Texas News Service Special. Tyler, Tex., May 6.—The authorities today gave a list of the citizens who have been arrested, charged with participating in the lynching of the negro, Jim Hodge, here last Saturday, following the attack on Miss Winnie Harmon. Their names are as follows:

Lewis Adams, R. E. Bryan, John Wilkerson, Ross Ford, H. F. Lindley, Dr. I. C. Hodges, Joe Mattesota, Birdo Pyron, Henry Paybrook, Horace Austin, Ed. Francis, Will Griffin Sr., Horace Turner, Audrey Campbell, J. D. Sullivan, Lewis Francis, Walter Turner.

The examining trials are scheduled to take place before District Judge Simpson today.

Proceedings Adjourned Until 2 P. M.

Judge Simpson arrived here this morning from Quitman and at 10 o'clock called the cases of all those charged with being implicated in the hanging of Hodge. Both the state and defense asked for a conference with their witnesses, the court granting the request. Adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The big court room this morning was crowded to its utmost capacity with witnesses and spectators. Judge Simpson announced this morning that those not securing seats would be refused admission this afternoon. Captain Rogers and the rangers reported to Judge Simpson for duty upon the latter's arrival this morning. No further trouble is feared.

Relief for Suadia.

By Associated Press. Beirut, Turkey, May 6.—Suadia, where a number of Armenians have been massacred, has been relieved by the exertions of the captain of the British battleship Triumph and the British consul at Alexandretta. These two officials visited Caladonan and Kessab and found these towns indescribably charnel houses. There are more than a thousand helpless and destitute women in the village and on the seacoast near Kessab.

Twenty-Three Thousand Armenians Estimated Killed.

By Associated Press. Adana, Turkey, May 6.—Rev. Stephen Trowbridge, missionary and a member of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions, estimates the number of Armenians killed in the province of Adana since the outbreak at twenty-three thousand.

Just when the coffee thinks it has good grounds for complaint, the egg drops in and settles the whole business.

TO OPERATE OWN REFRIGERATOR CAR

Special to the Times. Denver, Colo., May 6.—James J. Hill, in control of the Burlington and Colorado and Southern roads, has begun the organization of a $15,000,000 refrigerator private car line, which will have headquarters and shops in Denver, and will operate in opposition to the "trust" refrigerator lines, now controlled by Armour, Swift and the big packing house interests.

The announcement of this gigantic move by the Hill lines and interests was made from the offices of Vice President A. D. Parker and General Traffic Manager C. S. Wellington, yesterday and follows recent visits of Vice President D. B. Keeler of the Fort Worth and Denver City road, who was here to go into the subject with local officials.

In fact, Traffic Manager Wellington and his chief clerk, George Williams, were the first to point out to Hill the immense advantage he would have by operating an independent refrigerator car line between Denver and the Gulf of Mexico, and it was upon the strength of the facts and figures which they presented that Hill acted upon the formation of a private car line which could operate exclusively over his own roads, greatly reduce the excessive refrigerator car rates now demanded by the trust, give shippers increased facilities and better service, and last, but not least, come within the recent power over private car lines granted the interstate commerce commission by the Hepburn bill.

The final organization of the Hill independent refrigerator car line is still six or eight months off, according to the information given out at the general offices of the Colorado and Southern today, but one of the first things to be done, after the incorporation is complete, is to start construction work on 6,000 new refrigerator cars, which will cost $1,500 each or a total of $9,000,000.

Most of this car building will be done in Denver at the Colorado and Southern shops. It is also reported that the Burlington people are endeavoring to get hold of the old Pullman shops here to help out with the work.

GUARANTY BILL AGAIN DELAYED

MEASURE SENT TO SENATE COMMITTEE ON POINT OF ORDER.

THE DELAY MAY BE FATAL

Third Special Session is Predicted by Representative Mobley.

Texas News Service Special. Austin, Tex., May 6.—Hoisey in the senate this morning in discussing the university appropriations, criticized college fraternities, claiming that their membership is composed of sons of "nabobs" and designated them as "clabberheads," who depend upon their fraternity membership for success after leaving college.

The appropriation bill is still pending in the senate and the discussion of that measure dragged slowly this morning, being enlivened now and then by pointed remarks from some of the speakers.

Will the Governor Call Another Special Session?

Texas News Service Special. Austin, Tex., May 6.—Gov. Campbell today refused to say whether he would call another special session of the legislature if it fails to enact a bank deposit guaranty law. Commissioner Love says he doesn't know the governor's intentions in this regard.

Representative Mobley, one of the leaders in the effort to secure the guaranty of bank deposits, today said that although he was not informed, he was confident that unless the bank guaranty bill was passed or defeated in a direct vote and say vote in the house or the senate, that Governor Campbell will recall the legislature in a third special session.

Guaranty Measure Sent to Committee.

Texas News Service Special. Austin, Tex., May 6.—Lieutenant Governor Davidson today sustained the point of order by Terrell of McLennan that the bank guaranty bill be returned from the house because it is not an amendment to the senate bill, but a substitute, and that it is therefore necessary to refer it to the committee before consideration. The bill has been referred to the senate banking committee. An effort to suspend the rules and take up the bill immediately was overruled.

CRAFT OVERTURNS—THREE DROWNED IN MISSISSIPPI.

By Associated Press. Memphis, Tenn., May 6.—In a futile attempt to save the lives of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Chiles, aged 48 years, and her little daughter Virginia, aged 12, William Eberhart, aged 35 years, a member of the St. Francis levee board, a wealthy plantation owner and a prominent Memphis merchant, was drowned in the Mississippi river, near Pecan Point, Arkansas, last night. The bateau in which the party was crossing the river overturned and although Eberhart battled hard to save the lives of the woman and himself, all three were drowned.

JIM HALL, PUGILIST, UNDER ARREST AT HOUSTON.

By Associated Press. ## PACKING HOUSE MAY LOCATE HERE

A meat packer from the north writes to Secretary Gohlke that he expects to visit Wichita Falls within the next ten days to look over the field here to learn whether this would be a good location for a packing house.

The name of the packer is not made public, but he is said to be a man of some prominence in the business and one who is able to put a good sized plant in operation.

A packing house would be a great thing for Wichita Falls, and this city offers many advantages for such an institution.

Dayton Will Welcome Wright Brothers.

Dayton, Ohio, May 6.—Under the direction of a citizens' committee plans are proceeding apace for the public welcome to be given the Wright brothers, the famous Dayton aviators, who are now on their way home from Europe. The brothers sailed for New York yesterday and are expected to reach this city in about ten days. The day of their arrival will be a gala one for Dayton. The mayor is expected to proclaim a public holiday for the occasion and the city will be elaborately decorated. Public men and others of prominence in all parts of the country are to be invited to take part in the demonstration.

According to advices received by Lorin Wright it is the intention of the brothers to come at once to Dayton upon their arrival in New York. They will remain here about a month to superintend the completion of the aeroplane that is to be used in the trials at Fort Meyer in June. They will also take steps to provide facilities here for the manufacture of the machine on a large scale, inquiries and orders for a large number already having been received.

DUNCAN WILL DELIVER BACCALAUREATE SERMON.

GOOD SHOWERS FELL YESTERDAY

RAINFALL SUFFICIENT TO REVIVE VEGETATION AND GIVE CROPS GOOD START.

RAIN WAS NOT GENERAL

Country West of Iowa Park, North of Red River and South of Lake Wichita Still Dry.

A splendid shower greatly refreshed the thirsty vegetation in Wichita Falls yesterday afternoon and was a great boon to the farmers and truck growers.

The rain came from the northwest and for almost an hour there was a heavy downpour of rain and some hail fell, but not enough to cause damage. The fall amounted to about one inch and came just in time to save the crops.

The rain extended only a few miles north along the Denver and reached no further than Holliday along the Wichita Valley. Only a light sprinkle fell at Burkburnett.

Good rains are reported from Byers and Petrolia and east and south along the Denver. A heavy rain is reported along the Denver between Bowle and Decatur and between Saginaw and Fort Worth. At Fort Worth last night there was a violent electrical storm.

Heavy Hailstorm Near Decatur.

Decatur, Tex., May 5.—A heavy hail storm swept this section last night, which was accompanied by some rain and considerable wind. The ground was almost covered by hail, which beat into the ground and completely destroyed the cotton and corn crops in its path. Gardens were also badly damaged, and the fruit crop completely ruined in some places. All the cotton and most of the corn will have to be replanted. Many farmers have already replanted corn for the second or third time. Some cotton had not yet sprouted, which will be brought out by the rain. The wheat crop will fall far below the average here, although it was greatly revived by last night's rain.

The Wichita Falls Route reports a good rain north as far as Burkburnett and light showers between Burkburnett and Devol, with no rain north of Devol. South of the city, the rain extended as far south as Lakeview, but beyond that place there was scarcely any precipitation.

TO BUILD NEW SETTLING TANK

Work has been started on another new settling basin at the water plant, and when it is completed the water company expects to furnish its patrons with clear water.

The new basin will have a capacity of 750,000 gallons. The two settling basins built last summer are being repaired and enlarged to a capacity of 900,000 gallons.

With the increased capacity of the settling basins it is believed that ample time can be given suspended matter in the basins to settle before the water is pumped into the mains.

One of the tanks already in use developed a leak some time ago, and on this account it was impossible to give the water time to stand to become clear.

WHEAT MARKET EXPECTED TO OPEN AT ABOUT $1.25.

With the wheat harvest only a few weeks ahead the farmers are beginning to speculate mentally on the price that will be paid for wheat and most of them seem to think that the market will open at about $1.25 per bushel on No. 2 basis.

The wheat crop in the immediate vicinity of Wichita Falls will not amount to much, but further out in the country there are neighborhoods where the prospects are good for a fair yield. The rain yesterday afternoon came too late to help the crop much here.

W. N. White of Lake Providence, La., arrived this afternoon for a visit with his daughter, Mrs. M. J. Shivers. Mrs. White accompanied him as far as Ft. Worth, where she stopped off for a visit of several days, after which she will come on to Wichita Falls.

SHOEMAKERS' WAX.

The Surprising Properties of This Peculiar Substance.

One of the most apt illustrations ever made by Lord Kelvin was his likening the luminiferous ether to a mass of shoemakers' wax. What Lord Kelvin said of shoemakers' wax may be tested by any boy in a manner that will astonish his playmates. First let it be said that the ether penetrates all space. It is as rigid as steel and yet so flexible that it does not retard the passage of planets through space in the least. It is an invisible substance which travels in waves through all things. Now, to illustrate the nature of such a paradoxical material Lord Kelvin searched everywhere and at last concluded that shoemakers' wax represented it best. He made tests, and this is what he found:

He melted some wax in a common glass tumbler. After it had hardened he tried to thrust a lead pencil through it. It would not go. Then he placed a coin on the surface of the wax and left it there for several days. When he again visited it the coin had sunk to the bottom of the glass. The wax had closed over it, and by lifting up the glass and looking through the bottom he could see the coin lying there. Had the wax been as deep as a well the coin would have gone on sinking until it reached the bottom. This proved that the wax would conform only to very slow movements. If he had tried to push it too fast it would have resisted him.

An idea struck the scientist. If the wax acted like this toward the coin, how would it treat an object which floated? He accordingly placed a cork in a tumbler and poured hot shoemakers' wax upon it. The wax hardened with the cork at the bottom. Yet when Lord Kelvin looked at the bottom of the glass in a day or two he found the cork had disappeared. It was somewhere in the mass of wax and probably rising very slowly, but surely, toward the top. Sure enough, after a given period of time the cork peeped above the surface of the hard wax, and finally it rose to a point where it remained half imbedded in the wax, just as it would have done in a glass of water. It rose no higher than this, however, and a corkscrew probably would not have pulled it from the wax. Yet its own buoyancy had raised it up from the bottom through what seemed an impenetrable mass of wax.

This, in fact, is the peculiarity of shoemakers' wax—that it resists all sudden or quick movements, but is highly susceptible to very slow and prolonged pressure. If you pressed a flatiron hard down on a lump of wax on a table it is probable you would make no impression on it, but if you left that iron resting on the wax for a day or two you would find the lump flattened out under the iron. So curious is this property of the wax that tuning-forks have been cast from pieces of it. These forks were capable of vibration, giving a musical note and being set going by vibration from another tuning fork, yet when one of them was laid across the open mouth of a jar it slowly collapsed and fell into the jar in a shapeless, sticky mass.

How She Missed Him.

A poor woman who kept a small shop in a northern village and who was troubled with a husband who could scarcely be considered a credit to the family one day found herself a widow through the sudden demise of her spouse. A lady who frequently made small purchases at the shop called to see her and offer her sympathy, though well knowing that the man's death must in a certain sense come as a relief, as the wife had often suffered from his violence. She was not, however, quite prepared for the stoical way in which the wife took her bereavement.

Said the lady, "I am sure, Mrs. G., that you must miss your husband."
"Well, mum, it do seem queer to go into the shop and find something in the till."—London Express.

A Summer of Hass.

Europe and Asia were covered by fog during the summer of 1783. Says Gilbert White (letter 109): "The summer of the year 1783 was an amazing and a portentous one, . . . for, besides the alarming meteors and tremendous thunderstorms, . . . the peculiar haze, or smoky fog, that prevailed for many weeks in this island (England) and in every part of Europe and even beyond its limits was a most extraordinary appearance. The heat was intense. Calabria and part of the Isle of Sicily were torn and convulsed with earthquakes." Cowper also refers to this phenomenon in speaking of "nature, with a dim and sickly eye."

The First Word.

"That is what I call an ideal marriage," Hardy declared to his wife as they were walking homeward after an evening at the Carrolls'. "Actually, I believe, both think absolutely alike."
"Yes, they are certainly charming," assented Mrs. Hardy; "but about the thinking, Joe, if you will notice, she generally thinks first."—Youth's Companion.

"She gets the other woman to make the selections and then takes something else."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

THE SMART DRUMMER.

There Was Something Coming to Him, and He Got It.

"Gentlemen," said the drummer of druggists' sundries as he looked around on the half dozen men who were asking him for the latest story. "I believe I have felt about 100 different feelings."

"What?" asked the first of all. "I stayed on the road long enough."
"And have you got it?" was asked.
"I have. I got it coming into Chicago. I was very comfortable in my Pullman when a young man came along and told me a pitiful story and wanted me to buy his diamond ring. The game is older than the hills, and I was on in a minute—bought story and bogus diamond; willing to sell me a $200 ring for $20. I asked him where the green spot was in my eye, and while I was pluming myself the man in the other part of the section pulled out three tens and pocketed the ring. Did I look down upon him with pity and contempt? Did I smile? Did I grin? Did I ask him where his guardian was? Oh, yes—oh, yes, and he spoke up and claimed that the stones were diamonds and the ring well worth 200 plunks. It nettled me to see the ass so cocksure and to hear him say that of course I was no judge of diamonds, and I put up $50 that he'd been done for. The conductor held the money, and when we got into town we made for a jewelry store. We took in four of 'em before I laid down. Some story in each place—ring worth $200."

"And you lost your $50?"
"Shik as shik."
"And there was a game in it?"
"Of course, you cannot. Seller and buyer were confederates, and they probably worked the scheme six days a week. If I'd got ready to buy, some excuse would have been made to head me off. Yes, gentlemen, I had something coming to me, and I got it, and I feel relieved."—Baltimore American.

EQUATORIAL AFRICA.

How Hunters Dress Where There is No Dawn and No Dusk.

We wore khaki for daytime and warm clothes for night when sitting around the camp, as after the sun goes down a great chill immediately settles down that makes winter clothing and a good big fire most essential. During the daytime we always wore pith helmets, although sometimes early in the morning and late in the afternoon, when the sun is not at its maximum, a double teryl felt hat may be substituted. It is far more comfortable than the helmet.

As additional protection we wore sun pads which covered the spine. These are merely heavy quilted strips that reach from the collar to below the shoulders, as we were advised that the effect of the sun was just as deadly at this point as on the head. I do not know what maximum the thermometer would reach in the sun, as I was afraid to leave it exposed when it got higher than a little above 150 degrees, as beyond that point there was great danger of breaking it. In the shade the temperature would be usually from 85 to 100 degrees, but there was always a breeze blowing, and the dryness of the air cooled one off quite rapidly as soon as one got out of the sun. It was always cold in the morning when we started out at the first peep of light, and we were usually shivering for a few minutes prior to the sun's appearance. Day does not dawn in equatorial Africa, but it bursts! It is dark one minute and full daylight the next, and the reverse occurs in the evening, for the sun goes down and night comes on as if a curtain had suddenly been drawn down over the west, and the chill of night begins instantly.—Percy C. Madeira in Metropolitan Magazine.

"A Sound Box."

Take an ordinary rubber band and stretch it between the thumb and forefinger of your left hand. If you pick it with the fingers of the right hand and let go suddenly it will make a sound which you can hear distinctly enough yourself, but which will not be audible to any one a few feet away. But if you were to fasten the elastic, with a pin at each end, to an empty wooden box, only not so as to touch the wood, and then twang it the sound would be much louder than before. That box is the sound box or sound board, and all stringed instruments have one in some shape or other.—St. Nicholas.

Pride.

"Arry and his best girl were discussing recent events in the High street, Bethnal Green.

"Arry—Did you read the list of presents Ann Smith had for her wedding?"
"Arrist—Yes, I did. The brides for such as they were 'avin' the wedding' put in the paper! They might be bloomin' harlots."
"Arry—Fancy her mother giving her such a 'andome present as a 'orse and trap! 'Arrist—Garn! It was a clothes'orse and a mouse trap. I've seed 'em. That's their bloomin' pride!"—London Scraps.

NEW GUINEA COURTSHIP.

All the Proposals of Marriage Are Made by Women.

Away off in the strange island of New Guinea it is leap year all the time in one important sense, for out there all the proposals of marriage are made by the women. It is considered beneath the dignity of the male inhabitants of New Guinea to even notice a woman, and consequently the women perforce must notice the men and must start any idea of weddings, etc.

So when the island belle of New Guinea becomes in love she promptly sends a piece of string to the sister of the lucky man. If he has no sister she sends it to his mother or to some female relative - this because the man and his male relatives are assumed to be above taking any steps toward acquiring a wife.

Then the sister says to the man involved: "Brother, I have news. So-and-so is in love with you." If inclined to matrimony the man makes an engagement to meet the enamored lady. When they meet it is alone, and they either decide to wed or drop the entire proposition at once. There is no courting, for the man is not allowed, theoretically at least, to waste any time on a woman - not even enough time to make love to the lady or to allow her to make love to him.

The betrothal is announced, and the engaged man in New Guinea is branded on the back with charcoal, but the woman's mark of engagement to wed is actually cut into her skin and is never allowed to completely vanish. If either one decides to break the engagement nothing can be done by the offended party.

If the girl decides that, after all, she sent the little piece of string by mistake the man is not, however, to catch her some time alone and beat her. If the man jilts the woman her relatives often hunt him up and administer a sound drubbing. Blood, however, is seldom shed, as the breaking of these women made engagements is not deemed a very serious matter.

Though the women propose the weddings in New Guinea, the condition of the wife is miserable and unjust in the extreme. The girl is merely the property and slave of the husband. He can beat her unrebuked and even kill her with impunity if she incurs his enmity. - Atlanta Constitution.

"So you ran at the first fire, did you?" said the captain scornfully.

"Yes, sah, an I'd 'a' run sooner, sah, if I'd knowed it wuz comin'."

"Have you no regard for your reputation, Calboun?"

"Mah reputation hain't nuffin to me, sah, 'longside o' mah life."

"The captain smiled and twirled his mustache. Here was an intelligent young man. He'd talk him over to the right point of view.

"Even if you should lose your life, Calboun," he said, "you'd have the satisfaction of knowing that you had died for your country."

"'Wot satisfaction could dat be to me, sah, when de power o' feelin' it wuz gone?"

"Then patriotism means nothing to you?"

"Nffin, sah. I wouldn't put mah life in de scales agin any government dat eber existed, for no government could replace de loss o' me."

"Calboun, if all soldiers were like you the world's governments would all go to pieces."

"On de contrary, sah, dey'd last forever, for, if all soldiers wuz like me, den dere couldn't neber be no fightin'."

SHOEMAKERS' WAX.

The Surprising Properties of This Peculiar Substance.

One of the most apt illustrations ever made by Lord Kelvin was his likening the luminiferous ether to a mass of shoemakers' wax. What Lord Kelvin said of shoemakers' wax may be tested by any boy in a manner that will astonish his playmates. First let it be said that the ether penetrates all space. It is as rigid as steel and yet so flexible that it does not retard the passage of planets through space in the least. It is an invisible substance which travels in waves through all things. Now, to illustrate the nature of such a paradoxical material Lord Kelvin searched everywhere and at last concluded that shoemakers' wax represented it best. He made tests, and this is what he found:

He melted some wax in a common glass tumbler. After it had hardened he tried to thrust a lead pencil through it. It would not go. Then he placed a coin on the surface of the wax and left it there for several days. When he again visited it the coin had sunk to the bottom of the glass. The wax had closed over it, and by lifting up the glass and looking through the bottom he could see the coin lying there. Had the wax been as deep as a well the coin would have gone on sinking until it reached the bottom. This proved that the wax would conform only to very slow movements. If he had tried to push it too fast it would have resisted him.

An idea struck the scientist. If the wax acted like this toward the coin, how would it treat an object which floated? He accordingly placed a cork in a tumbler and poured hot shoemakers' wax upon it. The wax hardened with the cork at the bottom. Yet when Lord Kelvin looked at the bottom of the glass in a day or two he found the cork had disappeared. It was somewhere in the mass of wax and probably rising very slowly, but surely, toward the top. Sure enough, after a given period of time the cork peeped above the surface of the hard wax, and finally it rose to a point where it remained half imbedded in the wax, just as it would have done in a glass of water. It rose no higher than this, however, and a corkscrew probably would not have pulled it from the wax. Yet its own buoyancy had raised it up from the bottom through what seemed an impenetrable mass of wax.

This, in fact, is the peculiarity of shoemakers' wax—that it resists all sudden or quick movements, but is highly susceptible to very slow and prolonged pressure. If you pressed a flatiron hard down on a lump of wax on a table it is probable you would make no impression on it, but if you left that iron resting on the wax for a day or two you would find the lump flattened out under the iron. So curious is this property of the wax that tuning forks have been cast from pieces of it. These forks were capable of vibration, giving a musical note and being set going by vibration from another tuning fork, yet when one of them was laid across the open mouth of a jar it slowly collapsed and fell into the jar in a shapeless, sticky mass.

How She Missed Him.

A poor woman who kept a small shop in a northern village and who was troubled with a husband who could scarcely be considered a credit to the family one day found herself a widow through the sudden demise of her spouse. A lady who frequently made small purchases at the shop called to see her and offer her sympathy, though well knowing that the man's death must in a certain sense come as a relief, as the wife had often suffered from his violence. She was not, however, quite prepared for the stoical way in which the wife took her bereavement.

Said the lady, "I am sure, Mrs. G., that you must miss your husband."
"Well, mum, it do seem queer to go into the shop and find something in the till."—London Express.

A Summer of Haze.

Europe and Asia were covered by fog during the summer of 1783. Says Gilbert White (letter 100): "The summer of the year 1783 was an amazing and a portentous one, . . . for, besides the alarming meteors and tremendous thunderstorms, . . . the peculiar haze, or smoky fog, that prevailed for many weeks in this island (England) and in every part of Europe and even beyond its limits was a most extraordinary appearance. The heat was intense. Calabria and part of the isle of Sicily were torn and convulsed with earthquakes." Cowper also refers to this phenomenon in speaking of "nature, with a dim and sickly eye."

The First Word.

"That is what I call an ideal marriage," Hardy declared to his wife as they were walking homeward after an evening at the Carrolls'. "Actually, I believe, both think absolutely alike."
"Yes, they are certainly charming," assented Mrs. Hardy; "but about the thinking, Joe, if you will notice, she generally thinks first."—Youth's Companion.

The Poor Women.

"Why does a woman always want another woman to go shopping with her?"
"She gets the other woman to make the selections and then takes something else."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

If You Can Get Up.

"There's always room at the top."
"Yes, but sometimes the elevator isn't running."—Cleveland Leader.

The more we study the more we discover our ignorance.—Shelley.

THE SMART DRUMMER.

There Was Something Coming to Him, and He Got It.

"Gentlemen," said the drummer of druggists' sundries as he looked around on the half dozen men who were asking him for the latest story, "I believe I have felt about 100 different feelings almost one of all had something to do with it. I stayed on the road long enough."

"And have you got it?" was asked.
"I have. I got it coming into Chicago. I was very comfortable in my Pullman when a young man came along and told me a pitiful story and wanted me to buy his diamond ring. The game is older than the hills, and I was on in a minute—bought story and bogus diamond; willing to sell me a $200 ring for $30. I asked him where the green spot was in my eye, and while I was pluming myself the man in the other part of the section pulled out three tens and pocketed the ring. Did I look down upon him with pity and contempt? Did I smile? Did I grin? Did I ask him where his guardian was? Oh, yes—oh, yes, and he spoke up and claimed that the stones were diamonds and the ring well worth 200 plunks. It nettled me to see the ass so cocksure and to hear him say that of course I was no judge of diamonds, and I put up $50 that he'd been done for. The conductor held the money, and when we got into town we made for a jewelry store. We took in four of 'em before I laid down. Same story in each place—ring worth $200."
"And you lost your $50?"
"Slick as silk."
"And there was a game in it?"
"Of course, you camel. Seller and buyer were confederates, and they probably worked the scheme six days a week. If I'd got ready to buy, some excuse would have been made to head me off. Yes, gentlemen, I had something coming to me, and I got it, and I feel relieved."—Baltimore American.

EQUATORIAL AFRICA.

How Hunters Dress Where There is No Dawn and No Dusk.

We wore khaki for daytime and warm clothes for night when sitting around the camp, as after the sun goes down a great chill immediately settles down that makes winter clothing and a good big fire most essential. During the daytime we always wore pith helmets, although sometimes early in the morning and late in the afternoon, when the sun is not at its maximum, a double terval felt hat may be substituted. It is far more comfortable than the helmet.

As additional protection we wore sun pads which covered the spine. These are merely heavy quilted strips that reach from the collar to below the shoulders, as we were advised that the effect of the sun was just as deadly at this point as on the head. I do not know what maximum the thermometer would reach in the sun, as I was afraid to leave it exposed when it got higher than a little above 150 degrees, as beyond that point there was great danger of breaking it. In the shade the temperature would be usually from 85 to 100 degrees, but there was always a breeze blowing, and the dryness of the air cooled one off quite rapidly as soon as one got out of the sun. It was always cold in the morning when we started out at the first peep of light, and we were usually shivering for a few minutes prior to the sun's appearance. Day does not dawn in equatorial Africa, but it bursts! It is dark one minute and full sunlight the next, and the reverse occurs in the evening, for the sun goes down and night comes on as if a curtain had suddenly been drawn down over the west, and the chill of night begins instantly.—Percy C. Madeira in Metropolitan Magazine.

"A Sound Box."

Take an ordinary rubber band and stretch it between the thumb and forefinger of your left hand. If you pick it with the fingers of the right hand and let go suddenly it will make a sound which you can hear distinctly enough yourself, but which will not be audible to any one a few feet away. But if you were to fasten the elastic, with a pin at each end, to an empty wooden box, only not so as to touch the wood, and then twang it the sound would be much louder than before. That box is the sound box or sound board, and all stringed instruments have one in some shape or other.—St. Nicholas.

WEATHER FORECAST.

For Wichita Falls and vicinity
—Tonight, slightly unsettled weather and colder. Friday fair.

Wichita, Falls, Texas, May 6th, 1906.

'COULD TEXAS DO BETTER?'

Amarillo American.
Among those mentioned as candidates for governor none unite so many qualifications for the office as Mr. W. H. Fuqua. Cone Johnson is a talker from away back, but his record for doing things does not measure up with that of Fuqua. When you come to think about it, the latter as a public speaker always entertains and edifies an audience however large. If oratory consists in the natural expression of well considered thought in a logical manner, Mr. Fuqua may be set down among orators. This is but a slight reference to an unwarranted qualification for some offices.

Among the half dozen mentioned for governor of Texas any one of them is a better public speaker than was Benjamin Franklin or Thomas Jefferson.

Mr. Fuqua is, no, a lawyer. All the other gentlemen mentioned as candidates are lawyers. George Washington was not a lawyer and neither is Theodore Roosevelt. They got along very well as presidents of the United States and the people never complained because they were not acquainted with the rule in "Shelly's Case." Sol Ross and other famous Texas governors were not lawyers, but they held down the office in as satisfactory manner as if they had been. W. H. Fuqua has taken a business course than began in his boyhood days by learning to work on the farm. He knows how to plow, pick cotton and fight the boll weevil. He is a successful farmer today. He knows the cattle business and is a judge of the fine points of the Hereford and Durham "beauties." He also knows how to make war on ticks and bovine diseases. He is a heavy shipper of stock and has a pretty good idea of how much the railroads are giving him the worst of it in rates. When the democrats of Texas take the measure of the gubernatorial timber at the 1910 primaries they will take notice of the well-proportioned dimensions of Mr. Fuqua.

THE NEW ROAD LAW.

The new road law enacted by the present legislature ought to give quite an impetus to the building of good roads in this State. The law in question gives authority to any county, precinct, political division of a county, or defined districts within each county to levy a tax on petition of fifty, or of a majority, of the resident property tax-paying voters in such section to be affected by the roads.

The operation of the new law will be watched with much interest for results, as wherever most needed clearly up to the resident citizens of such districts themselves and at the same time gives them the chance to force large property owners, resident or otherwise, who have heretofore refused to assist in the construction and maintenance of good roads, to pay their just proportion of the cost of same.

In every community there are a few public spirited citizens who appreciate the enormous waste of wealth that bad roads entail, but not being properly supported in their efforts to improve existing conditions because of the shortsighted selfishness of a few large property holders, they are compelled to stand by and witness an annual drain on the resources of the community that is simply shocking in the amount of waste that it implies.

Under the new law the way is opened for effective effort to remedy such conditions, as a few selfish individuals may not defeat the wishes of a majority of the voters of a given precinct, or district, by refusing to bear their just proportion of the cost of building good roads.—Houston Post.

Are you fond of pears? Then try a can of Richelleu Bartlett's. Only 25c for a No. 2 can.
308-2t TREVATHAN & BLAND.

There are now at least four pronounced candidates for governor and the campaign is as yet hardly begun. If the same method of campaigning is to be indulged in as was the case four years ago it means that at least $40,000 will be spent by the four candidates for campaign expenses, and the chances are that the fellow who spends the most money, without regard to his qualifications will be elected to fill the office. There are some rich men in the race, but they are all good business men, and when they begin to figure seriously on the proposition of paying more for an office than the salary for a whole term amounts to, their good business judgment may cause them to take a second sober thought and—drop out. The professional politician, the fellow who makes politics his business, is the only fellow who can hold office and at the same time live on easy street while drawing a salary that is not equal to his campaign expenses. How he manages to do this is doubtless a professional secret, but he does it just the same.

Plays and Players.

"The Red Mill" and "The Prince of Pilsen" are being performed in New Zealand.

Carter De Haven and his wife, Flora Parker, will begin a vaudeville tour in the West.

When Guy Bates Post finishes his season in "Paid in Full" he will be starred in a comedy called "The Bridge."

Robert H. Davis, the author of "The Family," is to write another play for Henry Miller, to be called "The Brothers."

Thomas Jefferson left Washington the other day to complete his arrangements for an extensive vaudeville tour next season.

Frank Curzon has cabled from London to Maurice Campbell, the manager of Henrietta Crossman, for the English rights to "Sham."

Joseph Kane will be a star next season, probably in "In Panama," in which attraction he is at present playing with Mr. Max Rogers.

The Schuberts will take Bertha Kalsch under their management next season and they intend to present her in a new emotional American drama.

Walter Jones and Herbert Cothell are considering the proposition of giving a special matinee performance of "A Comedy of Errors" in which they will be the two Dromios.

"The Whirlpool" will be done in London next season. A copyright performance was given in London on the same day on which the dress rehearsal was given in New York City.

Joseph Howard is to be a star next season in a new play called "The Wearing of the Green" by Theodore Burt Sayres, the same author who wrote "Thomas Moore" for Andrew Mack.

Hattie Williams ended her season in "Fluffy Ruffles" last week. The piece will again be taken out next season, but will have another star, as Miss Williams will appear in a new play.

Graze Hazard, who has been starring for the last two years upon the vaudeville stage, will return next season to the regular theatrical field. It is said she will take the leading part in "The Parisian Model."

Marie Cahill is to take up her permanent residence in Boston, and is to have her new plays produced in that city. In private life Miss Cahill is the wife of her manager, Mr. Daniel V. Arthur, a New England man.

"Idols," a dramatization of William T. Locke's well-known story by Roy Homiman, which has met with unusual success in New England, has been secured for production in the United States next season by Walter N. Lawrence.

The Schuberts have recently secured the American rights of production to a new German comedy called "Gretchen." It will probably be produced in its English version next season. The Schuberts have also obtained the rights to "The Prima Ballerina," a new comic opera which the German critics call another "Merry Widow." The author and composer is Felix Schwartz.

Mother.
(Orison Sweet Marden in Success Magazine.)

"All that I am or hope to be," said Lincoln, after he became president, "I owe to my angel mother."

"My mother was the making of me," said Thomas Edison recently. "She was so true, so sure of me; and I felt that had some one to live for;

some one I must not disappoint."

"All that I have ever accomplished in life," declared Dwight L. Moody, the great evangelist, "I owe to my mother."

"My mother was the making of me," said Thomas A. Edison recently. "She was so true, so sure of me; and I felt that I had some one to live for; some one I must not disappoint."

"All that I have ever accomplished in life," declared Dwight L. Moody, the great evangelist. "I owe to my mother."

"To the man who has had a mother all women are sacred for her sake," said Jean Paul Richter.

The testimony of great men in acknowledgment of the boundless debt they owe to their mothers would make a record stretching from the dawn of history to today. Few men, indeed, become great who do not owe their greatness to a mother's love and inspiration.

How often we hear people in every walk of life say, "I never could have done this thing but for my mother. She believed in me, encouraged me, when others saw nothing in me."

"A kiss from my mother made me a painter," said Benjamin West.

A distinguished man of today says: "I never could have reached my present position had I not known that my mother expected me to reach it. From a child she made me feel that his was the position she expected me to fill; and her faith spurred me on and gave me the power to attain it."

It is a strange fact that our mothers, the molders of the world, should get so little credit and should be so seldom mentioned among the world's achievers. The world sees only the successful son; the mother is but a round in the ladder upon which he has climbed. Her name or face is never seen in the papers; only her son is lauded and held up to our admiration. Yet it was that sweet, pathetic figure in the background that made his success possible.

Making Left-Overs Attractive

A food expert tells us that what the average American family throws away would keep an average French family.

We don't know how true that is but we do know that it isn't necessary for it to be true for its only matter of handling the "left overs" and with Yacht Club salad dressing that's a very simple matter. 35 Cents per Bottle.

A number of women know the secret of serving "left overs" with an olive oil dressing and they are the ones whose families enjoy the best of health and whose grocery bills are not big enough to take care of an extra French family too.

Suppose you look up this week the many uses of pure olive oil in cooking and try one or more of them.

We offer you Monarch put up in half pint bottles at 40c. each.

Pie and Sauce Fruits

With most of the fresh fruits still in the distance we want to suggest that you try some of our fancy dried fruits for pies and sauce.

California orchards.

Our Santa Clara Prunes are a little the best that have been seen in Wichita Falls this season.

They are fat, plump and meaty, while flavor is very rich.

The Prices are as follows:

Fancy Evaporated Peaches ..... 12 1-2 cents per pound
Fancy Evaporated Apricots ..... 15 cents per pound
Fancy Prunes ..... 12 1-2 cents per pound
Fancy Evaporated Pears ..... 15 cents per pound
California White Figs ..... 10 cents per pound

Best for Biscuits.

A prominent teacher in one of the Domestic Science schools in Mississippi writes that she is using Cottolene in her lessons with excellent results. She says: "For biscuits Cottolene is all that could be desired. The biscuits are light and flaky, with none of that disagreeable odor often found in foods shortened with lard. Cottolene is also an excellent medium for frying croquettes and doughnuts. It gives them a clean, crisp, brown crust."

Other noted experts, such as Mrs. Rorer and Marion Harland, have given similar testimony to the merits of Cottolene. It is a cooking fat made from the finest vegetable oils; it gives better results than lard, and it is much more wholesome and economical as well.
