A Hand in the Dark.

[Original.]
When my father, who had been a very wealthy man, died insolvent his children were like persons thrown into deep water without having learned to swim.
Had it not been for my mother and sisters I would have got on well enough. I was young and strong and perfectly willing to work. But they must live. Mother was too old to do anything for herself, and, as to my sisters, it was before the admission to the various fields which are now open to women. I secured an agency for the sale of sewing machines. One day I went home and found the family all being turned out of the little cottage to which we had been reduced for non-payment of rent. I had sold that day a machine for which I had collected the money. I paid the rent with it.
There are cases where the penalty for dishonesty seems very harsh. That I had appropriated the sewing machine funds soon became known to my employers. I was given twenty-four hours to make good the deficiency or submit to arrest. There was no way in the world to save myself. Of a naturally sensitive disposition, to go behind bars was more than I could endure. I resolved on suicide.
I owned a revolver which I had purchased in the halcyon days. I had a few cents necessary to buy cartridges. Following a plan usual to suicides for the purpose of lessening as much as possible the shock to those who love them, I went to a hotel, registered and asked for a room. The hour was for 6 o'clock in the evening, but it was in December and as dark as midnight. The clerk assigned me to a room, and I was shown to it by a bell boy. It was in a wing of the hotel at the end of a dimly lighted hall. My conductor found the door unlocked and opened it. I entered and shut the door behind me. I was in absolute darkness, which was what I preferred—that is, if a man about to die has any preferences.
My knee rubbed against a chair. I took hold of it and sat down with my face to its back, and dropped my head on my hands. My mind of course was on my misfortunes. Had I not been suffering from a partial temporary insanity I might have seen the folly of my course. It would have been better for me to disappear. Then I might still be of use to my mother and sisters. This did not occur to me. My mind had become saturated with one subject—arrest, handcuffs, prison bars. I am a believer in the power of purely temporary physical conditions to force one into crime, and such condition I suffered from.
Presently I straightened up, put my hand to a hip pocket and took out my revolver. There was no necessity for a light. I could do what I intended through the sense of touch. Indeed, I did not care, as some suicides have done, to shoot myself standing before a mirror. I dreaded to see the horrible expression that was on my face. I slowly raised the revolver, my finger on the trigger, intending to place the muzzle against my temple. Just as I felt the cold steel a hand grasped my wrist.
Doubtless nothing could have occurred better calculated to bring me to my senses. The spell in which my mind had been caught was suddenly broken. Surprise was the first sensation, curiosity the second. Neither had anything to do with the monomania that had possessed me. I had suddenly been transferred into a free thinking man. I noticed first that the hand about my wrist was small and soft. It must be a woman's. But what was a woman doing in that room, and how did she know that I had raised a pistol to my head? She might have heard me come in and sit down, but it would have required light to detect noiseless motion. Not for a moment did I fancy that some one from the dead had come to save me. The hand was warm, human, and I felt human currents passing from its owner to me. What has required a whole paragraph to tell flashed through me in an instant.
"Who are you?" I asked.
"One whom God has doubtless sent to save you from a crime," came the reply in a low musical voice.
"I will strike a light."
"Please don't. I am under the care of an oculist. He has placed me in darkness preparatory to an operation. I have been here all day without a ray of light entering my eyes, for, in addition to the room being darkened, my eyes have been bandaged. Hearing some one enter, I lifted the bandage. Having been so long in perfect darkness, my sight is very strong. I have seen you, though dimly, from the first and can see you now. Hadn't I better ring for some one to take you away?"
"No; I will go alone. There is no fear that I will act as I intended. You have relieved the mental strain under which I suffered."
"I gave her a brief account of the causes that had led up to my intended suicide. She exacted a promise from me to go to her father and tell him the story, including my adventure with her, giving me a ring as a token. I left her and kept my promise. I was given a check to pay my indebtedness, with another for temporary requirements. On going out I discovered at the office that I had been taken to the wrong room.
When I saw the lady who had saved me I saw an attractive girl of twenty. We became close friends. Indeed, she and all her family were extremely kind to my mother and sisters. Her father gave me a desk in his counting room, and I am now on a fair way to prosperity.

MR. LASKER'S VIEWS ON THE TAX QUESTION.

Fort Worth, Tex., Aug. 12.—M. Lasker of Galveston has submitted his views on the tax question in writing to the Texas Commercial Secretaries' Association. It is the policy of this association to solicit the views of taxpayers on this important subject and to give wide publicity to these expressions, in order that discussion may be stimulated and study encouraged.

Mr. Lasker is president of the Galveston Chamber of Commerce and is one of the most progressive citizens of Texas, and he was never known to shirk any duty as a citizen, whether in the payment of taxes or in the contribution of time and money to the general welfare of his State and his community. The exhaustive study he has made of the tax question and his opportunity for observing the effect of taxation on the development of Texas makes his paper of unusual interest, and especially so coming at a time when Texas is burdened with tax laws. The article follows:
"Within the last ten years repeated efforts have been made in Texas at tax reform, all of which have failed to accomplish the reforms in hand, particularly for the reason that those having the reforms in hand directed their attention more exclusively to the additional collection of taxes than to the relief of the overburdened taxpayer.

"Taxation has been from time immemorial a subject so complex and so difficult of solution, that almost any set of conditions in tax methods is to be preferred to the hazard of revolutionary changes in the existing tax system, and whenever changes in the tax system appear to be absolutely necessary, it ought to be taken in hand cautiously and carried into effect only after they have been well deliberated over. In my opinion the next legislature should repeal most or all the tax legislation provided for by its predecessor, and then create a commission composed entirely of representatives of various elements comprising men who are thorough students of political economy, experienced legislators, and of members of the various taxpaying classes who may be selected for their wisdom and integrity, and such a commission should be provided with ample means to have the necessary preparatory work done, and the necessary information obtained for them by experts of their own selection. Such a commission should have ample time to also investigate the subject, so that at the end of their labors—the time for which may be properly limited—they may report the result of their labors to the executive of the State, who shall then call a special session of the legislature for the purpose of acting upon such a report, and until such a similar course is pursued and tax law tinkering stopped, we will find periodical upheavals in this State, such as we have had from time to time, and the culmination of which we now witness."

Autumn Fashions for School Days.
The time to prepare for the coming school days is at hand. Every mother should be early in selecting a suitable and durable outfit, also the small essentials that make for the happiness of the growing child.

An easily carried lunch basket or box, a strap or a bag to hold books and papers, a box for pens and pencils, otherwise easily lost, help the daily studies and teach system and order.

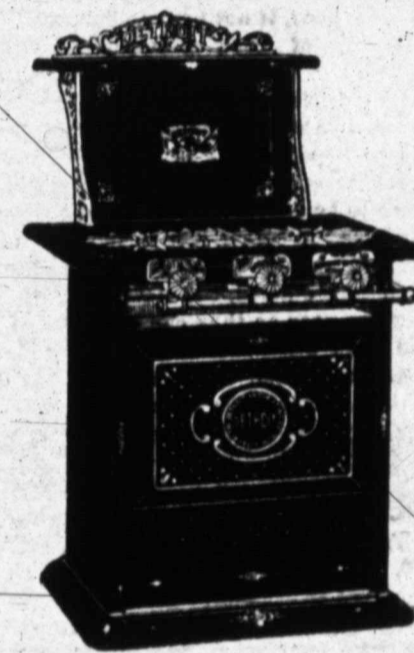

Most of the bags and boxes can be easily made at home by the ingenious parent, or bought for moderate prices in the stores.

The school dress and coat should be both smart and serviceable. The old sand-by, pepper and salt, in good quality of cloth, with cap of the same, for the boy, is durable for rough wear and useful for all occasions. Dark blue reefers are the proper thing for the small boy or girl. With these either a wide brimmed sailor hat or a cloth Tam O'Shanter may be worn.
Sensible shoes should always be worn. Whether laced or buttoned, the boots should have spring heels, square toes and be longer than apparently necessary.—The September New Idea Woman's Magazine.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

- For Representative 105th District, G. E. HAMILTON of Childress.
- For District Attorney, 30th Jud. Dist., P. A. MARTIN of Granam.
- For County Judge: M. F. YEAGER.
- For Sheriff and Tax Collector: J. W. WALKUP.
- For District and County Clerk: W. A. REID.
- For County Treasurer: TOM W. McHAM.
- For County Tax Assessor: W. J. BULLOCK.
- For Constable, Precinct No. 1: PETE RANDOLPH.
- For County Attorney: T. B. GREENWOOD.

Wichita county, in the primary voted for submission of State-wide prohibition to a vote of the people, and all the instructions given delegates to the State convention was to be governed by the vote of the county on this as well as other questions, yet the Times notes that Wichita county is lined up on the anti side of this question at the San Antonio convention. Is this a violation of instructions?

On the submission question, the majority of the democrats of Wichita county voted for the question of State-wide prohibition to be submitted by the legislature of Texas to a vote of the whole people in the form of an amendment to the State constitution, and the county convention instructed our delegates to the State convention to be governed in casting their votes in the State convention by the vote of the county.

With the union labor vote for Bryan and Kern, it does really seem as if the democratic national ticket stands a better chance of winning than for the last three presidential campaigns. Both Gompers and Mitchell, the two great labor leaders, are for the Bryan and Kern ticket, and are doing what is in their power to raise a fund with which to carry on an aggressive campaign. Heretofore, or for the last three presidential campaigns, the labor vote has gone to the republican party, and it may do so again. John Mitchell, in the opinion of President Roosevelt, is one of the very few really great men of the United States, and in him labor has a leader which it can well afford to follow. Under his management, union labor has won more victories than under all the other labor leaders combined. The reason for this is that Mitchell is conservative, and in taking care of the interests of labor does not lose sight of the fact that the employer of labor also has interests that must necessarily be protected by labor, or else there will be less work to be done, and more idle laborers to do it.

The Times is not quite so good a newspaper as its contemporary, the old Dallas News, but it is not the least bit jealous. By the time it reaches the age of the News, it expects to be fully as good, if not better. But, while speaking of good newspapers and thinking of better ones, it reminds us that the News covers its field (the whole Southwest) just about as well as any newspaper that is published and the character of its news service is more to be relied upon than most publications. Whether it is in favor of or against men or measures, when the people have acted, the News gives the facts as near as they can be obtained, and even when it makes a guess, the final and official count usually shows that it rarely ever misses its mark. For instance, on the morning of July 26, the day following that on which the democratic primary election for State officers was held, it said that Campbell's majority would hardly reach 100,000, but would go as high as 75,000. The final returns gave Campbell 67,095 majority. For attorney general, it said that Davidson had won by a majority which might exceed 20,000. His majority was 22,536. On the submission question it said that submission had carried by a small majority, which proved true, as the final returns gave a majority of 4,917 in favor of submission.

BOY RUNS AWAY—FOUND BY FORT WORTH POLICE.

Little Jimmy Sparks of Wichita Falls may not be the Little Jimmy of the Telegram's comic page, but he can worry his father just the same. Jimmy has just been picked up by the Fort Worth police and this is the way he pictures his experiences:

Picture No. 1—Papa sends him to the store to buy some matches. Papa is anxiously waiting.

Picture No. 2—Jimmy meets a tramp. Mr. Tramp attracts Jimmy's attention by his marvelous clothes and the funny whiskers that stick out of his face. Papa is anxiously waiting.

Picture No. 3—Tramp says, "Jimmy, for I know that's your name; how would you like to see the great wide world? If you would, leave your little old Wichita Falls and come to Fort Worth with me." Papa is anxiously waiting.

Picture No. 4—Jimmy, tramp and box car. (Illustrating repose and contentment). Papa is anxiously waiting.

Picture No. 5—Fort Worth, coppers and jail. Papa is notified that his boy is found.

And in the meantime—
Picture No. 6—Jimmy is anxiously waiting.

Little 11-year-old Jimmy Sparks Wednesday morning told the police who discovered him all alone and without funds how he had run away from his good home in Wichita Falls with a tramp and how the tramp had deserted him in this city. Pending the arrival of the elder Sparks, Jimmy is pondering on his blasted fancies and dreams of the joys of hoboland.—Fort Worth Telegram.

The awning in front of the "Invisible" saloon, which for years has had the appearance of anything except that which the sign, painted in box-car letters would indicate, was torn away today by workmen and will be replaced with one of a neater architectural design. Even if it is not replaced, the tearing away of the old ramshackle shed is an improvement.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Fred Schwellhofer, a printer on the Van Alstyne Leader, aged 22 years, was shot three times and killed instantly while at work on his case yesterday afternoon by another printer by the name of Clay Mack, aged about 30. Mack refused to make a statement and was taken to Sherman and jailed, pending a preliminary hearing.

S. E. Cates, a farmer aged about 50 years, while driving from his home near Allen, Collin county, to McKinney yesterday fell from the wagon and under its wheels and was crushed to death. He leaves a widow and two grown children.

The State Department of Education at Austin recently sent letters to all concerns receiving contracts for supplying text books for Texas schools, asking if the books would be ready by September 1st, the time of opening school, and about one-half of the concerns have replied, stating that the books would be ready by that time.

RAISING A CAMPAIGN FUND.

Houston Post.
The Post is somewhat amazed at the seeming indifference with which most democrats treat Mr. Bryan's appeal for a campaign fund made up of small contributions by individual democrats. So far, the Post's fund is less than $500, and more than half of the amount was contributed by a citizen who has recently moved to the State from Iowa. This indifference is by no means confined to Texas. The Louisville Courier-Journal, after a ten days' campaign, has been able to collect but little more than $100. The Charleston News and Courier was the first newspaper in the field, and yet its month's record is but a trivial sum. In Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana practically nothing has been given. Oklahoma is equally stingy.

And what is Mr. Bryan's request? It is that the nearly 8,000,000 democrats of the United States give $500,000, or an average contribution of about 7 cents.

The treasurer of the national committee, overnorn Haskell, reported a few days ago that he had received in the month which had elapsed since Mr. Bryan's nomination but $19,000, which is but little more than sufficient to pay a week's expenses of the Chicago headquarters.

The Post sincerely hopes the experiment of a popular campaign fund may not prove a failure, for if the people are not willing to pay the expenses of fighting their own battle it is pretty clear that the privileged interests can never be dislodged. Mr. Bryan cannot fight the campaign alone. There are heavy expenses in the way of rent, clerk hire, traveling expenses, postage and printing, incidental to every campaign, which are absolutely essential to a winning fight.

What is Texas going to answer to Mr. Bryan's appeal? Cannot the 400,000 democrats of the State contribute a paltry $50,000 without haggling over it? In Harris county alone, there were probably expended in the campaign for district and local offices $30,000. In the State of Texas, the total expenditures could not have been short of $300,000, and yet there seems to be little enthusiasm in the work of collecting $50,000 to fight the campaign for a democratic national administration.

Every democrat should contribute something. There is scarcely one who is not able to give and the amount, whatever it is, should be quickly forthcoming.

We have an excellent chance to win the fight if individual democrats will do their part, but the campaign cannot be fought without money.

The Post trusts that its readers will not neglect this important matter. Send such sums as you are able and they will be duly acknowledged and promptly forwarded to the treasurer of the committee.

And do it now.

ALICE WEBB DUKE ON TRIAL.

Is all in Black When She Faces Jury on Charge of Fraud.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 11.—Mrs. Alice L. Webb, former wife of Brodie L. Duke, the millionaire tobacco dealer, sat garbed from head to foot in black today in Judge Erstein's court while a jury was selected to try her on a charge of defrauding the Great Northern Hotel out of $200 by means of a worthless check.

Two colored men in the venire were dismissed from service on the jury at a hint from Mrs. Webb to her attorney that they might be prejudiced against her because she is a Southern woman.

Mrs. Webb's defense is that she did not know the check was worthless when she gave it to the hotel.

M. P. Parrish, clerk in the Commercial National bank of Nacogdoches, Texas, on which institution Mrs. Webb, it is alleged, drew a check for $50, testified that Mrs. Webb had no account at the bank.

Leonard W. Giles, a broker, the first witness for the defense, told of visiting Mrs. Webb in her room and of drawing up the check at her request. There were several check books on the table, the witness said, and he took up the first one that came handy and drew the note.

How to Get The Pick of the Market

It very often happens that the fresh vegetables that are sold from day to day are far from being the finest that are grown, in fact the great packing companies, such as the firm that puts up Monarch Brand goods, see to it that the very finest vegetables find their way to their canning factories, so in order to get the pick of the market you will find our Monarch brand leads them all.

Another good feature is that you can keep a supply of all the vegetables on hand for emergency calls without fear of their spoiling.

How to Get Rid of Cattle Ticks.

The following brief directions for ridding cattle and premises of the southern fever tick, prepared by Dr. R. P. Steadom, chief of the inspection division of this bureau, are issued as an aid to the work of tick eradication which has been undertaken by the bureau in co-operation with State authorities. This circular is especially applicable from midsummer until the following April to localities where but few cattle are kept.

If the Southern farmer will but make a united effort along the lines indicated and thus co-operate with the local officials and this bureau in attacking the tick problem, much headway will be made, and our ultimate aim—the entire eradication of the tick and its direful consequences to southern agriculture—will be within measurable distance of accomplishment.

A. D. MELVIN, Chief of Bureau.
The destruction of ticks which are on cattle and premises is the first step in procuring a free cattle traffic. The following suggestions are therefore made for the purpose of assisting owners of small numbers of ticky cattle to get rid of the fever ticks.

The term "ticks" as here used is especially applied to the fever tick (Margarophus annulatus). These ticks are the more abundant in the latter part of summer and fall, the other kinds being rarely present after the month of July. All ticks are harmful, however, and should be destroyed.

The term "cattle" should be understood to include all cows, steers, bulls, heifers, yearlings, calves and oxen.

Tick-free premises are those in which there have been no ticky animals for nine months previously.

Hand Picking and Greasing Method.
Cattle and premises may be freed from ticks by hand picking the cattle even though they are allowed to run on ticky premises, provided they are controlled and no other animals are permitted on the premises. The method of hand picking and greasing is most suitable in cases where there are but few animals or for small herds where the conditions for grazing cannot be changed. The method consists in carefully examining all the cattle daily and picking or scraping off the ticks. In this connection it must be remembered that horses and mules sometimes carry ticks, and therefore these animals must also be thoroughly and frequently examined and the ticks removed. The greatest care must be exercised to collect and destroy all of the ticks removed. It is true that while this process is going on the animals will get more ticks on them if the premises are ticky, but by diligently destroying all the larger ticks the supply finally gives out on account of the seed ticks having perished.

Arrange to examine all the cattle and pick the ticks at least every other day. All parts of the animals, especially the insides and back parts of the thighs, should be examined for ticks. If any of the cattle are difficult to handle, they should be driven into a chute or narrow pen made for the purpose and where good light is afforded. Ticks can be seen best in sunlight. Ticks must not be thrown on the ground, but should be placed in tin cans or other convenient vessels and carried to a suitable place and burned or otherwise totally destroyed, or they will lay eggs, and seed ticks will hatch in countless numbers. Begin now to pick ticks and be sure that not a single tick matures on your cattle after Sept. 1. As a result of your trouble in observing the precautions herein indicated during the summer and fall, the cattle and premises should be free from ticks by April 1.

To assist in preventing ticks from getting on cattle the cattle may be greased at the time of picking or as often as may seem to be necessary. The greasy solution is obnoxious to the ticks, and if the legs and sides of the animals are treated in this manner, the ticks will be less apt to crawl on them.

In greasing cattle, use Beaumont crude petroleum or any crude oil, cotton seed oil, fish oil or lard. The following mixture will be found useful for this purpose: One gallon of kerosene, one gallon of cotton seed oil, and one pound of flowers of sulphur. Any of the above may be applied with a sponge, swab, or brush, and should be thoroughly rubbed on all the lower parts of the cattle and at least halfway up their bodies.

The Tie-Rope or Picketing Method.
This method is practicable where there are only a few head of cattle. It consists merely in picketing the cattle out on tick-free pasturage. The cattle must be occasionally moved and the places where they have been must be carefully avoided for some nine months thereafter.

The Two-Field Method.
On or before Sept. 1 remove all cattle (including young stock and calves) from the pasture or range where they are to be kept after March 15 of the following year. Do not permit cattle, horses or mules on such pasture or range during the period indicated. If the premises in which the cattle are placed during this period adjoin the pasture or range where they are to be kept after March 15 it will be necessary to set the dividing fence over some 10 or 12 feet on the pasture at the time of changing the cattle in March. Be sure to examine every head of cattle carefully for ticks before changing them in March. If ticks are present on the cattle at the time and are not destroyed the pasture will become infected and the work will have to be done over again. If the ticks are frequently removed by picking and the cattle are greased immediately after they are taken from the pasture in September, the danger of future infection will be greatly lessened.

Conclusion.
Any of the above methods may be followed from midsummer until the following April.

Select the method best suited to your conditions and carry it out vigorously. Help your neighbor to do the same. Be sure that no other cattle pass over the premises where your cattle go unless the other cattle are kept free of ticks. Do not let a single tick mature after Sept. 1.

If everyone will do his part in getting rid of ticks the cattle quarantine will be removed.

Should you desire to know more about cattle ticks you may obtain Farmers' Bulletins 258 and 261 on the subject by addressing the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

WOMAN MUST GIVE UP HUSBAND TO GET BEQUEST.

Denver Post.

How many women are there in Colorado who would not part with their husbands for a consideration of $8,000 in cash?

There is one in Longmont, Mrs. Hattie L. Miller by name. She was in Denver Tuesday to see a lawyer and told all about her predicament.

An ordinary, jealous ex-sweetheart, she says, has gotten her into all her trouble. She wants the $8,000 mighty badly, but she wants to keep her husband, too.

It all happened this way. Fifteen years ago, when Hattie L. Butler was a country lass going to dances and hay rides with John W. Miller in the town of Harris, Kan., her stern parents set their foot down on marriage, especially with Miller, and Hattie weepingly gave him up.

Four years passed. Young Miller, love-sick and disgusted, went to Arizona to seek his fortune, and Miss Butler came to Denver. But while her boy lover was lost to her she could not forget the name.

So it was when Charles G. Miller, who, by the way, is no relation of John Miller, came courting, she, in the end surrendered, and six years ago they were married, settling down in Longmont and running a rooming house.

In the meantime the disappointed John learned to be a telegraph operator and last April in Tucson one night a couple of bandits held up the railway station and filled him full of lead. Leaves Cash to Her.

The next day, among his papers a will was found and a $5,000 insurance policy. It recites that to his sweetheart, Hattie Butler, whom he had not heard from in eleven years, he bequeathed his policy and $3,000 in cash in the bank providing she had not married at the time of his death. Should she have been so inconsiderate as to marry, to receive the money she must immediately secure a divorce and never marry again.

In the event that she failed to live up to the conditions of the will the $8,000 was bequeathed to her sister, and brother, Mrs. L. M. Schwartz and John O. Butler, of Garnett, Kansas.

"I have been to see an attorney," said Mrs. Miller this morning, "and I guess I'll get a slice anyway, even if it does go ostensibly to my sister and brother. What do you think of a fellow that would put me to all this trouble getting his money? Of course, I could give up my husband, but I don't propose to do it unless I have to. There are always more ways than one of solving a problem.

"I used to like John, but I would have liked it better if he had not made his bequest so hard to collect."

To the Citizens of Wichita Falls:
 The management of the Summer Garden will give a benefit for the fire department on Thursday night. We get the proceeds of all refreshments sold.

The firemen do not receive any pay for fighting fire; simply do the work for love of their town and people.

In a short time the new city hall and fire department building will be built and we need money to fit rooms for boys who will be there at night.

Come and show that you appreciate our work in helping save your property. We will certainly appreciate any favor done for us. Respectfully,
 E. B. McHAM,
 Chief Fire Department.
