

This is the line which was originally planned by the construction company that built the Choctaw, Oklahoma and Gulf, but work on which extension was stopped by the Rock Island on account of a trackage agreement with the Denver, by which trains were hauled from Amarillo to a connection with their north and south line at Dalhart. An effort was made to kill this extension, but the new laws made it impossible, and grading, which was resumed some time ago, is now completed on a large part of the extension.

TARIFF PARAMOUNT ISSUE.

Democratic National Committee Will Make It So if Possible.

Chicago, Ill., Mar. 11.—Members of the democratic national committee today took official action outlining the campaign issues for the struggle next fall and making the tariff question predominant in the fight.

Secretary Urey Woodson was authorized to prepare the campaign text book along this line. It is proposed to have this book ready for the press by the time the Denver convention meets.

It can be approved by the national committee chosen at that time and printed within a week. From Committeeman Norman E. Mack of New York to Committeeman John E. Osborne of Wyoming, the extreme eastern and western representatives attending the Chicago meeting, the party managers are unanimous in declaring the tariff issue the chief point of difference between the republican and democratic platforms.

There is no intention to differ with Mr. Bryan, who has said the trusts would probably be the chief issue. The committeemen assert that the tariff, being the mother of trusts, involves the trust issue.

The chief reason for ordering the campaign textbook written was said by Chairman Taggart to be the intention to begin the campaign earlier than usual.

"The convention will start the battle," he said. "We are not going to lose any time getting into action and going after votes. The moment we have chosen our standard bearers the Democratic army will march to battle and we want to have our textbook ready to instruct our soldiers."

The body of the child which died on a northbound Fort Worth and Denver passenger train near Decatur and was brought to this city yesterday afternoon, was embalmed by Jackson Bros. and shipped to Denver this morning.

BOLLER IS RETAINED

KANSAS CITY MAN WILL BE THE ARCHITECT FOR THE NEW OPERA HOUSE.

WILL SOON LET CONTRACT

Plans and Specifications to Be Ready For Bidders On or Before the First of May.

Mr. Carl Boller of Kansas City has been retained as the architect for the new opera house in Wichita Falls.

Messrs. N. Henderson and T. R. T. Orth, who, with C. W. Bean, constitute the building committee of the opera house company, returned last night from Fort Worth, where the committee, after a two days consultation and examination of plans that had been submitted by a number of the leading theatrical architects of the country, decided upon Mr. Boller's plans and entered into a contract with him.

Mr. Boller will arrive in Wichita Falls this evening and will at once begin the preparation of the plans and specifications. This work will probably require twenty or thirty days. As soon as they are completed and finally approved, bids will be called for and the contract let about May 1st.

The cost of the building decided on will be in the neighborhood of $28,000, the seats, scenery, and other appurtenances will bring the cost of the completed building up to about $32,000 which, with the $3,000 paid for the site, will make the total outlay about $35,000 as originally planned.

It is expected to have construction work started at once after the letting of the contract and to have the building completed and ready for the public by the time the theatrical season opens next fall.

In selecting the best plans for the theatre best suited to local conditions, the local committee received most helpful advice from Mr. Greenwall, the Fort Worth theatre owner.

WEIGHED 610 POUNDS.

Oklahoma Man Sells a Monster Porker.

Vernon Record.
 The Record has known for many years that the Panhandle is the home of the hog family, but the passing of each day brings new phases of this important industry to our view which can do nothing more than astonish. Hogs grow faster and larger here and with less attention than in any other section of the globe.

Our friend, J. A. Creager of Oklahoma can now lay claims to being the champion hog raiser of his community. He butchered one of his 2-year-old porkers this week which tipped the scales at 610 pounds. The animal was of the registered Poland China type and was raised on corn produced on Mr. Creager's place. It was placed on the local market, bringing 5 cents per pound gross or a total of $30.50.

Mr. Creager is supplying many Willbarger farmers with a start of this fine stock of hogs and the successes which he is constantly enjoying is doing much towards bringing the hog industry into general favor.

Where Ike Smith Stands.

Vernon Record.
 There has been some inquiries of late relative to how Hon. Ike M. Smith stands on the prohibition and Bailey questions. Mr. Smith looks at it in the same light that all reasonable men do, viz.: That he does not wish to go to Austin to represent Bailey or any other single issue, but to serve the whole people of the entire district. In order that it may be shown, however, just where he stands, he authorizes the Record to state most emphatically that he is whole-soul for prohibition and is a personal ardent supporter of Senator Bailey. He states further that if he is compelled to change his views in order to be elected, he does not want the office.

Kentucky's Shame.

Kentucky is the last State to show the necessity for the election of senators by direct vote of the people, and we have scarcely had a more striking example of the embezzlement of power than Kentucky has presented. Four members of the legislature who were elected as democrats, and by their election pledged to vote for a democratic candidate, have voted for the republican candidate. They did it, too, under circumstances which take away every possible excuse that they had or can offer.

At first they excused themselves for not voting for Governor Beckham on the ground of opposition to him personally. This excuse was not a valid one, because he was nominated at a primary, and they were elected after his nomination and when their constituents had a right to expect them to vote for him. But even this subterfuge was taken away when Governor Beckham appeared upon the floor and withdrew his name, and left the democrats to select a democratic candidate by caucus. The four democrats, however, refused to change their votes even when the reasons for objection had been removed. They simply preferred to elect a republican rather than elect any democrat, for they could not assume in advance that no acceptable democrat could be found.

It is not necessary to inquire what things led them out of the democratic party and into the republican ranks. It is enough to know that they are embezzlers of power, and that as such they have sinned as grievously as one can sin by the embezzlement of money. As individuals, they had a right to change their opinions, but as representatives of constituents, they had no right to convert the suffrages of the people to their own private use. A public office is a public trust and representatives of the people have no more right to make a private use of the authority conferred upon them than a person has to convert to his own use money left him in trust.

For those who are responsible for Governor Bradley's election no satisfactory explanation can be given, and if Governor Bradley was as devoted as he ought to be to the principles of representative government, he would not accept an office secured by the betrayal of a trust.

What would we think of a candidate for the presidency who would accept the position if it was secured by a betrayal of duty on the part of electors? Electors are voted for because they are pledged to the candidate who heads their ticket and no language could describe too harshly the sin of an elector who would desert his party after an election and vote with the opposition, and the public would have contempt for a presidential candidate who would accept the position under such circumstances.

Wherein do the members of the legislature differ from electors? They were instructed at a primary and were elected with the supposition that they would carry out the will of the party expressed at the primary. Even if they could have claimed that their democratic constituents preferred another democratic candidate, they could not assume that the democrats who elected them would have a republican senator.

The Kentucky incident ought to strengthen the sentiment in favor of the election of senators by popular vote. Let the democrats in congress push this measure and put the republicans upon record if they refuse to adopt so necessary and popular a reform.—The Commoner.

FAMOUS CLAIM WILL BE SOLD.

Number One of the Kiowa-Comanche Opening to Go at Auction.

Woods who drew No. 1 in the Lawton land district in 1901. Appraisers have been appointed by the county judge to place a valuation on the entire estate, there being about 250 lots yet unsold; James E. Woods, who drew the lucky number in that great land drawing, died within a year after the opening. His wife, Alta M. Woods, proved upon the place and shortly afterward married Oliver Powers, the executor of the Woods estate. Mrs. Powers lived but a short time, not long enough to realize upon the land. The following resolution was adopted at a meeting of the Fort Worth Bryan club, which was dominated by the friends of Senator Bailey. The resolution was formed by opponents of Senator Bailey, but as no one offered an amendment or substitute, it was adopted. Here is the resolution:

"Resolved, That this, the first William J. Bryan Club organized in the State of Texas in the year 1908, heartily favors the nomination of that peerless statesman and democratic leader, the said Hon. William J. Bryan, for the presidency of the United States, by the National Democratic Convention to be held next June in the city of Denver; and we recommend to our fellow democrats throughout the State of Texas that clubs of like character be formed in every precinct of the State to aid in having none but the loyal Bryan democrats sent as delegates from this State to the said convention. Be it further

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this club that only men who are and always have been warm political supporters and friends of Hon. William J. Bryan should be sent as delegates from Texas to the said National Democratic Convention."

The Times thoroughly endorses the above resolution. If the Democratic party hopes to win the presidency it cannot realize this hope by sending men to the Denver convention with knives concealed in their sleeves to be used on the nominee of the party when an opportunity presents itself.

POLITICAL NOTES.

At a banquet given in his honor last night at Frankfort, Ky., ex-Governor J. C. W. Beckham said that as long as he lived he would never again offer for office. With the exception of his defeat for senator, he had been given every political honor asked for, and that he had no further political ambitions. In speaking of the Democratic members of the legislature who preferred to elect a republican rather than himself or any other democrat to the United States senate, he said that he had nothing to say, but would leave them to their constituents and their consciences.

According to a special from Washington to the Dallas News, every member of the Texas delegation in congress, except one, who was asked the question: "Are you or will you become a candidate for delegate to the Denver convention?" replied in the negative. The member who was not interviewed was Congressman Randall, who was sick in bed. They seem satisfied with the honor which has already been conferred upon them.

President Roosevelt is writing another message in which congress is to be reminded of its neglect of those recommendations which the president made in a former message at the beginning of the session. It is said the message now being prepared will urge on congress the necessity of enacting the employers' liability law, valuation of railroad property and a modification of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Without a voice of dissent the candidacy of William H. Taft for the republican presidential nomination was endorsed by the Nebraska republicans in convention assembled at Omaha yesterday and a solid Taft delegation will go to Chicago. It was a Taft love-feast from start to finish and harmony prevailed throughout. The delegates at large selected are Senators Norris Brown, Victor Rosewater, Gov. Sheldon and Judge Allen W. Field.

An anti-Bailey convention is to be held at Fort Worth tomorrow afternoon. In speaking of this meeting, George W. Riddle says: "This meeting was called by the executive committee of the Democratic Club of Texas by a conference held in Waco last Saturday. The purpose of the meeting is to open the campaign for cleaner politics in Texas, and to begin the work of explaining to the people what Baileyism means."

In the Eleventh and Twelfth Congressional districts of Missouri, the republicans on yesterday held conventions, which were called by the State Chairman, for the purpose of electing delegates to the National convention at Chicago and resolutions were passed in the Twelfth district endorsing the candidacy of Charles E. Hughes of New York for president. The Eleventh district delegates to the National convention are uninstructed. Both these districts held conventions on February 21st and instructed for Taft. The republican State chairman has ruled that the conventions held on yesterday were legal and the convention of February 21st illegal. Both sets of delegates will attend the convention, where the contest will naturally have to be settled.

A Memory Test.

A professor of mnemonics had gone to lecture at or near Canterbury. After the lecture was finished he had to wait for his London train. It was a most comfortable day, and he retired to an inn for shelter and refreshment. To pass the time he began to exhibit his feats of memory to the yokels in the inn parlor, and one and all were thunderstruck except the waiter. There is always one skeptic in every communion, whether of saints or sinners. Do what he would he could not mitigate the acrid smile of acid incredulity of that glorified potman! In the midst of one of his most difficult feats the whistle sounded of the "Only train to London tonight!" and he rushed off to catch it. He caught it at the station, and his reputation caught it in the inn parlor, for the waiter, coming in with some ordered refreshments and finding him gone, pointed to the corner where he had been sitting and exclaimed, "Silly 'umbug, he's forgot his umbrella!"—Young Man.

Juvenile Natural History.

"Papa," said Harry, infant phenomenon, aged nine, "will you give me my pocket money in advance? I want to buy a book on moths."

"Certainly, my boy," said the retired colonel. "Here's a shilling for you. I am delighted that you should take such an interest in natural history."

That evening all the old colonel's best friends came to dinner.

"Now is my opportunity," reflected the proud parent, "to show these people what a clever boy my son is. I shall have him in at dessert time!"

So Harry came in with the pears and pineapple, and in loud tones the 'gallant' colonel remarked:

"Well, Harry, did you get your book on moths?"

"Yes, papa," answered his son.

"And what is it called?" pursued the delighted father.

"Oh," said the unsuspecting phenomenon, "it is entitled 'Hints to Young Moth-ers!'"—London Answers.

Hiding His Ignorance.

An official of the department of justice said in Washington of a rumor brought to him for confirmation by a reporter:

"This rumor springs from ignorance, crass ignorance of the law. I am surprised that you should have credited it."

"The originator of that rumor is as plainly ignorant of the law as a certain schoolboy was of French."

"This boy's father said to him one night at dinner:

"Well, how are you getting on with your French, my son?"

"Very well, thank you, sir," the lad replied.

"The father beamed with pleasure.

"Ask politely in French for some peas," he said.

"There was an awkward pause.

Then—

"But, father," said the boy, "I don't want any peas."

Meeting Old Neptune.

An inmate of Sailors' Snug Harbor in speaking of the ceremony connected with "crossing the line," when Father Neptune presides over the initiation of the men who have never crossed the equator, said:

"I got my introduction to old Neptune while I was in the merchant service. I got my lather and shave and ducking thirty years ago and helped initiate many seafaring men and landsmen since then. With hot tar handy, Neptune's crew often took liberties which would not be allowed on board a man-of-war. The skipper used to look on from aloft, but he was blind as a bat to things that he did not wish to see, and the men knew enough to make no complaint. I know that I was mad clear through at what I got, but I contented myself with taking it out of the next man."

Joke on a Presidential Possibility.

Congressman J. Sloat Fassett of New York, who attended the Lincoln day banquet in Pittsburg, sprang a joke on the newspaper men the other afternoon. In spite of the fact that it had whiskers, it made a hit. Fassett in discussing presidential possibilities declared that the people of New York want Charles Evans Hughes for president.

"But what if Hughes cannot get the nomination?" he was asked.

"Well, that's another question," he answered. "It reminds me of Lord Dundreary's story. He asked a woman if her brother Charlie liked cheese, and she replied that she had no brother Charlie."

"Well," said Lord Dundreary, "if you had a brother Charlie, do you think he would like cheese? So that is the best answer I can give to your question about Hughes."

Three Queer Things.

The curious things which occur in the world on a given day would no doubt be collected excite the wonder of the most incredulous. Yet in a single newspaper there was recently found an account of a woman who was guilty of so infamous a proceeding as going to sleep at a shop while the assistant was in the act of showing her some dress stuffs, accompanying the exhibition with the usual eloquence of these individuals.

The second related the acuteness of two tramps who conceived the idea of going to a fancy dress ball in their ordinary attire. As may be imagined they devoted the best part of their time to a serious inroad on the resources of the supper room, much to the amusement of the whole party, who naturally thought they were guests who had been invited to the entertainment and who, having made themselves up with exceptional skill for their assumed parts, were carrying out the idea of the characters they represented for the purpose of the jest.

The third story was that of an absentminded young woman who was playing with a pair of scissors and proceeded to trim off her eyebrows quite unconscious of what she was doing.—Pearson's Weekly.

Benton and Barton.

In the "Thirty Years in the United States Senate," by Thomas Hart Benton, Missouri's famous United States senator, there is scant mention of Benton's colleague from Missouri, David Barton. The only place in which his name occurs is where Senator Benton gives the roll call of the senate, and Barton's name of course is therein contained. Benton undertook to punish Barton by ignoring him and thus relegate the first United States senator from Missouri to oblivion. Barton had brought about Benton's election to the senate. Barton was first named by the legislature, and there was a long contention as to the second senatorship. Finally Barton's friendship for Benton brought about Benton's election. Later the two quarreled over the appointment of an Indian agent in the far west and drifted further and further apart. Finally the relations between the two senators became such that they scarcely spoke to one another when they met.—Kansas City Star.

Paid For the Supplies.

A story said to be characteristic is told of a certain judge. It seems that when he convened court at one of the towns on his circuit it was found that no pens, ink or paper had been provided, and upon inquiry it developed that no county funds were available for this purpose. The judge expressed himself somewhat forcefully, then drew some money from his own pocket. He was about to hand this to the clerk when a visiting lawyer, a high priced imported article, brought on to defend a case of some importance, spoke up in an aside plainly audible over the room. "Well," he remarked, with infinite contempt, "I've seen some pretty bad courts, but this—well, this is the limit!"

The old judge flushed darkly. "You are fined $25 for contempt, sir! Hand the money to the clerk!" he said, and when the pompous visitor had humbly complied he continued.

"Now, Mr. Clerk, go out and get what pens, ink and paper the court may require, and if there is anything left over you can give the gentleman his change."—Harper's Weekly.

Send your lace curtains to Pond's Laundry. They make them look like new. 251-12t

A Genius at Excuses.

"While I was stage managing a piece some time ago," said a theatrical magnate, "one of my show girls showed an independence of spirit which was superb. She was always late for rehearsal. Her excuses were great. All her friends and relations had a series of maladies which were remarkable in their number and diversity. She nursed them all until they naturally gave up the ghost. About an hour was enough to bury most of them. Then she caught on to mechanical devices. Street cars were invariably late—just as late as she was, in fact. Then in turn came certain inconveniences in hotels. The elevator was continually sticking until finally came the denouement. It was in Philadelphia. The siren did not appear until nearly two hours after the proper time. I looked at her and waited. The excuse came glibly.

"'Oh,' she panted, 'I'm so sorry, but they are repairing the stairs at the hotel, and I could not get down until they brought a ladder!'

"'I recognized genius in that girl!'"—Chicago Record-Herald.

How the Cook Did It.

He had a number of guests to dinner, and he was doing the carving. He had deftly taken two slices off the joint, and he was turning off a third when the blade struck a skewer, made a sliding motion and came out at the top, with the result that the proposed slice looked like a dead leaf curled up by the sun's rays.

He could not say intense things in the presence of his guests, so he froze his wife with a glance, dug the skewer out viciously, made a grim joke concerning the indigestibility of roasted wood and ordered little Willie, who had made several attempts to speak, to keep silent or leave the table.

His erident temper led to an embarrassing silence, and Willie saw an opening that he could not resist.

"Cook burned her nose off!" he announced.

"Too bad," said the mother, glad of any excuse for conversation. "How did she do it?"

"Why," answered Willie very apropos, "trying to pull them skewers out with her teeth!"—London Scraps.

IDEAL MONUMENT FOR THE NATION.

Redwood Canyon Deeded to the United States.

FINE STAND OF GIANT TIMBER

Natural Forest of Redwoods Will Be Named Muir Woods, After the Noted Naturalist—Superb Pleasure Ground For Tourists—The Big Trees Not Cut

One of the most public spirited gifts ever made to the United States government has come from William. Kent of Chicago, who has just deeded to the United States 295 acres of primeval redwood forest on the southern slope of Mount Tamalpais, about six miles from the city of San Francisco, says a Washington dispatch. The land was deeded to the government with the approval of Forester Gifford Pinchot, chief of the United States forest service. The papers have now gone to the secretary of the interior, and a proclamation declaring the canyon a national monument will be signed at an early date.

This means that more of California's redwood giants will be saved for the scientific study and pleasure of the whole country—in fact, the whole world—for the great sequoias are only found in the Golden State. This grove given to the government by Mr. Kent is one of the only tracts of redwood forests to be found in their natural state in California today. The land is said to have cost Mr. Kent $47,000 years ago, but its stand of redwood timber alone is now valued at more than $150,000 on the market.

The canyons of Tamalpais, which drain into San Francisco bay, were cut clean years ago, and the redwood obtained from them went into the construction of the old San Francisco. The giants on the tract to be known as "Muir woods" escaped the ax, however, chiefly because the outlet is on the ocean side instead of the bay side and also because the various owners of the land have for sentimental reasons jealously guarded the timber from harm or destruction. Modern methods of logging would make short work of the timber and would, besides, put a handsome profit in the hands of the owners.

It is the intention to name the national monument Muir woods, after John Muir, the noted naturalist. The giants of Redwood canyon will now be given permanent protection by virtue of the act of June 8, 1906, which provides that objects of scientific interest may be declared national monuments if such action is deemed necessary for their preservation and protection. This 295 acre tract will be a pleasure ground as well as a place for scientific study for the people practically of the whole of California, for within a radius of fifty-two miles on the canyon two-thirds of the population of the entire state are centered.

The chief reason for the permanent protection of the land by the government is that there is no other redwood grove in the whole world more accessible to so many people. The canyon is in absolutely primeval condition, not so much as scratched by the hands of man. It lies within an hour's ride of San Francisco, at the very doors of hundreds of thousands of people.

So long as the land remains in private ownership there is always danger that the trees will be attacked, and Mr. Kent feared this, but as a national monument they will be safe for all time. There are, of course, many finer stands of redwood in California, but there are no typical groves owned by the United States, nor are there any which might be acquired by the government except at great expense.

Originally this land was part of the old Spanish grant, Rancho Sausalito. The largest redwoods are eighteen feet in diameter at the butt and will approach 300 feet in height, rising with perfectly straight and clean stems. As none of the big trees have been cut, their age is, of course, somewhat problematical, but it is safe to say that the veterans have stood from a thousand to fifteen hundred years.

The total stand of redwood, roughly estimated, is about 30,000,000 feet, with some 5,000,000 feet of fir and a very considerable amount of tanbark oak. The redwood alone, at a fair valuation, has a market value of $150,000 as it stands. Except for a narrow strip of brush along the east border and a fringe along the southwest line, the whole canyon is covered with a dense forest growth. The stand is heaviest along the creek and on the lower slopes, becoming poorer above. Redwood is the dominating tree, towering high above everything else and forming fully three-fourths of the whole forest. Douglas fir is next in importance, and scattered over the entire tract are all the various hard woods common to the region, chief among which are the numerous oaks, madrone, alder, maple and mountain laurel, all of which form a kind of dwarf underwood to the lofty redwood and fir. The redwood occurs both in big and small groups and by single trees, while the other species are sprinkled throughout.

The destruction of redwood by lumbering has been so rapid in the last decade that it is now only a question of years when the original growth will have wholly disappeared. Its extraordinary scientific and educational value along with the fact that it is a pleasure ground for all of the people who live in or visit this part of California, makes the wood an ideal national monument.

Too Much For General Butler.

After the battle of Chickamauga at the streets of New Orleans accosting every man who wore the blue with "Didn't Stonewall Jackson give you blazes at Chickamauga?" General Butler called the exultant Confederate before him and told him he could either take the oath of allegiance or go to Ship Island for two years. The Confederate deliberated, but finally agreed to take the oath. When he had sworn to support the constitution, he turned to General Butler and exclaimed: "Now we are both loyal citizens, aren't we, general?"

"Well, I trust so," said General Butler.

"Then," said the jubilant Confederate, "I want to ask you if Stonewall Jackson didn't give us blazes at Chickamauga?"—Argonaut.

OHIOAN'S PLAN TO FREE THAW

Offers to Take the Prisoner's Place For $3,000,000.

Of the thousands of letters received by the various interested persons during the second trial of Harry Thaw, charged with the murder of the late Stanford White, the most amazing came to the wife of the prisoner the other day, says the New York Times. The writer was a man in Ohio, who sent a 600 page communication by registered mail.

His proposition is to change places with the prisoner for $3,000,000, to be placed in the hands of an intermediary, he to run the risk of the death chair or Matteawan. The letter was accompanied by photographs showing a likeness between the writer and the prisoner. The letter is sanely written and goes into minute details of the proposed escape. The double, it is proposed, is to visit Thaw wearing a wig and a disguise that can be easily changed from one to the other. The writer says that he is not making the proposition to kill time, as he is a married man and has a family, but has been a failure in life. The communication was turned over to her husband's counsel by Mrs. Thaw.

One of the proposals made is that from a Staten Island hypnotist, who offers for a sum of money to put a quietus on District Attorney Jerome and ruin his summing up by telepathy. Another is from a ventriloquist who for a fee will sit in the courtroom and when the foreman opens his mouth to pronounce the verdict of the jury will throw his voice, in his direction and pronounce Thaw not guilty. He guarantees that this will at least result in a mistrial.

Cranks anxious to marry Evelyn Nesbit Thaw if her husband goes to the electric chair or to the madhouse have put in 122 applications so far.

TEST OF GAS-ELECTRIC CAR.

Power House, Transmission Lines and Substation on Wheels.

Seventy-five miles of hard running over all kinds of railroads the other day showed that the new type of gas-electric car made by a big electric company is a decided success, and it promises to revolutionize railroading on short lines, says a Schenectady (N. Y.) special dispatch to the New York World. The test of the car was an official one. A speed of sixty miles an hour was made. Perfect control of the speed was possible at all times.

In a space of 8 by 9 feet this car combines the power house, transmission lines, substations and all the benefits of electric traction without the costly and cumbersome effects of the trolley. One man can operate and control the whole.

Two electric motors of sixty horsepower each drive the car, and these are furnished current by a 120 horsepower direct current generator, which in turn is driven by an eight cylinder gas engine, which consumes gasoline. Not even the exhausted gases are wasted, for these are driven through pipes to heat the car.

In Washington. "I made a glaring error today," sighed the cabinet lady.

"How's that?" inquired the departmental lady.

"I glared at a woman I should have ignored completely."—Louisville Courier Journal.

THE GOVERNMENT MORTALITY REPORT

Washington, D. C., Mar. 13.—The seventh annual report on statistics on mortality for the year 1906 was made public today.

The report embraces what is known as the registration States an includes California, Colorado, Connecticut, Indiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota and Vermont. The report says among other things:

For the first time in these reports distinction of color is shown for those areas whose population is 10 per cent or over colored. For the cities in such areas it is found that the death rate of the white population for 1906 was 17.2 per 1,000, and that of the colored population was 28.1, or more than 60 per cent higher.

The diseases causing a much higher mortality rate among the colored than among the whites are pulmonary tuberculosis, pneumonia, whooping cough, malarial fever, and typhoid fever; those causing a much lower mortality rate are scarlet fever, cancer and diabetes.

Causes of Death.

The causes of death, with their rates, to which 20 or more deaths per 100,000 of population were attributed in 1906, ranked according to the number of deaths per 100,000, are as follows:

Tuberculosis of lungs, 159.4; pneumonia (including bronchopneumonia), 149.9; heart disease, 130.7; diarrhea and enteritis, 122.9; violence, 120.9; Bright's disease and nephritis, 99.8; apoplexy, 71.8; cancer, 70.8; premature birth, 34.8; old age, 34.3; congenital debility, 34.2; typhoid fever, 32.1; bronchitis, 30.3; diphtheria and croup, 26.3; meningitis, 25.6.

Tuberculosis of the Lungs.

The number of deaths in the registration area for 1906 resulting from pulmonary tuberculosis was 65,341, and the death rate per 100,000 population was 159.4, as compared with a rate of 168.2 for 1905. A part of this gratifying decrease is due to the inclusion of new States with a low mortality rate from this disease in the registration area for 1906, but there has also been a genuine decrease in the rate in the old registration area.

Of the total number of deaths, 36,932 were of males and 29,309 were of females. The largest number of males in any five-year age group dying of this disease were of the age group 25 to 29, and the largest number of females of the age group 20 to 24.

The States with the lowest mortality rates were South Dakota (83.9) and Michigan (90.1), and those with the highest rates were Colorado (252.9) and California (231.5). The high rates in the two latter states must not be construed as indicating the prevalence of this disease among the native population; these states have many climatic advantages for consumptives, and it is probable that a large number of the deaths are to be counted to legal residents of other states sojourning in these states in search of health.

Violence.

The total number of deaths in the entire registration area for 1906 from all forms of violence was 49,552, corresponding to a death rate of 120.9 per 100,000 of estimated population. This rate greatly exceeded that of 1905 (111.9), or that of any recent year. Of the total number of deaths from this cause, 38,682 were of males and 10,870 were of females. The classification of these deaths into accidental, suicidal, and homicidal is difficult owing to the fact that many deaths are simply returned as resulting from "carbolic acid," "pistol shot," etc.

The death rate from suicide apparently showed a large increase for each year of the period from 1902 to 1905 and a decrease for 1906. The number of suicides in 1906, returned as suicides, was 5,853, of which 4,521 were of males and 1,332 of females. The largest number of male suicides for any five-year age period were of the age period 35 to 39, and the largest number of female suicides were of the age period 25 to 29.

Deaths from accidental traumatism numbered 20,842, and the rate was 50.8 per 100,000 of population; the corresponding rate for 1905 was 42.1. The deaths from steam railroad accidents and injuries for the registration area numbered 7,090, and those from automobile accidents 183.

THE PUBLIC WILL NEVER KNOW.

Words of Wife of Harry Thaw When Asked Why She Was Quitting Him.

New York, March 11.—Harry K. Thaw was served late today with a copy of the summons and complaint in the proceedings brought by his wife Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, to annul their marriage. Mrs. William C. Thaw who is made a co-defendant, was also served.

Daniel O'Reilly, counsel for Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, explained that Thaw's mother was made a co-defendant because, being next of kin, she is technically the real defendant. The law presumes her son to be insane, and therefore legally dead.

Mrs. Evelyn Thaw called at O'Reilly's office today and attached her signature to the papers in the case. As she left the office Mrs. Thaw was asked whether she would subsequently make public the cause of the estrangement which led to the suit. She replied:

"The public will never know." The papers served today briefly recite the fact of the marriage at Pittsburgh on April 4th, 1905, and set forth "that at the time of the marriage of the plaintiff to the defendant the defendant was a lunatic, and of unsound mind, and was incapable of making a valid contract of marriage." The cause for annulling the marriage, to wit: "The lunacy of Harry K. Thaw existing at the time of such marriage."

NEWS NOTES.

The Baptist congregation at Wheeling, W. Va., recently advertised for a pastor, and an answer was received from a St. Louis divine, who stated that he was a Baptist of the old school and could give the best of references. On these representations he was called and a banquet was arranged in his honor, but when the negro preacher arrived both he and the committee which met him at the train realized that a very embarrassing mistake had been made, and as he happened to be a negro of sense, returned to his home on the next train.

Her Ancestor.
 An Australian woman of great charm and tact tells many amusing stories of the strange questions put to her by people with a thirst for information about her native land.

"It is a very common thing for me to be asked if the bushes are still thick where I live or whether our house is in a 'clearing.'" she says plaintively. "and I know they often regard my veracity as a doubtful quantity when I tell them Australia is not all 'bush' by any means. But an old lady asked me a new question one day. She evidently supposed that all the dwellers in Australia were descendants of the criminals transported to Botany Bay.

"Is it possible for the convicts to educate their children so well ordinarily?" this terrible old Englishwoman asked me, surveying me through her lorgnette as I finished telling one of her friends about my school days.

"But my father was not a convict, madam," I said, with natural surprise.

"Ah," she said meditatively, "then I suppose it was your grandfather who was sent there. Of course much can be done in the third generation."

"I should have been angry if it had been worth while," the Australian adds, with admirable wisdom, "but she surveyed me so impersonally that I didn't even tell her there was actually a part of the population of my country which did not come from convict stock."

Poor Critter!
 "I hear that your husband is critically ill, Mrs. Tiff?" said Mr. Gummy.
 "Yes, he is. He criticises the doctor, and he criticises the nurse, and he criticises me. Oh, he's critically ill, all right."—Judge.

Poor Soldier.
 Bill—It is said that Alexander the Great when on a campaign ate the rations of a common soldier. Jill—And did the poor soldier get nothing?—Yonkers Statesman.

Encouragement.
 Jack—I am afraid that if I ask you to be my wife you will treat my proposal as a joke. Molly—But all jokes are not rejected, Jack.

IS HE MEAN MAN OR FINANCE KING

Seaprsfield, S. D., Mar. 13.—For business acumen John Littler, a former resident of this place, is entitled to a medal. Ten years ago when Mr. Littler was a resident of Sturgis, he lost his wallet in the street. It contained $100 in bills, and after a few days advertising he gave up hope of finding it and soon after left Sturgis.

A few days ago he had occasion to return there and was met in the street by a man who told him of finding his wallet and money, but he did not know where Littler had gone. The finder offered Littler his check for $100, but the latter was not satisfied. Instead he demanded and received 10 per cent interest for the money during the time it was out of his possession. He settled the claim only when he was tendered a check for $110, and then with a "thank you" he went his way.

MME. GOULD AND PRINCE DE SAGAN.

Yesterday's dispatches from Cherbourg, Germany, told of the sailing of Mme. Anna Gould and her children for the United States, and also stated that it was believed that Prince de Sagan was aboard the same steamer. The following dispatch from Paris under date of the 10th will be of interest:

There was a stormy scene at the Gould mansion on the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne yesterday when she dismissed all the servants, announcing her intention of closing the house for three months and informing them that she would be unable to pay them their wages until her return to Paris.

Servants Unpaid.
 The servants, after a consultation demanded immediate payment, and also a week's wages in lieu of notice of dismissal, adding that they had no desire to re-enter her service. Mme. Gould refused to entertain this proposition, and the servants left, threatening to bring suits for the small sums due them. Only the hall porter and his wife remained as care takers of the great palace where royalty has so often been entertained.

Count Boni has been watching Mme. Anna very closely of late, evidently fearing that she might attempt to smuggle the children out of the country in spite of the order of the court. The tutor, who is known as the abbe, is supposed to be on the side of the Castellanes and is certainly with the children tonight.

The abbe related recently an incident showing that the sons are taking a lively interest in their mother's matrimonial affairs. In order to show their disapproval of Prince de Sagan they have trained their Pomeranian spaniel to bark savagely whenever the name of "De Sagan" is mentioned.

In the fashionable shops where Madame Gould's extravagance has become proverbial it is believed that her trip to America is due to pressing need of money. Some of her creditors are greatly perturbed over the reports in the French papers of the downfall of the Gould stocks and the refusal of the Deutsche bank to reinvest in them.

But social Paris—the part which is not interested in her financial affairs—whispers that there is good reason to believe that either Madame Gould has married Prince de Sagan or very soon will marry him. And he, therefore, it is believed, is going over at the same time either to formally present himself to the Gould family as Anna's husband, or make the necessary diplomatic arrangements for a union.

No Swearing.
 Swearing or the using of loud or indecent language upon the streets or other public places is forbidden by the city ordinances. Notice is hereby given that I will arrest any person heard using such language upon the streets or wherever forbidden by the law.
 R. V. GWINN,
 City Marshal.

Pertinent Advice.
 "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party"—with a stuffed club and whale the gall out of some of the so-called "leaders." Make 'em take a back seat and let the people have a rest.—Bonham Herald.

NEGRESS USED KNIFE.

Negro Seriously Wounded Leaving a Mulberry Row Restaurant.

Walter Stine, a negro, was seriously cut with a pocket knife in the hands of Ethel Sims, a negress, at a restaurant on Mulberry Row late last night.

The use of a knife by the negress is said to have been the result of a quarrel over the possession of some money which the negress claimed that Stine had gotten from her several nights ago. The cutting took place as Stine was leaving the restaurant, the negress, who stood just outside of the door, giving him a slash with a pocket knife as he stepped through the doorway.

The knife made a deep wound into the diaphragm and Dr. Coons, who was called to attend the wounded man, believes that his injuries are of a very serious nature.

The negress was arrested early this morning and is now in the county jail awaiting a preliminary examination.
